SANTA ANNA, COLEMAN COUNTY, TEXAS, FRIDAY, AUGUST 4, 1961

NUMBER 31

To Visit New Six Flags Over Texas on Friday

Your editor and family plan to leave Santa Anna early Friday morning and journey to Arlington, Texas, where we will visit the new $10 million entertainment center that is the third largest in the nation. This vast amusement park is located about midway between Dallas and Fort Worth on the turnpike. It is exceeded in size only by Freedomland in New York and Disneyland in California.

Friday has been designated as Press Day at the center with the grand opening set for Saturday.

According to information reaching us, it takes about four hours to see the entire center. All buildings at Six Flags Over Texas are air conditioned, as are the shelters where visitors line up for rides and other entertainment. Some of the unique features of the new entertainment center include a limited number of persons to be admitted at the gate per hour in order to keep the park from becoming over crowded. Also, the single admission price covers all the rides in the park.

Carved out of a 105-acre track along a river bed in the Great Southwest Corp.'s industrial development near Arlington, the center depicts the history of the state under Spain, France, Mexico, the Republic of Texas, the Confederacy, and the United States.

To recreate the dramatic highlights of Texas history, Six Flags over Texas is as much of a continuous theatrical production as an amusement park.

Its staff of 600 will be in costumes portraying the different eras of Texas history. For two weeks, as workmen have put the finishing touches on the buildings, rides and elaborate landscaping, singing bartenders have been smoothing out their harmony. Confederate soldiers practiced their close order drill, and train robbers have perfected their skills.

Realism will be heightened by audience participation.

At Judge Roy Bean's combined courtroom and saloon in the Republic of Texas section, visitors will be empaneled as jurors to try horse thieves and the soft-drink sippers at the crazy horse saloon will be treated to playful cowboys shooting up the place.

The Texas section contains many authentic relics of early days in the state, from the elaborately-carved 19th century bars to the complete early-day bank whose wrought iron cages were obtained by purchasing the entire furnishings of a small-town bank.

Also in the Texas section is the narrow gauge railroad with its 60-year-old engine and passenger cars. As the visitors chug through the wooded perimeter of the park, the train is attacked by both Indians and train robbers.

In the French section, visitors are taken on boat trips during which the captain returns the fire of cannons from the Spanish fort from the river bank.

Animated characters, operated by complex electronic devices with synchronized sound, add to the realism. In the French section riflemen fire at the boats, lions roar and alligators snap. In the Mexican section, tortillas twirl, serapes swirl, sombreros spin, and a matador stages a bull fight.

The elaborate Mexican section with its plaza, stores and street dancers, features its own miniature railroad that winds past scenes depicting life in Texas during the Mexican reign.

Attractive colonial architecture with stores, shops and a completely equipped newspaper of the 1860s marks the Confederate section. The Spanish section includes a restored early day mission while the United States section features a $300,000 "astro-trolift" that takes the visitors on an aerial tour of the amusement park, sports car driving track, rides and the animal kingdom.

MRS. LONA MERRITT FRACTURES HIP

No Rains Thus Far This Week

For the past several weeks rain has been reported in most sections of this part of the state. Thus far (as this is being composed) we have not had any measurable amounts here, but other sections of the state have had big rains. Actually, we are of the opinion that we do not really need any rain right now, except in a part of the area around Shields and to the south of Rockwood.

Usually by this time of the year pastures are already pretty well dried up and there is very little green vegetation except where it is watered. At this time things are as green and pretty as if it were the middle of spring.

This condition is excellent for the livestock raisers, but has been hurting the cotton farmer.

According to the County Agent's office, the majority of the cotton in the county which hasn't been treated, has fleahoppers knocking off little squares and this has been going on for sometime. The real serious problem is that this will continue until the fleahoppers are brought under control. Treating these insects could be the difference between making a good crop and a complete failure.

There is also an increasing number of small boils with boll-weevil punctures. The County Agent's office reports the boll-weevils and fleahoppers can be controlled by spraying 1 1/2 to 2 quarts of Toxaphene-D.D.T. (4 pounds to 21 pounds), which is recommended for overwintered boll weevils. This must be done at least twice: once to get the insect and seven days later to get the larva after it hatches from the egg.

Anyone desiring more information is requested to go by the County Agent's office.

THIS WAS UNUSUAL

During recent weeks there has been a large number of armadillos burrowing around in flower gardens, etc., in the north part of town.

Thursday night Gary Hosch killed one at their home that took an unusual twist. This armadillo had apparently been burrowing around where some painting had been going on, as he had the rim from a paint bucket completely around his body. Gary said the mammal was making a lot of noise attempting to get the bucket rim off his body.

Young Hosch killed another one a few days before and left him in the yard for a short time. It was not long until his mate came along and when discovered the mate was burying the dead armadillo.

This is said to be a characteristic of this type of mammal.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McClellan left Monday morning for Aiken, S. C., where they will visit their daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Bartow Boylston and family. Mr. and Mrs. Allen Pierce and family of Austin took the McClellans. All five of the McClellan children and their families plan to meet in Aiken for a family reunion.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Riley of Austin were Santa Anna visitors on Tuesday.

Please Keep Grass Out of Streets Requests City

During recent weeks the City of Santa Anna has had most of the grass that has been growing over curbs and around some of the buildings in town, cut away. They hope owners and residents will help them keep the growth cut back so it will not cause damage later on.

