The BRACERO program under which Mexican agricultural workers are contracted to work on farms and ranches, in those areas where there is a shortage of domestic workers, seems to be doomed. The present Labor Department, which administers the program, has shown special hostility to this method of obtaining needed farm workers.

In recent weeks I have received scores of letters from constituents who complain that they simply cannot hire a local worker to do ranch or farm work and are unable to obtain Mexican workers due to the Labor Department's policies.

That Department has now decreed that no agricultural worker can be contracted for longer than 180 days out of the year. And Secretary Goldberg has ruled that since no part of ranch work is "seasonal", and since ranch workers require special skills, they do not meet the Department's standards and are ineligible as a rule.

In a recent letter to me Goldberg suggested that the federal government might open some schools in the southwest to train local unemployed how to do ranch work, and thereby in one fell swoop solve the labor shortages that have plagued the ranchers for years!

In reply I suggested he pick up the telephone and check with the employment offices and the county agents and find out how many unemployed there are in my district who are able and willing to go out and do ranch work.

I told him the schooling idea would be a foolish waste of money, that the only way to learn ranch work is to work on a ranch.

A number of us who represent labor-shortage areas, have conferred with Labor Department officials, and have tried to convince them with facts and figures that there is a shortage, that hiring braceros, in those shortage areas could not adversely affect domestic workers.

Under federal law no braceros are allowed to be contracted in any county unless the Secretary of Labor certifies that there is a labor shortage in that county.

Probably our mounting trouble stems from the fact that the program is virtually administered by the AFL-CIO, which has always opposed any bracero program. Mr. Jerry Holleman, former president of AFL-CIO in Texas is now Assistant Secretary of Labor in charge of the program, and Foldberg until 1961 was General Counsel of AFL-CIO.

Valentine Day Formerly Was For Husband-Hunting

Valentine's Day has become a pleasant occasion for cashing in on cards or candy. But for the maids of an earlier day, it was a time for serious husband-hunting.

According to World Book Encyclopedia, a girl might start out at midnight by circling the church 12 times and repeating the rhyme, "I sow hempseed, hempseed I sow, he that loves me best, come after me now." If no one did, she could still hope to see her true valentine in her dreams. Of course, she first took the precaution of pinning five bay leaves to her pillow, one to each corner and one in the center.

Was marriage possible in the coming year? A peek through a keyhole could tell her that. The girl rose early on February 14 and set her eye to her keyhole. If she saw two objects, well and good. But if only one—better luck next year.

Still, perhaps she could identify her husband-to-be. She wrote the names of her boy friends on bits of paper and rolled each one in a piece of clay. Then she dropped the clay into water. The first scrap of paper that floated to the top was believed to hold the name of her valentine.

If she already had a favorite, she might test him by striking her forehead with a folded rose petal. If the petal cracked, obviously he loved her.

FFA Week To Be Observed February 17-24

National Future Farmers of America Week will be observed throughout the United States February 17-24. Governor Price Daniel issued the proclamation for the Texas observance recently.

Purpose of the observance is to focus attention on the work of the Future Farmers of today, who will be the successful farmers of tomorrow.

This nation must have a constant supply of new farmers every year to replace those who die, retire, or otherwise leave the farm. These must be men with experience and training, for the successful farmer today is both a scientist and a businessman; mechanic and a laborer, at the same time capable of leadership in the affairs of the community. Generally, they must be men which have begun farming at an early age, so that by the time they are ready to marry and start a family, they will be firmly established in a farming program that promises a good future.

Students of vocational agriculture study the sciences of animal and plant production, agricultural marketing, farm business management, farm mechanics and other subjects needed to train them for the work of the farm.

By participating in their Future Farmers of America organization, they also learn the ways of effective leadership, and are encouraged to assume their responsibilities as good citizens in the further development of the community in which they live. Many FFA activities are resigned to stimulate the interest of the boys in their study and work.

The program of vocational agriculture and FFA is designed to increase the student's proficiency in farming, and thereby his future success. While not all students actually become full-time farmers, most of them do find careers in some phase of agriculture. Many continue their studies through agricultural college. Their experiences in vocational agriculture and the FFA serve well to help them to success.

WHY FFA WEEK IS OBSERVED DURING FEBRUARY

National FFA Week comes every year during the week of the anniversary of the birthday of George Washington. Although usually considered first as a great general, our first president, and an engineer, George Washington's first love was the farm he called Mount Vernon. There he was one of the first in the nation to practice contour planting, crop rotation, and other soil conserving methods. Probably no other man in America of his day spent more time seeking new agricultural information, either by experimentation on his own farm, or by correspondence with agricultural scientists in England. The title of America's first "scientific farmer" might be applied to Washington. It was more than a century after his death that many of the sound agricultural practices he advocated found general practice.

It is out of deep respect and admiration for George Washington, the farmer in whose progressive ways they seek to follow, that Future Farmers annually observe their National FFA Week at the time of his birthday.

Mother's March Increases To $453

Additional contributions to the annual Mother's March for the New March of Dimes brought the total to $453.40 this week.

For all practical purposes, the annual March of Dimes drive is now completed. However, there are a number of persons who have not contributed and if you desire to do so, it will be appreciated.

Anyone desiring to make contributions are invited to leave them at the Santa Anna Insurance Agency office, The News office or the Santa Anna National Bank.

Mrs. Joyce Trower and daughter of Illinois visited Monday with Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Weathers.

