

Blast, Fire Leave 19 Dead In Ohio Village

ANDOVER, Ohio (AP)—A roaring blast and swirling flames tore a path of death last night through a row of buildings on the village square. Many of the victims had taken refuge there from a storm.

There were 19 bodies accounted for, most of them in a makeshift morgue inside a garage three blocks away. The injured numbered at least 18. In the confusion, there were reports of at least 2 persons missing.

The center of the disaster was the Gateway Restaurant in this village in the resort area of Pymatuning Lake, along the Pennsylvania border. The restaurant and a dairy store were in a 2-story frame building which disintegrated with a force that shook the whole town. It has a population of about 1,200.

Through the sodden ashes and debris the squads of silent firemen worked in a drizzle until 5 a. m. today. Then they stopped for rest and food.

At 2 a. m. they had pulled the 17th body from under the sagging and blackened timbers which had fallen into the cellar. After that, they had been able to recover only portions of bodies.

Debris showered Main Street in front of the restaurant, ripping up sections of the street and wrecking several automobiles. Then the flames whipped on to other buildings.

Cleveland policeman, Elmer Bumbals, was driving past the restaurant at the time of the explosion and gave this description of the disaster:

"The walls blew out and the roof fell in. There were arms and legs sticking out of the wreckage all over the building."

No one was certain what caused the explosion. Firemen, however, speculated that accumulated gas was set off either by a bolt of lightning or a spark from electrical equipment in the basement, flooded by the heavy rains.

Today, tired firemen and volunteer rescuers still were working for more bodies. They searched through the night with searchlights and emergency generators, as the storm had knocked out power lines and telephone communications.

In a makeshift morgue, set up three blocks from the scene, Ashabula County Deputy Coroner H. R. Lynn was attempting to identify the bodies. Many were burned beyond recognition, and Dr. Lynn said it may take days to identify all of them.

The fire itself was brought under control in four hours as firemen from 20 nearby Ohio and Pennsylvania towns rushed equipment to the stricken village.

Traffic was snarled through much of the night by the effects of the explosion and hordes of curious motorists who drove to see the fire. Law enforcement officials threw a cordon around the community and the state highway patrol said martial law had been declared there at the request of the Andover mayor. Sixty troops were sent to the village to enforce it.

Jerry Hutchens Arrives For Soap Box Derby

By JOE PICKLE
AKRON, Ohio—Jerry Hill Hutchens, Big Spring's entry in the All-American Soap Box Derby classic on Sunday, arrived at this race center in a blaze of glory this morning.

Jerry was given an official welcome at the city limits, and a police escort into the center of town. As he was introduced before the crowd at the Sheraton-Mayflower Hotel, a hand struck up "The Eyes of Texas."

Derby officials took him in tow, along with all other Derby contestants pouring into Akron today, and he will have a couple of days' fun at a nearby camp. Saturday he gets a practice run down the handsome Soap Box course.

Drawings were to be held this afternoon, and Jerry will know his opponent in the first heat. There are more than 150 boys in the All-American, from every state in the union, from Canada and Western Germany.

Jerry drove up with Pete Cook and Loyd Wooten. They turned him over to the police escort at the city limits, then got left behind, and missed by a few minutes the lad's welcome downtown.

67 Killed in Crash Of Flying Boxcars

West Texas Okra

This is just an average year, but vegetables are growing to the new, king-size proportions in Big Spring. Little Carolyn Phippen clutches a pod of okra which grew at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Vera Newcomb, at 101 Walnut. The 31-inch pod wasn't grown, but Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Newcomb had to cut the stalk down to make room for remodeling their house. There's another piece of okra about the same size on another stalk at the Newcomb home. A few days ago, Mrs. Nellie Barton, 606 E. 16th, exhibited a home-grown squash measuring 24-by-18 inches.

Disaster Called 'Fourth Worst'

STUTTGART, Germany (AP)—Two C119 Flying Boxcar transports collided and crashed into the Black Forest today. The U. S. Air Force announced 67 men were killed.

The Air Force said the death toll included the crews of the two American aircraft as well as soldiers being transported.

The Flying Boxcars have a normal seating capacity of 67, with a maximum capacity of 78.

The planes were two of a nine-plane flight which had just taken off from Echterdingen field, near here, on a training mission with troops from the U. S. 7th Army aboard.

The Air Force announcement said:

"Initial reports said that one plane went down immediately. The second plane flew level for almost one minute, then went out of control and nosed into the ground."

The announced death toll would make this the fourth worst air disaster in history. A total of 129 U. S. servicemen died in the flaming wreckage of a C124 Globemaster near Tokyo in 1953. In 1952 another C124 crashed on takeoff from Larson Air Force Base in Washington state, killing 87. In 1950 a commercial plane carrying soccer fans crashed at Cardiff, Wales, with a death toll of 80 persons.

Today's was West Germany's biggest postwar air disaster and also the biggest military death toll in an aircraft in Western Europe.

The Air Force said today's crash occurred less than 15 minutes after take-off in mid-afternoon.

The announcement said there were 42 passengers, a crew of 5 plus one loadmaster in one plane, and 14 passengers, a crew of 4 and a loadmaster in the second.

CONNIE'S STILL POWERFUL

Hurricane Moves In, Begins Ripping Up Carolina Coastline

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Hurricane Connie, losing some strength but still plenty powerful, battered the Carolina coast today.

Winds just under hurricane force of 75 miles an hour, and towering waves broke up fishing piers and filled the air with flying debris in many exposed areas.

The hurricane's eye, now packing winds of about 100 miles an hour, moved at a steady 6 to 7 miles an hour toward the resort beaches between this port city of Wilmington and Myrtle Beach, S.C. At the present rate the eye would reach shore about 9 p. m., EST.

Huge waves, east at natural and artificial sand dunes thrown up after hurricane Hazel's death-dealing swipes through the same area last October. Hurricane flags flapped from Cape Roman, S.C., some 50 miles northeast of Charleston, to the Virginia Capes.

Coastline still menaced much of the seaboard north of Virginia. But the Boston Weather Bureau said she was no threat to New England for at least the next 36 hours.

Connie's central winds have reached as high as 135 miles an hour. Storm forecasters warned that although the eye seems to be spreading out slightly the hurricane still is highly dangerous. Hurricane winds licked out 100 miles to the northeast and east and 50 miles to the southwest. Gale force extended 300 miles to the northeast and 150 to the southwest.

The dangerous storm which threatened a vast stretch of the seaboard from Georgetown, S. C., north, was piling up sand and water in the streets of some North Carolina beach towns. Most vacationers and many permanent residents had sought shelter inland.

"It's blowing so hard you can hardly stand up," Police Chief M. E. Williams reported from Wrightsville Beach, east of Wilmington.

The tide at Swansboro, north of here and near Jacksonville, was reported higher than it was during the same stage of hurricane Hazel.

Communication lines were going out in many areas feeling the force of Connie's extended outer gales.

A fishing pier on the north end of Wrightsville Beach, which was destroyed by Hazel and rebuilt, reportedly was swept away again.

New England was told, meanwhile, it could relax. The Boston Weather Bureau announced Connie "no longer appears to threaten the New England area." A special bulletin said the hurricane was not likely to threaten that region within the next 36 hours. Small craft were told they could resume normal operations.

A long stretch of coastline from Georgetown, S. C., to Cape Lookout, N.C., braced for the mounting fury of the storm. Connie still threatened the whole Eastern Seaboard from Savannah to Block Island, R.I.

The 8 a. m. Weather Bureau bulletin on Connie pushed hurricane warnings down the South Carolina coast as far as Cape Roman, about 50 miles northeast of Charleston. The red and black flags were up as far north as the Virginia Capes.

Tides in the area were four or five feet above normal and were expected to be double that in some places.

At the mouth of the Cape Fear near Southport coastguardsmen at Oak Island reported steady 60-mile winds.

Paul Moore, forecaster in the Miami storm warning center, noted that Connie was spreading out somewhat, thereby reducing peak wind velocity near the center. But she is far from a dying storm, he warned, and "We don't want anybody to let down their guard."

"Unless there is a radical, unexpected change," he said, "the Georgia coast appears out of trouble except from rough seas."

Moore said the Georgia coast and all other alerted sections should stand by with full precautions, however.

Three were increasing reports of squalls from coastal villages and towns in Connie's path.

Mayor Frank Collier, whose vacation resort of Carolina Beach, N.C., was almost destroyed by hurricane Hazel last October, reported increasingly high winds and water during the night.

Guests which he estimated reached 75 miles an hour sent heavy swells rolling over boardwalks and lapping at summer cottages, some of them only recently built.

Officials at Wrightsville Beach, some 12 miles south of here, reported water was lapping at the City Hall and had almost inundated the lower half of the million-long beach strand.

Officials at both beaches cut the area's power supply as a precautionary measure. But at Southport, N.C., 30 miles south of here, high winds disrupted the power supply and the Coast Guard planned to set up emergency measures.

Connie, which was spotted first as a tropical storm last Friday, had churned the past three days off the coast, giving ample time for persons along the Atlantic seaboard to prepare.

North Carolina's Gov. Luther Hodges made an emergency air trip from Chicago yesterday, where he was attending the National Governor's Conference, to assist in disaster preparations.

The Red Cross and Civil Defense had hundreds of workers standing by and the highway patrol, the Civil Air Patrol and amateur radio operators set up an emergency communications system.

Most of the popular beach resorts along the coast were evacuated as were many of the small towns that stood in the possible path of the hurricane.

At Myrtle Beach the first two rows of beach houses were ordered evacuated yesterday with many of the townspeople and vacationers.

'Life' Article Arouses Mayor

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP)—Mayor George Roy Clough today described as "slandering" a Life Magazine article entitled "Wide Open Galveston Mocks Texas Laws". He suggested the magazine "look into its hometown, New York City."

The article is in the Life distributed today.

Clough won election last May on a platform of an "open but clean" city. He has said an island resort city such as Galveston, and especially a seaport town, cannot avoid prostitution, liquor and gambling.

"That city 50 miles away (Houston) is just as bad or worse," Clough told reporters. "The only thing we admit we have such things and they don't. I venture to say New York City has stuff that would make us look like pikers."

The 64-year-old mayor also was unhappy over a picture in the magazine printed of him.

"They didn't consult me about the story or even ask me for permission to use my picture which makes me look like I have two black eyes," he said.

Old Settlers Meet Scheduled Friday

Arrangements were being completed today for the annual Howard Glasscock Old Settlers Reunion to be held tomorrow at City Park.

Nath Allen, president of the reunion association, said committees are making preparations to serve up to 1,500 persons at the gathering.

Barbecue, beans and son-of-a-gun stew will be provided through donations to the reunion fund. In addition, the old timers traditionally bring basket lunches which also will be spread.

The formal program will get under way at 10 a. m., but the crowd is expected to start gathering much earlier to renew acquaintances and go over "old times."

Brief talks by Walton Morrison, Guilford Jones and Shine Phillips are to be held at 10 a. m. At 11 o'clock, the old timers will suspend their visiting for a tribute to other early settlers who have passed away.

Gifts will be presented at 11:30 a. m. to the "oldest timer" present, to the person traveling the greatest distance to the reunion, and to others.

Dinner will be served at 12, and the traditional old fiddlers' contest is to start at 1:30 p. m. A Latin American band, recruited by Allen, will play periodically during the day.

The annual reunion dance, to start at 8:30 p. m. at the skating rink in west Big Spring, will conclude the day's activities. Allen said a $1 admission charge will be assessed against the men, but that women will be admitted to the dance free.

Contributions to the fund for providing meat, beans and stew for other reunion expenses totaled about $155 this morning.

The latest donors, include O. E. Wolfe $5, Sam Fisherman $5, J. B. Ryan $2.50, T. S. Currie Jr., Agnes Currie, Mrs. T. S. Currie, A. Friend, R. K. Burns, T. E. Jordan Company, Big Spring Weekly News, Dr. Ora Johnson, each $5; Higgins, Alcottam-Bartlett Company $25, Joe Hayden and Morgan Coates, each $10; Air Castle Drive-In $2, First National Bank $25, Mr. and Mrs. H. Bussie and Cooper Feed and Hatchery, each $2; and Matt Harrington, $3.

Rain, Electric Storms Cause 4 Texas Deaths

Rain and electrical storms blamed for four deaths continued Thursday over parts of Texas. Clouds held down temperatures.

Precipitation was heaviest in North Central Texas where Waxahachie reported an unofficial 4.3 inches. Good, but generally local, rains fell also in Central Texas, ranging up to an unofficial 3.8 inches at mile north of Frost in Navarro County.

Vehicles skidding on rain-slick streets caused traffic accidents at Waco Thursday in which two persons were killed.

Eugene Wolke, Otto, Tex., was killed about 1 a. m. in a two-car collision near Waco. A few hours later a bread truck skidded on wet pavement, hit a bridge, and threw its driver to the pavement, killing him. He was Roger Redding, 39, Waco.

Near Bay City, Tex., Wednesday a 41-year-old father of 11 children and his 4-year-old son were killed by lightning when they took refuge in an outbuilding from a thunderstorm. Killed were Dan Byrd, a carpenter, and his son, Jerry.

Coriscana reported 2.80 inches of rain and Austin 1.15 inches.

As the morning traffic rush hour approached the Dallas-Fort Worth area was swept by rainclouds which darkened the sky and slowed motorists. An unofficial 2 1/4 inches was measured near Fort Worth.

Like the downpour which flooded Mount Pleasant Wednesday, the new rains were highly localized. Though downtown Dallas and the city's western edge got a good rain shortly after dawn, only a sprinkle fell on the eastern outskirts.

Skies at mid-morning were clear to partly cloudy in the western half of the state but generally cloudy over in the eastern half, muggy and more rain was in sight.

Other unofficial rainfall amounts included Dresden 2 inches, Blooming Grove 1.80, Chatfield 2.5, Emhouse 2.

Official amounts for the 24 hours ending at 6:30 a. m. included Abilene and El Paso .52, Austin .79, Fort Worth and Galveston .06, Waco 1.10, Palacios .53, Texarkana .81, Poolville, northwest of Fort Worth 1.48, Emma 2.36 and Ferris 1.59.

Mount Pleasant in Northeast Texas was flooded Wednesday in some sections after it received 4.9 inches of rain in less than an hour and a half. But the Mount Pleasant reservoir, depleted by months of small rainfall, got little rain. Only .25 of an inch fell there.

Satellite Chief Is AF Secretary

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today named Donald A. Quarles—top man in the earth satellite project—as the new secretary of the Air Force.

Quarles is now assistant secretary of defense for research and development. He is 61, a native of Van Buren, Ark., and more recently a resident of Englewood, N.J. He is a Republican.

Quarles will succeed Harold Talbot who resigned Aug. 1, effective this Saturday, after the Senate Investigations subcommittee publicly explored Talbot's outside business interests and raised a question of ethics.

The appointment will be subject to Senate confirmation when Congress reconvenes in January.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said Quarles was recommended to Eisenhower by Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson.

When a reporter asked about Quarles' private business holdings and what was being done about them, Hagerty said he was not in a position to answer that.

