Open Letter To The Citizens Of Santa Anna

It is only one week until our annual Homecoming and it is time to clean-up! We will be welcoming ex-students home to Santa Anna and our little town needs some shaping up.

For the next week we are encouraging the citizens to take a minute and look at your homes and property to see if you need to clean-up.

The town of Santa Anna has ordinances, that will eventually be enforced prohibiting trashing of your properties. But for the next month we are encouraging citizens to take some time and bring some pride to our homes.

We will try for one month to develop some pride in our town through cooperation and commitment. At the end of that time, we will begin issuing fines, that can amount to $200.00 per day. Please don't make this necessary!! We want to see Santa Anna cleaned up because you care about the community.

Flu Shots Available At Mountain City Community Center October 12

Flu shots will be offered through the Santa Anna Medical Clinic from 9:30 a.m. to 12 noon on Wednesday, October 12 at the Mountain City Community Center (High-Rise).

Cost of the shots will be $5 each.

All ages are welcome and encouraged to come by and get a flu shot.

The Texas Department of Health is again warning everyone who may be at increased risk of complications of influenza to be immunized for the flu season.

The U. S. Center for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) each year predicts which strains of influenza pose the greatest public health danger. The vaccine CDC has recommended for the 1994-95 season is designed to combat the A/Shangdong, B/Panama and A/Texas (first isolated in Houston in 1991) strains of the disease.

Flu vaccine are subject to yearly change, and the effectiveness of the shots declines with time. Therefore annual immunizations with the recommended vaccines are necessary for people most at risk.

People most at risk of severe or fatal complications of the disease include those 65 or older, anyone with chronic respiratory or heart problems and children weakened by disease.

"Yearly, usually between December and April, influenza kills about 20,000 in the U. S., most of them in high-risk categories," Robert D. Crider, Jr., director of TDH's Immunization Division, said. Crider said the elderly are among the hardest hit by influenza and its complications.

"Fewer than 30 percent of Americans in high-risk groups heed our annual warnings to seek influenza vaccinations," he added. "We know that one reason some older people fail to be vaccinated is because of an unfounded fear that the vaccine can actually cause influenza. The truth is that a vaccinated person may still contract some strain of influenza, but not from the vaccine. If they do become ill, the vaccine usually helps lessen the severity of the case."

Categories of people who are most likely to develop influenza complications are:

Library Notes

Check It Out

The InterLibrary Loan books arrived. A few that I found interesting are these:

Moon Lore T. Harley. The first written references to the moons surface seem to be from Democritus. He lived before Christ and refers to diversities and inequalities in the surface. In 1609 Galileo turned his telescope on the moon and found that surface. In recent years man has walked on the surface. Still we know little and speculate much.

Among Those Present was written by Nancy Dickerson. It tells about her 25 years in Washington, D. C. There are tales of four presidents and the political life of the city. She also shares her personal life as a single, married and as a parent.

Love and War in the Apennines Eric Newby was an English military officer. He was captured and sent to a prison camp in Czechoslovakia in 1944. He escaped and was hidden by Italian peasants at the risk of their own lives. There he met his future wife, Newby kept a kind of dairy and decided that after all these years the ordinary Italian people should be recognized.

Stranger in Hoganville Van Zant and The Man of the Forest by Zane Grey are westerns. In true Grey fashion a good man who lives alone in the high forest gives up his freedom to protect a young lady in trouble.

The library has calls for books on collecting. We have few, so if you need to clear out anything from collecting tools to China figures, bring them to the library.

TV has been advertising the sequel to Gone with the Wind. The library has Scarlett if you would like to find out what the author said rather than the TV version.

If you want to know what women were really like during the Civil War read Women of the South in War Times. This book

Emergency Numbers For City Utility Problems

To report a city utility emergency call City Hall at 348-3403 24 hours a day.

The city crew member on call may also be reached by calling the mobile phone 348-7950.