Residents who live on the paved streets are particularly requested to keep a watch on your grass and do not let it grow over the curbs. It can get started growing in the pavement and cause considerable damage to the street.

The grass has already started in several places. The City Officials request the owners to kill the grass as rapidly as possible.

Mrs. T. R. Sealy went to Midland Saturday for a visit with her son, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Sealy and family.

New Deer Film Is Released By Game Commission

Austin — "Trail of the White-tail," a 16mm color, sound movie of Texas wildlife, has been completed by the photographic section of the Game and Fish Commission, and now is available for public showing. The picture has been announced by T. D. Carroll, director of information and education of the Commission.

The picture, which was made by photographers Lon Fitzgerald, Tom Diltz and Leroy Williamson, has been three years in the making, and covers a hundred years' history of the white-tailed deer in Texas.

The picture can be obtained without cost by service clubs and sportsmen's organizations for public showing, by writing to the film booking department of the Game and Fish Commission, Walton Bldg., Austin.

In beautiful color and professional sound, it runs 28 minutes, enough time to provide an adequate service club program with superior entertainment, according to Carroll.

Many other subjects also are available from the Commission for public showing.

Mrs. M. F. Blanton of the Cleveland community, returned to her home during the weekend after spending three weeks with her daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William Anderson and family in Fayetteville, Ark. Mrs. Blanton said it was a wonderful trip and she enjoyed it a lot.

Carolee Campbell, senior elementary education major student at Southwest Texas State College in San Marcos, qualified for the school's Dean's List the past six weeks, which is an average grade of B.

Warning Issued To .22 Hunters

During the past few days the local law enforcement agencies have received several complaints of youths using .22 rifles to hunt with, and some of the hunting has been going on just north of the housing area on the west Santa Anna Mountain.

Parents are urged to caution your children if they are hunting with .22 rifles. Firing a small caliber rifle like a .22 is very dangerous. Especially it is dangerous in a residential section and it could be even more dangerous by being fired in the locality back of the residential part of town and on and around the mountain.

Rifle bullets will glance off almost any object, and when this happens there is no telling where the bullet will go. These small caliber rifles are just about as dangerous as any kind of gun. Some folks get the idea that because they are small, they are not dangerous but more people get killed through accidents than any other cause — and small caliber rifles are a cause of a number of them.

New Package For Fluid Milk

College Station — Plastic coated containers have been developed for packaging fluid milk. These new containers are designed to replace the present wax coated cartons, says Arch Meekma, extension dairy specialist.

The new carton was introduced and became the big attraction at the Dairy Exposition in Chicago last November. It is a variation of the present wax covered carton. It has a polyethylene coating on the fiber carton. The new carton does not require glue for forming wax for coating or staples for closing. It comes with the plastic coating already on the carton. All that is necessary is to shape the carton and heat seal it into form, points out Meekma.

Manufacturers of the containers say the new cartons will eliminate the costs, inventories and handling of wax, glue and wire; prevent the contact of wax and milk and loose wax particles in the milk; do away with leaky milk cartons, and improve the appearance of the milk package.

Plastic containers are currently being used on a trial basis in several cities and other installations will follow as soon as additional packaging machines are manufactured. It is reported that conversion kits to modify existing cartoning machines will be available in the near future.

Football Practice To Get Underway Monday, Aug. 14

Head Coach R. C. Smith announced this week the annual football season is just about ready to get underway again. Fall practice will begin Monday, Aug. 14, and the season tickets are already on sale.

Coach Smith said he was expecting about 25 to 27 boys to come out for practice this season. But he was hoping a good many more than that would show up. Twelve of the boys will be returning lettermen from last year's team.

The coach said he would hold two practice sessions daily until school begins. One session will be in the early morning and the other in the late evening. Harold Walker and Dayton Jackson were selected as co-captains for the coming season.

Coach Smith and Coach A. D. Donham will go to the Coaching School in San Antonio next week. They plan to leave Sunday afternoon and return the following Sunday.

Local Firemen Attend Short Course at A & M

Two local firemen, L. J. Clark and Johnny Naron, attended the annual Firemen's Short Course at A & M College last week. The boys left on Sunday and returned the following Sunday. The City of Santa Anna sent the boys to the school.

Santa Anna receives a four percent credit on the fire insurance key rate for having members of the fire department attend this course.

Both these boys attended the course last year. Clark, City Fire Marshal, took the second year course for Fire Marshals. This year the course consisted mostly of inspections and investigations of fires. Naron took the advanced fire fighters course, which consisted of proper driving of emergency vehicles, pump operations and various other aspects of fire fighting equipment.

Austin — Store windows are already featuring school clothes, and mothers across Texas are budgeting money for new blue jeans and calico dresses.

But money with which to open the schools is not yet in sight. No one seriously doubts that new taxes will be voted and new appropriations made before current appropriations run out August 31.

Gov. Price Daniel has asked the Legislature to provide $359,000,000 in new revenue to get the state out of the hole and cover future needs. Even in "good times," raising this much money is a staggering problem. It will mean passing taxes to which a good portion of the Legislature—and possibly the governor—are bitterly opposed.

It could not be done — except that in a few weeks those blue jeans and calico-clad youngsters must go to school.