New 50-Star Flags Available For Business or Home

The Santa Anna Lions Club recently purchased a number of new 50-star flags, with the hope of getting all the business houses in town to fly the flags on occasions designated. The club also hopes to get a large number of flags in the local homes in the residential areas also.

The flags are in two sizes and are made of a good heavy grade of domestic. Included in the purchase price is the staff, rod and bracket. The larger flags for business houses sell for $5.50 and the smaller flags for residential use sell for $3.25.

This is not a money making project of the club. They are being offered for sale at the exact cost to the club. It is hoped every business establishment in town will purchase one of the flags and that a large number of the flags will be sold in the residential area.

The flags may be purchased from Ford Barnes, secretary of the club. If the demand is great enough, the flags will be put in other places for sale.

S'west Screwworm Eradication Moves Ahead

Significant new developments point to an early start in the Southwest Animal Health Research Foundation's program to control the screwworm in the Southwest.

A large quantity of special sterile fly production equipment which was used successfully in eliminating the screwworm in the Southeast will be moved to Texas by the United States Department of Agriculture beginning this week, according to Doyle Conner, Florida Commissioner of Agriculture.

Conner's statement was reported in an Associated Press release which also pointed out that the equipment is now at the Sebring Screwworm Center in Florida.

"Screwworms are believed to have been frozen out in Texas, and possibly for some distance into Mexico," Conner said. "Early eradication efforts there stand a good chance of paying off in a big way."

The SAHRF is the midst of a program to raise three million dollars through voluntary contributions. Livestock producers are investing in the program at the rate of 50 cents per animal unit. (50 cents for each adult cow and horse, and 10 cents each for sheep, goats and swine.)

The screwworm eradication program is literally one of self extermination. It is based on the fact that the female fly mates only once. The native population is overwhelmed by systematic release of screwworm flies which have been sterilized by irradiation.

The SAHRF is a non-profit organization governed by a board of trustees who serve without pay. It is headed by C. G. Scruggs of Dallas.

The trustees have emphasized that every penny collected would be used solely to bring about a screwworm eradication program in the Southwest.

MILLIONS OF AMERICANS LACK POLIO PROTECTION

THE RISK OF POLIO is being run by more than a third of the civilian population of the United States under 60 years of age. This frightening information comes from the U. S. Public Health Service whose survey shows that 45 percent of the U. S. children over a year old had no vaccine shots in 1961. Young adults — the group in which the disease is most likely to cause crippling and death — were less than 30 percent protected, the survey showed. Children from 5 to 14 were the best protected. Luther L. Terry, U. S. surgeon general, urges those who haven't done so to get their shots now.

SECOND SUNDAY SINGING ANNOUNCED

The regular Second Sunday Singing will be held at the Assembly of God Church Sunday, Feb. 11, beginning at 2:00 p. m. Everyone is invited to attend. A special invitation is extended to singers who sing Special Numbers and Quartets.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Horne spent Sunday in Abilene, visiting their children, Jane and Clint.

State Wide Alert Called For National Guard

Santa Anna's more than 50 National Guardsmen will be involved in a state wide practice alert late this month, Lieutenant Robert S. Martin, Jr., unit commander, announced Wednesday.

Lieutenant Martin said the vast military exercise will involve all members of the 9,000 man 36th (Texas) Infantry Division, of which Santa Anna Guardsmen are a part. Other Texas National Guard elements will not be affected, he said.

The Santa Anna citizen-soldiers form the Mortar Platoon of Combat Support Company, Second Battle Group, 142nd Infantry of the historic T-Patch Division.

This is the third practice alert in as many years, Lieutenant Martin remarked. He pointed out that it is of great value in the training program of the 36th. It tests unit alert plans, provides training to Guardsmen in prompt assembly, and establishes a basis to evaluate each unit's ability to muster promptly in an emergency, he said.

"A National Guardsman never knows when he might be called out on local, state, or national emergency," he said. "Last fall over 2,000 Guardsmen went on state duty during Hurricane Carla. The other Texas division, the 49th Armored, is now on federal duty at Camp Polk."

"We realize that in this modern age, when minutes can mean the difference, survival or not, that we must be ready to react immediately to any situation," he continued. "For this reason we have gone through a practice alert the past three years."

The exercise this year has been given the code name "Operation Muster Day."

No one knows just when it will take place, though Division Headquarters at Austin announced it will be held sometime between Feb. 16-25. The exact date will be kept secret to keep the alert as realistic as possible.

"Operation Muster" will run something like this: At a given signal from division headquarters, the Santa Anna unit will place its alert plan into effect, notifying its infantrymen to report to the local armory as quickly as possible. Other units throughout the state will do the same.

As each unit reaches 90 percent attendance, the local unit will radio the information to division headquarters.

The important element involved is the length of time required to assemble 90 percent of the T-Patchers throughout the state, Lieutenant Martin observed.

FHA NEWS

Pick Up Taken Here Early Friday Morning

Apparently some automobile thieves were having considerable trouble finding the kind of vehicle they were looking for Thursday night and Friday morning of last week.

A 1954 Chevrolet was stolen in Bangs sometime Thursday night and left in the east edge of Santa Anna. About 5:00 a. m. Friday Reynold Buse' 1952 GMC pick up was stolen from his home and was found near the Pontiac-Buick place in Coleman. The Berry's Used Car lot was broken into the same night and keys to a 1960 Chevrolet was taken, along with the car, which was found later in the day about 10 miles south of the Colorado River bridge on the Brownwood-Brady highway, headed south. Both the Bangs and Coleman cars had the motors burned out of them when found, apparently from the lack of oil.