October 9 Last Day To Register To Vote In General Election

October 9 will be the last day to register in person to vote in the November 8, 1994 General Election.

It is also the last day a voter who has moved to a different election precinct within the county may submit a transfer of registration to be eligible to vote in the precinct of their new residence.

October 11 is the last day a voter registration application by mail may be accepted.

was written in 1920 at the suggestion of a Northern man who descended from two presidents. The author and he felt that this might help people of the North understand the sufferings of the South and heal wounds of Southerners. The book was given to the library by the Sane Davis Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy. The library must have sold the book and Mrs. Robert See gave it back.

The 32 stories are based on diaries of the women or interviews. There is a chapter devoted to women of the Lone Star State. This will give you a very clear picture of life in the Civil War as women lived it.

The library is thinking of having another book sale during homecoming. We have plenty of books but will need help. If you would like to volunteer, call the library or me.

About Your Health

By Bud Isbell, P.A.

The Texas Quadrad (All in Fun Folks)

There exist a most curious syndrome found almost uniformly only in Texans.

This syndrome consist of four separate delusions. These delusions are: 1) That if a long hole is punched into the ground and a person croons softly "Earl," "Earl" into the hole; "Earl" will appear. 2) That "Earl" is a viscous fluid with monetary worth in world markets. 3) That an obscure football team called "Cowboys" will someday equal the record of the Pittsburgh Steelers. 4) That upon death, the good Texan rather than going to heaven, goes to Dallas.

As can be seen from the above delusions, this disorder is severe and life long. No cure is anticipated and extensive counseling has no effect whatsoever in dispelling these delusions. (The author has personal knowledge of a Texan with this disorder who actually moved to Arkansas. This is an excellent demonstration of how this delusion can manifest even more severe symptoms for as everyone, Arkansas is a land just south of Hell and is supposedly populated by the dreaded billary boogiemer.

Since the vast majority of Texans share this syndrome, no effort should be made to disabuse them of their delusions.

It should be noted that Texans, despite these delusions, manifest many redeeming qualities among which are: the destruction with multiple lead pellets of small, fasting flying birds every fall, a love of horses, and the knowledge that Oklahoma is the land of those who will never be equal to a Texan.

Betty Roath of Brownwood was pianist for the ceremony playing traditional selections and accompanied by Orabeth McIver and Eddie Jones as they sang "Let It Be Me" during the prelude and at the close of the ceremony as Mr. Jones sang "The Lord's Prayer."

A brass archway at the altar was decorated with grape leaf ivy, clusters of coral Indian paint brush and hunter green ribbon bows. Matching cathedral candelabras, were entwined with grape leaf ivy and hunter green ribbon. Votive candles decorated the aisle to the altar.

and brass candelabras and garlands of ivy decorated the window sills of the sanctuary.

Brass candle holders belonging to the bride's mother and paternal grandmother held the unity candles that were lighted as part of the ceremony.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father. Her gown was of ivory satin and designed with a sweetheart neckline edged in Alencon lace re-embroidered with seed pearls and crystal sequins, extending to the fitted waist. Leg-of-mutton sleeves had lace inserts with pearl and sequin trim, and lace edged the hem of the shirred skirt. Her chapel-length train had matching lace inserts and was accented by satin bows down the back. Her elbow length veil of silk illusion was attached to a satin bow bandeau. Her jewelry was a pearl necklace belonging to her mother.

The bride carried a cascade bouquet of white roses, gardenias and stephanotis with accents of coral and hunter green. The traditional something old, new, borrowed and blue were used, along with a penny in her shoe.

Sally McIver, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and Kallie McIver, sister-in-law, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were a cousin, Tami Knight, and Sandi Watson and Adel DeLeon.

The attendants wore tea-length dresses of coral crepe with embroidered spiral trim, adorned with pearl and gold buttons. Their jewelry was gold and pearl earrings, a gift from the bride. They carried long-stemmed clusters of coral Indian paint brush and baby's breath tied in coral and hunter green ribbon.

