HEROINE MURPHY

By George Peck

(Editor's Note: George Peck is Honorary Chairman of the Laymen's National Committee, sponsor of National Sunday School and Bible Weeks.)

Something that smacks very much of communistic tactics is taking place in the state of Colorado. Mrs. Vi Murphy is in jail, and may have to languish there until death overtakes her. What crime has Mrs. Murphy committed? NONE! She is incarcerated indefinitely because she has refused to reveal the name of a news source. She had pledged herself not to reveal the identity of her informant. Vi Murphy is keeping her word—God bless her!

However, the State Supreme Court of Colorado, with the U.S. Supreme Court tacitly consenting, is punishing this honorable lady because she believes in the freedom of the press which includes keeping confidential sources of confidential information.

Here we have a sad case of the courts not only failing to support freedom of the press, but actually contravening it. Robert LeFevre in the Colorado Springs (Colo.) Gazette Telegraph has taken up the cudgels on behalf of Vi Murphy. In an editorial "Is Colorado Civilized?" he has stated the case of the martyr to principle and honor so aptly that we pass a part of it on to our readers. From here on 'tis the Gazette Telegraph editor speaking.

Civilized nations do not encourage punishment, imprisonment or torture for persons who hold to opinions which are unpopular.

In view of the current punishment of Vi Murphy in the Denver county jail, some people are beginning to ask if Colorado is civilized. The question is pertinent.

The Chief Justice of the Supreme Court has stated emphatically, so there can be no question, that Mrs. Murphy has NOT committed any crime. No action she has taken is culpable.

Rather, she is held to be in contempt of court. And this can only mean that Mrs. Murphy is being punished because she has an opinion which is at odds with those held by the majority of the State Supreme Court.

So, it appears that in this state under contempt proceedings, a person CAN be punished for holding to an opinion which is out of popularity with the judges.

We are not concerned here at the moment whether Mrs. Murphy's opinion is either popular or correct, or whether the judges' opinion is popular or correct. We are merely viewing the appalling fact that a DIFFERENCE in opinion between judges and an honest and upright citizen can send the citizen into durance vile.

In the case of Mrs. Murphy, a mother of four children, there are some who might suggest that imprisoning her, blackening her name, is tantamount to torture. We would be inclined to agree.

But things are worse than indicated, even by this evidence of lack of civilization in our state judicial procedures.

For it appears on the word of the Chief Justice himself that Mrs. Murphy is NOT being punished for disagreeing with the judges. If that were to be construed into a crime, then she might be punished for that crime, and her "debt" paid, she could return to society a chastened woman.

But no! The matter is clear beyond dispute. Mrs. Murphy may be sent back to jail INDEFINITELY. She is not serving time for something she has done wrong. She is not serving time at all. She is being sent to jail in the same manner an ancient king would send a prisoner to the torture rack... until she changes her mind!

Is Colorado civilized? Is any state or nation civilized where judges have the power to punish a person until he admits of a guilt he does not have?

Let us make one thing clear. We are not seeking to lay a burden of guilt at the feet of the particular jurists who at the present time occupy the bench of this state's high court. These men are neither better nor worse than the rest of us. It is the system which permits this type of thing that is medieval, hoary and vicious.

Mrs. Murphy's only offense is that she holds to a different opinion than that of her judges. But she is being threatened, while in jail, by these same judges who assure her, and quite accurately, that they have the power to put her in jail indefinitely until they secure a "purgin'" from her.

What the judges are doing to Mrs. Murphy is more heinous than the war crimes trials which judged men guilty of breaking laws which were not in existence at the time they performed their evil acts. At least, in war crimes cases, evil acts had been performed.

In the Murphy case, we repeat, Mrs. Murphy has done no wrong, but is being tortured and threatened until she confesses that she was in the wrong.

Judging Begins to Find Texas' Top Rural Community

College Station — During the next six weeks, judging teams will score 241 communities in their search to find Texas' most progressive rural community. Progress made during the past year will be of prime importance in the fiscal determination, said Reagan Brown, rural sociologist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Brown added that such broad areas of improvement as increasing and managing farm income, improving health conditions, improving the farm and home, increasing social opportunities and participation in all phases of community life will be considered by the judging teams.

