About Our New Subscription Rates

As is always the case when rates of any kind are raised, we have heard some complaints about our new subscription rates. For the most part, however, our readers understand that the cost of getting the paper to you has risen appreciably. An official source informs us that since 1970, the in-county second class postage rate has increased more than 1600 percent when at the same time the inflation rate in that period is 207 percent. Decreased mail volume as a result of the Feb. postage rate hike and federal budget cuts may result in another postage increase in mid 1992, rather than in 1994 as predicted earlier by the Postal Service.

You are reminded you can save on the cost of your paper with a subscription. In-county subscription rates are $15 per year and elsewhere in the United States is $18, including military APO and FPO mailings. This breaks down to 29¢ a copy in-county and 35¢ per copy out of county, compared to 50¢ at the store news racks. Students and those on a fixed income may want to consider buying 6 month subscriptions at half the yearly cost.

Well Said

As a young soldier I was told that old soldiers, survivors of long-ago wars, were praying for me.

Perhaps this is how I survived my war.

At any rate, this is why I now say prayers for young soldiers.

That they survive their war and return home, eventually to pray for those unknown soldiers not yet born.

Mayor Has Opponent; Five Now In Council Race Three To Run For School Board

As is usually the case, the last day of filing to run as a candidate for city and school board elections saw several make the decision to throw their hats in the ring.

Susie Voss, a former councilwoman, has declared herself as a candidate for the Mayor's spot running against incumbent Mayor Gale Brock who declared her candidacy at the onset of filing time. Mrs. Voss is a postal clerk at the local post office.

Joining the City Council race late last Wednesday, last day for filing for the election, were John Morris and Norman Asher. Previously having filed as City Council candidates for the May 4 election, were incumbent councilman Jim Spillman, and Craig Terry and Danny Kellar. The five will be vying to fill two council seats, that of Spillman, whose present term expires in May and the one being vacated in May by Quinton Daniel who is not asking for re-election. Asher is a longtime resident of Santa Anna and is a heavy equipment operator. He has been a candidate in previous years. John Morris is a lifetime resident of Santa Anna having graduated from SAHS in 1985. He is currently unemployed, however, is operating a bait shop at his home. Late filers for the school board race are Barbara Simmons and Eddie Jones. Mrs. Simmons is owner of Simmons Feed and Seed. She has two children who are presently students in Santa Anna Schools. Two others have graduated from Santa Anna High School. Jones is a former school board member having been elected to serve one year of an unexpired term left vacant when another board member moved from the school district. He went off the board last spring. He and his wife, Jo, have three children who are students in Santa Anna schools. Simmons and Jones join previously announced candidate Sharon Guthrie in the quest to fill two school board seats. Danny Kellar and Danny Cook chose not to seek re-election to the school board and their terms will expire in May. The Santa Anna News will run statements from all the candidates at a later date.

Easter Sunrise Service At Mountain Special Holy Week Services Slated

Special worship services have been scheduled by the local Ministerial Alliance to observe Easter Holy Week.

The special observances will begin with Maundy Thursday services at 6:30 p.m. at First United Methodist Church. There will be a special message and special music. Communion will be served.

Good Friday services will be held at 6:30 p.m. at First Presbyterian Church, again with a special message and special music.

The highlight of special services will take place Sunday morning, when Easter sunrise services will be held at the old community bandstand site near the lighted cross on the east mountain. This very meaningful service is scheduled to begin at 6:30 a.m. and will include a short devotional message and congregational singing.

Hearty souls who have braved the early morning hour for the Easter sunrise service are invited to breakfast and fellowship afterwards at the Presbyterian Church. You will be finished in plenty of time to prepare for your regular Sunday morning church services at the various churches in the community.

Everyone is welcome and encouraged to take part in these holy week events.

