A word of caution comes from the ladies, asking you to be careful about what is being thrown into the containers along with your recyclable items. In recent weeks the project has had some filled recycling containers turned down by Texas Recyclers, due to the fact that other articles are thrown into the containers. In one incident someone dumped grass clippings in with the container of newspapers and at another time some wooden articles were left in the newspaper container. When this happens the whole container is turned down and the efforts of these two ladies and their volunteer help has "gone down the drain." If you want the project to continue to be successful, we must abide by dumping only those

the two.

Department is proud of their new WEPS (Water Expansion System) unit that is now operational. And well they may be. There are three of the units in the county and two of them belong to the Santa Anna Fire Department. The local group introduced their first unit a couple of years ago and it was so highly successful they immediately began looking toward rigging up another. Coleman has the third, which was put into use about 60 days ago after purchasing it already assembled. According to fire department spokesman, Freddie Dodson, it is unlikely that any other rural county of our size in the state has as many in operation.

mounted on the truck is the water tank and Dodson relates that in one incident of a hay fire the WEPS unit operated for 2-1/2 hours on one tank of water. A far cry from the days when they would have had to return to town with their "rural" tank truck for additional water.

What makes the department especially proud is the fact they assembled the system themselves, to the effort by making the decals for the control board. Of course, as Dodson was quick to say, it is the support of the associate membership that allows them to make these kinds of progress.

The department is equally proud of their latest members which include, Jeff Vincent of Rockwood, and Mike Simmons, Bill Martin, Wayne and Cynthia Philpot. The total membership is now about 23 which includes three women fire fighters.

BUILD A MEMORIAL

Joshua 4:1-7. That this may be a sign among you that when your children ask their fathers in the time to come, what mean ye by these stones? Then ye shall answer them, That the waters of the Jordan were cut off before the ark of the covenant of the Lord; when it passed over Jordan, the waters of Jordan were cut off; and these stones shall be for a memorial unto the children of Israel forever.

In the 4th chapter of Joshua we read where the people of Israel crossed over the River Jordan when it was in flood stage. This was a great miracle for the people and Joshua. God did not want the people to forget so He commanded the people to take up twelve stones to build a memorial so they would always remember what God had done. He told them that when the children should ask for the meaning of the stones that they should be told of the miracle that God had done.

Today we see many memorials that people are very proud of. I was very impressed when my wife and I went to Mt. Rushmore. That is a great work of art and is there to remind us of some of our great leaders. We have many memorials for our war dead and I think they are very important.

I look at many very beautiful churches and I love to see them as a memorial to those great Christians who built them. Many have stained glass windows that are donated for some loved or respected person. When our children see these buildings and lovely stained glass windows, it is wonderful.

I think the greatest memorial we can leave our children is our testimony of faith that we have lived before them. When they ask us what makes our faith strong we can tell them about our experience of salvation and about how Jesus is an ever present help in time of need. Tell them of every answered prayer. Give them something to think about that they might see how important Jesus is to us.

Let us build a memorial to our faith by being faithful to our Christ first, then to our family and church. Let us show those close to us that we are trying to build a memorial with our lives.

The Lord has blessed us so much and we must show how we love Him. Our children must see how important the things of God are to us. PLEASE GO TO CHURCH this week and continue to work on your memorial.

Tub Can Be Element-Ary Iron and manganese are essential to life as we know it...but when these elements build up on the interior of a dishwasher, they're nothing more than an unsightly nuisance.

Cleaning The Dishwasher

If the tub, rack or inner door of your dishwasher have become filmy or discolored, the likely culprit is iron or manganese in the water, say appliance experts from Whirlpool Corporation. To restore the gleam to your dishwasher's interior, follow this simple cleaning procedure: •Empty the dishwasher;

•Set the unit for a cycle with one wash;

•Start the dishwasher and let it run until it starts to fill with water for the wash;

•Stop-the machine by opening the door:

•Add 1/4 to 1/2 cup of citric acid crystals (available at most hardware or drug stores);

 Close and latch the door to complete the wash cycle. You can safely use citric acid crystals as often as every month on machines with plastic tubs (the material used on most new dishwashers), but no more than three or four times a year on dishwashers with porcelain tubs.

Another, more long-term solution to dishwasher discoloration is to install an iron or manganese filter to your home water supply.

Lawmakers on Sunday approved placing the proposed constitutional amendment on the Nov. 5 ballot. The same measure failed Aug. 10 by less than 1 percent c..t of 873,879 votes cast.

