"He Profits Most Who Serves Best"

Plowing Up Ten Million Acres of Cotton Planned

Total Rental Benefits of $100,000,000 Would be Distributed Over South Under Program

WASHINGTON, June 19 (AP).—Secretary Wallace Monday called for the destruction of 17,000,000 acres of growing cotton in a long-limbed experiment to curb production and reduce the potential surplus of the South's big money crop.

The secretary announced that maximum processing taxes—about 4.1c a pound on the basis of present price relationships—would be levied beginning Aug. 1 to finance the program under which growers will be asked to plow up portions of their crop in return for rental benefit payments and the right to obtain options on Government-owned cotton.

A campaign will be started in the South next Monday when growers will be asked to sign contracts to rent cotton lands at from $6 an acre up, depending on the average past yields and estimated production of the land this year.

Option for Farmers

The farmer can either offer to take an outright cash payment for plowing up portions of his crop or can take a smaller rental and obtain in addition an option on about 2,400,000 bales in an amount equal to the estimated output of the land he retires from production.

These options will be offered him at 6c a pound or nearly 3c below the current market price. He may order these options exercised at any time up to next January, his profit being the difference between the 6c and the price cotton is selling for at the time he sells.

Wallace said operation of the whole plan was contingent on the degree of co-operation shown by growers during the week's campaign to obtain contracts. Unless Wallace is certain he can take a large amount of cotton out of production, equivalent to at least 2,000,000 bales production, he is not prepared to proceed further with the plan.

To Distribute $100,000,000

However, he indicated he is confident of the success of the campaign and his associates said there was virtually no doubt but that the plan would be employed and that about $100,000,000 would be distributed in rentals to growers in the next few months.

Wallace will use about $54,000,000 from the $230,000,000 made available by the farm act and subsequent laws to acquire full title to cotton on which Government loans were made by the farm board and other agencies. He is making settlement for the cotton, which is under the control of the new Farm Credit Administration at the rate of 9 1/2c a pound.

Wallace, in whose name the pool cotton will be held, may sell any portion of it he desires up to March 1, 1936, when the law requires he must complete disposition of it.

Work On County Basis

While fixing a 2,070,000 bale minimum, Wallace hopes to take out of production land capable of producing at least 3,000,000 bales.

When the contract offers to be gathered up during the campaign have been brought together, the official decision will be made as to which shall be accepted.

The campaign will be handled by extension workers and other agricultural officials and will involve contact with nearly 2,000,000 cotton producers. The drive will be conducted on a county basis with an effort made to distribute rental payments as widely as possible in order to make the money serve the purpose of widespread business stimulation.

CARD OF THANKS

To My Very Kind Friends:
Just a word of appreciation as I am unable to write all personally for the many nice cards and letters received in my sorrow. Advice, sympathy and aid cast a ray of light through the darkness.
May God's richest blessings give a ray of life, light and beauty to each of you.

Legal Aspects Of Prohibition

AUSTIN, June 17—(UP)—Thirsty Texans who desire legalized 3.2 beer and wines today were given a special set of rules governing the jig-saw puzzle of prohibition in this state.

Questions from local officials which deluged the attorney general's department were answered in a memorandum prepared by Elbert Hooper, first assistant attorney general. He said:

How to Proceed

Counties, precincts and cities which voted dry prior to constitutional prohibition will remain legally dry even if Texas approves the manufacture and sale of beer and wines in the August 26 election.

2. Local election to remove legal barriers against beer may be called by commissioners' courts for any day between July 2 and August 26. Commissioners' courts can be required to call local option elections on or after Aug. 26 if petitioned to do so by ten per cent of the qualified voters of a county, precinct, or city. In no event are more than 500 signatures of qualified voters required.

4. County, precinct and city local option elections may be submitted on the same ballot at the same election and presided over by one set of election officials August 26.

Legal in Wet Counties

5. If Texas approves the beer and wine amendment, the beverages are legal in all counties which had not voted dry prior to constitutional prohibition.

The brew would not be legal in precincts or cities which voted dry prior to constitutional prohibition even though they be located in wet counties, unless such precincts and cities specifically authorize beer and wines at special elections.

