

PLANNED DESTRUCTION

By Willis E. Stone.

(EDITORS NOTE: Willis E. Stone is author of the "Proposed Liberty Amendment" and chairman, National Committee for Economic Freedom, Los Angeles, California.)

At a Liberty Lobby banquet in Chicago recently, Congressman E. Y. Berry of South Dakota was awarded a plaque for outstanding service to American principles. Prior to the presentation he made a speech of profound importance to all Americans and presented evidence that we are the victims of carefully planned destruction.

He made specific charges, backed up with proof. He asserted "the socialists, or welfare starters as they prefer to be called, have but one basic purpose in mind, and that is the centralization of all government in Washington. This," said Mr. Berry, "is the most insidious, the most dangerous thing that is happening to the American people today."

"We are not fighting Communism—we are promoting it. We are promoting it by political spending and by forcing our people into economic dependence upon Washington through unfair competition. We are driving our farmers, our factories, our mines out of business, and our labor out of jobs, while Washington sallows the idled with doles and subsidies and grants. This," said the Congressman, "is what I refer to as planned destruction."

Then he presented his evidence. He showed that the average American is now turning in nearly twice as much in federal taxes as he spends on food, working 1 hour 39 minutes each day to pay his food bill, and 2 hours 29 minutes to pay his tax bill.

He asserted that we have no farm problem or farm surplus, as such. We have no depressed area problem, no mining problem, no excessive unemployment problem except as these problems are created by the "planners of destruction" through unjust, unfair, unequal and repressive measures.

Congressman Berry contended that "if the American farmer were permitted to raise and market just a major part of the food and fiber for the table and the back of the American people, we would not today have acres enough to produce it."

Then he cited this amazing fact—"During the past 10 years farm support programs have cost the American taxpayer about $26 billion. During the same period we imported agricultural products valued at nearly $42 billion."

He cited the fact that our government took off the market and put into storage 1.1 million bushels of wheat, 1.4 million bushels of corn, 2.6 million pounds of tobacco, 336 million pounds of butter, cheese and dried milk, and other items, inventoried at $5.8 billion.

According to Congressman Berry we imported in 1960 the equivalent of 1,504,000 head of beef, 1,341,000 head of hogs and 1,105,000 head of sheep and lambs. It is estimated that it takes an average 20 acres to put a beef on the market, thus the beef import in 1960 supplanted the production of 30 million acres of American land.

Sugar imports in 1960 supplanted the production of 1,380,000 acres. Most of this formerly came from Cuba. When the quota was taken from Cuba it was not given to American farmers, but to other countries. We are now paying a premium of 3½ cents per pound over the world market to keep the American farmer from producing sugar for our own consumption.

Imports of wool represent the production from 50 to 75 million acres. When they have the political permission to do so, American farmers produce the world's finest wool.

These are only a few items presented by Congressman E. Y. Berry of South Dakota to illustrate the planned destruction being imposed upon us. We might well ask "how can it happen here? Are we not protected from such attacks by our constitution?"

We WERE protected by our Constitution just as long as we, the people, kept the constitution in force and effect. This we have not done recently. The statistics presented by Congressman Berry, and the constant flow of similar data, make it perfectly clear that we urgently need action on the LIBERTY AMENDMENT pending in Congress as H. J. Res. 23. It provides that:

"Sec. 1. The Government of the United States shall not en-

Fire At Glen Copeland Home Tuesday A. M.

The Volunteer Fire Department was summoned to the Glen Copeland home about 7:45 a. m. Tuesday. When they arrived Mr. Copeland already had the fire under control, but a careful check was made to see that all the fire was out.

Mr. Copeland said there was very little damage as the result of the fire. A few minor items were damaged in the utility room and there was smoke damage. He expressed his appreciation to the Fire Department for their promptness in answering the call.

Copeland said the fire apparently started from the hot water heater. One of the younger children was taking a bath and another of the children discovered the fire soon after it ignited. He said he attempted to put the fire out by putting water on it by the bucket-full, but could not gain any headway. He had Mrs. Copeland call the Fire Department and in the meantime hooked up a water hose and began spraying it on the fire. He had it out when the fire boys arrived, but considerable smoke had drifted into the ceiling and boiled out for sometime. It was feared more fire might be in the ceiling, but a good search revealed none.

Mrs. Jeanette Jackson of Fort Worth spent the weekend here with home folks.

State Capitol NEWS

Austin — Three members of the House of Representatives and two state senators were named by Sen. Bruce A. Reagan of Corpus Christi as a Subject Matter Committee to determine which of 25 suggested interim studies shall be made by the Texas Legislative Council.

Reagan is President pro-tem of the Senate and presided at the first meeting of the new Legislative Council. He and Rep. James A. Turman, speaker of the House of Representatives are ex-officio members of the Subject Matter Committee. Turman is chairman; Reagan is vice chairman.

Designated membership on the committee were Senators Preston Smith of Lubbock and George Moffett of Chillicothe. House members appointed were Representatives C. W. Pearcy of Temple; Sam Collins of Newton; and Alonzo Jamison of Denton.

During the three 1961 sessions of the Legislature, 25 resolutions were passed calling for special studies by the council. Of these 25, twelve were concurrent resolutions approved by both House and Senate. The remaining 13 originated in the House.

