Santa Anna's Pride Of The Month

Santa Anna's "Pride of the Month" is the yard of Mr. and Mrs. Bailey Horner at 1004 Ave. B. The lovely old home and its attractive yard is always a "pride" for the neighborhood, but the Horners really put on a show for the community during the Christmas season. You must make it a point to drive by and see the home after dark to really appreciate the effect of the Christmas decorations. Tie On A Red Ribbon

You have no doubt seen many car radio antennas in the community sporting a red ribbon. The ribbons are in response to the statewide Red Ribbon campaign being conducted to make people aware of the dangers of driving after drinking. The distribution of the ribbons is being done locally by MADD (Mothers Against Drunk Driving) and can be picked up at the City Hall or any of several businesses in the community. Pick one up and display your pledge to help make this holiday season a safe one.

Two More Open Houses Slated

SDA Children's Ingathering

When Seventh-day Adventist children knock at your door this week, they really will be giving you the opportunity to contribute to World Service.

Part of the local congregation's December outreach, the children from Santa Anna Seventh-day Adventist Church will have proper identification both for themselves and for your donation. "You will help us by asking for their identification," Harvey

Kornegay, who is their pastor, says. "And we want you to know where your money is going, too," he continues. "Ask them a little about the projects.' "Usually more than enough funds are given by the children and their parents for this service appeal to match what we receive in solicitation," according to Kornegay. "We don't ask our community friends to do something we can't do ourselves."

This 82nd World Service Appeal across North America ends locally December 24.

Thoughts From Our Pastors

John Howze Full Gospel Fellowship Pentecostal Church Of God

FALSE HOPE

In Luke chapter 12, verses 16 thru 20 is a story of a rich man whose land produced more than ever. Wondering what should be done, he decided to tear down the barns and build larger ones to hold all the increase. Then he said to himself, "I've got plenty of goods. I can take it easy for the rest of my life; eat, drink, and be merry." He didn't take God into his plans and God said, "This night shall thy soul be required of thee."

We are living in a world that is much like this rich man. Many are living completely for the things of this world that gratify the five senses, and not taking time to know for sure they are ready to meet God. Some have gone to church faithfully, but haven't heeded the knock at their heart's door, thinking their name on the church roll will suffice. Many have been confirmed into the church, but haven't given themselves completely to God's plan. Paul, the Apostle, said in Romans 8:24 "For we are saved by hope; but hope that is seen is not hope; for what a man yet seeth, why doth he yet hope for it?"

Our world is filled with false hope! We hope for a peaceful settlement in the "middle east". We hope our economic situation in America will turn around! We hope we can somehow be good enough to make heaven! There is only one way to real hope. "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved and they house." Acts 16-31. There is only one way, Jesus Christ. He is the door, the life, the truth, the way. "There is no other name under heaven, given unto men whereby we must be saved."

We don't trust in good deeds, (pride) to make us ready but in the blood of Jesus Christ, God's son that cleanses us from all unrighteousness. It's easy to pretend anything will make us just in God's eyes, but we become just in His eyes only by His righteousness, by faith. "For by grace through faith ye are saved, not by works lest any man should boast." If we confess our sins, He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins and cleanse us from all unrighteousness.

There is absolutely no hope without the washing of regeneration and renewing of the Holy Ghost. It is easier for us to believe in our ability than in God's, but His changing power is all that can make us new creatures. Old things must pass away and all things become new.

Many hope they are ready to meet the Lord but don't know! "His spirit bears witness with our spirit that we are sons of God." Why put off salvation with its divine assurance? Solomon said, "Trust in the Lord with all thine heart and lean not to thine own understanding."

Dishwasher Dos and Don'ts

Which do you think requires more water: washing dishes by hand or using a dishwasher?

Surprisingly, according to a 1988 Ohio State University study, using an automatic dishwasher can save an average 5.8 gallons of water per load over handwashing the same items. To save energy with a dishwasher, follow these tips from home economists at Whirlpool Corporation: • Don't pre-rinse! Today's dishwashers will clean the load without pre-rinsing—and save about seven gallons of water. • Scrape off food and pour liquids from dishes before loading. Wash only full loads. Washing a partial load takes just as much water and energy as washing a full load.

• Use the correct cycle. Choose the lowest energy use cycle that will clean the load. Use longer cycles only if loads aren't washed daily.