6. If a dry county should vote to legalize beer, it would not be lawful in justice precincts or cities therein which had voted dry prior to constitutional prohibition.

Moreover, manufacture and sale in precincts and cities which had never voted dry, but which are located in dry counties, are prohibited until and unless legalized in a county-wide local option election.

AN OLD TIME SINGING

Sunday afternoon the editor accompanied by the wife and two young daughters and Misses Eleanor and Glynn Ridings, drove to Coleman to attend a Sacred Harp Singing.

There were not very many present, but the oldtime music was very interesting. It carried us back to the days of childhood when we used to sit around the fire in the old farm home and listen to our fore-parents sing the good old songs in major and minor keys.

The old four shaned note singers are thinning down, but from a standpoint of sacred music, to many people, there has never been any improvement made. We love the modern music and often hear songs rendered that are lofty, but seldom do we hear a new song that effects us like the old time songs.

U. S. LAW FORMER FOR STATE BEER SALE

Cafes, restaurants and other places of business in the three cities of Texas, which have sought to "jump the gun" through selling the new 3.2 percent beer, have evidently not read the new national beer bill very closely. Despite the fact that federal licenses have been issued for beer and liquor dealers in Texas, the beer bill positively prohibits the ordering, purchasing or transportation into dry territory of any beer, wine or fermented fruit juice containing 3.2 percent alcohol. Here-with is quoted a section of the new beer bill:

"Whoever orders, purchases, or causes beer, ale, porter, wine, or similar fermented malt, or vinous liquor or fruit juice, containing 3.2 per centum of alcohol by weight, to be transported in interstate commerce, except for specific sacramental, medicinal, or mechanical purposes, into any state, territory, or district, the laws of which state, territory or district prohibit the sale therein of such fermented malt or vinous liquor or fruit juice for beverage purposes, shall be fined not more than $1,000 or imprisoned not more than six months, or both."

Drought Areas Ask for Help

GUYMON, Okla. June 17—An appeal for $5,000,000 in immediate federal relief loans went out today from the sand drifted flatlands of five states.

"Our people are facing starvation. Our livestock is suffering. Drop all barriers and give us immediate relief," said the plea, formulated by 2,500 representatives of converging drought stricken sections of Oklahoma, Kansas, Texas, Colorado and New Mexico at a conference here yesterday.

Resolutions forwarded to the secretary of agriculture, to federal relief administrators and to congressmen asked that the loans be provided at once without security, through county committees. Funds to be used to buy and live stock and to recondition farm lands made into desert-like wastes by weeks of blinding sand storms were sought.

COTTON PLAN Shower for Mrs. Alvis Griffin

It looks like cotton farmers have everything to gain, nothing to lose in the proposition advocated by Secretary Wallace. While general conditions have forced up the price of cotton temporarily, there is no great assurance that it will remain at its present figure when the new crop begins to hit the thirteen million bale carryover. It is that surplus which has dealt such misery to cotton prices in recent years in spite of increased consumption stimulated by these prices. In years gone by the Federal Farm Board, it will be recalled, tried to buy a part of this surplus, hold it off the market. The experiment failed miserably. 'Nobody can step in and tell a farmer what he can raise and what he can't. Nobody, that is, except weather and insects. Now, Secretary Wallace, by taking the commodity, proposes to pay farmers with it for idle land, so that the individual grower may realize more from the remainder of his crop. Provided, however, that enough farmer's sign up, through their farm agents or other designated authority, to insure a crop short enough to accomplish the desired result.

West Texans will be interested in that provision of the plan which calls for payments on the basis of past yields. This yield will be determined on the basis of past production of the land and the appearance of the crop this year and its general condition.

Everybody will know a whole lot more about this plan a year hence than they do now but the cotton belt is assuredly not interested in any more four and one half cent or five cent cotton, will welcome anything that offers an improvement thereon.

New Hampshire, Connecticut and Iowa Vote Wet

6-to-1 and 2-to-1 Margins Scored by New England States in Drive for Prohibition Erasure

Hitherto dry-voting Iowa early today joined Connecticut and New Hampshire in pouring out an avalanche of ballots in favor of crossing the eighteenth amendment from the constitution—making it 14 states in a row.