The sociologist said the past year had been the most successful in the 14-year history of the Extension Service conducted program. Awards on the district and state basis are currently being provided by 10 electric utility companies which operate in Texas. Brown added.

Community judging is now underway and will continue until the participating communities have presented their improved neighborhoods to the judges and the public. Brown said the public has a special invitation to participate in at least one of the judging tours. He put it this way — "You will see community progress at its best. You will share the thrills of seeing a community made better by neighbors who have worked, played and prayed together to accomplish their goals. It's democracy at work in its best form."

At the conclusion of the judging period, the top three communities in Texas will be named. They will come from the first place district winners and Brown said would be most typical of community progress for better homes, on better farms and in better communities.

"Orphan" May Have One Parent and Receive Benefits

An "orphan" may have one parent alive and still be eligible for educational assistance under the War Orphans Education program administered by the Veterans Administration.

P. J. Mims, Manager of the VA regional office in Waco pointed this out today to dispel some confusion existing due to the usual understanding that an orphan has lost both parents.

The War Orphans Education Program was established by Congress to give assistance to those children whose veteran-parent's death was the result of disease or injury incurred or aggravated in the line of duty in active service.

The death of the veteran-parent from this cause, whether it be father or mother, make the children "orphans" under the meaning of this law, Mims said, even though the other parent remains alive.

Full information on any phase of this program may be obtained from any VA office.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Davis and Mrs. Dick Keeter and daughter of Houston visited during the weekend with Mrs. Gertrude Davis and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Sealy of Midland were weekend visitors with his mother, Mrs. T. R. Sealy.

Mr. and Mrs. Claud Alvey of Coleman have purchased the Banister house on Avenue B and have now moved into their new home.

The Upper Room
© THE UPPER ROOM, NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE

Read John 6:30-40.

Him that cometh to me I will in no ways cast out. (John 6:37)

Word came to a missionary that a woman had died. When he saw her, he persuaded her people not to bury her, for he said she was not dead but in a coma. After some hours she regained consciousness. Her astonished relatives listened with great respect to her words.

What she told them confirmed what the missionaries had been telling the people. She told them that she had seen a beautiful place where there was no sickness or hunger. She said, "Jesus is so good, and I am so bad." But He was her Savior. Gone was all her fear, and she eagerly awaited her call to return to that good place. It came within a few days.

In that village five men came to the mission, seeking the say of salvation. They opened their hearts to Christ. Thus was the church established in another dark corner of the world.

The church is surely at work in the world. Even now many persons are hearing of the one true God for the first time. The work is the Holy Spirit's, but He uses human messengers.

PRAYER:

O God of the nations, bless the work of Thy church in every land. Confound the work of sin and bring glory to the name of Thy victorious Son in hearts where darkness still holds sway. In His name. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

The work of salvation is the Holy Spirit's, but He uses human messengers.

About Your Health

Austin — Texas is hip-deep in the business of spot checking air, food, and drink for radioactive content.

Public health engineers are managing air sampling stations in Austin and El Paso, milk monitoring stations at Austin and Dallas, and studying the total dietary intake of radioactivity of a school age test subject in Austin.

Every day of every week for the past five years, state and local health department engineers in Austin and El Paso have filtered 85,000 cubic feet of Texas air through vacuum cleaner devices, trapping tiny particles of matter and measuring its radiant energy. Both stations are part of a sprawling coast to coast network set up originally to measure increases in atmospheric radioactivity due to nuclear weapons testing.

Although no nuclear tests have been conducted in the United States since 1958, the network has proved so valuable that it has continued on a year-around basis to study "background" levels of natural radiation, including that which originates from cosmic sources in outer space.

Daily readings from the sampling devices are interpreted for use in Texas and then forwarded to Washington where Public Health Service radiation specialists make more discriminating analysis.

The Austin station clearly detected fallout from the French bomb tests in the Sahara Desert last spring.

Radioactivity in air sampled at most stations within the national network including those at Austin and El Paso — has now reached the point where it is barely measurable.