John Morris Opens Bait Shop

All fishermen in the area will be pleased to know that John's Bait & Tackle Shop has opened at 202 N. Houston (just south of Santa Anna Laundramat). John Morris, owner of the new enterprise, says he will have available to fishermen all kinds of fishing tackle and live bait such as minnows, worms, perch, and crawfish. He also has on hand a supply of frozen liver, shrimp, etc.

The shop will be open from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. each day. If you stop by and no one is in the shop, knock on the door at the trailer house.

Representative Bob Turner on job in Austin

Turner Reports From Austin

AUSTIN—State Representative Bob Turner, from Voss, Texas was sworn into office March 6 by speaker of the Texas House Gib

Lewis, having won a seat representing District 65 in a special election called by Governor Ann Richards upon the resignation of Jim Parker.

"I am already enjoying challenges facing the 72nd Legislature and scrambling hard to play 'catch up' on all the important issues facing the Legislature - public school finance restructuring, environmental and water related issues, insurance reform, product liability, and ethics reform are of primary concern", states Representative Turner.

"It has been my good fortune," Turner continues, "to have been able to hire experienced staff people in my capitol office. My administrative assistant is Barbara LeMond, who has a wealth of Capitol experience, and my legislative aide is a UT graduate from Menard, John B. Hofmann, who has worked for the Senate and knows how to work within the system," Turner says.

"My only purpose in running for this office was to be able to serve and represent the people of the 65th

District, and I intend to be as representative as possible to the needs of my constituency, so please contact me in Austin at 512/463-0644 or come by the Capitol Building to room 316-D," Turner says. "I intend to help in every way possible to make Texas the best place in the world to live, work and real a family," Turner concludes.

Says Our Troops Are The Finest

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following came as a letter to the editor from a Santa Anna native, 1949 graduate of Santa Anna High School, son of Louise Moore and the late Doug Moore, Sr. Doug Moore, Jr. is a Chief in the Media Support Branch Office of Public Affairs, for U.S. Air Forces in Europe. He is stationed at Ramstein Air Base, Germany. Doug writes:

That Santa Anna News photo of the townspeople gathered at the post office to show their support for our armed forces was heartwarming.

As a Santa Annan who drifted away more than 40 years ago to serve my country with the U.S. Air Force, I feel that our overwhelming victory over Saddam Hussein's Iraqi forces should send a message to all Americans: the sacrifices our nation made to build a strong military force were well worth it.

In peacetime it is somewhat popular to criticize the military. After all, we're a drain on the economy, not really doing anything except playing war.

As a result, much of my career in Air Force public affairs has been spent defending why we train as we do, why we need state-of-the-art equipment, why people are our most important asset, and etc. Of course, I've also had to explain some of the "dumb" things that we've done, such as paying for overpriced pliers, hammers and toilet seats. Few people understand that the military is made up of more than a million components--ranging from people to pencils--and an occasional mistake will occur as we go about our daily business. Nor do they understand that we make an honest effort to find and correct these mistakes.

But, I want to talk about the war and some of the people who were in it.

I was very close to this war from the very beginning on August 2, 1990, when Saddam Hussein sent his army into Kuwait. My base--Ramstein Air Base, Germany--was instrumental in supporting the buildup of United States and coalition forces. Our aircraft parking ramps were filled to capacity most of the time for six months. Aircraft were landing and taking off around the clock as hundreds of C-141, C-5, C-130 and commercial aircraft came here to change crews and load and unload cargo.

A very good friend and colleague of mine--U.S. Air Force Captain Brad Schult--was one of the war's early casualties. He was enroute from here to the Gulf early on August 29th. Unfortunately, the C-5 carrying him crashed shortly after takeoff, killing 13 people.

Brad was at my office the afternoon before he left, to borrow a portable word processor to use in the Gulf. He looked forward to going to the Gulf and I'll never forget him saying he was so proud that the United States had taken a tough stance against Iraq's aggression. In the months since, I heard hundreds of our young soldiers and airmen echo Brad's sentiments.

I'm convinced that Brad and his fellow warriors who lost their lives during Desert Shield and Desert Storm did not die in vain.

