

State Capitol NEWS

Austin — Sometime between now and August 31, the Texas Legislature must come to a showdown, do-or-die, back-to-the-wall decision on a big new money-raising bill.

But many lawmakers believe the situation will have to have reached the desperate, no-choice-left stage before such a decision can be made. To meet current needs, say some lawmakers, the tax bill will have to be a big one and it's bound to bring static from voters.

Only way they can survive, said one, is to be able to say, "Look, I don't like this bill either. But what can we do... close the schools?"

In this climate, the House postponed floor action on the general sales tax measure by Reps. John Allen of Longview and Forrest Harding of San Angelo. Gov. Price Daniel attacked the bill as "obnoxious and inequitable," hitting everything "from the cradle to the grave." Governor Daniel urged compromise through a "package" bill. Ingredients for the package, he said, might come from Rep. George Hinson's omnibus tax bill and Rep. Ben Atwell's selective sales tax measure. Hinson's bill would hit in many areas — watches, jewelry, power tools and machinery, construction materials, natural gas, restaurant meals, non-essential beverages, etc.

Atwell's bill is akin to a general sales tax except that it would tax the hundreds of items it would tax rather than making a blanket provision.

SENATE COOL TO TAX

With less than bubbling enthusiasm, Senate State Affairs began hearings on the first tax bill sent over by the House.

It is Rep. Charles Ballman's "loophole bill" designed to raise some $43,000,000 toward retiring an expected $63,000,000 deficit in the general revenue fund.

Senators listened with seeming sympathy to witnesses who criticized the bill's provision for a revised franchise tax formula and a gift tax. They listened, too, to a lengthy pro-sales tax discussion by Tom Sealy of Midland, chairman of the Citizens for a Sales Tax group.

Under the Ballman bill's broad caption, the Senate could add extensively to its revenue-raising features, but most observers doubt the Senate will be eager to seize the initiative at this stage.

CAMPAIGN LIMIT KILLED

A bill to limit campaign expenditures to $25,000 in a race for the U. S. Senate or congressman at large was killed by the House, 83-to-50.

Sen. Martin Dies Jr. of Lufkin was sponsor of the bill which passed the Senate.

Supporters of the measure said that as things are "a rich man can buy his way into office." Opponents said the limit was unrealistic and that a newcomer to politics could never become known with such restrictions on a statewide race.

INSURANCE CHANGE FLOUNDERS

Sen. Grady Hazlewood's bill to set ground rules for the state's merit rating auto insurance has had at least a temporary setback.

Senate voted 16-to-13 to take up the bill. However, a two-thirds majority is needed to begin floor action.

Prior to this action, the State Board of Insurance announced extensive changes in the rating plan, effective August 1. Such violations as running a red light or stop sign, illegal passing or turning, negligent collision and breaking of drivers' license restrictions, were removed from the list of actions causing a driver to pay higher insurance rates.

Senator Hazlewood was not satisfied with the changes. He criticized the removal of red light running from the list and the keeping of penalties for speeding, no matter how slight.

FREIGHT RATE BILL PASSED

A bill to simplify rate setting for railroads and truckers was passed on second reading by the House.

Under present law, the Railroad Commission has to pass on every rate change request, no matter how trivial. Under the proposed measure, the rail or truck line would publish the proposed new rate and if no one objected, it would go into effect. If there were objections, the Railroad Commission would call a hearing and decide the matter.

CONSOLIDATION PAYMENTS OKAYED

A bill designed to encourage consolidation of school districts received final Senate passage.

It provides that common school districts which consolidate into one will continue to receive, for 10 years, the same amount of state aid they would have received if they had not merged.

Sen. Thomas Creighton of Mineral Wells is sponsor. He said it would promote better schools and in the long run, economy.

About Your Health

Austin — More Texans have been sickened by infectious hepatitis to date this year than in any similar period since the State Department of Health began keeping records on it back in 1952.

Between January 1 and April 1, the exhausting liver ailment had stricken 1,028 persons. Some of them are undoubtedly still feeling its ill effects, since the disease is capable of keeping its victims bedridden for weeks.

For the first 13 weeks of 1960, only 493 cases of the ailment had been reported in Texas. The highest incidence previous to this year was 626 cases reported in 1954.

The reason for the present upsurge in cases is not known. Public health physicians say the disease seems to attack relatively large numbers of people — mostly youngsters and young adults — every eight or 10 years. Why it should follow such a cycle is a mystery.