House members voted 109-18 to resubmit the issue to voters, and 111-17 on legislation that would implement the bond sale if it were approved.

Some legislators said it was an insult to voters to ask them to approve what they had so recently rejected.

But Rep. Eddie Cavazos, D-Corpus Christi, said voters may have been confused by the ballot language of the proposal, and did not know the importance of the program.

The bonds would provide education loans to low- and middleincome students.

Cavazos said the program makes money for the state from loan repayments and interest, while providing loans that are critical to thousands of students.

"If we reject this issue we're not punishing Democrats, we're not punishing Republicans. We're punishing students who need to get an education," he said.

The loans, which have been funded with general obligation bonds since 1965, serve from 20,000 to 30,000 students per year who otherwise could not afford to attend college, lawmakers said.

Healthy Instead Of Dieting

HOUSTON--Scientists at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston say it is time to stop thinking "diet" and to start thinking "healthy eating and weight management."

Nutrition experts in The DeBakey Heart Center of Baylor College of Medicine and The Methodist Hospital advise that it is healthier to view "diet" in a more positive way, stressing life-long good nutrition, good eating habits and regular exercise, rather than as a temporary regimen of denial to achieve a reduced weight.

According to a new brochure developed at Baylor, the goal of healthy eating and weight management is not an arbitrary figure on a weight chart but a "healthy weight." That is the normal and natural weight a person can achieve and can maintain through good eating habits and regular exercise

A healthy person with no cardiovascular disease, high cholesterol, high blood pressure or diabetes, and whose muscles are loned from moderate exercise may find the "right" weight is higher than what the current "thin is in" fashion dictates, the brochure says.

Stressing that fad diets do not work and can create health problems for those stuck on a "yo-yo" cycle of losing and regaining pounds, the brochure offers these tips for achieving a healthy body weight and maintaining it for life:

* Learn to be the best you can be, whatever your body shape.

* Break away from a dieting mentality. No food is "bad" or "good~"

* Recognize that you cannot eat your way out of your problems.

Our older daughter took up soccer again this spring.

Julie played a couple of seasons of girls' youth soccer about the time she started elementary school. Once, her team completed the season with only one loss and came within a single game of winning the big end-ofyear tournament.

But through it all, Julie remained an indifferent player, bemused by the whole "win, win, win" attitudes of her coach, some of her fellow. players and most of the parents.

The soccer organization's stated goal was to provide fun for the kids. But there were so many grown-ups running things - coaches, referees, parents, helpers — that it didn't seem much like a kid's game. Julie sighed with relief when she decided to drop out. My husband and I were glad. So, we were all surprised when she came home from school and announced that she had joined a newly formed team.

A boy in her class was recruiting members. Julie and one other girl signed up.

We still aren't sure why. We suspect that the "mixed" nature of the team influenced her decision. At 11, Julie still thinks boys are "yuck-o," but her protests grow weaker by the day.

Anyway, our Saturdays once again revolve around soccer games, our weekdays punctuated by practice. Not much has changed since our first go-round with the sport. The local youth soccer organization still preaches that fun, not victory, is what's important. But the coaches, and most parents, still want to "win, win, win."

I still find myself on the sidelines at the game wondering if the kids would have more fun with a little less structure, without so much pressure from coaches and parents. When I see real tears and anger each time my daughter's team loses. I wonder about the values these youngsters are absorbing.

Which brings me to what happened yesterday. Julie's team lost a regular season game. But after ward, there was a game between the kids and the parents, a prelude to a pizza party.

The parents-kids game was almost over when I noticed the kids were laughing. When someone messed up, no one criticized. No coaches screamed. Nobody worried about who played what position. Nobody kept score.

When it was over, nobody wanted to stop. So the game was extended by 10 minutes. The kids acted goofy, poking fun at their parents and each other. There were no tears over mistakes or missed kicks.

And we had to think a minute to figure out who won. The parents did. But it didn't seem to matter.

Get a Load of This!

Carbohydrate loading is a popular practice of marathon runners. Since they "ppear to be in great shape, it might seem that "carbo-loading" is the ticket to fitness for everyone. Actually, carbo-loading is recommended only for endurance athletes who are competing in a physically demanding event for at least 1-1/2 hours without a break, says Mary Helen Gunkler, registered dietitian and staffnutritionist for Total cereal.