Dan Benton and Billy Perry were best men. Groomsmen were David Knight, and Reece and Grady Clay McIver, brothers of the bride.

Ushers were Donnie Perry, Ricky Enriquez, brother-in-law of the groom, and Jorge Wert Sellers, cousin of the bride. The men in the wedding party wore black tuxedos with white shirts.

Ms. McIver chose a tea-length black shirt and multi-color beaded and sequined jacket for her daughter's wedding. The mother of the groom was attired in a hunter green two-piece dress trimmed in gold braid.

Darla Enriquez, sister of the groom, and Ruby Sellers, cousin of the bride, were at the guest book and distributed wedding programs.

RECEPTION

A reception at the Christian Life Center was hosted by the bride's parents. The bride's L-shaped table was covered with a floor-length beige shirred cloth. Four cakes of graduated size were baked and decorated by Kallie McIver. They were on stands of varied height, decorated with white flowers and greenery. Votive candles in matching acrylic holders were on either side of the cakes. Tall flower stands also held white flowers and greenery. Punch was served from a crystal bowl. Other refreshments included an assortment of fresh fruit arranged in a tree design, and trays of meat, cheese, vegetables and dips.

An ivory lace cloth over hunter green covered the groom's table. Pewter and brass candle sticks and matching brandy sniffers holding coral marbles and floating candles

Each member gave a short talk on the goodness of God.
The group discussed the dates and activities of the anniversaries for this month. Anniversaries for the month are the Rev. L. C. and Vivian Smith and Rev. and Mrs. James Anderson.

Next month's meeting will be held in Santa Anna in the Byrd home on the first Sunday in November.

Fires Come in Threes After Quiet Spell

After a fairly quiet spell the Santa Anna Volunteer Fire Department has responded to three fires in the past few days.

Two were grass fires. One on Saturday on the Plainview Road which was quickly doused and another Sunday on the Shields Ranch which took about four hours to contain, working with Coleman Fire Department.

Grass fires are an ever present danger with conditions as dry as they are, so as usual, caution is advised.

Late Tuesday evening there was a mattress on fire at a residence in the southwest part of the city, which according to one report, may have been the result of children playing with matches.

Police Chief Says Beware Of Sob Story Teller

Police Chief Carlos Torres called Tuesday night to ask us to relate a message of caution to residents of the city, especially to older ladies living alone.

Seems there is a black male knocking on doors asking for financial assistance and some have responded by giving the man money.

According to Torres, the man tells a "sob story" about a sick daughter in a Fort Worth hospital and his need for finances to get to be with her.

Torres says this man is a known convicted felon and if you are approached, take caution and call the law officials immediately. Only by contacting the law about such incidences can a case be made against the man.

HDC Makes Presentations At Comanche Nation Fair

Rod Musick, director of the Santa Anna Historical Development Committee and Montie Guthrie coordinator for the Chamber of Commerce Indian Affairs, were in Lawton, Oklahoma over the weekend to represent Santa Anna at the Comanche Nation annual fair.

While visiting with Comanche Tribal leaders, Musick and Guthrie held a presentation ceremony, making the three honorary citizens of Santa Anna. The men so honored were Tribal Chairman Wallace Coffey, Education Director Ozzie Red Elk and Johnny Wauqua, Adult Vocational Coordinator for the Comanche Nation. They were also presented with t-shirts engraved with pictures of our "Santana Rock."

During the presentations, Coffey remarked that Santa Anna was in the forefront of helping the Comanches to reestablish ties in Texas.

Also visiting the fair was Linda Pelon of Dallas, writer of a paper about Chief Santana, and a person who has been very instrumental in helping to establish of the Santa Anna and Comanche friendship connection.

Flu Continued

*Adults and children with chronic heart or lung disorders, including children with asthma;

*People under medical care for chronic metabolic diseases, kidney or blood problems or weakened immune system; and *Children (18 and younger) who already are receiving long-term aspirin therapy, which can place them at risk of developing Reye syndrome after influenza.

