Board of Education Organizes and Elects Teachers

All officers of the Board of Education of Santa Anna Independent School District were re-elected at the regular meeting Monday night as follows: President, J. Frank Turner; Vice President, Stafford Baxter; Secretary, Hardy Blue.

The returns from the annual school trustee election held in the city Saturday were canvassed and Glenn Williamson and Emmett Day were declared elected, and after qualifying, entered into the deliberations of the board.

The election of teachers constituted the major part of the work with the following results: J. R. Lock, Mrs. J. Ed Bartlett, Mrs. J. C. Scarborough, M. S. D. L. Pierat, Miss Olivia Land, M. S. Agnes Hays, Miss Pearl Traynor, Mrs. J. L. Harris, Miss Allie Pearce, Mrs. D. D. Byrne, Miss Eunice Wheeler, Miss Doris Kirpatrick, Mrs. Maud Evans, Miss Mattie Ella McCreary and Miss Lillian Durham. These teachers together with J. C. Scarborough, D. D. Byrne and J. M. Binion previously elected, will compose the faculty for the ensuing year, unless some decline acceptance or resign.

C. B. Verner was elected as assessor and collector of taxes for the school district.

Dogs in the Manger

Two of President Roosevelt's recent proposals for relieving the depression are having hard sledding. The people they would help are not objecting, but some frock-coated, silk-hatted, highly-paid lobbyists in Washington are shouting their heads off in opposition.

First is the farm relief bill which would raise the price of farm products to prices in many instances double what they are today. But this is not high enough for the self-appointed guardians of the farmers who ply their trade in Washington. They are demanding that the farmer be given a price that exceeds his cost of production, whatever that is. Ordinarily their agitation would not be serious, but just now they may be able to rouse enough opposition to block the president's plan. Undoubtedly there are certain selfish interests who would like to see the present ridiculously low prices of farm products continued. Whether or not they are actually financing the farm representatives who are demanding that wheat be jumped, not merely to 91c, as the president proposes, but to $2.12 or even higher, such extreme demands indicate more of a desire to frustrate the present bill than any desire to benefit the farmer.

Another proposal of President Roosevelt is to enlist 250,000 unemployed men in groups to re-plant forests and do other public work for which they will receive food, shelter and clothing and be paid $1 cash per day. This time it is organized labor that is trying to howl down the measure. The highly paid union officials would rather see a man starve than accept a wage equivalent to $2 a day. Back of their protest is their opposition to the government's abandoning its project of erecting huge government buildings in Washington, where workmen get wages of $14 and $15 a day. So long as the boys who are paying union dues are protected, the labor leaders have nothing to say. But to offer some poor fellow who has been working on a farm or keeping books or teaching school or perhaps hasn't been able to get work at all, a job with good food, clothes and shelter, and invigorating outdoor life, is something they will not tolerate.

One trouble with this country has been the way self-appointed leaders have led the nation around by the nose. Fortunately for all of us, there is now a man in the White House, who not only has a mind of his own, but who has the resolution to insist upon carrying his programs to completion. If Congress will not now desert him, we may soon see better times. Certainly no conscientious congressman will allow the paid officials of organized minorities to stampede him into blocking legislation that will benefit the many. He should drive the dogs out of the manger and let the work teams alone.

71 Men Perish As Akron Crashes

NEW YORK, April 4—(AP)—The U. S. Navy dirigible Akron caught fire at 12:08 a. m. today in a violent thunderstorm and fell into the sea with 76 men aboard twenty miles east of Barnegat.

Eight hours later the wreckage was sighted twenty-five miles east of Atlantic City. A message signed by Lieutenant Commander H. V. Wiley, second in command and in charge of the Akron, stating that the giant dirigible crashed about six minutes past midnight, was given out by the coast guard at Staten Island today.

After describing the weather and position of the ship in the early part of the night the message said:

"Surrounded by lightning at the light (presumably Barnegat). Night atmosphere not very turbulent. Rain east coast until about 11 p. m., then crossed to west at midnight. Ship began descend rapidly from flying altitude, 16,000 feet. We dropped the ship's ballast. We were entirely surrounded by lightning. About 12:03 a. m. the ship began to descend rapidly. Three minutes later it seemed to be in the storm center. The ship began to shift about violently and then commenced to descend. Again the stern was inclined downward. The rudder control was carried away. The descent continued to the water. The ship was demolished upon impact. In the lightning flash I saw many men swimming. The wreckage drifted rapidly away."