The Buse pick up was not damaged.

The thefts are under investigation by the Sheriff's Departments in Coleman and Brown County. No arrests had been made Tuesday afternoon.

Faith Healers Take Money Here

Early last week Milas Nicholson was relieved of a little over $200 by a group of apparent "faith healers", who visited several homes in Santa Anna. Included in the group were two women, one man and several children.

Just how the group operates is a little hard to understand or explain. Apparently they claim to be some kind of "faith healers" or more like "money grabbers". At least in their process of operation and through a slight-of-hand operation, they have your money before you know it.

The group did not get any money at any other homes, so far as the local law enforcement officers know of.

Everyone, especially older folks, are urged to be on the lookout for people like this. They should be reported to the authorities immediately.

THE AMERICAN WAY

A BOUQUET FOR NEWBURGH

By Rosalie M. Gordon

(Editor's note: Rosalie M. Gordon is editor of All-American Books, All-American Book Digest and America's Future.)

The old American spirit of self-reliance and self-respect has a hard row to hoe in these days of the "gimmies" and government handouts. But it is reasserting itself, albeit with great difficulty against the entrenched welfare bureaucracies of federal and state governments.

An excellent example of this battle is seen in a situation in a city of 40,000 people in New York State. The town of Newburgh, N. Y., located on the Hudson River about 60 miles north of New York City, has a problem which confronts nearly every city, town and village in America. It consists in constantly rising relief costs—the burden on hardworking taxpayers of supporting a growing number of people unwilling or unable to earn their own living.

Newburgh's City Manager, Joseph McD. Mitchell, deserves a bouquet from every self-respecting American for what he is trying to do. Newburgh, in order to retain its place as the commercial and industrial center of its county, wants to make some extensive capital improvements. But one-third of the city's annual budget of $3,000,000 is spent on relief handouts of various kinds to five percent of the city's population. These handouts, and the number of people who received them, have been increasing over the years despite general boom conditions.

Mr. Mitchell, with the support of the Newburgh City Council, recently instituted a new set of rules to govern relief payments in his town. The major features are as follows:

Newburgh is going to quit being a haven for people who come there merely to live free, without working, on the rest of the taxpayers. Hereafter, a new resident of the town who applies for relief must show that he came to Newburgh on the promise of a job which he failed to get. Second, all able-bodied men now getting relief payments will continue to get them only if they work 40 hours a week for the Building Maintenance Department of the city. Third, unmarried women who make a career of living on relief by having illegitimate children will be warned that they will receive no relief payments for further illegitimate offspring. There are other rules having to do with periodic checking of families and others who get relief payments to see if they are still needed.

Would you think that such eminently sane rules would bring loud hurrahs from every official interested in protecting the taxpayers' funds? Similar rules have been tried in a few other places with very good results. And nearly all the mail that Mr. Mitchell received from around the country praised him highly for his sensible approach to this problem. But believe it or not, City Manager Mitchell and the Newburgh City Council were hauled on the carpet by the New York State relief officials. He was told that his new rules violate state and federal rules on the dispensation of taxpayers' money. It somehow does not occur to these state and federal bureaucrats that perhaps their rules need changing. They actually tried to forbid the City of Newburgh putting the new rules into effect. But the City Manager declared he would go ahead, even if it meant loss of federal and state relief funds.

The episode contains two serious lessons for Americans. The first is the inevitable control over our lives which we put into the hands of bureaucrats when we allow them to make "free" handouts with our money. It looks so easy to pass the burden on to Washington. But see what happens New York State, in order to get relief handouts from Washington, must toe the line according to Washington's rules. So the state makes rules to suit the bureaucratic handout boys in Washington. Then the state bureaucrats get scared because Washington might withhold funds from the state because one of its units—in this case the City of Newburgh—decides to make relief payments in a sane and sensible manner. So the state bureaucrats in turn swing the club of federal and state control. They threaten the city with withdrawal of taxpayers' money if it does not run its affairs according to rules made by faraway bureaucrats in Albany and Washington.

The other lesson has to do with the kind of monstrous bureaucracy we erect when we let others run our affairs for us. It is really understandable that the bureaucrats and politicians object to what City Manager Mitchell is trying to do. If Newburgh and other cities and towns can cut down their welfare expenditures, while at the same time getting a lot of free-loaders back into productive work, it might force a goodly number of welfare bureaucrats to look for productive jobs too. Thus, a sensible approach to the relief problem would get a big batch of both bureaucrats and free-loaders off the taxpayers' backs. So let's hope Newburgh will have many, many imitators around the country.

It's the Law in TEXAS

NO WILL? WHO INHERITS PROPERTY?

What will happen if you should die without executing a legal and proper will? Who will inherit your property? Your husband, wife, mother, father, children, your wife's relatives? The best way you can say who will have it is to provide a will which will protect your rightful beneficiaries and dispose of your property in accordance with your wishes.

When a deceased has no will, or dies "intestate" as the law calls it, the property of that person is distributed according to a detailed formula fixed by law. In some cases this may be the way you yourself would divide it—but in many cases it is not.

The provisions of the law concerning the distribution of the property of a person who dies without a will are rather complicated, and all of the possibilities cannot be covered by a general statement.

There are different rules for real estate and for personal property, for community property and for separate property, for homestead property, and for all of the many possible combinations of surviving relatives. Each situation must be carefully studied to determine the correct distribution of the property.

For example, here is a general idea of how the community property which you and your spouse have accumulated will be divided if you do not make a will prior to your death.