Among the 25 topics under consideration for special study were:

Coordination of Health and Welfare Services of the State; Space Utilization by Institutions of Higher Education; Election Code Revision; Non-constitutional Duties of the Attorney General; Opinion Authority of the Attorney General; Laws relating to Wild Life Resources of the State; Teacher Certification; Laws based on population Classification; State Hospitals and Special Schools; Health, Accident and Hospitalization Insurance Claims; The Judicial System of Texas; Laws Governing Acquisition and Sale of State Owned Lands; The State's Public Higher Education System; Regulation of the Insurance Industry; Ad Valorem Tax Laws; Telephone Utility Regulations; Texas Discrimination in Employment because of age; Branding of Cattle and Registration of Brands; Reciprocity Practices of Texas Examining and Licensing boards; Purchasing Practices and Procedures by the State and its Political Subdivisions; Recordation of Mineral Interests; Mentally Ill Children; Rate Making Powers of the Railroad Commission; Mass Transportation in Major Metropolitan Areas of Texas.

FM ROAD BUILDING PLAN. State Highway Chairman Herbert

Petry Jr., of Carrizo Springs completed one major assignment for Gov. Price Daniel, but has a tougher one ahead.

Petry and Daniel worked out agreement with the Texas County Judges and Commissioners Association under which the farm-to-market road building program will be modified, along lines long advocated by the Texas Good Roads Association and the Highway Commission.

But now the plan, has to be sold to the powerful Texas Farm Bureau at its convention in Galveston November 13-15.

Governor Daniel vetoed the $15,000,000 appropriation for farm-to-market road construction from general revenue for the year starting September 1, saying it was time to settle the question of rural road maintenance. He got together a committee of road-minded people.

County Judges and Commissioners agreed to this plan — pay for about $17,000,000 of present $18,000,000 cost of maintaining rural roads out of the $50,000,000 now going to FM road construction. They also agreed to build a total of 50,000 miles of FM roads, instead of the 35,000 miles now set as unofficial goal. Present mileage — 34,000.

COURT OPENS

Appellate courts opened their fall terms, handing down dozens of decisions.

Key case of great importance was decision in suit of Key Western Insurance Co. of Abilene against Board of Insurance, from both insurance and legal points of view.

Here the Supreme Court upheld a new requirement that appeals from decision of the Board of Insurance on approvals of fire insurance policies must be filed "de novo" or "anew" rather than accepting the old rule that an administrative decision is to be upheld if its decision was not arbitrary or capricious.

Of major importance also was award of $122,250 to the City of Graham for damage done its sewage treatment plant by backing up water of the Brazos River Authority's Possum Kingdom Dam. Case goes back for retrial of whether Graham can collect for damage to its water plant.

PADRE STUDY

Gov. Price Daniel got together his special committee to study the idea advanced by Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler to make Padre Island a state park instead of a national seashore area.

Sadler, a member of the committee, did not get word about the meeting and was not present.

State Parks Board Chairman J. Carter King of Albany, said the whole appropriation of the board for the next two years would not scratch the surface of making Padre Island into a state seashore area. King is worried about the 74 presently designed state parks.

Daniel asked the study committee to have a recommendation ready in time for the winter special session of the Legislature to take policy action on the state vs. federal issue.

Daniel feels Padre should be dedicated as a public area, by one means or another.

ORPHANS' RANCH

Orphans at the Corsicana State Home got a 4,180-acre ranch on the Lampasas River under a Supreme Court decision on the will of the late Mrs. Parrie Haynes of Bell County.

Other heirs contested, but the court turned the ranch to the Texas Youth Council, which runs the orphan's home. Atty. Gen. Will Wilson, who handled the defense of the will, said there is talk of making the ranch an outdoor branch of the Corsicana school.

WHERE TO GO

Big events of Texas communities during the winter and spring months are advertised in the State Highway Department's "Texas Calendar of Events," just out.

Folder listing fairs, rodeos, dozens of other events is available free from the Travel Division of the Highway Department as a part of its travel promotion work.

INSURANCE CLAIMS RISE

Insurance spokesmen estimate that $5,000,000 already has been paid out on windstorm insurance policies. Rate of payment of claims will reach 20,000 a week soon. William J. Harding, coordinator of the Texas Joint Loss Catastrophe Plan, said.

Harding, speaking for fire and casualty insurance companies, said much misinformation has been given out on insurance coverage. He declared that policies are being interpreted after Carla just as they always have — that damage from wave wash or flooding has never been covered by Texas standard insurance policies.

CLUB TAXES

First month of collections of the new tax on private clubs by the Texas Liquor Control Board saw the tax take total $414,612.

Tax is about $2 per member, so indicated membership of the 472 licensed clubs is 207,306. Veterans and fraternal clubs are exempt from the tax.

First headache for Liquor Administrator Coke Stevenson Jr., from the club license law was on the question of bingo. This game has supported many such clubs.

Stevenson decided to let "local option" rule. If local law enforcement officials allow school, civic, church and other organizations to run bingo games, private clubs can too.

BUSINESS BETTER

Texas business perked up in August. University of Texas Bureau of Business Research said new sales tax, taking effect September 1, accounted in part for August activity hitting all-time high.

September figures are expected to be badly out of the kilter because of the slowdown in industrial and nearly all activity on the Gulf Coast during and after the hurricane.

CONSTITUTION

Talk continues about revising the 1876 Texas Constitution.

Texas League of Women Voters, unable to get legislative support for its pet project of constitutional revision, got an ally in U. S. Rep. Jim Wright, speaking to University of Texas Young Democrats.

Wright said that for too long "we have patched new pieces of cloth onto an old garment." He also advocated streamlining of the state administrative agencies along lines the Hoover Commission recommended for federal government.