In the milk monitoring network, specially trained persons collect composite samples of milk from at least 90 percent of the dairies supplying the test area. Both Austin and Dallas stations have consistently reported radioactivity levels well below the tolerances set by the National Committee on Radiation Protection.

Austin is also one of eight American cities measuring total radioactivity a test subject consumes in food and drink. Equal portions of everything the subject eats or drinks for seven days each month are quick frozen and sent to government laboratories in Montgomery, Alabama, for analysis. The dietary study is just beginning. Sponsors says it will be several months before any conclusions can be drawn from it. (A weekly feature of the Health Education Division, Texas State Department of Health.)

because the supply of each exceeds normal trade needs, according to U. S. Department of Agriculture estimates.

Texas consumers will find it to their advantage to serve these foods often. Records show that in-season and plentiful foods usually sell at lower prices. Selection for quality also is greater when supplies are large.

College Station — Tender, young chickens — broiler-fryers — head the May list of plentiful foods, reports the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Chicken has been abundant for many months, but the volume of broilers going to market in May is expected to be about 15 percent more than a year ago. So count on plenty at budget prices.

Other foods on the list of plentiful for this area in May are cabbage, potatoes, turkeys, canned freestone peaches, and milk and dairy products.

These foods will receive special emphasis in grocery store advertising and promotion, and by newspapers, radio and TV stations during the month. That's

WILL FARMERS PRODUCE ENOUGH IN 1975?

Will U. S. farmers in 1975 be able to provide food, feed and fiber for a third greater population than today's? Can they meet bigger domestic needs and also provide exports to other nations?

A probable "yes" to both questions was the conclusion reached by two economists, R. O. Rogers and G. T. Barton, in a recent appraisal of our crop production potential. This is just part of a larger study by the USDA to assess the job of agriculture and agricultural research in meeting future needs.

Findings indicate the challenge to farmers in 1975 will not be a lack of resources, but how to allocate them to achieve a better balance between production and market demand. This challenge, the economists believe calls for research on more efficient use of all resources within agriculture and more effective resource adjustment between agriculture and nonfarm sectors of the economy.

To provide a basis for their analysis, the researchers made several assumptions, including: (1) A 1975 population of 230 million; (2) exports near the high level of 1956; (3) an increase of 19 percent in livestock-feeding efficiency; and (4) economic and other conditions favorable to adoption by farmers of improved practices and higher farm production.

Total demand for farm products, including a moderate increase in per capita consumption plus exports, was projected at 35 percent greater in 1975 than in 1956-58. The needed increase in livestock (45 percent) would be considerably greater than in crops (25 percent). This is due largely to the tendency for consumption of livestock products to rise with income, to the present crop surpluses, and to the projected increase in livestock-feeding efficiency.

Projections on production included two levels of yield per harvested acre for each major crop: (1) Economic attainable yield, or that likely through greater use of present technology. This yield level takes into account limitations on management, materials, equipment, and capital, as well as past rates of adopting technology. (2) Economic maximum yield, or that which could be attained with full, efficient, and economic application of present technology.

Analysis indicates that economic attainable yields would provide a 20-percent increase in average crop production per harvested acre above 1956-58. This is not enough to meet 1975 demands, and farmers would require an extra 21 million acres (net).

Additional acres would be needed for feed grains (16 million more), hay (5 million), tobacco (1 million), and cotton (5 million). Fewer acres would be needed for food grains (4 million fewer), oil crops (1 million), and pasture feed (1 million). Potatoes, dry beans, and sweet potatoes would require about the same acreage as in 1956-58.

WOOD ROT SHORTEN SHADE TREE LIFE

Wood rots occur in all areas of Texas and attack most shade trees. "Toadstool" or mushroom type growths on the trunk or limbs of a tree are a reminder that the disease is present. These growths form microscopic fungus seed or spores which can be carried to other trees by wind or insects. The spores germinate and enter the tree through unprotected wounds.

The great damage caused by wood rot fungi often occurs over a long period. When the tell-tale mushrooms appear, the rot may be quite extensive inside the tree. The fungus weakens and makes the infected tree more susceptible to termite and wind damage.