But it is known that infectious hepatitis is caused by an elusive virus for which man is the reservoir. And it is known that it is spread by personal contact with sick persons or with carriers and sometimes in contaminated food or water.

Although most cases occur among children and young adults, people of all ages are susceptible. Fortunately, the disease is rarely fatal. Doctors report that the death rate seldom exceeds 2 percent, even in epidemics.

Victims of the disease usually begin feeling sick two or three weeks after exposure. They usually lose their appetite, feel fatigued and weary. They might be nauseated, but may or may not vomit. They will feel achy and sore, and may have a sensation of heaviness in the stomach.

One of the most prominent symptoms is a yellow discoloration — known as jaundice — of skin and whites of the eyes. But some persons never show such discoloration, and children sometimes contact the disease without showing any of the typical symptoms.

Having one bout with infectious hepatitis is usually pretty good insurance against having a second one, but second attacks have been known to occur.

A physician should be called at once in any suspected case of infectious hepatitis. Bed-rest and adequate diet are necessary for an uncomplicated recovery.

The most efficient tools for preventing the disease are good personal hygiene, and a high level of community sanitation. Contacts of known cases should see their family physician as promptly after exposure as possible to determine if injections of immune serum globulin are advisable for passive protection. SMOKING OUT COONS

Don't smoke coons, possums, or squirrels out of dens or hollow trees. You can cause a disastrous forest fire by doing so.

Instead, tie a wad of cloth on a stick and soak in common household ammonia. Thrust ammonia-soaked end of stick in tree hollow or den and the occupant will hustle out in a hurry.

WANTED
a home in 1981

Kids just naturally grow up... and they do it fast. The kids the age of the little girl in our picture will be wanting a home in 1981. We hope she has a home (run by electricity, of course) in 1981 and that her home life is a happy one. We also hope she has something else as well — a strong, free nation — where she has a right to get ahead under her own steam and will always be secure!

AT HOME TODAY

In our little girl's home today, she can enjoy electric living at a very economical cost. For instance — the average family, served by W.T.U., can cook a complete meal for less than 3¢ with a modern electric range. If you are not using an electric range, you owe it to your "little girl" to investigate this modern method of cooking today.

Investor-owned companies, like West Texas Utilities Company, are working hard to see that this little girl's "wants" come true in 1981. Each year, W.T.U. spends thousands of dollars and uses thousands of man-hours planning ahead to be sure we can supply the ever-increasing demands for electric energy. In a private enterprise nation, this is our job! We are going to do a good job for our little girl.

Report accused Atty. Gen. Will Wilson of failing to follow up vigorously on reports to him of flourishing prostitution and rackets in the Beaumont-Fort Arthur area.

It also criticized Liquor Control Board Administrator Coke Stephenson Jr. for merely denoting an agent accused of failing to stop liquor law violations by private clubs in Jefferson County.

House committee completed its study last year and was automatically dissolved at the beginning of this session, but the report was delayed.

Wilson hotly denied that he had failed or refused to take any action within the power and scope of his office. He said the criticism of him was "politically motivated" by Rep. Tom James of Dallas, vice chairman of the committee.

Meanwhile, the House — rather wearily, perhaps — voted against a bill that would set up House and Senate investigating committees every session, as a matter of law. Better, they decided, to establish such committees by resolution when special circumstances seem to warrant.

HOURS CUT APPROVED

A bill to cut the work week of state hospital employees from 44 to 40 hours was voted out unanimously by the Senate Committee on State Departments and Institutions.

THE LIBERTY AMENDMENT One of the planks of the Socialist Party's 1920 Platform read: "The Government should take over all power plants." Well, the Socialist Party has never come even close to taking over our American Government, but in spite of that it "ain't" done too badly. In 1920, very little of the nation's electric generating capacity was owned by government, but it crept up to 6.8 percent by 1932 and ran up to 24.1 percent by 1959.

If the avowed Socialists, and Socialists who are not avowed, have their way, America will go up to 100 percent as advocated in the 1920 Socialist Party's platform. Those of us who believe that private enterprise should control 100 percent of the nation's electric generating capacity can accomplish that goal by supporting the proposed "Liberty Amendment," formerly referred to in this column as the 23rd already approved by four States and pending before some 25 others, which provides in part:

"The Government of the United States shall not engage in any business, professional, commercial, financial or industrial enterprise except as specified in the Constitution. "The activities of the United States Government which violate the intent and purposes of this amendment shall, within a period of three years from the date of the ratification of this amendment, be liquidated and the properties and facilities affected shall be sold."