112 FARM LOAN CHECKS RECEIVED IN COLEMAN

COLEMAN, April 3—Up to the present time 112 farm loan checks have been received in Coleman county, according to the records of A. L. Lockhart who has been employed by the First Coleman National Bank to assist farmers in making out their applications. The loans, Mr. Lockhart said, have averaged about $75, making a total cash of $8,400 that have come into county to aid farmers in buying seed and maturing and gathering this year crops.

LONG WORDS

What is the longest word in the English language? That is a hard question to answer, as writers have from time to time coined words of extraordinary length which have never gotten into general use.

The longest in Webster's International dictionary is honorificabilitudinitatibus, defined as "honorableness," a pedantic nonsense word, used by Shakespeare in "Love's Labor Lost," and containing 27 letters.

But in chemical treatises may be found even longer words more wonderfully compounded than the chemical products which they describe. For example, tetrahydroxydiphenylquinone, with 31 letters, also paraoxymethoxyallylbenzene of 30 letters, and others.

English must yield the palm to some foreign languages, however, when long words are considered.

In Germany, schutzengrabensvernichtungsaufschub, with 35 letters, is as formidable as the war engine it describes. In English this machine is commonly designated by the four-letter word, "tank," a saving of 31 letters going to the credit of our mother tongue.

Longest of all so far discovered is the Greek word of 131 letters, which appropriately enough is the name of a dish containing many ingredients. We call it simply, "hash."

Out of consideration for the linotype operator, we shall not spell out the Greek word here. We have already given him and the proof-reader enough worry for one day. Kerville Mountain Sun.

Just a little happier, thank you.

Leman Brown is Elected Mayor by Close Margin

In the city election here Tuesday, Lemman Brown was elected Mayor by a margin of 4 votes over W. E. Baxter, present incumbent, who has been Mayor for several years. The vote was 107 to 111.

In the Commissioners race J. Ed Bartlett received 132 votes, E. P. Ewing received 123 votes, John Love received 109 votes and W. M. Riley received 56 votes. Mr. Bartlett and Mr. Love were the present incumbents.

The newly elected City Officials are all worthy, capable and deserving men, and we have no fear of the consequences of the City's affairs in their hands. It is the duty of every citizen of Santa Anna to join in with our City Officials and lend them whatever friendly and moral support that is needed for a bigger and better Santa Anna.

In the Trustee Election Saturday, J. G. Williamson and Ernest Day were elected with but little opposition to places on the board of education.

No Animals Hunted in This Game Film

Despite its title and the record of its makers, "The Most Dangerous Game," RKO-Radio picture, is not an animal story.

But, according to Merian C. Cooper and Ernest B. Schoedack themselves, "The Most Dangerous Game" is packed with more exciting adventures than "Grass" or "Chang." Unlike their other films, their latest adventure picture is a drama with a strong romantic vein.

Based on Richard Connell's classic short story, "The Most Dangerous Game" is an unusual tale of a boy and a girl shipwrecked on an island belonging to a crazed nobleman whose single game killing no longer thrills him, this demented sportsman releases his shipwrecked guests and hunts them like animals.

ROOSEVELT SELECTS A COMPETENT CABINET

Mr. Roosevelt seems to have named a competent Cabinet to aid him in the arduous years ahead. It is one that will have the respect of the country, as well as the country's best wishes, at the outset. Its success will depend on the men themselves—and on circumstances as unpredictable as any similar set of men ever faced. We are not among those who go in for the parlor sport of Cabinet picking.

It has seemed to us that the usual amateur Cabinet list of prima donnas would wreck our government; that the only real test—granting their honesty—is whether a President thinks he can work well with the given group. Just because under our system of government the Cabinet is responsible to the President, his "family," rather than responsible heads of the government system, the theoretic test of a Cabinet's calibre is almost valueless.

That is particularly true in this time of national emergency. On the executive side our Constitution provides one-man government. In a crisis the President tends to become the entire government. Leadership and action, as in war-time, require virtual voluntary dictatorship—whether we like it or not, and regardless of how we sugar coat the bill.

Franklin D. Roosevelt is expected to give orders. The only practical test of the Cabinet of officers is whether they can carry out those orders intelligently and efficiently. Mr. Roosevelt is best able to judge that.