Eyed anxiously by prohibitionists and anti-prohibitionists alike at the outset of yesterday's voting, the Hawkeye state upset a recorded sentiment of two decades by rolling up a substantial total of 394,473 to 239,853 for repeal, with only a few precincts still to be heard from.

Connecticut voted against prohibition by a 6 to 1 total of 235,942 to 35,349. Its convention, set for July 11 will seat 50 repeal delegates unopposed.

New Hampshire recorded itself in favor of ratifying the amendment to repeal the eighteenth amendment by more than 2 to 1 majority. The almost completed vote in the granite state was 75,969 for repeal to 30,357 against.

States to vote within coming months and the dates include: California and West Virginia, June 27; Alabama and Kansas, July 17; Tennessee, July 20; Oregon, July 21; Texas, August 26; Washington, August 29; Vermont, September 5; Maine, September 11; Maryland, and Minnesota, September 12; Idaho and New Mexico, September 19; Arizona, October 3; North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, and South Carolina, November 7.

JOHN TAXPAYER CARRIES A HEAVY LOAD
 (Hearne Democrat)

A Hearne friend asked the editor recently the amount of the aggregate taxes paid by the people of Texas. We replied that we could not give the exact figures, but that we felt sure—exclusive of Federal Taxes—the people paid for state, county, district, municipal and school taxes about two hundred million dollars per year, and we promised this friend we would look it up and let him know definitely.

It has occurred to us that information might be passed on to our readers with profit to them, and we find that for the last fiscal year these taxpayers paid for state, county and municipal taxes $207,971,068.00.

Ad valorem taxes formed a little over seventy-five per cent of the total, and thirty-six per cent of this ad valorem tax was necessary to meet the interest and sinking fund on over seven hundred million dollars of public indebtedness including bond issues.

Education costs were over sixty-seven million dollars, or over thirty-two per cent; roads costs over sixty million dollars, being over twenty-nine and a half per cent; the expenses of county government cost over sixteen million dollars, or nearly eight per cent; cities and their governments cost nearly thirty-eight million dollars, or nearly eighteen and a half per cent; and about eleven and a half per cent went for development of parks, conservation, regulation of business, health and sanitary facilities, elementary institutions, etc. Most of this information is obtained from the very comprehensive report made by Moore Lynn, State Auditor.

present incumbent, Mr. Lynn, has given the public—for the first time in the history of the state—a pretty fair picture of the expenses and indebtedness of their state.

The two hundred million dollars paid by John Taxpayer to his various governmental institutions—exclusive of all Federal taxes—does not include all of the moneys Mr. Taxpayer pays to the various members of the official family in Texas; as this mammoth sum in many instances only pays for the "set-up" or what the various utilities call a "ready-to-serve charge."

For instance, if you have any dealings with many of the departments or offices, you will pay the fees of office for the services rendered. This in regard to their civil functions, and if you come in contact with the criminal branches of the law, or perhaps you should say those enforcing the penal statutes, you will pay very handsomely for the services of these officials.

One state department in Austin is reported to have collected enough from those dealings with that department that it has a cash balance—probably in some bank—of about three hundred and seventy-five thousand dollars; and some of the fee officers in the cities like Dallas and Houston draw down around twenty-five thousand dollars per year for their services.

While John Taxpayer knows that there has been a depression on for the last three or four years, those engaged in serving him in public office have in many instances not found out anything about it.

WHAT OF THE SIGNS?

What do all the signs and portents mean?

Where are we going? What lies ahead?

From everywhere come messages of changes, and tidings of new things—new deals, new ideals, new plans.

Each day, almost, brings from the seat of the government of the land the story of a new gesture, a new attack on the old problems, a new hypochondria to languishing business and industry. Congress and the president are making bold efforts to create employment, relieve distress, create activity and business and money.

New measures become law. New edicts are sent broadside to the land. New liberalized policies replace the old worn-out ones.

What do all these signs mean? Do they mean that good times are returning, that prosperity soon will be back, that happiness and confidence will be restored along with prices and wages and business?

Do they mean that much? Or are we just whistling in the dark again? Are we creating out of all these ambitious plans and programs a relief that will last one year or two or three? Or are we working with an eye to permanency?

