HOME TOWN TALK

By Beddy

LIKE SEWELL, evangel of good cheer and good will for Southern Air Transport, is in our midst today. Ike, ex-star guard of the Longhorn eleven at the University of Texas, member of one of Texas' oldest families, has had himself quite a career already.

Besides his gridiron exploits, he has become quite some shakes as a writer. Hopped across the Atlantic (by ship not airplane) to the last Olympics, and made some bread and butter by writing to the folks back home via the papers on the things he witnessed abroad.

First met Ike when he, with Jerry Marshall, now operations manager of S.A.T., Homer Rader, now an S.A.T. pilot, and Webb Ruff of Austin, were barnstorming. And, boy, those lads raked in the shekels. They've all continued to make good.

WE are informed, and are glad to relay the information to our readers, that an airplane which went on a "stunting" expedition around and near the city Monday afternoon was not piloted by John Blaine, nor was Mrs. Byrne a passenger. They were injured late that day when a biplane, banking 150 feet off the ground, slipped and crashed.

Big Spring has had awfully hard luck when it comes to airplane crashes. Two of our good citizens have been killed and this crash the other day was regrettable. But, unavoidable. Come to think of it, did you ever stop to think how little attention you pay to an automobile crash, even when someone is badly hurt or killed? Awfully many airplanes there are in operation in this country, and the number of passengers they transport you'll find that the average of accidents and injuries suffered by flying folks is as low or lower than the average of injuries suffered by passengers in automobiles; that means that the difference in the number of automobile and airplane accidents is also taken into consideration.

THE city attorney, Mr. Coffee, in whom we have much confidence, called this morning to say that the Herald's story of the trial of Wednesday when a local business man was found not guilty of violating the traffic signal provision of a city ordinance, was incorrect. Our conversation led to the conclusion that the story in itself was correct. Mr. Coffee contended it left the wrong impression. The impression we got from it, when turned in by a reporter, was that a man was given a ticket for running a light and, electing to fight the case, won. The statement that the ordinance was void was not contained in the news story.

However, we are with pleasure carrying a statement today to the effect that the ordinance is in force. It is just as much against the law to violate it now as it ever was.

STATE AID MEETS BILL FOR COUNTY

Facts Show Cost To Local Taxpayers Low

To abolish the offices of County Agent, County Home Demonstration Agent, and County Health Nurse, as advocated by a group of Howard county citizens, in what is generally accepted as a counter movement to the plea for a county library, would mean a loss to this county of more than $4,000 in "outside money."

Ald Extended This is based on the state and federal aid given the three offices. To abolish the offices would, necessarily, put a stop to the funds with which the county officials receive from the state and federal appropriation for the work.

J. V. Bush, county agent, receives $133 a month from the state and federal funds. In other words, his salary of $150 a month paid by the county is almost matched dollar for dollar by the state and federal governments.

The same principle of divided expenses applies to the salaries of Mrs. M. R. Showalter, county health nurse, and Mrs. Louelle B. Allgood, county home demonstration agent. The combined salaries for the three officials, as far as the county expense is concerned, amount to $288.50 a month. The county pays $180 a month on Bush's salary, $91.50 on Mrs. Showalter's, and $125 on Mrs. Allgood's.

The money to pay the three county officials is taken from the general fund. The combined salaries paid monthly by the state and federal funds amount to $375 a month, slightly lower than that paid by the county. To abolish the three offices, as is advocated by a group circulating petitions asking the county commissioners to take action in this direction, would mean that $375 a month, which is now coming into the county on an outside payroll basis, would cease to be in force. According to the records, at the present time there are 16 counties in Texas wanting county agents. On account of the lack of state funds, these counties are forced to wait until one county abolishes the system in order that the funds may be transferred from one locality to another.

Based on a $15,000,000 valuation, at a tax rate of 25 cents on the $100 valuation, as the general fund tax is, the combined salaries of the three county officials cost 4 1/16 cents a year on the $100 valuation. Although the petitions circulating over the county are generally accepted as a protest against the efforts of other citizens to obtain a county library, the signers not only ask the county commissioners to overrule the request, but to abolish the three offices which are already created.

GERARD NAMES 59 MEN HE HOLDS RULE AMERICA

NEW YORK, Aug. 21 (AP)—In the opinion of James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany, 59 men "rule the United States."

Mr. Gerard compiled a list of these men for today's New York Times, which asked him to amplify a sentence in a pamphlet he wrote endorsing the crusade of Vincent Rothermere and Lord Beaverbrook for British empire free trade and high protection. In that pamphlet he wrote: "Give the 40 men who rule the United States ten years for the development of this industrial empire (the British empire) and no country on earth could approach it in per capita wealth."

Explaining why he, as an American, should write on the subject, Mr. Gerard wrote: "I offer as my excuse the interest that America, in common with all the world, has in the preservation of British prosperity."

Leaders Named The list includes leaders in American finance, industry, the amuse-

City Attorney Says Ordinance Is Still in Force

The city ordinance prescribing a penalty for failing to obey traffic signals is in force and is not void, City Attorney Thomas Coffee said Thursday.

Mr. Coffee said he feared many citizens would misunderstand the reason why a citizen who pleaded not guilty when given a ticket for running a red light was found not guilty Wednesday. The trial, before a jury, ended with the case being submitted to the jury on the facts and not on the question of whether the ordinance was in force. Mrs. Malinda Chesnut, city secretary when the ordinance was passed, testified that it had been published as required by law.

M-System Will Open Renovated Store Saturday

After being closed all week for renovations and rearrangements, the M. System Grocery, 205 Main Street, will reopen for business Saturday morning, one of the cleanest and most modern in Big Spring. Painters have been busy all week giving the store a "new summer look." The interior, including counters, shelves, display cases, has been painted white, with a neat trimming of black, affording an impression of cleanliness throughout.

The neat department has been removed from the front of the store to the rear. New equipment added to the store is a modern spray rack for fruit and vegetables. The spray rack is found in all of the leading stores, and is considered valuable both to the seller and purchaser for the manner in which it keeps the products cool, crisp and fresh.

According to Mr. J. I. Duckworth, proprietor of the grocery store, the entire stock has been thoroughly gone over, and when the doors are thrown open Saturday morning the place will have on hand the newest in staple groceries and fresh fruits, meats and vegetables. Sandwiches, punch and cake will be served at all hours Saturday to the many people expected to attend the reopening of the store.

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Aug. 21 (AP)—A reduction of one-fourth cent a gallon in the wholesale price of gasoline was posted today by the Pure Oil Company Refinery here. No change was made in the price of crude oil.

Mrs. Byrne Taken Home; Blain Better

Mrs. Mary Byrne, injured Monday evening when the plane in which she was riding with John Blaine, pilot, crashed near the local airport, was removed to her home today.

She had been in the Big Spring Hospital since the accident. She received numerous body bruises and abrasions and a fractured shoulder in the accident.

Blaine was reported improving today.

FLY, IN WOMEN'S AIR DERBY

The final gun in the gubernatorial campaign for Howard county will be fired Friday evening at 8 o'clock on the courthouse lawn when a county-wide Sterling rally will be held jointly by the county Women's Sterling-For-Governor club and the County Sterling club. Judge R. E. Taylor of Wichita Falls, one of the most able political speakers of the state, has been procured by the local organization as the principal speaker.