If your husband or wife survives and there are no children, the surviving spouse receives all of the property.

If, in addition, there are surviving children or descendants of deceased children, they would divide one-half of the property,

About Your Health

Dysentery, while not a major killer among Texans, still claims many lives each year. Sadly most deaths occur among infants under one year of age.

Last year there was a 10 percent increase of shigellosis—the technical name for bacillary dysentery—according to the Texas Morbidity published each week by the Communicable Disease Division of the Texas State Department of Health.

At the end of the year, the 1961 total stood at 3,915 cases compared to 3,420 cases at the end of 1960.

The total deaths from dysentery have not been compiled for 1961; however, in 1960 there were 79 deaths from the disease while the surviving spouse would receive the other one-half.

Of course, grandchildren do not share in the estate unless their parent who would inherit is deceased. And when decedents of previously deceased children do inherit, they receive only the portion that the child would have received, regardless of the number of such descendants.

An odd note, perhaps, is that the surviving spouse already owns one-half of the community estate prior to your death, and the law adds nothing to this share where there are children surviving.

When there are only children and their descendants surviving, they divide the entire community estate between them.

with 53 percent among infants.

Dysentery is transmitted "by eating contaminated foods, or drinking contaminated water or milk, and by hand-to-mouth transfer of contaminated material; by flies; by objects soiled with feces of a patient or carrier."

This is one of the reasons foodhandlers should wash their hands thoroughly before any food preparation—and especially after visiting the bathroom.

Also foods which are moist or eaten raw require special attention in washing and preparation.

Fly control and control of fly breeding are important steps in fighting this disease. Control of existing flies can be done by screening, fly traps and by contact poisons and space sprays.

Fly breeding can be controlled with adequate garbage collection and disposal, elimination of garbage dumps and substitution of land-fill operations, and provision for proper sewage disposal.

Infant mortality from shigellosis can be curtailed with adherence to good hygiene principles, scrupulous cleanliness in preparation, handling and refrigeration of food, safe milk and water for infant feeding, and continuous supervision of their diet.

It is generally acknowledged that many cases of unreported diarrhea probably result from shigellosis. Suspect victims should seek the aid of their physician.

BOY SCOUT WEEK

For His HOME COMMUNITY NATION WORLD

On some evening when your family is gathered in the living room, have you ever lowered your newspaper and looked covertly at your boy? Perhaps he was studying enthusiastically, or engrossed in an adventure story. Or, maybe he was wrestling with Brother . . . But—have you ever seen him with his guard down?

What are his dreams? Does he envision things or is he idle? We can't know, but we can help any young boy to greater dreams and aspirations if we nurture his mind on such stuff as real men are made of. We can open his mind to the cultivating and enriching ideals of the Boy Scouts of America.

High School Vo-Ag Students Face New Era of Agribusiness

By Jarrell D. Gray, Head Dept. of Agricultural Education East Texas State College

High school students of vocational agriculture are on the threshold of a new age in agriculture — the scientific agricultural age of Agribusiness.

In the new age of Agribusiness, agricultural products must be provided for tomorrow's expanding population that is estimated to reach 250 million in the U. S. and 400 billion in the world by 1970.

The new age of Agribusiness is even more basic than the Atomic or Space Age because it encompasses a world need for more scientific production of food and fiber. This production must be done by people with special talents applied in the new age. Few farm products in this era are consumed in the same form as they are produced.

What this means, then, is that in the Agribusiness Age there must be cooperation between the farmer, scientist, farm supplies distributor, processor, engineer, manufacturer and others. Today, these groups are working together so closely that all of them are actually in agriculture. It has become difficult, if not impossible, to tell who is the farmer in the traditional sense. In actual practice, the modern farmer is a little bit of each of the specialists and each of the specialists is a little bit of the farmer.

The benefits of the modern Agribusiness Age go to all — not just to the farmer.

The farmer, by applying scientific information from all these specialists, has been able to produce better crops on fewer acres. He can also market his beef cattle earlier and can do it at a saving of many pounds of feed per animal. Such is the result of modern developments in animal nutrition, antibiotics, genetics and management. These results aid not only the farmer but the consumer as well.

Other comparable achievements have been made with poultry, dairy cattle and other animals.

Nuclear research — a product of the Atomic Age — is part of the newest age. Radiation is now being studied as a means of preserving food when being transported from farm to consumer. Already the government has an atomic farm where radiation is quickly altering varieties of plants otherwise a process that would have taken thousands of years.

Such agricultural progress as this has fused older careers into a new one — Agribusiness. Presently as products travel from the farm to consumers, all careers participate — the transportation specialist and the packing specialist. Such participation insures the consumer of a more economical and a better qualified product.

Texas Veterans To Receive $12½ Million Insurance Dividend

Some 246,629 Texas veterans of World War I and World War II will receive $12,507,900 in 1962 annual dividend payments on GI insurance, P. J. Mims, manager of the Veterans Administration Regional Office in Waco said today.

The dividend checks will be paid on the anniversary date of the policies this year as is the usual custom, Mims said. VA last year speeded up the payments in an effort to aid the national economy at the request of the President.

The VA official explained that the anniversary date is the anniversary of the date each individual policy became effective. By consulting his policy, each veteran would be able to tell when to expect his dividend check.

Dividends will average $50 for World War I veterans and about $70 for veterans of World War II, Mims said.

The annual dividends are primarily a return to policyholders of part of the premiums they have paid since the death rate of veterans continues to be less than estimated in the mortality tables upon which the premium rates were set by law.