At a news conference Tuesday Eisenhower told reporters his job of picking a successor to Talbot was a tough one. He commented at that time:

"I don't know anyone who sits next to God and has financial and engineering experience."

Quarles became assistant secretary of defense Aug. 2, 1952. He is a graduate of Yale and was a World War I Artillery captain.

From 1919 to 1948 he was an engineer for the Bell Telephone Laboratories and served as vice president of that firm from 1948 to 1952.

He also is a former vice president of the Western Electric Co. and a former president of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

As assistant secretary of defense Quarles has concentrated on pushing guided missile programs. He came to the Pentagon after serving as president of the Sandia laboratory in New Mexico which does highly specialized research for the Atomic Energy Commission.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Retiring Air Force Secretary Talbot today accused Defense Secretary Wilson of failing to defend him.

The brief conversation took place in the defense secretary's office while photographers were snapping pictures of Talbot's successor, Donald A. Quarles.

Talbot plucked Wilson by the sleeve and walked with him to a corner of the big office, saying "I don't like what you said at your news conference about being distressed about the whole business of my resignation."

Wilson started, in a low voice, to explain what he had in mind. Talbot interrupted to say: "You haven't done one thing to defend me."

At that point an aide summoned both defense officials to the new secretary.

Wilson told his news conference Tuesday he was "very distressed" about circumstances surrounding the resignation of Talbot, who stepped out after Senate Investigations subcommittee inquiry into his outside business interests.

"I was very distressed about the whole business," Wilson said. "I didn't like any part of it." He declined to elaborate as to just what he didn't like.

ON PRISONERS

U.S., Red China 'Near Agreement'

GENEVA (AP)—A Chinese Communist source said today his government and the United States are "near agreement" on the release of 40 Americans held by Peking and only details remain to be worked out. There was no official confirmation of the report, however, from either the Americans or the Reds.

The Chinese source spread his report after U. S. Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson and Peiping envoy Wang Ping-Nan met for an hour and a half. It was the fifth of several press talks here on the American prisoners and Chinese students the Red regime claims the United States is keeping from returning home.

The United States has rejected both demands.

The Chinese Communists have asserted that a number of Chinese are being forced to remain in the United States. The United States insists that all are free to leave.

Traffic Violators Pay $2,800 In Delinquent Fines

DALLAS (AP)—Traffic law violators plunked down $2,800 in delinquent fines yesterday, third day of Dallas' crackdown on motorists who ignored traffic tickets.

Jailers kept busy booking violators who could not pay fines, then releasing them when a lawyer, relative or friend showed up to post bond.

A total of 4 persons were still in the jail at midnight. At one time during the day there were more than 100.

Almost 100 early prospectors took to the hills with Geiger counters.

Hofheinz Aide Urges Truce In Ouster Fight

HOUSTON (AP)—An attorney for Mayor Roy Hofheinz today proposed a truce whereby city council business can proceed while seven councilmen press impeachment charges against the millionaire mayor.

Councilman Gail Reeves, leader of the mayor's opposition, said he would have to consult with his attorney.

Jack Binion, who is representing Hofheinz at the council's impeachment trial, asked Reeves:

"Are you willing now, if the other councilmen agree, to remove the suspension of the mayor so the business of the council can be transacted, if I promise that the mayor won't try to preside at this hearing and that I will have the city department heads here to testify?"

Hofheinz has ignored the impeachment trial and an 18-day suspension the seven-member council majority voted Aug. 1 pending the trial. The mayor also ordered all department heads to ignore subpoenas issued by the council for the trial.

Indians Take Up Ancestors' War

TEMPLE, Tex. (AP)—Reynolds Bearshield, 22, a Sioux Indian from Little Eagle, S.D., was lodged in the Temple city jail yesterday on a traffic charge.

About 30 minutes later into the same cell went a Chickashaw Indian, Wilson J. Brown, 34, Ada, Okla., also on a traffic charge.

In about the time it would take them to introduce themselves they got into a knockdown fight. Each was fined $95.25 in justice of peace court for fighting.

Under the city charter, the council can act as prosecutor and judge in any impeachment proceedings, Hofheinz says the whole thing is illegal.

The councilmen walked out on Hofheinz twice yesterday during sessions.

The whole hassle apparently was headed for a district court.

Hofheinz has said he wants the council to try and get him out with court action.

Wilson yesterday said it looked like the case might have to be taken to court, but the council was still going ahead according to charter rules.

Hofheinz told citizens present at the council session that the walk-out of the councilmen was an "injustice and inconvenience to the general public."

With Hofheinz buying a gavel constantly, Wilson and councilmen called the roll of motions to adopt last week's meeting minutes, to return unopened bids to bidders, to postpone the agenda and adjourn.

Then the seven members of the council walked out for a second time.

Ray Peacock, 1102 N. Main, feeds one of three ground squirrels he found recently in a pasture behind his home. Ray said he feeds the small animals warm milk with an eyedropper about three or four times a day. The squirrels are about 13 days old, he estimated, and he has had them about a week. When the 13-year-old boy found them, one was struggling around on the ground near a hole in the ground. Ray got the other two out of the hole. The parents were nowhere around, he added. They have had their eyes open almost a week.

Police Collect $3,028 In City Fines During July

Fines totaling $3,028 were paid at the police window during July, according to Police Chief E. W. York's monthly report. There were 180 arrests made during the month, and 1,441 tickets were issued.

one was fined $15 for destroying private property. Two individuals charged with violating city ordinances were assessed a total of $75. One of these cases concerned unsanitary pens for pigs being kept in the city limits.

Police arrested other individuals in connection with cases of burglary, theft, aggravated assault, driving while intoxicated, and being absent from military post without leave. All were transferred to county or other authorities.

Capitol Police Stay On Alert For 'Incidents'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Capitol police know from long experience that "incidents" are likely to occur at certain kinds of hearings—those where emotions are stirred. So, they are on the lookout when such hearings come up. Sen. Price Daniel's special committee investigating narcotic traffic is a case in point.

When the Texan called his committee into session, two uniformed policemen were at the door. One incident developed. A physician suddenly interrupted his testimony to hurl a glass and then a pitcher of water at a newspaper photographer.

Capitol police, remembering the Puerto Rican shooting when the House was voting on the Mexican farm labor bill last year, assigned extra men when the legislation came up recently.

Nothing happened, but as Texas member turned to a colleague as the voting started and said: "Hold on to your seat, boys, this is where the shooting began the other time."

Ed Dodson, secretary to Rep. Walter Rogers of the Panhandle District, says Washington is an interesting place to live and work—for a while, that is. He's going back to Texas with his wife and three children.

He's not sure at this point just what he will do, but presumes he may go back to his old profession as an official court reporter. He was with the 31st Judicial District Court in Pampa before coming to Washington with Rogers Jan. 3, 1951.

Dodson will leave Roger's staff after getting the summer congressional office opened at Amartillo.

COMPARISON SHOWS

'Phone Rates Asked For City Exceed Charges In Area Towns

Cliff Fisher, manager of the local telephone company, has presented the City Commission with a chart showing that telephone rates of area cities are lower than the rates requested here.

The various rates were tabulated by Fisher on request of the commissioners, who have been studying the Southwestern Bell request for a rate increase in Big Spring.

The requested rate hike here is as follows: from $9 to $11 for business phones, from $4.25 to $5.50 for one-party residential connections, from $3.50 to $4.50 for two-party residential connections, and from $3 to $3.75 for four-party connections.

Fisher's chart showed that Big Spring has 9,375 telephones. Snyder, which has 5,989 phones, has charges of $10 for business connections, $4.75 for one-party residential; $4 for two-party, and $3.25 for four-party.

Midland, which has 22,843 phones, has charges of $8 for business, $3.25 for one-party, $2.75 for Fisher explained to city commissioners that what people in other cities are paying has no bearing on what is being asked in Big Spring. A rate hike is requested here to increase earning on the company's investment, he said.

Boy And Turtle Leave Hospital

Wilbur and turtle were taken to the hospital where the boy was treated for lacerations and bruises. Both were released in good condition.

The Light refreshment for today's active people

IT ISN'T THE SAND, sun, or sea, but the bathers who are the loveliest sight on the beaches today—the men so lean and fit-looking, the women with their graceful, slender waists.

And the reason is the modern trend to lighter, less filling food and drink.

Pepsi-Cola has kept up with this trend. Today's Pepsi, reduced in calories, never too sweet or heavy, refreshes without filling.

It is the modern, the light refreshment. Have a Pepsi.

Happy Reunion

Acquitted by an Army court martial at Camp Senda, Japan, in the slaying of her soldier-husband, Robert, Mrs. Romola Abidin is reunited with her three sons, Bobby, 7, left; Ronny, 6, right; and Randy, 4, on her lap. Her father, Louis Viviano of Bayside, N. Y., stands behind the group. Warrant Officer Robert J. Abidin was shot down in their home at Camp Matsushima last June 17.

Governors Seek Compromise On Road Program

CHICAGO (U.S.)—The nation's governors searched today for a compromise highway construction program that might be palatable to a Congress which rejected President Eisenhower's proposals and Democratic substitutes.

Although the governors listened to praise last night from Britain's Ambassador Sir Roger Makins for Eisenhower's role at the Geneva Big Four conference and turned to a discussion of mental health problems today, their minds obviously were on the roads issue.

Makins told the governors at the state dinner of this 47th annual conference of the chief executives that at Geneva Eisenhower had succeeded "in laying, let us hope for once and all, the ghost of the idea that the Americans are a pack of war mongers."

Gov. G. Mennen Williams, Michigan Democrat, told his colleagues in a prepared address that "the problem of mental health is still one of the biggest faced by the people and the states."

"One out of 12 babies born today will spend some time in a mental institution," he said. "Over one-half of our hospital beds are required for mental cases. The total annual public cost of mental health in the United States amounts to over $1,100,000,000."

President Eisenhower told the governors in a message yesterday he is ready to cooperate with them in attempting to solve the highway and school construction programs. After a discussion, the governors named a resolutions committee to take up the road issue.

The makeup of this committee seemed pointed toward some sort of compromise on highway financing. Most of the members called for quick action to get road building started but they differed in methods.

As chairman of the committee, Gov. Robert B. Meyner, New Jersey Democrat, called on the governors to "compromise with Congress and the appropriate pressure groups" in working out their recommendations.

Gov. William G. Stratton, Illinois Republican, proposed a five-year road building plan instead of the 10-year program urged by President Eisenhower. Gov. Fred Hall, Kansas Republican, plugged for a cooperative federal-state program.

Adlai All But Admits He'll Be Demo Candidate Again In 1956

CHICAGO (U.S.)—Adlai E. Stevenson was all but an officially announced candidate today for the Democratic presidential nomination next year.

In an informal and unusual news conference last night, the 1952 Democratic nominee made it plain to all who came to question that he will announce in November that he is running again.

Without committing himself finally at this time, Stevenson outlined what he regards as a possible winning Democratic campaign against President Eisenhower. He said he doesn't believe Eisenhower is "invulnerable" despite the outcome of a similar race three years ago.

The Stevenson campaign credo, as revealed at a crowded news conference after a cocktail party and dinner given by former Democratic National Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell, was this:

1. Eisenhower has "sharply reversed" the previous GOP foreign policies in favor of "bold and vigorous" action at the Geneva Big Four conference but those policies could change for the worse again "at any moment."

2. While the Eisenhower administration now seems to agree generally with the Democrats in Congress that action is needed on education, health, housing and highways programs, the Republicans only make promises "and the Democrats believe in action."

3. He has "some misgivings" about the threat offered by the Republicans to federal development of natural resources and what he said is the Eisenhower administration's opposition to "the Democratic concept of government for all the people and not the few."

Having laid down this outline, the tanned and healthy appearing potential candidate told reporters he will have something definite to say about his political intentions by November.

Several Democratic governors have suggested at the 47th Annual Governors Conference here that Stevenson had better make up his mind quickly if he wants their party's nomination. Stevenson said he had been listening for a year to such advice—and to some contrary opinions—and "I'll do what I believe is best for the party."

What was best for the Democrats, in Stevenson's obvious opinion, was to quit thinking about other potential nominees such as Gov. Averell Harriman of New York and Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee.

Harriman, who repeated after a dinner meeting with the former Illinois governor that "I'm for Stevenson," was described by Stevenson as "understanding my thinking."

Stevenson indicated that if he is the party nominee he will not shrink from challenging Eisenhower's foreign policies.

He said that three years of "tough talk" on the part of Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles had "brought many people (abroad) to the conclusion that the Eisenhower administration was more of a threat to peace than Russia."

He said Eisenhower has "sharply reversed" that trend at Geneva and he hopes that "what was done there was for the best."

"But I think it would be foolish to think that the cold war was ended by that sharp reversal of policy," he said. "I don't think we can relax because that is precisely what Russia wants us to do."

Although he was laudatory of Eisenhower's position at the Geneva conference, Stevenson criticized the President's conversations with Marshal Zhukov, Soviet defense minister and a World War II comrade in arms.

"I never expected to hear an American President plead with a third string Communist to please believe that the United States wanted peace," he declared.

NOT BIGTREE, BUT IRONTAIL

Say, what Indian's head is on the Indian-head nickel, anyway?

Yesterday, there was an Associated Press dispatch out of Syracuse, N. Y., which mentioned one Chief John Bigtree as the one whose "nose" appears on the nickel.

Then comes Charles H. Burlingame of Big Spring who questions this claim to fame on the part of Bigtree. Burlingame is an Oklahoma A&M ex., up near the Osage country, and says it has always been common knowledge in those parts that the model for the nickel was one Chief Iron-Tail from Ponca City. Burlingame suggests some research on the matter.

Anybody got anything to add?

U. S. Contracts For Small A-Sub Motor

WASHINGTON (U.S.)—The government has let a contract for the design and development of an atomic power plant suitable for a small submarine.

The Atomic Energy Commission's announcement yesterday gave no hint of the size, but it apparently would be much closer to that of the conventional sub than either the 2,500-ton Nautilus or the 3,500-ton Seawolf. The average fleet-type submarine has about a 1,700-ton displacement.

Nagging Backache Sleepless Nights

Nagging backache, headache, or muscular aches and pains anywhere on your neck, shoulders, arms, wrists, hands, fingers, or feet, may be the result of a condition called "muscle spasm." It is a condition that is caused by the muscles of the body becoming so tight that they pull on the bones, causing pain and sometimes making it difficult to move.

If you are miserable and want out from under these conditions, Don's Pills often help by their pain relieving action, by their soothing effect to ease muscle irritation, and by their mild diuretic action through the kidneys—tending to increase the output of the 12 million kidney tubes.

So if nagging backache makes you feel drowsy, or miserable, or sleepless nights, don't wait... try Don's Pills... get the same happy relief millions have enjoyed for over 40 years. Get Don's Pills today!

ATOM PARLEY TOLD

Soviets On Trail Of Photosynthesis

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Reporter

GENEVA (U.S.)—Soviet scientists told the atoms-for-peace conference today they believe they are on the verge of solving the mystery of photosynthesis—nature's ingenious method of feeding the world.

A. L. Kursanov told the 72-nation parley that the Russians, using radioactive isotopes as tracers in plant studies, have found out a number of things about the process in which green plants under sunlight convert carbon dioxide and water into the sugars and starches that men and animals eat.