A public address system will be installed and other arrangements to accommodate one of the year's largest political gatherings made. Community meetings were being held in numerous localities in this section of the state as the campaign neared its end. Both Sterling and Ferguson forces visited Coahoma Wednesday, Judge Garland Woodward making the principal speech there for Sterling and Judges C. P. Rogers and J. B. Littler for Ferguson. The Sterling meeting was at 3 p. m. and that for Mrs. Ferguson at 5:30 p. m.

Locomotive Runs 6,352 Miles; Fire Not Extinguished

ST. LOUIS, August 21 (AP)—Engine No. 4213, newest of the Frisco Railroad's giant locomotives, today had completed 6,352 miles of an endurance run which began August 1 at Kansas City. During the twenty ensuing days the engine has traveled steadily between Kansas City and Memphis, hauling trains, and not once has the fire under the boiler been allowed to go out.

An effort will be made to best last year's endurance record of 7,350 miles travelled by Frisco engine 4,113 without knocking the fires.

A. K. Merrick Brings In First '30 Bale

The first bale of the 1930 cotton crop was brought to the Farmers' Gin Company's plant here at 2:30 p. m. today by A. K. Merrick, whose place is a few miles north of town. The bale was being ginned at press time and its weight could not be ascertained.

Jean La Rene (left), Chicago, demonstration pilot for an aircraft corporation, and Mrs. Mildred Morgan, Beverly Hills, Cal., are entries in the women's national air derby which started in Long Beach, Cal., and will end in Chicago.

BORDEN NOT TO HOLD ELECTION

DALLAS, Aug. 21 (AP)—Only two Texas counties will not hold a run-off primary next Saturday as against 17 which failed to hold run-off primaries in 1928, according to reports reaching Prof. A. F. Henning, director of the Texas Election Bureau, here today.

Borden and Kendall counties, which polled 349 and 113 votes, respectively, in the July primary are the two which will not hold a run-off. In Borden county Sterling got 147 votes and Mrs. Ferguson 127 in the July primary, and in Kendall Mrs. Ferguson got 28 votes and Sterling 37.

That no more than two of Texas' 253 organized counties would fail to hold a run-off primary was accepted by Prof. Henning as indicative of the deep interest Texans are taking in the contest for the democratic gubernatorial nomination.

Sheppard For Ross Sterling

SAN ANGELO, Tex., Aug. 21 (AP)—Stating he believes Ross Sterling will give Texas one of the most constructive and progressive administrations the state has ever had, Morris Sheppard, United States Senator from Texas, wired C. B. Metcalfe of San Angelo today an endorsement of the Houston candidate.

sterling "came from the ranks of those who toil and he has a genuine sympathy for oppressed humanity everywhere," the telegram stated. "His candidacy involves the vital issue of a responsible, representative government on Texas. To elect one person to an office when it is well known in reality another would control the office would be to overthrow representative democratic government and set up an irresponsible dictatorship in its place."

"Without representative government the people would be deprived of the right and function of self government, the most valuable right and function they possess."

LATE SPORT

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 21 (AP)—Wilmer Allison, Davis Cup doubles player, from Texas, today led the advance into the semi-final round of the Newport Casino invitation tennis tournament by coming from behind to defeat Frank X. Shields of South Orange, N. J., 6-8, 6-2, 6-4, 6-4.

George M. Lott, of Chicago, Davis Cup singles player, had a gruelling five set battle with Sydney Wood before he gained the second last round by topping the steady New Yorker 6-7, 5-4, 4-6, 4-6, 4-6. Wood was seized with his habitual leg cramp at the start of the final set and this had much to do with his defeat.

STRUCTURE IS LOCATED NEAR DEPOT

$17,000 Project Is Fourth Railway Expansion

Announcement of construction of a new building here to house the Railway Express Agency was made today by G. Y. Reed, Fort Worth official of the organization.

Actual work on the latest Big Spring project has already started. A crew of workmen was busy Thursday clearing the site, just west of the Texas and Pacific Railway station, of trees.

The new building will be a one-story brick structure and will correspond with the passenger station in color and architecture. It will COTTONWOODS FALL Cottonwood trees, which, for so many years have provided shade to Texas and Pacific Railway passengers at the local station, were feeling the bite of the axe today—victims of progress.

The trees along the south side of the main line, just west of the baggage room, were being removed to make way for the new $17,000 structure of the Railway Express Agency. The structure is located 30 feet west of the baggage room.

According to Reed it will cost $17,000. The contract for the work has been let to F. A. Metz of Dallas. Material is arriving in a carload having already been reported.

The new building will be completed in 90 days, at the latest, and it is hoped to have it ready in 60 working days.

The structure will be modern in every respect, and the newest equipment for handling railway express will be installed. A modern office will be a part of the building.

To Raise Building According to Reed as soon as the new structure is ready for occupancy, the old frame building, located at the corner of Main and First Streets, will be dismantled.

Although the Railway Express Agency is not connected directly with the Texas and Pacific Railway, the new building marks the fourth expansion project having a direct bearing on the company's operations here the past year.

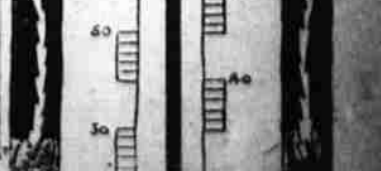

The other buildings include the (Continued on Page Eight)

STERLING AND FERGUSON, MILLER AND SMALL TALK

(By The Associated Press) Drawing new support for their respective campaigns from strong political leaders, Ross S. Sterling and James E. Ferguson continued Thursday to hammer away in eleventh-hour efforts to win the democratic gubernatorial nomination in Saturday's run-off primary, Ferguson speaking for the candidacy of his wife, Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson.

Senator Clint C. Small of Wellington, third ranking candidate in the July primary who carried West Texas almost solidly, was arrayed with the Sterling ranks, making his first speech last night at Waco. Lieut. Governor Barry Miller, also an eliminated candidate for the governorship in the first primary, spoke last night at La Grange for Mrs. Ferguson's candidacy.

Ferguson, who returned to Central Texas last night for an address at Terrell, turned northward again today and was due to speak tonight at Fort Worth.

At Cameron Sterling spoke last night at Cam-

TWO FRAYS They Get "Jump" FOR FROGS

BY GAYLE TALBOT JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, Aug. 21 (AP)—Anxious, as are all mentors, to get an accurate line on his prospects as quickly as possible, Coach Francis Schmidt of the champion Horned Frogs has cooked up an idea that might prove popular in the Southwest conference.

On September 19, just nine days after practice begins, the Frogs will open against the North Texas Teachers of Coach Jack Sisco, at Denton. On the following day they will be back in Fort Worth for a romp with the East Texas Teachers from Commerce. In other words, the champs will get what amounts to a full week's jump on their rivals, playing two regulation practice games while the others are getting only one.

It looks like a smart move, especially for a team situated as are the Christians. Coach Schmidt lost his brilliant quarterback, Howard Grubbs; both tackles, both guards and an end from his 1929 machine. He has a great lot of material with which to plug those holes, but the sooner he finds out exactly what he has, the better. Two separate and distinct squads will participate in the two games.

Pinkey Higgins, former University of Texas athlete, is getting a real break.

Although the Longhorn infielder did not join the Philadelphia Athletics until some three months ago, it already has been announced he will come in for a full cut of world series gold in the event the Mackmen repeat, which they seem almost certain to do.

A veteran team has given Higgins very little opportunity to break into the lineup, but Connie Mack is said to be very sweet on the collection.

Higgins, it seems, was not at all dumb when he decided not to play football in the Longhorn backfield last fall on the ground it might impair his diamond career.

Another chapter in the old story, "What Becomes of the Stars of Yesterday?"