Mr. Roosevelt obviously had a clear purpose in making each choice. A lifetime of unswerving opposition to high tariffs, for example, unquestionably explains the naming of Cordell Hull. It indicates the purpose of the President-elect to get at the root of such bad international relations as can be attributed to our own government policies.

Undoing the damage that our tariffs have done calls for a tariff expert and Senator Hull is that. The list generally agreed upon contains so many progressives and some conservatives. As a whole there is every reason to believe that Mr. Roosevelt will find in a good working team for his leadership.

All things come to him who waits—if he waits long enough.

Coleman Man Hurt in Car Accident

Gus Bearson, 36, Coleman, is in the Central Texas Hospital suffering from the loss of his left arm which was crushed between the side of his car and a large truck which sideswiped the car on the Comanche road about eleven miles from Dublin between Dublin and Comanche, early Tuesday night. The truck did not stop. The arm was removed about midway between the elbow and shoulder at the hospital.

Bearson, his wife, and his wife's two brothers, A. E. and B. E. Snodgrass, both of Dublin, were riding in the Bearson car, a light coupe, going toward Dublin. The truck was driving toward Comanche. Evidently Bearson had his elbow protruding from the car door window for when the truck hit the side of the car his arm was severely mangled. The car went into the ditch but did not overturn and none of the other occupants were injured. Bearson suffered no other injuries except to his arm.

Officers at Comanche were telephoned to stop the truck which drove on after hitting the car, but did not see it pass through Comanche. Brownwood police talked to Comanche officers over the telephone and also were on the lookout for the truck, but said that it passed through here before they were notified or did not come this way.

An ambulance from Dublin was called to the scene of the accident and started for Brownwood with the injured man. About seven or eight miles from Brownwood engine trouble developed and an ambulance from White & London Funeral Home was called and brought Bearson to the hospital.

The accident occurred about 8:30 o'clock and Bearson did not reach the hospital until after 10 o'clock. Doctors fear that amputation will set up.

Bearson is a world war veteran and suffered the loss of his right leg while in active duty. He has an artificial leg which he uses. The arm which was amputated also had been injured during the war.

Home Town Contest

The Santa Anna High School has been asked to enter a student speaker in the Annual Home Town Contest at the Fifteenth Annual Convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce in Big Spring, May 11, 12, 13.

The entry blank and rules of the contest were received this week by Superintendent J. C. Scarborough from C. M. Caldwell, Chairman of the contest.

Contestants must be high school students and each town may select its contestant in any way it desires. The speech must be original and about the home town of the student. The rules provide it shall not contain poetry, and shall not be over five minutes long.

A new loving cup is to be offered to the winner this year at Big Spring, the Thos. Etheridge cup having been won three times by Joe Witherspoon, Jr., of Wichita Falls, who becomes its permanent owner. Witherspoon will not be a contestant this year according to Chairman Caldwell. In addition to a loving cup, the high three contestants will each receive a substantial cash prize and the winner will be given a choice of a number of college scholarships.

The Home Town Contest has been a feature of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Conventions for the past ten years, and the final contest is held before the entire convention on the last morning.

Do Something: Employees of Edison Commanded

WEST ORANGE, N. J. March 22—(UP)—The following Bulletin was posted in all plants of the Thomas A. Edison, Inc., today by Charles Edison, son of the inventor and president of the company.

"President Roosevelt has done his part, now you do something. Buy something, buy anything, anywhere; print your kitchen, send a telegram, give a party, get a car, buy a bill, rent a flat, fix your roof, get a haircut, see a show, build a house, take a trip, sing a song, get married.

"It does not matter what you do—but get going and keep going. This old world is starting to move."

(Editor's note: "According to another news item, the man who posted the above notice got married. Fair enough.")

Comrades

"The Home Town" Temple Telegram

Imagine, if you can, the drama of a crippled dirigible crashing into an angry ocean.

Imagine the thoughts and actions of dying men in the few brief moments of time separating them from eternity.

Are they brave men then?

Do they think of the past, of a future? Or are their thoughts concerned only with living the few remaining seconds of their lives?

Or do dying men think at all... or simply react to the emergency?

The men of the Akron crew must have been comrades above all else as the Atlantic storm smashed the great ship to bits and sent them to their deaths.

Schooled in the discipline of the service, the crew faced its fate with courage. Men flashed encouraging words to each other. There was no panic, no evidence that they were afraid.

"Good luck to you wherever you're going!"

