Well Said

Parents who can't say no to their children evidently prefer a cruel world to handle their discipline problems at a later date.

Santa Anna Elementary Students Are Writing To Read

by Jack Burns, principal, Santa Anna Elementary School

The Santa Anna Elementary school has joined the computer revolution. The adoption of the highly acclaimed Writing to Read program by IBM has moved us forward and put the children in a computer lab during certain periods of the school day.

The purpose of the Writing to Read program is to teach kindergarten and first grade students to write, using the computer, anything they can say, and then read what they have written. This is using a child's own words for the basis of acquiring reading skills. Educators call this the "Language Experience" approach.

The objectives of Writing to Read is to teach children the 42 phonemes of English speech so they can write anything they can say and then read anything they have written. Through this process, children will come to understand the logic behind an alphabetic system, which becomes the springboard for future language growth. It then becomes an easier task to begin to read what others have written in books and all printed material. We know that children differ in their rates of development and time needed to learn new material and experience has shown that most of the children using Writing to Read achieved these objectives by the end of the first grade.

When children enter school in kindergarten, they already have a highly developed speaking vocabulary. This vocabulary is estimated to be between 2,500 and 5,00 words, depending on the child's language background.

Typically, when children begin a traditional reading program using a basal reading series, kindergarten is devoted to "readiness" activities.

These include learning to match colors and shapes, learning the letters of the alphabet, and perhaps some rudimentary writing such as learning one's own name. At best, children may learn to write and read a few simple words, certainly fewer than 100 words.

Then the students move on to first grade, the "formal" reading instruction begins. Now the children are introduced to the sounds of the letters, usually presented in sequence as initial consonants known as blends and digraphs. The children also are taught a basic sight vocabulary of a few hundred words through the reading primers and first grade readers. This, of course, is an adult-manufactured sequence and word list which may or may not make sense to the child.

What, then, makes Writing to Read unique from most beginning reading programs used in our schools today? Writing to Read uses the child's own powerful vocabulary as the basis for learning to write and read. Children are limited only by the size of their vocabular-

Kingsbery Heads Appraisal Board Another Year

Officers of the Coleman County Appraisal District were selected at the Monday, January 14, meeting of the group held at the District's office in Coleman.

Re-elected for the 1991 year were Barbara Kingsbery, chairman; Dwight Nanny, vice chairman; and Jack Knox, secretary. Other members of the Board are D.G. Allen and Max Horne.

Minutes of the December meeting were read and approved, and Chief Appraiser Bill Jones reviewed the financial report for the month. Bills and accounts were approved for payment.

Mr. Jones reported that collections for December 1990 totaled $355,022, slightly less than the same month last year. However, total collections are less than the yearly total for 1989. January is one of the largest collection periods as property owners get taxes paid before the deadline to avoid interest and penalties.

The 1990 budget was reviewed and approval given for amendments in several categories. The Appraisal District ended with over $3,000 excess funds, despite a number of increased costs not figured in the budget. The excess will be returned to the taxing entities.

A contract with Bon-Emma Properties was signed for the lease of the building in which the District office is located.

The next meeting of the board will be Monday, February 11, at the Appraisal District office at 5:00 p.m.

Culture Club Discusses Recycling

by Betty Key

The Santa Anna Self Culture Club met Wednesday, January 9, 1991 at 2:30 p.m. at the home of Mae Blue. Jasper McClellen met arriving club members at their cars and escorted them to the house under the protection of a large umbrella. Eleven members attended, with the rain keeping some members at home.

A short business meeting was conducted by president, JoAnn Allen. Alice Anna Spillman reported on the Christmas gifts for two nursing home residents. It was decided to remember them again on Valentines day.

The program was on recycling. Each member answered the roll call by telling how she recycled items that are often thrown away. All members reported saving aluminum cans. Many reported saving glass and paper. Everyone wished there was a more convenient place to turn in recycled items.

Mrs. Allen gave additional information on recycling. She reported that each person creates about 5 pounds of trash per day. That amount could be cut down if everyone would practice selective shopping, re-using materials, recycling, and composting. Many other facts about recycling were presented.

During the fellowship time, refreshments of finger sandwiches, cake and hot punch were served by hostesses Mae Blue and Grace Short.

The next meeting will be February 13 with Bettie Henderson and Eula McCary as hostesses.

Thoughts From Our Pastors

Harvey Kornegay Seventh-Day Adventist Church

GRACE AS AN EDUCATOR, NOT AN EXCUSE

"I thank my God always on your behalf, for the grace of God which is given you by Jesus Christ...who shall also confirm you unto the end that ye may be blameless in the day of our Lord Jesus Christ." I Cor. 1:4,8.

Those who know Jesus Christ as their personal Saviour have the privilege of being educated and trained in a higher school than that of men, and of being tutored under higher wisdom than that of mere human beings. When we are given grace, we come under the tutorage of the greatest Teacher the world ever knew, and partake of the same knowledge that he gave to Daniel. Those who are humble in heart, those who feel their need of higher wisdom and do not rely upon their own judgement, but search earnestly to know the will of God, may draw from the Source of all Knowledge, and obtain grace, knowledge, direction, and good judgement.