Carbo-loading involves increasing the percentage of carbohydrates in the diet in order to build up more energy reserves in the muscles and liver. Current carboloading recommendations for endurance athletes call for increasing complex carbohydrates to 60 to 70 percent of calories and reducing the exercise level for two to three days before an endurance event.

Although carbe-loading is not necessary or recommended for people other than endurance athletes, complex carbohydrates are still a vitally important part of the diet. In the average American diet, about 47 percent of calories come from carbohydrates. Health experts agree that carbohydrates should make up 50 to 60 percent of daily calories, with no more than 15 percent coming from simple carbohydrates (sugars).

Healthy people with an average, or even high, activity level should be able to fulfill their need for complex carbohydrates by following the recommendations of the Dietary Guidelines for Americans. Here are some good sources of complex carbohydrates: · Legumes, such as dried peas, beans and lentils.

· Whole-grain pastas and rice.

New Texas Law Changes Vehicle Registration

In September, the simple matter of registering a motor vehicle in Texas will become a little more complicated.

The change is a result of insurance reform enacted by the 72nd Legislature.

Beginning Sept. 1, the owner of a motor vehicle must submit current proof of financial responsibility with an application for initial registration, renewal of registration or transfer of registration. Also for the first time, Texans will have to show proof of insurance to receive or renew their driver's licenses and vehicle inspection stickers.

"Many states have found that tying these responsibilities to proof of insurance increases compliance with mandatory liability law", said

cession complete with a band and many statues. Even children in baby carriages were part of the procession. We followed them down to the church, then afterwards we drove on to find Liechtenstein; at least we were trying to find a particular store in Liechtenstein. We had stopped in this store on our last trip to that country to buy souvenirs. As we approached the border, the police requested that we turn around and go into Liechtenstein by another road due to a severe traffic accident that was blocking the road. We drove back the way we came a few miles and found a small road that took us from Austria into Switzerland and then into Liechtenstein. We then found the castle in which the Prince resides. It was not open to the public so we were satisfied, with photographs. Liechtenstein is a very small country, with less than 500 acres. We spent the next two hours searching for the store. Just before we gave up hope, we decided to try one more time. We drove on the road to Austria that led directly east. Just as we approached the border, into 22,000 lira. This may seem we found the store that we were wonderful until you buy some- looking for. As we neared, we nothing. We arrived at the tell you why finding the store was so important, but we did a lot of Innsbruck. Most of the drive was Christmas shopping for our relathrough mountain valleys. The tives there. After spending a large amount of money, we loaded our purchases in the car and headed for Fussen, Germany, where we would spend the night. As we approached Fussen, we could see one of King Ludwig's castles, the one Walt Disney had modeled Disneyland after, in the fading twilight. After breakfast we checked out of our small inn, we headed south going back into Austria, to see a small castle that was used as a hunting lodge by King Ludwig.After we finished seeing the castle, we took a narrow road through the mountains back to Fussen. In the middle of the forest, we saw some of the prettiest fall colors that we had seen anywhere. We could see snow on the tops of the mountains surrounding the road. In Fussen, we first went to Neuschwanstein. It was a very popular tourist attraction and we had to wait in line for over half of an hour just to get in. It was called the Knight's Castle. The expense of building this castle and the one at Herrenchiemsee caused Parliament to declare King Ludwig insane and remove him from the throne. A small part of both castles were left unfinished. The interior was very ornate with novel use of mirrors to make the rooms seem even bigger

EDITOR'S NOTE: Last week we printed the first part of an account of David and Margaret Karthauser's trip to Germany and Austria with their daughter, Martha. This is the conclusion of that story. We pick up the story with them taking a 'Sound of Music Tour" at Salzburg.

Martha had visited in Salzburg in 1987 and had taken the "Sound of Music" Tour so she provided us a tour of the filming locations of the movie, including the Nonnberg Abbey and cemetery, and the fountains and gardens where the children sang. We even saw the glass house where Liesl and Rolf sang "16 Going on 17" and Maria and the Baron sang "Something Good". It was strange to find out that the front and back of the Baron's house was actually two different castles and neither was the von Trapp family home. While we were in the neighborhood we toured the Hellbrunn Palace which was completed in 1619 at the command of Prince - Archbishop Markus Sittikus. He must have been another "mad Austrian" ruler since he designed trick water fountains throughout his gardens. He even had a cement dining table which had water jets in the seats plus water fountains surrounding his visitors seats. Since he was the Prince, no one could leave their seat until he did. However, he would remain sitting staying dry as a bone until all of his visitors were royally soaked.