SENATE WORKS ON TAX
Senate's unenthusiastic attitude toward the House-passed tax bill may foreshadow another end-of-the-session deadlock between the two houses.

Even if all senators heartily approved the House bill, they would still have to expand it. State Comptroller, Robert Calvert, whose word is final on revenue forecasts, estimates the House bill will raise only $254,000,000. This is over $100,000,000 short of anticipated need. At the time it was passed, House sponsors thought it would bring in about $328,000,000.

House measures would raise money from these sources:

1. A 2 percent sales tax on all power-driven objects, construction materials, utility services and on other items costing more than $5. (Bulk of expected revenue would be from this provision.)
2. A minimum levy of one cent per thousand cubic feet on natural gas. Holders of dedicated reserve contracts would be liable for paying the difference between present gas production taxes and this minimum requirement.
3. A one-third increase in driver's license fees.
4. A revision in the corporation franchise tax formula to get more taxes from out-of-state corporations operating in Texas.
5. A one percent transfer ($12,000,000) from the Permanent School Fund to the Available School fund.
6. A bookkeeping change to transfer to the schools in August the portion of gasoline tax money that is slated for school purposes.

BUDGET IN CONFERENCE
House and Senate general appropriations bills, each calling for spending in the neighborhood of $2,500,000,000 are in the hands of a joint conference committee.

House bill calls for $16,000,000 more than the Senate version. In addition to what it already had passed, the House instructed its conference committee to hold fast on provisions for a 40-hour week for state employees. Money already was in the House bill to put state hospital employees on a 40-hour week. To this, the House added in its committee instructions, a 40-hour week for prison system and Department of Public Safety employees.

House conferees are Reps. James Cotton of Weatherford, B. H. Dewey of Bryan, J. W. Buchanan of Dumas, Malcolm McGregor of El Paso and Bill Hollowell of Grand Saline.

GOVERNOR OPENS GATES

Just when legislators thought they were going into the stretch on the drive to solve fiscal problems, the governor opened up the session to bills on 21 additional subjects.

Only subjects listed by the governor may be considered in a special session.

Daniel opened the door to legislation on unemployment compensation, law enforcement and traffic safety, the election code, Sunday closing laws, municipal annexation and some 15 other subjects.

Not included in the list were three bone-in-the-throat issues left over from the regular session: small loan regulation, changes in the auto insurance plan and ceding part of Padre Island to the federal government for a park.

Some legislators protested that the avalanche of bills resulting from the governor's broadened call would make it harder than ever to pass a tax program.

COST-CUTTING PLAN

In view of the House's money-finding problems, Rep. Charles Ballman introduced a measure designed to lop $97,000,000 off the state's revenue needs for the next two years.

Ballman is chairman of the House revenue and taxation committee. He termed his bill an "economy" measure. But many of its provisions, which are likely to arouse opposition, call for getting more money rather than spending less.

Among the bill's provisions: combine the Game and Fish Commission and the State Parks Board; raise tuition for state-supported colleges; pay county superintendents from county, rather than state, funds; finance the Department of Public Safety from state highway funds, and put DPS-collected funds into the general fund.

INSURANCE HIKE STUDIED

Lawmakers, though they cannot legislate on insurance in this session, are giving the new, higher auto insurance rates a thorough going over.

Conflict began when the State Board of Insurance instituted insurance premiums based on driving records in January, 1960. Many legislators protested effects of the plan during the regular session. Then during the summer the Board ordered an across-the-board increase in auto insurance rates, averaging about 15 percent.

Both House and Senate set up special committees to investigate need for the increase. A rate expert representing the Insurance Board told the House committee that drivers, not the Board, actually determine rates. As proof, he said rates dropped 30 percent during World War II when drivers knew that if they wrecked a car, they'd be walking for the duration.

SPEAKERSHIP CHANCE REJECTED

House voted down a proposal by Rep. W. T. Dungan of McKinney to elect a speaker "by gentlemen's agreement" in November, 1962.

Dungan urged that newly-elected representatives meet two months before the session's opening and elect a speaker. This would give the winner time to select committees and be ready for business at the start of the session.

Objectors said that since this is not provided in the constitution, the results would not be

New Farm Trailer Law Explained By FB

Austin — (Spl) — House and Senate agricultural leaders said this week that the new farm trailer law will save farmers and ranchers of Texas millions of dollars annually by reducing the license fee.

They said many farmers do not understand how the law benefits them and were protesting the payment of the annual license fee required under the new legislation.

HB 1082, the farm trailer law, was passed during the regular session of the Legislature and became effective May 29 with Governor Daniel's signature. It requires that farm trailers of from 4,000 to 10,000 pounds gross weight be registered with the county-tax assessor. It also provides that owners must secure a special farm trailer license plate for a $5 annual fee.

Farm trailers up to 4,000 binding. More likely, they said, that the two months interval would be spent in trying to change votes and get a different speaker elected when the House actually convened.

Long-range goal of the reform advocates is a constitutional amendment to allow advance election of the speaker.

Senate doesn't have this problem since the people elect the Lieutenant Governor to preside over the Upper House.

