

State Capitol NEWS

AUSTIN — Hurricane Carla had its impact on the State Capitol. But not like it did on the Coast.

Refugees camped on the Capitol grounds the first night of the storm. They were moved into public buildings as the rains reached Austin. Several giant trees on the Capitol grounds were blown down, and the Board of Control estimated damage of $5,000 to Capitol grounds and buildings.

State officials were busy, too. Gov. Price Daniel's on-the-scene inspections led to several coastal counties being declared disaster areas. Thus they became eligible for Federal aid.

State Insurance Chairman Thomas Ferguson announced that several hundred insurance adjusters had moved into the coastal area to begin estimating damages to insured properties.

So far no one had any estimate of the total damage Carla did to Texas.

One sure thing is that insurance companies, which have taken in about $15,000,000 in premiums this year for windstorm and rain damage in the seacoast territory, will have substantial losses to pay above their income from this source.

MORE SALES TAX RULINGS
Comptroller Robert S. Calvert is still issuing rulings on how the new state sales tax applies to specific situations.

He has changed his mind for the first time. It's on the subject of repairmen.

New ruling declares that the repairman is the consumer of the tangible personal property which goes into a repair job, unless he has a contract under which he is to bill the customer separately for labor and parts or materials. In that case, he can collect the sales tax from the customer on the materials only. But if the repair contract is for a lump sum price, the repairman must pay the 2 per cent tax on the supplies and materials at his cost.

These and other complications of the huge new tax law led to two proposals for changes.

Atty. Gen. Will Wilson recommended that it be changed to an across-the-board 2 per cent tax, with no exemptions.

State AFL-CIO Pres. H. S. Brown called for complete repeal of the sales tax, and substitution of an income tax which he said "you pay just once a year, instead of 15 times a day."

WHAT'S A FARM TRAILER?
The new revision of the law which used to exempt farm trailers from license fees has lots of people in a swivet. The law revised twice during the spring sessions of the Legislature. Governor Daniel vetoed the first bill by Rep. Grainger McIlhenny of Wheeler, so it was passed again in modified form.

It now requires larger farm trailers to have "exemption tags" which cost $5. It also requires owners of oil-well servicing and drilling equipment to have license plates if they are to be moved over the highways.

Oilfield servicing companies brought suit to set aside this interpretation of the law. License plates, based on weight, would be staggering, they claim as they maintain that the legislature did not mean to tax them when it wrote in an exemption for the water well drillers.

Rural legislators report some farmers aren't happy about having to pay $5 to be exempt.

CLUB TAX REVENUE HEAVY
Another new act of the legislature which took effect Sept. 1 levied a tax and license requirements on the "private clubs" where mixed drinks are served.

Texas Liquor Control Board had little idea how many such clubs there are, and how many members they had. In the first two weeks, the license-fee receipts at the Liquor Board came to $420,000, and returns are still coming in.

This would indicate a private-club membership of about 210,000, since the tax is approximately $2 per member per year. Clubs operated by veterans organizations and fraternal organizations are exempt from the tax and license requirements.

The new law was pushed by the hotel and restaurant people, who wanted to get the private clubs legalized and out of the no-man's land where they have been operating for several years. Regulations require them to have food available to serve their members and guests in order to be eligible for a license.

Special elections will have to be held in Bexar, Grayson, Cooke, Galveston and Potter Counties to fill House vacancies before Governor Daniel can bring the Legislature back into the special session he plans for this fall. If he sets the special session for late October or early November, as many think he will, the elections will have to be called soon, to have the new lawmakers ready to go to work when the session opens.

Major item for the special session is the enactment of legislation to license lenders and regulate interest rates.

House passed a bill during the regular session in the spring to set up tight regulation with fairly high interest charges. But the Senate could not agree. So the bill died.

As the law now stands it is illegal to charge more than 10 per cent per year in interest. Courts have wiped out all the various subterfuges by which higher rates were being charged. So lenders, who contend they cannot get by on 10 per cent on small loans, are anxious to be legalized in some fashion.

NEW OIL POLICY - MAKER
Lieut. Gov. Ben Ramsey became Railroad Commission Ben Ramsey in ceremonies Monday, and went right to work at the statewide oil proration hearing held Tuesday.