In giving to man an example of what they should be and do, Jesus did not have a smooth path to travel. Jesus had been the commander of heaven, yet on earth He was one who served. Uncomplainingly He endured hardships and lived the life of a poor man. He did not indulge in the luxuries that many who claim to be His followers surround themselves. He wanted, and worked to do, the will of the Father. We should allow grace to work in us the same attitude toward the Father. Those who follow Christ will be continually looking into the perfect law of liberty, and through the grace given us by Christ, will fashion their characters according to that great law.

We must not allow grace to be used as an excuse to sin, but as a teacher to help us keep our eyes on the great Grace Giver, Jesus Christ.

May the grace and mercy of Jesus Christ continually surround and keep you safe.

Check It Out

By Alice Anna Spillman

The meeting I attended recently in which the discussion was recycling, has caused me to read everything I can on the subject. Here is some interesting information I have found.

The average American throws away his own weight in packaging each month. There are ways that we can reduce this figure. Return paper bags to the grocery store (clean and neatly folded); some stores have a place to return plastic bags. Make your own bags. The Home Show has instructions based on the size and shape of paper bags. Buy napkins, paper towels, note cards, facial tissues, stationary, envelopes, computer paper and other supplies made from recycled paper. Demand for these will encourage companies to enter the recycling business. This will increase the number of collection centers.

We could save 500,000 trees each week if only the Sunday papers were recycled!

Do you know that the food you eat has traveled probably 1,300 miles. Maybe it's time to start our own gardens to save fuel.

Each person uses 168 gallons of water per day. That is more than enough to water a garden! Many do run the laundry drain to water trees.

Clean the air in your house by growing plants. For more information, send a stamped self-addressed envelope to: Foilage for Clean Air Council, 405 N. Washington Street, Suite 104, Falls Church, VA 22064.

There is a book, "50 Simple Things You Can Do To Save The Earth." We plan to purchase on for the local library.

If you are expecting a baby or know someone who is, get a copy of the January issue of "Good Housekeeping Magazine. It has a review of a new "Illustrated Book of Pregnancy and Baby Care." You can order the book and it would make a wonderful gift for a new mother.

Mountainside Viewpoint

By Polly Warnock

These are very somber times for Americans and citizens of all countries involved in the war in the Persian Gulf and indeed for all citizens of the world.

But to inject just a little humor, take the case of 3 1/2 year-old Kyle Averill of Maine. When talking about his dad, Sgt. Kenneth Averill, USAF, leaving for the gulf area back in the fall, the youngster said, "Sadly Insane took Daddy away."

It took Pam Averill a minute to figure out what her young son had said. He apparently had been hearing the name and the about fact that he was the reason daddy had to be away from home. Of course, we realize such a name is hard for any youngster to pronounce. It is even difficult for most adults. But what an appropriate moniker to attach to the man who has brought the world to such a sorry state of affairs!

Sadly Insane? I love it! Soldiers in Saudi even have to keep some semblance of a sense of humor to get through their stressful days. Take for instance the message one wrote on a bomb being loaded on aircraft: "Mr. Saddam, if Allah doesn't answer, try asking for Jesus."

In Sweetwater where the Jaycees were meeting to discuss their annual rattlesnake roundup, the conversation naturally turned to the war. One man suggested they send some venom to Saddam Hussein. "Personally," someone else joined in. "I think we ought to just send him the snakes this year."

Spaghetti/meat sauce; tossed salad with French dressing; green beans; date cake; garlic bread with butter.

Williamson In Legislative Race

James Williamson of Brownwood, a conservative Democrat, announced his candidacy Saturday for the 65th Legislative District vacancy.

Owner and founder of Williamson Financial Services in Brownwood, Williamson joins a race which will elect a successor for Jim Parker, who resigned Monday. Gov. Ann Richards has called the election for Feb. 9.

Williamson said his financial experience and local ties to the 65th Legislative District will enable him to provide a representative voice for the district residents.

"I will bring to bear a conservative, Christian, financial perspective on the myriad of economic issues facing Texas today," Williamson said.

"So many of our problems in Texas are related to economics, that my business background will enable me to understand the problems in Texas related to economics, that my business background will enable me to understand the problems, and workable solutions to those problems. One specific arena facing Texas this year will be insurance issues facing the Texas legislature.

"Most of the state of Texas' financial problems relate directly to the state's overcommitting to programs and overspending. "It's time we elect a representative who will attempt to slow down the spending spree or at least to try."

"State officials tell us that Texas has a $3.5 billion income shortage for 1991-1992. The "politics as usual bunch" is saying the only solution is higher taxes, a state income tax, and a lottery. It's my belief that more money is not the answer; rather, better management of what we have, freezing spending and cutting back the state bureaucracy is a better approach.

A native of Brownwood, Williamson is a 1966 graduate of Brownwood High School and a 1970 graduate of Howard Payne University. Williamson was once known as the "bare footed" punter from HPU who led all Texas punters during his freshman and sophomore year on the way earning two all-time All Texas "Punter of the Year" honors.

Williamson emphasizes involvement with his family, church, business and civic organizations.

He and his wife, Jeanie, have three children, Mary, 15, James, 10, and John 8.

The family is active at First Baptist Church, in PTA, youth athletics, BHS Key Club, choir, cub scouts and the Swim Club.