Men of science have long sought the secret of this process, hoping to duplicate it artificially as a help with the world's food problems. American scientists also have reported progress toward working out the puzzle.

Kursanov described the Soviet decisive step in the direction of disclosing the mystery of photosynthesis and of mastering this process.

"This probably will take place in the near future," he added.

Kursanov reported the Russians have found that proteins as well as carbohydrates are direct products of photosynthesis in plant leaves. He said that carbohydrates are formed under the influence of the red and yellow parts of sunlight while proteins are formed under the influence of blue light.

This latter finding, he said, could be used in hothouse design to influence the quality and quantity of plants.

The United States, Canada and Russia reported on extensive aerial prospecting for uranium and thorium in addition to their widespread ground prospecting.

A U.S. paper said aerial surveys by multi-engined planes at altitudes of 500 feet are used to spot radioactivity in "broad areas not previously known to contain uranium or thorium deposits." Then light single-engine planes fly at 60 miles an hour 50 to 100 feet above ground to pin point deposits.

Both the U. S. and Russian papers also told of tests made from samplings of water.

Brazil likewise told the Congress it had found aerial prospecting for uranium and thorium the most effective method of locating uranium and thorium.

As chairman of the committee, Gov. Robert B. Meyner, New Jersey Democrat, called on the governors to "compromise with Congress and the appropriate pressure groups" in working out their recommendations.

WEWOKA, Okla. (U.S.)—Seven itinerant cows who can start from a flat-footed position and jump over his fence—sometimes—have Hughes County rancher Earl Clark almost tearing out his hair.

Clark said the cattle wandered up to his ranch more than a month ago.

The rancher said the strays amuse themselves by jumping his fences. He wouldn't mind if they cleared all the time. But he said sometimes from a flat-footed position, they don't make it, and the fence is bowled over.

Height Is An Asset

"Be glad you're tall," is Alix Talton's advice to statuesque girls. The CBS-TV star tells Lydia Lane how she used her height as a beauty asset.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Make The Most Of Your Height, Says TV Star

By LYDIA LANE. HOLLYWOOD — Alix Talton is best known to date, perhaps, for the comedy role she played last season in the CBS-TV "My Favorite Husband" show. When I visited her in her attractive canyon home she was wearing a pair of blue silk slacks with a matching blouse and not until I stood beside her did I realize how tall she is. "People are always surprised at my height," she admitted. "I think it's because I accept it naturally and agreeably. I have my father to thank for this. "In school, I shot up very fast and was heads taller than everyone in my class, and it made me self-conscious. I did the obvious and slouched my shoulders trying to look shorter. My observant father noticed this and fell to casually remarking every once in a while how much he admired tall women, pointing them out on the street and calling attention to how well they wore their clothes. In this way he convinced me that being tall was an asset and I found that by believing this I could make others think so, too. "It was surprising the number of shorter men who asked me for dates, never seeming to mind the difference in our height," Alix recalled. I asked her if she had any other problems she had overcome as successfully.

MORNING PEEPERS

By Joyce Connaway

Wood Street housewives this morning were involved in many activities from looking for a parakeet to painting the living room. Sixty-two calls were made between 9 and 9:45 a.m. in this part of Big Spring.

Mrs. Felix W. Jarratt, 1000, was drinking that good old second cup of coffee. The L. Holleys, 1001, were not at home.

Vacuuming the rug was Mrs. Terrell A. Rogers, 1002, while Mrs. Gus Oppgaard, 1003, was cleaning her yard. Mrs. Jesse T. Thornton Jr., 1004, had to run all the way in the house to answer the phone for she was hanging out clothes.

"You'd be surprised," answered Mrs. Rex C. Edwards, 1008, "I was raking out in the alley." Breakfast was being prepared by a Cook, at 1008. Mrs. Robert J. Cook, that is Mrs. Charles L. Roden, 1010, was getting ready to shampoo her hair. Mrs. Myrtle R. Stelling, 1012, was not available.

Washing out her nylon hose was Mrs. Ordis H. Walker, 1100. Mrs. Allen D. Meador, 1102, was cleaning house and Mrs. Charles A. Tonn Jr., 1104, was doing the family wash.

"Talking with my neighbor, Mrs. R. F. Dorsey," explained Mrs. Merle J. Stewart, 1108. Looking out in the trees for her neighbor's lost parakeet, "Boots," was Mrs. Harold E. Meador, 1109. She had been sewing before she volunteered for the searching party.

At 1110, Mrs. Hershel Petty was working in the yard. The Rupert W. Halbrooks, 1111, will be able to call their friends for another month, because Mrs. Halbrooks was making out a check to pay the phone bill when I called.

I received no answer at the William A. Langley, 1200, nor at the John E. Forts, 1202. A busy signal came from the James E. Felts residence, 1201.

Mrs. Curtis W. Fish, 1204, was reading a letter and Mrs. George M. Phillips, 1205, was almost on her way to town.

"I was dressing to go to the office. I help my husband in the mornings," explained Mrs. Charles M. Harwell, 1206. The phone continued to ring at the J. W. Denton place, 1208. Mrs. Kenneth L. Manuel, 1300, was standing before an ironing board preparing fresh clothes for her family.

I hung up the receiver after five rings at the Frank D. Rogers home, 1301, and at the establishment of the Clayton Swinneys, 1304. Rock-a-bye baby was the theme at the John H. Kountz home, 1303, as the mother rocked her baby. Mrs. Philip Prager, 1308, was working out in the yard.

Breakfast had just been completed by Mrs. James L. Johnson Jr., 1309. Reports were that Mrs. Arma G. Mitchell, 1310, and Mrs. Paul O. Russell, 1311, were not at home.

"Trying to have breakfast, but my husband is out talking, and I am waiting on him," exclaimed Mrs. Vance H. Cowan, 1314, and Mrs. D. L. Knightstep, 1317, was fixing breakfast for the "kiddos." "Rolling up a skein of yarn so my aunt, Mrs. W. L. McCollister, can knit," said Mrs. William J. Wallace, 1318. She explained that her aunt had broken her hip some time ago, and she was staying in the Wallace home.

Mrs. Carl Eason, 1319, and Mrs. Louis R. Manely, 1400, were not at home. "I waxed the floors yesterday, and now I was going over them so they will shine," stated Mrs. Willis C. Garner, 1401.

House cleaning was occupying Mrs. Melvin O. Griffith's time, 1403. The John M. Whittings, 1405, were not at home.

Mrs. Donald E. Hoover, 1407, was the industrious one who was painting the living room. She got up early and was slinging the color while the rest of her family was still asleep.

Mrs. J. Leonard Blackwell, 1408, was listening to a salesman, but the Julius Zodins, 1410, were not around.

It was floor waxing time at the William E. Morris residence, 1411, and the phone rang on and on at Mrs. Elleta Clower's, 1412. Mrs. Truett R. Davidson, 1413, was making a bed.

Money derived from the coffee will be donated, on Pilgrim's Day, to the Home for the Aged at Ennis and to the Children's Home at Corsicana. An initiation service was given to Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Daugherty. Refreshments were served to 45, including two guests. Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Wright of Arlington.

Mrs. Harrell Honored

The party, held in the home of Mabel Dunagan, was attended by the following guests besides the members of the class: C. M. Harrell, G. C. Ragsdale, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Williams, Mrs. J. B. King and Callie Dunagan.

Mrs. J. M. Simmons, 110 N. Nolan, has returned from attending the funeral of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Frank O'Brien at Groesbeck. On the way back, she visited with friends in Fort Worth.

Suggested Schedules Offer Housewife Aid

Housekeeping can either be a joy and a skill, or a drudgery and a pain in the neck. The secret that many experienced housewives have discovered is to have a well organized work plan and technique. Of course, each woman of the house has her own method and schedule of cleaning, and if these have proved successful for her and her family, all is well and good.

For the frenzied mother that would like some sort of a schedule for her housework, but has never had the time to sit down and figure one out because each time she has a minute's rest, Junior comes in with a skinned knee or the phone rings, here is a suggested schedule:

Monday—put the house in order after Sunday, cook for Tuesday and prepare for laundering. Tuesday, do the daily cleaning, then wash, sprinkle clothes, fold and put away rough dry articles and iron the semi-dry ones.

Wednesday, after the routine daily cleaning, do the marketing, baking and ironing. Thursday, finish the ironing. This is probably the day that your circle or bridge club meets.

Friday, marketing needs to be done and the house cleaned for the weekend. Saturday, prepare for Sunday, whether it be baking, cleaning or whatnot.

Ready-made housework schedules just offer suggestions. To develop a plan which is really usable, it is necessary to consider the needs of the individual homemaker and her family, as well as the amount of labor-saving equipment that she has at her fingertips.

To shorten the daily cleaning time that faces the "Mrs." each morning, give the living room a quick slick-up each evening before retiring. For example, empty the ash trays, straighten papers and magazines, put away games and the TV Guide, and put furniture in place. Enlist the family cooperation in helping you in this little night cleaning, and see how much easier it will be on you the next morning to have the "parlor" straight and clean. Also, if Aunt Lucy from out of town drops in at the crack of dawn, you will not be embarrassed to ask her in.

A step-saving device to employ when you are cleaning house is to carry a small basket with you from room to room equipped with such helpful items as an art gum eraser, a sponge, dust cloth, lubricating oil, scouring powder, scissors, cleaning and polishing preparations.

Here in Big Spring where the dust is a housekeeper's killjoy, try mixing your own dust absorbing formula that will eat up the dust, rather than just transfer it from one place to another. Into one pint of boiling water stir 1/4 cup lemon oil. Use old soft knitted silk, rayon or cotton cloths. Cut the edges with pinkish shears to prevent ravelling. Immerse six or eight cloths into this mixture and let them absorb as much of the liquid as possible.

Writing the cloths as dry as possible and let them hang until thoroughly dry. When these dust rags become dusty rags, wash them in warm suds and treat again.

Send 25 cents for PATTERN No. 465, YOUR NAME, ADDRESS, PATTERN NUMBER to CAROL CURTIS, Big Spring Herald, Box 229, Madison Square Station, New York 10, N. Y. The NEEDLEWORK GUIDE, 36 pages, 15 designs for knitting, crochet, embroidery, hairpin lace, dozens of beautiful color transfers. Order as you do needlework patterns. Only 25 cents.

Bogota Women Slate Protest Of Press Curb

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP)—Undeterred by a baptism of tear gas, women of Bogota scheduled an other demonstration today to protest government press restrictions. The wives of three former presidents were to lead the marchers. More than 500 women marched to Bolivar Plaza yesterday carrying banners saying "long live liberty." Police moved to break up the demonstration when the parade turned toward the presidential palace and the office of the closed newspaper El Tiempo. The ladies fixed umbrellas and charged the police line as male spectators cheered. Police tear gas ended a 15-minute struggle and scores of demonstrators were carted to jail.

Press censorship, covering all messages sent abroad as well as domestic publications, has been extended throughout Colombia. The direct censorship of domestic publications is under control of the Army. It replaces a self-censorship editors were asked to accept in a move to eliminate violent political attacks. El Tiempo, Colombia's largest newspaper, was closed Aug. 4 after it refused to publish a government-dictated corrective statement. El Tiempo said the statement was misleading and threatened the newspaper's independence.

The censorship originally was aimed at the liberal press because of its criticism of the Army campaign against guerrillas — mostly liberals — in Tolima Province.

2 TRANSPORTS

Fliers To Leave Hawaii For Home

HONOLULU (AP)—Eleven U.S. airmen leave Hawaii in two transport planes late today, heading for California and reunions this weekend with loved ones they haven't seen for years. The airmen, freed in Hong Kong last week after 32 grim months as prisoners of the Chinese Communists, are due at Travis Air Force base, northeast of San Francisco at 8 a.m. (10 a.m. EST), Friday.

At Travis they will be transferred to other planes and whisked to airports nearest their homes. They are relaxing in balmy Hawaii. They reached here in excellent spirits, and were greeted by two of Hawaii's prettiest maidens, armed with flower leis and quick to present the traditional aloha kiss.

They were out on the town last night, after politely refusing an offer of a nine-course (count 'em, nine) Chinese dinner.

Spencer Weaver, owner of several elegant restaurants, hosted the men with steaks and Hawaiian entertainment at his nightclub, a home in 1944 when President Roosevelt conferred there with Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

MacArthur's former plane, the Bataan, brought five of the 11 men to Hawaii.

Airman Harry M. Benjamin of Worthington, Minn., said the Red Chinese served out punishment "according to our rank."

Therefore, he said, Col. John Knox Arnold Jr., "got the worst of it." Arnold was commander of their B29 which was shot down over North Korea in January, 1953, on a leaflet dropping mission.

Arnold was in good humor here. A Pentagon Air Force information officer, Maj. William McGinty, told reporters at a news conference to stay clear of torture and other such subjects, pointing out the men had been through that in two previous conferences.

McGinty also asked that Airman Daniel C. Schmidt not be questioned on his family problems.

"The Air Force is very proud of the way this boy has conducted himself in this affair. He would like a little privacy," McGinty said.

Schmidt's wife, Urs, says she married a California logger last year. She said she thought the airman was dead. She has left her second husband to decide her future after she meets Schmidt, father of her son.

Art Auctioneer To Appeal Case

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—An auctioneer convicted of falsely advertising five paintings as the works of celebrated French artists is appealing his $250 fine and suspended 60-day jail sentence.

A jury decided July 13 that Roy J. Goldenberg had made misleading statements in newspaper and catalog advertising, but that he had not made the statements with deliberate intent to defraud.

Goldenberg's attorney filed notice of appeal yesterday after Municipal Judge Henry H. Draeger levied the fine.

Floods Expel 150 Families

BRUSH, Colo. (AP)—Floodwaters fed by the heaviest rainfall in this northeast Colorado area in 20 years forced at least 150 farm families from their homes today.

One woman was reported drowned.

The floodwaters swirled along a three-mile path south and east of Brush.

A cloudburst dumped up to four inches of rain and hail on prairie grassland south of here.

Another cloudburst, described as the worst since 1921, lashed a mountain resort southwest of Colorado Springs yesterday, temporarily stranding about 300 tourists and causing damage estimated in thousands of dollars.

A woman identified as Mrs. Nathan E. Scott of Marton, Ind., was believed drowned when a crest struck a bridge nine miles south of here and carried the car in which she and her husband were riding one mile from the highway.

Her husband, the Rev. Nathan E. Scott, was rescued by Jack Weisbart of Brush, a feed lot executive, who piloted an outboard motorboat to the swamped vehicle. He had clung for two hours to a log near the car.

Mrs. Clara Margerum, foreground, watches her family of 12 children, including an adopted son, Virgil, 29, left, as they enjoy a rent-free vacation in a tourist court at Dallas. The children were placed in an orphan's home three years ago after her husband died. Mrs. Margerum, 37, who lives in a rooming house and works in a department store, sought recently to rent a house for the three-day reunion with her family. She was downcast when she could not find a place. After publication of her plight a flood of offers to help followed.