The Battalion is responsible for defense of Dyess AFB and surrounding communities against air attack.

ELIGIBILITY FOR FARM OPERATING LOANS BROADENED

A revision by the U. S. Department of Agriculture of its eligibility requirements for operating loans so as to better serve the credit needs of small farmers will aid many Texas farmers.

Farmers who can profitably use operating loans to increase their farm income and have the ability to repay their debts are now eligible even though they cannot presently obtain all the resources needed for family-type farm operations, and lack opportunity at this time to adequately supplement their farm income with off-farm employment.

Previously, operating loans were made only to farmers who could obtain the resources needed for family-type farm operations, or who could supplement their farm income with off-farm employment to the extent that their total income was equal to that from a family-type farm. Included in the group of small farmers not previously eligible are (1) young farmers who in the near future will be able to obtain additional land and other resources; (2) young and middle-aged farmers who may be able to obtain off-farm income

Farm Storage Loan Program Modified

College Station - Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman has taken action to modify down-payment provisions of the farm storage facility loan program, reports the USDA. Purpose of the measure, which the President called for in his message to Congress on farm program proposals, is to encourage storage of grain on farms and strengthen economic activity in farming areas.

The new provisions will enable farmers to borrow up to 95 percent of the outlay for farm storage facilities which cost 40 cents per bushel or less to build. Previously, loans on these types of structures were limited to 80 percent of the cost.

For facilities costing more than 40 cents per bushel, farmers may borrow up to 40 cents per bushel or 80 percent of the cost whichever is greater, but not more than 50 cents per bushel of capacity.

These loans are made at 4 percent interest and run for five years from the time the loan is taken out. They may be repaid in four annual installments, with the first installment due on the first anniversary of the loan.

Since the program started in 1949, 135,991 loans totaling approximately $149,196,000 have been made for storage facilities with a total capacity of about 546,380,000 bushels. Loans outstanding at the end of January amounted to $43,799,000, with $105,399,000 loaned to farmers having been repaid.

Read Seed Tag Before Buying

College Station - Census figures reveal that Texas farmers are consistently producing higher per acre crop yields. The use of fertilizers and irrigation has contributed greatly to this yield increase, and many farmers now use a soil test to determine the kind and amount of fertilizer to apply. These and other practices serve to improve growing conditions, thus resulting in higher production.

There is one problem that increases with this increased yield, however, says Lee Coffey, extension agronomist. Noxious weeds take advantage of the improved growing conditions just as do the desired plants.

One way to ease the weed problem, says Coffey, is to read the seed tag before buying. The Texas Seed Act requires that all seed offered for sale at a seed store must be tagged with the percentage of weed seed and the number of primary or secondary noxious weed seed per pound. This law prohibits any seed from being sold which contains more than 100 noxious weed seed or 300 secondary noxious weed seed per pound. It is also a violation of the law to sell seed which contain field bindweed, hedge bindweed or nutgrass seed.

Coffey says that some of the primary noxious weeds in Texas are dodder, wild garlic, Johnsongrass, Russian knapweed, wild onion and Canada thistle. He lists Bermudagrass, blueweed, wild carrot, cheat, cocklebur, darnel, curly dock, goat grass, horsebettle, purple nightshade, Russian thistle and sheep sorrel as some of the secondary noxious weeds found in this state.

1960 Traffic Death Book Officially Closed

The Texas Department of Public Safety officially closed the 1960 traffic "death book" March 15, showing a total of 2,254 motoricides for the year, a reduction of eight percent from the 1959 toll.

"While this tragic loss is still far too great, it is somewhat heartening to note that 199 fewer lives were taken by traffic in Texas during the past year," said Co. Homer Garrison Jr., DPS director.

1960 Traffic Death Book Officially Closed

The Texas Department of Public Safety officially closed the 1960 traffic "death book" March 15, showing a total of 2,254 motoricides for the year, a reduction of eight percent from the 1959 toll.

"Texans proved during 1960 that with a concerted effort on the part of official agencies, private organizations and the general public, something can be done about the terrible tragedy of death by motor vehicle."