Among his civic activities are memberships in the Kiwanis Club, Community Advisory Council of the Brownwood State School and Reception Center, Howard Payne University's Friends of Walker Memorial Library, the Heart of Texas Baptist Encampment Capital Improvement Committee, the Brownwood Chamber of Commerce and Ellis Ministries.

Business association memberships include the Pecan Valley Association of Life Underwriters, Texas Assn. of Life Underwriters, National Assn. of Life Underwriters and chartered financial consultants and the Howard Payne Alumni Assn.

Williamson, who began his insurance career in 1970 has conducted seminars on annuities, health insurance, life insurance and IRAs and has presented church seminars on "A Christian and His Money."

Junior High Basketball

Santa Anna junior High boys defeated Novice Junior High 38-15 in a basketball game played in Perry Gym last Thursday evening.

Coach Dean Bass' team started off by scoring more than three times as many points as their opponents in the first period of play. In the second quarter they increased to four times as many points as Novice and ended the first half with a 19-5 lead.

Novice came back and scored 10 points in the third period while Santa Anna slipped to 7 points scored in the quarter. However the Junior Mountaineers finished with 12 points in the final period and held Novice to no points scored in that quarter.

Bobby Diaz was top gun for Santa Anna with 17 points. Manuel Frausto hit for 9 points. Others contributing points were Johnny Diaz, Charles Williford and David Herod.

According to Coach Bass, all members of the team played in the game, especially in the 3rd and 4th quarters.

There are two novels buried in the 1939 New York World's Fair time capsule: Margaret Mitchell's Gone with the Wind, and A Row with the Wind by Sinclair Lewis.

Following that game, the junior high boys held a 5-2 season record and 2-0 in district play.

The junior high girls lost their game with Novice by a score of 27-18. The first quarter was even up with each team hitting for 4 points. The halftime score was Novice 10-Santa Anna 8. The score at the end of third quarter was still close at 17-14 in favor of Novice. However the junior lady Hornets pulled away in the final period to beat Santa Anna by 9 points.

The Santa Anna Junior High tournament is to be held this week, beginning Thursday at Perry Gym. Games start at 4:00 p.m. Thursday and at 8:00 a.m. Saturday. See schedule elsewhere in the paper.

Return To Germany In Search Of Roots

EDITOR'S NOTE: In the first part of the story of the Karthausers' return to Germany in search of family roots, (published a couple of weeks ago) they had located a family home and visited with many of the people in the area. As we pick up the story now, they are about to attend church in the neighborhood of the old family home.

The next day, we spent sightseeing in Kassel. Sunday was probably the biggest day in David and Martha's life. And of course, it was very exciting for Margaret, too. At nine o'clock we arrived at the church in Hesslar to be welcomed not only by Henrich Steglitz but the minister and the rest of the townsfolk. We were ushered to a front pew and made to feel right at home. At the opening of the service the minister told the congregation who we were and what we were doing there. It was a funny feeling to know that you were being talked about and not know exactly what was being said. Martha was able to follow most of the sermon which was in German and David and Margaret hoped they stood up and sat down at the right time. One of the highlights of the church service was Communion. Being placed on the front row made us get up with the front group. We were not able to learn from watching others, only Martha knew what was going on, so we watched her. The bread was a very large wafer and they used silver wine glasses for the homemade wine. It was truly a high experience to stand where our ancestors had stood, taking communion in the Lutheran church.

After church, everyone waited outside to greet us. After everyone left, Henrich took us to David's great-grandmother's house which had been converted into a museum. Henrich had a key so could let us in for a private tour. As we hurriedly looked dance. The Phaff family was a good example of the attendees. Grandparents, parents, and children were there together. The Hesslar church was about twice the size of the Volkershain church. Pfarrer Hohaus evidently preached a good sermon because the congregation was very attentive.

It soon became time for communion again. When Herr Phaff's granddaughter passes around the basket of small squares of rye bread, we had to check with Martha to see if we understood that they were passing the bread representing the body of Jesus. When it came time for the cup, Pfarrer Hohaus passed around a basket of large green grapes. This was the cup. Very different but very appropriate for the Erntedankfest service. After church, the neighbors we had met in front of David's grandfather's house, the minister and other members of the congregation gathered outside the church and visited for a long time. It was with great reluctance that we left them but with great excitement as we headed to the manse for lunch.

As we arrived at the Hohaus residence, we were greeted by Pfarrer Hohaus's wife, Sylvia. Pfarrer Hohaus introduced their children, Axel and Anna to us. We had a fine Hessian meal consisting of roast through the museum, we became aware that the clock was rapidly approaching eleven o'clock. Not wanting to offend Henrich, we excused ourselves and promised to return to his home the next day.

The hour to traverse the fifteen miles now became fifteen minutes. We barely made it to Volkershain by eleven. Fortunately, everyone but the minister, walked to church so we had no problem finding a parking place. Finding a seat was not much problem either as there were only three places left, and again we were on the front row. This church was decorated very much like the one in Hesslar. The fruits of the harvest were displayed around the altar. There were approximately twenty people in attendance; dumplings, potatoes and red cabbage. We had a wonderful time visiting over dinner, talking about Erntedankfest, genealogy, and current affairs. We really felt like we were part of the church family. It was a day that if it couldn't last forever, you hope that it would be repeated often. It truly was an emotional high for the Karthaus family and will live in our memories forever.