Legislators objecting to the revision, among other reasons, say that complete revamping would result in far more errors than in the present piece-meal procedure.

Penguins use their wings for swimming.

Today's MEDITATION from The World's Most Widely Used Devotional Guide

The Upper Room - THE UPPER ROOM, NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE

Read Psalm 65. Godliness with contentment is great gain. For we brought nothing into this world, and it is certain we can carry nothing out. (1 Timothy 6:6-7) Traveling in Great Britain some years ago, I stayed one day at a place called "Rest" — and "Be Thankful." It was a beautiful spot, and, true enough, a period of rest there could fill one's heart with appreciation of God's manifold and gracious gifts. He revealed His goodness through nature.

Often we are so anxious to grasp more of the good things and the pleasure of this world that we forget what earthly blessings we really have. A moment of quiet rest and meditation will help us to realize that our bountiful God has given us many advantages and benefits. Moments of silent reflection will give us a deep feeling of gratitude for God's manifold mercies.

Before you buy any home fire alarm, ask your Fire Department for advice

Don't give fire a place to start!

We have not deserved all these blessings. They are all gifts of His grace.

Moreover, amament of quietness will release us from the compulsion of always trying to get more and more. To rest and be thankful will give us great gain — godliness with contentment.

PRAYER: Gracious Father, grant us grateful hearts. Open our eyes for the great gain to be ours in godliness with contentment. Give us the divine compulsion to seek the spiritual blessings, which we need more than anything else. In Christ's name we pray. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY: I will use my times of rest to thank God for His goodness. Karl Erik Hellberg (Sweden)

Living in Shadowland?

Some people never see clearly, brightly. It's as though they lived in a continual shadow.

The four great "shadows" that impair human seeing are nearsightedness, farsightedness, astigmatism, and double vision.

So unnecessary, too—because these defects can nearly always be overcome by a good eyesight examination and a pair of prescription glasses. It's easy to come out of the shadow!

About Your Health

Austin — Between now and mid-December is the critical period for taking immunizing shots against influenza — particularly for people in "high risk groups."

Health and medical authorities are in unanimous agreement as to the probability of an upswing in influenza this fall and winter. Especially vulnerable, say the experts, are people with heart disease, pulmonary disease, diabetes and other chronic illnesses; persons over 65 and pregnant women.

Recommended vaccinations procedures, drawn up by the national advisory committee on influenza, have been mailed from the State Department of Health to all local health officials throughout the state.

Most of the 89,000 flu-triggered deaths between September 1957 and March 1959 were among people in these categories, the record shows.

Some Asian flu outbreaks are expected, since they come in two or three year cycles. Also, Texas is due for Type B flu outbreaks, which usually come in four to six year cycles.

Asian influenza has been dominant in Texas since March 1950, and it has been more than six years since Type B has caused much of a flurry.

State Health Department officials say susceptible persons should be vaccinated early for maximum protection. Generally, the most troublesome "flu" for flu in Texas is toward the latter part of December.

To reduce the hazards to persons in high risk categories, it is recommended that they be immunized with a multiple-virus vaccine — a product which will protect against more than one form of the disease — well before the beginning of the flu season.

Protective antibodies usually develop within two weeks after inoculation, so it is important that the vaccine be administered before epidemics occur.

A second dose is recommended approximately two months after the first. Persons previously immunized should be re-inoculated with a single booster dose each year.

In view of the predicted upswing of influenza for 1961, it is recommended that serious consideration be given to the vaccination of people in vital public service posts and for those among whom the disease incidence rate is usually high — namely persons between the ages of 5 and 25.

Gar Fishing Gains Fame As a Pastime

Austin — Gar fishing is fast becoming an "in-between" pastime for bass fishermen. Individuals who once scorned the thought of ever tossing lures for gar, today are turning to this fish for entertainment. "And they are liking what they find in this fish," reports the director of inland fisheries, Texas Game and Fish Commission.

During the summer months, when mid-day becomes a time to find a shade tree and keep cool, many fishermen are staying on the lakes and enjoying some big fish sport with gar. "This is the second species tagged a rough fish that is gaining a reputation as a game fish," said the director, Marion Toole. "Carp have been the targets of sport fishermen for many years. More and more people are discovering the new kind of fishing fun when trying into a big carp."

It appears that gar, especially the longnose and alligator, are close behind the carp. With the introduction once more of the hookless, nylon bait fishermen are really enjoying their encounters with big 10 to 20 pound longnose gars.

"Like carp fishing, gar fishing is good for what ails a lake. "We at the Game and Fish Commission," reports Toole, "are happy to see these changes in attitudes toward some of our so-called rough fish, for two important reasons. First, it gives fishermen additional recreation, and second fishermen can have a part in improving fish population balances."

Tree Seedlings Available for Windbreaks

West Texas landowners, from the Panhandle to the Gulf, should begin making plans for ordering tree seedlings for windbreak planting.

Don Young, head of the Forest Management Department, Texas Forest Service today urged landowners to place their orders early before the February 10 deadline. Shipments will begin in mid-January.

There new species have been added to the list this year — Russian olive, ononimus and buffaloberry. Other species include black locust, black walnut (stratified nuts), catalpa, Chinese elm, cottonwood, mulberry, osage orange, red cedar, rosa multiflora, sycamore, Austrian pine, ponderosa pine, loblolly pine, and slash pine.

All seedling orders are packed in moss and moisture-proof paper and shipped prepaid direct to the purchaser. The delivered cost of all species is $1.50 per hundred. Orders must be in multiples of 50 and orders for less than 100 seedlings will not be accepted.