"In a sense, 1960 was a noteworthy year in the cause of traffic safety in Texas. The death toll was the lowest for any year since 1949 when 1,957 were killed. And based on the 46.3 billion vehicle miles travelled during the year, Texas had a death rate of 4.9 - the lowest on record."

"Texans should accept this improvement as a challenge for an even greater effort in 1961 to hold down traffic deaths and injuries and economic loss. The best single effort that can be put forth by every driver is to obey the safety laws and regulations, because in almost every fatal accident at least one violation is involved."

Time to Start Fish Pond Fertilizer Program

College Station - Applying fertilizer to the farm fish pond not only increases the amount of food in the water, it is also one of the best practices for controlling submerged mosses, says Ed Cooper, extension wildlife specialist. The first application should be made in early spring, he continues.

Since the pond water is usually deficient in the same nutrients as the soil over which it flows, Cooper suggests the use of the same commercial mixture that is used for farm crops. An initial application of 100 pounds per surface acre of water is suggested. This amount should cause an extensive development of plankton, resulting in a change in the color of the water. The plankton is used for food by the fish and organisms upon which the fish feed.

Cooper advises periodic checks of the pond to determine when additional fertilizer applications are needed. He says to submerge the arm into the water to elbow depth and if the thumb can be seen plainly, more fertilizer should be applied. Only the amount required to produce the desired plankton development, or bloom, should be applied. This may be about half of the initial application.

Pond fertilization should be stopped during the summer months, because fertilizer can cause a shortage of oxygen. This is especially true during the periods when the wind is not strong enough to cause wave action. If oxygen depletion is too great, the fish will die, Cooper warns.

Finally, Cooper emphasizes that the fertilizer to be used during the year should not be applied all at one time. Start in spring and make enough applications to maintain the desired bloom. The shading from the bloom will control submerged mosses, thus making fishing and swimming more enjoyable.

AQUA-VERSARY

Aquarena, San Marcos, Texas—Mr. and Mrs. Bob Smith and daughters, left to right, Barbara Ann and Cathy Lynn, shown here can no doubt boast the title of the most aquatic family in America if not the entire world. Seven years ago Bob and Mary Beth accomplished the unbelievable when they were married underwater in the headwaters of the famed San Marcos River. Life magazine, newsreels and newspaper headlines across the country carried the story of their unique marriage which stemmed from an under-water romance as performers in the well known Aquarena Submarine Theatre Shows.

This scene shows the Smiths during a rather spectacular celebration of their seventh wedding anniversary. All four little and big Smiths went "down under" for an appearance at the Submarine Theatre.

THE IMPORTANCE OF 14-B

By Maurice R. Franks

(Editor's Note: Maurice R. Franks is President of the National Labor-Management Foundation and Editor of its official publication, Partners.)

"Nothing in this Act shall be construed as authorizing the execution or application of agreements requiring membership in a labor organization as a condition of employment in any State or Territory in which such execution or application is prohibited by State or Territorial law."

Such is the language of the National Labor-Management Relations (Taft-Hartley) Act on the subject of compulsory unionism — the herding of workers into unions not of their own choosing by labor bosses as a take-it-or-leave-it condition of employment, on a private-licensing basis. Such is Taft-Hartley's famed Section 14-(b).

This is the provision of Federal labor law which, although it does not itself ban compulsory unionism, does at least respect the sovereign right of each one of our fifty States, as its own discretion, to do so. It does this specifically, by declining to preempt the rights of States to adopt so-called right-to-work laws of their own, should the citizens of any State or Territory be opposed to letting union leadership ride herd on industrial workers.

As a result of Taft-Hartley's Section 14-(b), nineteen of our States to date have exercised their sovereignty and have passed right-to-work laws — and that number includes the northern industrial state of Indiana.

This provision and the situation it has led to — the preservation of some measure of union democracy in almost two-fifths of our United States — has always irked the nation's union hierarchy. In almost forty percent of our States, workers are still free to join or not to join a union. In that "dangerously" large percentage of States, unionism must be sold on merit — not rammed down the throats of employees who may with good reason have no use for its leadership. Here, then, is a source of considerable embarrassment to union heads, who may be possessed of merit too minor to be sold and who elsewhere rely exclusively on legalized coercion to fill out the ranks of their unions with members and their coffers with dues reluctantly paid.