SPATE OF BILLS

Governor Daniel's broadening of the legislative call brought a hopper full of new proposals. Among them are measures that would:

1. Require public school children to take standard state test in the basic subjects once every three years. (By Rep. Maco Stewart of Galveston and Rep. Dick Slack of Pecos.) Purpose is to focus more attention on academic quality.
2. Raise the present $28 a week maximum on unemployment compensation to $37 a week. (By Rep. John A. Huebner of Bay City.)
3. Allow school districts, on petition of 5 percent of the voters, to hold a referendum on whether to establish free public school kindergartens. (By Rep. Travis Peeler of Corpus Christi.)
4. Require a run-off in special elections to fill seats in Congress and the State Legislature. (By Rep. Howard Green of Fort Worth.) Such an election is due this year to fill the post vacated by the death of State Rep. Marshall O. Bell of San Antonio.
5. Levy fines from $100 to $500 for selling certain types of merchandise on Sunday. (By Reps. Tommy Shannon and George Richardson of Fort Worth.)

SHORT SNORTS

Texas Highway Commission has authorized expenditure of $8,000,000 for purchase of right-of-way needed for construction of three interstate highways. Affected are Interstate 10 and Interstate 37 in San Antonio and Interstate 20 in Midland and Ector Counties.

State Selective Service Headquarters, feeling the first shock wave from the Berlin crisis, announced that 3,655 men would be called up for pre-induction exams in August. Last March the number called for exams was only 1,520. Aim is to increase the pool of potential draftees.

State Supreme Court announced that its docket was current and began its customary August-September recess.

pounds gross are not required to have license tags, and all farm trailers up to 10,000 pounds gross are exempt from brake requirements.

Senator A. J. (Andy) Rogers of Childress and Rep. Grainger McIlhenny of Wheeler, sponsors of the trailer bill, said many legislators have encountered mass resentment on the part of farmers over the $5 license fee.

In a statement to the Texas Farm Bureau legislative office here, the two lawmakers said they wanted farmers to understand that without passage of the trailer law this year, the cost of operating farm trailers would have been prohibitive.

They said, for example, that before the new law was passed, the license fee for a 10,000-pound trailer (gross weight) was $55, or $50 more than is required by the new law. They pointed out that the Department of Public Safety had warned that if a farm trailer bill was not passed this year, the department would begin strict enforcement of laws on trailer licensing and brake requirements.

Bob A. Lilly, legislative director for the Texas Farm Bureau, said HB 1082 was a compromise bill. He added that it was quite evident that if some law were not passed, the DPS would have enforced the old farm trailer law which exempted farm trailers only up to 4,000 pounds gross and which provided for brake requirements on all farm trailers of more than 3,000 pounds gross. He said the elimination of brake requirements under the new law will save farmers "untold millions of dollars" annually. He estimated the minimum cost for adequate brakes at $200 per trailer.

Senator Rogers estimated that the new law will save farmers in his 15-county district some $25 million a year. He based this on an estimate of 100,000 farm trailers (used mostly for hauling cotton to the gin) in his High Plains district. He said a $50 savings on license fees and a $200 savings on brakes for 100,000 trailers adds up to $25 million. He explained that most of the big cotton trailers run close to 10,000 pounds gross.

Under the new law, farmers who fail to obtain license tags will be subject to fine and also must immediately register their trailer as a commercial trailer and obtain a commercial license plate.

The new law exempts farm trailers from the annual vehicle inspection requirement and from the Certificates of Title Act. Lighting requirements for farm trailers have not been altered since 1947.

Mrs. Dale Smith returned Saturday from a two weeks visit with relatives in Georgia.

Mrs. C. F. Yancy left Sunday for California where she will visit with relatives.

Game Violators In June Arrests Pay High Price

Austin — Fishing without a license brought 235 arrests in the month of June, according to Capt. E. M. Sprott, director of law enforcement of the Game and Fish Commission.

In all, there were 331 arrests during the month, with $6,054.18 collected in fines and court costs. Hunting in a closed season brought 11 arrests, and hunting at night the same number. Another man was arrested for "telephoning" fish.

CALF WEIGHTS — STOCKING GUIDE FOR CATTLEMEN

A decline in calf weaning weights may show that a cattleman's range is being overgrazed, even though cow weights do not change enough to indicate a shortage of forage.

This conclusion comes from a study of beef cattle stocking rates at USDA's Southern Plains Experimental Range near Woodward, Okla.

The conclusion is unusual because it's generally thought that cows reflect overgrazing better than their calves — a deteriorating range should lower a cow's weight before her sucking calf is affected.

But the Oklahoma study showed that calf weaning weights varied considerably, depending on the number of acres their dams were allowed to graze. One group was allowed 12 acres per cow. Another group grazed 17 acres per cow and a third, 22 acres. These were 3-year averages. Actual ranges per acre varied depending on the range condition.

Condition of range of the cows remained the same, but calves weaned from cows that had all the range been grazed by their dams in May, each year, averaged 404 pounds. Cows that grazed 17 acres averaged 451 pounds. Cows that grazed 22 acres averaged 512 pounds.

Calf crop percentages were higher for cows allowed more than 12 acres. Cows on 17 acres averaged a 92 percent crop; those on 22 acres averaged 89 percent. On the 12 acres-per-cow pasture, fewer calves were produced — an 81 percent crop.

Pastures grazed at 12 acres per cow were severely weakened from overgrazing. Forage production was 912 pounds per acre, while yield from pastures supporting a cow every 22 acres averaged 1,102 pounds.