Our command, the United States Air Forces in Europe, was represented in the Gulf by more than 10,000 personnel and 200 tactical fighter aircraft. The United States Army in Europe deployed approximately 100,000 troops with their tanks, artillery and other weapons. It was an awesome logistics effort, and a tribute to the training that we've conducted here for so many years.

As our people were leaving, reservists and national guardsmen were arriving to set up contingency hospitals and take over many of the duties that had been performed by active duty people. Many of these citizen soldiers came from secure, comfortable hometown surroundings on very short notice, but they came prepared to do everything necessary to support the war effort. Their contributions and sacrifices

Marie G. Hellman

Marie Genz Hellman, 71, died Thursday, March 21, 1991, at her residence in Santa Anna.

Graveside services were at 2:00 p.m. Saturday at Mount Calvary Cemetery in Albuquerque, N.M., directed by Santa Anna Funeral Home.

Mrs. Hellman was born in Trichham. She attended Santa Anna High School. She returned to Santa Anna eight years ago from Albuquerque. She was a homemaker, the widow of Leon Hellman, a member of Sacred Heart Catholic Church and a senior citizen volunteer.

Survivors include a daughter, Shirley Ann Hellman of Albuquerque; two brothers, Martin Genz of Wichita, Kan., and Herbert Genz of Benbrook; four sisters, Ruth Banta of Coleman, Lucille Teeters of Bangs, El Freda Mendell of Houston and Clara Cupps of Trichham; and several nieces and nephews.

Hobby Stephenson

Word has been received of the recent death of a Santa Anna native, Hobby Stephenson.

The son of the late J.O. and Lila Stephenson, he attended Santa Anna schools, a member of the class of 1938, and was a WW II veteran, being a Bataan Death March survivor.

He is survived by his wife, Mary, of Dallas and two sons, and a brother, Dennis Stephenson of Utah.

Mr. Stephenson was a cousin of the late Mrs. O.L. Cheaney. Another local relative was the late H.B. Williams of Coleman.

were no less than those of the active force.

I personally was fortunate enough to go to another country and help finalize the deployment of a fleet of KC-135 tanker aircraft, which were used to refuel B-52s enroute to bomb targets in the Gulf. Those KC-135s and the people who flew and supported them came from several bases in the United States on very short notice, in most cases only hours. Incredibly, the aircraft were serviced and ready to fly within hours of their arrival over here.

I was on the second KC-135 that refueled a B-52, a seven-hour mission filled with tension and exhilaration as it neared its climax. The sight of a B-52 less than 20 feet behind and below you is spectacular, and the fact that a 20-year-old airman was controlling both it and

C.L. 'Chuck' Zable

BROWNWOOD—C.L. "Chuck" Zable, 71, died Thursday, March 21, 1991 at Brownwood Regional Hospital.

Graveside services were at 3 p.m. Sunday at Cedar point Cemetery with Revs. Dick Shultz and Cliff McDougale officiating, directed by Davis-Morris Funeral Home.

Mr. Zable was born in Louisville, Kentucky and had been a Brown County resident the past 11 years. He was a former resident of Rockwood, in Coleman County. He was a retired heavy equipment operator and farmer, a Baptist and a U.S. Army veteran of World War II. He married Bettie F. Gay on Sept. 30, 1945 in Longview.

Survivors include his wife, Bettie Zable of Brownwood; a daughter, Bettie Gay Brown of Santa Anna; four sons, Richard Zable of Bangs, and Charles Zable, Larry Zable, and Jerry Zable, all of Brownwood; a brother, Norman Zable of Louisville, Ky.; three sisters, Margaret Giles of Brownwood and Pearl Nethery and Catherine Larkins, both of Louisville; 10 grandchildren; and several nieces and nephews.

the KC-135 from a position flat on his stomach in the rear of the tanker aircraft was sobering, indeed. Again, however, it was a tribute to our training program.

