

State Capitol NEWS

Austin — In years past, a favorite topic among legislators about this time in the session was, "When are we going to sine die?"

A sine die (final adjournment) resolution gave everyone a comfortable sense of direction. Now there's no need.

Under the new law, the regular session automatically ends after 140 days. For this session the 140th day will be May 29. But with the time two-thirds gone, there's no assurance vital tasks can be completed by May 29.

Both House and Senate are now working on the tax problem, but other measures of major importance — loan regulation, school consolidation — claim their time and cause delays.

Some observers are freely predicting that the tax question this year, as in 1959, cannot be solved except in special sessions limited to that one subject.

LOAN BILL PASSED

House members passed and sent to the Senate a bill on one of the session's most difficult problems — small loan regulation.

Rep. Criss Cole's bill would allow interest rates up to 39.8 percent on the smallest loans. An amendment was added to allow loan companies to make a service charge of $4 every three months in addition to the interest.

Two amendments were passed with the aim of trying to prevent the market's being taken over by large, out-of-state chains. One would prevent the licensing of a loan company owned by a non-resident person or corporation. Another would prohibit any one loan firm's having more than 50 branch offices in Texas.

Another amendment would require the finance commissioner, who would be responsible for loan company licensing and regulation to approve any charges for insurance in connection with loans.

LOAN INSURANCE RULING

Meanwhile, an attorney general's ruling gave additional direction to the effort to control total charges for small loans.

A loan company, said the opinion from Atty. Gen. Will Wilson's office, is not entitled to a commission for group insurance sold in connection with loans.

Many critics of the small loan industry have contended the loan companies have made extra and unjustified profits by serving as "agent" for the sale of credit insurance to borrowers.

Actually, according to the opinion, the creditor (loan company) is the buyer of the insurance policy and, as such, is not entitled to an agent's commission on the sale.

This opinion, it was felt, will help to clear up the sticky problem of keeping a lid on charges for insurance required of borrowers as security for loans.

SCHOOL

CONSOLIDATION WEIGHED

Senate ran into problems over a bill designed to encourage small school districts to economize.

Under present law, if several common school districts in a county consolidate, the first result is that state aid for the combined district is less than for the several separate districts. Government research specialists, however, have long advocated more consolidation in the interest of economy, efficiency and better school programs.

Sen. Tom Creighton of Mineral Wells is sponsoring a measure providing that common districts forming a consolidated district of 1,000 pupils or more shall, for 10 years, continue to receive as much state aid as before consolidation.

Sen. Culp Krueger objected that the requirements would penalize many of the low-population counties in his district. Besides, said Krueger, he didn't believe in "paying people to economize."

SENATE STUDIES

ANNEXATION

A House-passed bill setting up ground rules for city annexation is being worked on by a subcommittee of the Senate State Affairs Committee.

Rep. W. T. Dungan of McKinney is sponsor of the bill which would allow cities to ring themselves with "buffer zones" over which they could exercise control of building, health and sanitation standards. A portion of the zone could be annexed each year. Bill also provides that an annexed area not provided with municipal services in three years may "disannex" itself.

Spokesmen for the Texas Municipal League spoke in favor of the bill at committee hearing. A representative of the Texas Home Builders Association spoke against it and asked for more control over city extension of control.

70 MPH BILL PASSED

Senate passed and sent to the House a bill that would allow speed limits up to 70 miles per hour on some state highways.

Power to say which roads would have higher — or lower — speed limits would be in the hands of the State Highway Commissioner.

In support of the varying speed limits, Senator Wardlow Lane of Center said it was unreasonable to have the same 60-mile-an-hour limit on new divided highways and old, narrow, twisting roads.

Senator Preston Smith of Lubbock is sponsor. A controversial amendment by Senator Lane would make inadmissible in a court considering a speeding charge "evidence gained by entrapment" or gained by officers "lying in wait unobserved." Presumably this would, in effect, outlaw radar traps.

GOP ASKS

ELECTION CHANGES

Spokesmen for the Texas Republican Party appeared before a House Committee in behalf of four bills to change the election code.

Two of the bills set up qualifications for poll watchers and election supervisors. Another would allow voters to put a mark beside the name of the person they wish to vote for instead of scratching all others. Another would repeal the provision for disqualifying a ballot on which two or more names are left unscratched for the same office.