Nationwide, approximately $225 million will be divided among almost 4.5 million World War II veterans holding participating National Service Life Insurance policies (NSLI) policies. Some 228,000 World War I veterans who hold participating U. S. Government Life Insurance (USGLI) policies will receive approximately $16 million in dividends, Mims said.

RETIREMENT INCOME CREDIT

Taxpayers who had retirement incomes during 1961 may be entitled to "retirement income credits" on their federal income tax returns. This retirement income credit can be as much as $240.00 for an individual taxpayer, Virgil W. Newman, Administrative Officer, Internal Revenue Service, Brownwood,

Texas, reminded today.

Taxpayers with questions on this subject may get free Document No. 5018, Retirement Income and Credit, by contacting their IRS office.

Slavery was introduced into American Colonies at Jamestown, Va., in 1619, and abolished by the 13th Amendment in 1865.

More than sixty colonies of various foreign peoples are settled in different parts of the Republic of Paraguay.

Writer Says Peccary Not Too Dangerous

Austin — The javelina or collared peccary is a potent but not necessarily a dangerous game animal for hunters, according to Dan Klepper, outdoors editor of the San Antonio Express-News, writing in the current issue of Texas Game and Fish magazine. Klepper describes the hunting of the javelinas west of San Antonio, with dogs and .22 rifles and pistols. "The stories about javelinas 'treeing' hunters usually are nothing but exaggerations of the truth or incidents involving hunters thoroughly unfamiliar with the animals," Klepper says. "In most instances when these near-sighted pigs burst from cover in all directions, two or three invariably race toward the hunter, who doesn't realize that this is a natural occurrence."

Klepper also thinks that after the hunter has retold the story a few times it has been embellished quite a bit to make the javelina look much more dangerous than it really is. Although the season is closed on javelinas in many counties now, there are still some areas in the state where shooting the javelinas is permitted.

Cotton Producers Emphasized Cost Cutting in 1961

College Station — The past year wasn't what cotton growers in many Texas counties would classify as a good one, but for the state as a whole, lint yields were the second highest on record, 348 pounds an acre. Thus, low yields in some areas were offset by record yields in others. Fred Elliott, extension cotton specialist, in his 1961 annual report highlights some of the past year's achievements. He said the 7-Step Cotton Committees, working on all levels, continued to be a major factor in the progress made by the producers of the state's most important crop. Since the program, initiated 16 years ago by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, has been operating, lint yields have climbed from 134 pounds an acre to 1961's 348 pounds. But perhaps of equal or even more importance have been the changes in production and harvesting, ginning and soil management practices. The specialist reported that an estimated $88 million plus was saved last year in harvest costs through the use of machines — 33,089 stripper harvesters and 4,782 spindle pickers. Harvesting machinery doesn't come cheap, the specialist said, as verified by the expenditure of over $32 million in 1961 alone for new picking and stripping machines. The Philippines were ceded to the United States in 1898, by the Treaty of Paris. There were two railroads in Texas at the beginning of the Civil War.

Barnes Makes Statement To Local Voters

State Representative Ben Barnes of DeLeon today announced his candidacy for reelection to a second term in the Texas Legislature. Reared on a farm near Comyn in Comanche County, Barnes was first elected in 1960, winning a two-to-one majority throughout the three-county legislative district. As a result of redistricting, Rep. Barnes' district now includes four counties — Comanche, Brown, Runnels, and Coleman.

After graduation as an honor student from DeLeon High School, Barnes attended Tarleton State College at Stephenville, TCU at Fort Worth, and The University of Texas at Austin. He was a business administration major at The University of Texas and made the BBA Honor Roll and dean's list at that school. He also attended the University of Texas Law School.

Representative Barnes worked for the State Department of Health for two years prior to his election to the Legislature. Barnes is married to the former Martha Morgan of DeLeon. They have a son Greg, 3, and a daughter, Amy, born January 31st of this year. They are members of the Methodist Church.

During his first term in the House, Rep. Barnes received the plaudits of both colleagues and constituents for his fairness, energy, and outstanding work. Several fellow members called him the "outstanding freshman member" of the House, and six legislators made a special trip to Brownwood at the session's end to pay tribute to Rep. Barnes at an appreciation dinner attended by more than 200 citizens of the district.

Rep. Barnes' pledge in his campaign will be the same as in his first race — "to know the views and feelings of his constituents and reflect their sentiments to the greatest possible degree in the State Legislature." Barnes' office has been — and will continue to be — open at all times for suggestions or questions from any citizen of this district.

Rep. Barnes' record during his first session reflects his belief that state government should and can meet the needs of its citizens without waste and financial irresponsibility. He supported such spending measures as increased pay for teachers, improved, farm-to-market roads, and care for the aged, but he authored a substitute appropriations bill to save the state $26 million a year by eliminating waste and non-essential services.

"At all times I have tried to conduct myself in such manner as to deserve your trust and confidence. Both my wife and I have tried to do things that would reflect credit on ourselves and this district. Very soon we shall be contacting you about my candidacy for re-election, and we are looking forward to talking with you then. It is our hope that you will continue to believe in us and trust us with your affairs at the State Capitol." (Paid Pol. Announcement)

Rural Family Purchases To Be Surveyed

College Station — A scientifically selected group of Texas rural families will be asked soon to report on the things they bought in 1961, it was announced today by Mr. Cary D. Palmer, State Agricultural Statistician. Questions about their purchases will be asked as part of a nation-wide Survey of Consumer Expenditures, first of its kind in 20 years. Information about families on farms and in towns under 2,500 population will be gathered by the U. S. Department of Agriculture and similar information from families in metropolitan areas will be gathered by the U. S. Department of Labor. Texas' rural representatives in the national sample will be families chosen at random in Anderson, Baylor, Brazoria, Lavaca, Palo Pinto, Panola, and Reeves counties. They will be interviewed by employees of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, under the supervision of Mr. Palmer. Information provided during interviews will be kept confidential and will be combined with information from about 4,000 families to provide a statistical pattern of purchasing by rural people. Interviews will be conducted over a period of about four weeks beginning January 29, Mr. Palmer said. Results of the survey are expected to be used by Government in guiding legislation and policies, and by people in industry and business to determine consumer needs.