Because of the loophole 14-(b) has left in the labor leaders' drive to organize every last corner of American industry and every last ounce of American manpower, they have worked tooth and nail over the years to have it sponged from the slate. Millions of union dollars have been spent fighting to close that loophole in Taft-Hartley, when it became apparent that, for all their hollering and yelling about "Slave Labor Law," the labor bosses weren't going to succeed in getting Taft-Hartley repealed in toto. In campaign after campaign, the big professionals of the labor movement have assailed the States' rights principle expressed in Section 14-(b) with all the political-action weapons they could muster. The last national political campaign was no exception. They let the platform committees of both parties know what they wanted and, ever since a Democratic Administration and a Democratic Congress were returned to Washington, the labor leaders have been clamoring for early repeal of 14-(b) in terms of a "political debt" that they believe is now theirs to collect.

Now it may be that certain members of the 87th Congress are listening to nothing in the world but the droning commands emanating from the House of Labor, but I doubt that more than a handful of Congressmen and Senators are so limited in their intelligence, so provincial in their interests, so lacking in knowledge of their mainline responsibilities and so picaresque in their integrity as to study the matter no further. I, for one, am convinced that the vast majority of our Federal lawmakers, regardless of party label or the specific areas of sectionalism they may as individuals represent, are nevertheless fully cognizant of their obligation to serve the best interests of our American economic society as a whole, and that they know as well as you and I do what a jungletland of union savagery would be precipitated throughout the country, were the last barrier to universal compulsory unionism to be removed.

I'm sure that your Congressman and mine, along with the Senators representing the dignity of each and every state in the union, have a pretty clear notion of who elected them to office and why, as candidates they were elected. It may have been labor that in some instances tipped the scales in their favor, but I think that as practical politicians these lawmakers know the difference between an honest, God-fearing workingman and the cynical autocrat who, just because he heads a labor union, presumes to call himself "Labor."

We hope and pray that our legislators at Washington will not sell the American workers down the river by killing Section 14-(b) of the Taft-Hartley Act which enables the individual States to ban compulsory unionism.

I OWE MY LIFE TO A STRANGER

"She rang my doorbell one April morning six years ago as I was Spring cleaning. She was one of 2,000,000 volunteers helping to raise funds for the American Cancer Society's Crusade... I gave what I could and hoped she'd leave quickly so I could get on with my work. But she said she wanted to tell me some facts for my own good, about cancer.

"She said that many cancers are curable if detected early and treated promptly, and that every adult in our family should have a health checkup every year... no matter how well we may feel. She left me a pamphlet listing cancer's seven danger signals which I got around to reading a few days later. I was startled to see that a symptom I'd been ignoring... hoping it would 'go away'... was on that list! The pamphlet said 'if your signal lasts longer than two weeks, go to your doctor to learn if it means cancer.'

"You can bet I did just that! My doctor found I did have cancer and I had my operation a week later.

"My doctor says I owe my life to the fact that I came to him in time. But I'll always feel I owe my life to a stranger."

For your copy of life-saving facts about cancer, write to the Unit of the AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY in your community.

Read Isaiah 55:6-13; Psalm 24. Who shall ascend into the hill of the Lord? or who shall stand in his holy place? He that hath clean hands, and a pure heart; who hath not lifted up his soul unto vanity, nor sworn deceitfully. (Psalm 24:3,4.)

We soon become like our daily companions. Since our thoughts are our closest companions, the only way to live a clean life is to cultivate purity of mind and heart. As a man "thinketh in his heart so is he." We read in Proverbs, "The thought of foolishness is sin." Isaiah holds out the hope to us that God will forgive the man who forsakes his sin-

An air conditioner can change the air in a room by drawing out stale air and bringing in fresh, pure air. Thus the atmosphere of the room is changed.

Changing impure thoughts for pure thoughts can alter life. We can fill our minds with the teachings of Christ. Before we know it, our lives will be free from anxiety and worry. We know the peace which comes from inner confidence. We shall have the power that comes to those who are at peace with God, with man, and with themselves.

Our Father, we pray that Thou wilt cleanse our thoughts of doubts, worries and fears. Fill our minds with thoughts of Thee, that we may be pure in heart, clean in mind, and Christ-like in our living. In Jesus' name. Amen.

Letter

O. C. FISHER

WITH BOTH HOUSE AND SENATE inactive the past week, New Frontier legislation is on tap for this week and the tempo is due to be stepped up in the weeks immediately ahead. The Senate has tackled the minimum wage bill, and a conference committee of both House and Senate members will work out a compromise. Then it will be up to each body to accept or disapprove the version reported.