World Opinion Spikes Korean Truce Team Demonstration

SEOUL (AP)—Organized Korean demonstrations against the Neutral Nations Supervisory Commission virtually halted today as free world opinion came crashing down on President Syngman Rhee and his government's threats against the truce teams.

Crowds were still milling around at the five ports of entry throughout South Korea where the truce inspectors are stationed. But most of the demonstrations consisted of shouting and waving banners.

A U.S. 8th Army spokesman reported "all quiet everywhere." Demonstrators, once numbered in the thousands, had dropped off to 200 at Incheon, Kusan and Taegu, 300 to 600 at Pusan and 100 at Kangnung.

The government again today cautioned against violence. In five days of riots, 22 American soldiers and 80 Koreans have been injured, none seriously. Official spokesman Dr. Hong Kee Karl said, "it is greatly to be regretted that those who have come to our aid should be injured as a result of trouble with the Korean people."

He added, "our aim is to survive, not to harm others. Our people, therefore, should be careful not to cause any trouble for our friends through violence or disorderly actions."

Similar sentiments were expressed by Rhee yesterday. But they came only after a knuckle rapping from the British Foreign Office, which said it deplored violence by the Rhee government against the Communist members of the truce commission.

This morning, the reactions poured in from Washington and London. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said the United States would fulfill its armistice obligation to protect the truce commission and admonished the Korean government to move with caution in attempting to drive the NNSC from the Republic of Korea. Dulles said the United States feels many of the armistice provisions have become obsolete and impractical, but he said the United States would not try to change them by force.

Meanwhile, at Panmunjom a Swiss spokesman said the NNSC had decided to turn over a South Korean ultimatum handed it last Saturday to the Military Armistice Commission "for appropriate action."

The ultimatum orders Communist inspectors of the NNSC out of the country by Saturday. The Communists, apparently acting on the widespread Czech and Polish representatives on the commission, called a full dress meeting of the Military Armistice Commission for tomorrow morning.

FBI Cracks Biggest Cash Bank Robbery

NEW YORK (AP)—The FBI says it has cracked the largest cash bank robbery in history, seizing two men as alleged members of a smooth-working quartet who held up a Queens bank to the tune of $305,000.

Warrants were issued for two other men thought to have been the ringleaders in the carefully planned holdup. A fifth man has been held as a material witness.

Arrested yesterday and charged with violating the National Bank Robbery Act were James McCoo, 36, and Frank Cocchiaro, 34, both of Astoria, Queens — not far from the looted Woodside, Queens, branch of the Chase Manhattan Bank.

McCoo, accused of taking part in the robbery, was held without bond. Cocchiaro was held in $50,000 bail, charged with aiding and abetting the stickup.

Cocchiaro's wife, Mildred, was a teller at the Woodside bank when four bandits appeared on the morning of April 6 and made off with their record haul without firing a shot. Mrs. Cocchiaro since has resigned.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Paul W. Windels said none of the stolen money has been recovered. Windels also said that the holdup was partly an inside job but did not point a finger at any employee.

Redmond (Ninny) Cribbins, 48, alias Mike Malloy, and Thomas (Duke) Connelly Jr., 30, both veteran criminals, are sought for questioning. Vincent W. Kritill, 28, a Fire Island bartender described as "knowing" Cribbins and Connelly, is held in $40,000 bail as a material witness. Windels said he feared for Kritill's life if he were freed on bond. Authorities said Kritill has no criminal record.

A bank employe identified a rogue's gallery photo of Cribbins the day after the robbery. Connelly, with a long prison record, dropped out of sight about the time of the holdup. His wife, Ann, and their two children, George 2, and Veronica, 3, disappeared about 10 days later.

The children were found abandoned last July 27—one in Baltimore, Md., and the other in Wilmington, Del.

To get into the bank the bandits, one carrying a submachine gun, first kidnaped and Connelly's chief clerk outside his home and opened the bank door with his keys.

Youth's Rescue Attempt Fails

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—A 22-month-old boy fell from a third-floor roof, dropped through the arms of a youth trying to catch him, and was injured seriously yesterday.

The child, William Nevitt, fell in an apparent effort to retrieve a toy pistol he had dropped from the roof.

His mother, Mrs. Ardena Nevitt, gave this account: She went to the roof to sleep, after which the child apparently climbed out the window to join her.

Mrs. Irene Cook and her brother, Jimmy Payton, 18, first floor residents, were standing outside talking when a toy pistol fell at their feet. They looked up and saw a child's legs dangling over the roof edge.

Just then William fell. Payton reached out to catch him, but the child slid through Payton's arms and struck the concrete pavement.

His mother, Mrs. Lavelle Betz, found him in the midst of a snarling dog pack. He died an hour later in a hospital. His body was covered with deep gashes, the hospital said.

Boy Committed To State School

A 14-year-old Latin American boy was ordered committed to the state school at Gatesville this morning. The order was signed by County Judge R. H. Weaver following a juvenile hearing.

The boy had been arrested Saturday for drunkenness, his third time to be taken into custody for an offense. Juvenile Officer A. E. Long and County Attorney Harvey Houser Jr., both recommended that the boy be committed at Gatesville.

The boy's elder brother appealed to the judge to allow him to take charge of the boy. He said he would send the youth to California where other relatives could take better care of him. Long said the boy had also remained out of school unnecessarily.

Juvenile authorities handled several other youths last night and this morning. A 14-year-old boy from Salt Lake City, Utah, told Long that he had run away from home. Long has wired the boy's parents concerning disposition of the youth.

Two boys were arrested Wednesday night by the sheriff's department. They are brothers, one 14 years and the other nine, and they live at Andrews. They admitted being "run-aways" and their parents came for them last night, Long said.

Two boys have recently been returned here from the training school at Gatesville, Long said. One of them was involved in the theft of automobile hub-caps last fall and the other had been charged with breaking into houses. The boys will be placed on probation, Long explained, which means that they will have to report periodically to the juvenile office.

Banshee Heads Into Connie's 'Eye'

AT HIGH SCHOOL

DO Class Now Being Organized

William A. Burdett, diversified occupations teacher at Big Spring High School, is now organizing the DO program for the 1955-56 school year.

There are 10 holdover students in the program, and Burdett said he hopes to be able to place about 20 others. Several openings are available at present, and the instructor is attempting to line up other employers who will take students on a part-time basis for training.

Openings are available for trainees as printer, dental technician, florist, laboratory technician (two), venetian blind manufacture and upholstery, television repair and auto mechanic in the electrical field.

This will be the 20th year for the DO program in Big Spring High School. The local program is the oldest active DO setup in the state. Burdett said he hopes to make 1955-56 the best year in the program's history here. There were 38 students in the DO class last year.

Students interested in enrolling for the classroom and on-the-job training should contact Burdett promptly at telephone No. 4-4313. He will be available for conferences with prospective students and their employers from 9 a. m. to noon daily. Employers who are interested in the program also may contact the coordinator at 4-4313. Students can start to work immediately.

Holdover students who already are on the jobs they held last school year are James Corcoran, Darrell White, Kenneth Dodd, J. T. Roney, Bill Hipp, Jerry Murphy, Doyle Rogers, Sue Wilson and Dan Meek.

STORM

seeking refuge in the big Ocean Forest Hotel or at emergency stations set up in churches and schools.

Wrightsville Beach, just 12 miles south of here, was ordered by city officials evacuated last night. At Carolina Beach, on the peninsula a few miles south of Wrightsville Beach, it was the same story, evacuate or stay and take your chances.

Southwest of here at Long Beach, Holden Beach and Ft. Caswell most residents and vacationers left. These beaches were among the hardest hit by Hazel last year. The Ft. Marion Coast Guard station near Morehead City also directed that the communities of Salter Path, Emerald Isle and Atlantic Beach be evacuated.

Most military and naval aircraft previously were flown inland. At Hampton Roads, Va., 111 vessels were concentrated to ride out the hurricane. Special pains were taken to secure the unfinished supercarrier Forrestal at Newport News, Va.

Three hurricanes bombarded the eastern coast last year, taking 250 lives and causing countless millions of dollars of damage. Hazel, which claimed 177 lives, proved the worst. Connie's early path and hesitant wait before lashing the coast was reminiscent of Hazel's actions.

Assailant Sought After Cab Driver Cut With Bottle

Otis C. Lopez, driver of a City Cab, was treated at Cowper Hospital during pre-dawn hours today for a three inch slash on his right arm.

Police officers said that the driver was cut when a Negro threw a wine bottle at him. There apparently was an argument over the fare, it was reported.

The Negro had not been arrested today, but police said they have a good description of him. Lopez was injured near the West End Cafe in Northwest Big Spring about 2 a. m.

He was taken to Cowper for first aid treatment and released shortly afterwards. Lopez lives at Elm Courts.

Ex-Officer To Enter Hospital In Dallas

Albert V. (Curley) Brown, who has been in Medical Arts Hospital for the past six weeks, will be transferred to the Methodist Hospital in Dallas tomorrow.

He will be placed under the care of specialists, it was reported. Brown, a former policeman here, operates a shoe repair shop in the 400 block of Main.

Three Cases Filed

Three cases were filed in Justice Court this morning. One man was charged with having an improper exhaust on his vehicle and another was charged with speeding. A third man was fined $15.50 for having no tail lights on his car.

QBC Stages Initial Conclave At 7:30

Friends of football and of Big Spring High School will try to give the pigskin sport a push toward an early start at the year's first meeting of the Big Spring Quarterback Club this evening.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Bill Hart, the San Angelo sports writer, goes out on a limb in picking the Big Spring Steers to win the District I-AAA football championship this fall.

Most coaches and writers around the state are looking for the Snyder Tigers to come up with their greatest team and run off and hide from the other clubs.

Bill says Snyder hasn't proved to him it has the staying power or the ability to come through in the clutch. He selects Big Spring because of the size of the Steers and their overwhelming numbers.

Mickey Umphlett, the Longhorn League arbiter, spent five years and three months with the Armed Forces in Europe before returning to America to take up umpiring in professional baseball.

During practically his entire stay over there, Mickey was assigned to Special Services with an artillery unit and picked up extra change by umpiring from four to five games a week at $10 a game. He was a corporal.

Umphlett might have made the Army his career had he not been put on orders to return stateside and been informed he was going to be transferred to the infantry.

At the time Mickey got his orders to return to the U. S., the order to bring the boys home applied to all who had been in Europe as long as five years. Some had been stationed there since Normandy and kept "re-upping" in order to stay.

Umphlett doesn't know what he'll do after the Longhorn League season ends.

He had first planned to return to his home in Norfolk, Va., but W. J. Green, the league presy, indicated he would get him winter employment in this area, so he may hang around.

Both Marcus Job and Frank Billings were Washington Senator chatters, at one time.

Job and Jim Newberry of the Big Spring Cosden Cop mound staff played together at Abilene part of last season.

Marcus, incidentally, is above average as a catcher. Both he and Luis Caballero are prepared to don the catching harness in event anything should happen to Huck Doe.

Kenny Peacock, a brother to Odessa's Eddie Peacock and one-time feared hitter of the Sweetwater Swatters, is no longer playing baseball. He's now married and working in Sinton, which has a fine semi-pro ball club. Kenny went into baseball retirement after suffering an injury to his hand, however.

Potato Pascual, the Hobbs' veteran, is probably baseball's shortest first baseman.

Nick Cappelli says he can eat spaghetti off Potato's head and Nick stands only 5-foot-7 1/2.

Kosse Hill, the leading hurler of the Cops at the present time, says his weight has shrunk from 190 to 170 since the season began. Adds it effects his stamina, too.

There's talk a group of local friends of football will raise funds to double the size of the dressing room located in the baseball park just beyond the north fence of Steer Stadium, to provide facilities for the Eighth Grade gridders.

During baseball season, the local professional team, of course, uses it as a dressing room, after which the Ninth Grade football team takes over.

Joe Bob Clendenin had a single and a double in the seventh for the winners.

For the Devils, J. B. Davis hit one home run and Preston Daniels (two).

Rookie Star

An up-and-coming player with the St. Louis Cardinals is Thomas (Pete) Whisenant, an outfielder from Asheville, N. C. He came up from Atlanta, where he hit .285 in 1954. He hit 20 home runs and had 94 RBIs last year.

Cops Lose 5th Straight Game By 8-5 Tally

ARTESIA, N.M. (SC) — Big Spring's losing skein mounted to five in a row as Artesia swept a three-game series from the Cosden Cops by winning here Wednesday night, 8-5.

Manager Tom Jordan clubbed two home runs for the NuMexers, who moved to within a half game of the top spot by winning. In all, he batted in three runs and Allen Siff topped the pitching win.

Huck Doe did practically all the clutch hitting for Big Spring, driving out a home run (his eighth of the year) and a double. He had four RBIs.

Big Spring's scoring was confined to two innings, the fourth and ninth.

The Cops got only six hits off Siff while the NuMexers were collecting 11 off Jim Newberry, who was in the process of losing his third decision in four verdicts.

Jordan's first home run broke up a 3-3 deadlock in the sixth.

The Cops move over to Roswell this evening to begin a two-game series. They return home Saturday evening to begin a five-game stand, meeting Artesia and San Angelo in that order.

The tickets, good for five home games, sell for $6 each. Persons who held season tickets last year can ask for the same locations anytime during next week, Monday through Friday. Those not picked up will be made available to the first subscriber.

Those who do not have options on locations can leave their names at the office, with instructions on where they'd like to sit, and the orders will be filled in the order in which they were placed, starting Monday, Aug. 22.

SALE OF GRID DUCATS NEARS

Season football tickets for 1954 subscribers will formally go on sale next Monday at the School Tax Office rather than this week, as previously announced, according to Pat Murphy, school business manager.

However, the tax office is accepting cash orders for persons who might be out of town while the ducats are on sale, Murphy added.

Buddy Dike Will Suit Out Again

FORT WORTH (AP)—There's joy in Frogville—Buddy Dike, that mighty Texas Christian fullback of last season, is going to play again.

Dike was injured in mid-season, suffering an injured kidney. He was through with football, but apparently he has made a full recovery because he is conditioning himself with daily drills at his home in San Antonio and says he will be ready to go full speed the first day of practice, Sept. 1.

The return of Dike will pose a happy problem for TCU Coach Abe Martin. Martin moved Vernon Hallbeck, 210-pound junior from San Benito, from guard to fullback in spring training and Hallbeck was a sensation.

Now, if Dike returns, Martin will have two top fullbacks.

Henry, 190, 6 feet 2, was an all-district center for Preston Watson's district champion whirlwinds. A basketball and baseball player, he was voted best all-around boy at Floydada.

TAAAF Bouts Start

HOUSTON (AP)—The Texas Amateur Athletic Assn. Boxing Tournament opens tonight, with about 100 young boxers expected to compete.

In the quartet are an all-state guard of 1953, Jack Leonard of Sweetwater, and three who starred last fall, high-scoring halfback James Dollar of Hale Center, center Jack Henry of Floydada, and halfback John (Brick) Johnson of Big Spring.

Leonard is a 210-pound six-footer who co-captained Pat Gerold's Sweetwater Mustangs two seasons ago. He did not attend college last year.