Jack Calvo, the brilliant but eccentric Cuban outfielder of the old champion Fort Worth Cats, is a captain of harbor police in Havana.

The colorful Cuban had one of the greatest throwing arms ever seen in the Texas League. He could stand against the centerfield fence and peg a ball over the grand stand in most parks of the league. But the wing went back on him in 1925.

Providing the Wichita Falls Spudders represent the Texas League in the Dixie Series next month, as they probably will, the pitching staff of some Southern Association club will be in for plenty of grief.

Last averages show that the first half champions can put seven regulars on the field completely capable of hitting over .310 and that their entire roster, including pitchers, has been slugging the ball at a .314 average for four grueling months.

Consider the following array of sluggers:

Burns .333, Koss .347, Crouch .344, Fitzgerald .340, Stortl .327, Bettencourt .325, Euller .318. All seven are regulars, in there every day. With Ray (oldswell) in the box, hitting .500, the Spuds can put eight men on the field with a combined batting average of .332.

What makes the Spuds more formidable as Dixie Series contenders is the fact that most of them are distance hitters. In Bettencourt, with his 40 home runs, they have one of the mightiest swingers in minor league ball, and Stortl, Kloss and Burns all can knock a pill out of sight.

Along with a flock of other Texas league swarming minks that already have gone west this season, the record of 53 doubles set by Ike Boone the year he tore down fences for San Antonio appears certain to fall.

Fig "OS" Eckhardt of Beaumont had cracked 47 two-baggers through the games of August 13 and had three weeks left in which to overhaul Boone's mark.

Where Boone, a cumbersome fellow, collected most of his through the sheer power of his bat, Eckhardt's speed has enabled him to stretch many apparent singles into an extra base.

STATE MAY BE SEED FOR RETURN OF TAXES

HARTFORD, Conn. (INS)—The state of Connecticut now stands a chance of being defendant, through a series of suits to prevent succession taxes imposed on estates outside the borders of Connecticut. The supreme court of the state has ruled that a statute imposing such a tax is unconstitutional. The estate of Allen McManry, late 245 Greenwich, brought the suit which led to the decision.

Albert Jordan and Tom Jordan, Jr. returned Tuesday from a vacation of several weeks spent in Long Beach, Los Angeles and other California points.

VANDALA, O., Aug. 21 (AP)—Gus Payne of Cleveland has walked off with a lion's share of the honors in the Grand American Handicap trap shoot tournament for the second successive day.

Shooting last and facing the necessity of a high score, he broke 199 out of a possible 200 targets to clinch the team championship of states for the Ohio No. 2 squad.

Payne's work brought the Ohio team's total to 977 targets out of a possible 1,000, four better than the Texas No 1 squad.

E. F. Woodward of Houston, Texas, as state champion, won the shoot for state champions by breaking 25 straight targets in a shoot-off with H. F. Roberts of East Fultonham.

the Ohio titleholder, after they had tied at 197.

GIVES CREDIT TO RADIO FOR SAVING LIFE

MARE ISLAND, Cal. (INS)—J. J. Steiner, radio operator on the Farallon Islands, 25 miles west of the Golden Gate, gave credit to radio and two warrant officers of the Navy for saving his life.

Stricken with acute appendicitis, Steiner wirelessly a distress call to the headquarters of the Twelfth Naval District at San Francisco.

The navy tug "Dauntless," Boatswain J. C. Legge and Chief Mechanic John Kershaw, ordered to the rescue, made a trip of more than 100 miles to take Steiner off the islands, and bring him to the Mare Island Hospital.

An immediate operation was performed by Navy surgeons. In special orders today, Rear Admiral G. W. Laws, commandant of the Navy Yard, extended congratulations to Legge and Kershaw for their efforts in getting Steiner safely to the hospital.

ATHLETICS NEARING CINCH LINE

What's this? Pencil on the marble of the linotype is endeavoring to entice us on the golf course for a tour around the country club. Being rather a novice at the game, we are dazedly afraid we couldn't prove beneficial competition for the black-haired boy. However, should he make the hole bet interesting enough and the carry over bonus attractive, we might favor him with our presence and take his coin like Grant is alleged to have grabbed Richmond.

We heard quite a prominent man declare yesterday that "It's a down right shame a town as large as this couldn't chip in $300 for the Steers Training Camp." Said prominent man is quite correct. Incidentally he gave $2 to the fund when $1 was supposed to be the limit. Our messenger returned it to him, or rather tried to, and he told him to take it and put it in the fund for the little outing Friday night. Which the messenger did and thanked him mightily.

Cullen Cain, basing his selection on the season's play, selects the following all-star National League team, according to Alan Gould, Associated Press sports editor:

- Pitchers: Collings, Phillies; Malone, Cubs; Walker, Giants; Clark, Robins; Catchers, Lopez, Robins; Hogan, Giants.
- First Base—Bill Terry, Giants.
- Second Base—Frank Frisch, Cardinals.
- Third Base—Freddie Lindstrom, Giants.
- Shortstop—Charley Gelbert, Cardinals.
- Left Field—Adam Comorosky, Pirates.
- Center Field—Hack Wilson, Cubs.
- Right Field—Chuck Klein, Phillies.
- Cuyler, Critz, Jackson, Lucas, Kremer, Seibold, Vance, Wamer, Ott, Herman, Whitney, Traynor, O'Farrell and Wright were favored with honorable mention.

It looks like the Oilbelt grabs the spotlight in high school football again this year. The ballyhoo artists have launched their pre-season ballyhoo. Ranger, and Cisco. The City of Flowing Gold, and the Big Dam. Eck Curtis and Weldon Chapman, not to mention Tricky Ward, the former's aide, and Slim Hill, the latter's. One thing, and one thing only, is certain. And that is if those two aggregations do come through both Ranger and Cisco will have new stadiums next year. Gate receipts down in that section would scare Rickard if he should happen to pop back into this life and view the oilbelt sector from the top of a derrick. Back in 1926 when Ranger first jumped into prominence under the guiding hand of Blair Cherry, money began to pour into the coffers of the murrone vault. In our estimation Ranger took in more money that year than any similar team had before that time. Yet the Bulldog account stood $3,000 in the hole after the stadium had been built.

To be honest, which is one of the family's foremost customs, it is hard to conceive how some of the teams do get along. Take Eastland, for instance. In 1927 Eastland started a new stadium. We haven't seen it this year but we presume it is still in the preliminary stage. A side of a mountain was removed and the gridiron placed on hard—very hard—clay. In 1929 it was still that way. No money. Mineral Wells had the fortune to have one of the best fields in West Texas when it jumped into Class A circle the past year. They can thank Judge John C. Miller for that. Yet, it was tough going for the Mountaineers from a financial standpoint last year. It hasn't been many years since San Angelo teams played to more empty than full seats. We don't know how the crowds are now, but indications are that they have leaped somewhat. Breckenridge's improvised stadium wasn't ever overflowing until they put out a contender. Now it takes a crowbar, a pair of brass knuckles and a policeman, not to mention a ticket three weeks in advance, to slip in. Brownwood has about as many people at a game as would be attracted to a beer drinking contest in Juarez. Although residing here, we know very little about the crowds. We understand, however, that none of the banks are paying huge sums of interest on what was netted last year. There is no doubt about it. The team that wins the games gets the crowds, and the crowds cough up the dough. It looks like another dollar day for Ranger this year. And Cisco, Breckenridge and Abilene.