Early Monday morning, we drove to Felsberg to pick up the genealogy work done by Adolf Herwig. Even though we thought we were early, Adolf and Harold were waiting for us. They took us to a room and sat us down around a table. Adolf started reviewing a typewritten page. The page contained births, marriages, and death dates of many of David's ancestors. We had truly found Anna Martha Freudenstein! We even found out her brother and sisters names, her parents, grandparents, and aunts and uncles. All of them had been born or died while a member of the church at Hesslar. We also found out other towns that we must go to, to find out more information. Could this mean another trip to Germany? Harold gave us a book concerning the 700 year old to comprehend. We bade Harold and Adolf good-bye and said we hoped to be able to visit with them again.

We then drove to Hesslar to visit with Henrich Steglitz as we had promised the day before. We found his lovely home near the edge of town, knocked on the door and were invited in by his wife. We were invited into the family room and offered refreshments. We sat and talked for a long while before Frau Steglitz got up and called their daughter, Ursula, asking her to come over and visit with us. Ursula spoke very good English so we communicated even better after she arrived. Henrich gave David four gifts, the first was a postcard which displayed the inside of the church at Hesslar, the second one was a book describing the ruins of the Karhause monastery which was near by, the third was a copy of the plat map of Hesslar which showed the location and size of the Freudenstein farm. The fourth was a book on the history of Hesslar. Martha received a beautiful hand painted Easter egg that was painted by Henrich as a memento of the trip. His wife scurried around and cut up an egg carton to help protect the egg. With that and some careful packing by Martha, the egg made it back to Texas in one piece. We also received many pictures and other mementoes.

After a lunch of homemade liverwurst, bratwurst, and cheeses, we bade our new found friends good-bye with a promise that we would return. It was with some reluctance that we left and headed back to our bed and breakfast in Remsfeld to pack and plan to leave Remsfeld and call an end to the genealogical research for this trip.

town of Felsberg and the surrounding area. He also offered to continue looking for more data and promised to send us any other information he found. Needless to say, we were overwhelmed by many things, the hospitality, the eagerness to help as well as the history of David's grandmother's family. It was almost too much

Back at the motel we went over all our records that we had received and made notes of several new towns that would have to be visited to extend our family tree. Hopefully this will be another story. Can you imagine how much time it will take to follow all these new leads, visit all the new towns and revisit all our old friends? We are already looking forward to the next trip. As we packed up to go, it was still with a feeling of disbelief as we really did not think it was possible to find Anna Martha Freudenstein's home town while she was in Germany.

The next morning was October 2, 1990, the last day of a divided Germany and we wanted to drive to Berlin to help celebrate the reunification. But that is another story that may appear in another article.

Mrs. Amon Otts and son Yancy and Mrs. Otts' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Griffin of Fisk were in Abilene Sunday. They accompanied the Otts' son Yancy to the Abilene Coliseum to see the Teen Age Mutant Ninja Turtles. Mrs. Otts reports they all enjoyed the day but little Yancy really did have a nice time. Yancy's brother, Griffin was with Misty Hubbard of Fisk.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Morris were in Brownwood on Tuesday of last week. They stopped at the business of Mrs. Norman Floyd Morris in Brownwood briefly. Mr. Amon Otts had a nice telephone visit with Mrs. Niel Fitzpatrick of near Odessa one night last week. Also Amon accompanied Graham to Brownwood Thursday for a visit with Mrs. Fitzpatrick.

Mr. I.O. Smith's son, Billy Joe Smith of Odessa called me Friday to say that his father had a 4-way heart bypass Friday in an Odessa hospital. He stood the surgery well and the doctors assured his sons

Jerry and Billy he was doing real well. But when he called his dad had not come out from under the medicine. Billy also called his aunt, Mrs. Letha Martin in Santa Anna. We are all wishing for him a complete recovery. I understood it was all rather sudden.

A Special Message For Interest Sensitive Investors

This Could Be...
The "Perfect" Investment

Check out the facts:
It's 100% SAFE

(Many experts consider it to be potentially safer than a bank certificate of Deposit.)

You Get Competitive High Yields

(It pays 1/2 to 1% greater yields than a CD even before tax advantages are computed.)

You Get Important Tax Advantages

(You pay no taxes while your money grows. This means your principal earns interest, your interest earns interest and the money you would have paid to the IRS each year stays in your account to earn interest for you.)

Your Money Accumulates Extremely Fast

(At current rates, your money can double ever 8 1/2 years versus every 12 1/2 years in a comparable bank CD.)

And The Account Remains Reasonably Liquid

(Unlike a CD, a reasonable percentage of your money is liquid, giving you generous access to your cash!)

Plus Many Other Additional Attractive Benefits

(Attractive features such as: No company front-end loads, no Social Security offset or 1099s during accumulation!)

What is this little-known investment that gives you the best of all worlds: complete safety, important tax advantages, and high yields?