However tragic and gruesome the last minutes of the crew of the Akron, the men went to their fates closer comrades in death probably than they ever had been in life.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS VISITS MRS. HODGE

The Sunday School Class taught by Mrs. J. C. Morris at the Baptist Sunday School visited Grandmother Hodge last Sunday afternoon, sang hymns and prayed, and engaged in general conversation for more than an hour. Mrs. Hodge was stricken with paralysis five or six weeks ago, and has been unable to be up since that time. She enjoyed the visit as much as the girls, who were accompanied by their teacher.

The girls met at the home of the president, Miss Armenta Ragsdale, and went in a body to the Will Hodge home where Mrs. Hodge makes her home.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

On Monday last week Mrs. Jess Howard entertained with a party honoring her son, Donald Ray, on his fifth birthday. After the little guests had examined the gifts, they enjoyed interesting games until a late hour when delicious refreshments consisting of ice cream and cake were served to the following guests: Beth Lock, Barbara Ann Daniels, Louise Mitchell, Douglas Johnson, Kenneth and Joyce Moredock, Davy Lee Zirkle, Bonnie Jean Blake, Mary Helen Stacy, Billie Holcomb, Jackie Watkins, Charles Kenneth Duggins, Wanda Bland, Jackie and Gerald Pruitt, Wanda Duggins and the honoree, Donald Ray Howard.

Mrs. Jim Robin entertained the South Side Circle of the Baptist W. M. S. at her home Monday afternoon. Twelve ladies were present for the interesting study of the eighth and ninth chapters of the Gospel of St. John.

All the ladies reported an enjoyable afternoon.

Colorado Mount Belches Again

DURANGO, Colo., April 5 (AP)—Old Carbon Mountain, rambolling Colorado peak, had another convulsion today and belched forth great quantities of sea shells and other evidences of marine life.

Scientists said the convulsion was the most violent since the mountain started disintegrating nearly two months ago. Since then it has been breaking up and tumbling into the valley. Enormous quantities of earth have been forced through hundreds of fissures on the mountain's sides.

Dr. W. Boyd Calkins, Durango high school science teacher, said the earth being forced up thru the crevices undoubtedly came from a great depth, 2,000 feet or more.

An Eloquent Plea in District Court by Hon. Temple Houston

One of the women of the town, Mimmie Stacey, was prosecuted for plying her vocation and running a bawdy house. Something about the case aroused the indignation of Temple Houston, who instantly undertook her defense. Exposure had impaired his voice, and he only addressed the court and jury in a calm, conversational tone. After referring to the legal questions involved and discussing the evidence, he bent over toward the jury so he could almost have laid his hand on the shoulders of each, and in a clear, low voice began his address with these words:

Gentlemen: You heard with what cold cruelty the prosecution referred to the sins of this woman, as if her condition were of her own preference. The evidence has painted you a picture of her life and surroundings. Do you think that they were of her own choosing? Do you think that she willingly embraced a life so revolting and horrible? Ah, no! Gentlemen, one of our sex was the author of her ruin, more to blame than she; then let us judge her gently. What could be more pathetic than the spectacle she presents. An immortal soul in ruin. Where the star of purity once glittered on her girlish brow, burning shame has set its seal and forever! And only a moment ago they re-proached her for the depths to which she had sunk, the company she kept and the life she led. Now, what is left her? Where can she go that her sin does not pursue her? Gentlemen, the very promises of God are denied her, He said: "Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest." She has indeed labored and is heavy laden, but if at this instant she were to kneel down before us all and confess her Redeemer and beseech His tender mercies, where is the church that would receive her? And even if they accepted her when she passed the portals to worship and to claim her rest, scorn and mockery would greet her and those she met would gather around them their skirts the more closely to avoid the pollution of her touch. Would you tell me a single employment where she can realize "Give us this day our daily bread?" Our sex wrecked this once pure life. Her own sex shrank from her as they would the pestilence. Society has reared its relentless walls against her, and only in the friendly shelter of the grave can her betrayed and broken heart ever find the Redeemer's promised rest. They told you of her assumed names, as fleeing she sought the shadows on the wall of her sins, her habits, but they never told you of her sorrows, and who shall tell what her heart, sinful though it may be, now feels.