Landowners who apply for Texas Forest Service seedlings agree to plant the trees in Texas; protect them from fire, cattle and destructive insects; and to refrain from using or reselling the trees for ornamental purposes.

Application forms can be obtained from county agents and Soil Conservation District Offices in the West Texas area or by writing the Director, Texas Forest Service, College Station, Texas.

First Aircraft Landed In Santa Anna By Lt. V. A. Kelley In September, 1918

Along with the observance of the 75th anniversary of The Santa Anna News we have published stories concerning the first automobile and bicycle to arrive in Santa Anna. Following is a re-print of an article appearing in The News of September 26, 1918, concerning the landing of the first aircraft at Santa Anna. The article was furnished us by Dr. V. A. Kelly of Waco, pilot of the craft.

SANTA ANNA AIRMAN ELECTRIFIES FRIENDS

On his homeward flight from Love Field at Dallas, Saturday,

Lieutenant Virgil Kelly did not reach Santa Anna until a few minutes after 5 O'clock in the afternoon. He got away from Love Field at 1:30 in the afternoon, half an hour later than he had intended leaving, and had to land twice enroute, instead of once, as he expected to. The actual flying time from Dallas was two hours and twenty minutes, which is "going some". From Comanche he took a direct course for Santa Anna, having seen Santa Anna Mountain from his lofty elevation when he was over Dublin.

His arrival was unnoticed, until the hum of the engine was heard overhead and instantly all eyes were gazing into the sky. When directly over town the machine was made to turn a somersault in the air and do a few other stunts that were almost hair-raising, not to say blood-curdling, especially to those witnessing such performances for the first time. Among these were the reporter, who had seen numerous airplanes in flight, but never before any spiral or sideral athletics in the air. After these stunts, Virgil flew to the designated place and made a graceful landing, which was witnessed by a number who had gathered to see the darling Aviator reach the earth after a successful flight from Dallas. The soil was rather soft in the field and this made the placing of the machine at a suitable point rather difficult, but this was accomplished without mishap and the people applauded. Many rushed forward and warmly grasped the hand of Lieutenant Kelly, expressing delight to see him and to know that he had arrived safely on the first trip ever made to the town in an airplane by a Santa Anna flyer. In truth, he was the first Aviator to land in Santa Anna, though in recent months several have flown over bound to Coleman and other points West.

At night there was a patriotic entertainment in Woodmen Hall, arranged by friends and associates in honor of Lieutenant Kelly, to which other representatives of the Army and Navy who chanced to be in town, were invited and treated as guests of honor. The Program consisted of speeches and songs, opening with "America" and closing with "Star Spangled Banner" without which no war-time gathering is apropos. The invocation was by Rev. J. G. Braly and talks were made by Dr. T. M. Hays, Rev. J. S. Bowles and Rev. Ira Parrack, all voicing the pleasure and pride of the citizens of Santa Anna in the accomplishments of Lieutenant Kelly in Aircraft. All speakers spoke cordial words of welcome to the air Lieutenant and assured him that Santa Anna rejoiced to do him honor and felt honored by his presence and the distinction he has achieved in the air service of his country.

To the felicitations of the speakers, Lieutenant Kelly made an interesting talk, relating experiences in the air, both of himself and other fliers. He told of getting lost in a cloud where Egyptian darkness prevailed and he could only tell if the machine was top-side-up by whether or not his weight was against the fastening straps.

The reporter regrets not being present, as he is deprived of the pleasure of giving a fuller report of the reception.

Sunday morning, agreeable to promise, Lieutenant Kelly made another successful flight over town. An immense throng gathered out at the field chosen for landing, and witnessed with amazement and a degree of uneasiness numerous "air flips" and other dangerous feats in the air. The reporter will not attempt to describe these, but they were such as only a skilled flyer can do.

The crowd expressed their appreciation in yells and hand-clappings when, after being in the air for more than half an hour, Lieutenant Kelly made a second beautiful landing. On this morning flight, the aviator flew over Coleman and did some stunts for their appreciation and in compensation of the failure to bring Lieutenant Haun, who was indisposed and did not care to make the trip Saturday.

Sunday afternoon a goodly number gathered at the field and witnessed another ascent, which was made a few minutes after two O'clock. After circling about, the Lieutenant waved goodby to friends and relatives and was soon lost to view in the East, on his return flight to Dallas. The noise of the motor could be heard by the reporter, after the machine had passed from his vision.

After Sunday, September 22nd., all aviation incidents will date from the home-coming of Lieutenant Kelly in his pretty Curtiss Bi-Plane Number 16, from Love Field, Texas.

Sheep Industry Important to Texas

Sheep and lamb slaughter is becoming a more important item in Texas each year. In 1950, only 4 percent of the U. S. commercial slaughter could be accounted for by Texas, but by 1960 this figure had increased to 8 percent of the total, says Ed Uvacek, extension livestock marketing specialist.

Loaded Guns In Automobiles Cause Accidents

Austin — Hunters today were warned against carrying loaded guns in their automobiles. J. B. Phillips, law enforcement coordinator of the Game and Fish Commission, points out it's very dangerous.
"Many accidents happen to persons who carry loaded guns in their cars," the director said. "During the hunting season we hear of many reports where persons have carelessly handled these guns, resulting in accidental discharge."
"Guns should not be loaded until the hunter is in the field, and then they should be checked to be sure the safety is on. There are other precautions, too, such as not climbing fences with loaded guns."