The trouble with Young Stribling today is that he has been going around for too many years humming "tie me to your apron strings again." Too much family is what promoters snort about when Stribling is mentioned. Sometimes to hear Pa talk about it, it was him that took the one-two jab, and the straight to the heater

YANKS AND SENATORS TRAIL

Only Old Man Fate Could Whip Aths Out of Title

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON JR., Associated Press Sports Writer

While the National League pennant race goes merrily on without getting very near to a decision, the Philadelphia fans are about ready to hear the news that the Athletics have clinched the American League title for another year.

It will require an amazing winning streak on the part of the Washington Senators or the New York Yankees combined with a wholly unexpected slump on the part of the A's to keep the world's champions from capturing another American league flag. After yesterday's 10 to 6 victory over Detroit, the Athletics had only 31 games left to play and a margin of 8 1/2 games over Washington. If Philadelphia slumps so far as to lose half of its remaining contests, winding up the season with 98 victories and 56 defeats, Washington must win 25 of its remaining 24 games to tie the Yankees, no when games behind, could lose only seven of 33 games.

The Senators continued their case yesterday by trouncing the St. Louis Browns, 14 to 4, scoring a ten run burst in the fifth inning which went a long way toward averting the indignities suffered in St. Louis. But Washington's 15 hit assault brought no gain while the Athletics were giving Bob Grove his usual backing. Grove did some ragged hurling as he won his eighth straight game and his 21st victory of the season, but he was presented with a seven run lead before the Tigers started to score. The other American League clubs had a day of scheduled idleness.

The leaders of the National League were joined in grief yesterday as all three succumbed to their rivals of lower rank in the standing. But Brooklyn was the only club which lost ground. The Robins moved into Cincinnati for a double header with the humble Reds, who had lost seven straight games and 20 out of 25 previous games. But much to their surprise, Cincinnati pitching proved better than Brooklyn's in two close duels, both being decided by 2 to 1 scores.

The last-place Phillies evidently were destined to win their twicethird game yesterday. The adage the old man lives by is that a sock on the foot is worth two in the eye.

Start galloping doves, the hordes are shining up the barrels. On Sept. 1, the Battle of the Marne. Custer's Last Stand, and Bull Run will be rolled into one pellet as far as the doves are concerned. At that time the trapezoiders can move into the broad open spaces and see if it is much harder to cop a dove on the wing than a clay pigeon. Not that the clay pigeons are easy by any means. Records go to show that we're the world's worst clay pigeon cracker. However a dove sitting on a telephone wire has always been our meat.

STREET SHOWS BIG SHOTS HOW TO STACK WITH CARDS

ST. LOUIS (AP)—"Gabby" Street, who was a manager in the bush leagues only two years ago, has made good as a boss in the "big show."

At least he has pleased Sam Breadon, president of the Cardinal baseball club—something five other skippers had failed to do in the last six seasons.

"Street's work has been highly satisfactory," said Breadon in announcing his selection with a raise in pay, as manager for another year.

In 1928, Street was managing the Knoxville, Tenn., team in the Sally League, a Class D loop. A year later he was hired as a coach by the Cardinals—with his main duty taking care of Grover Cleveland Alexander.

Billy Southworth, then Redbird manager, paid little attention to Street, but the rest of the team took him in as "one of the boys." Breadon, too, noticed his work.

When it came time to pick a manager for the 1930 Cardinal club, Street got his chance, and he has made the most of it. Despite numerous bad breaks, "Gabby" has kept his team in the running and at one time the club was leading the league.

Street proved himself a strict disciplinarian when he fined Flint Rhem $100 for talking back to him, and assessed Harold Hald $50 for breaking training rules. Before the season he also rebuked Frisch for taking it easy in training.

While "Gabby" cooperates with the Cardinal management, he is the man who is running the team. Street daily selects the outfielders and named game with the champion Chicago Cubs although it required three days of effort to give them a 10 to 8 decision. The game, which started in an eleven inning tie in the second half of Saturday's double header and failed to come to a decision in a 16 inning second clash Tuesday, finally was played off yesterday and Phillie homers were triumphant. Five four baggers played the important part in deciding the dispute although the Phillies gave away four runs in the first inning and were outbait, 17-13.

A single homer and a wild pitch by Fred Fitzsimmons were about enough for the St. Louis Cardinals as they downed the New York Giants, 5 to 4. Pinch batsman George Fisher made a four base clout for three runs while the wild heave by the Giant pitcher allowed the tying run to score. Out of the pennant race, Pittsburgh gained a triumph of its own by shutting out the Boston Braves, 5 to 0.

Glen Garden Open

FORT WORTH, Aug. 21 (AP)—Thirty-two crack golfers of Texas and Oklahoma, survivors of a rain-swept qualifying round yesterday, faced opening rounds of match play in the first annual Glen Garden Country Club invitational tournament today.

Pacing the field was the veteran Tommy Cochran of Wichita Falls, twice former Texas champion, who captured medalist honors with a 71 over the muddy, difficult course yesterday. The next best scores were a brace of 77's hung up by A. J. Lee and Byron Nelson, both of Glen Garden. Several outstanding favorites, including Gus Moreland of Dallas, found their games wrecked by the rain and failed to qualify for the title fight.

Among the leading lights who faced opening matches today were Dennis Lavender, Abilene; Dixon White, Dublin; "Hap" Massingill, Fort Worth; Jack Jackson, Dallas; Bud McKinley, Del Rio; Robert Conliff, Jr., Oklahoma City, and A. K. Barbee, Waco.

Cochran was paired against O'Hara Watts, a brilliant Dallas youngster. Lavender met Vic Morgenstein of Fort Worth.

Regarded As Favorites To Cop Second Half Flag

By GAYLE TALBOT, JR., Associated Press Sports Writer

There was weeping and wailing around the Houston Buffs business office last spring when it was discovered that the official Texas League schedule for 1930 provided that the Bisons close their season with 19 straight games on their home lot.

It didn't suit Prexy Fred Ankenman at all. If his club should be hopelessly out of the race when that last long home stand began, attendance would be slim and the Buffs would suffer financially. He told his fellow managers about it and uttered a threat, which today assumed all the aspects of a prophecy.

"All right," exclaimed the Houston magnate, "you've forced this schedule down my throat. All I hope is that when we open that last home stand we're only two or three games out of first place. Then somebody will be sorry, and it won't be me."

The Bayouites were home today to finish the season, starting against the Dallas Steers, and they were only two and a half contests behind the leading Fort Worth Panthers. The baseball fraternity regarded them as top-heavy favorites to romp through to the second half flag and meet the Spudders in the play-off.

In their final road bout yesterday, the crushing Buffs made it two straight over Beaumont, 7 to 4. Dizzy Dean chalked up something like his sixth victory in less than a month as he held the Exporters to seven hits until the eighth, when George Payne took over the job. A four-run spurge off Walt Newman in the fifth wrapped it up for the Schultzen.

Dick Whitworth pitched and batted the Panthers into the leader's invasion, his long homer in the tenth defeating the Dallas Steers, 3 to 2, after a thrilling tie. The big righthander had relieved L.

Stoner in the eighth and held the Herd hitless from there on. A timely single by Ed Brown that scored Mallon from second enabled the Kittens to tie the count in the ninth. It was "Jim Moore Day" at Steer Stadium, and the big outfielder got all of his team's hits off Stoner—both of them.

The Spudders fell back into second place as Shreveport swept their short series, 3 to 2. Hal Wilke, vainly striving to ring up victory No. 18, limited the Sports to four hits, but was the victim of sloppy support. None of the winners' runs was earned, but they counted. Bill Morrell did some fair flinging on his own hook, allowing the Spuds only five blows, all singles.