Oaks, hackberry, ash, elm and other shade trees may be damaged by different kinds of wood-rotting fungi. Hollow trees are partly caused by the diseases.

Prompt treatment of hail, ice or wind damage, insect injury or any mechanical damage will help prevent wood rot infection. The application of a combination zinc and captan spray immediately after a damaging hail storm is suggested.

Badly bruised, cut or splintered wood should be given prompt surgical treatment. Edges of wounds should be smoothed with a sharp knife to promote healing. Injuries should be treated as needed with a disinfectant tree paint.

Where extensive wood rot has already occurred, the rotted wood should be completely removed; the cavity filled with a special filling and the work done by an expert.

Select Fence Posts With Care

College Station — A mile of good fence costs about $500, and a major item in this investment is the posts. For this reason, advises Bill Smith, extension forester, posts need to be selected with care.

Commercial pressure-treated posts provide a sound investment. They will give superior service at the lowest cost per year of effective life of the fence.

A REMARKABLE TWIST!

As this is being written France is preparing for an attack by the Algerian rebels. That would indeed be a strange "twist" if the insurgents carry their rebellion to France itself.

For so many a year we were constantly hearing an old cliché: "That would be like carrying coals to Newcastle." But came a day when thanks to the labor government taking over its coal mines, Great Britain's coal production fell off so badly that actually "coals were carried to Newcastle." An odd twist indeed.

Now comes an announcement of an even more remarkable "twist." Switzerland, long considered to have a corner on the economical production of good watches, is to be invaded by an American manufacturer. He proposes to "CARRY WATCHES TO SWITZERLAND."

Norwegian-born Joakim Lehmkuhl, president of U. S. Time Corp. (formerly the Waterbury Watch Co.) has announced plans to build a $1.5 million modernized watch-making plant at Bensacon, France, a short distance from the Swiss border. When completed, part of this plant's production will be shipped across that border.

Verily a remarkable twist!

Livestock and Meat Imports Lower in 1960

College Station — During 1960, U. S. livestock and meat imports were equal to 6.5 percent of the total domestic production compared with 8.6 percent for both 1958 and 1959, reports Lloyd Bergsma, extension livestock marketing specialist. Beef and veal imports declined 23 percent during 1960. Imports of live animals during 1960 declined five percent to a total of 664 thousand head. Due to lower-cattle prices, the reduction in import value was considerably greater than the reduction in import numbers. The value of cattle imported during 1960 was 50 percent below the peak year of 1958, says Bergsma.

Mexico, Canada, New Zealand and Australia were the major exporters of cattle and meat to the United States during the 1959-60 fiscal year. These four countries accounted for 62 percent of the total cattle and meat imports.

DON'T KILL 14-B!

By Maurice R. Franks

(Editor's Note: Maurice R. Franks is President of the National Labor-Management Foundation and Editor of its official publications, Partners.)

In my last article I wrote of the importance of Section 14-(b) of the Taft-Hartley Act which permits the individual States to ban compulsory unionism. In this article I pursue that subject further.

I exhort the voters to remind their Congressmen that Section 14-(b) of the Taft-Hartley law, as presently stands, symbolizes the dignity of man just as truly and just as fully as did the voting booths in every election district throughout the land last November when, in all dignity, individual Americans from every walk of life cast their secret, protected ballots and by their composite decisions put the 87th Congress together.

If the picture of unionism as it presents itself to the public today is one of unholy arrogance at war with the rest of society, it is not because the American worker is arrogant and determined to browbeat his neighbor, it is because compulsory unionism has given labor leaders numerical and financial strength on a silver platter — as some kind of outside reward for simply being labor leaders.

The union leaders certainly have not gone out and earned their power and prestige by selling themselves and their union principles on their merits. They haven't competed with each other in excellence, in service, in statesmanship. They haven't inspired rank-and-file craftsmen and industrial workers to fall over tables and chairs in a mad rush to join up. Not at all! With the closed and so-called "union shop" to support their charters, they have merely stood at various employment sites and cracked their whips and herded the workers, like so many serfs, into their unions. To work, to eat, to live — to continue to hold down such and such a job — a worker must pay tribute to the union boss. He must have a card. He must pay his dues.

