Work Well Underway In Upgrading Of CCTC Feeder Routes & Installation Of Fiberoptic Cable

Work is well underway in the Coleman County Telephone Cooperative's upgrading of its main feeder routes. According to CCTC manager, Danny Kellar, the main objective of the project is to get the main feeder routes underground so they will not be susceptible to adverse surface weather problems.

The conduit system now being laid underground will provide a method to bring fiberoptic cable in and out of Santa Anna to other exchanges. "The fiber will be used to provide a more efficient and cleaner method of transporting toll facilities in and out of our exchanges to the rest of the world," Kellar explained.

In addition to the telephone utility service, the cable will eventually be able to provide an inner-active video service between the schools in Coleman County, which will allow a teacher in one school to also teach a class in one or more of the other schools in the county via video. This could become an exceptional aid for sharing of special courses. It will also provide the possibilities of higher education courses from colleges and universities, a valuable tool for adult education classes.

Contractor for the conduit laying is Paul Stewart Construction of San Angelo. Henkies and McCoy of Dallas is installing the fiberoptic cable from Brownwood to Valera.

Goodgion Reunion Is Texas To The Core

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article appeared in Tuesday's Abilene Reporter-News. With their permission we reprint it for the enjoyment of our readers.

A year ago this past weekend, I was in Trier, Germany's oldest city.

Twelve months later, I was deep in the heart of Texas. Trickham, which doesn't have a Dairy Queen or even a population sign, is the oldest settlement in Coleman County.

The only other similarity between the two places was neither has air-conditioning.

The occasion was the annual reunion, or homecoming, of the Goodgion family. My fiancée's mother, the former Ruby Pearl Goodgion, is one of six children of Homer Travis and Bessie Rebecca Goodgion.

The descendants of Homer and brother Horace Goodgion make up the majority of those, numbering at least 50 to sometimes about 100, who meet every late June in the rustic Trickham schoolhouse.

For those who appreciate the true leather of Texas, this is a treat. There's nothing New York about the Goodgion family reunion.

Even trouble has to be looking hard to find Trickham. It's 15 miles down a winding farm-to-market road going southeast of Santa Anna. There's not much else there other than several historical markers, the schoolhouse and a church at which three congregations meet.

In the 1850s, Trickham was a frontier crossroads. A rowdy last stop for civilization before cowboys drove herds to Kansas, it was known for the joke-playing that went on. So when a name was sought for a post office, "trick 'em" was suggested.

Ruby Pearl Goodgion attended school there through eighth grade. Two rooms held four grades each, there was a lunch area and just one teacher. A fading picture of George Washington still presides over one room, but, thankfully, there are now electric ceiling fans.

This was, and is, the country. No malls, no Chinese restaurants. Not even in Santa Anna.

Most days, the Goodgion kids rode the bus which made its first stop in front of their humble house, a good country mile west of the school. Some days the kids had to walk to school. They always walked home. No one in the family was fat, Ruby Pearl recalls with a fond smile.

Remembrances like these flow like iced tea at the reunion. These are simple, upstanding people, even those who drove in from as far away as California and Colorado, or the cousin who favors Patrick Swayze. One speaker Sunday morning stated that Goodgions seek only God and education.

Each year, a family member or two takes charge of the reunion. It's a job getting everyone and bags of ice there, too. The format includes introductions of first-timers, songs — lanky Harvey Goodgion led the group in "Count Your Blessings" — and talks or stories about the family.

Research traces the family to England at the time William the Conqueror was stirring up trouble. Moving ahead some time and across an ocean, the Goodgions (or various spellings such as Goodgine) lived in Tennessee, Georgia and Mississippi. But following the popular slogan of the day, they eventually were "gone to Texas." It was Annie Goodgion who brought her children to this area.

After this genealogy lesson and Hayden Goodgion's biblical talk, it was time for lunch. The spread would make any Texan's mouth water — brisket, a half-dozen bowls of potato salad, melons, beans, white bread and, of course, dessert. There was pecan pie and the picnic standard, banana pudding. Aside from fruit and sweetener for the tea, anything heart-healthy was banned.

Three more Texas traditions followed lunch — bluegrass music, walks to the cemetery and visiting. But not before picture-taking, which lacked the organization of Desert Storm.

I can't possibly remember the names of all my future in-laws-by-marriage. Thankfully there was no test given before I could go home, though I think I can name, in order of age, even, the six children of Homer Goodgion. And Ruby Pearl's twin sister is named Reba Merle. And there was a Goodgion named Xuma.

My, my. Who would've imagined this California cotton-top ever settling into a family of pioneers from Trickham, Texas?

Stenholm Plans Town Meeting In Coleman July 7

WASHINGTON, D. C.— Congressman Charles Stenholm will hold a series of town hall meetings in the 17th District from July 6 to July 9. "My goal is to visit all 32 counties of the 17th District before August 20th," Stenholm said.