GOP officials said that 100,000 ballots were thrown out in the last general election, and that probably 100,000 were counted that should not have been. Clarifying the law, they declared, would protect everyone's vote.

BOARDS FAVOR

TEACHER RAISE

Answers to questionnaires sent to local school boards over Texas show that 99 percent of the school trustees replying favor raises for teachers.

Boards are divided, however, on how much the raise should be. Biggest proportion, 64 percent, favor the full $800 sought by the Hale-Aikin Committee and the Texas State Teachers Association. About 22 percent favor a $600 a year increase, and 8 percent a $400 increase. Remainder favor some other amount.

Other results: a substantial majority of boards favor adding driver education teachers to the list of authorized special personnel.

A committee of the Texas Association of School Administrators and Texas Association of School Boards conducted the poll.

SALES TAX

SENT TO FLOOR

A 2 percent general sales tax designed to raise $189,000,000 a year has been sent to the full House for a decision.

House Revenue and Taxation Committee unanimously passed out the bill by Rep. John Allen of Longview. Some members who voted to pass the bill out of committee said they would not vote for it on the floor. They apparently felt that the only way to settle the sales tax issue for this session is to get it to the floor for a vote.

Taxation Committee also heard testimony on an omnibus tax bill by Rep. George Hinson of Mineola. It is supported by the governor.

Hinson's bill would raise an estimated $156,000,000 a year through taxes of varying percentages on such items as motor boats, jewelry, watches, soft drinks, restaurant meals, building materials, utilities and gas pipelines.

Soft drink manufacturers were among those protesting at being singled out. Bill was sent to subcommittee for study.

SHORT SNORTS

Car owners have until April 15 to get their autos safety inspected and a new sticker put on the windshield. Col. Homer Garrison Jr., director of the Department of Public Safety, said DPS officers would start handing out tickets to non-stickered cars Sunday, April 16.

A rise in the number of polio cases reported this year has prompted the Department of Health to urge parents to see their children's shots. Seven more cases were reported for the first quarter of 1961 than for 1960. Health officials recommend that a child receive his first polio shot at 1½ months and succeeding shots at the recommended intervals until five have been received.

Memorial Day would become a legal holiday for state employees under a House-passed proposal. But before passing the measure, sponsored by Rep. Dick Cory of Victoria, members took out Columbus Day as a holiday.

Bureau of Business Research economists are making hedged predictions that Texas business is beginning slowly to pull out of the slump that began in 1960. Dr. John R. Stockton said the third quarter (July, August and September) of 1961 are looked to for the first strong signs of recovery.

Atty. Gen. Will Wilson ruled that only a juvenile court judge has authority to give permission for an operation to be performed on a child that has been declared dependent and neglected. Chief probation officer of the county cannot authorize the operation, said the opinion.

Don't wait for "George" to do it. If you have had visitors or entertained at a social, phone 45 and let us know about it.

Sucker Signals

There is no sorrier person than one who has been victimized by a phony deal. Unfortunately, once the buyer has signed an order or contract, little can be done to get him off the hook. "But I didn't realize..." are words often heard by lawyers who are usually unable to help at that point.

Despite the complete disavowance of "caveat emptor" (let the buyer beware) by ethical merchants, there are still some businesses that thrive on high promotion deals. Buyers are contacted by direct mail, over the telephone, or by "come on" advertisements. These contracts all resort to fancy claims and a high pressure approach.

How can you avoid such sales tactics? There is no sure way, outside of dealing with reputable, established merchants, and using common sense in reading the ads. But there are certain sucker signals that should ring the alarm bell. Here are a few:

"Buy now or lose the chance..."

"You have been specially selected..."

"It's only a legal form..."

"You can save up to..."

"Your absolutely free..."

These signals do not necessarily indicate a bad deal, but they are frequently used by shady promoters. So read carefully, think it over, compare prices and ask for information from a merchant you know, or from a friend.

Remember, in this world of tough business competition, one seldom gets anything for nothing. Once you have signed an order, even the law may not be able to help you, no matter how imprudent the deal may be for you. In fact, unless the seller is doing something illegal, the law may wind up helping him to enforce the bad deal that you made. So watch the signals and look before you leap — or sign!