THE RUSSIANS HAVE MADE a big to-do about their spaceman who spun around the earth a couple of times at 17,000 miles per hour. It was indeed a great and spectacular achievement, but its significance should be considered in proper perspective. Russia is breaking all travel records. One Communist went into orbit — and 3 million others got out through West Germany!

The simple fact is that the Soviets started their missile program six or eight years before we did. Practically nothing was done in that field during the Truman administration. The gap is now practically closed, and we are now ahead of them in some areas of missile development. As President Kennedy pointed out, the Commies under dicta-

Tourist Attraction Pamphlet Ready for Free Distribution

Austin — State Highway Engineer D. C. Greer announced today that the summer edition of the Texas Calendar of Events, a Highway Department pamphlet listing tourist-attracting events throughout the state, is now ready for distribution.

Free copies of the Calendar of Events may be obtained by writing the Texas Highway Department, Travel Division, P. O. Box 5064, Austin.

Greer said that publication of the Calendar was another Highway Department endeavor to stimulate travel to and within Texas.

"The Highway Department has been given the responsibility of the tourist-advertising and travel-promotion program. For national media-advertising of Texas tourist attractions we have requested a legislative appropriation of $300,000. With this media-advertising backing we can encourage out-of-state tourists to visit Texas — see the colorful events held here and the scenic attractions we have to offer," Greer said.

The Calendar lists Texas events of interest from April through September and was compiled in cooperation with the Texas Chamber of Commerce.

torship can concentrate their energies, money and resources behind anything, to the neglect of everything else — if they choose. Thus, they will spend billions to achieve a "first" for propaganda use, while remaining woefully unconcerned about low standards of living, jammed up housing conditions, and shortages of every description.

In 1957 the Soviets fired their sputnik into orbit — a first. They practically broke their necks to be "first." But today, what do we have? The Commies have one sputnik in orbit today — we have 22. We have scientific purposes to achieve, and we proceed in an orderly pace. But the Soviets, goaded by a basic inferiority complex, feel they have to be "first", at any cost, to prove they are not inferior after all.

Anyhow, we have plenty of time to get our astronauts into space, and contribute many times in the future to man's conquest of the unknown. But we must move firmly and speedily, because there can be military as well as scientific meaning to this penetration of space business.

If you know of any visitors to our city, phone 45 and let us know about it.

Biologist Makes Unusual Find In East Texas

Austin — Fishery biologist, John Dorchester, working at the Lake o' Pines in East Texas, has found a new one for the white bass book.

In making stomach analyses of fish caught in this new lake east of Jefferson, the biologist found an oversized white bass. It contained a 5 inch large-mouth bass undigested, and the large-mouth bass contained a 4 inch chub sucker undigested in its mouth.

This unusual specimen was taken in a lake survey as a part of the Federal aid program under the DJ bill. Biologists very frequently find that large fish have been swallowed by bass, particularly black bass. This chain swallowing, however, is something new in East Texas.

J. A. McClatchey Buried at Trickham

John A. McClatchey, a long-time elder of the Trickham and Lubbock-Cumberland Presbyterian Churches, died at his home in Coleman, March 31. He was 93 years, 11 months and 26 days old.

Born in Tennessee, he was married to Miss Mattie Russell of Stevenson, Alabama, in 1887. He moved to Trickham early in life and joined the Trickham Cumberland Presbyterian Church when it was organized in 1885. He lived at Trickham until 1920, when he moved to Lubbock. He moved back to Coleman about 15 years ago.

Mr. McClatchey loved the Cumberland Presbyterian Church and shared his wealth with the church. He had given financial aid to many newly organized churches in the Texas Synod and recently helped a new church in Albuquerque, N. M., where a Sunday-school class was named for him. He delighted in purchasing the ministers' new suits of clothes.

Services were held Easter Sunday afternoon at the Trickham Church. The Rev. James C. Gilbert of Fort Worth officiated, assisted by the Rev. Howell Martin, of the Trickham Baptist Church and the Rev. Charles Miller, of the Trickham Methodist Church.

He is survived by two sons, C. T. and Wiley McClatchey of Bangs; two daughters, Mrs. O. J. Martin of Bangs and Mrs. T. Z. Goodjohn of Lubbock; 19 grandchildren, 48 great-grandchildren and 3 great-great-grandchildren.