• Use the air-dry setting and allow the load to dry overnight. Use heated drying if items are needed immediately after a cycle. Most of all, don't be afraid to use the dishwasher! Most dishwashers use only about two gallons of water per fill. The force and direction of the water, combined with detergent and hot water, provide clean dishes that are also more sanitary than hand-washed and dried ones.

GOING HOME CHEAPER In 1903

Going home for Christmas was easy and cheap in 1903. For the cost of a regular one-way ticket, plus $2, Texas railroads offered a

Sage Advice

Q. I'm thinking of starting an herb garden. What do you think?

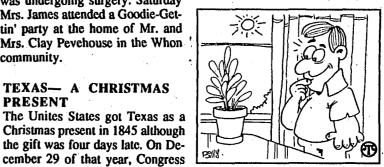

A. Growing herbs at home is a smart idea. You get the double benefit of a beautiful potted plant and something delicious to put in your cooking pots. One herb that's easy to grow is that hardy perennial, sage. The most common indoor variety is Sal-

TAMALES FOR CHRISTMAS DINNER?

Will tamales one day replace the turkey as the traditional entree for Texans' Christmas dinner? Probably not, but this favorite delicacy has been a Texas holiday treat for years and consumption is growing. In 1985, tamale makers in San Antonio reported sales of almost five million and they have grown since then. Tradition has it that Texans have like tamales since the 1500s when Indians served them to Spanish explorers. Since then, tamalesground meat seasoned with chile, rolled in corn husks and steamedhave become standard fare to Tex-reminder from Safe•Watch to take care during the holiday season.

 If you are buying new tree lights, look for a tag stating they've been tested and certified by a reputable agency, such as Underwriters Laboratories (UL).

• Thoroughly check lights you already have for any signs that they might pose a hazard — insulation that's worn or broken, broken sockets, loose connections, fraying, etc.

• Be sure to turn off the tree lights when you leave the house or go to bed, and never leave young children unattended around the tree.

• Buy as fresh a tree as possible. Bounce it on the cut end to see if a lot of needles fall off; If so, try another one. Keep the tree fresh by maintaining the water level in the stand.

· Keep the tree well away from heat sources, such as fireplaces, portable heaters, and heating-system

• Use only lighting and other electrical equipment designed specifically for outdoor use, and always use grounded (three-prong) extension cords that are sized properly for the load.

 If you use a ladder outside, keep clear of any overhead lines that might be nearby.

• Remember to drive defensively during this season, because excessive holiday cheer could mean facing a drunk driver on the road. Before you arrive at a party where alcohol is going to be served, designate someone to stay sober and act as the driver for the evening. And if you're hosting a party, provide attractive, tasty alternatives for those who don't drink

Exciting, mystical, expectant. This was Christmas when the season began after Thanksgiving. A time when merchants dressed their windows and veiled them in colors of brilliant hues. Not even a peek until the magic hour of unveiling, around 11 o'clock on Saturday morning following Thanksgiving just as the Christmas parade was beginning.

Mother dressed my sister and me in warm woolen skirts, bright sweaters with hoods and mittens to match. My younger brother was bundled into a green snowsuit; then, with Dad at the wheel, we headed off to town for the official opening of the Christmas season. This included both the unveiling and the parade.

Santa himself headed the parade in a sleigh laden with fanciful, spangled packages. His elves and helpers rode on the sleigh, waving to the crowd and throwing out candy canes. Following were the floats decorated by churches, clubs and businesses

The church floats featured the nativity or other religious themes with live characters, all standing reverent and immobile. Floats decorated by clubs and businesses were highlighted with ropes of glittering tinsel, which were flitting about in the November gusts. There were strands of Christmas ornaments with baskets of red roses, and girls in red satin evening gowns rode on a high-perched throne, smiling and waving. Was anything ever so enchanting?

We waved to Santa and scrambled for the candy canes his elves tossed Snodgrass, Doris Rogers, Laura

My mother allowed us to watch, never permitting us to touch. Such wonders for young eyes! We realized these would not be under He was standing before a fireplace. our tree. Santa's choice for us The stockings were there, the tree closely resembled the toys in the mail-order catalog.

But seeing these exciting toys fired our young minds and set our imagination racing. Little did we know that the price tag on these dolls read $35. But our mother knew, and she knew also that she could replenish our pantry for days for that sum.