Ramsey leaves behind a record that probably will never be broken -- election to six terms as lieutenant governor. Some earlier holders of that office had won as many as three terms, but there had been few of them.

Ramsey's salary goes up from $4,300 a year and an apartment in the Capitol to $17,500 a year, but he will have to pay his own rent.

Senator Bruce Reagan of Corpus Christi assumes the duties of lieutenant governor until the special session opens. Then the Senate will choose another senator to preside over its meetings.

Choice lies between Senators Culp Krueger of El Campo, Charles Herring of Austin and Henry Gonzales of San Antonio. All three came to the Senate on the same day in 1957.

Senators Preston Smith of Lubbock, Crawford Martin of Hillsboro, Robert Baker of Houston, Wardlow Lane of Center, A. M. Aikin Jr. of Paris, George Parkhouse of Dallas and Speaker James A. Turman of Gober are among the officeholders considered likely to run for lieutenant governor.

Don Yarborough of Houston, who gave Ramsey his closest race for the office in 1960, is also expected to run.

Maury Maverick Jr. of San Antonio is another potential candidate.

STATE DOLLARS

The year-end report of Comptroller Calvert gives Texans an idea of how big their state government has become.

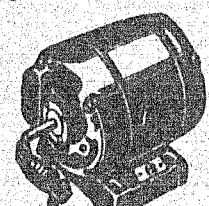

During the state fiscal year which ended Aug. 31, the state government took in $1,210,107,355 and spent $1,192,569,099. Of the spending, $370,000,000 went for highways, $468,000,000 for education, and $188,000,000 for public welfare.

Those three big items total $1,000,000,000, leaving less than $90,000,000 for all other activities of state government, including the executive department, the courts, the legislature, safety, health, state mental hospitals and the correctional institutions.

The figure on state spending will be substantially larger this year, mainly because of the increases in the school-aid program and the improvements in higher education. Biggest source of state money is Federal grants for highways, education, welfare, game and fish, health and other programs. They add up to $288,000,000 a year. The new retail sales tax will be the third biggest source of money this year. It is estimated to bring in about $150,000,000, which will put it ahead of the oil production tax, the present third-place source of money at $122,000,000 a year, but still behind the motor fuel sales tax, which brought $177,000,000.