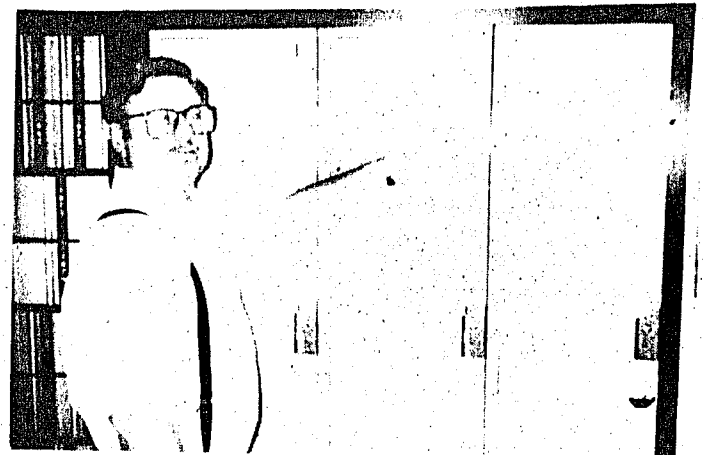

The purpose of the town hall meetings will be to offer a Washington update and to address concerns and questions raised by the residents of the 17th District. Stenholm will open the meetings with a brief statement, to be followed by a question/answer period. All of the meetings are open to the public.

In Coleman the meeting will be held on Wednesday, July 7 between 9 a.m. and 11 a.m. in the District Courtroom of the Coleman County Courthouse.

Others meetings in the area will take place in San Angelo, Anson, Abilene, Ballinger, Paint Rock, Brownwood, Stephenville, and Comanche.

Everyone is invited and encouraged to attend any of the meetings scheduled.

Since taking office over 14 years ago, Stenholm has traveled the 17th District extensively, holding town hall meetings and participating in events in all counties. In 1992, Stenholm made 19 trips to the district and participated in 168 events, while maintaining a 97% attendance record in the U. S. House of Representatives.

Postmaster Gary Absher showing off parcel lockers
Santa Anna Post Office Offering Parcel Lockers For Package Pick-ups

Postmaster Gary Absher announced a new convenience available to Santa Anna Post Office box and rural-HCR customers. Parcel lockers have been installed in the customer lobby to make parcel pick-up more convenient.

In March a questionnaire was sent to every patron asking them to rate the Santa Anna Post Office and give suggestions to improve service.

"Ninety-one percent of my customers rated this office Very Good or Better which is three times the national average," said Absher. The greatest inconvenience stated by customers was the fact that most of Santa Anna works out of town and are unable to return home in time to receive packages.

The new parcel lockers were installed so customers can pick up packages 24 hours a day. When you have a package, a key will be placed in your post office or rural box that will fit one of the numbered parcel lockers. When the package is retrieved, the key will not come out of the lock until removed by the Postmaster.

If you are a rural customer returning from vacation on Sunday and would like to pick up your mail, the parcel lockers are also available to you.

If these parcel lockers can make your mail pick up more convenient, please contact Mr. Absher.

"You're not just the finest postal customers on Earth, you're my boss," said Absher.

Ex's Reunion Planned At Trickham July 17

A reunion is being planned for all ex-Trickham church members, ex-Trickham Sunday School members and ex-school students of Trickham for Saturday, July 17 beginning at 10 a.m.

The event will take place at the old Trickham schoolhouse.

All ex's are asked to bring snacks, desserts and games.

A catered lunch will be served. Price will be $5.25 for adults and $3.50 for children.

Anyone planning to attend are asked to contact Peggy Miller, Box 305, Eden, Texas 76837 (915) 869-6821 or Lois Wallace at 348-3866 on or before July 12 so that they will be assured of having enough food.

Fifty Register For Buffalo School Homecoming

The 14th annual Buffalo School and Community Homecoming was held Saturday and Sunday, June 26-27. About 50 former students were registered during the get-together held at the Santa Anna school lunchroom.

Saturday events included visitation, entertainment, and an auction to raise funds for the group. The Methodist Youth served lunch, and a catered meal was served in the evening.

A memorial service Sunday morning featured special music by local singers with Leanna Hartman as pianist, and a message by Donnie Neff. Wallace Clary of San Angelo, a member of the executive committee, was master of ceremonies. E. A. "Doc" Kelley, president of the organization, gave the welcome. A catered meal at noon and visitation concluded the meeting.

Sybil Gilliam Nichols of Casper, Wyoming, one of the organizers of the reunion, was unable to attend this year. Taking her place at registration and secretary duties

SuJo McKee—Rodeo Queen

Third Generation Queen Rodeo Starts Thurs

When SuJo McKee rides into the rodeo arena this Thursday night as queen of the 56th annual Coleman Rodeo, she will have the distinct honor of being the first third generation queen. SuJo's mother, Connie Griffiths McKee, was queen for the 1971 rodeo and in 1948, Martha Jo Dobson Griffiths, SuJo's grandmother, served as queen.

Being queen of the Coleman Rodeo has always been a special honor. In the early years of the rodeo, local "ranch girls" were chosen annually by the Coleman Rodeo Association Board of Directors to represent the rodeo.