McIvain and Shoop think calf weaning weights can be used to help gage proper stocking under certain conditions. If this method is used, cattle should get all roughage from native range. Stock should supplement protein in winter and salt all-year. Grazing intensity within a pasture should also be fairly uniform.

Calf weights won't be useful if much hay is fed regularly. And creep feeding the calves, of course, will keep their weights from indicating range condition.

In other areas, calf weights may not be the only sensitive indication of overgrazing. In an earlier USDA — Montant experiment, different stocking rates affected cow weights and calving percentages as well as calf weaning weights.

Cub Scout Dad And Lad Camp Being Repeated

Cub Dad and Lad camp is being repeated at Camp Tonkawa this summer for all Cub Scouts and their fathers. On August 5-6 and August 12-13 any Cub Scout and his dad may have a wonderful weekend together at the Boy Scout Camp of the Chisholm Trail Council camping together under starry skies.

Any Cub Scout dad and his son may register for either or both periods by sending their registration to the Boy Scout Office, Box 5024, Abilene, Texas. A boy and his dad are then set to join with 99 other boys and their dads for a wonderful weekend together in the open woods of the Boy Scout Camp Tonkawa.

This 24 hour period for a dad and his son will include such things as a chance to fire on the rifle range, pull a bowstring and bust a bull on the archery range, go swimming, hike the woods and trails, visit the chipping grounds of the Tonkawa Indians, get in a boat or canoe and take off across the lake, or attend an evening campfire under the stars.

The couple will check into Camp Tonkawa on Saturday afternoon at 2:00 p. m., receive their tent and be assigned an area to pitch the tent. Set up their cots or beds for the night and then take off for a swimming session to cool off. The entire camp is theirs to do with as they see until after breakfast the next day at which time they will check in their tent and return to their home community in time to go to church together. Their meals will be prepared in the dining hall while they are in Camp Tonkawa, unless they catch fish in which case they will

Plant Disease Of the Week

Harlan E. Smith, Extension Plant Pathologist

COTTON BACTERIAL BLIGHT MOST SERIOUS PLANT DISEASE

Bacterial blight of cotton causes more damage than any other plant disease in Texas. It generally is most severe on the High Plains and the Coast Prairie, in the irrigated valleys of the Trans-Pecos area and in the sprinkler irrigated areas on the Rolling Plains.

Bacterial blight causes more than one-fourth of the total estimated cotton disease yield loss in Texas. Losses vary from $35,000,000 to $40,000,000 per year. Too, additional losses occur in the form of lower and spot grades of the harvested fiber. Losses in 1960 were slightly less than in former years.

Small, angular, brownish or blackish spots occur on the lower leaves. Later the disease may spread to the higher leaves. Only a few spots are necessary to drop the leaves. Yield reduction results from the premature loss of leaves. Small, circular, dark-green spots occur on bolls. These spots enlarge, dry up, stain lint and prevent normal opening of the boll. Under severe conditions lint or stems may die-back.

The disease causing bacteria enter through air-breathing pores (stomata) in the leaves, bolls and stems. They also may enter the plant parts through wounds.

The blight organism overwinters in the soil on old plant trash and on or in planting seed. Wind-driven splashing rains, sprinkler irrigation or whirlwinds spread the bacteria from plant to plant in the fields.

The only known practical prevention is the growing of resistant varieties. Acala 1517 BR, Acala 1517 BR-1, Blightmaster, Austin, Rex and Mebane B-1 have some resistance and are available for commercial production. New resistant varieties are being developed.

The planting of known disease-free seed will give control if there is no soil carry-over. Acid-diluted seed, adequately treated with a seed protectant fungicide, will reduce early season infection. This practice does not necessarily prevent later epidemics. Correct amounts of nitrogen fertilizer will help make susceptible varieties more resistant.

College Station — Turkeys star in summer meals as well as in autumn meals because marketings are as large this August as around Thanksgiving in yester-years.

This is pointed out by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, in announcing that turkeys top the list of August plentiful foods prepared by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

With turkey marketings running a fourth or more larger than last August, prices hover near a record low, making turkey a bargain meat.

Local supplies of peaches, cantaloupes and watermelons as well as many summer vegetables are generous enough to rate USDA's plentiful tag this month.

Shipments of eating plums from California are running much larger than usual for this season.

Other foods in better than normal August supply include eggs and shrimp, fresh, frozen and canned.

After checking local and national food stocks, USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service compiles this monthly plentiful foods list to help farmers market more of their produce through normal trade channels, and to help consumers make better use of America's agricultural abundance.

Magazine Tells How to Catch Big Bull Frogs

Austin — If you have ever been tempted to hunt bull frogs, you'll learn something from two articles in the July issue of Texas Game and Fish magazine. Curtis Carpenter tells with story and pictures how to catch them, how to clean them and how to cook them.

The pictures were made of bull frog hunters, using strong headlights and gigs on streams and stock tanks.

"Hunting frogs can be a very exciting and productive sport," the article says. "There's not much to it if you have the right equipment and a good frog pond."

TEDDY ON AUTOMATION

We found this one in a Canadian paper - The Thamesville (Ontario) Herald. We hadn't seen it before, and if you have, please don't stop us.

It seems that Teddy Roosevelt, who probably never heard of "automation," had an answer for critics who said it would reduce the number of jobs.

