JO ANN HALE CANDIDATE FOR COUNTY CLERK

I, JoAnn Hale would like to take this opportunity to thank the voters of Coleman County for the privilege of serving as your County Clerk for the past three years. These years have certainly been most rewarding and different, as each day can, and often does, present new challenges.

WHAT THE WORLD NEEDS NOW

Valentine's day! Men, let me ask you a question! Did you get your lady roses, candy, a card and maybe

Did you know the color of the roses tells us something of your feelings towards her. Red roses say you really love her! White roses sends a message of purity and innocence. Mixing the two shows her you are ready for a commitment. If you are happy with the way things are then pink roses are given. If your relationship is just a friendly one and you want to keep it on that realm, yellow roses are sent.

Did you know that Valentine's Day was not always a day of roses, candy and romance but a tribute to Dustin and Elizabeth Beard are proud to announce the arrival of their son, Brandon Caine.

He was born Feb. 1, 1998 at David Grant Memorial Hospital at Travis Air Force Base, California. He weighed 9 lbs., 3 oz. and was 22 inches long. Maternal grandparents are Charles and Frances Pyburn of Santa Anna. Paternal grandmother is Jan Beard of Coleman.

Honorary grandparents are Uncle Mark and Aunt Kim Beard of Lubbock.

Great-grandparents are Mary Oakes of Santa Anna, R. E. (Si)

and June Pyburn of Voss and Nell Bear of Coleman.

For some 800 years prior to his life, the Romans had practiced a pagan celebration of a young man's rite of passage to the god Luperus. St. Valentine stood up to Claudius and his courage sent the saint to his death. When Valentine was in jail he fell in love with the blind daughter of a jailer. Before he was taken to his death he signed a farewell message to her "From your Valentine ".

The first true Valentine card was sent in 1415 by Charles, Duke of Orleans, to his beloved wife. The first commercial cards were made in the early 1800's.

Not many years ago there was a song entitled"What the World Needs Now". This song contained the words "What the world needs now is love sweet love, that's the only thing that there is just too little of." And how true that is in our world today! We could sure use a pound of love and compassion.

The Greek language contained three words for love. EROS was physical love. PHILEO meant brotherly love. AGAPE love meant sacrificial commitment, dedicated to the well being of another. That is what the world needs now, a little, no a lot of caring for one another.

In 1997 Robert Fulgrhum wrote a book entitled Words I Wish I wrote. Mr. Fulgrhum is a very interesting man. He grew up in Waco, has been a ditchdigger, a cowboy and an IBM salesman. He is now a noted author with his first book being published when he was in his fifties. But more about him in another article.

I told you about him because the next words I would like to share with you are words I wish I had written. From an unknown author came words that I believe says it all about love.

"Love is a friendship that has caught fire. It is quiet understanding, mutual confidence. sharing and forgiving. It is loyalty through good and bad. It settles for less than perfection and makes allowances for human weakness. Love is content with the presents, it hopes for the future and it does

DPS Does Not Solicit Financial Contributions from Private Citizens

Although some law enforcement associations may claim to be raising money on behalf of the Texas Department of Public Safety, they are not affiliated with the agency. The DPS does not benefit from funds the groups and their professional telemarketers raise.

"Over the years, we have gotten numerous questions and complaints from Texas citizens regarding telephone solicitations by law enforcement associations," said Col. Dudley M. Thomas, director of DPS, "The DPS does not solicit financial contributions from private citizens. We receive our funding from the Texas Legislature." Some organizations solicit funds using names similar to those of the DPS, including "Texas Rangers," "State Troopers," "Texas Highway Patrol" or

"Department of Public Safety." While some DPS officers may be members of these organizations on their own time, these associations are not affiliated with the DPS, Thomas said. They raise money to fund their own programs, some of which may benefit officers and families

The 75th Texas Legislature enacted a law that requires these organizations to clarify that they are not part of the DPS and prohibits them from implying that the money they raise will go to the DPS. In addition, solicitors cannot use names, symbols or statements that are similar to those used by the Texas Department of Public Safety or the Texas Rangers to confuse or mislead someone who is being asked to give money.

