Set A Goal

I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus. Philippians 3:14.

I hope that 1993 was a good year for you but I know that some of you will have had hard trials yet we know that as we overcome we will grow stronger. We can not relive 1993 but we can look forward to victories in 1994. In order to have these victories we must have a goal to shoot for. We must strive for results and to have results we must know what we

There is a story about a young Indian lad that was learning to shoot a bow and arrow. One day he asked his dad to watch him shoot his bow and arrow. As his dad watched he took an arrow and put it in his bow. He pulled it back as far as he could, pointed it up in the air and let it go. The arrow went high in the air, leveled off and fell harmlessly to the earth. His dad clapped and praised him for what he had done. Then dad asked the son, "What were you aiming at?"

ACTIVITY WITHOUT RESULTS IS OF LITTLE OR NO VALUE. Let us set a mark or a goal for 1994 and begin to aim for it. There is so much that needs to be done and many times we feel so helpless to do anything about it. We can try. We can look at a building and marvel at the size of it but it was built one brick or rock or nail at a time. So each of us can do a little and a bunch of littles make a lot. Let's make 1994 not only a year of setting goals but a year of getting results. We can do this by turning to God more and more. He will give us the spiritual strength to be overcomers.

Greatest Need or Concern: My greatest concern for Santa Anna Independent School District at this time is our students. I believe that Santa Anna schools are some of the best schools in the area and our teachers and administrators are some of the best that can be found anywhere. However, there is always room for improvement. I would like to see our school "beef up" its curriculum. I have been concerned for some time about the percentage Committee met Monday night with of students in our schools that do the Chamber of Commerce to give not pass at the end of the six weeks the group an update of the progress reporting periods, as well as those of the committee in getting fully who do not master the state-mandated TAAS test.

There are many wonderful programs that can be included in the regard to one day establishing a curriculum that are proven to increase student retention, which, in turn, will help our children become Comanche tribe and other meetings niques, and have seen dramatic results in many instances. If elected, I would bring my own experiences The HDC recapped the recent in the classroom to the boardroom. "Mainstreet Program" meeting held I would propose that the district mentioned again the $5000 gifts ing practices of its faculty, weeding the feature movie "The Firm" with lieve that this should be done con-According to Rod Musick, sistently throughout the district. Director of Special Events for the My own experiences have shown Historical Development me that if a school is consistent in Committee, the group is interested all aspects of a child's education, in talking with people who might that child will fare better in all areas

Another concern that I have about owners might want to fix an empty our district is the lack of technolbuilding up and then donate for a ogy being made available to our tax write-off, others might rather students, especially at the elemendonate a building as is. Either could tary and junior high levels. Every be used as an incentive for some child in our school system should be exposed daily to some type of Musick once again emphasized computer technology. "It's going to take everyone every kind of business from fast here working together to make a go food restaurants to banking. of building a future for Santa Technology is here to stay so we must make certain that our children become as computer literate as possible while they are in school. I propose that we appropriate as much money as possible to be used for increasing the number of computers and other technological equipment in our schools, as well as upgrading what we already have where possible in order to better serve our students.

If we can address the concerns that I have mentioned above, I believe that we will be on the right path to making Santa Anna schools everything our students need them to be in order to be successful. After all, aren't' the real reason for our school--our children?

> Spreading the word about the good work of Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children are actor Wilford Brimley and baseball legend Ted Williams. Brimley is in Tom Cruise and has many movie and television credits. Williams played for the Boston Red Sox in the 1940s and 1950s and is a member of the Baseball Hall of Fame.

Williams' script for the PSA contains an interesting bit of personal information. After telling the audience about the free, expert care available at Shriners Hospitals, Williams adds, "How do I know? When my son John Henry was 16, he was a patient at a Shriners Burns Institute."

The 30-second television and radio public service spots were sent in May to public service directors at every radio and TV station in the U.S. and Canada. Since their debut, there's been an increase in calls to the Shrine's national tollfree patient referral hotline.

Program Set For Wed. January 19

An award program will be held Wednesday, Jan. 19, for Santa Anna Elementary students participating in the statewide Bluebonnet reading activity. The awards program will begin at 1:45 p.m. in the school

All parents, grandparents and friends are encouraged to attend.

The Bluebonnet Reading Program is an incentive program developed by the Texas Library Association to encourage children to read.

Students participating in the program receive awards for the number of books they read.

They also have an opportunity to vote on their favorite book. Books for the program are submitted by an evaluation committee of educators from across the state.