In later years, queens were elect-were Evelyn Schulle Studdard, Wanna Clary and Betty Gilliam Stephenson.

The Buffalo High School Class of 1941 also met for a reunion during the weekend. Other groups are encouraged to plan get-togethers in 1994 when the meeting will again be held on the fourth weekend in June.

ed by the entire membership of the rodeo association with the requirement that their father be a member of that association. That method of choosing the rodeo queen is still used at the present time.

To celebrate this special third generation occurrence, there will be a reception honoring SuJo, Connie and Martha Jo this Friday morning, July 2, from 10 a.m. to noon, at the First Coleman National Bank. Everyone is invited to come by, visit and have refreshments.

Rodeo performances are set for 8 p.m. on July 1, 2 and 3 with the one parade scheduled on Saturday afternoon at 5 p.m. Dances in the open air pavilion on the rodeo grounds will be held nightly beginning at 9.

Advance rodeo or dance tickets are available from any rodeo association member or at J-M Western Wear, Johnson Feed Barn, Davis Farm and Ranch Supply, and drive-in locations of the First Coleman National Bank and Coleman County State Bank.

See inside advertisement for other details and ticket information.

Alice Anna Spillman

By the end of last Thursday's reading club meeting we were looking for more room. That's right, Carol Herring's older group has overfilled the big round table. Constructing a spider web while sitting on the floor is a challenge. Carol had read from Charlotte's Web and then they made a web of yarn on paper. Next week more chairs and table space will be available.

Middlers heard two books read by Maria Ellerbe. Both were about the development of a butterfly. A Story of Magic Caterpillar Eric Carle is a colorful, large, easy to read book. All of this author's books are fun, but teach. Look for The Busy Spider, The Quiet Cricket and The Confused Salamander. If you are looking for a beginning reader gift, choose from one of these. The price is rather high.

Did you see the art work on the sidewalk before the library? Those were the butterflies and flowers that boys and girls drew.

Youngest members celebrated the 100th birthday of Peter Rabbit by reading his story. Beatrix Potter wrote this story in letters to a sick child. Since then, the story has been translated into almost all written languages. Members of this group learned how to draw a rabbit using circles.

Many thanks again to Carol Herring, Betty Key, Felicia Ellerbe, Imogene Powers, Cam Slagle, Letha Martin, Gale Brock, Pearl Wilson for some really hard work in the planning and execution of the reading program.

Teen leaders are absolutely essential in this program. Leaders can demonstrate how to make an article but it takes the teens working with the boys and girls. They can help younger members select books and their presence is important to the children. I can tell you that Maria telling the story held everyone's interest.

Thank you Maria, Amanda Lishka, Kristen Keeney, Jamie Ellis, Devin Brand and Amy Beal for caring enough to help others.

Alice B. Aldridge

Alice B. Aldridge, 95, of Dallas passed away March 13, 1992. Cremation services were at 10:30 a.m., June 26, 1993 at Trickham Cemetery with the Rev. Waide Messer officiating. Henderson Funeral Home was in charge of local arrangements.

She was born March 2, 1897 in Robinson County, Texas to the late Marion and Matilda Bishop. She was the widow of the late Brush Aldridge. She as an LVN and a resident of the Santa Anna area in the 1920's and 1930's and was a member of the First Baptist Church.

She is survived by a number of nieces and nephews.

Thoughts From Our Pastors

Waide Messer

"Freedom Through Jesus Christ" (John 8:31)

During the late 1800's James Calvert was a zealous missionary to cannibals on the Fiji Islands. His faithful work bore fruit in the lives of those accustomed to taking the life of others. Years later an English earl visited the Fiji Islands and was critical of a chief's conversion to Christianity. The English earl said, "You're a great leader, but it's a pity you've been taken in by those foreign missionaries. No one believes the Bible anyone. People are tired of the threadbare story of Christ dying on a cross for the sins of mankind. They know better now. I'm sorry you've been so foolish as to accept their story."

The old chief responded with a gleam in his eyes, "See that great rock over there? On it we smashed the heads of our victims. Notice the furnace next to it. In that oven we formerly roasted the bodies of our enemies. If it hadn't been for those good missionaries and the love of Jesus that changed us from cannibals into Christians, you'd never leave this place! You'd better thank the Lord for the gospel, otherwise we'd already be feasting on you. If it weren't for the Bible and its salvation message, you'd now be our supper!"

Before you and I or anyone else takes lightly the benefits of Christianity, we should first reconsider the privileges we enjoy because of the change Christ has made in the lives of those who so faithfully follow Him. It is my prayer, as we celebrate this July 4th, that as Americans, we will not abandon any further the moral teaching of the Bible that our nation has stood by for so many years. For, as we abandon the moral teachings found in the Bible, we will do nothing but continue to seal our own destiny of doom, despair and destruction. Jesus said, "If you hold to my teaching, you are really my disciples. Then you will know the truth, and the truth will set you free" (John 8:31 NIV). True freedom is found only through Jesus Christ. May we commit, this July 4th, to live out the teachings of Jesus in our life and in our country.