Ranger Park Inn

By Dorothy York

Ranger Park Inn residents having birthdays this month are: Dillard Gregg, Christine Sanders, Jack Davis, Cleo Canady, Mary Jo Lovell and Frances Barnett. Sponsors of this month's birthday party were the Rev. and Mrs. T.L. Pond and the Rev. and Mrs. J.L. Gandy of Glen Cove Baptist Church. With the Rev. and Mrs. Gandy was Ms. Hazel Moore of Brownwood. Ms. Moore played the piano while the Gandys sang. Mrs. Peggy Johnson of Bangs, sister to one of our residents, helped with the party. Our sincere thanks to all these people. The Ladies Auxiliary of the Santa Anna Fire Department of Santa Anna brought gifts for the birthday people.

Donations of gifts of apparel and books were made to the residents from Ruby Hartman, Gale Brock, and Thelma Brooker. Thanks to all of you.

Beating Higher Taxes With Tax-free And Tax-deferred Investments

Congress recently passed the nation's largest-ever deficit-reduction package, estimated to shave $492 billion off the U.S. debt over the next five years. But, as the old saying goes, "money doesn't grow on trees," and the funds needed to cut the deficit are coming from cuts in defense spending, from the budgets of some federal programs and from our own pockets.

Over the next five years, Congress hopes to raise more than $40 billion from higher income taxes - upper-income individuals will have a top tax rate of 31 percent and will be allowed fewer deductions. More than $100 billion will be raised from higher taxes on gasoline, air travel, luxury cars and other items.

It appears that no one will be spared from paying higher taxes in one form or another. Fortunately, there are still ways that individual investors can lessen the impact of higher taxes - through tax-free and tax-deferred investments.

Tax-free investments allow you to earn interest that's free from federal taxes and, in some cases, from state taxes. There are many tax-free investments available, one of which may be suitable for your own needs.

Individual municipal bonds

When you invest in municipal bonds, you're loaning money to help finance public projects, such as highways, hospitals, housing and public education. In return, you earn a specified rate of interest for a specified period of time. At maturity your principal is returned in full. Municipal bonds are exempt from federal taxes and, in certain instances, may also be exempt from state and local taxes.

Attention CD Owners

If you have a certificate of deposit maturing within the next 90 days, give me a call. I believe I may be able to offer you a higher yield.

Bank-issued certificates of deposit offered through Edward D. Jones & Co. are insured up to $100,000 by the F.D.I.C., minimum deposit $5,000. ■

Tax-free money-market funds

If you need easy access to your money, money-market funds can offer such privileges as check writing, complete liquidity and low minimum investments. All the income earned is exempt from federal taxes.

Unit trusts

These investments diversify your money among 10 to 30 municipal bonds selected by professionals. Again, the interest earned is free from federal income taxes.

Tax-free mutual funds

Your money is pooled with the money of thousands of investors and is invested in 30 to 100 municipal bonds. In addition to tax-free income, you also benefit from diversification and professional money management.

Another way to keep higher taxes at bay is with tax-deferred investments. These allow you to accumulate money without paying current taxes until you withdraw the funds, for instance, when you've retired, at which time you may be in a lower tax bracket. There are a number of products that offer the benefits of tax deferral.

Individual retirement accounts

Despite media hype to the contrary, 80 percent of Americans still qualify for partially or fully deductible IRA contributions. And anyone under age 70 1/2 with earned income can still contribute to an IRA. Whether or not the contributions are deductible is determined by your adjusted gross income and whether you and your spouse are covered by a company-sponsored retirement plan.

Single-premium life insurance

This investment offers the protection of life insurance with the advantages of tax-deferral. And a special death-benefit provision allows the money in the investment to pass quickly to beneficiaries, tax free.

Annuities

These are life-insurance contracts that allow money to compound until you retire. Annuities have no set maturities, but they usually must be held one to 10 years to avoid early surrender charges. Fixed annuities guarantee a specific rate of return and are insured by insurance companies. The rate of return on variable annuities, on the other hand, is dependent upon the market and, therefore, is subject to fluctuation.

Each of these investments has unique characteristics designed to meet different needs and goals, so you should examine your own situation to determine the most suitable course of action. If you're interested in beating the new budget plan, call Edward D. Jones & Co. today. ■

Municipal Bonds - One of the last totally tax-free investments

We can't deny it, higher taxes are in our future. After much debate, Congress passed a deficit reduction bill designed to trim billions off the nation's debt using a combination of spending cuts and tax increases. To individual investors, this new budget means two things:

1. The new taxes and spending cuts will affect almost everyone.
2. Tax-free municipal bonds are more important than ever!

What's more, many experts believe that the recent round of tax increases is only the tip of the iceberg and that more increases are on the way. If this is the case, the attraction of municipal bonds will become even stronger. Why? Because municipal bonds are federally and, in some cases, state and local tax free as well.

What are municipal bonds?

Next time you're out driving, take a look around you. Notice the bridge you drive across, the maintenance work being done on the highway or the addition being built at the airport. State and local governments raise the funds to pay for projects like these by issuing bonds. Investors who buy the bonds are loaning the government money to pay for these projects. In turn, the issuer of the bonds promises to pay back the principal at maturity and a specified rate of interest throughout the life of the bond. The beauty of these bonds is that the interest you earn is yours alone. None of it goes to Uncle Sam in the form of taxes.