Tight pitching in the clinches by Hobo Carson enabled the San Antonio Indians to square their series at Waco, 5 to 2. The Cubs managed to square the count in the seventh, but the Tribe came right back with three runs in the eighth off Thurman to take the verdict. Carson helped his own cause along with a homer, and Munson smacked one for the Cubs.

HAGEN HANGS UP TALLY OF FIVE BELOW

ORION, Mich., Aug. 21 (AP)—"The Hag" isn't through yet. Suddenly reversing the form that threatened to topple him once and for all from his pedestal as one of golf's greatest stylists, Walter Hagen once more stood out today as a one big threat in one of the favorite tournaments of his long career, the Western Open championship.

A record-breaking 67, five strokes under par, in the 18 hole qualifying round over the championship Indian Wood country club course yesterday and a 66 in the practice test the day before, was Hagen's signal of his promised comeback. The rounds shattered the course his wealth of experience, wide record and again placed him as a top-notch man in a championship event over the Jersey player.

Without Hagen faced spirited competition and a big fight from a brilliant field as the big push-

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 21 (AP)—The fortunes of the Newport Casino tennis draw today forced Big Bill Tilden, defending champion, to attempt the difficult task of brushing Gregory Mangin, capable Newport racketeer, out of his path to the semi-finals.

Announcing a new production record

2,000,000 Chevrolet Sixes now on the road

Since January, 1929, Chevrolet has produced and sold over 2,000,000 six-cylinder automobiles—nearly five times as many as any other manufacturer has ever built in an equal length of time.

These 2,000,000 buyers have chosen Chevrolet because it offers many desirable qualities not obtainable in any other car so low in price—

—the smoothness, silence and flexibility of a modern six-cylinder valve-in-head engine—the greater comfort and roadability of a modern, full-length chassis—and the style, safety and distinction of bodies by Fisher.

Yet, despite these fine car advantages, the Chevrolet Six is unusually economical. Its gas, oil,

Sensational disclosures by a noted European journalist, showing that back of naughty King Carol's recapture of his throne there is a bigger game going on between France and Italy, with future control of the Balkans as the stakes, and kings, queens and statesmen mere pawns in the hands of Briand and Mussolini

Who Pulls the Ropes in Rumania?

WHILE the world is witnessing with strained attention the romantic Rumanian melodrama, in the foreign offices of half a dozen European countries a handful of diplomats are watching keenly the progress of the show, which they are directing from behind the scenes.

The players, however real and human they appear to the audience with their passions, jealousies and ambitions, are mere marionettes in the hands of the invisible directors who are enacting back stage one of the most stupendous dramas of recent world history. For back of the Graustarkian melodrama and the battle royal for the throne of Rumania is the historic clash of two gigantic blocs of European powers fighting for control of continental Europe.

Imagine the map of Europe as a huge chessboard and the characters of the Rumanian king-drama as major or minor pieces moved by the real players of the game.

At one end of the table is sitting Signor Benito Mussolini leading the attack with his pieces: King Carol II, General Averescu, Prime Minister Maniu and a number of foreign diplomats representing various countries.

Opposite him is the brilliant French foreign minister, Monsieur Aristide Briand, commanding the forces of defense with his two queens, Marie and Helene, Prince Stirbey and the diplomats of Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia.

And while the game is going on with its plots and counter-plots, the fine combinations and the subtle intrigues are being worked out far from the actual scene of events: in the little palace on the Quai d'Orsay in Paris, where Briand has his headquarters, and in the Palazzo Chigi in Rome, where Il Duce is brooding over the next move of one of his picturesque marionettes.

THIS diplomatic battle between the two foremost European powers is not of recent origin; it has been going on ever since the peace treaty of Paris put an end to the World War. Long before the Rumanian marionette show was put up by the two greatest diplomats of contemporary Europe, the diplomatic game of intrigue, known only to the initiated, was in full swing, involving almost every country of continental Europe. If you take a look at the map of Europe, you will readily understand the underlying motives of the conflict, which reached one of its many climaxes in the Rumanian melodrama.

In the west of the continent is France, infinitely strengthened by her victory in the World War, with all her territorial aspirations satisfied, and her dominant position in Europe supported by a chain of important alliances. In the east France had a powerful ally in Poland; Central Europe and the Balkans she ruled through the so-called Little Entente, comprised of her satellites, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and Rumania. Through this net of alliances, military pacts and treaties of friendship the French republic has been ruling Europe with almost absolute power. Nothing could be done against her will, and nothing could be accomplished without her consent.

Opposing France, in the south of Europe, is Italy. In Paris at the peace conference she had been disappointed in her hope for securing a number of important ports on the eastern side of the Adriatic, in her territorial aspiration she had been blocked by France and in her ambition to rule the Adriatic Sea she had been stopped by Yugoslavia, one of the allies of France. Alone and without friends in Europe, struggling for expansion and predominance, Italy tried in vain to break the iron ring surrounding her. Whatever diplomatic or political move she attempted was blocked by the great and brilliant system of alliances France had built up, and wherever she turned the way was closed.

Such was the situation when Mussolini began to bring his pieces in position and made his first cautious moves designed to wreck France's whole system of power and to checkmate Briand, his brilliant adversary. There were other countries, Mussolini figured, which were dissatisfied with the existing order.

Here, for instance, was Greece—which failed to receive certain territories adjudged to Yugoslavia at the end of the war. In all secrecy, important negotiations were started between Rome and Athens with the result that a treaty of friendship was signed.

Next came Bulgaria. That country lost considerable territories and was in a situation very similar to that from which Mussolini tried to extricate his country: alone and isolated. For a long time Briand has been trying to get this little Balkan country in his system of alliances and was working through one of his most able aides, Queen Marie of Rumania, who wanted to marry her daughter, Ileana, to the bachelor King Boris.

AGAINST this scheme Mussolini had a scheme of his own. Secret messengers came and went between Rome and Sofia and Boris was brought together with Princess Yolanda of Italy. Though nothing came out of this proposed match, which would have solved the Bulgarian problem for Mussolini, the scheme served its purpose by preventing the king's marriage to a Rumanian princess and tearing to pieces Briand's beautiful combination.

While all these secret negotiations were going on, Mussolini suddenly made two bold moves. The one was to offer a substantial loan to Bulgaria, which was in urgent need of capital and was glad to get it from Italy. The other was to offer a treaty of friendship and close alliance to the country, which felt so unjustly treated by the victors.

Briand knew of this plan and made great efforts to thwart it. There were certain points of conflicting interests between Greece and Bulgaria, and Briand was trying to excite Greece against its new ally.

The former Greek royal family is closely related to the Rumanian dynasty and Briand used the Greek royalists to make the country break away from Italy. The beautiful feminine members of the former Greek dynasty often received emissaries from Greece, gave instructions, intrigued and plotted, but Mussolini succeeded in bringing about an understanding between Greece and Bulgaria. The second great move of the Italian dictator met with success and by now he had already two important pieces on the gigantic diplomatic chessboard: the governments of Greece and Bulgaria.

THE third link in Mussolini's new chain of alliances was Hungary. This unfortunate country felt particularly ill-treated by the victors, who deprived Hungary of two-thirds of its territory and brought three million Magyars under foreign rule. It was easy to conclude a treaty of friendship with the Hungarians.

At the same time Briand had considerable difficulties with his Polish ally. Poland refused to obey blindly every dictate of the master of French diplomacy and showed unwillingness to operate hand in hand with Czechoslovakia and the Little Entente for the interests of France.