This will give a needed southwest link in our art display. By the way, Era dedicates the painting to Mary Lela when she married in 1949. Era dedicates the painting to Mary Lela's memory.

People have been stopping, looking and coming in to see the table better. Really to see the beautiful vase and cloth. These are on loan from Nell Myers. She made the vase and won the blue ribbon at the Dallas Craft Fair. It is an honor to have the vase on display. Drop by to see this beauty.

If you like gardening, there are new gardening magazines. Thanks to John Hensley, Jr. Most news stands have less magazines than the library. Stop in to see.

Beal Receives 10-Year Probated Sentence

Davy Mac Beal, 43, who was found guilty of voluntary manslaughter received a 10-year probated sentence in the trial which concluded last Friday in Coleman.

After hearing three days of testimony, Beal of Santa Anna, was found guilty on Thursday of voluntary manslaughter in the October 31, 1993 stabbing death of Douglas Wayne Taylor also of Santa Anna.

The jury returned the sentence Friday afternoon after almost two hours of deliberation.

As directed by the judge presiding in the case, Beal will be under the supervision of probation officials in Brown County.

Ross Jones of Coleman represented the state and Bob McCool of Baird represented Beal. Judge John Weeks of Abilene presided at the trial.

West Central Texas Council of Governments Conducting Cancer Survey

One in every three Texans will develop cancer in his or her lifetime. Since cancer is the second leading cause of death of Texas, the West Central Council of Governments is concerned how this affects the individuals who reside in its 19-county region. Due to the minimal data that has been collected on surviving cancer-related cases, the extent to which cancer affects those in our region has been difficult to determine.

The West Central Council of Governments is conducting a cancer survey throughout their 19-county region. This survey will measure 1) needs of cancer patients, 2) resources available for cancer patients, 3) the awareness of these resources. Those asked to participate will be chosen at random within the 19-county area. This study is the first of its kind in the Big Country. This could mean additional funding toward cancer services in rural West Texas.

The purpose of the survey is to document a need for more cancer services in our area. After the survey is complete and the primary needs are identified, the WCTCOG will bring together all county and city officials, resources, and concerned citizens to discuss solutions that address these needs. The information gathered in this survey will be made available to the public.

If you receive a survey please complete it to the best of your ability. This is an opportunity for your valued opinions to be heard on what is needed in cancer services in your area. Filling out the survey will be a great service to your community.

The 19 counties which the WCTCOG serves include: Brown, Callahan, Coleman, Comanche, Eastland, Fisher, Haskell, Jones, Kent, Knox, Mitchell, Nolan, Runnels, Scurry, Shackelford, Stephens, Stonewall, Taylor and Throckmorton.

The study is being made possible by funding from the Texas Cancer Council. For questions or information about the survey please contact Jena Allen, Program Coordinator, at 915-672-8544.

WIC To Offer Immunizations Beginning July 1

Beginning July 1, 1993, WIC will offer free immunizations to all of its clients under the age of 18. Free immunizations will also be available for family members, under 18 years, who are scheduled for a vaccination or who are behind on their vaccinations.

Make sure your child is fully immunized. Seeing that your child received all vaccinations on schedule is important to ensure his good health. Vaccinations protect your child against nine dangerous and potentially fatal illnesses: diphtheria, tetanus, pertussis, measles, mumps, rubella, polio, Haemophilus influenzae type b, and hepatitis b. Keep an immunization schedule handy and check with your pediatrician to be sure that your child's up-to-date with his shots.

Please remember to always bring your child's shot record with you to the WIC office.

Texas To The British Isles

By David & Margaret Karthaus

Editor's Note: David and Margaret Karthaus are sharing the account of another of their worldly travels in search of family roots. The couple resides in Fort Worth but also have a home in Santa Anna and are active in local affairs. Margaret is a native of our community.

We noticed the time and decided that if we hurried we could possibly catch the ferry to Northern Ireland that afternoon. We reluctantly left as we felt that we could stop back by after we returned from Ireland and maybe find someone home at that time. The ride to the ferry was fast and somewhat uneventful. As we got within sight of the ferry, we had to stop for gasoline, since the fuel tank has shown empty for the last several miles. We didn't want to run out of gas going onto the ferry or driving off. That would not be 'good form' as the British would say. We had to park the car, run back the ticket booth, then back to the car (going through customs each time) to get our tickets. The price of the ticket was $150. We just wanted a ride, we didn't want to buy it. We barely had time to drive our car onto the ferry. The doors were closed as we stopped the car. We went to the upper deck of the ferry where the restaurant and shops were located. Here we had a light meal with tea.

While we were eating, we determined that the boat ride was going to take about three hours. It would be getting dark about the time that the boat landed. Normally, we find a place to spend the night by spotting one as we drive by, but we felt that we might not have enough light when we reached Ballymena. We went to the Information Desk on the boat. The personnel there gave us the names and telephone numbers of three B&B's in and around Ballymena. We used the ship to shore radio to call and make home. We went back to the lounge and drank more tea and relaxed, knowing that we had a place to stay in Ballymena.

