This & That

More Rain!

Santa Anna and immediate area received anywhere from an inch to an inch and one half over the weekend, depending on who you talk to and what part of town the report comes from. The most reported was the three inches received in the Hord's Creek Lake area and the same at Burkett. Ivic reservoir received 2.09 and the water level was at 1492.40 Monday morning. When the water level reaches 1500 ft sea level, the lake will be opened for recreation. In the meantime folks in this part of the state are enjoying the wettest and coolest July and August in many a year! Pastures and yards in the area are certainly the greenest they have been in quite a while.

Air Force Volunteers

Two spring graduates of Santa Anna High School have recently volunteered for the U.S. Air Force, according to Sergeant Juan Guerra, Air Force Recruiter located in Brownwood.

Garry Keas is scheduled for enlistment September 21 and Robert Duus is scheduled for a September 5 enlistment.

Upon graduation from the Air Force's six-week basic training course at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Keas is scheduled to receive technical training in the Strategic Aircraft Maintenance career field.

After basic is completed Duus is scheduled for technical training in the Electronics career field.

Both will be earning credits toward an Associate Degree in Applied Sciences through the Community College of the Air Force while attending basic and technical training schools.

Garry is the son of Gerald Keas, Sr. of Gouldbusk and Mary Strange of Brownwood. Duus is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Duus of Rockwood.

Well Said

Working has always been considered respectable, but so far has never become very popular.

Turner Will Consult With S.A. Officials

County Considers Unified Law Agency

The feasibility of combining the Coleman County Sheriff's department and the City of Coleman Police Department is being considered by the Coleman City Council, which last week appointed a three-member committee to study the proposal.

According to Sheriff Wade Turner, if the consolidation occurs, the Coleman County Sheriff's Department would be the agency to oversee law enforcement in both the county and the city.

Currently, the sheriff's department consists of three deputies. The Coleman Police Department has nine officers including the Chief of Police.

Turner explained that the Coleman City Council first approached him about such a merger when he took office two years ago.

He went on to explain that "It wasn't the council as a whole that approached him at that time, but various council members." Now it seems that the whole of the Coleman City Council is interested in pursuing the possibility of a combined city-county law enforcement agency.

If the proposal becomes a reality, the sheriff would be the top officer of both the county and the city.

"Where would this leave Santa Anna?" was the question posed to Sheriff Turner Monday morning by this writer. Turner answered that depending on what steps the Coleman Council takes, he is interested in meeting and talking with the Santa Anna City Council concerning the proposal. "I feel, as I have always felt, that what the folks in Santa Anna want and need is also very important to me and my department," Sheriff Turner said.

"My thoughts about the proposal are that this combined law enforcement agency would be an economic savings to the people of the county and to Coleman and Santa Anna, explaining that Coleman County would be supporting only one law enforcement agency.

Turner said that if and when this combined agency is formed, the Coleman County Sheriff's Department would require more than the three deputies now on the payroll and that the plan being considered would include all the police officers on the payroll of the cities. Santa Anna at this time has only one police officer, Carlos Torres, who, says Turner, is already working very closely with the sheriff's department and has been a big help to them in many instances.

We Salute Our Volunteer Fire Dept

Lee Ray & Syble Huggins
This is the second in a series of articles saluting the Santa Anna Volunteer Fire Department and members of the Ladies' Auxiliary. Both perform a valuable service to our community and we take this opportunity to openly say so and salute them for a job well done.

This week we are offering our gratitude to Lee Ray and Syble Huggins.

Lee Ray joined the Fire Department in March of 1951 and over the years has served as Captain, president and chief. He is now Assistant Chief. In his years with the fire department he has received eight service pins and two plaques.

He joined the department because he felt it was a very good organization through which to serve our town and community.

In answer to the question about an especially memorable experience, he states there have been many during his years as a fire fighter and it would be hard to mention any one thing.

Syble Huggins joined the Aux in 1951 but after a few years the group became inactive. In 1961 the ladies reorganized and it has been a very active supporting group for the fire department ever since that time.