The winning author is honored at a banquet. School children who have participated in the program are selected by a committee to present the award to the winning author at the banquet.

NEWS By Jack Maguire Davis in West Texas. Although WILL THE YEAR 2069 BEING DOOMSDAY TO Toutatis was discovered in 1934 by a French astronomer, it was not THE EARTH?

Last December, few Earthlings were aware that two chunks each two miles in width came within 2.2 million miles of forever spoiling Christmas for Texas and everybody on this globe. Astronomers are breathing easier now that Toutatis, the name of these twin asteriods, missed a collision with Earth that would have made the largest atomic bomb look like a firecracker.

The University Of Texas System

Their concern---no, their certainty---is that this creation of outer space is coming back. However, they say it will be the year 2004 before it will come close to Earth again. But then, it will miss this planet by only one million miles, a tiny footstep in space.

Astronomers say there will be two other close encounters with the Earth in 2008 and 2012 but will not come close again until 2069. And then what?

"We can't say with any certainty where this thing will be after the year 2069," said Dr. Art Whipple of the Department of Astronomy at the University of Texas at Austin.

Of the 20,000 plus asteriods cavorting about in space, Toutatis is the mayerick. Instead of orbiting Mars and Jupiter as most of its counterparts do, this one has been kicked into an elliptical orbit by the gravitational force of Jupiter. Toutatis swings outward toward Jupiter once every four years, then loops inside the Earth's orbit two years later.

These gyrations bring it into the gravitational tugs of Mars and Venus, making it difficult for astronomers to predict exactly where the asteroid will be the next time it comes around.

Dr. Peter Shelus who, with Dr. chaotic orbit, says:

80 years, it will not hit the Earth. But after that, all bets are off."

We can see that during the next

The two observe the asteroids motion from the University's McDonald Observatory near Fort considered important until 1989 when it headed toward Earth. Now it is being carefully watched by astronomers from all over the world.

Asteroids actually are small planets between Mars and Jupiter. They range from a fraction of a mile to as much as 500 miles in diameter. A collision with the Earth of an asteroid as small as Toutatis could devastate the planet.

Even small particles from space like meteors could destroy a wide area. A few have struck the earth, including Texas. More than 20,000 years ago, a small meteor fell near what is now the West Texas city of Odessa, shattering the limestone bedrock and digging a crater some 500 feet in diameter. Today the crater is a tourist attraction.

Toutatis got its unusual name from a Gaulish god who is a character in a popular French comic strip called "Asterix." In the cartoon, the mortal acquaintances of Toutatis worry constantly that someday the sky will fall.

Whipple and Shelus don't think this will happen soon and suggest that everyone relax and watch the antics of Toutatis from afar. When the asteriod makes one of its close quietly in a circular pattern between approaches to Earth, it can be seen with an ordinary telescope.

> FRESH APPROACH----When fire blackened 5,000 acres of mountain side and range land in a West Texas park recently, officials in both the Texas Parks and Wildlife and Department and the University of Texas at El Paso were very pleased.

They saw the ravaged portions of Franklin Mountain State Park, at the city's edge, as an opportunity for unique scientific observation during the 30 years it may take the Whipple, authored a paper on the range land to recover. Under an agreement between the Parks Department and UT El Paso, the area will become a research area.

The burned acreage will become an open-air laboratory for the study of the effect of fire on desert wildlife. It will benefit research and

CAMP FOR "EXPLORERS"---Their camp is called UTKIDS and it offers no medals for the best swimmer or for excelling in other activities common to summer campers.

Sponsored by the University of Texas at Austin, it brings 38 advanced fifth and sixth grader students to the campus for ten days of entertaining, but educational, classes called "exploratories."

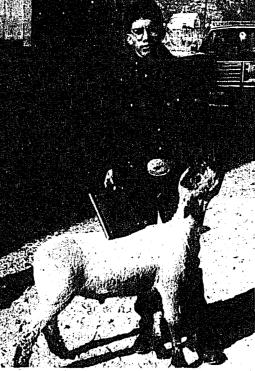

Students spend half days for two consecutive weeks focusing on career opportunities and study areas they might not be exposed to in middle school classes. This year they're "exploring" everything from "A Day in the Life of a UT Student" to Petroleum and Talented.

Those whose families can afford it pay the $340 tuition. Others come on scholarships from the Texas Association for Gifts and Talented.

Now it its fourth year, the program is so successful that its coordinators have started a new one. Called UTTEENS, it's for seventh and eighth grade students.