(This newsfeature, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform — not to advise you. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

Analysis of 1960 Traffic Deaths Released by DPS

The Texas Department of Public Safety today released an official analysis of traffic accidents for 1960 indicating that excessive speed and driving while drinking led the list of violations figuring in fatal accidents on the rural highways.

The booklet, prepared by DPS Statistical Services, lists speed too fast for conditions as a factor in 48 percent of the rural fatal accidents, and driving while drinking as a factor in 39 percent of these accidents.

Statistical Services Manager N. K. Woerner noted that the 2,254 motorcides in Texas during 1960 was the lowest toll since 1949 when 1,957 were killed. Other observations made from the analysis included these:

The 1960 death rate of 4.9 motorcides for each 100 millions miles of travel was the lowest on record.

Traffic killed 199 fewer persons than in 1959.

Traffic deaths on rural roads and highways were reduced 11 percent.

There were nine deathless days on Texas highways during the year, the greatest number for any year since World War II.

An average of one person was injured every hour and 35 minutes for a total of 127,980 — almost equal to the population of Lubbock. This would mean that 13 of every 1,000 Texans were injured in traffic accidents during the year.

National Rural Civil Defense Youth Program Launched in Texas

Austin — The Division of Defense and Disaster Relief of the Governor's Office has announced a new state-wide youth program designed to draw boys and girls into active participation in rural civil defense.

In cooperation with the Extension Service of A. & M. College, rural civil defense informative kits are being made available to every county agent in the state. The kits will be used to make benefits of the program available to all state rural youth organizations.

The program, which will give organizations and individuals the opportunity to earn Youth Achievement Certificates, was developed nationally by the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization, with the assistance of national and state leaders and staff officials of 4-H Clubs, Future Farmers of America, Future Homemakers of America, and other groups.

The purpose of the program is to help youth develop a civil defense awareness and show them how they may take part in their community and county efforts, explained James H. Garner, state civil defense coordinator. "The program is intended primarily for rural youth, but may be used effectively by urban young people."

Each kit contains rural civil defense texts and visuals, outlines for three discussion meetings, basic reference materials and a Leader's Guide. Many activities are suggested for adoption as group or individual projects. All are related to civil defense education and awareness, farm and family protection measures, or support of the community and national efforts.

Our WASHINGTON Letter

If RED CHINA is admitted to the United Nations next Fall, what will the United States do about it? That question is being raised, and properly so. A few years ago only the Communist bloc voted to admit the Chinese Reds. But last year the vote was only 42 to 34, with 22 abstentions, opposing admission. It's now hinted that even Britain and Brazil may join Norway, Denmark, Ireland and other non-Communist lands in favoring the seating of Peiking. A two-thirds vote is required to let them in and turn the Free Chinese of Formosa out.

The UN charter says an applicant must be "peace-loving." If the Red Chinese can qualify, in view of their recent record, then it is evident that the United Nations is a farce. Red aggression in Korea, their genocide in Tibet, their never-ending threat of force against Formosa; their incursions in India, and their subversions in places like Laos, should be convincing.

If a known tyrant and warmonger like Red China is admitted to the UN, that is at least supposed to be composed of people seeking peaceful solutions, then in my opinion the United States should get out of it.

OPERATION ABOLITION is a 30-minute documentary film of a Communist-led riot that took place in San Francisco last May 13 when the House Un-American Activities Committee went there to hold hearings on communist activities in that area. It is a thrilling and living exposure of how Communists operate when they are on the defensive and are in danger of being exposed.

I recently acquired one of these 16 mm. films, and will be pleased to loan it to any church, school, club or other group that has not had an opportunity to view it. It would be a wonderful thing if every American could see this film.

Hawks Control Pesky Rodents For the Farmer

Austin — Of all the predacious birds, the hawk family is the most persecuted and the least understood, according to Jerome Kasten in his article, "Hawk, Friend or Foe?" in the April issue of Texas Game and Fish magazine. This includes hawks, kites, harriers, and eagles.

The good these birds do far outweighs the bad. For instance, the major part of a kite's diet reads like the role of the scourge of the land (beetles, moths, locusts, dragonflies, crickets, wasps, caterpillars, and other insects). Farmers would have a greater appreciation for these birds if they knew of this diet, writes the author. "No excuse can be made for the extermination of kites. They are harmless, helpful and easily recognizable. Yet their numbers are ever diminishing in the state."