Is the president leading us out of the wilderness or merely taking steps to make us feel good? There are unmistakable signs of improvement. There are signs that the resuscitation of values is going to put breath back into the victim.

Prices are climbing off the bottom and showing signs of new life.

Do the signs mean that prosperity is coming back?

To me, the signs are clear-cut, definite signs. But they don't mean that.

The signs mean to me, one thing: hope...real, genuine hope. It isn't the kind we have to blow up ourselves. It's the kind that's built up in the natural course of developments and improvements.

After all, do we want prosperity?

Would it not be better to have hope, the kind that inspires confidence in the future, and then to build with that hope the kind of a structure that is heaviest at the bottom and not the top?

The blown-up kind isn't always built in the proper proportions, with the groundwork capable of sustaining the structure. If we have hope, we have the courage to fight, the desire to create, the will to work happily regardless of the prospect of reward.

INTERESTED IN CLUB WORK
 (By Mrs. W. R. Dale)

In the spring of 1931 I joined the Home Demonstration Club at Brown Ranch, just merely had my name placed on the book. I had never given the name "Home Demonstration" much thought as to what it really meant. I kept going once in a while, and kept getting more and more interested. My club work has meant so much to me, as I had never taken any interest in canning until I began to attend. I am a firm believer in the "Live at Home" plan. The first year of my club work I canned about 250 containers, the second year 550 and this year I want to can even as many or more. What I canned consisted of vegetables such as beans, peas, corn, tomatoes, squash, okra, cucumbers, potatoes, beets and peppers. Fruits were peaches, apples, plums and berries, and meats were pork, mutton, beef and chicken. I have a small cooker, only an 11 quart capacity, but I canned last year with my cooker except one days bean canning.

I wish each and every housewife would get interested in club work, it means so much to you and your household. First I want to give Miss Brent the praise for stirring up interest in our county.

I think that the demonstration given on a foundation pattern was worth something to our community.

Here's to those who have their names on a club book. Try going regularly. See if it doesn't stir up interest. Each club member has a duty to perform. Be at the next meeting and find out what yours is.

The forgotten man these days is the small town newspaper publisher. How's YOUR subscription?

The president let his foot slip the other day and appointed a politician to public office instead of a college professor.

Bill collectors, they say, are starving to death. They work on commission.

POSTOFFICES USE COTTON INSTEAD OF JUTE TWINE

The policy that the post office department has followed for many years in buying jute twine for use in all of the post offices throughout the nation has been abandoned and henceforth cotton will be used. Silliman Evans, fourth assistant postmaster general, has informed Senator Tom Connally.

For many years Senator Connally has been advocating the use of cotton twine. Previous administrations have failed to heed his request, but this year, as soon as the Roosevelt administration took office he called the matter to the attention of Mr. Evans and cited him to the act passed at the last session of Congress requiring the Government to purchase American made goods. Mr. Evans whose home is in Fort Worth promptly advised the Senator that cotton would be used by the department from now on.

Two orders, totaling 47,000 lbs. of cotton twine have been placed by the department. This will meet all present requirements, Mr. Evans said, and in the near future the department will be in the market for much greater quantities of the twine.

Leading cotton men and state officials in Texas and Louisiana, Mississippi, and other states have expressed their appreciation to Senator Connally for the fight he has made to increase the use of cotton.—The Lockney Beacon.

Congress will be back on the job again in January—but will there be any job left?

A COMPANY THIRTY YEARS OLD

Last Friday the Ford Motor Company completed 30 years of automobile making.

It is, also my fortieth year at the same job. I made my first engine in 1893, and it still runs. This is the engine that won the Selden Patent Suit—which took the motor car out of the exclusive class, and opened the automobile industry to hundreds of manufacturers who started during the last 30 years.

Some of the men who began with me that June day in 1903, are working here yet. All of the principles we laid down then, are still operative; we find that they have great survival value for the future. To date they have produced and sold over 21,000,000 Ford cars.

Although we created the automobile market we have never thought it was good for anyone to monopolize it. We have always believed that before business could be good for one, it must be good for all. Our discoveries and improvements have always been open to other manufacturers without patent restrictions.

Of course, there is one thing we cannot share—everyone must get it for himself—and that is experience. Money could duplicate our buildings and machines, but it cannot duplicate 40 years of experience. And it is experience that makes a motor car.