Keynote of the Center of the Southwest

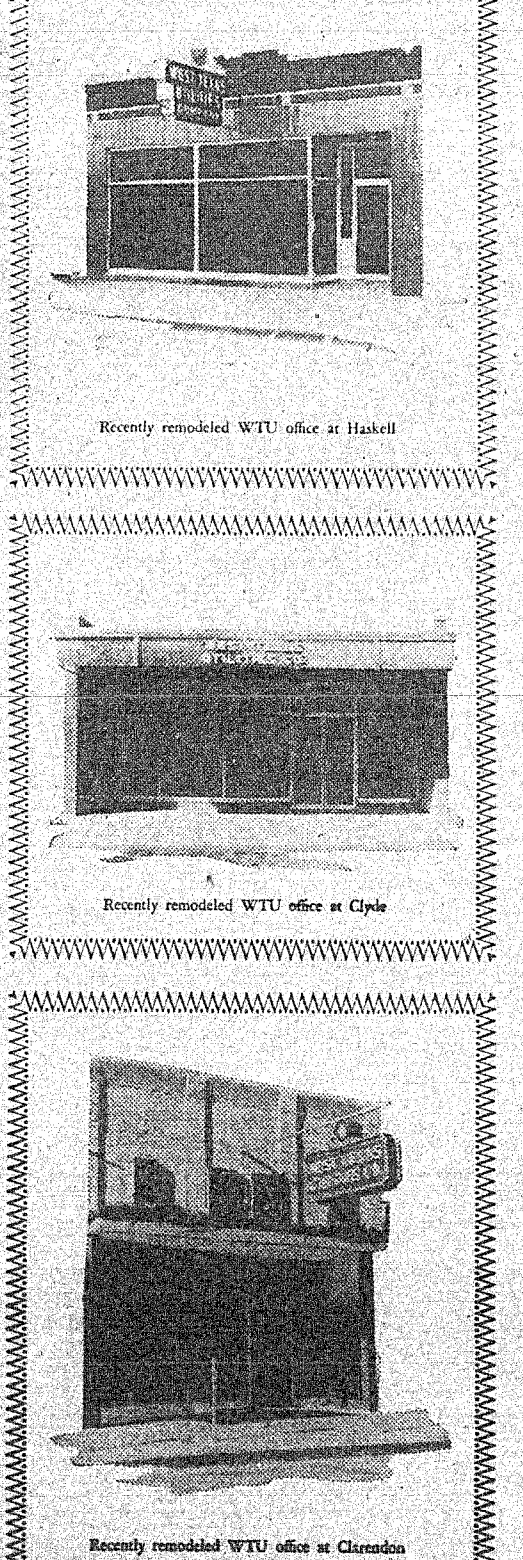

West Texas Utilities Company's service facilities are growing as the area we serve grows.

This service area is the Center of the Southwest — the very heart of a five-state region that is growing 25 per cent faster than the Nation.

A multi-million-dollar growth program is now under way, and even more expansion is in the planning stages. Major examples are our new generating, transmission and distribution facilities, where much construction is now going on.

Our continuing growth program is seen also at the local level. Pictured here, for example, are three of our local offices which have been remodeled recently.

This Company is convinced that we face Growth Unlimited. The money we are spending for expansion today is our INVESTMENT IN THE FUTURE.

About Your Health

In the early days of barnstorming flying circuses, the daredevil wingwalkers, stunt flyers and especially those who specialized in crashing old airplanes into abandoned buildings appeared to be reckless, death-defying idiots to most onlookers.

The fact of the matter is they took careful precautions to prevent accidents and made lengthy advance preparations for the more hazardous stunts. The safeguard generally regarded as a must-- and still universally maintained today--was seatbelts, fastened securely to the framework of the aircraft and buckled throughout the flight.

It is reasonable to assume that a pilot who survives an intentional crash into a building with the use of seatbelts would protect himself from the possible serious injuries or death from an accident involving an automobile. To a large extent this is true. Automobile seatbelts first began appearing in large numbers of passenger vehicles several years ago as a direct result of pilots, race drivers and others acquainted with their value.

Today, it is a recognized fact based on hundreds of accident reports, elaborate, controlled tests, and reports from various state highway departments across the country, that seatbelts are definite lifesavers in automobile accidents.

One comprehensive study which evaluated reports of parallel accidents of cars with and without seatbelts -- indicated that the chances of escaping death in a traffic accident were improved 87 percent by the use of seat belts.

Studies show that the leading cause of serious injury and death results from being thrown out of the car. Most of the other serious injuries involve striking objects within the car. Seatbelts substantially reduce both possibilities.

Drivers who have been using seatbelts regularly for any length of time report that the belts not only serve as safety devices, but actually are more restful on long drives, and cause a constant awareness of safety from their mere presence. Read Acts 19:13-20.

O taste and see that the Lord is good; blessed is the man that trusteth in Him. (Psalm 34:8.)

Daulat Singh, with his dancing and singing, had been for years a leader in the worship of village gods in a hill district of North India. When his hour of trial came, in the sickness and death of his wife, his gods failed him. He decided to learn more about Jesus, of whom he had heard. So Daulat Singh went to the nearest mission station.

After some months, he found peace and became Christ's devoted one. It was not long before he desired to tell others of his peace and love. But how? Going to the minister of the local church, he laid bare his heart and asked: "How can I help to tell others of Christ? I cannot preach or teach." Said the minister: "You can sing. Let us see if we can put the stories of Jesus into songs."

So Daulat, still using his tambourine, visited village homes and sang new words of faith, love, and cheer, using the old tunes. When we called with him at a home, the greeting was, "Daulat, will you sing for us?" His answer was, "Yes, I'll sing and tell you of Jesus."

PRAYER: Our father, may we be ready to witness for our Lord in ways open to us. Help us to tell of the love of Christ as best we can - in our everyday words and ways. So may others learn of Christ through us. In His name. Amen.

VA Request All Veterans to Check Their Beneficiaries

Reluctantly and sadly, the Veterans Administration has to make many insurance settlements it knows would not meet the wishes of deceased GI insurance policyholders.