Kasten's article is taken from a study he made in Texas. His findings reveal some interesting facts about the hawk family. For instance, the farmer who is lucky enough to have an osprey or two nesting on his land need never worry about other hawks. The osprey never eats poultry and makes a habit of keeping other hawks well away from its nesting grounds. And the sparrow hawk is almost exclusively insectivorous, and therefore a benefactor to the farmer.

"One bad act, such as a hawk making off with a chicken," writes Kasten, "causes many persons to conclude that all hawks should be killed. They fail to consider that this same hawk may catch field mice as well. A reduction in the number of hawks will certainly remove one effective check on rodents."

FOR BETTER SHOOTING
As you get older, the open sights of your rifle get fuzziest and won't stay on the target. You find yourself missing the target often.

Of course, this can be overcome by using scope sights. But often a scope isn't feasible, or you may not like scopes.

So, the next best thing to do is to switch from open to ring, or peep sights. You won't have to squint, and your target is again clear.

Better change the front sight at the same time. Replace with one that has a higher post. Most rifles are drilled to receive peep sights, so you can install it yourself.

We can order a rubber stamp for you at the News Office.

About Your Health

It is a sad thing to disillusion those who cherish the myth of their "immunity" to poison ivy or oak or sumac, but the season of prevalence of these toxic plants is fast approaching, and forewarned is forearmed.

Botanical scientists say it is doubtful that anyone is absolutely immune to their poisonous substance. More and more authorities agree that susceptibility is a mere matter of degree, varying with the condition of the individual, the condition of the plant and the circumstances of exposure.

Texas has its fair share of the 100-plus plants and plant products known to be capable of causing sometimes severe skin irritations. Among them are the parsnip, lady-slipper, cultivated primrose (especially when in flower), lily bulbs and stalks, stinging nettle, and vanilla beans.

But by far the most common cause of plant dermatitis in Texas and elsewhere in the United States is poison ivy, known to botanists by the tongue-twisting name of Rhus toxicodendron. A cousin — poison sumac, by name — is common to the swampy regions of eastern Texas, and can sometimes produce severe reactions.

For all practical purposes, poison ivy and poison oak are the same thing. Poison oak is simply any poison ivy that grows as a bush rather than a vine. Poison ivy is an unusually inconsistent species of plant. Besides growing as a bush and a vine, the size of its berries and the outline of its leaves often vary widely. Its leaves are characteristically egg-shaped and pointed, but the edges may be smooth and unbroken or saw-toothed. Moreover, these variations might occur on a single plant, or the leaves on an entire plant may be similar.

But in one matter, poison ivy is almost invariably consistent — its leaves practically always grow in clusters of three. Most researchers agree that actual physical contact with the plant juice either directly or indirectly is necessary before the poisoning agent can cause the typical blisters and skin inflammation.

Thus ivy poisoning is best prevented by learning to recognize the plant and avoiding it. And, of course, it is always prudent to wear protective clothing such as leggings and gloves when going into areas where poison plants are known to flourish. Once exposed, immediate washing with laundry soap and water helps to remove the resin. (A weekly feature of the Health Education Division, Texas State Department of Health.)

New Egg Products On the Way

College Station — According to Fred Gardner of the poultry science department at Texas A&M College, the egg is becoming modernized. With the goal of the housewife having to spend less time and energy in the preparation of egg dishes in mind, research personnel are developing new packaging ideas and new uses for eggs.

During the past ten years, researchers have come up with some amazing products. How does preparing enough scrambled eggs for the whole family in 30 seconds sound? It can be done with a recently developed scrambled egg package. All you do is add hot water, stir and you're ready to serve a plate of eggs. Maybe you don't want scrambled eggs. In that case, pop some of the new instant French toast into your toaster. These are just two of the many new egg products that should be on grocer's shelves in the near future, says Gardner.

There are also many new egg products that are still in the development stage. For instance, pressurized cans of egg yolk, egg white or whole egg may soon be available. With these, all you do is press a button and you have whipped whites, scrambled eggs or egg soufflé. Or perhaps you would prefer packaged sliced hard cooked eggs, frozen egg sandwiches, pickled eggs, smoked egg dip, frozen scrambled eggs and bacon, deviled egg roll and either fried, poached or scrambled eggs as warm and serve items. These should also be available in the not too distant future.