The main reason the we wanted to go to Ballymena was that we have been able to trace the Boyds ancestors to Ballymena. We hoped that during our stay that we would be able to find the link between the Boyds of Ballymena and the Boyds of Kilmarnock.

After the boat landed we leisurely drove off with a full tank of gas and the reservations. We followed the directions to Ballymena, about 40 miles inland. We had no trouble following the first 2 or 3 turns. Then all of a sudden we noticed that the fire station was not where the directions said it should be. The fire station was the next landmark that we were looking for. We stopped at the Irish equivalent of an ice cream shop. Margaret and Martha went in to find out how to continue our path. The shop people were very helpful and told Margaret and Martha to continue down the road until they passed a skull. Taken somewhat aback, Martha asked "Like a skull and crossbones?" And then Martha made the skull and crossbones sign. The shop keeper said "Yes, right behind the Pirate's Skull." After being told that we can't miss it, Margaret and Martha went back to the car and told David we were to pass a pirate's skull and crossbones. As we proceeded down the road, we passed a couple of school zones. With Margaret and Martha still muttering about pirate's skull, David's brain being somewhat numbed by the vacation, said that looked like a Private School. After some more muttering about pirate's skulls and private school, we decided that Winston Churchill was correct when he commented, "Two great nations separated by a common language". We will admit that the speech in North Ireland is different from Scotland and England and definitely different from Texan. We never did see the pirate's skull but since we found our B&B, behind the Private School we were happy.

As it was late, we didn't feel like going out to eat, but the very wonderful host offered to make us some sandwiches and tea. So we had a delicious meal in her kitchen and got to bed fairly early. As we ate our dinner, we inquired about the genealogical search in Ballymena and she told us where to start. We decided to do that the next morning first thing. We got up early the next morning and had a very good breakfast and after a short conversation with our hostess, we decided to spend the next two nights here and see as much of North Ireland as possible by making wide arcs every day and returning to the B&B every evening.

We got off later than normal the first day since we wanted to arrive at the council office that morning. We had a short wait until the council clerk was able to see us. She was most helpful saying how many people they had helped find relatives. Everything seemed to be positive and cheery until Margaret asked for the marriage records of John and Mary Boyd from around 1730. The clerk immediately began to apologize as she thought we were looking for records from around the late 1800's. We found out from her that records that old could only be found in church records and these would most likely be in the records in Belfast. Belfast was not on our agenda since a young woman had been killed by the soldiers less than a week ago. We decided right then that we would possibly try to correspond with the promised to send a copy of the article to us. We still have not seen the newspaper article but we have received two letters from Ballymena. One of them seems to be a fairly good lead.

With this accomplished there seemed to be little else that we could do with our genealogy so we got in the car and drove north east to the Glens of Antrim. The glens of Antrim are a series of 8 or more valleys that appear to have been carved out of the hillside by the ice age. The scenery along the drive was magnificent. The grass was so green it hurt your eyes and in many places it looked and felt like it was matted about four inches deep. There were many fields filled with large numbers of sheep or cattle and it looked as if the grass was growing faster than the animals were eating it.

church by letter. At the clerk's suggestion we went to the newspaper office to place an ad in their paper asking for persons that may have the Boyd ancestors from the time period that ours were from. We thanked the clerk and left the council office and headed for the newspaper. At this time of morning most of the parking places were taken up downtown so Margaret and Martha went to the newspaper office while David tried to park. Once inside the office, the editor introduced himself. He decided that it would be better to run a human interest story in the paper rather than simply place a want ad. He interviewed Margaret and Martha to get the material for the article and

The first glen was spectacular. Coming from inland looking out into the Irish Sea, the quilted patterned field spread out before our eyes up to the water's edge. Our road wound down one side of the valley. When we reached the sea we turned north and followed the coast line up to Glenariff. Glenariff is possibly the largest and most spectacular of the glens. We drove the winding road from the sea up the north side of the valley. The fields were fairly small but very green and hundreds of sheep and cattle grazed in this serene pastoral setting. When we got near the top we turned a little south and turned into a park. We parked our car and went hiking to see the waterfalls. We hiked downhill about a mile and the terrain changed from meadows to forest. At the bottom of our climb, there was a beautiful little river running between the two hills and for approximately a half mile we walked beside this stream posing a new and different waterfall every 10-15 feet. Even though the day was fairly bright, it was very dark, damp, and cool as we followed the stream. Since most of our trip so far had been downhill it was time to start back up the hill to our car. It was a beautiful little hike even if it was a little tiring.

We went into the gift shop close to the car park and bought our normal amount of souvenirs. It was here that we bought some Irish Shillaleighs that we were asked to bring back for a cousin. Close to the gift shop was a nature center and in it there was a picture of Glen Ariff taken from an airplane. The plane was situated off the coast and the picture was taken looking inland up the glen. The beauty that we had seen seemed to be magnified from this prospective.