Mrs. Huggins has been involved for over 25 years. She says her purpose for joining the Aux. was to assist the firemen in their work and social functions and to help instill public interest in the community. She has served as president, sec-treas, and Chaplain and is presently vice president of the group.

When you see these or any other members of our local fire department around town you are encouraged to tell them how much you appreciate their volunteer efforts on the behalf of our community.

Dear Editor

I believe the people of your community need to be alerted to a potential danger that is not adequately addressed by Texas law.

Last month my mother suffered a life threatening blood infection while on the highway near Santa Anna. It was very late at night, and she appeared to be dying. My father and I called for an ambulance. We waited twenty horrifying minutes and none came even though an ambulance service located only two blocks away was summoned by a police dispatcher. Although neither my father nor I has any medical training we had to tend to her ourselves as best we could and rush her to the nearest hospital that we knew of, where upon arrival she had no discernable blood pressure and was totally unstable.

Since that time I have communicated with the Texas Health Department about this. I was told, incredibly, that in Texas ambulance services are not required to respond to emergency calls. This is a situation that should...must...be changed, whether by law or by policy. My mother survived. The next person in need may not be so fortunate.

Respectfully yours,

Mountainside Viewpoint

By Polly Warnock

Ours was certainly a mountain-side viewpoint during the past week as we wandered over, around and even through (via tunnels) the mountains of "Colorful Colorado".

Yes, for those who have been asking if I ever got to make that sentimental journey back to the place of my childhood, we made it last week. And it was all I had anticipated it to be.

Leadville, nestled in a little valley encircled by some of Colorado's tallest peaks, is a breathtaking city of about 4,000 population and pride's itself as being "On Top Of It All", with an elevation of about 11,000 ft. It is one of Colorado's special places, a well-kept secret of avid outdoors seekers, history buffs and just plain sightseers. It is where I spent my early childhood while my father was employed at Climax molybdenum mine (at that time the largest in the world) a few miles to the north of Leadville. The area is also known for its number of silver and gold mines, as well as iron ore and coal. Leadville was once a booming town of 30,000, but as the minerals have declined, so has the population and it is now almost entirely a tourist site.

We took the tourist train through the mountains over the same tracks that once carried the work train to Climax. We camped at Turquoise Lake, a favorite fishing spot for my family in those bygone years. We awoke one morning to a 35 degree temperature and found sleet and light snow falling. Even so the fishermen were already in the lake, insulated by overall waders, after those prize fish. It was there where my father loved to fish for trout and Kokanee salmon. We never found Frvng Pan Creek, another favorite spot I can remember, but we felt it better to not try some of the mountain passes we would have to take to get there over unimproved roads, especially in a motor home. And after some of the roads we travelled later which were improved highways, we certainly felt we made a wise choice not to tackle those particular trails.

In Leadville we were able to locate my childhood home and take a picture of the house. It had not changed much, even though it had undergone some remodeling. We also took pictures of the old St. Vincent's Hospital where my two sisters came into this world. Although a new hospital has since been built, the old building was still recognizable and was being restored for use as a museum as was the old Vendome Hotel where my aunt used to take me for the best ice cream cone in the world, found at the soda fountain in the lobby of

ON YOUR FEET
 Podiatrist DR. GENE NICHOLS
TREATING NAIL FUNGUS
 If you have a fungus growth in one or more of your toenails, don't make the mistake of trying to find an over-the-counter prescription to cure it. A fungus condition of the nail is known as onychomycosis, and it frequently co-exists with a similar condition between the toes or on the soles of the feet. It can also be a source of infection for other parts of the body. It is best left to the care of your podiatrist, who will determine the exact nature of the fungus and how it should be treated. Only a few years ago, it used to be very difficult to treat a fungus growth under the toenail. Now it can usually be treated effectively over a period of time. Your podiatrist will probably want to take a specimen of shavings from the nails of the affected toes and the debris that has been collecting under the nails. He'll use this material to grow a culture so he can verify his diagnosis. This will give the information he needs to select the best medication and treatment to solve the problem.