Dollar amassed 129 points for H. B. Byerly's high scoring Owls. All-regional and twice all-district, Dollar went to the state meet in hurdles and broad jump. He is 6 feet 1 inch tall, weighs 155. Dollar was class salutatorian.

Field Of 105 Poised To Open Play In Tam O'Shanter Meet

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN CHICAGO (AP)—A field of 105 starry-eyed pros today start chasing golf's rainbow for the pots of gold going to the winner of the "World" Tournament at Tam O'Shanter.

One of them will be a wealthy man after the 72 holes are completed Sunday.

The champion receives $50,000, a $35,000 contract for an all-expense paid tour of 55 exhibitions, and an option to play 50 more at $1,000 each.

Without a doubt, this extravaganza, climaxed nearly two weeks of competitive frolic on Tam's 6,000 yard playground, is the world's greatest "choke-up" tournament.

Perhaps the favorite in this year's contest is Doug Ford, who dropped a 46-foot putt yesterday to defeat Roberto de Vicenzo 1-up on the final green of their match in international team competition. The U.S. team swept 6 of the 8 match-play games to take the two-day affair 8 1/2 points to 3 1/2.

A's Not Going Anywhere But They Anchor Others

By ED WILKS The Associated Press

Whoever thought the Kansas City Athletics would have a voice in the American League pennant race? Yet it's been the A's who have had the big say in the snarled flag chase over the past two weeks.

In that span, Lou Boudreau's sixth-place also-rans have thwarted the big contenders in five of nine meetings. And last night, they rapped the Chicago White Sox out of first place with a 5-4 decision, leaving the way clear for Cleveland to claim the lead for the first time since May 21 as Ralph Kiner smacked a ninth-inning grand slammer to trim Detroit 6-4.

That left the Tribe two percentage points ahead of the White Sox, who in turn are four points to the good over New York after the Yankees' 3-2, 13-inning victory over Boston. The defeat sent the Red Sox two games behind.

The A's, who took two of three from Boston and split a four-game set with the Yanks before meeting Chicago 1-1 in their three-game series, belted the Chisox for two first inning runs on back-to-back triples by Vic Power and Enos Slaughter. Hector Lopez then put them beyond reach with a home run and single that made it 5-2.

Chicago had just four hits in seven innings off winner Alex Kellner, one a two-run homer by Minnie Miñoso, while the A's were belting Harry Byrd. Then when reliever Tom Gorman opened the eighth, the Sox got two more runs, one on Bob Nieman's homer, before the righthander fanned Minoso with the bases loaded.

Cleveland had home runs by Al Rosen and Hal Naragon (his first in the majors), but trailed the Tigers 4-2 on the strength of Earl Torgeson's two-run shot off Mike Garcia in the seventh. Then after the pinch singles by Hoot Evers and Hank Folles and Al Smith's bunt single, Kiner put Al Aber's first pitch over the left-field fence.

Two innings earlier, Aber had relieved rookie Jim Bunning to fan Kiner with the bases loaded.

Only Lou Gehrig (23), Jimmy Foxx (17) and Babe Ruth (16) hit more grand-slam homers than Kiner, who has 13, in the majors.

Browns Favored By Two TD's

CHICAGO (AP)—The Cleveland Browns are two-touchdown favorites to take the College All-Stars in their big battle at Soldier Field tomorrow night, but it may not be that easy.

After four years of famine—the last collegiate victory was the 17-7 defeat of the Philadelphia Eagles in 1950—promoters of the game (Chicago Tribune Charities) have introduced a streamlined all-star team in an effort to turn the tide.

The new policy, announced last year after the all-stars' 31-6 defeat by Detroit, finds a hard-bitten crew of old pros led by Curly Lambeau of Green Bay Packer fame calling the shots instead of college coaches, as in former years.

Assisting Lambeau is Steve Owen, once head man of the New York Giants footballers; Hank Anderson, creator of those tough-old-time Chicago Bear Lines, and Hamp Pool, until recently head coach of the Los Angeles Rams.

Those veteran mentors have substituted the wide-open, predominantly passing game of the pros for the more stereotyped play of the collegians. They also have hand-picked 49 huskies for the job at hand, rather than permitting 70 or 80 all-stars to clutter up the camp as in previous years.

This hand-picked "professional model" aggregation recently hung a 9-6 defeat on the Chicago Cardinals in a practice game.

The game was expected to be played under fair skies in a 60-degree temperature.

It will be televised nationally (8:30 p.m. EST-ABC).

Lambeau announced he will start an offensive backfield unit of coach Guglielmi of Notre Dame at quarterback; Dick Moege of Rice and Dave Middleton of Auburn at halfbacks, and Wisconsin's Alan Ameche at fullback.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

A Leaf insect.

Eight questions about leaf insects and harvestmen are to be answered today.

Q. Where are leaf insects found?
A. Chiefly in India and other parts of southern Asia, and on islands near Asia. Several kinds live in Africa and northern Australia.

Q. What is remarkable about leaf insects?
A. They have parts which look like leaves. Sometimes their wings resemble leaves, being green and having ribs like those of leaves. Other leaf insects have leaflike parts on their legs. When these insects rest on the leaves of a bush or tree, it is hard to discover them.

Q. What is a harvestman?
A. A harvestman is a man who helps to gather the harvest, but the name is employed for a spider-like arachnid. Often this arachnid goes under the name of daddy long legs.

Q. What is the origin of the name "harvestman" for the daddy long legs?
A. It is seen, most often, at the time when crops are being harvested.

Q. What does the daddy long legs eat?
A. It feeds on tiny insects. Many of these are so small that a person could hardly see them without a lens.

Q. What is the black marking at the front of the body of a harvestman?
A. If you study this marking through a lens, you will see that it has two parts. These are eyes, set very close together.

Q. Does the daddy long legs die when winter comes?
A. That usually happens, except in warmer parts of the world. It may live through a very mild winter.

Q. If all the adults in this group of arachnids die during winter in a certain section, does this mean the end for them in that section?
A. Not at all. Eggs are laid in late summer or in autumn, and these eggs hatch in the spring.

Tomorrow: Ocean Worms.

Jacobs said that his wife was heating the grease in a deep fryer when the hot grease exploded into flame.

Pastor Describes 'Heresy' Charges

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Rev. John Gerberding, second small town Lutheran pastor ordered to a church trial on charges of heresy, made public yesterday the eight charges the church spelled out against him.

Rev. Gerberding, 33, of Menomonee Falls in nearby Waukesha County, was accused by the Northwest Synod of the United Lutheran Church of "preaching and teaching doctrines and opinions" in conflict with official doctrine. He issued a general denial of the charges and said "the thing now is to win the trial."

Dr. Paul E. Bishop of Minneapolis, synod president, said the charges against Pastor Gerberding were "generally" similar to those on which the Rev. George P. Crist Jr., of Durham, also in Waukesha County, was convicted last month. Rev. Crist was suspended from his pulpit. His case is subject to review by the synod convention next spring.

Rev. Crist was found guilty of denying the virgin birth of Christ, the physical resurrection of Christ and the responsibility of Adam for man's sinfulness.

The minister appeared before a synod investigating committee last week. He was told then he will stand trial here Aug. 30.

Ike Wary Of Storm Threat

Pastor Gerberding, father of three children, said "I am sure I will have a fair trial." The trial board will be made up of seven synod pastors.

The formal charges, which Pastor Gerberding made public yesterday, accuse him of "denying the divine authority of the Holy Scripture contrary to the witness of the Scripture itself and contrary to Lutheran confession." He refused to detail the other seven allegations except to say they were "derivative from the first one."

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower, warned off by the threat of hurricane Connie, travels back to Washington by automobile today instead of by plane.

The President arranged to return to Washington for conferences with key administration officials. They include Adm. Robert B. Carney, who is retiring Aug. 17 as chief of naval operations and as a member of the Joint Chiefs of Staff; Secretary of State Dulles; Atty. Gen. Brownell; and Secretary of Welfare Folsom.

Hiccupping Farmer Is Now Suffering In Double-Time

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP)—G. F. Wilson, who started hiccupping shortly after lunch Aug. 2, has started doing it in double time now, his wife says.

The 69-year-old West Texas plains farmer has had only a few breaks from the spasms while sleeping and is in a serious condition in a Lubbock hospital.

Mrs. Wilson said it was the second time her husband has been stricken with marathon hiccups. Twenty-nine years ago, she said, he had a similar seizure. That time, however, they lasted only seven days.

Mrs. Wilson said the only real rest her husband has had during the attack was when the doctors "knocked him out." She did not know whether they used gas or a hypodermic. But she said he got a few hours sleep without hiccupping.

"He has the double hiccups now," Mrs. Wilson said. "They hit him several times a minute. I just don't know how to describe it."

"We've had hundreds of suggestions from well-wishers, and the doctors have tried many of them. But none seem to help."

Wilson was moved here from a Lamesa, Tex., hospital Tuesday after taking his first nourishment in six days Monday. He is now taking small amounts of food, doctors said, but is little improved.

New Tropical Storm Develops

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Another tropical storm, Diane, has developed in the Atlantic about 400 miles northeast of San Juan, P.R., the Weather Bureau reported today in its first advisory on the fourth storm of the season.

The advisory:

Ships reports indicate that a tropical storm has formed in the Atlantic and was located at 7 a.m. EST near latitude 23.0 north, longitude 62.0 west, or about 400 miles northeast of San Juan, P.R. Since no report has been received from near the center this position may be in error by as much as one degree.

This storm appears to be moving toward the west-northwest or northwest at about 14 miles per hour attended by winds of 50 to 60 miles per hour near the center and gales outward 100 miles.

Further intensification is expected during the next 24 hours with movement continuing about the same.

City Tax Payments Decline This Year

Collections made by the city tax department during the first four months of this fiscal year are considerably lower than those made during the same months of last fiscal year.

Only $10,402.37 had been collected between April and July of this year, while $14,017.47 had been collected in that period last year. The decrease is $3,615.10.

Current tax collections so far this year have been greater than last year, the comparison being $7,136.97 to $3,315.93, but delinquent tax collections have been much smaller, this year's at $1,648 while last year's were at $7,949.58.

July collections, as tabulated by tax collector C. E. Johnson, were $1,359.36 for this year as compared with $2,920.08 last year.

A breakdown on collections so far this fiscal year follows: current taxes, $7,136.97; penalty current taxes, $236.68; delinquent taxes, $1,648.95; interest and costs, $327.23; occupation tax, $288; dog tax, $43; tax certificates, $74; bus franchise, $176.53; taxi-cab franchise, $431.21; and taxi-bus drivers licenses, $28.

Water Bills Up, But Usage Down

Less water was used by Big Spring residents during July this year than during July last year, but water bills this July were higher.

Only 173,291.800 gallons of water were consumed here in July. In July of 1954 a total of 189,266,000 gallons were used.

However water bills this July totaled $70,094.59, which records show is an increase of $11,835.87 over the $58,258.72 billed in July of last year.

This inconsistency results from the way water bills are compiled. They are not based on a calendar month as are the actual consumption records. Consequently July's bills are for part of the water consumed in June.

Actually this July's water bills, covering part of June's use, were for 188,773,700 gallons. Those for July last year were based on only 144,688,000 gallons.

FIRST PRESIDENT OF WTPA
J. L. Martin to be honored Friday

AT COLORADO CITY Area Press Group To Honor Leaders

COLORADO CITY, (SC) — J. L. Martin, first president of West Texas Press Association, and all other past presidents will be honored at a luncheon Friday, in connection with the association's 25th annual Silver Jubilee convention at Colorado City's Civic House.

Although he and his trusty Oliver typewriter retired from the newspaper business 10 years ago, H. L. Martin of Abilene still beats out an occasional article and has just completed a 45,000-word manuscript entitled "A Backwoods Professor and the Three R Method."

The old typewriter is getting a much-needed rest now, however, while the veteran West Texas editor is recovering from a broken arm. But that mere broken arm won't prevent him from attending the Silver Jubilee at Colorado City, according to his son, Jimmie Martin, editor of West Texas Utilities Company's employe magazine, "The Electric Times," who intends to drive his father the 70 miles to the Colorado City convention.

In spite of his 82 years, the elder Martin is mentally alert and enjoys recalling his many early day newspaper experiences in West Texas.

In 1930 while publishing the Scurry County Times-Signal in Snyder, he and Wed Reed, editor of the Colorado City Record, started the wheels in motion to organize the West Texas Press Association. Martin was named its first president, and Reed was elected the first secretary-treasurer.

Martin is perhaps the last of the old-time West Texas editors, who pioneered in this area where paved highways were unheard of and a linotype machine was practically unknown in the country weekly print shop.

Coming to West Texas in 1913, he purchased the Foard County News in Crowell and while there served as president of the old Northwest Texas Press Association, and was a long-time member of the Texas Press Association.

Born in Howard County, Missouri, in 1873, he is the son of John Martin of Kentucky, who was a pioneer Missouri farmer.

During his 50 years experience in the newspaper field, Martin owned and operated the following Missouri newspapers: Hale Leader, Triplet Tribune, Hale Hustler-Leoner and The Herald. In Texas he owned and operated The El Campo Citizen, Ford County News at Crowell, Royce City News-Times, Mexia Evening News, Knox City Journal, Scurry County Times-Signal, Heart O' Texas News at Brady, Brownwood News, Childress Daily Index, Lamesa Reporter, McCamey News and the McCullough County News (now the Brady Herald), which he sold in 1941. Martin moved to Abilene in 1945.

During his active years he published several books among which are "Just a Missourian," a story of the Missouri Hills; "Monkey Mileage from Amoeba to Man," a scientific-biblical work aimed at disproving the theory of evolution; "It Happened Here in West Texas," a collection of early stories and traditions of West Texas; "Soft Soap," a humorous work of poems

Farmer Finds Shaky Going On Volcano Slopes

ZAFFERANA ETNA, Sicily (AP) — Giovanni Barbagallo farms on the side of a volcano.

Year after year he has felt the earth tremble beneath his feet, seen flames lash 500 feet into the air high above his farm, watched the red glow of lava creep down upon his orchard. Why does he stay?

The 60-year-old farmer shrugged as he watched the latest eruption of Mt. Etna.

"It's a living. I inherited the farm from my father before me. If I left, I would be unemployed. There would be nothing for me to hand on to my sons."

Danger? The bronzed farmer thought a moment.

"I have seen too many eruptions to give much thought to the danger."

"The worst is the work. It's hard farming up here. It is backbreaking hard."

"There's a sort of family tradition, following the old pattern, like all of us who climb the mountain to our farms from Zafferana or Milo or Fornazzo or Passopisciaro or Linguaglossa."

"I was only 10 when I first started making the climb, to help my father."

"I can never tell you of the weariness, the long, long walk up trails twisting through the hard, lava beds."

"Most of the way is by half light. We start long before dawn. We have to carry blankets and food for a week on our backs, to avoid making the trip daily."

Giovanni plants mostly rye, between rows of his apple and nut trees.

"It's not ordinary farming," Giovanni explained. "You can't use a plow on Etna. Her hide is too tough and too old. You have to spade by hand, with muscle. But the volcanic soil is rich. Crops are good."