We got back into our car and started down the other side of the valley to the sea once again and then headed north to Glenshesk. While we were driving up the coast we saw one of many highway signs. This one stated "Road liable to subside". From our prospective it appeared that the ocean possibly washed the foundation from underneath the road. Fortunately it held fast as we drove through. We drove up to the outskirts of Ballycastle and took the road off to Glenshesk. We stopped and took many pictures along this drive. The McCaughan's, after leaving Barmagachan in Scotland lived in Glenshesk until some of the McCaughan's including Margaret's ancestor, immigrated to Tennessee via Philadelphia and then eventually on to Texas.

We turned around and retraced our steps back to Ballycastle, stopping to take more pictures along the way. We drove through Ballycastle and went to Dunluce, a beautiful castle ruins. Dunluce Castle was built on top of a rock mountain ledge that juts up from the sea. On the east side there was water and on the other sides there was a deep valley separating the castle from the mainland. One could walk underneath the castle walls up the sheer cliffs to see this fortified castle. Directly underneath the castle one could walk to the sea shore, and a cave about 100 feet long extended out to the sea side of the castle. If you were to get into the water the castle would be directly above you and you would be separated from the castle grounds by 100 feet of rock. Up above the level of the castle a drawbridge had been built that connected this castle on a rock with the mainland. The floor of the bridge was around 100 feet above the valley below. Both sides of the valley were vertical walls of rock. The bridge was about 25 feet long. I don't know if the early inhabitants were unfriendly of whether this was necessary to protect them from the Vikings and their other enemies.

Enjoy All-Texas Potato Salad For The Fourth Of July

AUSTIN—Whether the main dish is hamburgers, barbecue or fried chicken, your July 4 picnic or cookout won't seem complete unless you include plenty of all-American (and totally Texas) potato salad.

Texas ranks 19th in potato production in the United States. Potatoes are grown in South and Central Texas, as well as northward to the Panhandle. The southern crop is grown mostly for processing, but fresh summer potatoes from the High Plains will be available just in time for those summer picnics. Availability will be at a peak in July and August.

"The Fourth of July is a great time to make the most of fresh, delicious Texas foods," said Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry. "Potato salad, with such Texas-grown additions as celery, peppers and onions, as well as the potatoes themselves, is a good example of how an all-American favorite can be a Totally Texas treat."

Potatoes are not related to sweet potatoes or yams, but are members of the nightshade family, which includes tomatoes, red peppers, tobacco and eggplant. The scientific name, Solanum, is related to the Latin word solamen, which means soothing. Who hasn't been soothed by a rich, delicious mouthful of potatoes?

Nutritionally, spuds pack good value for the calories. Since the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Food Pyramid guidelines recommend a diet with plenty of complex carbohydrates, potatoes can play an important part, supplementing cereals and grain. An average size raw potato contains about 115 calories about 16 grams of carbohydrate, 3.2 grams of protein, 80 milligrams of phosphorus, 1 mg. of iron and 30 mg. of vitamin C (about the same as one-half an orange). Although traditional potato salad is usually high in calories because of the use of mayonnaise or oil-rich dressing, it's also a good source of protein: 1 cup of potato salad made with chopped egg provides about twice as much protein as a cup of cooked cereal.

When you tote your potato salad to the park, the beach or just the back yard, remember that warm weather can breed harmful bacteria in food.

"Keep your salad chilled at all times, in a cooler or packed in ice," Perry said. "If it's allowed to get warm, throw it out. Don't risk ruining your holiday fun."

Home Canning Season Underway

By: Carol Katzer, CEA, H.E.

Now that summer season is here, with its abundance of fresh fruits and vegetables, those wanting to do home canning will want to be sure their equipment is ready and working properly. Proper equipment for home canning is a necessity. One of the major reasons for spoilage of home canned foods is faulty or improper equipment.

Standard canning jars, lids and rings are a basic need. If you wish to reuse canning jars you have at home, check the tops carefully for nicks, cracks or dents. Those with a defect will not do for canning; they prevent an airtight seal.

Standard canning jars imprinted with the manufacturer's name are necessary. They are tempered to withstand the high heat treatment necessary for canning. Mayonnaise, peanut butter and other commercial jars are not made to withstand extreme heat and may break or not seal properly.

Previously used metal lid rings may be reused if they are not rusty or dented. New self-seal lid rights are necessary. Old lids cannot be reused because the remaining sealing compound will not be adequate to make a seal.

The type of canner needed will depend on the type of food canned. For foods high in natural acids, fruits, most tomatoes, pickles and relishes, jams and preserves, a boiling-water bath canner is needed. Commercial water-bath canners (boiling water bath canners) are available, but one can be improvised with a few pieces of equipment. Any large kettle with straight sides, a tight-fitting lid and a rack to keep jars off the bottom of the kettle can be used. The kettle should be deep enough to hold the jars on the rack upright and still allow one to two inches of boiling water over the top of the jars.

A pressure canner is needed for most vegetables, meats, fish and poultry. These foods are low in natural acids and require a higher heat treatment than is possible with boiling water. Pressure must be added to reach these temperatures. A pressure canner cannot be improv-vised. Purchase of the pressure canner may be the most expensive initial investment for canning.