While he was watching steam shovels scoop up earth at a dam site, someone remarked: "Think of the jobs we would create if we put men in there with shovels, eh Teddy?"

"Yes," replied Teddy scathingly, "and we could multiply that number by thousands if we equipped them with teaspoons."

Isn't it grand to have a small-town Canadian weekly recognize the wisdom of one of our American presidents, long since departed?

And wouldn't it be even grander if some of our union leaders who panic at the very mention of the word "automation" were to learn the lesson taught in that scathing but sage reply made by President Roosevelt (Teddy, that is)?

Mrs. Glenda Riddle and sons, Glen and Bill and Sherri Williamson of Fort Worth, were weekend visitors with Mrs. Lura Williamson. They were accompanied home by Lee Riddle and Darla Williamson, who have spent two weeks with their grandmother.

Lucky Fishermen Recovering Tags To Get Free Lures

Rockport - Saltwater anglers who catch tagged fish and return the tag and catch data to the Game and Fish Commission, Thomas Myron Hays family in of fishing lures. This has been announced by Terrance Leary, assistant director of the marine fisheries division of the Game and Fish Commission. Four lure manufacturers, Hump Lure Co., Bomber Bait Co., Padre Island Co. Inc., and Doug English Lure Co., will send sample fishing lures for each salt water fish tag returned to the Game and Fish marine laboratory at Rockport.

When a fisherman sends in his tag and catch data, he will receive his four sample lures by mail, one lure from each of the four companies sponsoring the reward program.

The small, numbered metal tag clips usually on the lip of the fish are attached by a biologist of the Commission in an effort to follow the movement and growth of individual fish in their native habitat.

The information needed by the biologists from the fishermen who catch the tagged fish is: length and weight of the fish and where it is caught. This catch information added to other tag returns enables the biologist to map migration routes, plot growth and estimate the population size and fishing pressure.

Widows, dependent widowers, a dependent parent will receive 8½% of the deceased's basic retirement amount instead of 7½%, effective early in September, 1961.

CARRY SCOTCH TAPE

A roll of scotch tape is one of the handiest items to carry in your tackle box. You can use it to replace line guides or tip tops that break off in the course of fishing.

DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENTS

By Maurice R. Franks

(Editor's Note: Maurice R. Franks is President of the National Labor-Management Foundation and Editor of its official publication, Partners.)

In the June issue of Partners, the Magazine of Labor and Management, of which publication it is my great privilege to be editor, I paraphrased Thomas Jefferson's "Declaration of Independence" into terms that apply to modern labor unionism — calling it the "Declaration of Independence."

This issue of Partners went to its readers just prior to July 4, which marked the 185th anniversary of America's independence. I urged all to make that holiday one of solemn re-dedication, to review the Declaration of Independence, that historic document embodying the ideas of the American Revolution and which today should reflect the ideals of every segment of our present society.

And particularly, I pointed out that our labor union leaders would profit by devoting themselves on Independence Day to a line-by-line study of that sacred document. In doing so, they would surely perceive how far astray from its principles they have piloted the American labor movement. Also, they might come to understand the dangers connected with stifling the unalienable rights of man and ignoring the basic claims of human dignity. As they studied the charges and meditated upon the arrogant stupidity of the British Crown, prior to 1776, they might be led to draw a parallel and apply the lesson to themselves.

If conscience alone is insufficient to inspire all leaders of organized labor to audit the books of their thinking and adjust their future performance to the just demands of their people, a hard cold look at the facts that presently challenge their stewardship should impel them in this direction.

They have an obligation—not only to the union memberships, they are ethically bound to respect and serve—but in equal measure to the labor movement as a much-needed instrument of economic and social justice. For that matter, they owe it no less to themselves to reform their professional performance, remembering that had the King of England been more fully aware of the minds of his American colonists and so had been better prepared to adjust colonial government to the will of the colonists, there would have been no American Revolution! no need for a Declaration of Independence.

The "Spirit of '76" may not yet be in full flame in the ranks of organized labor, but day by day its flickers are gaining strength. Union workers in organization after organization are getting sick and tired of union officials who have set up a tyrannical hierarchy. Union members are fed up with being treated like mere pawns on a chess board. They resent, as did the founders of this republic, the principle of taxation without proper representation. They despise the idea of government by international union officers when such government rudely tramples on local dignity.

They resent the crushing impacts of this dictatorship, whether by racketeer or radical. They repudiate the whole idea of such administration of union affairs as consistently reflects a spirit of arrogant irresponsibility—and often as not of downright stupidity and incompetence. Union members everywhere today are sorely at odds with all the faithless skullduggery which publicly identifies vast segments of union leadership.

A spirit of rebellion and a thirst for independence are gnawing at the grassroots of the labor movement. Unless this fact is recognized and respected, the day may come all too soon when the situation will blow up in the faces of the men who have undertaken to run the unions as a private dominion. The groundwork is being laid for an independent labor movement—as completely divorced from the unaffiliated empires of Messrs. Hoffa, Bridges, et al, as from the already shaky merger of the AFL and CIO.

Independence, if and when it comes, will reject all forms of unionistic tyranny, all forms of personal, hierarchal, or anti-American dictatorship, all forms of unionism that betray the rights of man and downgrade human dignity.