During those first hours of the deployment I never heard one of those airmen ask where they would sleep, or where they would eat; they had jobs to do and they did them outdoors in the sleet and snow. They wanted those KC-135s to fly right away. Among those airmen were men and women from Abilene and mothers of infants that had been left behind with babysitters in Montana.

At the beginning, I predicted to my children and my mother that the war would be short and bloody. It was both.

That any blood had to be shed is regrettable. Blame for that rests squarely on Saddam Hussein's shoulders. Thankfully, however, little of the blood was from Americans or members of the coalition forces.

The war is now over and now the cleaning up must be done. The adverse effects on our environment will be evident for perhaps a century. The cost in dollars will be felt by all of us taxpayers.

But, a madman who dreamed of dominating Southwest Asia was stopped in his tracks and by the time you read this, perhaps the little authority he had remaining will have been stripped from him. The war does not mean instant peace for that region, but it has removed the only serious threat to stability.

The war also means that the United States of America has regained its place as the true world power. It means we'll stand by our friends and we'll fight if we must to ensure their freedom.

I've come away from it with a new confidence. I know the generation of young Americans who fought this war will give us tomorrow's leaders. Believe me, today's young people are bright, they're enthusiastic, they're tough, and they comfortably hold the future of the United States of America in their capable hands!

I've rambled enough. So I'll close by saying: God bless you, citizens of Santa Anna...God bless the soldiers, sailors, airmen and marines you so unselfishly supported...and, God bless America.

Check It Out

By Alice Anna Spillman

There is a new back porch at the new library building/ Go by and check it out. Of course, there is a lot of pick and shovel work to finish the area. If any of you would like to help, please call.

If you are still looking for an Easter gift for children, consider the Baby Lamb Chop puppet. There are three books about this Sheri Lewis hand puppet, "Baby Lamb Chop Loves Numbers" or "Nursery School or The Beach". These are amusing but are also teaching tools.

For those of you who enjoy Zane Grey books, take a good look in the library. There are paperback, but also lots of hardbound books. Ask the librarians to show you the locations.

New at the library is "Vanished Arizona" - wonderful little book by Martha Summerhayes. It was first published in 1908. There have been seven issues since. If you want to know what the early west was like from a woman's point of view, read this book. Martha was from a rather wealthy eastern family. She married an army officer in the 8th Infantry Regiment. They were sent to the frontier in Arizona in 1874. There were no trains, no air-conditioning, in fact, almost no comforts in the army. Martha allows us to follow as she, a spoiled young bride, becomes a wise army wife. There are interesting pictures of people and places. Men will enjoy the story. Her letters from them state that clearly.

The women who came to Cap Colorado or Fort Concho must have had this same courage. Wonder why there were never monuments dedicated to these brave ladies?

The Coleman County chapter will become the 32nd group to be organized in Texas, with the nearest one in Brownwood.

A key deadline for filing legislation came and went on Friday, March 8. As usual, the filings were fast and furious and my office was no exception. Among the legislation I filed were bills:

—revising and expanding the mission of Texas State Technical Institute and clarifying rules that hindered expansion to communities seeking a T.S.T.I. facility;

—improving rural education by promoting satellite communication in the classroom;

—reforming the competitive bidding process to eliminate costly red tape for schools and governmental entities;

—and, improving procedures within the Texas Department of Commerce to improve its overall effectiveness.

I close with a proud note for rural Texas from yesterday's senate session. During debate on sunset legislation for the Texas Department of Highways and Transportation I introduced an amendment requiring that one of the three seats on the Highway Commission be filled by a rural Texan. The amendment passed by a margin of 17 to 11.

Time Running Out? Extend with 4868

If you're running out of time to file your federal tax return, you may qualify for a 4-month extension. Remember, however, filing Form 4868.

Application for Automatic Extension of Time To File U.S. Individual Income Tax Return, only extends the date you are required to file. You still must pay the federal taxes you owe by April 15, 1991. Underpayment of your taxes will result in interest and sometimes penalty charges.