jets and fountains to us, so that we ended up quite damp. The garden was full of interesting tricks and treats including a mechanical toy theater and organ which was run by water. The streams in the gardens were fed by many springs and in the streams were hundreds of rainbow trout. After a thoroughly enjoyable day, we returned to our hotel to prepare for evening and the following day. We rose the next day to bright sunshine. This was the day we planned to drive through the Alps over the famous Gross Glockner Road. Our plan was to drive through the Alps leaving Austria, cutting through a corner of Italy and then return to Austria to spend the night near Innsbruck. As we drove south the green grass in the fields seemed even brighter under the clear blue sky. In about an hour, we stopped at a toll booth along the way to pay the $25 toll. Through the Alps we paid several tolls but this was by far the most expensive. The small two lane road started rising gently as we left the toll booth. The winding road soon gave way to sharp hairpin turns and steep roads. The hairpin turns were numbered and each of them gave the elevation above sea level in meters. A meter is approximately three feet. With each turn we found that we had climbed 3-6 hundred feet. I think that if a turnaround had appeared the driver might have been tempted to turn around and return to the flat lands. The sight seers, however, were busy oohing and aahing over the breathtaking scenery. With each turn the snow capped mountains came closer. The bright green grass continued up the hills to the snow line, making a very distinct division line. Some of the driver's apprehension was alleviated by noticing bicycle rider's pedaling their bicycles up the mountains almost as fast as the car was going. At the top of the mountain a rest stop, complete with a gift shop and restaurant, sat in the fresh snow: We believe that the rain we saw driving from Munich to Salzburg formed the fresh snow that we were now seeing.

We stopped the car and walked in the new snow. We purchased some gifts. We then decided that the disposable camera that we had purchased before we left should be used to capture the scenery. This camera uses three frames of a 35mm film to take one wide angle picture. A roll of 36 exposure film yields 12 magnificent scenic views. The quality of these pictures was so good that we plan to take at least one roll wherever we go.

Driving down the mountain was as exciting as driving up. Soon we found ourselves at the Italian border. We could detect little difference between the houses, people, and the scenery on either side of the border. The main differences were the lan-

From the clean, neat little towns on the valley floor to the little villages high up on the hills, reminded us of a movie. We drove through Innsbruck and got off the autobahn. We had decided to spend the night in one of the small farming communities that were about a mile apart along the valley floor. In the second town, we saw a sign advertising a "zimmer frie" (room for rent or the equivalent to a bed and breakfast sign). We found a beautiful three story home with flower bedecked porches. The rooms were very comfortable as well as being neat and clean as we had grown accustomed to having. We did not quite understand the owner when she told us about the events that would be occurring the next day. It would be Sunday and Erntedankfest in Austria. She said something like "everyone in town will walk by my house tomorrow". As we awoke to get ready for our breakfast and church, we quickly saw what she meant.

than they were. On an upper floor of Neuschwanstein, there was a complete music hall. It was built so the King could hear his great friend, Wagner, perform. as King Ludwig did not like a lot of servants around, one of the features of this castle as well as some of his other ones was an invention that raised and lowered the dining table to the floor below. The kitchens were at the lower level and the table could be loaded and unloaded as needed. Most of the pictures of Neuschwanstein make it appear as if it is on the top of the mountain, when in reality it sits at the top of a small knoll at the base of the Alps.

The older castle, Hohenschwangau was bought by King Ludwig's father and it lay within a few hundred yards from the spot he built Neuschwanstein. While King Ludwig was remodeling the older castle, he had a new ceiling built in his bedroom. In between the two ceilings, gas lights were installed and holes were drilled. in this false ceiling. From the King's bed at night, the gas lights appeared as twinkling stars. It was a large expense just to pretend you were really sleeping under the stars.

This had been a long day. We had driven from Germany, through a part of Austria, back into Germany, and toured five castles. We left Fussen about 4:30 and headed north. If we hadn't already checked out of our inn that morning, we would have probably spent the night there. We drove until around 6 o'clock and spent the night in a small inn less than 100 miles from Fussen. We were just far enough away that we couldn't see the Bavarian Alps. After dinner, David walked out to the car to get something from it and looked across the street and saw a barn complete with about 40 cows, bedding down after the evening milking. This was very typical of the towns we drove through with the houses and barns surrounding the church. The town big enough to have an inn was no exception.