Mrs. Galloway Hostess To Circle

The Nitia Daniell Circle of the First Methodist Church met in the home of Mrs. Mildred Galloway Thursday evening of last week. Mrs. Lucille Dean led the devotional with the topic being "This Is Our Church." The group read "The Church" in unison.

The program, "Our Church in a Changing World", consisted of three parts. "The Inner Church" was discussed by Mrs. Martha Thompson; "The Suburbia Church" was discussed by Mrs. Lolette Curry and "The Rural Church" was discussed by Mrs. Dean.

After the business session Mrs. Galloway served a refreshment plate of open-faced sandwiches, potato chips, olives, cake and coffee to the above and Mrs. Wilma Welch, Mrs. Hettie Scarborough, Miss Pauline Eubank, Mrs. Margaret Crews, Mrs. Anna Mae Powell, Mrs. Basil Gilmore, Mrs. Pauline Barnett and Mrs. Lillian Herndon.

Don Hart Shows Film At Regular P-T-A Meeting

Mr. Don Hart showed a film and talked briefly on the mouth to mouth method of artificial respiration at the October meeting of the Santa Anna Parent Teachers Association. Mrs. Tom Kingsbery, program chairman, introduced Mr. Hart who is with the Coleman County Electric Co-operative.

During the business meeting, conducted by President, Mrs. Rodney Dean, it was reported that $415.50 was raised at the annual Fun Carnival. After some discussion, the group voted not to have the carnival again next year, but would ask for donations from each family. Mrs. Taylor's first grade won the room award.

The next regular meeting will be held on Wednesday, November 1, in the Elementary school cafeteria.

October Plentiful Foods Make Shopping A Pleasure

College Station — Grocery shopping can be truly pleasurable when there's an abundance of many items. That will be the case in October, when Texas food markets will abound with nearly every item that makes up the average food shopper's needs, according to the Texas Agriculture Extension Service.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture's official plentiful foods list for October features apples, potatoes and broiler-fryers. It also points to huge supplies of six other important foods: cheese, rice, turkeys, beef, cranberries, and vegetable fats and oils.

These foods are cited from among the many items in fall abundance because USDA's Agriculture Marketing Service expects supplies of each to exceed normal demand. That means you, as a consumer, will find available a greater choice of quality, and you can expect prices on these items to be lower, in keeping with the huge supplies.

Fall shipments of apples will reach their peak in October and this year's crop is estimated at 15 percent more than last year. October 12 to 21 is National Apple Week.

Potatoes will continue plentiful all month at low to moderate prices. The fall crop is 10 percent greater than in 1960. Broiler-fryers, of course, have been plentiful and low-priced all summer.

There's plenty of cheese to make October Cheese Festival exactly that. Stocks of American cheese are almost a third great-

Fall Is Rat-Control Season

College Station — Rat killing season is here again. During the summer months the rat population is not too noticeable because they stay in the fields, close to their food supplies. They also stay close to their food supplies in the fall, but these supplies have been moved into barns and cribs, thus concentrating the rat and mouse population around the farmstead.

This concentration presents quite a problem to the farmer, but it also affords him the best opportunity for controlling these pests, say rodent control specialists of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

The first necessity in an effective rat-control program is sanitation. All debris, loose grain and any other sources of shelter or food should be removed from the premises. After this has been done, poison baits should be placed in all areas likely to be frequented by rats or mice. The specialists recommend the use of anti-coagulant type poisons, although others may be used.

Once the rodent population is under control, continued sanitation and the placing of a few

SCORE BY QUARTERS

Santa Anna	Bangs
16 14 6 6	0 0 0 0
36	0

The Mountaineers took an easy win from the Bangs Dragons at their Homecoming Saturday night 36-0 and could have made the score just about as lopsided as anyone could have wanted too. Coach Smith is to be congratulated for his consideration of the Dragons and the manner in which he held the score down. The Mountaineers scored their first TD with 9:23 left in the first period and their second TD with 6:53 left in the same period. With 9:17 left in the second period the Mountaineers scored again to make the score 24-0 and the coach sent in the younger inexperienced men on the squad. They scored again with 5:17 left in the half. Early in the third period the Mountaineers scored again, then the younger boys played the remainder of the game never letting the Dragons get anywhere near scoring position.

The younger boys looked pretty good too. Bill Horne has the possibilities of making a good left-handed quarterback and Gary Sudderth and Frank Valdez showed good possibilities at halfback and full back. Larry Fowler, usually at a guard position, showed possibilities in the backfield. All the boys playing on the line also showed good possibilities.

The Mountaineers gained 212 yards the first half without attempting a pass. During the remainder of the game, they did not make a lot of yardage, but continued the Dragons to the point that they did not get within 45 yards of the goal line.

The Mountaineers took the kickoff with a strong wind facing them. Brown returned the kickoff 19 yards, then Dockery and Brown did most of the carrying with Dockery going the final 21 yards to the first score. Walker went through left tackle for the 2 extra points. The Mountaineers kicked to the Dragons and they failed to gain, then punted to the Mountaineer 36-yard line. Brown took the punt and went the 64 yards to score. Walker again went through left tackle for the two points. The Dragons took the kickoff and made only 4 yards in 3 downs, then on a fake punt formation picked up 36 yards to the Mountaineer 34-yard line. They gained to the Mountaineer 28 and lost the ball on downs. The Mountaineers gained 9 yards then lost 15 yards and Stewardson punted for 30 yards, the only time the Mountaineers punted all evening. The quarter ended with the Dragons on the Mountaineer 34-yard line. The Dragons gained to the Mountaineer 24 on a pass completion, the nearest they got to the Mountaineer goal line all evening. They lost back to the 31 as the ball went over on downs. On the first play from scrimmage Dockery broke into the clear and went 69 yards to score, with Walker again going through left tackle for the 2 extra points.