But the past does not especially concern me; it has all been a preparation for the future. For myself, I feel that I have just been gathering the tools to do something worth while, and that my real task is still ahead.

Great changes are upon the world. False ideas of every kind are vanishing in the general upheaval. Those who built truly on principle will survive—their service will carry over. Business integrity and commodity honor will be fully justified. And newer and better ways of living will appear.

That is the outlook for this young thirty-year old Company of ours.

TEACH SAFE DRIVING IN HIGH SCHOOLS

The automobile driver of tomorrow is the high school student of today. This driver of the future should be a careful, courteous and conscientious motorist, mindful of the rights of others and thoroughly informed as to traffic laws and regulations.

That is why high school motor clubs are multiplying rapidly in the United States. Several hundred such organizations are actively at work.

High school automobile clubs have three basic functions: First, the teaching of safe driving principles; second, accurate mechanical information; and third, education in state, local and municipal laws and ordinances. In this program police departments, automobile manufacturers, insurance companies and all others interested in traffic safety, are always ready to lend a hand to provide demonstrations, speakers, lecture courses, booklets, pamphlets and other material.

Statistics for 1932 show that 11,960 drivers under 18 were involved in accidents, although few states permit youngsters of that age to handle a car alone in public.

There is no better place to instill the principles of a safe subject than in a school.—Exchange

It may be true that right makes might, but it's a darned poor war debt collector.

It's some consolation to know that the vets still have a few inches of their shirts left.

As an evidence of the early return of prosperity, we heard a hearty laugh yesterday.

There's one advantage in saying it over the air. People who know it's a lie can't tell you so.

TO THE SENIOR CLASS OF SANTA ANNA HIGH SCHOOL

We congratulate each member of the graduating class of 1933. You have done a great task well. You have been sharpening the tools with which you will build your future career.

But your high school career has given you general and not specific training. It has laid the foundation upon which you can and should build a structure of exact technical education that will double and treble your ability to do, and after all, that is what the world is demanding today—action.

The tools with which you are to work need some additional polishing. They must have a keener edge if you are to compete with the millions of other workmen who have not only gone through the same grind that you have, but who have submitted themselves to further discipline which has put keen, cutting edges upon their mental tools and has given them confidence in their own ability to do superior work in whatever field they may invade.

In short, the class of 1933, if you are to compete with other young men and young women you will have to add to your present education in order that you may have the sueness and confidence as well as the skill that specific training affords. Your own experience, as well as your observation, has taught you that opportunity, like a fast train never stops at flag stations. If you are ready when opportunity comes along, you have a chance "to grasp it by the forelock" but let it pass you and your chance is gone forever.

There has never been a more important time for young people to train themselves for business. The affairs of the world are based upon business, and if you want to get ahead and are not satisfied to remain in your present environment throughout your entire life, you will never find a more ideal time to train than now.

Young people who look forward to attending a business college where the very highest type of training can be had are invited to write to the Tyler Commercial College and School of Business Administration for "ACHIEVING SUCCESS IN BUSINESS," which is the school's current catalog. Specific information will be cheerfully given and our earnest sincere cooperation will be available without obligation to any one interested. Use the coupon below.

Cotton: The South's Greatest Money Crop

The rise and fall of the price of cotton over a period of years is, of course, based on the law of supply and demand. Incorporated in the new agricultural bill fostered by the President is a plan to reduce the cotton acreage which, of course, means a smaller crop.

All the above means that there should be many openings for qualified cotton classers, which has not been the case for the past year or two.

With a shortage in training men in this field, it should be an inducement for the young man who is interested in this type of work to qualify himself now.

We have one of the best cotton classing schools in the Southwest; in fact, we do not know of another school that offers a more complete training in Cotton Classing.

We use the United States Government standard type of samples. At the head of our Cotton Classing Department is a man who was instructor in Cotton Classing in the A. & M. College of Texas for a long while prior to becoming connected with our school. He knows the handling of cotton from A to Z.

Any young man who thinks he would be interested in the subject of Cotton Classing will be furnished with full information by writing the Tyler Commercial College, Tyler, Texas, and indicating his desire to take up this very interesting work.