It's all because too many veterans fail to check their insurance records and keep designated beneficiaries up to date. P. J. Mims, manager of the VA Regional Office in Waco said:

"The law gives GI policyholders the right to change their beneficiaries at any time without the consent of the prior beneficiaries," Mims pointed out. "But unless the change is officially made, no choice is given VA but to pay the claim to the beneficiary on record."

Too often, he added, victims of this carelessness are minor children and widows of a second marriage. If an ex-wife is still the beneficiary of record, VA has no recourse but to pay her the policy settlement.

GI insurance policyholders will soon receive a letter from one of the VA Insurance Centers asking each policyholder to check his records to be sure designated beneficiaries are up to date, Mims said.

Policyholders also have several different options as to how the insurance can be paid. Information or changes in beneficiaries can be made at VA Offices in the following locations: Austin, Corsicana, Marlin, Temple or Waco.

Mr. and Mrs. Oran Henderson and Ora Beth of Snyder were weekend visitors with her mother, Mrs. Hardy Blue.

MOUNTAINEERS JUST BARELY GET 6-0 WIN OVER RISING STAR FRIDAY

There was just 80 seconds left in the Santa Anna-Rising Star game Friday night when Tink Dockery went through the center of the Rising Star line for one yard and the only score in the game. He had gone wide around right end on the previous play for 8 yards and crossed into pay dirt, but ran out of bounds on the one.

The Wildcats took possession of the ball late in the final quarter when the Mountaineers punted to the Wildcat 14-yard line. On the first play, the Wildcats lost five yards and fumbled the ball on a jarring tackle. Harold Walker was right there and recovered the fumble, giving the Mountaineers the opportunity to score. Walker picked up the first yard, then Quarterback Simmons sent Dockery on the wide right end rump.

After the TD, a pass attempt for the extra points failed to click and the scoring was over for the evening.

The Mountaineers got off to a bad start, receiving a 5-yard penalty on the initial kick-off. However, when the game did get underway the Wildcats advanced the ball to their 43-yard line on two plays, then fumbled with Stewardson recovering for the Mountaineers. The local boys picked up two first downs and penetrated to the 19-yard line. Here they received a 15-yard penalty and attempted to use the air ways to gain the lost ground back. Their second pass attempt was intercepted and returned to the Wildcat 30-yard line. The Wildcats were penalized back to their 11-yard line for clipping. They drove to their 30 again and lost 3 yards and fumbled again with Walker recovering.

A 5-yard penalty set the Mountaineers back on the Wildcat 33-yard line then a loss of 2 put them on the 35. A long pass attempt was again intercepted and returned for short yardage. The Wildcats failed to make the first down and punted to the Mountaineer 38-yard line.

This was when the Mountaineer fans really realized the center Terry McIyer had been injured.

The Wildcats received a 5-yard penalty, then the Mountaineers lost 4 yards and the Wildcats received another 5-yard penalty, but the Mountaineers had to punt. The first quarter ended with the Wildcats in possession on their 36-yard line.

The Wildcats were determined to take advantage of their opportunity and drove to the Mountaineer 16-yard line, then received another 15-yard penalty (from the point of foul, for clipping) which put them back on the Mountaineer 25-yard line. The Mountaineers intercepted a long pass in the end zone and took possession of the ball on the 20. One attempt failed, the Mountaineers fumbled and the Wildcats recovered on the Mountaineer 16-yard line. They just liked about 3 inches making a first down on the 6 and the ball went over. The Mountaineers lost two yards and gained back one, then punted on the third down. The Cats took the ball on the Mountaineer 46, lost back to the 49, then drove to the 26 when the ball again went over on downs. The Mountaineers picked up a first down then lost the ball on a fumble. The Cats recovered on the 41-yard line, were penalized back to the 46, then gained to the Mountaineer 12, lost back to the 17, then gained to the Mountaineer 11-yard line as the first half ended.