'Engagement' Joke Was Real

LIVERPOOL, England, (AP) — Yvonne Mai, 23, director of a leading fashion house in Egypt, met Capt. Ibrahim el Sayed Ebeid, master of the liner Star of Suez, in Cairo several times.

They were friends, but she was surprised by his request after they sailed from Alexandria on the vessel's last voyage.

The captain blushing asked her to pretend to be his fiancée. He confessed he had told friends they were engaged, offering as proof some photos taken on Miss Mai's earlier trip aboard his ship.

Miss Mai thought it would be all right — just as a joke.

The Star of Suez docked here yesterday and Yvonne and the 40-year-old captain walked down the gangplank arm in arm.

Two hours later they were married.

Woman Accident Victim Discovered Wandering In Daze

DENISON, Tex. (AP) — An Oklahoma woman who wandered away in a daze from a car-train wreck Tuesday was found Wednesday in a field, crying hysterically and covered with fresh and dried blood.

Mrs. Mary Pittman, Durant, Okla., was brought to a hospital here where attendants said she had possible fractures of both arms and was suffering from shock. The field was about 200 yards from the highway.

She was a passenger in a car driven by Wayne Purvis, 22, Bokchito, Okla., which crashed into the 31st car of a 100-car M-K-T freight train four miles north of here. Purvis was in a fair condition today.

"I just got lost. I just got lost," Mrs. Pittman repeated between sobs. She wasn't able to give details of the accident except that she remembered Purvis saying "uh oh" and then "he slammed on the brakes."

Nine cars of the freight train were derailed and the M-K-T Railroad Bridge over the Red River knocked out of use temporarily when the train, its crew unaware it was dragging a partially-derailed boxcar, rammed into the bridge.

Several Jobs Are Now Available Here

Several positions for cooks and waitresses are now open, according to C. A. Williamson at the Texas Employment Commission. Williams said there is also an opening for a route man with a high school education and a commercial driving license.

Two part-time jobs for junior college students will be available this fall, Williams said. Hours will be arranged and the salary will be on a commission basis.

Stanton Girl Wins Martin Dress Revue For 3rd Time

The Martin County 4-H Club Dress Revue has been won by Miss Elaine Haslewood. This is the third time she has won the dress-making contest during the seven years she has entered.

She will now compete in the district contest at Odessa later this month; and if she is one of the three top winners there, she will enter the state contest at Dallas in October.

She graduated from Stanton High School last spring and plans to enter McMurry College at Abilene, where she will major in home economics. The dress which she made and wore in the contest was a wool costume suit.

In addition to the honor of winning, Miss Haslewood received prizes from several Stanton stores. The Wilson and the Devenport stores contributed dress length material, and the Sheila Dress Shop, Stanton Drug and Hall's Drug gave gift certificates.

Her 4-H Club work is under the supervision of Mrs. James Eiland, Martin County Home Demonstration Agent.

Mrs. Eiland is also supervisor of home demonstration work in Glasscock County and will accompany the winners of the two counties to the revue at Odessa. The Glasscock winner was Susan Bedner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Bedner of the St. Lawrence community.

Susan is 15 years of age and will be a junior in the Garden City High School this coming school term. The dress that won the contest was made of Pinna broadcloth and cost only $8.55, according to Mrs. Eiland.

Winners in the contests are judged on the construction of the garment, quality of work, and the way it looks when worn by the girl. Also, the contestant's poise, grooming and general appearance are considered in the judging, as well as her record in 4-H Club activities.

Boy Strangled By Harmonica Holder

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — Larry George Weiland, 13, was strangled in his bedroom yesterday by a harmonica holder he had rigged up himself. He was found slumped over the edge of his bed with one end of a belt tied to a metal rod at the head of the bed and the other end looped around his neck.

The support was designed to hold a harmonica to his mouth and free both hands to play a guitar. A deputy coroner said the mattress apparently slipped off the edge of the bed and carried the youth with it, causing the belt to tighten around his neck.

Baby Abandoned At Ball Field

HOBBS, N.M. (AP) — A blue-eyed, black-haired boy baby 8 to 10 days old was abandoned in an automobile parked at the Hobbs Baseball Park last night.

A note left with the child gave instructions for mixing his formula, told his name, and said:

"Please take care of my little son. I love him so very much. Tell him some day that mommy will always love him and worry that he's well or not."

"Dear God, forgive me, but I just can't find another way. Don't let anyone have him that won't love him."

"Call him Gary. He is legal. Take good care of him. Put in paper so I'll know he's OK. Love Mommy."

ATOMIC SURVIVAL

If You See A Brilliant Flash, Duck—You May Live After All

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

NEW YORK (U)—A brilliant silent eerie light, like nothing you've seen before, marks the beginning of an atomic blast.

If it ever comes, don't look at it, or you might be blinded for life.

If you sense such a flash, duck, fall flat or jump behind some protection. You could be injured by being knocked down by the blast, or by flying debris.

Out in the open, you have a better chance if you fall flat. And a still better one if you could duck behind a ravine, behind any little hillock, into a hole, in town, fling yourself behind the protection of some building, if there is time.

In Nevada, hundreds of persons have crouched quite safely in trenches within two miles or less of atomic blasts as big or bigger than those exploded over Japan. These people would undoubtedly have been safe even closer.

The light comes first, and with it, simultaneously, the flash of heat and the X-rays unleashed by the bomb. They are all quickly gone. Next comes the blast.

If you're in an automobile, open the windows a bit and fall flat on the seat or floor.

Autos have been exposed to test bombs. With windows closed, windows and windshields often were blown in, and broken glass could cut occupants. Tops were caved in. But with windows slightly open, this damage often did not happen.

Underground shelters are, obviously, the best protection. But even shelters that stand above ground could save many lives in areas outside the immediate center of destruction. Concrete shelters—usable as toolsheds or spare storage rooms near homes that lacked strong basement shelters—stood up well despite being within a half mile or so of the atomic blast in Nevada last May.

Animals survived that blast in those shelters. These animals now are being observed to learn whether humans in such shelters might have suffered harm from the blast effects, or from radiation.

The heat flash is one hazard of atomic blasts. An intense heat wave reaches out, capable of giving skin flash burns, or setting fire to highly ignitable materials.

The intensity—the ability to cause burns—falls off extremely rapidly with distance from the bomb. Generally speaking, anything which is dense enough to cast a shadow can give protection against the flash burn.

The heat flash can start fires.

So can a blast which might knock over a kerosene lamp or even a candle.

Danger from fires started by pilot lights on gas stoves may be very minor. In one test home in Nevada, the blast blew out the pilot light on a kitchen gas stove, with no fire or damage.

Closed venetian blinds in one test stopped the heat flash, preventing fires of draperies or furniture. The blinds were blown down by the blast arriving some seconds later.

One atomic specialist gives this advice: "If you see or sense that intense light, duck, and count to 10. If you reach 10, you have survived. Then you can check to see whether you have suffered any injuries."

There still could be hazard from radioactive fall-out.

THE SPRINGBOARD

News From Webb Air Force Base
By BILL SEILER

REVIEW NEXT TUESDAY

Graduation of jet pilot Class 55-T next Tuesday morning will be highlighted by another 2,000-man review of the base's officers and airmen.

Class 55-T is composed of one first lieutenant, 30 second lieutenants and seven Portuguese student officers, training here under the provisions of the MDAP agreement.

The wing review will begin on the flight ramp at 9 a. m., with parade music by the 3560th USAF Band, led by M-Sgt. Morley Wallis.

Following the review, formal commencement exercises will be held in the Academics Auditorium at 10 a. m. The guest speaker will be Dr. D. M. Wiggins, executive vice president of the Citizens National Bank, Lubbock, and a man prominent in the Texas educational field.

RESTRICTIONS EASED

Webb's Federal Credit Union, which has much exceeded beyond expectations, this week announced a new policy change.

Effective Monday, all restrictions will be removed on loans to members. Although the amounts will be unlimited, within reason, all loans will be subject to approval by the credit committee.

Loan applications will be considered carefully on their merits, it was explained by T-Sgt. Clarence A. Rose, president of the board of directors. Interest rates remain pegged at one per cent a month on the unpaid balance of the loan.

The credit union came into being at Webb last April, starting with 20 charter members. Since then membership has snowballed to more than 280 shareholders.

NEW M&S EXECUTIVE

Major Maurice A. January, of San Francisco, has reported on the Base to take over duties as executive of the Maintenance and Supply Group under Col. Newton D. Hagins.

A senior pilot, Maj. January's most recent assignment was a materiel adviser to the Royal Netherlands Air Force, in Holland. He is a combat veteran of the war in the Pacific.

YEARBOOK PLANNED

Work on a pictorial review for Webb will begin here sometime next week, it was learned from the publishers, the Army and Navy Publishing Co., Inc.

Compiled in book form, 8 1/2 by 11 inches and with hard durable cover, the review will be much the same as many high school and college annuals. Covering the mission and present-day activities of Webb in pictures, the yearbook will also contain the individual portraits of all assigned personnel, both military and civilian.

All pictures and material will be closely handled for accuracy and will tell the complete story, which will make an attractive souvenir to be referred to in later years.

OPENING DATE NEARS

Webb's new Base Exchange, which has been under construction for the past few months, is scheduled for the grand opening on or before August 29, announces 1st Lt. Willard P. Stong, exchange officer.

On the opening day store hours will be from noon until 8 p. m., and free merchandise prizes will be given away all day. The gifts, totalling more than $300, will include watches, razors, manicure kits, clocks, suitcases and jackets.

The new store, which takes up 5,280 square feet, is almost three times larger than the present one.

CLUB REMODELING

Work started Monday on the installation of acoustic tiling on the ballroom ceiling at the NCO Club, it was announced by M-Sgt. Robert A. Hayes, club secretary.

While the renovation work will not call for the closing of the bar, it will cause some inconvenience for members and their guests. However, he pointed out, the work is necessary to the overall objective of improving club facilities.

Game nights will continue to be held on Wednesdays during the remodeling, he stated, and all scheduled activities will continue. No additional dances will be booked during the time that the ceiling is being recovered.

Steno Admits Slaying Lover

CHICAGO (U)—A 43-year-old stenographer last night fatally shot a policeman, her admitted sweetheart, after, she said, he taunted her about being interested in another woman.

Police said Mrs. Catherine Lonergan in a statement said she picked up the policeman's revolver from a dresser in a Near North Side hotel room, knelt down beside him and fired one bullet into his head.

The policeman, John L. Kelly, 48, is father of three children. Asst. State's Attorney Frank Ferlic said Mrs. Lonergan related in a lengthy statement she didn't know the gun was loaded. He said he will go before the grand jury and seek a murder indictment.

AEC Expert Praises Find

QUITAQUE, Tex. (U)—An Atomic Energy Commission field man, Jim Allison of Albuquerque has labeled an uranium find near here as "the best I have seen in West Texas."

Four samples have tested .62 per cent. Allison said .15 per cent is considered profitable.

The veins were found on the Doyle and Clyde Saul Ranch. The Sauls are attempting to find whether the deposits are large as well as rich. Core samples are being taken.

The ranch is about half way between Quitaque and Silverton. The find is in rough country.

A Bible Thought For Today

As he come forth of his mother's womb, naked shall he return to go as he came, and shall take nothing of his labor, which he may carry away in his hand. (Ecc. 5:15)

School Policy Calls For Sound Judgment

To easy task has it been for this community to approach even the start of a solution to the racial integration issue, as required in our schools by the Supreme Court. This is the first factor that the public should understand.

Members of the Big Spring board of trustees, acutely aware of a responsibility that had to be met, have pondered many weeks over a policy, have talked to many people, both white and Negro.

So their decision of Tuesday night to initiate action by opening grade schools on a segregated basis was arrived at after due deliberation. There was a minority opinion, also conscientiously expressed, and with this view there are many others doubtless in agreement.

But the majority feeling was that a step had to be taken, and that to delay it might possibly compound the troubles. There was also the feeling that, if good judgment prevails throughout the community, and the thinking people exercise calmness and preach deliberation to all others, this change in our social order can be accomplished with a minimum of feeling.

We think this is the important point: for the public to accept an inevitable circumstance with sound and moderate thinking; to have no part in "hot-head" agitation, and to try to do everything possible to encourage an orderly process. You can bring on trouble, you know, just by talking trouble too much.

The school board has not taken any radical action. It took what seems to us the most intelligent step that could be taken under the circumstances. However this was done with reluctance, and however many of our good citizens feel that it is unfortunate necessity, something had to be done in the way of a beginning.

Since there are ample school facilities for the Negroes in their own area, in the higher grade levels, and since the Junior High facilities for white children already are extremely congested, the board has decided that these levels shall remain segregated until such physical plant expansion can be made to accommodate the whole pupil load. And the trustees have stated that it would be better, from a standpoint of awaiting the results of experience, to keep the High School segregated until the Junior High problem is worked out.

The crux of the matter is that with this school term, the elementary schools are open to pupils of all races. This does not necessarily have to be a major problem. It can be met in accordance with the Supreme Court order, it can be met in such a way to satisfy the colored people, and it can be met in such fashion that the old order of school operation, as we in the South have known it, does not have to be undermined altogether. You could all this wishful thinking, but we repeat that sound judgment in the community can help bring it about.

It has taken a great deal of courage on the part of the school board to initiate this step, and its members are due support, not censure, in attempting to fulfill their official obligation as they see it.

Benny Goodman Quartet Reunited

HOLLYWOOD — One of the most famous foursomes has been reunited in Hollywood — the Benny Goodman quartet.

Solid five is emanating from Universal-International, where they are filming "The Benny Goodman Story." For swing fans, the big news is the rejoining of Lionel Hampton, Gene Krupa, Teddy Wilson plus the great Benny in the combo that used to send the ragcutters back in the frantic '30s.

Benny's mellow licorice stick will be heard in the picture, but he's being portrayed by Steve Allen, the TV wisecracker. The remaining trio will play themselves. Though some of the scenes take place 20 years ago, no makeup tricks are needed. All seem to have aged very little since the jitterbug days.

"How do they do it?" "It certainly can't be from good, clean living," laughed Krupa.

Maybe it's the music that keeps them young. At any rate, they sparkled in a scene in which Goodman, Krupa and Wilson discovered Hampton in a Los Angeles night spot. This actually happened in 1936. Watching the scene on the sidelines was Goodman himself, also remarkably young-looking for his 46 years.

Between scenes, the other members of the trio told what they have been doing since the quartet broke up. Baby of the outfit is vibraphonist Lionel Hampton, 41, the only one who has stuck with a big band.

"I left Benny and formed my own band in 1940," said Hampton. "We had been playing at Avalon when Benny got sick with his back ailment and flew to Rochester, Minn., to see the Mayo brothers. He broke up the band. I've been touring with my own band ever since."

Krupa, 46, scarcely looks 30. He's still the fast-cracking, gun-bleating character that anyone alive. He left the Goodman band in 1938.

"I kept my big band until 1951," he remarked. "Then I broke it up to play in small combos. Nowadays there's more money in small combos than big bands."

Teddy Wilson, 42, soft-spoken and a sublime piano player, left the BG band to form his own in 1938.

"It lasted about a year," he recalled. "It had been badly set up by the management."

Since then, he has played in small night club combos, rejoined Benny briefly, toured Europe and lately dabbled in radio and TV in New York.