Municipal bonds for a high, long-term yield

In addition to their tax-free status, municipal bonds also offer an attractive return. Their interest rate is lower than the rate on most taxable investments, however, they usually offer a much better return after taxes. In fact, the interest rate on a taxable investment must be much higher than a tax-free investment in order to achieve the same return. The following chart* shows the taxable interest rates needed to equal tax-free yields at different tax brackets.

Tax Bracket	15%	28%	33%
4.00	4.70	5.55	5.97
4.50	5.29	6.25	6.71
5.00	5.88	6.94	7.46
5.50	6.47	7.63	8.20
6.00	7.05	8.33	8.95
6.50	7.64	9.02	9.70
6.75	7.94	9.38	10.07
7.00	8.23	9.72	10.45
7.25	8.53	10.07	10.82
7.50	8.82	10.42	11.19
7.75	9.12	10.76	11.57
8.00	9.41	11.11	11.94
8.25	9.71	11.46	12.31
8.50	10.00	11.80	12.68
8.75	10.29	12.15	13.06
9.00	10.58	12.50	13.43

To use this table: Find the appropriate tax-free return and determine which tax bracket you are in. The numbers in the column under your tax bracket give you the approximate taxable yield equivalent. For example: for an investor in the 28 percent bracket, a taxable investment would have to yield 10.07 percent to provide the same after-tax return as a municipal bond paying 7.25 percent.

The general rule of thumb is that the higher your tax bracket, the more municipal bonds can help.

Municipal bonds for a safe return

Although no investment carries "zero" risk, municipal bonds offer a high degree of safety. And in today's uncertain economic environment, that means a lot. Different types of municipal bonds carry varying degrees of risk, which is why it's important to be familiar with the different types of bonds available. One of the best ways to reduce risk, is to buy a bond that is backed by private insurance. This insurance provides an extra measure of safety for investors because it guarantees the timely payment of the bond's principal and interest. Many consider this insurance a "safety net" for their investment.

Take advantage of tax-frees today

With higher taxes on the way, it's to your advantage to find out more about tax-free municipal bonds. Call Edward D. Jones & Co. for details on the types of municipal bonds available and how they can help make your next tax season a little less "taxing."

Tax-Free Unit Investment Trusts

Insured, high-yield, tax-free income you can count on.

Today, investing for security means getting a higher return on your investment than in the past. You can get both high return and low risk in a single investment: Tax-Free Unit Investment Trusts.

The tax-free advantage

The income from most investments is taxable, which means you lose a portion of what you earn to taxes. But the income you earn with Tax-Free Unit Investment Trusts is totally exempt from federal income taxes. So, although you may still pay some state or local taxes, this investment allows you to keep more of what you earn.

An extra measure of safety

Many Tax-Free Unit Investment Trusts are also insured as to the timely payment of principal and interest and are AAA-rated: your assurance of a quality investment. The bonds in the trust are also diversified to reduce risk, and selected by professionals who maintain a constant watch on the bonds in the trust. The result is unsurpassed protection of your investment.

And a lot more

With Tax-Free Unit Investment Trusts, you can choose to receive your interest checks monthly, quarterly or semiannually.

On any business day, you can easily redeem all or some of your units at their current market value. You need to know, however, that their value in the marketplace will vary, primarily as a function of prevailing interest rates.

These units are offered for approximately $1,000 each. If earning regular tax-free income you can count on with Tax-Free Unit Investment Trusts fits your investment needs, call Edward D. Jones & Co. for a free prospectus.

The prospectus more completely explains the insurance and AAA-rating of the trust, how the two relate and the extent of the protection this provides for you. Additionally, it explains all charges and expenses related to buying and owning the trust. Read this information over carefully as you would with any investment. Don't send any money before you have talked to your representative and are comfortable that this investment fits your needs.

At Edward D. Jones & Co., we know how hard you've worked for your money, and we'll do everything we can to help you develop a conservative investment strategy that fits your needs. ■

The Real Benefit Of An IRA: Tax-Deferred Growth

The Tax Reform Act of 1986 made some unpopular changes in the rules governing IRA contributions. One thing it didn't change, however, is the long-term advantage of tax-deferred earnings.

Investment flexibility is an often-overlooked benefit to your IRA. Within the IRA, you're free to exchange assets among investments or among mutual funds with various investment objectives. None of these exchanges are taxed. Outside your IRA, each exchange constitutes a sale and repurchase, and any gain must be reported and taxed that year.

Outside an IRA, you also pay taxes each year on any income and gains your investments earn whether you take or reinvest them. Inside your IRA, all earnings and income are allowed to grow and compound tax deferred. No taxes are due until you begin withdrawal. Then, you pay taxes only on the amount you withdraw. If you're in a lower tax bracket at retirement, that could mean additional tax savings.

Eventually, you will owe taxes on your IRA. But the benefits you've gained by deferring those taxes are clearly demonstrated in the investment results on the chart below. The comparison is based on a hypothetical taxpayer in the 28 percent bracket who deposits $2,000 each year into an IRA earning a reasonable 9 percent total return. In 30 years, by deferring taxes, that annual IRA deposit has compounded into a retirement fund worth $297,150. The same investment, with taxes paid each year when due, would be worth only $183,290. That's a difference of $113,860.