"We strongly recommend influenza vaccinations for all people in high-risk groups, especially if they are international travelers or if they are pregnant," Crider advised. "People infected with the human immunodeficiency virus (the virus which causes AIDS) also may be at increased risk for flu complications."

In addition, CDC recommends that physicians, nurses and other health professionals be immunized against influenza to avoid spreading the disease to their patients. Residents and employees of nursing homes and other facilities treating chronically ill patients also be immunized.

"We advise physicians to offer vaccine to their patients during routine clinic visits, beginning in September and throughout the influenza season," he said. "Children younger than nine who have never received these influenza vaccines will need a first shot, followed a month later by a booster. Adults, however, will need only one shot in a season, since CDC has found no added benefit in a second shot for adults in a single season."

Crider explained that all unimmunized residents of chronic-care facilities, such as nursing homes, should be immunized during October and November.

Since immunity by the vaccine may not be complete for a few weeks following vaccination, waiting until flu cases occur in the community can be tragic mistake. He added that high-risk persons who are hospitalized any time from now through March and members of their households are encouraged to be vaccinated.

How to Stop the Flu Before it Stops You

The Santa Anna Medical Clinic is making it easy for you to stop the flu this year by offering flu shots with no appointment necessary Tuesdays and Fridays during October.

McPherson Is Second-Time Winner In Frenzy

School Superintendent Jim McPherson is a second-time winner in the Santa Anna News Football Frenzy contest, edging out football player Tom Guthrie in the tiebreaker. McPherson picked 79 points to be scored in the Panther Creek-May game, while Guthrie picked 100. Total points in the game were 76.

McPherson and Guthrie, both picked 15 games correctly in the contest and both identified the former Mountaineer, Phill Huggins. Huggins, who graduated Santa Anna High School in 1968, is currently a resident of Coleman and is an official at Stempel Manufacturing.

McPherson will receive $15 for his contest winnings plus the $5 bonus for identifying the former Santa Anna Mountaineer.

Rob Cheaney, Jean Findley, Jamie Elerbe, Jim See, Frances Malone, and Janice Fellers, were all close with 14 correct guesses on the games.

Most people who tried to identify the former Mountaineer had little trouble identifying Huggins. There was one, however, who thought it might be David Yancy and another guessed Bill Martin. Better luck next time!

Fishing Lake Ivie

By Durwood Strickland
Gotta tell it like it is. Fishing has not been real good the past couple of weeks.

The bite has been slow on bass. Had a couple of fellows from California out on the lake over the weekend. They caught quite a few bass, but nothing of any size to speak of.

Those fronts that moved in last week just kind of slowed everything down. However some deep catches have been recorded.

In talking to other guides around, seems the same is true on all other lakes in the area.

If you don't mind being patient, you can pull in a pretty good string of fish, and besides that the weather has been so beautiful, a nice day on the lake may be just what the doctor ordered.

Awareness Campaign
Seeks To Prevent
Discrimination In Hiring

By Marty Gibbs, CEA-AG
Ignorance of the law is no excuse, even though it's probably a major reason why employers in Texas and elsewhere are having difficulty complying with the anti-discrimination provisions of the 8 year-old Immigration Reform and Control Act.

In an effort to help employers better understand IRCA, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service has teamed with the U. S. Department of Justice and the Texas Office of Immigration and Refugee Affairs in mounting an awareness campaign through the news media this summer. The campaign asks employers to "Look at the facts, not at the faces" and thereby reduce hiring discrimination and other unfair practices against workers.

IRCA requires employers to verify identity and work eligibility of all workers. The law also prohibits employers from treating workers and prospective workers unfairly.

Special Counsel William Ho-Gonzalez of the U. S. Department of Justice says discrimination is "an altogether too common phenomenon." Fear of penalties, combined with ignorance of the law, are at the root of the pattern of illegal behavior by employers, the attorney says. Violations are common in every sector of the economy. "This is not unique to the agriculture industry," Ho-Gonzalez says.