No wonder, then, that so many of our top labor leaders are bullies! And no wonder they have to have compulsory unionism in order to stay in business! No wonder they look upon each State's right-to-work laws as a road block to personal aggrandizement! No wonder they come before Congress with startling voices and pounding fists and demand that the Taft-Hartley law be amended so that no State hereafter shall have the right to ban compulsory unionism! Because they haven't had to sell unionism on its merit for so many years — and let me remind one and all that good unionism has plenty of merit and can be sold! — our American labor leaders have let the product deteriorate to the point where it stinks to high heaven and to the point where no self-respecting candidate for membership wants anything to do with it.

This sounds incredible? Well, it isn't so incredible when we stop to realize that over the past ten years, while the labor force of this nation has been increasing by 10 solid million, mind you, union membership has been actually declining! All of which indicates that in new areas of employment as yet not organized on a compulsory basis and in States where compulsory unionism is not permitted there has been the very opposite of a popular rush to join up. And, actually, were all unionism, throughout our 50 States, to be put on a strictly voluntary basis, it seems like a sure bet that membership in the labor movement would drop considerably — to the point where the dictators in the House of Labor would have to quit being dictators and instead get out and do some honest selling. Which, obviously, wouldn't be a bad move at all!

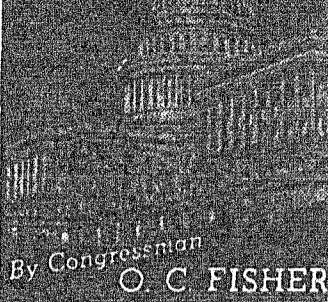

But at least, the situation is one which explains the labor leaders' resent desperation, their fear that the right-to-work principle will be enacted into law in other States as well, or that ever larger segments of organized industries will "run away" and "escape" from States where compulsory unionism is a continuing evil to States where it is banned. And it also explains why it is so vital to American democracy and to the human rights that our democracy is supposed to guarantee that the line be held against further encroachment and ruthless high-jacking of those human rights by a small and hard-boiled fraternity of labor barons.

Therefore — as citizens interested in the welfare of our economy and the dignity of the individuals who serve it — let us communicate in no uncertain terms with our Senators and Congressmen, and in fullness of heart and sincerity of belief, tell them straight from the shoulder: DON'T KILL 14-B!

Our WASHINGTON Letter

By Congressman O. C. FISHER

A BRAND NEW PROGRAM, calling for an expenditure of $400 million, has been approved in Congress and is due to be okayed at the White House. It will be spent in "depressed areas" in the form of grants and loans to communities where unemployment persists.

A bad feature of the bill was added in the Senate. Instead of allowing the Congress to examine the program each year and then appropriate any funds that may appear to be justified, the bill as approved permits "back door" spending — that is, by debt management in the Treasury Department the money each year will be made available without any action of the Congress.

I voted against the bill in its entirety for several reasons. First, because it begins a brand new government hand-out program to communities which a government agency decides should get it, and thus add a brand new type of Federal expenditure for years to come. And the "back door" concept is both unsound and dangerous, as I see it, because it takes away from the Congress the responsibility of doing the appropriating, and it deprives the Congress of a chance to review and appraise the program, from year to year.

THE DEMARKATION that separates the Federal from the State governments would be drastically narrowed if an action begun by Attorney General Bobby Kennedy in Federal Courts is successful. In a history-making step last week, the Attorney General asked a Federal judge in Richmond, Va. to prohibit that State granting any state support to any public schools in Virginia until Prince Edward county public schools, shut down the last two years to avoid desegregation, are reopened.

The Attorney General's petition also asked the court to require the County and state to reopen and maintain a "system of free public schools" and to forbid County and state officials to use tax money to support segregated private schools by tuition grants as long as the public schools are closed.

If the Federal government has this kind of authority in the operation of schools owned and supported by local taxpayers, just where is the line to be drawn in the separation of the State and Federal government in the area of other local activities?

Good Management Needed to Reduce Cotton Root Rot

College Station — Cotton losses due to root rot can be reduced. But, points out Harlan Smith, extension plant pathologist, plans must be made and carried out over a period of years to be most effective.