Instinctively, we knew we could never possess these beauties, nor did it disturb us. It was the fanciful visions these treasures set off that sustained us. For days and weeks we dreamed, fantasized and imagined. We were the great lady dressed in high heels and flouncy organdy skirts. In our fancy we cuddled the baby doll and lulled her to sleep each night.

Added to this were windows to enjoy for each time we came to town during the next four weeks. The lapse between Christmas seasons was eons. Through the year we almost forgot what Santa looked like. We forgot how the bright snowflakes glistened on the mounds of cotton. We could not recall in completeness the dazzling magic of the bubbling lights.

What ecstasy to see it all again, to live in this bliss for four full weeks! What a joy to have and to hold this season in our mind what delight to retain for later.

At a time when the season was short-lived, we heralded its approach, we extolled its presence and treasured its memories.

The original plan, unveiled in November 1989, called for about 10,000 miles of 'trunk' roads to connect Texas cities with populations of more than 20,000.

But after 10 regional hearings and a final public hearing in Austin in June, the commission has decided to add three additional sections of road to the trunk system in West Texas, another in South Texas and four others in Central and East Texas, a highway department spokesman said Friday.

Under the trunk system plan, two-lane roads on the system are scheduled for upgrading to fourlane divided highways. Dial noted that his department will try to take the blueprint and create a priority list for construction of the improvements over the next 30 years. There's no question the road

Wild Meat on the Table

The culinary quality of wild game meat is a source of some debate. It is undeniably true that wild meat, when prepared in a straightforward manner, is different in flavor and texture from domestic meat. But Most wild animals that we classify as "game animals" to be hunted and eaten are primary prey species. This means that other predators besides human hunters are constantly on their trail. The prey animal must be alert and quick to avoid all of its predators, while making do with the food available in the natural environment. Thus, game animals seldom get "fat" in the same sense that sedentary domestic beasts pack it on. As a consequence, wild meat is dry and sometimes tough in comparison. Cooking methods which take these factors into account are

The condition of the individual animal has much to do with its palatability. In the case of birds and small game, age is a consideration.

In a year of poor reproduction, the hunter's bag will usually contain fewer young (read, tender) and more comparatively tough oldsters. In deer and other big game, meat quality is heavily influenced by the quantity and quality of food that has been available to the animal over the summer. Don't buy the logic that a big buck's venison is invariably tough and strong. Any poorly fed big-game animal, regardless of age or sex, that has just gotten by on low-quality browse will be a poorer piece

A quick, clean kill is the next step to good game meat. A spooked or wounded animal gets an adrenalin surge to its muscles. This results in Each autumn, much game meat is either lost or seriously degraded by poor field care. Quick, efficient field dressing and prompt cooling of the carcass are vital steps to good-tasting game. Delaying either dressing or cooling is gambling with how well your roasts will be received. From the time the shot is fired, the successful hunter is in a race with time and Small game should be eviscerated and cooled as quickly as possible, and a wise hunter will have an ice chest available in warm climates.

Deer-sized game is often field-dressed in the woods and expediently moved to a convenient location for further processing. Large game taken in remote locations, such as elk or moose, is usually skinned on

During any of these processes, care should be taken to keep the carcass as clean as possible. Avoid meat contamination from the viscera itself or from for sign materials such as hair, dirt, mud, etc. Such of eating than even a big buck that has been living well on good forage.

If a road is designated as part of the state's trunk system, he said, it's expected to be upgraded to four-lane status within 30 years or so, even if traffic counts don't always justify the upgrade.

That should mean good news, he said, for those worried about the effect a negative state highway department study will have on the requested upgrading of the highway system connecting Wichita Falls with Brownsville.

That study released Thursday noted that traffic is insufficient to warrant upgrading the 739-mile route along U.S. Highways 277 and

However, Dial said that all of the route, except a stretch from Junction to Carrizo Springs, is listed as part of the state's new trunk

And as such, it should have a good chance of being upgraded to a four-lane highway - at least from Wichita Falls to Junction - even if traffic is insufficient to warrant additional lanes.

The route begins at the Oklahoma border near Wichita Falls and runs to Brownsville in the Rio Grande Valley. It passes through cities such as Haskell, Anson, Abilene, Ballinger, Eden, Junction, Uvalde, Crystal City, Laredo, McAllen and Har-

IT'S A FACT!