The law requires that employers fill out an I-9 form on each new employee, confirming that proper work documents have been presented, said Dr. Richard Edwards, an agricultural economist and expert on IRCA for the Extension Service.

"For the first five years of the act, the focus was primarily on ensuring that employers adhered to their responsibilities relating to completing I-9's, and maintained these forms for the prescribed length of time," he said.

Now the law's anti-discrimination provisions also are being emphasized.

Prior to the enactment of IRCA, Edwards explained, there was worry that employers would try to skirt the new law by refusing to hire people they considered "foreigners."

"Congress reacted to these fears by writing penalties into the act which would be imposed if employers were found guilty of discrimination during the hiring process," Edwards said. "Unfortunately these fears have proven to be well-founded, as recent studies have shown that 19 percent of employers nationwide admitted to discriminatory hiring practices."

In Texas, that proportion jumps to 28 percent.

The statewide information campaign this summer is directed particularly at employers in small businesses who may not be well informed about IRCA provisions. Information packets are being sent in late July to local chambers of commerce, trade associations and other employer groups, especially in rural areas.

An informative brochure about the law and an instructional video are available through local offices of the Extension Service. The video may be borrowed from a County Extension Office or employer organizations may request a copy in English or Spanish in limited supply for the Department of Agricultural Communications, 201 Reed McDonald, College Station, Texas 77843-2112.

IRCA-related questions also are handled by the Employer Hotline in the Office of Special Counsel for Immigration-Related Unfair Employment Practices at 800-255-8155.

Resolving Conflicts
With Adolescents

For many parents, living with adolescents is a new, different and challenging experience. Parents of teens are often frustrated because the techniques that had worked well when their children were younger, like natural and logical consequences, are not working with their adolescents or feel helpless to control their family situation.

Resolving normal parent/adolescent conflicts, as well as dealing with the serious issues of sex, drugs and alcohol, is not an easy task. Dr. Sarah L. Anderson, family life specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service at Texas A&M University, notes that "parents need to remember that while some short-range parenting techniques may succeed in stopping undesirable behaviors in the short-run or when they are around, they do nothing to deal with the real issues facing the adolescents."

"The goal of guidance and discipline is the development of self-responsibility, or youth and adults who can and do accept responsibility for their own actions and deeds," Anderson said. "Parents need to give serious thought to whether or not the guidance techniques and actions they are using only make a difference in the short-term or whether they lead to self-responsibility, which is the long-term goal."

Anderson provides the following suggestions to help parents guide their youth to responsible adulthood:

*Dignity and Mutual Respect. Everyone deserves to be treated with dignity and parents need to respect themselves as well as their adolescents.

*Individuation is the life task off adolescents. All adolescents go through this process as they discover who they are, begin separating from their family, deal with the tumultuous physical changes which occur with maturation, and begin to figure out how they fit into society and what they are capable of.

*Misbehavior is influenced by mistaken goals and their underlying beliefs. It is not just what happens in life, but how people decide about it that influences them and their behavior. Because of where they are developmentally, adolescents often set unrealistic goals. Unrealistic, unattainable or mistaken goals of adolescents include 1. Recognition or of the adolescents desire acknowledgement and appreciation; 2. Power or the desire to control and be omnipotent; 3. Justice or the belief that life is always fair; and 4. Adequacy or the need for mastery and competence. When parents understand that adolescents sometimes feel overwhelmed and experience low self-esteem as a result of their unrealistic goals, they can begin to help them deal with their mistaken percep-

*Long-range versus short-range parenting. Beware of that works with your adolescents. Short-range parenting, or techniques, which stop the behavior while you are around or in the short-term, may do little to deal with the real issues facing adolescents. When parents switch to long-range parenting, things may get worse before they get better as adolescents test the limits. But if parents hold fast and don't give up, things will get better. Techniques for long-range parenting include using parental authority wisely; encouraging, rather than blocking, safe rebellion; providing space for privacy; supporting roles, fantasies, ideas and interests of the adolescent; saying things with a smile; letting kids know you love them; counting on adolescents to be obnoxious; and listening without giving advice or trying to fix things.