To get a 4-month extension:

1. Send in Form 4868 with
2. any taxes owed by April 15, 1991.

Once you are ready to file your return:

1. Use Form 1040 and remember to list any payment you made with your extension on line 58 by August 15, 1991 or
2. Use Form 1040A and write "Form 4868" on line 28d and list any payment you made with your extension by August 15, 1991.

Legislative Session Report

AUSTIN, MARCH 19—Mid March has come and gone, ushering in the second half of the 72nd Legislature's regular session. Since my last letter to you a good many things have happened at the Capitol. Some good. Some, I'm not too sure about just yet. Foremost among the "not too sure abouts" are public education funding and taxes.

This week a conference committee of the Texas Senate and house is expected to take action on a compromise plan to equalize funding the state's system of public education. Quick action is necessary if the legislature is to meet the Supreme Court's April 1st deadline. Failure to beat the clock could lead to the imposition of a court ordered plan, a scenario I view as imperative to avoid. Consequently, I am working with conferees to develop a plan that not only meets the stiff standards of the court, but also does everything possible to protect the interests of all school districts in the 24th Senatorial District.

state agency. Agency directors, largely appointed by the past administration, have requested budget increases of as much as $13 billion, from $30 billion to $43 billion, for the next biennium. This is unacceptable. As Chairman of the Senate Economic Development Committee, I have assured the Lieutenant Governor that I will approve no bill that entails new spending.

2) An agreement is reached to abolish the school property tax.

Simply put, I am reviewing all alternatives.

Another important project I am working on is putting together a comprehensive economic development program for the state of Texas. Governor Ann Richards is working with me on a number of fronts. Earlier this month, the Governor joined me in a tour of the Fort Hood area to see firsthand a part of Texas that is in need of assistance. At the same time, I am working in concert with the Governor to clean up the troubled Department of Commerce and make sure it spends its money wisely and effectively.

It is vital to understand that the Supreme Court's order makes a sharp jump in our property taxes virtually inescapable unless we find another source of revenues. Latest projections show some Texans would see their property tax bills double under our current system of school funding. This fact is one of the biggest reasons we're hearing renewed talk about a corporate and personal income tax. You should know that I will not support either, until two things occur:

1). Performance audits to ferret out waste are completed on every

On The Home Front The Mail Ego

We have a shiny new mailbox. It is the talk of the neighborhood. Our old mailbox, too, was the subject of much discussion.

When we moved to our home, the mailbox was in pretty bad shape—rusty and dented. But we soon learned that mailboxes often were the targets of youthful shenanigans in our new neighborhood.

We heard tales from our neighbors and saw the evidence firsthand: steel boxes bashed in, mutilated posts laying on their sides. It was not a situation that made us want to rush out and purchase a new box.

But then we began receiving notices from the U.S. Postal Service. The notices were not exactly threatening, but they did inform us that we were in violation of some code or other and contained helpful diagrams showing what a proper mailbox should look like.

It was about that time that our old mailbox was egged, bashed and rendered doorless. I was afraid to let the children retrieve the mail for fear that contact with a rusty bolt would require tetanus shots.

It was time, we decided. However, we discovered that purchasing a new mailbox would be more difficult than we had anticipated.

For one thing, my husband and I found that we had radically different philosophies about mailboxes. I was thinking in terms of something aesthetically pleasing, possibly with a sleek pole rising from flower boxes. Jim, on the other hand, insisted on an oversized pole to support an oversized aluminum box.

My husband, you see, likes his mail flat. Unfolded. A large box, he reasoned, would allow the carrier to place the many important documents we receive—namely, magazines—neatly in the box. Flat.

To make a long story short, Jim won what has come to be known as "The Great Mailbox Debate." We now have a mailbox large enough to hold a year's worth of mail. Unfolded.

Neighbors have been gathering around our new box, oohing and aahing and, I believe, smirking. Cars slow down when they pass our home, and I see arms pointing out windows in the direction of our box.