If you choose to withdraw the entire $297,150 in one lump sum at retirement, federal income taxes would amount to $83,202 (assuming all contributions were tax-deductible). Still, your after-tax nest egg would be $213,948, or $30,658 more than you would have if you paid taxes each year and left the rest to compound.

Most people, however, do not take their IRA money out in one lump sum. Instead, they remove money only as needed throughout their lifetime. This way, your withdrawals are taxable as you take them; the balance of your IRA continues to grow and compound tax deferred.

There is no question that Congress eliminated an immediate tax benefit to thousands of responsible wage earners by denying them an IRA deduction. That does not mean, however, that the benefit of long-term deferral is gone. Even if your $2,000 annual IRA contributions are no longer tax-deductible, consider the future benefits of tax-deferred growth. The numbers say you'll be glad you did. ■

IRA VS. TAXABLE RETURNS

Assumes 9% annual rate of return and $2,000 annual contribution for an investor in the 28% federal tax bracket.

The Tax Man Cometh ... And he taketh away

Taxes - they've always defied the rule that what goes up must eventually come down. And with Congress' October budget agreement, it's happened again. Specifically, the agreement is aimed at trimming $492 billion from the federal deficit over the next five years. This savings, part of the largest-ever deficit-reduction package, will be achieved through stringent spending cuts and tax increases that few Americans will escape.

On the spending side, federal funding for a number of programs will be slashed. The targets of these cuts include Medicare providers and beneficiaries, farmers, federal workers, Medicaid, federal housing and student loan programs, veterans and the military.

For example, the annual Medicare deductible will rise from $75 to $100 in 1991, and Medicare reimbursement payments to doctors and hospitals will be reduced. In all, Congress estimates that spending reductions such as these are scheduled to save more than $265 billion over the next five years.

On the taxation side, Congress intends to offset the deficit by as much as $160 billion through increased income taxes and excise taxes.

The income-tax increases primarily affect higher-income taxpayers. Their top tax rate will be raised to 31 percent from the current 28 percent, and itemized deductions and exemptions will be reduced for adjusted gross incomes above $100,000.

Overall, taxpayers with annual incomes of $200,000 or more will experience a tax increase of about 6.3 percent. Most other income categories will see their taxes raised only about 2 percent. Taxpayers with less than $20,000 in income will actually receive an income-tax cut.

Still, wealthy taxpayers aren't the only ones who will be paying more to Uncle Sam. Consumers will feel the pinch, too. We'll all be paying more at the gas pump. And those of us who purchase cigarettes, alcohol, airline tickets, and luxury items, such as planes, boats, luxury autos, furs and jewelry, will also have higher bills at the cash register.

Despite these attacks on the nation's pocketbooks, the new budget is not all take, take, take. Some important tax breaks were included to assist such groups as low-income families, small businesses, children and the elderly. For example, the government earmarked substantial funds, $732 million this year alone, for grants to states to help pay for child care.

Will any of these changes affect you? It's nearly certain that you'll feel the impact of the new budget one way or another. If you anticipate substantial changes in your tax liability or if you need additional information, a visit to a qualified CPA or tax professional would be in order. ■

Although President Bush signed the new tax bill in 1990, the tax return you file in April 1991, for your 1990 taxes, will not be affected. And, unless you fall into certain designated categories, your income taxes may not be affected at all. See your tax professional for a complete explanation.

Personal Line Of Credit

At Edward D. Jones & Co., you have a Personal Line of Credit based on the value of your investments. The greater the value of your investments, the greater your Line of Credit. You can borrow as much or as little as you like, without time-consuming application forms, special qualifications or the hassle of credit checks. You can use the Personal Line of Credit anyway you like, whether it's for home improvements, taxes, college tuition, small business financing or any other personal needs. Because you have a Personal Line of Credit, you don't have to sacrifice long-term investment objectives for short-term needs. Best of all, the Personal Line of Credit offers a competitive interest rate. ■

Annuities: Long-Term Investments That Are Worth Waiting For

A comfortable retirement is your reward for a lifetime of hard work and careful planning. At Edward D. Jones & Co., we believe that annuities offer some of the best ways to build for your retirement -- both in terms of safety and strong earnings.

The tax-deferred advantage

What makes these investments so attractive? Annuities offer tremendous tax advantages to long-term investors. They allow you to avoid paying any taxes on your earnings until you begin withdrawing them at retirement, when you can probably take advantage of a reduced tax rate. That means every dollar you earn can continue earning interest and compound tax-deferred. At first glance, other investments like CDs may appear to pay better returns than annuities, because interest rates are higher.* But CDs don't let you defer taxes on your earnings, so they provide far less actual income than annuities. Better yet, many annuities now offer rates that are comparable to, or even better than those of CDs.

Choosing the right annuities

In addition to tax-deferred growth and competitive returns, annuities also offer a high degree of flexibility. For example, you can choose between fixed and variable annuities. Fixed annuities are purchased with a lump sum and all money invested earns interest until it is paid out. Best of all, your original investment (principal) and your interest rate are guaranteed by the issuing insurance company, so you know your money will keep earning income over the life of the annuity.** Once you begin receiving your guaranteed income, the payments continue for the rest of your life, or for the period of years you select.

