Do you know what a trickster tale is? An action used to outwit others. Most countries or people have these tales to explain why certain things happened. American Indians explain why certain tribes dress in certain clothes or bears are brown, etc.

Last week members of the Summer Reading Club learned some of these stories.

The younger boys and girls learned how Brer Rabbit tricked Brer Fox. This is one of the best loved stories of Joel Chandler Harris. It is a classic. The boys and girls made cute paper bag rabbit puppets.

Middlers heard two stories one of the American Indian Tales about how the rainbow is in the sky. The other is a Jamaican story of Anansi. He is a black spider who wins against larger animals.

Mrs. Starr was kind enough to share the Santa Anna tiles that she and Nathan had cleaned. The middle group were able to make keepsake plaques also.

You may want to know that the bluebonnet decoration was made by one of the leading artists of that flower. Adds to the tiles value. I even heard one mom and dad discussing who the child made the tile for!

Older boys and girls heard a true story about story walking canes. Patsy showed the one made for Mr. Starr when he was injured. Members decorated a cane and took one to start at home. We are to see these this week.

The surprise in the book bags was a new pencil and a small memo pad.

There was a drawing for a watch and two pocket beanie babies. Refreshments were frozen icy pops.

Reading Club has the final meeting of 1998 this week. It will be a party with prizes and certificates. Boys and girls must have records. Parents check their book bags.

Reading will continue. The children can turn in records by Friday, August 7. The top three winners in each age group will receive a prize. Phone calls will be made on Monday, August 10 and winners can pick-up prizes at the library.

We have enjoyed the boys and girls this year. Thank you parents and teachers for doing a great job.

Mike and Christine Alderson donated a large box of books both paper back and hard bound. One is The Journey to the Center of the Earth. This classic has been made into a movie three times. Just lately it was on TV. Thanks for

Dear Editor

I am interested in locating some of the books of poetry written by the late Leola Christie Barnes, whose work I greatly admire.

I was in Santa Anna in June to reminisce where I was born. My sister, Joyce Mott and I visited all the places we remembered from the early 1930's, having moved away in 1936.

Our parents were James Royal Lock and Bessie Stanfield Lock. He was high school principal and coach and Sunday School Superintendent at the First Baptist Church 1927-1936. Mother was an artist and teacher who admired Mrs. Barnes and her poetry, and called me "Beth" after Beth Barnes, Leola's daughter, who was a few years older than I.

I have a copy of Silver Century. I have been an artist and have become a poet in the past few years. I was too young at the time to realize what an excellent poet Mrs. Barnes was, so I am rediscovering her work. My love for Texas and for poetry was derived from Mother's association with her and with Santa Anna.

I am taking the liberty of sending you this copy of one of my poems. It just seemed fitting to the occasion and my present state of mind.

Thank you for your help.

Texas! My Texas!

On a hill in Santa Anna I was born;
 in that western Permian Basin I was born.

Like the 'horn-ed toad' and lizard eatin' chicken and its gizzard, in a hot West Texas ranch town I was born.

I'll tell what my Texas means to me;
 it made me all that I was meant to be - just a painter and a poet - now Texas has to show it.
 'Who I am' is what my Texas made of me.

Texas is my lifeblood, for it's mine.
 I shall be forever grateful that it's mine.

With my rising flood of passion words combine in every fashion as I picture spacious Texas, for it's mine.

From Tennessee and Kentucky, here at last.
 From Missouri and Louisiana, here at last.

Without shackles, without bonds, only bloodlines carried on to freedom from the past, here at last.

Through a Texas politician, here I am.
 By a preacher and his mission, here I am.

by the Irish and the Scotch,
 through the 'Cajuns and the Dutch,
 by two faithful Texas teachers, here I am.

"Dinner on the grounds" was where they met,
 'singin' all the day, though drenched with sweat.
 My spirit intertwines with those old East Texas pines in melodic Irish rhyme—I feel it yet.

From Daddy's Baptist prayers, I learned to pray.
 Mother's upright by the stairs taught us to play
 Irish lyrics pulsing strong through every Texas song.
 It's my rhythm, and I love it!
 Here I'll stay.

From my early Texas forbears, I shall try to tell it to my children - how and why.

Let my pulsing heart be spill't like the Texas patchwork quilt, north-by-east, south-by-west
 'cross Texas sky.

With my pen in hand I'll tell it till I die.
 My colloquial tongue shall spell it till I die.
 With my half-glass on my nose,
 composing poetry and prose,
 I shall talk to you in "Texas" till I die.

Santa Anna ISD Letter to Households (Multi-Child) NATIONAL SCHOOL LUNCH/BREAKFAST PROGRAM

The Santa Anna Independent School District Meals serves meals each school day. Children may buy lunch for $1.00 from pre-kindergarten through 6th grade and $1.25 from 7th grade through 12th grade. Children may buy breakfast for $.60 (60 cents). Children may also get meals free or at a reduced price.