When the remembered voices of mother and sisters, whom she must see no more on this earth, fall again like music on her aching soul and she hears God that she could only return, and must

The Master while on earth, while He spoke in wrath and rebuke to the kings and rulers never reproached one of these. One He forgave, another He acquitted. You remember both—friendless outcast, if any of us can say unto her "I am holier than thou" in the respect which she is charged with sinning, who is he? The Jews who brought the woman before the Savior have been held up to the execration of the world for 2,000 years. I always respected them. A man who will yield to the reproaches of his conscience as they did has the element of good in him, but the modern hypocrite has no such compunction. If the proscribed rest. They told you of her assumed names, as fleeing she sought the shadows on the wall of her sins, her habits, but they never told you of her sorrows, and who shall tell what her heart, sinful though it may be, now feels.

No, gentlemen, do as your Master did twice, under the very circumstances that surround you. Tell her to go in peace. The jury acquitted her as soon as they could reach their room.

AMBITIONS OF YOUTH

It would be interesting to gather a hundred young people together and take a vote on their vocational ambitions for the future.

Many young men and women just out of college are enthusiastic with hopes for a career. They want to become literary geniuses, doctors, lawyers, professors, etc.

Perhaps the most sensible of all are those who choose agriculture as their calling. In normal times they are sure of catching a comfortable living.

With a great blare of trumpets the French chamber of deputies announced to the world that they would not pay the $20,000,000 which fell due on the 15th of December.

The almost stony silence with which congress and the people met their treacherous and dishonorable action was wholly unexpected.

Now the French premier begs the American ambassador at Paris to advise him as to what course to take.

AN EDITOR'S PRAYER
An exchange over in Arkansas says an editor went to church the other day and was called on to lead in prayer, when he said:

Have you ever seen a snake with its head pinned down under a forked stick, squirming in an effort to extricate itself?

There is in every human countenance either a history or a prophecy, which must sadden, or at least soften every reacting observer.

Legislator on record

LEGISLATIVE NEWS SERVICE OF THE TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION, AUSTIN

AUSTIN—Action of appropriation bills thus far carry out the announced intention of the Legislature to trim government expenses by from 25 to 30 per cent.

During the past few years State support of the public schools has steadily increased.

Increases in support from both local and State sources have far outrun increases in enrollment.

It seems fair to point out that while school enrollment was increasing about 10 per cent and taxable wealth about 14 per cent, public school costs were more than doubled.

That it will be a difficult problem to adjust these differences goes without saying. It is clear, however, that if the existing standards of support of the public schools is maintained new sources of revenue must be found.

An income tax bill has received a favorable report from a House committee. The rates for individuals scale from one per cent on the first $1,000 of net income up to seven per cent on amounts in excess of $11,000.

The sales tax has been killed again in a House committee, but there is talk of it being brought out on a minority report.

Appropriations for the support of the State board of water engineers and the board of mineral development have been killed by the House.

ARGENTINE ONLY SUGGESTS GOOD PUBLIC MANNERS
Argentina's public manners are governed by suggestions, rather than by rules.

The signs in the street cars and subways do not forbid smoking or exhortation. They merely say: "He who spits on the floor is badly educated."

It was carnival night, and some of the sweltering crowd gathered in the Plaza May to await the procession tired of standing in the wide red clap paths and sat on the edge of the lawn.

Not a word was said. The gardeners rolled up their hose and went away—and the parade began.

JUNIOR NEWS

Plans for the Annual Junior-Senior Banquet are being made, and there is intense expectation everywhere. The committees for the various phases of the banquet have been appointed and decoration, favors, and place-cards are being discussed on every side.

Several juniors were awarded football sweaters Thursday morning in chapel.

Juniors in their English course are slowly but surely learning to "white letters." However, the first attempts, as Mrs. Scarborough will tell you, are sometimes very amusing.

EXAMS COME AGAIN

Knock! Bang! Slam! The books are going here and there as the students hunt for the ones they haven't studied for the past five weeks. Yes, exams come next week and books are much in demand.

After these exams there will be only six more weeks of school.

YES OR NO

Do you know that: Thirteen football sweaters were presented last week in chapel?

The Home Economics III Club presented a "table manners" play in chapel Friday?

Examinations come again next week?

District meet will be April 21-22?

Home Economics I Club went to Camp Sunset on a picnic last Friday?

JOKES

Mrs. S: "Why is English called the mother tongue?" Jelly: "Because father never gets to use it."