After the kickoff Coach Smith sent in all the younger boys. The Dragons gained 3 yards and lost 5, then punted to the Mountaineer 46-yard line. Sudderth returned the ball to the Dragon 42-yard line. An exchange of penalties, the Dragons receiving two and the Mountaineers one, put the ball on the Dragon 41-yard line. Valdez picked up 2, then Sudderth went to within a foot of the goal. Bill Horne took the ball over for the TD on a keeper. An attempt to kick the extra point failed. After the kickoff the Dragons lost 5 yards on a complete pass, then gained out to their 38 then lost back to their 30 with the ball going over. Another exchange of 15-yard penalties gave the Mountaineers the ball on the Dragon 29-yard line. The Mountaineers lost back to the 41-yard line then Sudderth went wide and gained to the 15 as the half ended.

Brown returned the kickoff 25 yards. Then a series of pass and power plays put the ball on the Dragon 3-yard line and Sudderth went over for the TD. The attempted kick failed again. The Dragons got a pretty good drive underway following the kickoff, but fumbled the ball to the Mountaineers near midfield. The

The Dragons gained to their 36 then lost back to the 30 on a fumble, recovered by the Mountaineers. The remainder of the quarter was used up with both teams gaining a little and losing the ball on downs.

In addition to the yards gained in the game at a glance column, there is a kickoff return of 20 yards, a punt return of 64 yards, another 12 yards and a kickoff return of 25 yards for the Mountaineers.

Round-Up Of District Games

Albany and Clyde continued to keep their perfect record in tack over the weekend. Cross Plains lucked out a win over hapless Class AA Ranger and Eastland finally managed to push across their first TD of the year while taking a 45-6 lashing from DeLeon. Early, rested over the weekend and the Mountaineers took an easy win from Bangs.

Albany won over Class AA Anson 29-0 to push their scoring record to 155 points thus far while giving up only 24 points to four Class AA teams and one Class A team.

Clyde took a 14-0 win over the powerful Jim Ned Class B Indians and pushed their scoring record to 81 points for the season, while giving up only 6 points to three Class B teams and 120 Class A teams.

This week Clyde will play hosts to Albany and one of them will likely be dropped from the undefeated ranks. Clyde will be high for this game and will contain the Lions pretty well, but we feel the Lions will continue to keep their record intact.

The Mountaineers increased their record to 3-1-1 with their 36-0 win over Bangs. This week the Cross Plains Buffaloes will come to Santa Anna for the annual Homecoming game Friday night. We feel the Mountaineers should win this game, but they must not be over-confident. With their only win of the season under their belts, the Buffaloes are going to be hungry for another victory and they are going to go all out to win this one. It will not be any snap for the Mountaineers.

Eastland travels to Early this week and the Longhorns should take this one without much trouble. The Longhorns have a 3-2 record, winning their last three games.

IT'S THE LAW!

"GET OFF THE LINE"

Suppose that you have a party line telephone. One day your house catches fire — or some other grave emergency arises — and you try to call the fire department or the police. Others are using the party line. They refuse to yield the line to you. Your house burns down or the robber gets away.

What is the law on this?

The 57th Texas Legislature passed a law which provides a fine up to $500 (and/or confinement in county jail for up to one month) for refusing to surrender the use of a party line to permit another person to report a fire or summon police, medical or ambulance service in case of emergency.

An "emergency" means a situation in which property or human life is in jeopardy and the prompt summoning of aid is essential. This would include a fire, a robbery in progress, or a critically injured or ill person.

But don't be a smart aleck and ask for the line if there is no real emergency. The law also provides up to a $500 fine and/or up to one month in jail for requesting the use of a party line on the pretext that emergency exists.

If you face a real emergency, want to call help and find the line busy, interrupt and explain briefly and clearly that an emergency exists. Identify yourself and ask the other parties to surrender the line so that you can call the fire department, police, or sheriff, as the case may be. If they refuse, you should insist on your right to the line, informing them that the law so provides.

Violations of this law should be reported promptly to the county attorney for prosecution. In addition, if a person's property is damaged because someone refuses to yield the line, the property owner very likely may recover the damages in court.

(This newsfeature, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform — not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

Useful Life of Wood Prolonged By Treatment

College Station — Decay and failure of exterior woodwork can be reduced by brush, dip or soak treating with water repellent preservatives. Bill Smith, extension forester, reports that long time tests show surface treatments give worthwhile protection to wooden siding, steps, porches, exterior shutters and other items exposed to rain seepage.

Studies started in 1941 by the Southern Forest Experiment Station have shown that Southern pine exterior woodwork, when treated with pentachlorophenol and a water repellent, lasted at least four times as long as the untreated material. Some of the treated material is still in use after 20 years.

For the tests, the wood was treated by either complete immersion in the liquid for periods of 3 to 60 minutes, or by two brush applications at room temperature. The longer soaking period was the best, but even the brush treatment was effective, says Smith.

Home builders, repairmen and others can treat the wood themselves, on the job. A simple tank or drum can be obtained for soaking or dipping, or the material can be set on saw-horses for brush treatment. Each piece of wood should be cut to size before treating. Any cuts made after the wood has been treated should also be treated. Care should be taken to prevent spilling or dripping the preservative on the skin, clothing or pants.