For their own professional survival—as well as for the greater health of the American labor movement, if they didn't do it prior to the Glorious Fourth, let every union officer re-read the Declaration of Independence. Let them analyze the spirit of legitimate resentment which provided the ink for that document.

Unless the leaders of modern unionism wake up to the facts of union life and face their responsibilities with a lot more conscience than Great Britain's George III faced his—the end of the line is in sight for them. Unless the House of Labor gets hep to the real problems confronting it and really starts cleaning up its premises from within, the day is not far off when millions of righteous American working people will fling into the teeth of today's union autocracy a stinging DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENTS.

Today's MEDITATION

The World's Most Widely Used
Devotional Guide

The Upper Room

THE UPPER ROOM, NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE

Read Mark 10:13-16.
Verily I say unto you, Except ye be converted, and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven. (Matthew 18:3.)

Three incidents involving children came to my mind. Little Paul accidentally pushed Mary to the floor. She was frightened and cried. Paul came to her and said, "Me sorry." Still she cried. He came the second time saying, "Me sorry." Finally, he said, "Me so, so sorry." She wiped her eyes, stopped crying, and soon both were playing again.

My friend, was baby sitting with two little sisters. They had quarreled all morning. At lunch time the four-year-old said her regular table grace. She hesitated, then added, "Help us to forgive the one who sits next to us."

I was walking from the church to the parsonage next door with our pastor's little daughter. Just to make conversation, I said, "Where do you live, Jane?" She said, "Oh, I live next door to God."

If we truly want to make our homes Christian, we too, must be willing to say I am sorry, and forgive those who sit next to us if we would live next door to God.

PRAYER:
Dear God, forgive us when we are unkind and hurt others. Help us to be understanding toward those who sit next to us that we may be instruments of Thy will. In Jesus' name we pray. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY
The best place to live is next door to God.

TAX-MAN SAM SEZ:
Even though IRS's tax enforcement program brings in millions, Texans voluntarily pay most of the $3 billion taxes taken in annually by the Austin and Dallas Internal Revenue Service Districts. The tax folks give strong support to voluntary compliance with enforcement. Thousands have their tax returns audited and several score are indicted for fraud annually. More than 200 brand new tax men hired this year for Texas IRS offices have just finished tax schools or they are hard at work in one of several tax schools being held here in Texas now. It probably pays to voluntarily comply after all.

Mrs. Daymond Jackson and Clayton visited during the first of last week with her daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Wilburn Anderson in Altus, Okla.

Feeding Biggest Factor Influencing Milk Production

College Station — The biggest single factor influencing the amount of milk a cow produces is the amount of feed she eats.

A. M. Meekma, extension dairy specialist, says that contrary to the belief of some, feeding, not breeding, is mainly responsible for milk production. Inheritance determines the top potential level of production, but environment determines actual production, he explains.

To support his theory, Meekma cites a study by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, in which 462 lactation records of 230 cows were studied over a seven-year period. This study showed that season of calving, days calf was carried while milking, and length of previous dry period, also influenced production.

The specialist says it is evident that Texas dairymen need to get more feed into their cows. "Not only do we need more and better forage, but we should feed the grain mixture according to the performance of the cow if we are to make the most profit from dairy cattle," he says.

You may not have any grandchildren, but if you are past 50 the chances are that you are becoming farsighted... you can't see very well to read or do close work.

T-Patchers Wonder About Homes if Mobilization Comes

North Fort Hood, Tex. (Sp) — A crisis across the world has caused Guardsmen of the 36th Division here to wonder what kind of crisis would result at home if they are suddenly mobilized.

The first thought and reaction of the T-Patchers, if they are called to active duty because of the threatening tension in Berlin is: What happens to home and business?

What happens to that car which has another year of payments due? More than 9,000 Texans are involved, and are asking this question.

To the Guardsman today, this is a more important problem in June of $2.2 billion, after the fiscal year ended he was forced to admit that the deficit was actually $3.9 billion!

And that tells but a part of the story. There has actually been a $9 billion increase in authority for new and increased spending, not counting the $4 billion requested in the emergency message. And that does not take into account a considerable amount of back-door spending, such as is included in public housing, ect., that is not reflected in budget estimates.

This wanton spending program can only lead to more inflation and a gradual weakening of fiscal stability. It means an ever-increasing public debt. It means a more powerful government in Washington. This spending-to-lure-votes policy is simply unsound and it can lead to disaster.

We must provide adequately for our defense program. But instead of talking of new and increased taxes to finance it, it is time to retrench elsewhere. There is more reason for that being done now than ever.

than the techniques of attacking a hill.

Actually, the Guardsman has little to fear, declares Lt. Col. Paul E. Casseb of San Antonio, the division's JAG officer — or division attorney, so to speak.

An average Guardsman, he noted, has purchased his home with the assistance of the Veteran's Administration Financing Plan or the Federal Housing Administration (FHA) plan.

"His solution is to be aware of the fact that the Soldiers and Sailors Civil Relief Act will prevent a foreclosure of the mortgage," Colonel Casseb said. "And this can be a basis for negotiating a moratorium on the mortgage payments."

The same, he said, will hold true for any non Government-guaranteed loan. Payments would be postponed until the Guardsman was discharged from his active duty service, and no interest would be accrued during that time.

Whether a Guardsman's wife works or not does not change the conditions, Casseb said.