Today's MEDITATION from The World's Most Widely Used Devotional Guide

The Upper Room

© THE UPPER ROOM, NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE

Read Romans 8:31-39. Nay, in all these things we are more than conquerors through him that loved us. (Romans 8:37.)

In our service for the Master, we are often too eager to see our accomplishments right away. Dwight L. Moody tells that one morning he was in his study, cast down because he could not see much fruit of his work. One of his friends came in and sensed his gloom. The visitor asked Moody if he had studied the life of Noah. Moody replied, "No, I never studied his life particularly."

When the visitor left, Mr. Moody took down his Bible and read how Noah struggled and toiled for God many, many years, yet never got discouraged. Moody said to himself, "Well, I ought not to be discouraged." The clouds lifted, and he could say: "Let us ask God to forgive us, if we have been discouraged and cast down; let us ask God to give us hope, that we may be ever hopeful."

If the Lord wants us to work without any fruit, let us work on for Him. God helping us, we can do our best, and leave the rest in His hands.

PRAYER:
O God, give us an unquenchable love for Thee. Grant also that we may see the challenge of helping others love Thee. Inspire us to do our best for Thee and leave the results in Thy hands. For the Savior's sake. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY
If we do our work for the Master, God will not permit it to be without fruit. —Katherine Bevis (Texas) Copyright - The Upper Room

Depreciation and Income Taxes

College Station — Depreciation takes its toll from farm machinery, buildings and other farm investments every year. It's just simple economics that capital goods lose value as they age. There is a bright spot, however, because farmers can deduct this depreciation from their income tax, says C. H. Bates, extension farm management specialist.

All farmers, whether they complete their own tax returns or provide information to an accountant for filing, should study the choices on depreciation available to them. A copy of the 1962 Farmers Tax Guide, which may be obtained from the local county agent, provides an explanation of the alternatives available. The discussion in Chapter 9 of the Guide explains how each of these choices can affect the amount of tax to be paid in a particular year.

A rather recent change in the tax law allows what is called Additional First Year Depreciation. This is a flat 20 percent deduction allowed the first year on personal property used in farming (or business) provided the assets have a useful life of six or more years. The total amount on which this deduction can be taken is $10,000 on a single tax return, or $20,000 on a joint return, explains Bates. For computing regular year-to-year depreciation, the farmer has a choice of three different methods. If the Straight Line Method is used, the farmer subtracts a reasonable salvage value from the cost of the asset, and then divides the remainder by the number of years of estimated useful life. This gives the annual depreciation allowance, which is the same amount every year.

Under the Declining Balance Method, the rate of depreciation on new assets is double the rate used in straight line method. For example, on a tractor having 10-year life, the depreciation is computed by taking 20 percent of the cost as the first year's allowance. This is then subtracted from the cost, and 20 percent of the remainder is the second year's allowance, Bates points out. No salvage value is required under the Declining Balance Method since there is a "remainder" after 10 years deductions.

The farmer's choice of the Declining Balance Method or other fast write-off on an asset would depend on his need of larger deductions. For example, in a year of unusually good income, a tractor, combine or other asset bought could be placed on this method, thereby doubling the depreciation. Conversely, if the year's income is small, any asset bought could be placed on the Straight Line Method, thereby holding the depreciation to the lowest possible level.

Farmers should also remember that depreciation may be taken on breeding stock. It should be claimed on those animals that are purchased at a cost considerably above what they will bring when discarded from the herd. It is believed that many farmers can manage to claim larger deductions on their business assets, thus reducing their tax obligation, says Bates. Get a copy of the 1962 Farmers Tax Guide and study the choices you have in claiming this important business deduction, he suggests.

Musick Warns Drivers To Prepare For Bad Weather

When Old Man Winter puts on a late season blitz, all drivers must sharpen their wits, it was declared today by J. O. Musick, General Manager of the Texas Safety Association.

"Rains, fog and storms are certain this time of year. The weatherman may even have to predict blizzards or freezing rain -- which becomes of utmost importance to the motorists who 'must get through' to their destinations in bad weather," he commented.

"Highway maintenance crews do a heroic job in keeping roads open for essential traffic in the worst of bad weather, but they need the cooperation of the public which expresses its gratitude in the exercise of caution," Musick added.

"A few foolish and unprepared drivers can tie up traffic for long stretches and for a long time," he said.

"Law enforcement officers are on duty to aid disabled motorists, of course, but often the reasons for becoming stranded contain evidence of thoughtlessness or neglect," Musick observed.

"Certainly the driver who runs out of gas hasn't shown much foresight," he pointed out. "The driver whose battery fails hasn't checked this vital piece of equipment recently. The driver whose windshield wiper arms or blades fail to give unobscured sight hasn't taken time to make adjustments which are vital to keep this 'visibility insurance' in force. And the driver who has failed to check his car from 'stem to stern' and who forgets to have such vital things as a pair of reinforced tire chains, has neglected his moral responsibility when the going gets rough."