The Mountaineers took the third period kick-off on the 8-yard line and returned to the 14-yard line, then lost back to the 7 and punted out. The Wildcats took possession on the Mountaineer 48 and drove to the 4-yard line, where they lost the ball again on a fumble with the recovery being made on the 5. Again failing to gain, the Mountaineers gained to the 42-yard line, the Wildcats took their third 15-yard penalty for the evening, putting the Mountaineers on their own 45-yard line. They gained to the Cats 39 as the quarter ended.

Failing to gain, they punted to the 7-yard line. The Cats drove to the 38 and punted to the Mountaineer 35-yard line. The Mountaineers gained to the Cat 41, then lost back to their 45 and punted to the Cat 14-yard line. This was the point where the tone of the game changed when Walker recovered the Cat fumble on their 9-yard line.

The Mountaineers were pretty well out-played throughout the game, what with both regular guards and the center being out of the game. Statistics favor the Wildcats in all departments except in the loss of ball on fumbles and penalty departments.

Round Up Of Other Games

Big powerful Albany took a weekend rest the past week and will be eager to get their game underway with the Class AA Winters Blizzards Friday night. In their two games thus far this season, the Lions have given up only 18 points while scoring an even 100 points. They will be expected to score several more points this week.

Clyde advanced to the top spot in the season standings last week by downing the Wylie boys 18-0 and keeping their slate clean. The Bulldogs have an open date this weekend, but have won over Roby, Roscoe and Wylie, to give them a 3-0 record. They have a total of 46 points to their credit, with only 6 being posted against them.

The Early Longhorns did the unexpected Friday night and trounced the Bangs Dragons to the tune of 40 to 24. This was the first taste of victory this season for the Longhorns and they really did a good job of it. They have lost to Dublin and Jim Ned. This week the Longhorns travel to Hico for their fourth game of the season.

Cross Plains and Eastland both lost their third game of the season Friday night. Cross Plains went down 6-34 before the onslaught of the Dublin Lions, and Eastland fell 0-14 to the weak Ranger Bulldogs. The Cross Plains Buffaloes have managed to score 14 points in three games while giving up 82 points. The Eastland Mavericks have given up 76 points in three games and have not managed to cross into pay dirt. The Mavericks will entertain Dublin at home this week and Cross Plains will entertain Rising Star Saturday night at home.

In other games the Mountaineers will play this season, Bronte took their first loss of the season by going down to Ozona 22-6 in a game that was predicted to go either direction, with no one being surprised. Bronte now has a 1-1 record and will be working to improve their record against the Mountaineers on their home field Friday night.

Hamilton increased their record to 3-0 Friday night by winning over Gatesville 14-6. The Bangs Dragons suffered an upset Friday night by losing to the Early Longhorns, 24-40. The Dragons now have a 1-1 record. They won over the Rising Star Wildcats by the same score the Mountaineers did, 6-0.

Goldthwaite held the Llano Yellowjackets to a 0-0 tie.

USING INSECT SPRAYS

Exercise care in using insect repellants around plastic lures and monofilament line. Some sprays will cause the lure finishes to "run" and will make monofilament line sticky and unusable.

A West Texas House Wife Circles The Globe

LAND OF THE RISING SUN
A mad scramble to reach the Purser's desk, startled me one morning as I left the dining room. I was reminded of a West Texas cattle stampede or the disregard of others in the rude tactics employed by Londoners in their riotous race for a seat on one of their government controlled trains. "What is happening?" I asked. "They have Japanese postage stamps for sale now." "My goodness, what's the rush?" We have two days in which to buy them." Human nature is funny.

I heard one woman remark facetiously: "I wish I had continued on my diet of powdered tiger's milk; for I would have no trouble pushing through this mob." At the desk we were given printed instructions on how and where to stand in line for the Japanese officials of this East Asian country to hand us our tax exemption documents and to exchange our money. Mine was only yens for souvenirs.

As we approached our harbor at Yokohama, one morning before dawn, the passengers gathered at the rail on upper deck, and stood in awed silence, straining their eyes for the first glimpse of that magical Oriental country—the "Land of The Rising Sun"—one of the most fascinating Countries in all the world; whose emperor, now only a symbol, claims his family dates back to 660 B. C. — the oldest royal family on earth. Some of his children have recently married Commoners. One of his daughters, Atsuko, married a farmer, and she helps to feed the stock: 1000 chickens; 300 canaries; 50 dogs; 10 pair of pigeons; 9 Holstein cows; 40 pigs; 10 turkeys; and 9 goats. She appears to be perfectly happy as she goes about dressed in her Western blue-jeans and sloppy shirt.