*Follow through as a way to empower adolescents. Carry out the consequences you have stated for misbehavior and hold teens accountable for their actions and deeds. Letting go. Because parents fear what might happen or don't want their children to have to face negative and sometimes long-term consequences of their behavior, they often hang on and keep children dependent. Learning to let go is painful, but they only way that youth learn is through their own mistakes.

LEGAL MATTERS

By Texas Attorney General Dan Morales

Fake Bill and Real Scams

If it looks like a bill, it must be a bill, right? Not so, according to the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division.

If you get a bill you're not expecting, read it carefully because several cleverly designed scams have targeted businesses and organizations all across the country. They involve solicitations for employment ads, fax listings and telephone book yellow pages.

While there may be many scams employing a variety of means, they all have one thing in common—return for your money, the only service they offer is a willingness to take your cash and run. The following illustrate some of the more common recent scams.

Employment classifieds schemes

Businesses that have published employment ads in local newspapers may get solicitations through the mail or by phone offering to place the same ad in a "special edition employment advertising directory." The mailing may even look like an invoice, but the disclaimer—"This is not a bill"—may be missing entirely or may be hard to see because of the ink color used.

Yellow pages?

Then there are some schemes that are not out-and-out scams, but rather deliver considerably less than you think you are getting. Some companies send statements for "yellow page" advertisements that look like regular bills or invoices. Word like "renewal notice" or "amount due" may appear on the notices.

Businesses or organizations that pay the bills may think that they are paying for ads in the local telephone directory. Instead, the solicitations are for independent "yellow page" directories, which may have very limited distribution.

Fax directories

Other businesses report that they have received official-looking invoices, asking for hundreds of dol-

State Fire
Marshal Issues
Fire Alarm Warning

The Texas Commission of Fire Protection has warned consumers who want to have fire alarm devices or systems installed in their homes or businesses to be wary of unlicensed individuals and companies.

"Fire alarm systems can have a great impact on life safety," said State Fire Marshal G. Mike Davis. "It is imperative that consumers work with licenses fire alarm firms and technicians when they install new systems."

Davis said that due to the potential danger to lives and property, the state issues licenses only to firms and individuals who have demonstrated the technical knowledge required to install the systems properly. Companies engaged in planning, selling or installing fire alarms in commercial and residential buildings (including apartment buildings and hotels) and in one- and two-family dwellings must be certified by the commission. Companies who install combination burglar and fire alarm systems must also be certified.

The State Fire Marshal's Office has been notified that unlicensed companies and individuals may be selling and installing fire alarms in several areas in Texas. Alvino C. Ramirez, program director of the commission's licensing investigations unit, confirmed that the agency is currently investigating the reports.

To be sure that a fire alarm installer or company is licensed by the Texas Commission on Fire Protection, ask to see a copy of the company's Certificate of Registration.

lars and charging for listings in an "international fax directory". Companies considering this service should verify that there is actually a directory available, and should check on how and to whom it will be distributed.

Before paying any invoices, companies should verify that: 1. the company staff requested or wants such a listing; 2. the firm producing the directory is reliable and reputable; and 3. the distribution of the directory is appropriate for company needs.

Protect yourself

There are a number of ways you can protect yourself from fraudulent or misleading bills and invoices.

*Read any bills or solicitations carefully. Many phony bills stay barely within the limits of the law by including a statement that says, "This is not a bill and you are under no obligation to pay the amount stated." If it says you don't have to pay, don't.

*Don't confuse fake billings with statements for regular directory or yellow page listings. When in doubt, call the company and verify that renewal invoices have been mailed. Cross-check the address and clarify payment procedures.

*Check with the people in your company that are responsible for advertising. Did they order such services? Do you know if the billing company is legitimate?