We received a notice the other day that the city is raising our property assessment because of the new room we added.

Jim has taken all the teasing good-naturedly, but he is not happy with the post office.

Yesterday we received a bundle of mail—folded in half, with a rubber band around it. lol

Fat = Calories

Imagine a fresh green lettuce salad tossed with chunks of tomatoes, cucumber slices and a dressing of olive oil and vinegar. Sounds like a good-for-you salad, doesn't it?

It doesn't have any cholesterol, and olive oil is high in monounsaturated fat—a kind of fat being recommended today. However, there are additional considerations:

- How much olive oil is used?
- How much other fat is included in meals and snacks throughout the day?

There's a good deal of confusion about fats today, says Mary Helen Gunkler, registered dietitian and staff nutritionist for Total cereal. So much attention has been focused on specific types of fat—saturated, monounsaturated and polyunsaturated—that the message of overall fat moderation is often forgotten. One important fact to remember about fats is that equal amounts of them all contribute about the same number of calories. For example, vegetable oil has 120 calories per tablespoon. A tablespoon of vegetable shortening or lard contributes 115 calories. Butter and margarine both provide approximately 100 calories per tablespoon.

Whatever type of fat you choose, it will contribute more than twice the calories per gram as protein and carbohydrate. For example, one gram of fat—whether it's olive oil or butter—has nine calories, while one gram of protein or carbohydrate has four calories.

No more than 30 percent of daily calories should come from fats, according to the dietary recommendations of major health organizations. In a 1500-calorie diet, this would be no more than 450 calories, or 50 grams of fat.

Certainly, the differences in types of fats can't be ignored. Scientific study has identified a strong relationship between a diet high in saturated fats and the incidence of high blood cholesterol, a major risk factor for heart disease. Substituting monounsaturated and polyunsaturated fats for saturated fats may help lower blood cholesterol levels.

Expect Exciting Displays At Dyess Open House, 7th

DYESS AFB, TEXAS—Dyess Air Force Base opens its gates to the general public at 10 a.m., Sunday, April 7, for Big Country Appreciation Day.

This annual event is Dyess' opportunity to thank Big Country residents for their continuing support and friendship. It also affords everyone, both military and civilian, the chance to see some of the oldest and most exciting planes ever flown.

Highlighting the days events will be a performance by the U.S. Air Force Thunderbirds in their F-16s. The 45 minute Thunderbird's show will start at 3 p.m. with an autograph session to follow the aerial performance.

A number of active duty aircraft are scheduled for display including the B-1B, KC-135, C-130, RF-4, T-38, and B-52. Base officials have also announced that the Confederate Air Force will be in attendance with 25 of their vintage aircraft including the infamous B-17 Texas Raiders. In addition to the large array of aircraft scheduled for static display, the open house will feature aerial performances or fly-overs by the B-1B, KC-135, C-130, T-38, and B-52.

Other highlights of the day will be a Missing Man formation fly-by with four BT-13s, and a C-130 short field landing. There will be many demonstrations to include a B-1B weapons loading demonstration; Security Police M-60 and Military Working Dog demonstrations; Cooper High School Junior Officer Training Corps Drill Team; and a C-130 off-load demonstration.

Base project officers promise it will be a full day. There will be 45 concession booths, 17 professional displays, demonstrations and live bands.

For the safety and well being of pets, base officials ask that they be left at home.

Admission is free. Gates will close to in-coming traffic at 4 p.m.