A combination of practices carried on for a number of years is necessary for best results. These include the growing of resistant crops in rotation; turning under a large tonnage of organic matter prior to the growing of a cotton crop and deep plowing during June, July and August of infected land.

Smith advises that none of these practices can be counted on for effective control when used alone. Crop rotation is of little value if susceptible weeds are permitted to grow in resistant crops. Turned under organic matter needs to be decaying at its maximum during the early flowering stage of the cotton to be most effective. Rains immediately following the deep plowing will cancel out the expected benefits from this practice. Therefore, adds Smith, the combination of practices is best.

Producing early cotton will, in most instances, help the plants escape root rot damage. The control of cotton seedling diseases, he says, will help get the plants off to a fast start and aid in setting the early crop.

Smith suggests to cotton producers in the areas of the state where root rot is a problem that they visit the local county agent and discuss with him a longtime control program. Also that they pick up a copy of MP-361, "Root Rot Losses Can Be Reduced."

Austin — Capitol hands are engaged in a legal and dead-serious type of "numbers game." Object is to figure out how much money certain tax bills will bring in. Also what the legislature needs to round up in order to meet the state's obligations. Then, find out how much additional cash is necessary to foot all bills. Any number of persons can play this game — and a good many are. Looks like all Texans will be affected.

Gov. Price Daniel, who takes a dim view of the House-passed 2 percent sales tax, said it still would leave the state $50,000,000 short of needed revenue. Rep. Charles Wilson of Trinity, sponsor of the sales tax, offered it as a means of raising $127,000,000 a year.

Texas Research League, which has made a continuing study of state finances, estimated Wilson's bill would raise $265,000,000 in the next two years, with $22,000,000 more coming in late because of a two-month collection lag. This would take care of the general appropriations bill as passed by the Senate, says the League, leaving some $106,000,000 to pay for teacher raises and medical care for persons on state welfare rolls.

Wilson has also put forward another tax bill that would repeal the corporation franchise tax and substitute a 4 1/2 percent corporation income tax for a net gain of $50,000,000 a year in state revenue.

Governor Daniel has proposed a new eight-point compromise plan designed to add $73,316,000 to the general revenue fund over a two-year period.

His plan calls for (1) passage of the twice-defeated escheat bill, (2) doubling tuition at state colleges, (3) shifting the $15,000,000 farm-to-market road spending from the general fund, (4) requiring county school superintendent expenses to be paid from local funds, (5) collecting $3,000,000 from families able to pay for care of relatives in state hospitals and schools, (6) diverting one percent ($12,000,000) a year from the permanent school fund for current expenses and (7) revising or shifting several other school fund allocations.

HOUSE PASSES BUDGET BILL
House passed a general appropriations bill calling for the spending of $2,520,000,000 during the next two years.

House bill is about $20,000,000 higher than the appropriations bill passed by the Senate in late March. It is about $130,000,000 more than is provided for present two-year period.

One of the biggest increases would be for education, which would be boosted by $36,000,000 a year under the House bill.

Other provisions by the House would allow $15 per month raises for state employees making less than $200 a month; 40-hour work weeks for employees of state hospitals and special schools; raises for State Liquor Control Board inspectors.

"UNIVERSITY" BATTLES
"University" has become a "fighting word" in the Senate, one that held up regular business for almost two weeks.

A determined group of Senators has opposed creating any more state-supported universities on grounds it will put Texas in the position of the "old woman who lived in the shoe."

Nevertheless, Sen. Tom Creighton of Mineral Wells obtained final passage of a bill that would change the name of North Texas State College to North Texas State University. Opponents scoffed at the prospect of having to universities in Denton (pop. 27,000). Other is Texas Woman's University (formerly Texas State College for Women).

Sen. Robert Baker of Houston had more difficulty with his bill that would admit the University of Houston to the state college system. Senators Hubert Hudson, Wardlow Lane, Charles Herring and W. T. Moore teamed up to "talk the bill to death."

CAR TAX END SOUGHT
City and County property taxes on automobiles and trucks would be abolished under a proposed constitutional amendment passed 102-to-35 by the House.