DPS has created an informational brochure about law enforcement solicitation for Texas citizens and has established a recorded information line on this topic (512-424-5588).

worry about drugs and alcohol until later. As a result, many parents don't talk with their children about these dangerous substances. Statistics from the National Center on Addiction and Substance Abuse at Columbia University found that before children reached the age of 13:

• 40 percent know someone who has used acid, cocaine, or heroin

· 34 percent have friends who are regular drinkers.

• 29 percent say they could buy marijuana within a day. 27 percent have friends who use marijuana.

25 percent have attended a party in the last six months where marijuana was available. 10 percent already know someone who has died because of drugs or alcohol.

So when is the best time to talk with your children about the dangers of using drugs and alcohol? Tonight wouldn't be too soon. Source: Letter from Congressman Frank Wolf, September, 1997, based on information from the National Center on Addiction and Substance Abuse at Columbia University,

Where Did Social Security Come From? #2 in a series of 8 columns about SocialSecurity

Βv CHARLIE STENHOLM

When the Stock Market collapsed in 1929. it set in motion economic conditions we know today as the Great Depression. With millions thrown out of work, families found it increasingly difficult to care for their older or disabled relatives. Churches and other organizations which traditionally had provided assistance to families were overwhelmed by requests for aid.

These tremendous burdens prompted Congress to consider legislation creating a social insurance program to guarantee financial security to older or unemployed Americans. Overwhelming bipartisan support for the measure (372-33 in the House; 77-6 in the Senate) assured its passage. President Franklin D. Roosevelt signed the bill into law on August 14, 1935.

The original Social Security Act provided "old age" insurance to the elderly and created a system of unemployment insurance to be administered by the states. Workers and their employers each were required to contribute a matching percentage of income as a premium for the old-age insurance. Upon reaching age 65, workers who had paid into the system could expect to receive a monthly benefit for the rest of their lives. Interestingly (and not coincidentally), average life expectancy in 1935 was not quite 62 years.

Originally, only workers in commerce and industry were required to pay one percent of their incomes up to a maximum contribution of $300 annually. Subsequent amendments expanded the list of professions required to pay into the system as well as the percentage of income and the maximum contribution. Today, virtually all workers must-pay 6.2% of their incomes up to a maximum contribution of $4,054.80 annually and very few professions now are exempted. For example, the President, Members of Congress, farm workers, and some clergy pay Social Security taxes just like everyone else. Consistent with the original legislation. employers still are required to match their employees' contributions. Self-employed individuals must pay 12.4%.

What happens to the taxes paid to Social Security? The funds are credited to the Social Security Trust Fund and a large portion of the receipts are immediately paid back out in the form of benefits to current beneficiaries. In reality, today's workers are taxed in order to pay today's beneficiaries, a system referred to as "pay-as-you-go." The system has been sustainable as long as those in the workforce significantly outnumber those receiving benefits and workers have been willing to be taxed at rates sufficient to sustain benefits for current beneficiaries. Obviously, this system cannot last if the worker-to-recipient changes significantly and, unfortunately, the problem will become increasingly critical over the next decade.

Social Security's future problems are the result of one main factor: demographics. In other words, more of us are living longer at the same time proportionally fewer babies are being born. This trend will come to a crisis point when the Baby Boomers (those born between 1946 and 1964) begin to retire in about 15 years. Understanding this dilemma is crucial to understanding how Social Security works and what it will be like in the future.

SHERRIL RAGSDALE CANDIDATE FOR COUNTY JUDGE

I am very appreciative that you have allowed me to serve as your county judge for the past three years. I have tried to fulfill the promise made to you when I ran for office. It has been a full time job with full time responsibilities. The court docket has been made current and everyone has been treated fairly. Some changes have been instituted in the way the county conducts business and they have been positive changes.