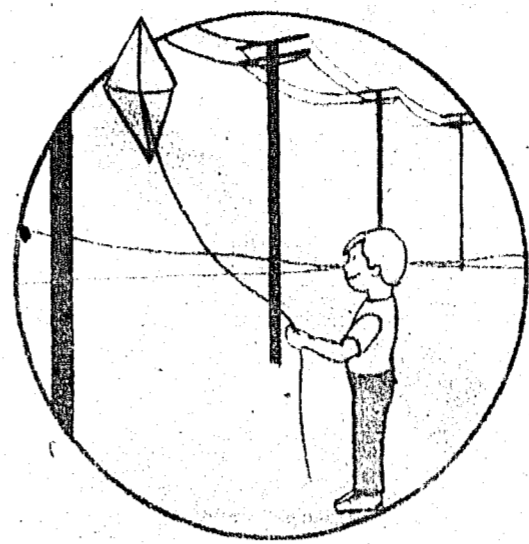

Spring is Sprung, The Kites Is Riz: I Hope They're Not Where The Power Lines Is.

The time to locate power lines is before the kites go up.

A few simple rules can make your kite-flying days safer:

- Never fly your kite near electric power lines.
- Never use metal in your kite's construction or to weigh down the tail.
- Never climb a tree to retrieve a snagged kite if electric lines pass through the tree.
- Always use good sense and good judgment when flying your kite.

We're your consumer-owned rural electric system, and we want your kite-flying adventures to be as safe as they can be.

Smokeless tobacco in the previous 30 days was close to that found in a nationwide survey (8.8 percent Texas vs. 9.8 percent nationally). However, Texas 10th graders were more than twice as likely to be heavy users (20 times in the previous 30 days) than 10th graders nationally.

"We have the same problem with snuff and chewing tobacco that we have with cigarettes - children start using it, and by the time they realize their mistake, they are addicted to nicotine", Todd said.

"Tobacco use is not adult behavior - it is juvenile behavior. If children want to act like adults, then they should stop using tobacco. That's what most adults are doing", Todd added.

Dr. Robert Bernstein, Commissioner of Health, said that smokeless tobacco was advertised in the 1970s as an alternative to cigarettes, with slogans like "take a pinch, instead of a puff".

"Since both forms of tobacco use can result in nicotine addiction and cause cancer, the only real choice offered by such slogans is between the risks of lung cancer and oral cancer", Dr. Bernstein said.

He added that survival rates for persons with either lung cancer or oral cancer are two of the lowest among the major cancers.

Todd attributes increased teen tobacco use to advertising. "The overwhelming majority (84 percent) of students surveyed in Texas knew that tobacco use was very harmful, yet more than half had tried tobacco in some form. Knowledge of the harmful effects of tobacco seems to be quickly eroded by slick ads associating tobacco use with success, confidence and adventure", he said.

For more information on tobacco use, contact the Texas Office of Smoking and Health, toll free at 1-800-345-8647.

Stenholm Announces Annual Art Contest

Congressman Charles Stenholm announced plans today for the tenth annual art contest for high school students in the 17th District of Texas. Since it was launched in 1982, the nationwide competition has generated more than 2200 district art competitions involving nearly 250,000 high school students. One winning entry from each congressional district will be displayed in the U.S. Capitol in Washington, D.C. this summer.

Students in grades 9 through 12 from Callahan, Coleman, Haskell, Jones, Runnels, Shackelford, Stone-wall and Taylor counties should enter a preliminary contest to be held in Abilene on Saturday, April 20, 1991. Art work may be brought to the art department of Cooper High School any time after Monday, April 15. Judging will be done in the Cooper High School cafeteria on Saturday, April 20, beginning at 10:00 a.m.

Other regional shows will be held in Big Spring, Gainesville, Graham, Post, Snyder, Stephenville, and Weatherford. Winners from the entire 35 counties of the 17th district will be announced at an awards brunch in Abilene on April 27. Charlie and Cindy Stenholm will host the brunch.

Artwork must be no larger than 30" by 30" (unframed) and two-dimensional. If a student chooses to do a landscape, it should portray a Texas scene. Eligible categories are paintings, prints, drawings, or collages.

For more information and entry forms, contact Stenholm's office in Stamford at 915 773-3623, his office in Abilene at 915 673-7221, or Martha Kiel in Abilene, 915 692-9591.