Attend church regularly.

The American Way

NEITHER NEW NOR FRONTIER
By John T. Flynn

(Editor's Note: John T. Flynn is a noted author, lecturer and radio commentator.)

A big question around Washington these days is: Where is the New Frontier?

One was claimed a geographer went slightly nutty because he took seriously this latest political label and tried to find it on a map.

Another joker thinks this is what the astronauts are up to trying to find the New Frontier.

However, now that the new regime in Washington has been in office for nearly three months, the outlines of the so-called New Frontier are becoming pretty clear.

It is obvious that it is not in outer space or on some far-flung outpost of any ocean or continent. It is right on the Potomac in Washington, D. C.

And it is not a frontier, and there is nothing new about it. All one needs to do is to take a look at its cast of characters. The New Frontiersmen are made up of the old, discredited New Dealers, and of their modern-day disciples and imitators. Basically their philosophy is found in the old Rooseveltian formula of tax-and-tax, spend-and-spend, elect-and-elect.

Of course if this is what the people want, maybe the New Frontiersmen know what they are doing. But often the people do not know what they are getting because the product is not properly labeled. "New Frontier" sounds challenging, forward-looking, inspiring. But it is somewhat like labeling a can of codfish eggs as caviar and selling it at a high price—a practice which the Federal Trade Commission would never permit.

The basis of the New Frontier is so old it creaks—more and more government interference, and thus more and more control, over every phase of our lives by the Washington bureaucracy, all carried on with great bites out of our incomes.

The results of the old New Deal panaceas are now catching up with us, and we are paying the inevitable price for its interferences in our free-enterprise economy. Older citizens may recall that this was once facetiously known as "government by alphabet soup"—a reference to the innumerable alphabetical bureaus set up by FDR and his successors. It isn't easy to keep track of the steady flow of new interferences coming out of the New Frontier, but at the last count there were proposals for no less than 25 or 30 additional alphabetical agencies—to be piled on top of the existing ones—covering everything that the American states, communities and individuals once thought was their own special concern.

Now no matter what label is put on all this, it is really a disguised form of socialism. Our new President is said to be avidly in search of information and intelligence about the numerous problems he faces, which is certainly to his credit. But perhaps he needs to tear himself away from the Harvard and other New Frontiersmen who surround him so that he can take a clear look at socialist experiments in other countries. European nations which have experienced socialism and know what it means seem to be getting somewhat fed up with the reality.

Great Britain, for instance, announced recently that she is selling back to private investors the seven steel companies which were nationalized ten years ago.

West Germany has about completed turning over to private ownership the government-owned Volkswagen Auto Works.

Is it not strange to see the United States, under the pretense of a new frontier which is not new and is not a frontier, going in for socialist experiments which European countries tried and are now discarding?

Is it an ironic twist of fate that just when Europe begins to see how superior is the free-enterprise system which made America great and prosperous, we start copying Europe's old and discredited socialism.

Spring is Here: Check Snakes, Birds and Boats

Austin—Spring is here in full bloom. Birds are pairing off, snakes are coming out and boats are being put into the water.

These things are of especial significance to the Game and Fish Commission, according to Howard Dodgen, executive secretary.

Concerning the birds, he suggests every person who is interested in bird life get a copy of the Field Guide to the Birds of Texas by Roger Tory Peterson. It contains pictures and descriptions of 592 Texas birds. These books are available now from the Game Commission in Austin at the publication price of $3 each, postpaid.

The subject of snakes and boats also brings a warning from the secretary. Not all snakes are poisonous, but extreme care should be used when going into the woods. And as to boats, every person getting into a boat should be certain there is an adequate life preserver in it for his personal use. This one bit of caution might save a life.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Zachary of Freeport spent the Easter Holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Zachary.

Mr. and Mrs. Jess Griffiths, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Price and Donnie Campbell visited the Durrell Griffiths family in Fort Worth Sunday.

TOO BUSY TO LIVE?

Are you really too busy to have a health checkup once a year? Or do you put it off because you're afraid your doctor might find something wrong?

If it's cancer you're worried about, remember that doctors are curing many more cancers than they could ten years ago. 800,000 Americans are alive today, cured of cancer... many of them because they had made a habit of having annual checkups no matter how well they felt... all of them because they went to their doctors in time! Make annual checkups a habit... for life!