Because they offer a guarantee of principal and interest, many investors choose fixed annuities for lump sum distributions received at retirement, or for other large sums accumulated over the years.

Variable annuities for the opportunity to earn even more

Unlike fixed annuities, variable annuities do not offer minimum guaranteed interest. Instead, their tax-deferred return is based on the market performance of the annuity. Your principal is invested in mutual funds, where professional management provides an extra degree of safety.

Because your rate of return is not fixed, variable annuities offer the potential to earn a greater return over time. And while your principal is not guaranteed, variable annuities do provide a guaranteed death benefit equal to the amount of principal paid in.

If you're not ready to invest a large sum, variable annuities offer flexible schedules, so you can invest in them monthly, for example, if you prefer.

Ask your Investment Representative

How do you find the annuities best suited to your financial goals? Whether you're looking for tax-deferred income or an investment strategy to make your retirement dreams a reality, call Edward D. Jones & Co. We can help you develop a conservative investment strategy that fits your needs for safety and growth. ■

Tax-Filing Phobia: Making sense of your forms

How many forms does it take to file a tax return? For many people, it takes just two — a 1040 form and a W-2. Others aren't so lucky.

There are currently 392 tax forms currently being used. Since the Tax Reform Act of 1986, legislation heralded as the key to tax simplification, 88 forms have been added to the list!

Fortunately, most individuals don't have to complete all 392 forms. But if you're one of those who files more than a 1040 and a W-2, the table below can help you make sense of all the paperwork. It includes important information on some of the most common tax statements filed with the Internal Revenue Service.

Federal law requires that these statements be mailed by the listed mandatory issue date. If you don't receive yours within a week of that date, contact the issuer immediately.

Tax Statement	Issuer	Information Provided	Mandatory Issue Date
W-2	Employer	Wages earned	January 31
1099-INT	Investment Company	Interest earned	January 31
1099-DIV	Investment Company	Dividends earned	January 31
1099-B	Investment Company	Returned proceeds and principal	January 31
1099-OID	Investment Company	Undistributed, accrued interest earned, as in zero-coupon bonds	January 31
1099-R	Trustee	Total distributions from IRAs, SEP/IRAs and qualified business plans	January 31
W-2P	Trustee	Distributions from IRAs, SEP/IRAs and qualified business plans	January 21
K-1	Partnership	Income and tax deductions for partnerships, S corporations and estates	Depends on fiscal year

After gathering all this information, it must be filed with the IRS on the appropriate forms. These forms, their uses, and their filing deadlines can be more confusing than gathering the tax statements themselves.

Following is a list of the most commonly used IRS forms. If you need any of these but didn't receive them from the IRS, you can obtain copies from your local post office, library, IRS office or tax preparer's office.

Tax Form	Purpose	Tax Statement Used	To Be Filed With:
1040	Used to file return	W-2, WP-2	Appropriate 1040 (A or EZ)
Schedule A	Used to itemize deductions, such as medical and dental expenses, interest and taxes paid, and charitable donations		1040 Form
Schedule B	Reports interest and dividends	1099-INT 1099-DIV 1099-OID
Schedule D	Reports capital gains and losses	1099-B	1040 Form
Schedule E	Reports supplemental income from rent, partnerships, estates, trusts, etc.	K-1	1040 Form
8606	Reports non-deductible contributions and non-taxable distributions from IRAs		1040 Form

Full Service Account We can help you manage your money better

Introducing complete financial flexibility. Whether you want money market dividends, unlimited free checking, low minimum investments, or withdrawals using any of several convenient methods now available, you're probably looking for an easier way to manage your finances. Well, look no further than the Edward D. Jones & Co. Full Service Account (FSA). The program that gives you all the benefits of a money market, and a brokerage account, all in one simple account.

Cash management accounts usually require $10,000 to $20,000 to open an account. But with our Full Service Account, all you need is $1,000, and you only need to maintain a $500 balance.

The FSA is far more convenient than you ever dreamed. First, we keep you informed. You receive a monthly statement that lists all your investments, checks, and VISA purchases for that month. Plus, you receive a year-end statement and the tax-reporting information you'll need to complete your taxes.

We also handle virtually all the paperwork involved with investment accounts. For example, we'll hold your registered bonds and stock certificates. That way, you don't have to worry about getting a safety deposit box or forgetting to mail interest and dividend checks for investment. And when you leave your securities with us, they're protected by the SIPC for up to $500,000. And what about getting your money out of your FSA? It's a breeze. Just use your Visa debit card, write a check or call Edward D. Jones & Co.

You'll also like our Sweeper service. It does just what the name implies. It automatically sweeps dividends and interest into your money market account, to earn high money market yields, full time. And when you buy securities, the sweeper takes care of that too. It automatically pays for any security purchases out of your money market account.

Best of all, it's simple to open. Just contact Edward D. Jones & Co. for more complete information. You'll receive a free current prospectus that outlines all the necessary information, along with advisory or distribution charges and other expenses. Read this prospectus carefully before putting your money to work in the Full Service Account.

At Edward D. Jones & Co., we know how hard you've worked for your money, and we'll do everything we can to help you develop a conservative investment strategy that fits your criteria for safety and growth. ■