Pressure canners come with either a dial or weighted gauge. Those with a dial must be tested for accuracy at least once a year to ensure proper operation. The Coleman County Extension office can check dial gauges. Pressure canners also have to be checked to be sure they are airtight. Gaskets which help seal the edges of the canners and lids may have to be replaced. Canning equipment may be found at hardware stores or the cookware sections of department stores. In some locations, it may be necessary to order equipment from the company itself.

Mrs. Jeanice Reece, administrator, states that she is very proud to announce that according to teacher Mary Ann Payne the students are doing very well. We are all looking forward to their graduation. Mrs. Reece states "I am very pleased with the way the class is being conducted, and I hope more people will take an interest in long term care." It takes caring people to enter into this kind of work, but rest assured it is very rewarding.

Ranger Park welcomes Mrs. Tula "Tim" Tindell to our facility.

We are very pleased to see Mrs. Peggy Johnson, sister of our resident, Miss Christine Sanders up and looking well after her recent surgery.

Ann Buzbee was visited by Jim and Rae Taylor.

By Mrs. Tom Rutherford

Brownwood on Sunday. Glad to report Leon is doing pretty well these days.

I really did enjoy Mr. and Mrs. Elvis Ray and wife, Reba Cozart coming by Saturday morning and visiting with me for a while. They are doing well and look real good and were on the farm near Trickham for the weekend. Thanks for coming by. They were kinda checking on the Cozart home place here and returned to Round Rock on Sunday, their home town.

Mr. James Avant of Coleman and Mrs. Douglas Avant of Brady were dinner guests of their mother, Pearl Avant in Santa Anna on Tuesday. James comes to Santa Anna often and we are glad to report Mrs. Avant is feeling great these days.

Talked with my son Thomas Ray Rutherford Sunday afternoon. His baby daughter Jo Ann was married in New Hampshire on Saturday night. He reports was a nice wedding. Jo Ann's sister and two boys from Vancouver, Washington came for the wedding. It talked with with each one (father and daughters). The new bride has her home and work in Nashville, Tennessee and told me she would be back to her work Wednesday. They were going to take their honeymoon the last of the year. We sure wish them well and lots of happiness.

Talked with my daughter Lynda Sunday afternoon. Was a nice day at La Grange in fact had two nice days together, Saturday and Sunday. They have really having rain here for several weeks but no damaging high water.

Loyd Rutherford and Roy Emerson were dinner guests with me some during the week. Roy has been doing some work on the house for us and also helping Loyd with farming and the cattle on the ranch.

Talked with Tommy Stanberry Monday morning. He is doing well recovering real good from his accident months past. Has been on a combine all fall. So thankful he is recovering well.

Checking with Mr. Graham Fitzpatrick his wife, Imogene is still a patient in the Brownwood hospital and her condition is not very good at all. He is with her during the day daily.

Visiting with Graham during the week were Floyd Morris on Saturday, Bruce Estes on Sunday and Dan Sealy of Odessa on Sunday afternoon.

Excerpts From The Bylaws Of Coleman County Electric Cooperative

ARTICLE II Meeting of Members

SECTION 1. ANNUAL MEETING. The annual meeting of members shall be held at such time, during the month of July as the Board of Directors may direct and such meeting shall be held at such place in the Cooperative service area, as shall be designated in the notice of the meeting for the purpose of electing directors, passing upon reports covering the previous fiscal year, and transacting such other business as may come before the meeting. If the election of directors shall not be held on the day designated herein for any annual meeting, or at any adjournment thereof, the Board of Directors shall cause the election to be held at a special meeting of the members as soon thereafter as conveniently may be. Failure to hold the annual meeting at the designated time shall not work a forfeiture or dissolution of the Cooperative.

SECTION 2. SPECIAL MEETINGS. Special meetings of the members may be called by the President, by the Board of Directors, or by a majority thereof or upon a written request signed by at least ten per centum (10%) of all members and it shall thereupon be the duty of the Secretary to cause notice of such meeting to be given as hereinafter provided. Special meetings of the members may be held at any place within the County of Coleman in the State of Texas specified in the notice of the special meeting, or elsewhere within the area served by the Cooperative as may be designated by the Board of Directors.

SECTION 3. NOTICE OF MEMBERS' MEETING. Written or printed notice stating the place, day and hour of the meeting and, in case of a special meeting, the purpose or purposes for which the meeting is called, shall be delivered not less than ten (10) days nor more than twenty (20) days before the date of the meeting, either personally or by mail, by or at the direction of the Secretary, or by the persons calling the meeting, to each member; provided, however, that with respect to all meetings at which directors are to be elected such notice shall be so delivered not less than ten (10) days nor more than fourteen (14) days before the date of the meeting. If mailed, such notice shall be deemed to be delivered when deposited in the United States mail, addressed to the member at his address as it appears on the records of the Cooperative, with postage thereon prepaid. The failure of any member to receive notice of an annual or special meeting of the members shall not invalidate any action which may be taken by the members of any such meeting.