By EMERY DERI

(War Correspondent and Authority on the Balkans)

It seemed to be the greatest opportunity for Mussolini and he made the most of it by starting secret negotiations with Poland.

Yet, Poland was bound to Rumania by a special treaty and Poland could not and would not do anything without or against Rumania. Thus Rumania had to be won by Italy. It became the key state in the dictator's stupendous political scheme of forming a new European bloc consisting of Greece, Bulgaria, Rumania, Poland and Hungary, under the leadership of Italy.

The great diplomatic battle drew to a climax and the players of the historic chess game were ready to engage in a final battle of plots and combinations.

The first move was again made by the leader of the attacking pieces—Mussolini. He knew very well that he couldn't start anything with either Queen Marie or Queen Helene, a sister of King Alexander of Yugoslavia and as such the deadly enemy of Italy and Mussolini. Nor could he possibly make any overtures to the Bratianu government, which was supported by the Rumanian banks working with French capital.

The only possibility to break the French influence in Rumania was to win either Crown Prince Carol or several of Bratianu's enemies. Thus the Italian diplomacy began with widening the gap between the Crown Prince and the pro-French members of his family.

A number of special emissaries were sent to Bucharest to win Crown Prince Carol for the Italian scheme and help those politicians who were opposing Bratianu, opposing Queen Marie and opposing the whole political system of graft and oppression.

The first man who has been won over was the ambitious General Averescu, an arch enemy of Bratianu and his partisans; and a man of unusual political ability.

The general made frequent trips to Rome and conferred with Mussolini. He also reported to him that things in the royal family didn't look very well. Carol hating his wife, who was standing under the influence of the French group represented by Bratianu, Queen Marie, Prince Barbu Stirbey and her brother, King Alexander of Yugoslavia.

THESE trips of Carol's friends and confidants to Rome could not remain secret for long. Even if there was nothing tangible, Mussolini's assurances of personal friendship towards Prince Carol were suspicious.

The French statesman sensed the danger threatening the whole system of power created by France if Carol would some day become king. The order was given out in Paris to get rid of Carol at any price.

The pretext used to force Carol out of the country was his love affair with Mme. Lupescu. Bucharest laughed about this pretext. After all, there had been so many love affairs in the Rumanian royal family.

But Carol's renunciation was decided in Paris to forestall any dangerous move on the part of Mussolini, and Carol had to leave the land. It can be recalled that the country he was headed for immediately after his resignation was Italy. For a time he lived in Venice and made frequent excursions to Rome.

NEXT, Mussolini began to build up a strong position for all of his pieces on the diplomatic chessboard. Greece, Bulgaria and Hungary were safe for him, and the rift between Poland and France was widening every day. Of course, the most important section of the board was Rumania, and here the commander of the Italian pieces concentrated his attack.

The exiled Prince Carol had several prolonged conversations with the Italian dictator during his stay in Italy.

Money began to flow to Rumania by the way of Italian banks, which suddenly became interested in various financial and commercial enterprises. A thousand little intrigues were set in motion against the Bratianu government and one day General Averescu became prime minister.

In the third week of his regime he announced as the first triumph of his regime that the Italian banks had granted a loan of 200,000,000 lire to Rumania.

It was a great blow to Briand, and he was quick in announcing that the Bank of France would have given a larger loan under much more favorable conditions. Now Paris launched a counter-attack and succeeded in forcing out the Averescu government, whose place was filled again by Bratianu.

At the same time French agents surrounded Mme. Lupescu and induced her to persuade Carol to move to Paris, where he could be kept under constant surveillance.

Mussolini answered these moves by a brilliant plot he engineered in Rumania. An army of Italian agents surrounded the political leaders opposing Bratianu and managed to get hold of Maniu, who threatened Bucharest with revolution if his peasant party could not have a place in the government.

For many months plot followed plot, intrigue was met with counter-intrigue with the result that at last the Bratianu government was out and the Maniu government was in.

Yet the decisive move was not yet made by either player. Briand secured one great victory by winning over Mme. Lupescu, who informed him or his agents of all moves of Carol. It was the Italian secret service, whose agents at last exposed the diplomatic connections of the Titian-haired beauty, and showed Carol the reason why the presence of every confidante of his was suddenly reported back to Bucharest.

Then suddenly came the first break between Mme. Lupescu and Carol. The prince's former sweetheart retained her little chateau in France, while Carol disappeared for a short time. It was only after his successful and dramatic "putsch" that the mystery of his disappearance was solved. Twice he was in Rome and once in Venice, where he had important negotiations with secret emissaries of the Maniu government. Why he chose Italy as the place of these meetings is now quite evident.

UNTIL Carol's return both players of the great chess game tried to conceal the real significance of their moves. After Carol's regaining the throne, however, this was no longer necessary. Every day, every hour developments showed clearly the stand of the great battle between France and Italy for the key state, Rumania.

Everyone who in Bucharest and Rumanian politics represented the French interests, had to go. Mr. Diamandi, Rumania's minister in Paris, who made the deal between Mme. Lupescu and M. Briand, had to resign. Prince Stirbey, president and majority shareholder of the French banking interests in Rumania, had to leave the country.

At the same time, General Averescu, the exponent of Italian policy, was appointed a marshal of the Rumanian army, and the very moment Carol was landing in Bucharest, Dino Grandi, Mussolini's foreign minister, was speeding in a special train to Warsaw to report to Pilsudski, the Polish dictator, that Rumania can no longer be regarded as a safe ally of France and the time was near when Rumania and Poland could openly join the formidable new bloc of European powers under Italy's leadership.

THE game, however, is not yet over. M. Briand, though his position is precarious, is far from being checkmated. He is defending himself cleverly and with a skill characteristic of the master player. Not all of his moves can be understood by even the best-informed spectators, but his defensive tactics are clearly evident.

What Mussolini plans is a new chain of alliances comprising Greece, Bulgaria, Rumania, Hungary and Poland. It would break up the Little Entente created by Briand, it would entirely isolate and encircle Yugoslavia, Italy's arch enemy, and it would threaten the existence of the Czechoslovakian republic, equally hated by Hungary and Poland.

What Briand is trying to achieve is the defense of the present order of things: a Jugoslavian-Polish-Rumanian-Czechoslovakian front against all of France's possible enemies. The battle has to be decided in Bucharest. The victory goes with Rumania. This is the reason why the next diplomatic moves of both statesmen will be either the settlement of the Rumanian-Hungarian disputes or the widening of the gap between the two countries. Mussolini has many possible dramatic moves in store.

There are many ways and means of which a brilliant chess player can avail himself in case of necessity. There are still many pieces on the board and the position of both sides enables the players to engage in a number of new combinations.

FOR instance, Carol might be elected king of Hungary or at least of Transylvania, giving a better status to Rumania's citizens of Magyar extraction and placating the wrath of the Hungarians.

At the same time, M. Briand is prepared for counter moves. For instance, he might manage a throne "putsch" in Hungary, thus blocking every combination with Carol or, at least, intimidating Rumania with the bogey of a Hapsburg again on the throne at Budapest.

And while the game is on, the marionettes are doing their duty by focusing the attention of the world upon themselves. They are playing their role in an excellent fashion. They move and love and hate and intrigue and command and talk as if they were real and were doing everything of their own free will and accord.

The Balkans have always been full of that sort of maneuvering, and it was the conflicting "interests" of great powers in Serbia and Austria which precipitated the World War.