School district property taxes on vehicles would be retained.

Auto property taxes have been a source of considerable dissatisfaction since some cities and counties collect them and others don't bother. Rep. Murray Watson of Mart, sponsor of the plan, said he would urge that the Legislature also adopt a law requiring car owners to show a receipt for payment of school taxes as a requirement for getting license plates. Watson's proposed amendment also would authorize the Legislature to increase vehicle registration fees by one-third to create a fund for improving county roads and city streets.

If passed by both houses of the Legislature, the amendment would have to be voted on by the people.

GARNISHMENT APPROVED
Another proposed constitutional amendment approved by the House would allow courts to garnishee (take over) 50 percent of a father's salary for child support payments.

Rep. Ben Jarvis of Tyler, sponsor, said the measure would result in a lightened load for the State Welfare Department. Frequently, said supporters, fathers ignore court orders to pay child support, causing the children to become a public welfare problem.

Opponents called the measure too severe.

ELECTION CODE IS TARGET
Changes in future balloting and candidate filing procedures continue to be a prime legislative topic.

A bill introduced by Senators George Parkhouse of Dallas and Robert Baker of Houston would raise substantially the filing fees for legislative candidates in Dallas and Harris Counties. A senatorial candidate would have to pay $1,000 and a House candidate, $500, compared to the present $100 for each.

Another bill by Senator Parkhouse would limit each political party to one poll watcher per precinct and require that the watcher be a resident of the precinct in which he keeps his vigil.

A bill that would allow voters to check the candidate they favored rather than scratching all others has been approved by House committee and sent to the floor. Committee also approved a bill that would require that the boxes containing ballot stubs be turned in after the election with unbroken seals.

WATER STORAGE RIGHTS URGED

Gov. Price Daniel has written President Kennedy urging his support for a pending congressional bill that would spell out the right of a public agency (such as the state) to buy permanent water storage space in reservoirs constructed by the Army Corps of Engineers.

Daniel pointed out that the present Legislature already has approved a constitutional amendment that would authorize use of state funds to buy such water storage.

Clarifying legislation from the federal end, said the governor, would clear the way for "federal-state partnership in the vital field of water resources."

HIGHER BARBER LICENSES

House passed on second reading a bill that would double the license fee for barbers. Present charge is $10 for examination, $5 for license renewal.

Extra money would be used to hire more state inspectors, upgrade barber college standards, said Rep. Ben Jarvis of Tyler, sponsor. He said barbers favored it.

Jarvis' bill also would eliminate very small barber colleges by setting a 20-chair limit for schools.

SHORT SNOTS

Rep. V. E. (Red) Berry's last-ditch effort toward legalizing horse racing and parimutuel betting was killed by the House. It sent back to committee a proposal for a state-wide referendum on racing.

Fines of from $25 to $200 could be levied on policemen who trap speedsters by waiting in a hidden spot under a bill proposed by Rep. Collier Adams of Lubbock. Texans would begin their days an hour later, use an extra hour at the end of the long summer days under a daylight savings time bill introduced by Rep. Joe Ratcliff of Dallas.

Texas' general revenue fund deficit would be taken care of by a commission empowered to issue bonds to raise money to cover the shortage under a measure proposed by Rep. Ben Lewis of Dallas.

People who move from Texas would be allowed to vote absentee in Texas until they qualify for a vote in their new residence under a constitutional amendment proposed by Rep. Reed Quilliam of Lubbock. This privilege would last for only 24 months and would apply only to presidential elections.

Rep. Grainger McIlhenny of Wheeler has introduced a new bill to exempt farm trailers from licensing requirements. It is a substitute for a similar bill vetoed by Governor Daniel. New bill includes a number of safety, weight and speed limitations.

Present Trends Point to Lower Egg Prices

College Station — Present indications are that egg prices will decline during the late summer and fall months to levels below a year ago.

F. Z. Beanblossom, extension poultry marketing specialist, at Texas A&M College, reports that the combination of a relatively heavy late hatch of egg type chicks during 1960 and a high early hatch during January and February of 1961 will, if continued, lead to a marked buildup in the nation's laying flock beginning about June.