Buyer's Paradise Threatened

NEW YORK — Rising prices of industrial materials are creeping in today to threaten the buyer's paradise that consumers have been enjoying.

Example: The price of natural rubber went up some time back. Makers of tires in this country fretted but consumers paid little attention. But now tires are going up 60 to 70 cents at the retail level.

Food prices mostly have been steady to lower. As a whole they'll probably stay that way.

But from Brazil comes a report of a freeze and unprecedented snow. Just two years ago a similar report set off the big inflation in green coffee prices that brought roasted coffee to $1.25 a pound retail. Already coffee "futures" are advancing.

Prices of many of the materials used by manufacturers have risen fairly steadily this year.

Steel prices have gone up $7.50 a ton on the average. A hike in the steel freight rate for both rail and motor carriers has just been recommended by an Interstate Commerce Commission examiner. This puts still more pressure on steel prices.

Copper prices at the refinery hold at 36 cents a pound, but so scarce is the metal that some eager consumers are paying premiums up to 15 cents a pound for any they can find. A copper strike last summer started the scarcity, and another this summer is making it acute.

Aluminum this week is advancing one cent a pound. Talk of lead and zinc prices going up again is being revived.

As metal prices go up the makers of countless consumer items weigh their chances of passing the costs along to the ultimate buyer of manufactured products.

Some building materials have inched higher this year, helped along by higher wage rates and by shortages brought on by the building boom on which government officials are now laying a mild curb.

Fall lines of furniture tend to carry higher prices tags.

All these price hikes have brought the government's index of wholesale nonfarm commodities almost to the high level set in March 1951 at the peak of the Korean War inflation.

If a new inflation should be in the making it apparently will be in man-made goods, while the things nature provides will lag behind.

Spray Dispensers

CHICAGO — Spray dispensers which were first used to spread insect killer in World War II jungle fighting have developed into a major U.S. business. About 185 million units were filled last year by 145 firms for a 190-million-dollar business.

More than 300 products from shave lather to paint remover are now packaged in spray cans under 200 brands. Included are hair oil, deodorants, suntan oil, hand lotion, perfumes.

George Barr, who heads one of the largest firms, says prospects are that you will be using even more spray cans in the future. Not only is the market for present products expanding, but more products are being spray-can-packaged, he reports.

Himself handicapped by a missing leg, Barr says the work of filling the cans is important in employment of handicapped people.

GOP Puts All Its Hopes On Ike

WASHINGTON — The Republicans are contentedly putting all their bets on President Eisenhower's running again and winning in 1956, and the Democrats are gloomy about their prospects if he does.

That's the picture which emerges from this year's governors' conference in Chicago where most of the states' chief executive, Republican and Democratic, are meeting to discuss politics and their mutual problems.

At Chicago nearly all the Republicans who have done any talking for print are not speaking in terms of any Republican presidential candidate except Eisenhower. The Democrats who talked are divided and unenthusiastic about their prospects.

Because the Republicans are putting all their eggs into Eisenhower's basket, they seem destined for panic next spring if he says he will not seek another term. He has said he would decide in the spring.

They won't have much time left then to build up a successor for him. No other Republican is outstanding. But they probably won't have any more trouble picking a candidate in 1956—if Eisenhower doesn't run—than the Democrats.

The Democrats' hopes would soar, of course, if Eisenhower were out of the picture.

Here are some samples of what the Democrats at Chicago had to say:

Gov. Abraham A. Ribicoff of Connecticut: He doubts any of the three top Democratic candidates now could carry his state. The one he named: Adlai Stevenson. The Democrats' unsuccessful 1952 candidate: Gov. Averell Harriman of New York; and Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee.

Gov. Robert B. Meyner of New Jersey: As of today there's doubt any Democrat could beat Eisenhower in 1956. There is more sentiment in his state for Stevenson.

He then for Harriman, he said, although he thinks Harriman is interested in the nomination. (Harriman reaffirmed his own preference for Stevenson. He said he wouldn't encourage a move to nominate him. But he declined to say he would discourage it, either. This can be interpreted as running while standing still.)

And Gov. Frank J. Lausche of Ohio—one Republican said Lausche was the best man the Democrats could find—issued what must be the master understatement of the year. He didn't say he would like the Democratic nomination in 1956. He said he would not seek it "avidly or fanatically." This leaves him plenty of room to seek it without acting silly.

The best Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan seemed able to think of at the moment was more negative than positive. He said Eisenhower, now 64, is an "old man." Immediately Republican governors rushed to the defense of old men.

The Republicans, who offered no doubts about Eisenhower's candidacy and victory next year, appeared divided among themselves only on the question of what Democrat would be easiest to beat.

Gov. Goodwin J. Knight of California, while predicting another Eisenhower victory, though Stevenson would be a softer touch than Harriman. So did Gov. Arthur B. Langlie of Washington.

Gov. George N. Craig of Indiana thought the Republicans would have an easier time knocking off Harriman. It was Craig who suggested the Democrats could put their best foot forward by nominating Lausche.

A Little-Known Lincoln Speech

GETTYSBURG, Pa. — Almost 6,000 men had been killed in the battle. Hundreds more were dying by the day. Gettysburg — a peaceful bustling town today — was a charnel house in 1863.

So, to bury the dead, a cemetery was started. And a consecration ceremony was decided upon. That called for an orator. Edward Everett was the silver-tongued choice of all concerned.

Would he come? He would, he informed the committee, but he was a busy man. Couldn't they put the ceremony off a month or so?

They could and did — for Edward Everett. Then, pretty much as an afterthought, they sent an invitation to the President of the United States.

He came — on the date selected by Edward Everett.

Abraham Lincoln and his party came by train, after a horse-powered switch from one railroad to another at Baltimore. He walked from the station to David Wills' house in the village square.

There he stayed the night. He knew he would be called upon to make a few remarks so he brought some notes from Washington. He didn't think much of this first draft so he called in the reigning expert, Edward Everett who was not the first nor the last outside consultant called in to help on a presidential address.

In the end, though, it was Abe Lincoln's speech. He wrote it, painstakingly, on a little oval table you still can see in a little room over a drugstore here in Gettysburg.

But he didn't get to deliver it on schedule.

For one thing, the parade to the cemetery was late in starting. Then Edward Everett was a half-hour late arriving at the cemetery. He had been out inspecting the battlefield.

Every school child has been told what happened next. Everett spoke for two hours.

"Standing beneath this serene sky," he began, "overlooking these broad fields . . ."

It got pretty deadly before he was through.

Abraham Lincoln pumped Everett's hand and then spoke his own few words, starting "Four score and seven years ago . . ."

It is a tribute to his audience that those who could hear the President applauded — six times, according to the Adams Sentinel and General Advertiser's correspondent on the scene.

A few hours later, Lincoln stopped by at the Presbyterian Church — where another Republican President, Dwight D. Eisenhower, sometimes worships today. Lincoln didn't stay for the end of the church exercises. His train to Washington was waiting.

Few people remember that, in the midst of all this tumult, Lincoln made another speech. A crowd gathered outside the Wills house and clamored for him. Finally, his tired figure loomed up in the doorway.

"I appear before you, fellow citizens," he said, "to thank you for the compliment. The inference is a fair one that you would hear me for a while, were I to commence to make a speech."

"I do not appear before you for the purpose of doing so, and for several substantial reasons. The most substantial is that I have nothing to say."

"Laughter," reported the newsman on the spot. "In my position," he went on, "it is somewhat important that I should not say foolish things."

"If you can help it," a heckler interrupted, according to the same observer. "It very often happens," concluded the President, "that the only way to help it is to say nothing at all. Believing that is my present condition this evening, I must beg you to excuse me from addressing you further."

What ever became of Edward Everett, anyway?

—ED CREAUGH (For Hal Boyle)

MASON, Mich. — Glenn S. Webster, defeated Democratic nominee for trustee of LeRoy Township, noted his campaign expenses thus: "I hereby certify that all the expenses I have to report in the postage stamp used in returning this document to the county clerk's office."

Around The Rim

Vacations Go Too Fast For Fun

Vacations, much as I like 'em, leave me fit to be tied.

Most of mine I can't enjoy, for worrying over the speed with which the days flit past. Meanwhile I wear myself down physically trying to take advantage of every minute "off." Not to mention the financial crisis the vacation always brings on.

I guess vacations are like most everything else. Anticipation brings the greatest joy. The first day off is just about as enjoyable, for me at least.

"Well, it's here at last," I tell myself. "Two whole weeks with nothing to do except what I want to . . ."

The second day, I start to worry. Just a little, at first. That's when I start realizing it's getting away. If you count today, there are only 13 days left, my subconsciousness tells me.

The third day, that reminding voice is a little louder, and by the fourth day it's actually screaming, "She's more than a fourth gone now, boy. Just 10 more days and you're going back to the grindstone. Better enjoy it while you can!"

But who could enjoy it, with that subconscious clock whirring off the hours and the days. By the time the first week is past I'm generally in acute misery, wishing that somehow I could have put my leave off a little longer.

By that time, the purse is getting pretty thin, too, and I'm worrying about the bills I left behind. Why'n't the heck didn't we just skip the vacation this year.

It's too late for that, though, so better make the most of it while you've got a nickel left, I convince myself again. And that's where the torture starts. Time flies when you sleep, so the best thing to do is quit sleeping, I decide. No more afternoon naps, and stay up as late as the eyes will stay open at night.

So rest, which a vacation is at least partially designed for, becomes an impossibility. By the end of the 12th day, I'm a physical and mental wreck, broke and ready to go home. We struggle back, and on the 14th day, satisfied that it's all over, finally start getting some rest. It seems like a good month've been gone, and it's actually good to get back.

And there, I find, is the vacation's last-ling benefit. The job's new again — no drudgery in anything. And there are those little improvements to be made around the house. Plenty of spare time for them now. I'll get started, just as soon as I get rested up . . .

Red China Must Meet Terms To Enter UN

WASHINGTON—Unless Red China withdraws its troops from North Korea and agrees to a plan for the unification of the whole country under the auspices of the United Nations, there is no possibility even of considering the admission of the Peiping government to the U.N.'s Security Council.

This is the plain meaning of a pointed comment by President Eisenhower at his press conference last week the words of which were reported though their significance was generally overlooked. Here is exactly what the President said:

"Now several times I have stated that as long as Red China is branded as an aggressor by the United Nations, which it still is, due to the fact that its armies are still in Korea, we have no choice of our own, and I don't know how the United Nations has a choice of its own.

"There are other outstanding complaints which I have outlined time and again, and I have no idea that under existing circumstances, there would be a change of the kind you indicated in our policy."

The President originally used the phrase "branded as a dictator by the United Nations" but corrected himself later by saying he had intended to use the word "aggressor." His questioner had inquired specifically as to American policy toward Red China commenting that "generally the atmosphere seems to be one in which people now think there has been a change in the attitude of our government toward the possible recognition of the legitimacy of the Chinese government, that is the Chinese Communist government."

It is important to note that while Mr. Eisenhower referred to other "complaints" against the Red Chinese he made his principal point the presence of Red China's troops today in North Korea. His argument was that Red China not only had been branded an aggressor by the United Nations but "still is due to the fact that its armies are in North Korea."

This, in the President's view, gives neither the United States nor the United Nations any other choice but to bar the way to the admission of Red China. It is a consistent position. It means that admission is being denied not on the basis of the kind of government established ideologically by the Communists at Peiping but on the kind of government that exists as an external menace—a government that not only has refused to honor international obligations in the treatment of foreign nationals but also has refused even to acknowledge that it sent its armies into Korea.

Mr. Eisenhower has dramatically called attention to Red China's status as a continuous aggressor. Most people may have forgotten that originally a United Nations commission was sent to Korea and recommended that an independent government be set up and that the Russians as well as the United States withdraw their troops stationed there as a result of World War II. America did and so did the Russians in 1949 but the Communists then set up a puppet government in North Korea. There may be some theoretical argument for the existence of a North Korean army as an internal factor but there is no valid basis whatsoever for the presence today of a Red China army in North Korea or its occupation of any Korean territory since October 1950. Yet such a realistic fact is overlooked by European governments which are urging the unification of Germany but seem willing to abandon the task of unifying Korea even though this mission was specifically entrusted to the United Nations.

There can be no settlement of the Korean question without guarantees that the independence of an all-Korean government chosen in free elections will be respected by the Communists.

There can be no settlement of the Formosa issue until free elections can be held inside China so that all Chinese may choose their form of government uncoerced by a dictatorship and its armies.

To admit an aggressor government into the U.N. now would cause the leaders of both political parties in the United States to demand withdrawal of America from the U.N. They are on record to that effect. The loss of this country to the U.N. is too big a price for European countries to pay to appease the Communists in the interest of trade or anything else. For if America splits with its allies on the Red China issue it could conceivably affect foreign aid and other U.S. relations with Europe.

The President's remarks at his press conference show why admission of Red China to the U.N. is unthinkable on the basis of anything that has happened thus far. But they also constructively point out the course Red China must follow if she wants to be taken into the family of civilized nations.

Calculated Risk On Tight Money Policy

"Okay, so maybe they should have done it sooner. But they did it. That's what'll go down in the history books. And it took guts — good, old-fashioned guts."

I'm walking along quiet-like, observing houses on the crowded city streets, and suddenly my mind's working like an airplane propeller. I have a mental half nelson on myself arguing about the Eisenhower Administration, about its decision to raise the price of money.

"Now, when you go to a bank to borrow," I find myself saying to myself, "you'll discover that bankers are again wearing their expressionless glass eyes. Do you want an installment loan? The bankers will ask searching questions about your income, your family's income, and the length of time you've been on the job."

"Are you a business man? The banker will scrutinize your income account carefully and your balance sheet. He'll want to know in detail the state of incoming orders. President Eisenhower, Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey, and the Federal Reserve Board have fixed it so banks will have to be selective in making loans. No longer are banks loaded up with extra reserves. Therefore, they'll give the glass-eye treatment to strangers and poorer risks."

"That's going to have repercussions," I tell myself. "You can't have bankers turn down loans without people asking why. The banker won't say, 'You're not a good risk.' Why offend the fellow? Someday he may be a good risk. No, bankers, being human, will say: 'Money's tight. The government's cracking down on loans. We're forced to ration credit.'"

"That's good economics," I tell myself. "But is it good politics?" I demand, breaking out of the half nelson, and clamping on a hammerlock. "It's going to make a lot of people sore at Eisenhower and the Republicans as in 1953."

"Then, the Republican Administration tightened credit. Tough installment terms slowed up sales of automobiles. The United Auto Workers protested. Men were losing jobs. The automobile companies presented charts to members of the Federal Reserve Board and officials of the Treasury. If the money supply didn't keep rising, the charts implied, there'd be trouble. Fewer sales, less profit, layoffs.

"It wasn't long before the Administration shifted from a hard-money policy to a soft-money policy, called 'active ease.' And now we've shifted from 'active ease' to 'plain ease,' and to lack of ease—firmness. But this time, a Presidential election's at stake.