The vendor for 9-1-1 service was changed to another firm and that program should be completed early this year. A county employee manual was developed and we are currently in the process of updating our Emergency Preparedness Plan which dates back to 1977. Additionally, the county was introduced to the Internet.

One of the most serious problems we have is that of jobs. We lost two major employers checking, deposits and CD invest- during the past year and we must attract additional industry into the county and we must work with our existing industry to help them grow and expand.

I will continue to work with Coleman Development Company and any other available source to accomplish that end. We do have some new leads on possibilities and are pursuing them vigorously.

I have thoroughly enjoyed representing you these past three years. I have served on the Executive board of the West Central Texas Council of Governments, Jobs Training Program Administration, School To Work committee and was instrumental in the formation of the Workforce Development Board. Two Coleman County residents serve on that board and one of them is the need to be accomplished.

There are several other problems which need to be resolved. Our jail is over-crowded and in dire need of replacement; we have the financial problem of paying for the two Capital Murder trials which are soon to be held; and there is the constant problem of trying to upgrade our county road system to encourage retirees to locate here. And, through the entire process, there is the urgent need to limit taxes on our citizens.

Again, thanks for the opportunity to serve as your county judge this term. I would like to wish you a happy and prosperous New Year and to ask for your vote and support in the upcoming election. I represent you, I need your help, I cannot do it without you.

KOLLIN SHADLE CANDIDATE FOR COURT OF APPEALS

Kollin Shadle, Republican candidate for the Eleventh Court of Appeals, visited in Santa Anna last week. As part of his efforts to inform voters, Shadle said he is traveling to each of the 23 counties that make up the appellate court's district, "meeting voters on a face-toface, handshake basis, hoping to bring an awareness of the court's work and its importance to the citizens and lawyers, law enforcement and courts of our district." Shadle said that although the Court had an exclusively civil docket when it was created, now criminal cases make up about 70% of the appellate court's docket, and most of those are felony cases. "Many criminal defendants receive a court-appointed attorney. They may appeal their cases, in many instances, even if they plead guilty. I believe we can expect the number of criminal appeals to increase because of stronger punishment options, longer sentences, and harsher parole eligibility laws. Criminal defendants dissatisfied with their sentences, and not bearing the expense of an attorney or the costs of an appeal, having nothing to lose and everything to gain by appealing their conviction. A civil party must pay their own way, and cannot appeal if the case is settled," he and criminal cases. In addition, Shadle has been a civil litigator and advisor for Taylor County during his tenure." Before coming to the District Attorney's Office in 1989, Shadle's private practice included various family law matters, tort claims and criminal defense cases. He has continued to handle family and tort law since joining the D.A.'s office, he said. Shadle emphasized that his broad, practical life and legal experiences would be an important addition to the Court. while noting that, at 41, he would give the people and the Court the best, most vital, years of his professional life:

Shadle was born in Hamlin, raised in Stonewall County near Aspermont, and attended Angelo State University and Texas Tech University School of Law. He has Chairman. CHARLIE STENHOLM CANDIDATE FOR U.S. HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Congressman Charlie Stenholm has announced that he would be a candidate for re-election to the U.S. House of Representatives. *

In making his announcement, Stenholm cited several accomplishments of the past year in Congress, including passage of legislation that will balance the federal budget. "I'm proud that after all these years that I have been fighting for a balanced budget, Washington finally came around to our Texas way of thinking about the budget--putting it into balance," said Stenholm. The budget legislation also contained important tax relief for working families, including a $500 per child tax credit and college tuition tax credits that will assist young people who otherwise would not be able to go to college. "As a former teacher, I understand the importance of education," commented Stenholm, who recently hosted an Education Summit in Abilene with Secretary of Education Richard Riley. "Children are our most precious resource. Our focus should be training our kids with the basics and giving them the tools they need for college or a career in the 21 st Century."

Stenholm serves as Ranking Member on the House Agriculture Committee. In this important position, he has a great deal of influence on all agriculture legislation and programs, including the rural water development and the Boll Weevil Eradication Program, "This makes it possible for me to do so much for my district and for American agriculture," said Stenholm.