Texas Children Biting Off More Than Can Chew

Health officials warn that a rising popularity of smokeless tobacco among the youth may lead to a growing incidence of oral cancer at the end of the decade. Currently, oral cancer strikes 11 per 100,000 Americans.

A 1989 Texas Department of Health (TDH) survey of about 4,400 Texas students in grades 7, 8, 10 and 12 reveals that more than 49 percent of the male respondents had tried smokeless tobacco at least once.

Some 31 percent of the 7th grade boys and nearly 70 percent of male seniors had tried snuff or chewing tobacco at least once. Most (about 62 percent) male students who had tried smokeless tobacco did so before age 13.

Ron Todd, coordinator of the TDH Office of Smoking and Health, said, "A lot of younger kids start with snuff, the kind sold in convenient packets. And the risk of oral cancer may be 50 times higher for long-term snuff users than for tobacco non-users". He added that boys in Texas begin using smokeless tobacco earlier than do boys of other states.

He said that the percentage of 8th grade students who reported using

More Deaths From Drugs Than War

The magnitude of the U.S. drug problem is no better illustrated than by the startling fact that more Americans died during the same period on U.S. streets from drug related reasons than in the Persian Gulf War.

Saying he wants to hear the cost-saving suggestions of "ordinary taxpayers and front-line state employees," State Comptroller John Sharp Thursday kicked off the first public hearing of the Texas Performance Review, a government-wide search for ways to improve the efficiency, cost-effectiveness and responsiveness of state agencies. The March 21 hearing at the State Capitol was the first of six scheduled statewide. Recommendations aired at the hearings will be submitted to Gov. Ann Richards and the legislature this summer after a review by a policy committee composed of the state auditor and staff members representing Sharp, Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock, House Speaker Gib Lewis, the legislative budget board, the governor's budget and planning office, and the state sunset advisory commission.

Q> I got carried away using my credit cards over the holidays. Now I find myself unable to obtain a much needed loan because my debts are considered to high in relationship to my income. Is there anywhere I can go for advice an/or help?

A> Check your telephone book for the Consumer Credit Counseling Service center in your area. Their non-profit programs helps people with debt and credit problems. The center offers advice and counseling on budgeting and personal financial management. Fees for the services are based on a sliding scale with consideration given to individual situations. This service is recognized and respected by loan officers and collection agencies as an effective way to help solve personnel credit and debt problems.

Q> What is a line of credit? Who can obtain such a source of credit?

A> A line of credit is a fixed limit of credit extended to business or individual over a certain period of time. For example, a business owner may be granted a $100,000 line of credit valid for one year. During that period, money may be borrowed on several occasions until the $100,000 limit is reached. In recent years, lines of credit have been extended to customers in need of a readily available source of money.

Q> My in-laws, who live in another state, have suggested that my husband and I apply for a home equity loan as a down payment on a new boat. What are these loans and what is your opinion of them?

A> With a home equity loan, you can borrow against the equity you have accumulated in your home. Texas, however, does not allow home equity loans because of a provision in the Homestead Act. In states that allow home equity loans, you can use the money for almost any purpose, such as a down payment for a new boat. But, in Texas, that would be a violation of the Homestead Act. There has been some talk in the past in Texas about allowing home equity loans, but these discussions have never reached fruition.

Q> I noticed my name in this year's Unclaimed Money Fund List. I have tried a couple of times to contact the Treasury on your toll-free telephone line, but it has been busy. Do you have any suggestions on how I can get through?

A> Since the March 3 publication of the Texas Treasury's Unclaimed Money Fund List, more than 40,000 people have telephoned my office with questions about retrieving lost or forgotten money begin held by the state. Treasury operators have been answering calls at the rate of 3,500 per day. If you name is on the list and you have been unable to get through, please keep trying or write the Texas Treasury at P.O. Box 17728, Austin Texas, 78760. The important thing to remember is that it is never too late to claim your money.

The number for toll-free line is 1-800-654-3463. The line will be open through Friday, April 5, from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Beginning Monday, April 8, the hours will be from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.