Gus Morgan had been very naughty, and as punishment he was not allowed to eat with the rest of the family, and a small table was set aside for him. On being given his food at this table for the first time he said very solemnly: "Lord, I thank Thee. Thou hast spread a table before me in the presence of mine enemies."

Billie Baxter: "Why does the fire whistle blow for a fire?" Jimmie Baird: "It doesn't blow for the fire. It blows for water. They've got the fire."

Salesman: "Ladies and gentlemen, I have here the famous flexible comb that will stand any kind of treatment. You can bend it double, you can hit it with a hammer, and you can twist it."

Elizabeth Fletcher (Interested listener): "Say, mister, can you comb your hair with it?"

Once a Scotchman had the tooth-ache. He decided to make an appointment with the dentist. So he called the dentist and said, "I have a terrible tooth-ache. What time can I see you?" The dentist said, "2:30 all right?" The Scotchman said, "Yes, tooth hurtle all right, but what time will you fix it?"

When Ted was a small child, his aunt visited him one night. When she started to leave, she said, "Ted, won't you walk home with me? It will not be long before you will be walking home with girls." Ted said, "I can't do this time for dad said we were going to eat supper as soon as you left."

FOOLISH FACTS FROM A FOOLISH SCIBBLER

Each term there are students who discover why exams are called finals.

Mrs. Scarborough should be good on jigsaw puzzles—she is so good at giving puzzle tests.

To have a pretty shaped nose one must keep it out of the other fellow's business.

Life is still what you make it until somebody comes along and makes it worse.

Some men are born good and a few make good.

They laughed when I sat down at the piano—I had forgotten to bring the stool.

Prosperity is just around the corner. Just my luck, I can't make a left turn here.

Miss Kathryn Rose Plhney, who is a freshman at T. W. C. spent last week-end at home.

Zelda Ruth visited her grandmother who lived in the country. The next morning Zelda Ruth went into the back yard and saw a peacock. She ran to her grandmother and said, "Grandmother, one of your chickens is in bloom!"

HOME ECONOMICS PICNIC

"How I enjoyed it!" seemed to be a popular phrase around Santa Anna High School last Friday, for during the class period that morning Home Economics I went to Camp Sunset for their study of picnics.

A track meet was the chief diversion, the best feature of which was the low hurdles by Mrs. Blake and Miss Hays. The relay race was run with an apple on the head. The hurdles were furnished by some of the girls on their hands and knees. Then a game called the "human organ" was played. Each girl sang one word of "Yankee Doodle" when she was tapped.

TABLE ETIQUETTE

The rules for table etiquette are based on custom and convenience and should be governed by common sense. Table manners are said to be the index of one's family life and character and are often the means of judging people. One should make special effort at all times to appear at his best in this respect. The meal should be the happiest period of the day and every member of the family should share in making it a pleasant occasion by avoiding loud talking, arguments and disagreeable topics.

Upon entering the dining room remain standing quietly until the hostess gives the signal by sitting down, a gentleman always assists a lady by pushing her chair in for her. The lady of the house is seated at a place near the kitchen, this saves steps when she must wait on the table herself and should bring her opposite the man of the house who is seated at the head of the table. Seat yourself from the left side of your chair and rise from the same side, avoid making unnecessary noises.

Come to the table neat and tidy then avoid touching the fork, bananas are peeled from the top down and eaten with a fork.

Crackers are eaten after each spoonful of soup, never broken into the bowl, dip the spoon away from you, sipping from the side. Do not tip the bowl to get the last spoonful, and by all means eat it quietly. Take bread from the plate with the fingers, spearing bread is no longer a custom. It is no longer considered a mark of poor to eat all that has been given you, nor is it a breach of etiquette to take the last piece on the plate.

It is very poor taste to play with your silver, or rearrange it when you are waiting to be served.

When things are being passed from one to another do not look over the food before selecting a particular piece, take what is nearest. Never create the impression that you are endeavoring to do the right thing, be calm, eat slowly and daintily.

Even though you think you are helping the hostess do not stack plates at the table, let them remain in place.

A college graduate may be a fine man but if he has been too engrossed in developing his mental ability to think of proper etiquette he will fail in a large field of life.

The fact that there are books constantly being published, is convincing proof that it is a serious matter and should not be overlooked.

After the Storm

The happenings in banking and business circles during the last few weeks had both a serious side and a humorous side, but there's another angle that must not be overlooked. That's the bright side—the cheering prospect that the bottom of the valley has surely been passed and that from now on the course of business will be upward.