"Look," I say, "suppose business begins to slide. Suppose it slides into 1956. What then?" I can feel the mental hammerlock I've got on myself tighten. "That would threaten a Republican victory. Eisenhower, as a campaigner, whether for himself or someone else, wouldn't be able to boast about prosperity. People would grumble about unemployment. The Democrats now hard put to find an election slogan, would pin the slump on Eisenhower, the Republicans, Big Business, and hard money."

"Of course," and now I shift my hold to a scissors, "the Administration is assuming that prosperity is strong enough to withstand a possible reduction in sales of automobiles and homes. It expects prosperity to be in full swing by November, 1956."

"That's the plan, the risk. And that," I say to myself, "takes courage: To apply a squeeze and run the risk of causing your own undoing."

"Not many politicians would do that. They'd rather take a chance on the joyride's lasting. Eisenhower and his economic advisers are taking a risk, a calculated risk, that if tight money precipitates a decline — and it can — they'll be able to reverse the trend before election and have prosperity cooking again."

"The alternative," I answer, "is to just let prosperity boil till it boils over — but all the while hoping it will boil over after election. That's kidding yourself, and kidding the voters. It's trusting to luck. That's what doesn't take courage," I tell myself. Then I simmer down.

I'm walking along — just thinking of this and that. And feeling a lot more comfortable.

Prize Winning Dessert

Mrs. Garland Sanders, 1701 Johnson is fixing to serve a piece of the $100 cake to her guests.

100 Dollar Cake Is Worthy Of Its Name

Here is a recipe for a chocolate cake that, some where down the line, won $100 dollars for some good cook.

Mrs. Garland Sanders, 1701, has the recipe that was given to her by a friend, Mrs. Ralph White of Coahoma, who received it from a friend and so on. Anyway, the cake is a prize winner, and certainly looks and tastes like one.

The Sanders have lived in Big Spring for over 20 years, and the man of the house is a trucking contractor. They have three boys, Ronnie, 20, who will be a senior at Baylor University; Derrell, 17, who will join the senior class at Big Spring High, and Robert, 12, who enters junior high this year.

"So I am really involved in practically all stages of education which is a job in itself," said Mrs. Sanders.

She teaches the TEL Adult Women's Sunday School Class at the Baptist Temple and is a member of the Rebekah Lodge No. 284.

The recipe for the $100 cake is as follows:

Ingredients:
 1/2 cup shortening
 2 cups sugar
 3 eggs
 2 cups flour
 2 squares chocolate
 1 teaspoon salt
 1 teaspoon vanilla
 2 teaspoons baking powder
 1 1/2 cups sweet milk
 1 cup chopped nuts

Method:
 Melt chocolate over hot water while mixing other ingredients. Cream shortening and sugar. Add eggs. Sift flour, salt and baking powder together. Add alternately with milk to creamed mixture. Add melted chocolate and chopped nuts. Cook in a tube cake pan, 10 or 12 inch, at 350 degrees for about 45 minutes.

For an excellent icing, try this one.

1/4 cup butter
 1 square chocolate
 Melt together and add one box of sifted powdered sugar. Mix and add one teaspoon vanilla. Thin mixture with cream or milk to desired texture. A cup of chopped nuts may be added.

Tall Drinks To Carry To Shade

When sizzling summer days make you yearn for a quick trip to Iceland, the best prescription is to relax in the shade with a tall, frosty thirst-quencher.

What possibly could be more refreshing than one of the chilly fruit punches or fizzes, milk floats, frothy sodas, sparkling ades or coolers that do the "pick-me-up" trick so delightfully. And, of course, iced tea and iced coffee do their share for bracing refreshment.

In case your file of summer beverages needs inspiration, here are a few suggestions.

FRUIT MEDLEY
 (Individual Serving)
 1 tablespoon lime juice
 1 tablespoon lemon juice
 1 tablespoon orange juice
 2 tablespoons grape juice or 2-3 cup ginger ale
 1 tablespoon powdered (confectioners) sugar
 Cold water to fill glass
 Fill tall glass one-half full of cracked ice. Add ingredients. Mix well and serve.

Try Fruit Pancakes For Morning Treat

Here is just the way to entice your family into the breakfast habit.

BANANA PANCAKES
 1 1/2 cups milk
 1 cup prepared commercial pancake mix
 3 ripe bananas
 Lemon juice
 Butter or margarine
 Powdered sugar

Use fully ripe bananas, yellow peel flecked with brown. Add milk to pancake mix and stir until batter is thin and smooth. Lightly grease and heat a large frying pan or skillet. For each pancake, pour 1/4 cup batter into heated pan, tilting pan to distribute batter evenly. When bubbles form on surface of pancake and edges are firm, turn and bake until browned. Remove to hot platter. Peel bananas. Slice 1/2 banana thinly over each pancake, leaving about 1-inch around edges. Sprinkle bananas with lemon juice and dot with butter or margarine. Roll up and sprinkle with powdered sugar, if desired. Cut into halves and serve with syrup or honey, if desired. Makes 6 large pancakes.

Bone Up On Glamour

A new book on teen-age glamor written by Adah Broadbent, (Doubleday) gives some pretty good tips such as that a pointed chin can be attractive but wear rounded collars, not pointed ones... that a pleated skirt and bolero jacket gives a long-legged look... that swimming on your back is a wonderful way to improve posture... That singing from low to a high register is the best way to cure a monotonous voice that whines, numbles or drones.

Enjoy Your Vacation

Cold Black Bottom Pie Ends Hostess's Worry

Hostess insurance is easy to take out. Make up this absolutely delectable Black Bottom Pie and freeze it. When company comes, let the pie stand at room temperature for about one-half hour before serving time. You'll have an out-of-this-world dessert for lunch or supper or an afternoon or evening snack.

We just can't rave too much about this pie. It has so much to recommend it. Very few ingredients are needed for it. Its superb slightly frozen texture cuts beautifully. Its flavor is so heavenly it reminds us of the Mousse au Chocolat we were made about when we ate it at Madame Gafner's famous little restaurant on the Rue Dauphine in Paris.

Only we have a confession to make. Madame Gafner's chocolate dessert uses eggs, butter and sugar; our pie filling substitutes marshmallows for these three ingredients. We have a feeling that if we told Madame Gafner we were going to use marshmallows she might be horrified, but if she were to taste our filling we are certain she would give it her full approval.

All our taste-testers clamored for more when we served this dessert. My teen-age nephew—who knew I was going visiting and that I sometimes take test-kitchen products along in an insulated bag—pointed toward what was left of the pie and said in a loud voice, "Leave that at home!"

The pie filling is a most attractive light color but it has a wonderful chocolate flavor. These good results come from the semi-sweet chocolate used in it; and it's the same morsels of semi-sweet chocolate that dot the cream topping. Because the filling is rich and high, eight persons may be served from this eight-inch pie.

If chocolate desserts are your meat, we beg you to try this recipe. You'll never regret it.

FROZEN BLACK BOTTOM PIE

Ingredients:
 One 6-ounce package (1 cup) semi-sweet chocolate pieces, 1/2 cup milk, 16 marshmallows (1/4 pound), 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 1/2 cups heavy cream, one 8-inch baked pastry shell.

Method:
 Reserve 1 tablespoon of the semi-sweet chocolate pieces for garnish. Put remaining chocolate, milk and marshmallows in the top of a dou-

Pineapple Punch Is Ideal For Parties

For the crowd, here's a party-size recipe to serve in a punch bowl. You can halve the recipe to fill a frosty pitcher for the family, or double it to serve 24.

PINEAPPLE PUNCH
 1/2 cup pure can granulated sugar
 2 1/2 cups boiling water
 1/2 cup pineapple juice
 1/2 cup orange juice
 1/2 cup lemon juice
 1 1/2 cups ginger ale for sparkle

Stir together, until dissolved, sugar, jelly and boiling water. Cool. Add juices and pour over ice in punch bowl. Just before serving add ginger ale. Makes 12 servings.

ble boiler. Place over boiling water; cook, stirring occasionally, until mixture is melted and smooth. Remove from heat; stir in vanilla. Chill. Whip 1 cup of the heavy cream; fold into chilled chocolate mixture. (If pie is to be freezer-stored, bake the pastry shell in an aluminum foil plate or slip the baked pie shell into a paper pie plate.) Turn chocolate mixture into pie shell. Whip remaining 1/2 cup cream; carefully spread over top of pie. Press points of remaining morsels into cream for polka dot effect. Freeze until firm. To store in freezer, cover with second pie plate and wrap in moisture-proof plastic food wrap; return to freezer. Remove from freezer and allow to stand at room temperature for about 30 minutes before serving. Pie may be served without freezing; in this case, chill in refrigerator 1 hour.

This Dessert Is Excellent For Reducers

Strawberries are very versatile. Take almost the same ingredients as in a salad, add a sweet topping or sweet mix, and you have a dessert. Using gelatin here is a strawberry dessert, one especially recommended for those on a reducing diet.

STRAWBERRY DELIGHT

Fresh strawberries, 1 pint
 3 tablespoons sugar
 One-eighth teaspoon salt
 2 tablespoons lemon juice
 1 envelope unflavored gelatin
 2 tablespoons nonfat dry milk
 Two-thirds cup water
 2 eggs
 1/4 cup evaporated milk, undiluted and chilled.

Crush strawberries in a bowl with fork. Add sugar, salt and lemon juice, mix well; chill. Meanwhile, combine gelatin and dry milk in top of double boiler; add water, beat with rotary beater until well blended. Place over hot water; stir until gelatin is dissolved, remove from heat. Separate egg yolks from whites; beat yolks until light; stir in a small amount of the hot mixture; then stir back into remaining mixture in top of double boiler.

Cook, stirring constantly, over hot (not boiling) water until mixture coats metal spoon. Remove from heat; chill until thick. Beat egg whites until stiff but still moist. Whip evaporated milk until fluffy. Add gelatin mixture to strawberries; mix well. Next fold in beaten egg whites and whipped milk, blending thoroughly. Pour into 1-quart mold. Makes 6 servings. Garnish with additional strawberries. Makes 6 servings.

 Ginger Cookies to Pass

Ingredients for Chicken Cutlets
 1-1/3 cups water
 1 teaspoon salt
 2-3 cup uncooked white rice
 2 cups finely diced cooked chicken

Method:
 1 tablespoon chopped onion
 1/2 teaspoon grated lemon rind
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/2 teaspoon pepper
 2 egg yolks
 2 egg whites, slightly beaten
 1 cup fine cracker crumbs
 Cooking fat for frying cutlets
 1, 10 1/2 oz. can condensed cream of chicken soup
 1/4 cup water

Ingredients for Cranberry-Apple Relish
 2 cups cranberries
 2 apples, pared and cored
 1 orange
 1 lemon
 1/4 cup beef or can sugar

Method for Making Chicken Cutlets
 Put the water, salt and rice in a 2-quart saucepan and bring to a vigorous boil. Turn the heat as low as possible. Cover the saucepan with a lid. Leave over this low heat for 14 minutes. Turn off heat. Leave lid on for 10 minutes. Add the chicken, onion, lemon rind, salt, pepper and egg yolks to the rice and mix thoroughly. Separate the mixture into 6 equal portions of 1/4 cup each. Press into balls. Chill. Cover if mixture is left in refrigerator more than two hours. Press the rice and chicken mixture together firmly and shape into "pork chop shaped" cutlets. Dip cutlets first into the egg whites, then into cracker crumbs. Chill. Fry in a skillet of hot fat, cooking one side to a golden brown before turning. Serve hot with a sauce made by heating together the chicken soup and water. The cutlets may be kept hot for about 30 minutes by placing them uncovered in a 250 degrees F. oven.

This recipe makes 6 cutlets.

Method:
 Put cranberries and apples through a food chopper. Quarter oranges and lemon, removing seeds and put through food chopper. Add to the cranberry-apple mixture. Mix in the sugar. Chill in the refrigerator before serving. This relish may be stored in the refrigerator for several weeks. Pass the cranberry-apple relish or serve on the tray with the cutlets.

Frost Glass Rims

Frost on the rims makes icy drinks seem even cooler. First dip the rim of each glass into a saucer of lemon juice, then place in a saucer of sparkling granulated sugar. Let stand a minute; then place right side up and chill until set. Carefully fill with drink. This adds a frosty look and an intriguing sweet-tart flavor to your summer beverages.

NEW VOLUMES IN

Juveniles Check Out Most Books

There were 7,024 books checked out of the Howard County Free Library during July, according to librarian Opal McDaniel. Juvenile books accounted for the majority of the July total with 3,570. Adult books totaled 3,454.

Fines for books kept out too long hit $80.21. There were 83 new books added to the library archives. Mrs. McDaniel said 72 of them were purchased and 11 were donated by local residents.

Many interesting new titles are among the new volumes. One of them pertains to the recent news that the government plans to build a "space station."

Worlds in Space
By Martin Caidin with illustrations by Fred L. Wolff.
This book has 16 actual photographs and about 48 drawings which picture the author's ideas of the future prospects of space travel and an artificial satellite. The discussion is primarily concerned with the problems facing space enthusiasts with the accent on the possibility of establishing a space station large enough for a stepping stone to the moon and planets.

The Land and People of South Africa
By Alan Paton
This book is a short travelogue through the lands recently terrorized by the horror of the "Mau Mau." The author attempts to make the reader familiar with the land and the people who make their homes there. There are many pictures illustrating the text which is informative and interesting.

Neighborhood Frontiers
By Erle Stanley Gardner
Gardner is a well known mystery story writer who has boomeranged one essential story into a galaxy of novels that should keep him in the money for years. This book is a travelogue, however, quite apart from his usual type of writing. The reader is conducted, with words and pictures, through many little-known areas from Puget Sound in Canada to the Yucatan of Mexico. The book is interesting and refreshing, especially as it is from the pen of Gardner.

Thomism and Aristotelianism
by Henry V. Jaffa
Don't let the title scare you. This book is very interesting even though it is concerned with an abstract subject. The writing is easy to read and Jaffa makes his points easily understood. The book is a searching survey into the ethical problem of "natural law" in the quest for a solution to the "value problem." As St. Thomas Aquinas used Aristotle's type of reasoning for his Thomist doctrines of "value," it is this former logic that is questioned. Values in the absolute sense are carefully scrutinized.

Apes, Angels and Victorians
By William Irvine
This one is a biographical survey of Charles Darwin, William Huxley, and the theory of evolution. Darwin, of course, propounded the revolutionary theory which was seriously attacked at the time of its announcement. It was Huxley's brilliant speeches and essays for the idea that finally won for Darwin universal acceptance and understanding.

Air Force Changes Enlistment Policy For Women's OCS
A new policy of the Air Force makes it possible for young women to apply for Officer Candidate School directly from civilian life, according to local recruiter Sgt. Cecil Deakins.
Under provisions of the current Air Force regulations, women interested in OCS must be between the ages of 20½ and 26½. Deakins said. They must be graduated from an accredited college and meet the physical and moral qualifications of the Air Force.
Training will be at Lackland Air Force Base in San Antonio. Persons interested in more information concerning the program should contact Col. Philip J. John, Commander, 3504th USAF Recruiting Group, Box 79, Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas.
In applying for this program, Deakins pointed out, the applicant must supply copies of her academic credits and a birth certificate.