Maybe they even believe—if marionettes can think and believe—that they are moving the world and are not moved by higher powers. And while they are occupying the whole stage in this historical show for themselves, from behind the scenes two shadows are looming up: the gigantic shadows of Benito Mussolini of Italy and Aristide Briand of France.

EVERYDAY QUESTIONS

Answered By
Dr. S. Parkes Cadman

Questions from readers are answered daily by the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, Radio Minister of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America. Dr. Cadman seeks to answer inquiries that appear to be representative of the trends of thought in the many letters which he receives.

Flushing, N. Y.
The following verse has puzzled me for a long time:
"And I say unto you, make yourselves friends of the mammon of unrighteousness, so that when ye fail, they may receive you into everlasting habitation" (St. Luke xvi, 9).
This looks to me like sarcasm. Is it possible that it is to be literally construed, or is there another interpretation of the original text?
This verse is one of the most difficult passages in the New Testament. But it is clarified by the rendering of the Revised Version, which reads as follows: "Make yourselves friends by means of the mammon of unrighteousness; that when it shall fail, they may receive you into the eternal tabernacles." In all probability the parable of which these words are the conclusion was occasioned by the tendency of some of Christ's disciples to cling to money. This tendency He called the mammon of unrighteousness, because it was the source of so much sin and undoing. According to the Master, the children of God should imitate the sagacity of the children of the world. They were to be wise as a serpent but at the same time as harmless as doves.

If we employ the financial means at our disposal for works of charity and benevolence the very mammonism which sinks without trace the souls of millions makes friends for us in the eternal world. Verses 10 and 12 of this same chapter obviously teach the manner in which believing men and women are to act as stewards of their material possessions. By their right use of money they secure the infinitely higher and lasting properties of the spiritual realm.

Salt Lake City, Utah.
What is the object of the Human Welfare Group established at Yale University?
The latest report which I have seen is by Professor Raymond Dodge, who deals with some psychological aspects of this group's general work.

He states that "more and better agencies than we dreamed of have come into being." Great co-ordinating organizations of national and international scope exist for the promotion of science, but we have scarcely begun to learn the principles or to realize the possibilities of co-operative research in response to social needs, and we have no means of estimating the limits of its achievements."

The goal set before the Human Welfare Group is "the protracted human happiness of the greatest possible number of persons." The means to attain that goal involve numerous psychological and economic factors, the politician, the social worker and the pastor more or less dependent upon their knowledge of human nature, its reactions and types. But that knowledge is as yet incomplete and somewhat chaotic. It requires ascertainment, definition and application. Personal and social adjustments are not easy. He is indeed a master of life who can control its chequered courses in himself and secure inward tranquility while surrounded by outward tumult. Consider this assertion in the light of much private and public disorder and dis-

Obviously the task of the Welfare Group is one of exceeding difficulty and complexity. Nevertheless it is being undertaken with concerted effort, and what is more important, with the most accurate information obtainable. We may confidently anticipate valuable and lasting contributions from an enterprise which should command the attention and support of the public at large.

Raleigh, N. C.
There is one thing that has always puzzled me, and it leads to a question reverently asked. If other planets are inhabited, as some believe, why did the God of them all send His only begotten Son to this world to die for it, when this planet is insignificant as compared with the others?

We do not know the answer, but we can speculate on the question. If other planets are inhabited, would an all righteous God do less for them than He has done for our world? Judged from the astronomical viewpoint, the earth is physically insignificant as compared with the stars and planets. But surely the globe on which Christ has lived and His great servants have labored, cannot be deemed insignificant from any other viewpoint. When you consider the intellectual, moral and spiritual conquests of man, and how he has subjected creation to his conscious mind, his presence on this globe invests it with tremendous importance.

On the other hand, mere size is nothing. The mastodon grew in bulk, while he diminished in brains until he finally perished. The fact that the sun is vastly larger than the earth has nothing to do with human values; except that it is entirely subservient to them. God's interests are not in mere size, but in life; not in the earth as such, but in the people who tenant it for a time.

If similar beings exist elsewhere, they are loved by Him as He loves us. If He has a purpose for us, He has a purpose for them. His activities are determined by the necessities of His children, whether they live here or in the most distant realms of space. He holds all sentient creatures in His ceaseless regard and tender care.

RING ON BOY'S FINGER OFFERS A PROBLEM

LONDON (INS).—Doctors, electricians and engineers of the Newcastle Infirmary recently spent several hours trying to remove a steel ring from the finger of an eight-year-old boy.
Steel saws, files and carbondrum had no effect. Eventually the boy's finger was laid on a fourteen pound sledge hammer, and the ring, on being struck by another hammer of the same weight, split, leaving the boy's finger unhurt.

COUPLE MARRIED FOR SEVENTY-TWO YEARS

GUILFORD, Conn. (INS).—Captain William Hill and his wife have started their seventy-second year together. He is 92, his wife, 90, and while she is bed-ridden, the captain is in good health. Captain Hill dates back to the days when this was a seaport, instead of a summer resort and once came to port with a load of 155,000 menhaden which he sold to a local oil company long out of business. The house he built from his fishing profits in 1855 is still his home.

Race Drivers DEMAND the TIRES WE SELL!

THE Indianapolis 500 Mile Endurance Race is famous as an endurance test and battle of tires for no driver can win this race who has tire trouble. He races over a hot brick track at a speed of 100 or more miles per hour. For eleven consecutive years Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires have been on the winning cars.

FOR years the winner of the hazardous race of Pike's Peak climb—where a slip meant death—used Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires.

1. THESE drivers do not simply choose Firestone Tires. They demand them. They know by experience that this tire never fails. It never fails because it is built not to fail by the special Firestone processes of tire building.
 - (a) Every fibre of cotton thread going into the making of the cord fabric, which is the foundation of the tire, is coated and cushioned in rubber by the Firestone patented Gum-Dipping process.
 - (b) Under the tread is the Firestone patented Gum-Dipped Double Cord Breaker—which means not only two extra plies where most needed, but also sets the Firestone Tire apart as an all cord tire, while others are woven fabric and cord.
 - (c) Firestone Super High Speed Tires now have 32% more rubber in the tread, giving deeper grooves that will give you over 50% more non-skid wear before the tire is smooth.

2. THESE are not just features. They are basic differences in tire building proved by service on every kind of road and track.
3. YOU may never intend to race. You may never intend even to speed. You may never climb Pike's Peak. But, every day—whether you know it or not—your life depends upon your tires.

4. WE HAVE these Super High Speed Gum-Dipped Balloons for sale today. They are the same tires that the racing drivers demand—the premier tires of the world. Their first cost is low. Their cost per mile of service makes them cheaper today than even cheap tires. They are inexpensive, not only because the price of rubber is low, but because we have joined with Firestone to bring into the sale of tires the same degree of efficiency which goes into their manufacture. The benefit of all this is in the price to you.
5. DRIVE IN TODAY. We will examine your tires and make you an allowance for any unused mileage. We can equip your car with new Firestone Super High Speed Tires at a much lower cost than you ever expected. They will give you unequalled service and satisfaction.

TRADE IN YOUR USED TIRES TODAY!

governor could issue one dollar's worth of bonds. The people would have to vote for them. Attacking Ferguson Sterling asked, "did you read what his brother said about him? If a brother of mine said that about me, I would get down off this platform and you wouldn't have an opportunity to vote for me for anything."

To Columbus

His speaking engagement for Friday at La Grange was announced as having been changed to Columbus.