My first glimpse of Japan was what appeared to be a long caravan of islands, similar in size and shape. They appeared to be floating there, one behind the other, in surface serenity on the mirrored blue of the Pacific Ocean. Suddenly, there was Fujiyama, tall and mystic, its primeval beauty suspended against an amber sky. The mountains in the distance looked like indigo, but as we approached nearer, in our sight-seeing bus, we discerned the gorgeous sheen of the lacquer trees, their yellow and scarlet leaves gleaming in the sun.

Suddenly, there was Tokyo, with its 9,000,000 inhabitants, spread out before us. Around it, were rugged mountains, swift streams, sandy beaches, and a mosaic of rice paddies. We passed large temples and tiny wayside shrines. I found it baffling that these people could have two different religions and adhere to both, but I had it explained to me this way: Shintoism is a native cult that worships nature and ancestors, while Buddhism is really nothing more than a philosophy.

We saw Shinto shrines at the gateways of most of the small straw matting and bamboo houses. These Shinto shrines are called: "Torii".

As we drove into the city and drew near the business section of Tokyo, I was astounded at the sight before us: enormous modern store and office buildings, hotels, and apartment houses. Could this be the fabled city that we associate with jinrikishaws, huge chrysanthemums and gay kimonos? It was like entering New York City—especially the traffic jam, which forced our bus driver to resort to jigu zagu, in order to get around those shining black cars, with their upholstery covered with snowy white percale, edged with dainty white ruffles. I saw very few women in kimonos. Most of these carried babies on their backs Indian style. What I did see were throngs of young men and women, dressed in Western clothes, hurrying to their places of work, with the same breathless rush, as Americans.

Tokyo is a hustling, bustling city (Oriental only in its older buildings). Their gigantic department stores are filled with high class merchandise.

Our American Embassy building is a colossal white concrete structure, and one for Americans to be proud of.

Mixed in the cataclysmic traffic on the streets of Tokyo, are throngs of little boys on bicycles, carrying bowls of hot noodle soup or other steaming foods on the top of their heads.

The fabulous T. V. Tower, taller than the Eiffel in Paris, is a dominating sight from all sections of the city.

We visited the luxurious Imperial Palace, where MacArthur stayed, and where Ike was to have lodged, if he had reached there. We also looked over the huge stadium where the Olympics are to be held four years from now.

We had lunch in the Imperial Hotel and there, I had my greatest surprise. Ever since the moment that I knew we were to be in Japan, I had eagerly looked forward to my lunch of sukiyaki or tempura and now I was to have that exotic experience. We were conducted into a spacious dining room, where the first thing we saw was a long table, covered with a cloth of satiny white damask and laid with handsome china and gleaming silver. The white uniformed waitresses brought us our meal in courses, and it wasn't anything resembling tempura or sukiyaki, but savory oyster soup, beef steak, peas in the shell, purple cabbage, and creamed mushrooms—for dessert, ice-cream—and our beverage was ice tea as American as could be, Blooey!

What a let-down that was!

We Americans are either careless or clumsy, for where ever we go in a group, someone happens to an accident. The Imperial Hotel has Persian floor coverings in the immense lobby and on the long stairways. Over these they had white cloth runners, which were not white very long after we Americans entered, for we did not remove our shoes at the door, as the Japanese do. A group of our party were descending the stairs, when one of the ladies caught her spike slipper heel in the side of the runner and fell headlong down the stairs. Everyone was deeply concerned, and the obsequiously polite little hotel porters bent double in their apologies. A doctor was summoned, who pronounced a badly twisted ankle, which had to be put in plaster

Paris. What an inconvenience to a tourist!

As I viewed all this astounding transformation and rapid growth in this great but cult worshipping country, I felt a deep anxiety for the future. The only safety for us and for the world is the Christian religion, and I wondered if we were taking advantage of all the opportunities open for us there now. I bowed my head in reverent sorrow as we entered the harbor of the next country we visited.