Abraham Lincoln, beset by war's travails, once said, "To many the present moment appears dark. To me the signs are glorious!"

We are thinking now, especially about the young people just starting life. Some of them are discouraged by conditions. Others—and these will be the leaders of tomorrow—are inspired by the knowledge that the period of decline, with its privations and fears, has been survived and that opportunities now will be increasing as the world rolls on and business firms begin their inevitable come-backs.

Wise youngsters today are looking ahead to business futures. But they are doing more than merely looking if they are truly wise. They are getting ready. They are training for the opportunities that are to come, so that their golden moments will find them ready.

To such young people—and to their parents—we make this suggestion. If you have not already done so, write to Tyler Commercial College at Tyler, Texas, and get a free copy of a handsome booklet entitled "Achieving Success in Business." You'll find it full of both information and inspiration.

FOURTY-TWO PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Robin entertained Monday night with three tables of "Progressive Forty-Two." The games were enjoyed until a late hour when delicious refreshments were served to the following guests: M. and Mrs. J. F. Goen, Mr. and Mrs. I. D. Ewing, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Burl Sparkman, Mrs. J. J. Gregg, Miss Queenie Gregg, and Messrs. Wendell Sparkman and Jim Bob Gregg.

THAT NEW MONEY

The government is printing enormous quantities of new money to augment our circulating medium and the banks don't want it. They have enough.

What will the government do with all that new money that the banks won't have? Will it be allowed to rot in the federal reserve banks?

Why not put those unemployed millions to work on government projects, new and old, in every state in the union, and PAY THAT NEW MONEY TO THEM?

Gosh, if the old treasury goes broke how will congress collect its pay?

It might help some to repeal the law against kidnaping and let everybody go to it.

It might help some to have a law requiring bond companies to buy and hold large blocks of the worthless paper they work off on suckers.

LIONS AND TIGERS

When lions and tigers roam the jungles smaller game hunt their holes and lairs. It is not safe to be abroad.

Humanity has its lions and tigers, seeking to devour everything in sight. They are found in the ranks of big business and high finance, in politics, the underworld, and wherever it is possible for one human to prey upon another.

Unscrupulous officials of great metropolitan banks and affiliated investment concerns, dishonest bond salesmen and the disreputable companies they represent, crooked insurance officials, big corporations that combine to strangle the legitimate competition of smaller concerns, murderous gangsters, shyster lawyers and complaisant public officials, these all represent the human lions and tigers who are raging throughout the land and creating havoc wherever they go.

An honest company would not sell hundreds of millions of foreign bonds to the public unless it knew them to be sound and a perfectly safe risk. Yet the country is flooded with such bonds upon which the innocent holders cannot collect even ten interest.

The fact that the people have lost their money means little to such bond houses and banking institutions. They have their huge commissions, and are not concerned with the rest. And so it goes throughout the realm of big business, high finance and the puppets who jump at their crack of the whip. Crooks to the right of us, crooks to the left of us, crooks in front of us, crooks behind us, crooks all around us, seeking anything they can rend and destroy for personal gain.

There was a time when big business and high finance were honest. They have done much to develop this country and make it what it is. But many have departed from the ways of honor, and are destroying that which they have created—and all to satisfy their insatiable greed for power and wealth.

That is one of the problems which Mr. Roosevelt, in his capacity as dictator, must settle in a hurry if we are to escape something more serious than a nation-wide bank holiday. No matter what the president may accomplish, the people—the victims—will never be satisfied until he has sent the worst of these crooks to the pen.

PROFITABLE MISTAKE

Theodore Roosevelt once said "Make stepping stones of your stumbling blocks, it is only through labor and grim energy that we move on to higher things." Many of us are too often inclined to believe that by one false step, we have ruined our entire future, and we abandon all hopes. Let this not be so; let us profit by our mistakes, for then we shall understand our faults and endeavor to correct them in future occasions. In history we see and study the rise and fall of many nations, noting especially the reasons and causes for this in order that our own modern nation may profit by these examples. If we apply this same rule to our own individual lives, and make stepping stones of our stumbling blocks, we can most assuredly learn to "move on to better things." Kerville Mountain Sun.

The word "ukulele" has a very poetic origin. In the Hawaiian lingo "uku" means a flea and "lele" means to jump—no doubt suggested by the motion of the fingers of the player—or possibly the antics of those who dance to the music.