If you or someone you love takes insulin to treat diabetes, be sure you never accept a different brand, type, or source of insulin without the approval of your physician.

The number of insulins available for use by patients with diabetes continues to expand. New fixed mixture formulations, new administration devices, such as insulin pens, and new manufacturers of insulin offer a potentially confusing choice for the

According to Food and Drug Administration (FDA) requirements, pharmacists should not fill prescriptions for insulin with anything other than the noted brand, source, or type specified by the patient's physician. Using the wrong kind or dosage of insulin could be very harmful. If you have any doubts about what your doctor has specified, don't hesitate to ask for clarification.

NEW WORKERS' COMP REGULATIONS DUE OUT SOON... THEY TAKE EFFECT JANUARY 1, 1991

Dear Commissioner Nabers, Is it true that the new Workers' Compensation law requires employers to do workplace drug testing? If so, how are we supposed to go about it? And, when are the rest of the rules going to be available?

Corpus Christi

Dear J.H., The new Workers' Compensation statute requires employers to have a "drug prevention program," but it does not specifically mention drug testing. The Workers' Compensation Commission is in the process of promulgating rules which will more clearly define what is involved in a drug prevention program and these should be available before the first of the year. All other rules must be publicized by then as well.

I would also remind you that the Texas Employment Commission doesn't oversee Workers' Compensation issues. The agency that regulates this law is the Workers' Compensation Commission. You might want to contact them for the new rules that will apply to employers. Their phone number is 1-800-252-7031.

Dear Commissioner Nabers, I am 57 years old and plan to retire when I am 62. I have the feeling lately that my employer is trying to squeeze me out to make room for younger people in the office. It seems to me that the more responsible tasks are being delegated to others and that I have less and less of real substance to do. I have also noticed that the president of the company ignores me while talking to other employees about business matters.

TEXAS BUSINESS TODAY

Our business fluctuates considerably in activity, and I am concerned that if there were a reduction in force I would be the first to be dismissed even though I have been given no reason to believe that my work is unsatisfactory. I received raises steadily up until the last five years, and no one in the office has gotten a raise in that time due to the economy.

Do I have any recourse at this time? Should I be documenting what goes on at work? What is your advice?

Dear D.B., My first recommendation to you is to talk frankly with your employer about your concerns. Your employer may not be aware that you feel slighted. Or, perhaps your employer is not happy with your work but has found it easier to ignore the situation than to deal with it...just as you yourself have to this point. It is also possible that your employer thinks you might welcome less work or responsibility. There is considerable opportunity for misunderstanding in this situation and you will not know what is going on until you take steps to open the lines of communication.

The law does not protect any of us from hurt feelings, but it does prohibit adverse employment action being taken against an employee strictly because of the employee's age. If you were to lose your job or suffer a demotion or reduction in pay solely because of your age, then you would have a strong equal employment opportunity complaint. Such complaints may be filed through your nearest equal employment opportunity office or through the Texas Commission on Human Rights.

D.B. Commissioner Mary Scott Nabers represents all Texas employers. If you have any questions you want answered, please write Commissioner Nabers at: TEXAS BUSINESS TODAY, 614 TEC Building. 15th and Congress, Austin, Tx.,

Garbage In-With Environmentalists

Americans concerned about our increasing "supply" of garbage, and our decreasing supply of landfill to dump it in, may be glad to know of a new way to make the most of municipal trash.

This recycling and composting system can deal with hundreds of tons of waste a day.

Waste not-really. Hundreds of tons of garbage can be turned into useful compost.

·First, all the contaminants and toxic materials are removed and safely stored.

 Next anything recyclable, glass, metal, certain plastics and the like are taken out, sorted and sold.

•Finally, the remaining paper, wood, kitchen garbage and similar biodegradable bits are ground fine and mixed with soil bacteria until they turn into rich, useful compost for sale to farmers and gardeners.

Civic leaders and others can learn more about this Geophile International system from free brochures and a videotape. Write Peter Friedman, Metropolitan, P.O. Box 1086, Carmel, New York 10512.

In old England, the word "child" referred only to a girl.

Try using bacon fat for popping corn; drain on brown paper; add salt.