Musick warned motorists to beware of highway-rail grade crossings in bad weather. He pointed out that when car windows are closed tightly, hearing is restricted, and visibility is obscured in bad weather. The approach of a train may not be noticed until it is dangerously close.

"On the approaches to railroad crossings, highway intersections, and ramps leading off super highways, the driver needs to be especially alert and cautious," he asserted.

In conclusion, he urged that drivers operating during time of storm should keep a sharp lookout for emergency vehicles -- which may at times be forced to use "your lane" in their "errands of mercy."

DIVIDEND INCOME

Dividends received by taxpayers during 1961 must be reported on federal income tax returns, Virgil W. Newman, Administrative Officer, for Internal Revenue Service, Brownwood, Texas, said today.

He explained: "If you own stock in a corporation, the payments you receive out of the company's earnings and profits are called dividends and must be reported in your tax return.

"Usually, dividends are paid in cash, but if paid in merchandise or other property, they are taxable at their fair market value.

"You must report those dividends credited to your account as well as those which you actually receive.

"You also must report the dividends on your stock which is held in the name of your broker.

"Your distributable share of dividends from partnerships, estates and trusts must also be reported."

Taxpayers with questions on this subject may get Document No. 5060, "Investment Income," by calling Milton 2-7939.

FAMOUS DIAMOND

The Hope Diamond, one of the most famous of all gems, was cut from a larger stone, the Blue Tavernier, named after the French jewel merchant who brought it to France from the East in the middle of the 17th century and sold it to the king of France. It was later cut up. The Hope Diamond is now at the Smithsonian Institution.

Austin — A hectic final night ended the special session of the Texas Legislature. Two major problems — loan regulation and appropriations — were left unfinished.

tory bill by a two-vote margin, after the House had approved it by 18 votes. It was described by experts as the strongest loan regulatory law in the nation.

Death came to the appropriations bill in the House. It would have provided money to advertise for tourists, repair San Jacinto Monument, repair damages done to state properties by Hurricane Carla and by fires, pay Senate employees, and finance a number of other items.

Gov. Price Daniel called it a very productive session, nevertheless.

He said it had settled two long-standing issues — bank escheat reporting and farm-to-market road policy. Daniel was disappointed about the failure of the loan legislation, tourist advertising, and San Jacinto Monument repairs. But he said he would not call this Legislature back into session in the foreseeable future.

Lawmakers headed for home to file for re-election and begin their campaigns for the same or other offices. This session set some sort of a record for fast action on bills to solve local problems. These ranged from closing the season on alligators in Orange County, to score of bills creating new water districts (to undertake drainage, hurricane protection or water supply projects).

Daniel was pleased at the bill changing the name of the State Board of Water Engineers to the Texas Water Commission, and reworking it into an image of the State Highway Commission.

The chief engineer takes over full administrative control, leaving policy matters in the hands of the three-member commission.

Governor Daniel studied a flood of mail, telegrams and phone calls, which he had elicited, and decided that there was a definite public demand for him to try to become Texas' first four-term governor.

WHO SHOULD CENSOR?

Question of school book censorship was buffeted about by 22 witnesses, when the House Textbook Investigating Committee held its fourth weekly public hearing.

Some 200 persons attended the hearing. Frank Wardlaw, director of the University of Texas Press, said, "There are no men wise enough to serve as censors." He stated that he would prefer that his children's textbooks be censored by authoritative professors, rather than by unqualified individuals.

Author J. Frank Dobie said "the more textbooks are censored, the weaker they become."

The opinion that regulation of teaching materials by elected trustees has worked satisfactorily was expressed by former Baylor University trustee Joseph M. Dawson.

Other witnesses, such as Mrs. A. A. Forester of Texarkana, Richard L. Harvey of Tyler and M. F. Gabler of Hawkins, criticized the Board of Education's formula for censorship. They said they firmly believe that modern textbooks fail to instill a sense of patriotism and love of country.

Committee will hold another hearing February 9. NAMES IN THE HAT With the special session of the Texas Legislature ended, candidates for state offices quickly grabbed the spotlight.

Most surprising announcement was the filling of former Gen. Edwin A. Walker as a Democratic candidate for governor.

Then came Gov. Price Daniel's statement that he would seek re-election to a fourth term as governor.

Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler predicted that Daniel would run again, and cancelled his tentative plans to seek that post. Instead, he announced for re-election.

Attorney General Will Wilson said failure of the loan shark bill to pass was the determining point in his decision to file as candidate for governor.

John Connally, already actively campaigning for the office of governor, came to Austin to pay his $1,000 filing fee and left immediately on a flying organizational trip to West Texas.

Gubernatorial candidate Marshall Formby opened state headquarters in Austin. He appointed Dr. James E. Ray of Austin, Wendell Gambill, Dr. Joe Webb and Clint Formby to organize his campaign.

Don Yarborough, Houston attorney, paid Austin a visit to announce his candidacy for governor.

So far, the only Republican contender for governor is Jack Cox of Breckenridge.

Agriculture Commissioner John C. White filed for re-election to the post he has held since 1950. White said 1962 should be a turning point in achieving greater self-determination for farmers and ranchmen.

J. Evetts Haley of Canyon is the only other announced candidate for commissioner of agriculture.

Other candidates for statewide offices flooded the State Democratic Central Committee headquarters.