SECTION 4. QUORUM. As long as the total number of members does not exceed one thousand (1,000) at least fifteen per centum (15%) of the total number present in person shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business at all meetings of the members. In case the total number of members shall exceed one thousand (1,000) then at least one hundred fifty (150) of the members present shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business at all meetings of the members. If less than a quorum is present at any meeting, a majority of those present in person may adjourn the meeting from time to time without further notice.

SECTION 5. VOTING. Each member shall be entitled to one (1) vote and not more upon each matter submitted to a vote at a meeting of the members. At all meetings of the members at which a quorum is present all questions shall be decided by a vote of a majority of the members voting thereon in person or by mail, except as otherwise provided by law, the articles of incorporation of the Cooperative, or these bylaws. If a husband and wife hold a joint membership they shall jointly be entitled to one (1) vote and no more upon each matter submitted to a vote at a meeting of the members.

SECTION 6. VOTING BY MAIL. In addition to the method of voting for directors of the Cooperative as provided by the existing bylaws and by a member being present and voting in person, each member shall be and is hereby permitted to vote by mail for directors of this association. At the time notices of member's meetings are given as provided by Article II of these bylaws, and with a notice of member's annual meeting, or any postponement thereof, there shall be sent to each member either personally or by mail a ballot which shall contain the names of all members who have been nominated as candidates for directors with a statement of the number to be elected and with appropriate instructions to the member to vote for such members: EACH MEMBER SHALL BE INSTRUCTED AFTER VOTING FOR THE REQUIRED NUMBER TO SIGN SAID BALLOT AND RETURN THE BALLOT TO THE COOPERATIVE AT ITS OFFICE PRIOR TO THE DATE OF SAID MEETING. Said ballots when so received shall be retained and placed in a locked ballot box until the date of the members' meeting at which time shall be delivered to the inspectors of Election and counted together with the votes cast in person at such members' meeting. The Directors who receive a plurality of the vote shall be elected. Drawing by lot shall resolve, when necessary, any tie votes.

SECTION 7. ORDER OF BUSINESS. The order of business at the annual meeting of the members, and so far as possible at all other meetings of the members, shall be essentially as follows:

1. Report the existence of a quorum.
2. Reading of the notice of the meeting and proof of the due publication of mailing thereof, or the waiver or waivers of notice of the meeting, as the case may be.
3. Reading of unapproved minutes of previous meetings of the members and the taking of necessary action thereon.
4. Presentation and consideration of, and acting upon, reports of officers, directors and committees.
5. Election of directors.
6. Unfinished business.
7. New business.
8. Adjournments.

Trickham News

By Anna York

The rain clouds are still floating around us but so far very little has fallen. Last Tuesday evening we received an even half an inch, while Mrs. Haynes one mile north of us recorded one and eight-tenths inches. Every little bit is appreciated.

The descendants of Horace and Bessie Goodjoan and Homer and Bessie Goodjoan held their annual reunion at the Trickham Community Center on Saturday and Sunday with a large crowd attending. Reba Jongema spoke on the family history and Hayden Goodjoan brought the devotional. A few of us from church visited with the group awhile and enjoyed seeing everyone.

An awful sad thing happened in this community Monday morning when the body of Leslie Ray Fleming, age 27, was found a short distance from the bridge that crosses Mukewater Creek. An autopsy was performed at Dallas and the cause of death is uncertain at this time. Memorial services were held Saturday morning at the Trickham Union Church with interment in the Trickham Cemetery. His survivors are his dad and brother, Charlie Ray Fleming and Cris of Alice and grandmothers, Mrs. Florence Stearns and Mrs. Thelma Fleming. Our sincere sympathy goes out to this family.

Mrs. Alberto Beddo of Lubbock spent a few days visiting with her brother, Frank and Lois Wallace. On Friday Alberta and Lois went to Waco where they attended a retired nurses reunion at the Hillcrest Baptist Church and report they had a real nice time. On Sunday the three of them visited and had lunch with Reba and Elvis who were at their place on the farm for the weekend.

Bob Anderson of Denton spent a few days last week with his in-laws of Mr. and Mrs. Talmage (Pete) McClatchy. Their grandson Nicholas and Nathan Drienhofer of Lake Brownwood have been out visiting and helping granddad with the farm work.

There were four ladies at the community center on Monday to quilt and twenty-four were present on Thursday night for the eighty-four party. Mrs. Novella Stearns hosted.

Rodney and Cellena Guthrie were supper guests of his aunt, Mrs.

Annie Lou Vaughn Tuesday evening and Nancy Jo Dudley and daughter, Glenna Gayle and baby, Julian of Comanche visited with her Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Mary Lea Mitchell and daughters, Betty Miller of Austin and Lea Mock of Post returned home Saturday from several days vacation with their grandchildren, Lindsey, Josh and Cris. They toured parts of Kansas, South Dakota and Nebraska. In Nebraska they took the children on a wagon train trip, camped out, and ate out, with all the fun things you would do if you were out somewhere in a wagon. They report a nice time and says the grandkids had a ball. Those that visited during the last