Smith also pointed out that an oil paint finish after wood treatment added to the service life of exterior woodwork. When wood is to be painted, mineral spirits should be used as the carrier liquid with the pentachlorophenol and water repellent.

Concentrated pentachlorophenol is available from many chemical concerns and building supply houses. This concentrated product may be mixed with fuel oil, kerosene or mineral spirits.

"The treatment is especially effective when coupled with adequate structural design, and this combination enhances the value and beauty of a home or any other building," Smith concludes.

Check Roofing For Rust Signs

College Station — Galvanized roofing on all farm buildings should be checked each year for signs of rust, warns W. S. Allen, Extension Agricultural Engineer.

A delay in painting rusty roofs adds to the cost when the job is finally done. More paint is needed for a given area of rust roof than on a roof with little or no rust.

Extra labor is also required to brush off loose rust particles prior to repainting. Rust roofs will probably need repairs also.

Select a primer paint which will give adherence to the zinc surface. Paints with 80 percent metallic zinc dust and 20 percent zinc oxide in an oil vehicle have a long history of good performance both as a prime coat and as a finish coat, says Allen.

Serviceable primers for galvanized steel are also available. Among these are formulas with other pigments in addition to zinc dust and zinc oxide. It is always important to check the paint manufacturer's recommendations to make certain the primer selected is intended for use over galvanized steel, points out Allen.

If a color different from the prime coat is used, be sure the finish coat is compatible with the primer coat, he warns.

To prepare new galvanized roofing, guttering and downspouts for painting, wash thoroughly with a detergent and then with clear water. Then apply the primer coat. The use of vinegar is no longer recommended for removing the inhibitor usually found on new galvanized roofing.

The use of aluminum, asphalt aluminum, and ordinary red, green or gray house paint for rusty roofs is not recommended. They will not stop the rust and will peel after several years.

Allen says the use of the proper paint for the particular job is your best assurance of an attractive, economical and long-lasting paint job.

ONLY ALTO SITE REMAINS

Texas expelled the Neches Indians from the state in 1839.

The site of one of their old villages is just five miles southwest of Alto, in Cherokee County, in the central portion of East Texas, near Rusk.

This village was active in the lives of the Neches at the beginning of the 18th Century.

The Neches River was named for these Indians, as was a nearby mission established by the Cherokee Indians, the Mission San Francisco de los Neches.

Tractors and machinery, drownings, firearms and burns from fires are the leading causes of death on farmland and around farm buildings.

A 2-WEEK VISIT WITH RELATIVES

There was a battle going on in Laos as we flew over. The lights of the plane were snapped off and we flew in complete darkness, and because of our proximity to Red China and the shooting in Laos, the two and half hour flight was tinged with a certain amount of terror. But all of that was forgotten when we landed at the Rangoon Airport, for at the sight of my loved ones there to meet me, happiness swept every other thought away. Terry was standing at the bottom of the steps as I descended from the plane, and I could see Beth and Christie waving from the gate! Terry's official capacity with the Embassy was a wonderful help, as the customs in Burma are difficult and discouraging to foreigners, and he saved me much unpleasantness.

As we drove the twelve miles to Rangoon from the airport, and although it was night, I began to see the strange dress and exotic customs of this alien world — men dressed exactly like the women — in long skirts of varied colors and white blouses. The strange dwelling places along the edge of the woods, were nothing but a straggle of lean-to squatter's huts run up out of a couple of bamboo mats slung to a post. All around innumerable little fires were soft spoken people, eating, chatting, and smoking (men and women alike) the long-est cheroots I have ever seen. Most of them were squatted on their haunches in the roadside dust. In America it would have seemed unbearable, but here in this warm sweet-scented night, it looked like a happy life.

And suddenly there we were! The chauffeur (an Indian) had stopped the car before a large impressive gateway, on which I saw a brass plaque with these words: UNITED STATES EMBASSY. A white uniformed guard unlocked the large gate and opened it wide for us to pass through. Directly in front of us I saw a large palatial looking house, where we stopped under the porte-cochere and as the door of the house swung open, two white uniformed servants appeared. One opened the door of the car, while the other held the house door open for us to enter.

Whatever the British build, they build big, and this Embassy Building is no exception. These two huge white structures: one for the U. S. Ambassador and the other for the Deputy Counselor, stand only a short distance apart on the shorelines of a fabulously beautiful lake; also constructed by the British. What a delightful experience it was to sit on a second-story veranda and watch the rising sun, which suddenly transformed the sky into that indescribable mixture of colors that no man can reproduce. The bright green shrubbery; gracefully shaped trees and crimson poinsettias all would become breathlessly still, and I would sit there in stunned amazement at what I saw. The glory of it was like the morning of the world — the trees sparkling, and the snow-white geese cutting a shimmering band across the flame-tinged clouds in magic photography from above — too magnificent for my mortal brush to paint — a peace that seemed to penetrate the entire atmosphere and settle deep within my heart, but even as I meditated on the wonder of this panorama of pastoral serenity; another scene in this uninterpretable Burma had seared itself into my brain, and I shuddered with apprehension for this contented land. On the main thoroughfare to the business section of town, a Red Chinese Cantonment, with its defiant blood red flags waved threateningly in the passing breeze, like octopus claws greedily reaching for their victims. To me, they fairly shouted: "Your fate is already sealed!"

Red China has an ambassador in Rangoon and his young son was a classmate of our eight year old grandson, Christie Sanders. Even the young children fear the implications involved in giving license to communism, therefore, Sian Lu, or whatever his name was, did not have the reputation of being the most popular boy in this British School. (Please excuse the digression, but the tragedy of it still haunts me.)