While we were eating dinner a large number of the local men were in the restaurant drinking their evening beer. As we had driven through town we had wondered why we had only seen women leading Hitler's method of exterminating have made during the last two trips political Prisoners and communism's suppression of people were a great contrast on this trip. The country that has to build walls around their borders to keep the people in as well as other people out, should not be tolerated. The 45 years of human destruction in East Germany is only exceeded by the massive slaughter in the Concentration Camps like Dachau. I feel our freedom as Americans has been grossly eroded in the last 40 years. The loss of prayer in schools means more than that. Criminals should be taken off the streets permanently. The number of freedoms we have lost in the name of freedom or equality have really been lost. It is necessary for us to believe in something but we are making laws to prevent us from being religious as our founding fathers intended for us to be. Our freedom of

All of them seem more like friends than keeper of the records: I think we could spend two weeks just visiting and not have any time to do any research. With each trip, we find more interesting things to see and do. We would like to go back to many of the places we have visited and spend more time. The Hercules in Kassel, the Gross Glockner road are high on the list of things we'd really want to do again. Not that Margaret and Martha really need any extra reasons to return but they did get cheated

Talk About A Fish Story!

Terry McIver brought this picture of his sons and and their fish to the office this week with the story that the really big one broke the line and got away as they were trying to land it! Reece, at the left is showing off a 50 lb. catfish while Grady Clay's weighs 22 lbs. During the summer the young men and their dad have caught others weighing 34 lbs., 37 lbs., and 40 lbs. while using bank hooks on Home Creek on the Roy Simmons Ranch and it seems his story of the big one that got away is for real. the cows into the barns for the evening. Seeing most of the drinkers seemed to be farmers, we think we found the answer to our earlier question.

The next morning, we drove to Heidelberg. On the top of one of the hills overlooking the river were the ruins of a very large fortified castle. The view of the river, the valley and the town below was breathtaking. From the fort the guns could defend from all directions, even blocking river traffic. On the four corners of the old fort, were four large turrets. These turrets were filled with gun powder by the French and detonated. This seemingly indestructible fort still lies in ruins after the French destroyed the main part of the defense. As we finished touring the castle, we found out that a large part of it was being closed that day for repairs. It will be three years before this part of the reconstruction will be completed.

We left the town of Heidelberg and drove the last few miles to Frankfurt. Our vacation was coming to an end. We stayed that evening at the Columbus Hotel near the airport. We had stayed here during our last trip. At dinner time, we all ordered Liverwurst soup, that had been so good on our previous visit. We were all very disappointed to learn that they were out of our favorite soup.

Germany had gone from Daylight Savings time to standard time the week before and we thought that our plane would be leaving at 11 instead of the usual 10 o'clock. We should have subtracted an hour instead of adding because the plane left at 9 a.m. In addition to the confusion about the time, and the construction in the area, we also thought we were to be at terminal 2 instead of 12. We almost convinced ourselves that we would be better off waiting a day to catch the plane. As luck would have it we were able to get through security, and get on the plane, much to Margaret and

Martha's disappointment, there wasn't any time to shop in the airport shops. Now they still have a handful of German marks that they will just have to go back and spend. As the plane took off heading back toward DFW, we thought back to the almost three weeks we had spent touring Germany and some surrounding countries. Other than

As warmer weather approaches, activities at South Padre Island abound, with sailboat regattas, catamaran races, boardsailing competitions, and numerous other beach activities. Sparkling blue-green waters and miles Santa Anna Friday. of sun drenched beaches have made Texas' southernmost beach resort one of the most popular in the country. The Island is located at the very bottom of the Texas coast and is accessible by State Highway 100 via Port Isabel. Texas Department of Commerce Photo by Richard Reynolds.

Whon News By Mrs. Tom Rutherford Over two weeks ago I was in

Santa Anna and failed to report before this time. I visited with Mrs. Linnic Bartlett and no need to say I really enjoyed being with Linnie for a while and talking over past years when we did each other more regular. Seems when I retired from my daily duties, I do not see dear friends like I would love too. I am sorry I failed to mention my visit with her.

Mr. Billie Lovelady visited with her sister Mrs. Elva McDaniel in Brownwood on Saturday. We are very glad to report Mrs. McDaniel has been able to be dismissed from the hospital. But not feeling as well as she would like to.

Mr. and Mrs. Loren Castleman of Foresan visited on Friday with Mr. and Mrs. Bob Watts. These were friends who had not seen each other since the 80's. Mr. Watts came in contact with them around Brownwood. They drove out and enjoyed a nice visit together.

Mr. Floyd Morris was in Coleman on Wednesday visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Elmo and Beulah Hudson.