William G. Street of Littlefield filed for associate justice of the Supreme Court, Place Three, against incumbent Judge Zolite Steakley. Judge Meade Griffin, who holds Place One on the Supreme Court, drew Jesse Owens of Amarillo as an opponent. As of Saturday Judge James E. Norvell had no opponent in his campaign for re-election to Place Two on the court.

County Judge Woodrow W. Bean of El Paso; Warren C. Moore of Tyler; and Manley Head of Austin, filed for Congressman-at-large.

Judge W. T. McDonald of Bryan, Court of Criminal Appeals justice, joined the attorney general race.

Immediately after the House passed the loan bill, Speaker of the House James A. Turman announced for lieutenant governor.

That brought the total of Democrats running for the second top spot to six: Sen. Preston Smith of Lubbock; Sen. Crawford C. Martin of Hillsboro; Sen. Robert W. Baker of Houston; Sen. Jarrard Secrest of Temple and former representative Gene Smith of Fort Worth, plus Turman.

There was activity on the Republican side, too.

O. W. (Bill) Hayes of Temple and Kellis Dibrell of Seguin both filed as candidates for lieutenant governor. Dibrell practices law in San Antonio. Hayes is vice president of Continental Belton Company in Belton. Both are 43 years old.

Earlier, two other Republicans had filed for the same office — Congressman-at-large. They were Giles E. Miller, Dallas publisher, and Desmond Barry, Houston industrialist.

SUGGESTS FORUM Tom Reavley, Austin attorney running for attorney general, suggested joint appearances for himself and opponents, Waggoner Carr of Lubbock, Les Procter of Austin, Tom James of Dallas and Judge W. T. McDonald of Bryan.

Joint appearances of the candidates will bring the issues and the candidates squarely before the people of Texas," he said.

SHORT SNORTS

Governor Price Daniel announced the appointment of Rep. B. H. Dewey Jr. of Bryan to the executive committee of the Southern Regional Education Board.

In another appointment, Governor Daniel named J. Walter Fribery, Wichita Falls attorney, as district judge to fill the unexpired term of newly-elected Congressman Graham B. Purcell Jr.

State Highway Commission ordered State Engineer D. C. Greer to start plans for a four-lane highway to serve the NASA space center in Harris County.

Assistant Attorney General Gordon C. Cass resigned effective March 1 to practice law in Lampasas.

Travel Time Now Considered As Time In Military Service

Some veterans, and widows of some deceased veterans, who have not been eligible for Federal benefits because of insufficient active military service, may now become eligible by adding to the veteran's active duty period the certified time it took to proceed directly home after separation from service.

Veterans Administration officials explained that all veterans discharged or released after December 31, 1956, have already been credited with this travel time. A law passed last summer extended this provision to all other veterans.

The pension claims of some 2,500 veterans and a number of widows have been disallowed by the VA because the veterans had less than 90 days of service. By adding the travel time as certified by the veterans service department, some of these veterans will now have the 90 days of service needed to qualify.

The new law is particularly important to Spanish-American War veterans, who qualify for a special lower-rate pension if they have at least 70 days of active service. The homeward travel time of those who were previously ineligible may give them the necessary 70 days to meet the service department. Others who are receiving the lower-rate pension, may have their service period increased to 90 days and qualify for the regular service pension at the higher rate.

The VA can identify and is reviewing all 70-day cases which may become eligible for the regular service pension.

But Spanish-American War veterans who had less than 70 days of service are not known to the VA. Neither are the widows of Spanish-American War veterans who previously had less than 90 days of service. Any of these who think that the addition of the travel time from the place of discharge to the veteran's home would make them eligible for a pension, should contact the nearest VA regional office.

Early Planted
Cotton Does Best

College Station — Cotton planted on April 3 in field trials at McGregor Substation of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station in 1961 produced almost three times as much lint an acre as cotton planted on May 15. O. J. Tippit, farm superintendent, said early planting has proved effective over the years when early insect control is carried out.

In the 1961 tests, two varieties were used with little difference noted between them in yields when planted on the same date. The April 3 planting yielded 452 pounds of lint an acre compared with 158 pounds for the May 15 planting. April 15 plantings produced 342 pounds of lint an acre compared with a yield of 274 pounds for May 1 plantings.

Gross returns per acre based on lint at 30 cents a pound were $135.60; $102.60; $82.20 and $47.40, respectively for the four different planting dates, Tippit said. Hoeing costs on the April plantings were 73 cents an acre compared with 55 cents for the May dates. All planting seed were treated with the systemic insecticide Thimet and the April plantings received three spray applications for early season insect control at a cost of $5.25 an acre. The May plantings required only a single spray application at a cost of $1.75, but all received three applications of insecticides for late season control at a cost of $6.75 an acre.

All tests were planted, Tippit said, on early, well-prepared seedbeds, and 18 pounds of the Thimet-treated seed were planted per acre. This rate meant that approximately 100,000 seed an acre were planted. The final stand count taken after the last cultivation showed an average of 45,780 plants an acre or 3 1/2 plants per foot in the row, well within the 3-4 plants per foot recommended, Tippit explained.

The 60-acre field on which the tests were carried out was in grain sorghum in 1960 and was fertilized with 100 pounds of 16-20-0 an acre. Tippit said root rot was not a factor in yield as only a trace occurred.

Unincorporated

Dallas—Unincorporated businesses desiring to be taxed as corporations for the year 1961, must file statements to that effect with the district director of Internal Revenue Service for the district in which their principal place of business is located, no later than March 1, 1962. This word came today from Ellis Campbell, Jr., IRS district director here.