In the case of the Guardsman's own business, the painfulness of the problem would depend upon what type of business is involved.

The hardest hit would be the Guardsman who is the proprietor of his own business, and is without an assistant to operate it in his absence.

In the case of lawyers or other professional men in partnership, a workable solution can usually be reached.

But in extreme hardship cases, Casseb said provisions within National Guard regulations are provided to offer the Guardsman relief.

He may need only 30 days leave time to make necessary arrangements — or, by special permission of the division commander, he could resign his commission or cancel his enlistment.

While the law protects the Guardsman from losing his home or property, there is a feeling here that a drastic drop in income—true in most all cases—would be a burden back home.

While on active duty, Guardsmen for the most part would be making less than half of what their civilian pay check used to read. Some say they would be making only a third as much.

"My Army income wouldn't come close to taking care of my overhead at home," cited one officer, who admitted he was "pretty well off" back home. "My family would bear the burden."

Generally, most Guardsmen felt relieved that they were not called to active duty while at camp — not for fear of fighting, but for their pressing problems

About Your Health

Austin — Various educated guesses as to the number of undiscovered diabetics in the United States place the figure somewhere between one and two million. Undoubtedly a fair proportion of them are Texans.

Diabetes is a systemic metabolic disease in which the body loses its ability to use sugar normally. It can develop at any age, but most new victims are 50 or older.

Normally, the gland called the pancreas produces a secretion called insulin which is released into the blood. In the presence of insulin, sugar in the blood is burned, especially by muscular activity. Any excess of sugar in the presence of a normal amount of insulin is stored temporarily, mostly in the liver, and released into the blood stream as needed.

This is the normal pattern. But in a person suffering with diabetes the pancreas fails to produce sufficient insulin. And when starches are eaten and absorbed as sugar, the body is unable to control the sugar normally by storing it in the liver or to burn it efficiently in muscular exercise. Result: the sugar content of blood increases abnormally.

Because a diabetic is unable to burn sugar efficiently for energy, he becomes weak and tired, hungry and undernourished.

When blood sugar gets too high, the kidneys — in an effort to lower it — removes some of the sugar by excreting it in urine. This makes the body dry and creates thirst.

Proof of the hereditary nature of diabetes is the fact that surveys of diabetic children show 80 percent are from families with a history of diabetes. Recent studies have shown that both mothers and babies weighing 10-12 pounds at birth have a pronounced tendency to develop diabetes in later life.

Overeating and lack of muscular exercise tend to promote obesity which in turn create a tendency toward diabetes. It has been shown that 20 fat persons develop the disease for every thin one who does. Moral: don't overeat, don't overweigh, but do get plenty of exercise.

You can judge your own disposition toward diabetes. Are you overweight? Do you overeat? Is there diabetes in your family? Were you a "heavy" baby at birth? Do you have any of these symptoms: persistent hunger or thirst, loss of weight or strength, excessive urination? If so, you're a fair candidate for diabetes and ought to promptly consult your family physician. (A weekly service of the Health Education Division, Texas State Department of Health.)

Louise Cooper, Linda Pittard, Linda Abernathy, Lynda Rutherford, Ricky Abernathy, Mr. and Mrs. Snowden, parents of Mrs. Fitzpatrick. The group enjoyed swimming in the afternoon. All reported a wonderful day.

Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Avants were in Coleman Monday, while there they visited with Mr. and Mrs. Buster Wynn.

Mrs. Dave Shields and boys spent several days last week with relatives in Cross Plains and Abilene.

Small Businesses Do Big Job for U. S. Savings Bonds

Washington, D. C. — Small business does a big job for the U. S. Savings Bond Payroll Savings Plan, according to the Treasury Department.

In a public service newspaper ad released today as part of the bond program's 20th anniversary observance, the Treasury saluted the thousands of smaller employers who have taken initiative in installing and promoting this automatic thrift plan for their employees' benefit, often without professional help.

Official estimates indicate that 45,000 companies offer the plan. These include most of America's largest corporations, but also many companies, in all types of business, which employ fewer than 100 employees. In many cases the plan has been offered continuously since 1941.

In a statement acknowledging the Treasury's tribute, Cortland J. Silver, St. Paul, Minnesota, jewelry executive and vice chairman of the National Small Business Advisory Committee, said that "big achievements come in small packages."

"Small companies account for a large percentage of the 3 million Payroll Savers who buy a million dollars' worth of U. S. Savings Bonds every hour of every working day. We are proud to help our employees save for security — proud of our part in helping to keep America strong and free."

Savings Bond officials said that a special Payroll Savings brochure is being sent to 1 1/2 million business firms this month under the auspices of state governors, chambers of commerce, state and local trade associations, and other volunteer groups.

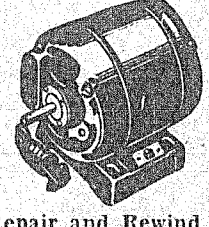

Social security benefits to men can now be paid at age 62, whether as retirement, dependent husband, or dependent parent.

This completes the regular baseball season this year. Elsewhere in this issue of The News is a complete batting record of all the local boys who participated in the summer program.

Last week Mrs. Kate Holmes and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil King and girls, Susan and Celia, of Brownwood spent one week on the coast with Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Lovelady, Barbara and Kathy of Texas City.