Ferguson, at Terrell, unleashed another attack on Governor Dan Moody and on Sterling. Attacking Sterling's proposed state highway bond issue, Ferguson told the people to "go to the polls, chop off his head and we'll end this proposition forever."

"For 16 years they've been making the charge that Jim Ferguson was a thief," he said. "What is it? When is it? They've never found a nickel he's stolen. If they're such fourth-raters that they can't figure anything out, you ought to quit fooling around with them. They talk about all the money I've stolen. I'm a broke farmer and rancher just like you. I don't even own a piece of property that is not mortgaged."

Lieut. Gov. Barry Miller, speaking for Mrs. Ferguson's candidacy at La Grange, said he had chiefly four reasons for supporting her.

"I believe the best interests of those who supported me loyally are served by electing a governor not of long standing in the millionaire class," he said, "and who has lost the common touch, but whose heart is with the common people. Mrs. Ferguson's heart shares the trials and tribulations of the masses."

Road Plan

He opposed the Sterling road bond plan, reiterating arguments against it made in his own campaign. He also expressed opposition to Sterling, because, he said, the latter's campaign seemed to indicate "an attempt of the Ku Klux Klan to make a rear door entry and seek control, as in 1924. Miller planned to speak tonight at San Antonio.

Launching his attack upon Fergusonism in three thrusts, Senator Clint Small spoke at Waco in his first address of the campaign for Sterling's candidacy.

His three broadsides at the Ferguson past were "Ma's pardon record, the highway contract scandal, and a comparison of Ferguson, the politician, to Ross Sterling, the business man."

Governor Moody speaking at San Angelo, opened his address with reference to Ferguson's offer of $50 to him for every speech he delivered in West Texas. "I know Jim won't live up to his agreement," the governor said. "Besides, if he did pay me $50, I wouldn't accept it."

He devoted practically all of his address to a recital of the Ferguson impeachment proceedings and to the pardon record of Mrs. Ferguson. He charged that Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson together had freed more than 6,000 convicts while they were in office and that the cost of convicting these prisoners had been about $1,000 each.

INDIANWOOD CLUB, ORION, Mich., Aug. 21 (AP)—A brisk wind sent scores soaring so high in the first 18 hole round of the western golf championship at Indianwood today that three 71s topped the cards of the early finishers.

They were turned in by Laurie Ayton, Evanston, Ill.; Jules Blanton, Toledo, Ohio, and Carl Corello, Detroit.

Walter Hazen of Detroit who had dazzled 67 in yesterday's qualifying round, slumped today largely because of poor approaches and weak putting to take a 77.

He putted well with a par 35 but fell apart on the backward stretch with a 42. Five strokes under par. He went one stroke over par on five successive holes beginning with the thirteenth.

INDEPENDENCE, Kas., Aug. 21 (AP)—Two Texas tennis players dominated championship play today in the first annual Southeast Kansas open junior tournament.

NEWS BRIEFS

By The Associated Press
NEW YORK—Dr. Thomas Darlington, formerly city health commissioner, believes that men must wear fewer clothes in order to compete with women. Man's vitality and mentality have not greatly improved in the last 25 years, he says, whereas the average woman is taller, stronger and much more vigorous and mentally alert, and there is every indication she will continue to improve if she retains her present style of dress; man's heavy clothing lowers disease resistance.

BALTIMORE—A resolution adopted by the National Catholic Women's Union deprecates the stockpiling of arms for young girls as an un-Christian practice resulting in the complete loss of the sense of modesty.

NEW YORK—Maybe holders of securities should not be pessimistic about this: Mrs. Mary Brooks Picken, style expert, said in an address that stocks and skirts went down about the same time last fall.

SOVIETS TO RECALL GERMAN AMBASSADOR

MOSCOW (INS)—It is generally presumed in official circles that Nikolai Krestinsky, for many years Soviet ambassador to Germany, will be recalled in a few weeks so as to be able to devote all his time as First Assistant Commissioner of Foreign Affairs.

It is known that Krestinsky is greatly attached to his post in Berlin and it was thought possible at first that he might hold both positions, coming to Moscow for conferences three or four times a year. He has done this in the past for meetings of the Central Executive committee and important party conferences. His successor is being discussed.

IRON WORKER ASKS HUGE SUM FOR HURTS

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (INS)—A new court ruling was established here when Vito Peragolise, a laborer, asked $25,000 damages for injuries received on a structural iron job. Counsel contended Peragolise was going blind from an injury to his optic nerve, beside being crippled. Judge E. B. Dickenson of superior court, who heard the case, decide in favor of the laborer but would not name a compensatory sum of money. Instead, he ordered physicians to study the case until late in the fall and then report to him. On that report is to depend the amount of the award.

DRESSMAKING SCHOOL OPENED IN PARIS

PARIS (INS)—The high art of sewing has become a matter for educational authorities here, with the projected opening of a dressmaking school. This new institution of learning will be as important and give as many major and side courses as the most technical engineering or art school. The professors will be specialists in their line, be it designing, cutting, fitting, trimming, or other complexities of the haute couture. Style history will be taught, and a complete library containing the widest array of works in connection with style and dressmaking will comprise a part of the new establishment.

CHICAGO (INS)—If anyone should happen to call Ardmore 3072 in Chicago, he probably will be answered by a hearty "woof-woof" for that number belongs to a dog. Pusiewicz Thornton is the name of the only canine registered in the telephone directory. She is owned by Mrs. Bertha Stern Thornton.

CLASS HONORS MRS. R. B. ZINN ON EIGHTY-FOURTH BIRTHDAY

The eighty-fourth birthday of one of the city's most beloved residents, Mrs. R. B. Zinn, was commemorated Tuesday afternoon by the Coffee Memorial Club of the First Methodist church with a party and shower in the church parlors.

Following an informal program Mrs. Zinn told of her experiences when she first came here in 1883. One of those "bad" sandstorms was blowing and her husband comforted her by saying they would not be here long, she said. But, within their first year here her baby died and was laid to rest in the cemetery on the hill northeast of town. Later when her husband wished to move away she did not want to leave the place where the little one was buried.

"I learned to love the west and now I'm in my 47th year here," she said.

Mrs. Zinn is the mother of six children, all of whom, with their father, have died.

"I do not know why I have been spared," she observed, to which one of the guests replied, "He left you here for us to love a little longer."

Many gifts were presented Mrs. Zinn. One of these was a large angel food birthday cake, presented by Mrs. A. G. Hall. Refreshments of cake and iced punch were served.

One of the most interesting parts of the afternoon's program was a talk by Miss Verbena Barnes, who has toured in 43 of the states within the past few months.

"The flowers along the roads I traveled did not compare with some of the beautiful lives about us, that give love and comfort to others," said Miss Barnes to the honoree, whereupon a large tray laden with gifts was presented her.

Mrs. Fox Stripling, teachers of the class, led the devotional, reading the 45th Psalm. Mrs. W. A. Ricker led in prayer. The roll call was called by the secretary, Mrs. J. B. Neel, to which the following answered: Mesdames R. B. Zinn, W. A. Ricker, Hebesen, A. G. Hall, D. F. Painter, Shaw, G. S. True, Barrett, L. B. Russell, Annie Shull, Fox Stripling, Frank Lester, Hattie Crockett, R. E. Gay, J. B. Neel, Lem Stallings, C. L. Williamson, M. L. Musgrove, Florence Jones, King, M. H. Ward, Cingan, C. E. Talbot, Miss Roberta Gay, Miss Verbena Barnes and Mrs. L. S. Patterson were appreciated visitors.