Take it all in all, Burma is a beautiful country, the great plane of lower Burma and its rich delta lands, form an important granary of the world, but what intrigued me most was the old capitol of Mandalay at the head of the Irrawaddy River, which was made famous by Kipling's poem, "On The Road To Mandalay." No flying fishes play there now, neither is there a golden palace nor a king. The Japanese bombed the magnificent building to smithereens, but even the ruins are breath-taking. I saw some of the remains of their grandeur in the Jubilee Hall in Rangoon. The Lion Throne, upon which once sat the weak King and his cruel Queen, Supayalat, who at the suggestion of the soothsayers, ordered fifty of his choice subjects buried alive under the four gates of the palace walls, in order to keep away evil spirits. Behind the glitter of jewels and the clash of cymbals, they ordered the massacre of all those related in any way to the royal family. This took place behind the red moated walls of the palace, while a carnival was organized with loud music, singing and dancing, to drown out the cries of those who were being bludgeoned to death by hired murderers.

The British who were already in Southern Burma were infuriated with all this bloodshed and numerous other provocations by this brutal king, who ordered himself addressed as: "Kin of the Rising Sun" and "Ruler of the Universe", and before whom all who entered his presence (ambassadors or Envoys from whatever country) had to remove their shoes and prostrate themselves before him during the entire interview. So they sent a British Army to Mandalay, who easily defeated the king's nondescript military forces, and took Thibaw and Supayalat prisoners.

But what I saw in Burma was quite different: throngs of men and women and children, small, slender and graceful, with gay colored longis (long skirts) draped over their hips and their white aineys (blouses) freshly ironed. The only way I could distinguish between sexes was by observing their shiny black hair — the women wore theirs short and the men dressed theirs in a huge chignon, that caused their small heads on their slender necks to appear tilted backward. They appear quiet and flower-like in their strange, yet beautiful sight — it was like a flower garden in motion. Some of them had a white paste on their faces which they call thanakia, and which they say gives them freshness and vigor. Scattered among them, I saw Pakistanis and Indians in their dirty white araperies and bright saris. Walking in pairs, were hundreds of orange-robed priests, with their black teakwood beggar bowls, held out in front of them and their shayed heads shining in the bright sun.

The officers stationed along the streets salaam meticulously, as you pass by.

Gold and bejeweled, the Shwe-dagon, largest Buddhist temple in the world, stands there glistening above all exotic buildings and lesser paradises. Its gold spire, slender and graceful against the blue Burmese sky, is adorned with a variety of precious gems, and the myriad of lights, with which it is illuminated, can be seen, gleaming and sparkling for miles away. In fact, Burma is the center of the Buddhist World, and they gathered here from all parts of the earth to celebrate the two thousandth year of Buddha's death.

Around the Shweidagon are hundreds of smaller pagodas, each with its Buddha idols, covered in leaf gold and precious stones. In front of these the Buddhists prostrate themselves at frequent intervals throughout the day, praying to these stone deaf images. Offerings of food and flowers and numerous gifts clutter up the space around them. I was told that it took only two things to make a Buddhist happy: an offering of food for the priest each day and a spirit house in front of his home, for his ancestral ghosts to live in.

There was an ache in my heart as I looked on these thousands and thousands of people who know nothing of our Christ. Very few of them can read or write, and yet they are perfectly contented — surely ignorance is bliss.

My two weeks in this strange land was paradoxical. On every side were the thousands of natives who never labor, but assist on the fruit, vegetables and bugs which grow in abundance all around them. And on the other hand, I attended a continual round of receptions, dinners, luncheons and garden parties, where I met the cultured and distinguished representatives, from countries all over the world in surroundings of luxurious grandeur, and everyone dressed in their most elaborate apparel and employing their most polished manners. For me, personally, it was a royal holiday that I enjoyed in the role of a queen mother and grandmother, and as the two weeks drew to a close, it wrenched my heart to leave the tender ties of loved ones, to travel another half world among total strangers.

National Fire Prevention Week, October 8-14

College Station — Farm fires caused losses estimated at $165 million in the nation last year. W. S. Allen, extension agricultural engineer, said the figure was supplied by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Building losses accounted for about 65 percent of the total loss payments by companies for which a breakdown by property class was available, he added. Almost three-fourths of the building losses were on main buildings — homes and barns.

Allen continued that now is the time for neighbors to attack this problem of fires, and suggested that special emphasis be placed on fire prevention during National Fire Prevention Week, October 8-14. This period is just ahead of the month when farm fires take their greatest toll. November was the peak month last year. Four-fifths of all 1960 farm fires and 84 percent of the lives lost occurred during the six months from October through March, Allen said.

President John F. Kennedy in his proclamation designating the special week said, "Our communities and the Nation can ill afford this inexcusable waste of our resources."

Family training in fire hazard removal and fire fighting and drills for establishing escape routes in case of fire were suggested by the engineer as things families and neighbors could work on together. Farm families, in particular, he added, must rely on their own safety training, fire prevention check-ups, and fire protection measures to safeguard their lives, income and property.

Local county extension agents can supply information and suggestions for carrying out educational programs not only on fire prevention but also on farm and home safety activities, Allen said. A visit with the agents and community leaders was suggested by Allen as a starting point in planning for National Fire Prevention Week activities.

Accidents kill one farm resident every 45 minutes. Every 32 seconds a farm resident suffers an injury which disables him beyond that day.