For more information

If you suspect that you are the target of a fake billing scheme, please contact your regional Attorney General's Consumer Protection Office, or call our consumer protection hot line at 800-337-3928.

The Stearns family met on Saturday, Sept. 3, 1994 at Riverside Park Pavilion with 65 people in attendance. The weather was warm and humid, however, a slight breeze was most welcome.

President Verna Mae Bolton held a brief business meeting before the noon meal asking for any ideas for next years reunion and nomination of new officers. It was agreed by all attendees to continue the use of Riverside Park Pavilion for future reunions.

Bob and Margene Stearns, secretary-treasurer gave the financial report to the newly elected president for 1995's reunion, Barbara Kirkpatrick.

"It was especially nice having relatives attending from as far away as California, Oklahoma and Arkansas, as well as the Texans.

nience of being without their car. The best route for consumers in the situation where a mechanic is holding their car is to pay the bill under protest. To do this, tell the mechanic that you are paying the bill under protest because of your concerns and write "under protest" on the check for payment.

Consumers should always get written estimates for repair work before allowing someone to begin work on their car. Always get a second opinion for major work on the car.

Also, never sign blank work orders for undefined work on your car. Always get everything in writing first and make sure you are notified before unauthorized or further work is performed on your car.

Lastly, find a mechanic you can trust and be a good customer.

Auto Repair Nightmares

By Sandra Haverlah
Texas Consumers Association (TCA) received several letters a month from people with various questions about consumer issues. One of our recent letters read:
Last year, I took my car to a mechanic for some engine work. The repairs were extensive and costly. My car broke down again this year and I returned to the same mechanic. He performed some of the same work and tried to charge me for it again. I refused to pay him and he won't give me my car.
Steve W.

agreements have an implied warranty that repairs will be done in a "skillful and workmanlike manner". The Deceptive Trade Practices Act also prohibits making false or misleading statements about the need for repair or replacement for parts. So, the courts are on the consumers side, even though the law is somewhat vague.

Mechanics have the protection of a possessory lien against unreasonable consumers who are unwilling to pay for auto repairs. Unfortunately, this also affects people who feel the repairs were unnecessary.

A mechanic can keep the car until the bill is paid and, after 60 days, can even sell the car. This leaves the consumer little time to act on their complaint, plus the inconvenience.

Even though a consumer may feel the repairs to their auto were necessary, it is likely that withholding payment will only cause more problems.

Texas courts held that repair

Whon News

By Mrs. Tom Rutherford

Seems the weather is the main topic of discussion in our community. I have been told some water tanks were dry. As for myself, we have tanks that are becoming very low on water. We are all still wishing for rain.

My daughter and husband Mr. and Mrs. Bob and Patsy Smith of Abilene were with me Friday and Saturday assisting with work. They returned home Sunday afternoon. Also Mr. and Mrs. Loyd and Linda Rutherford were with me Saturday.

Nell Proctor and John David Morris of Santa Anna were with John David's father, Mr. Floyd Morris on Sunday.

Patsy and I attended the 60th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Christi and Gladys Barnes in Santa Anna Sunday afternoon. Was such a nice occasion. So good to see their children and all the nice people we had not seen in a long time. When Joe and Gladys married they lived in our community on what was at that time the Ford Barnes Ranch. We have been neighbors and friends all these years. "Congratulations to the family!"

Patsy and I had a nice telephone visit with my daughter Lynda of LaGrange Friday night. They are well and her mother-in-law is out of San Antonio hospital and doing well.

Mr. Floyd Morris was in Brady on Friday and was with his sister Mrs. Micholotti and Mrs. Smith Friday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Terry and Gayla Liskha and children of Santa Anna and their neighbors Norma and Allen of Santa Anna were with Mrs. and Mrs. Paul Johnson and children on Sunday.

Mark and Brenda Thomas of Abilene were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Don Fitzpatrick on Sunday.