Mrs. Jeanette Turner of Coleman visited on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Lovelady.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Morris were to the Veteran's hospital on Monday of last week for Mr. Morris to have a checkup with the doctor. Enroute home they stopped in Mason to visit with Mr. Morris' cousin, Dovie Morris. Then on to Brady for a visit with His brother, Clarence Morris and with a sisterin-law, Nina Morris. 🕔

Craig and Marcia Maruner and ferry of Grosvernor visited with Mr. and Mrs. Bob Watts on Friday. Juanita Minica of Santa Anna and her son, Jerry of Midland, who is visiting with his mother, have visited during the week with Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Lovelady.

Mr. Janie Morris visited with Pearl Avant and Laura Carpenter in

Sybil Summers and Velma Vinson were visited by Bessie Parish, Gladys Day, Jo & Ethelyne Vinson, Vernon Rowe, Gladys Baird, Jack & Gevene Rowe, Ola Thomas, Jack & Synthia Henson. Pat DeWitt was visited by Etta Farle Buse, Ola Thomas, Buna Baucom, Lera Guthrie, Cladys

Douglas Avant of Brady visited with his mother, Pearl Avant in Santa Anna on Saturday.

My daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Rick Wheeler, and their daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gartman and Little daughter, Rebecha of LaGrange were with me in and out from Thursday night to Sunday afternoon. Loyd Rutherford was with us Saturday. Ora Rutherford of Bangs visited with me Thursday afternoon. I have been asked about Mr.

Graham Fitzpatrick. For several weeks there has been no news from him. I have been unable to get him by telephone and I do not see him pass the house very often. But I am sure he is doing well and is home sometime or I would hear.

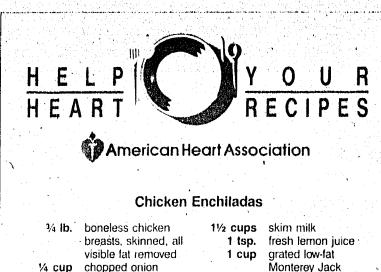

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Bob and Patsy Smith of Near Abilene was the scene of a pretty wedding Saturday, august 24, 6 p.m., when their daughter, Deborah and Rick Koch were united in marriage by the pastor of the Wylie Baptist Church. Two of Rick's sisters and husbands flew down for the wedding, one from Minnesota and the other from Nebraska. A large crowd attended and the New Mr. and Mrs. Koch left Sunday or Monday for their home in St. Paul Minnesota. Attending the wedding from my family were Mr, and Mrs. Hilary Rutherford of Coleman, Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Boatright, Denea and Paige of Brownwood, Loyd Rutherford and Todd, Myself, Mr. and Mrs. Rick Wheeler and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gartman all of LaGrange, Bob Smith's mother of Bryson, and a brother and his wife from Fort Worth. Also Deborah's brother, Berry Smith of San Angelo.

M. and Mrs. Rick Wheeler and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gartman were with Mr. and Mrs. Smith on Friday and Saturday in Abilene assisting in getting everything in order for the big occasion. It certainly was very nice and we all wish the couple a long, happy life together.

LIVING CENTER RESIDENTS Vauda Hill was visited by the Rev. & Mrs. Don Elrod. Modora Gilmore was visited by Sybil Martin, Louise Taylor and Buna Baucom.

Red Cupps was visited by Joe Wallace and Leon Phillips. Preston Cude was vsited by Cleo Cude.

Preheat oven to 350° F. Rinse chicken and pat dry. Poach or steam chicken breasts 5 to 6 minutes, or until white throughout. Cool under running water and dice into 1/4 inch cubes. Place in a small bowl and mix with onion, garlic, chili powder and curnin.

In a small saucepan over medium heat, melt margarine and add flour. Cook 1 to 2 minutes, stirring frequently. Whisk in skim milk, stirring constantly. Bring mixture to a boil and reduce heat. Stir in pepper, lemon juice and half of cheese. Reserve remainder of cheese.

In a non-stick pan over medium heat or in a microwave oven, briefly heat each tortilla on each side until soft. Place tortillas on flat surface and add 1 to 2 tablespoons of chicken and 1 tablespoon of reserved cheese. Roll and place seam side down in a 9×13×2-inch baking dish. Repeat for each tortilla. Pour sauce over enchiladas and top with chili peppers. Bake 20 to 25 minutes.

* Select margarines that have no more than 2 gms. of saturated fat per tablespoon.