If you now get food stamps or TANF for your children, your children can get free meals. If your total household income is the same or less than the amounts on the Income Chart Below, your children can get free meals or reduced-price meals. A foster child may get free or reduced-price meals regardless of your income. The reduced price is 40¢ for lunch and 20¢ for breakfast.

TO GET FREE OR REDUCED-PRICE MEALS FOR YOUR CHILDREN, YOU MUST COMPLETE AN APPLICATION AND RETURN IT TO THE SCHOOL. WE CANNOT APPROVE AN APPLICATION THAT IS NOT COMPLETE.

HOW TO APPLY

If you now get food stamps or AFDC for the children you are applying for, an application must have the children's names, a food stamp or AFDC case number for each child, and the signature of an adult household member.

If you are applying for a foster child, the application must have the child's "personal use" income, and an adult signature.

If you do not list a food stamp or AFDC case number for all children you are applying for, then the application must have the children's names, the names of all household members, the amount of income each person got last month and where it came from., the signature of an adult household member, and that adult's social security number or the word "none" if the adult does not have a social security number.

VERIFICATION: Your eligibility may be checked at any time during the school year. School officials may ask you to send papers showing your children should get free or reduced-price meals.

FAIR HEARING: You may talk to school officials if you do not agree with the school's decision on your application or the results of verification. You may also ask for a fair hearing. You may do this by calling or writing: Superintendent of Schools, Dean Bass, phone 348-3136, 701 Bowie St., Box 99 Santa Anna, Texas 76878.

REPORTING CHANGES: If your children get the free or reduced-price meals because of your income, you must tell the school if your household size decreases or your income increases by more than $50 per month or $600 per year. If your children get meals because you get food stamps or AFDC, you must tell the school when you are not getting AFDC or food stamps for them. You may then fill out another application giving in come information.

CONFIDENTIALITY: School officials use the information on the application only to decide if your children should get the free or reduced-price meals.

REAPPLICATION: You may apply for meals anytime during the school year. If you are not eligible now but have a change in status, like a decrease in household, an increase in household size, become unemployed or get food stamps or AFDC for your children, you may then complete an application.

HANDICAPPED: Meal substitutions at no additional cost for children who meet the definition of "handicapped" will be served, provided a physician has submitted a statement attesting to this fact and prescribing a substitute.

IN THE OPERATION OF THE CHILD FEEDING PROGRAMS, NO CHILD WILL BE DISCRIMINATED AGAINST BECAUSE OF RACE, CREED, SEX, COLOR, NATIONAL ORIGIN, AGE OR HANDICAP. IF YOU BELIEVE YOU HAVE BEEN DISCRIMINATED AGAINST, WRITE IMMEDIATELY TO THE SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE, WASHINGTON, D.C. 20250.

to have problems dealing with people when they're teenagers and adults.

Loving children and being supportive at home is essential to helping them. Children can't reach out to others when they don't feel secure.

Parents also need to set a good example—by showing children you value your own friendships.

It's also important to teach children how to:

- Make appropriate responses to their own actions and those of others. ("Excuse me," "Thanks.")
- Enter into an ongoing conversation ("Yes, that's a really good book"), rather than going off on a different topic.
- Ask others about their intentions and wishes ("What would you like to do?").
- Refrain from calling attention to themselves ("I, I, I..." and "my, my, my...").
- Use phrases that encourage sharing information—like, "You know what?"; or responding to another, "No! What?";
- Interpret their friends' feelings, while avoiding jumping to premature conclusions about friends' behavior.
- Respect friends with whom they disagree.

LEGAL MATTERS

BY ATTORNEY GENERAL DAN MORALES

PROTECTING OUR CHILDREN

Each year, alcohol takes a terrible toll on Texas children. In fact, Texas leads the nation in the number of alcohol-related traffic accidents involving young drivers. And hundreds of thousands of minors have taken up smoking, a habit which may cause them immense pain, suffering and financial cost in the years to come.

As Attorney General, I enthusiastically support laws and legal actions that protect children and help prevent them from being caught up in these dangerous trends.

Alcohol is deadly to young drivers

According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, younger, less experienced drivers have twice the number of fatal crashes in their first year of driving and four times as many crashes per mile as more experienced adult drivers. When alcohol becomes a factor, these statistics worsen dramatically.

Although the legal age for buying and using alcohol is 21, until this year Texas allowed those under age 21 to drive with a blood alcohol content (BAC) of up to .07 (under state law, a BAC of .10 is considered legally drunk.)

The Legislature has now changed this standard, with the passage of a "zero tolerance" drunk driving law for minors. This law makes it "delinquent conduct" for anyone under age 21 to drive after consuming any amount of alcohol whatsoever. Texas lawmakers also passed a law allowing juvenile drivers to be prosecuted for accidents that involve injury or death or cause damage to a vehicle.

To combat other aspects of underage drinking, the Legislature raised the penalties for all alcohol-related offenses committed by minors -- including possession, attempt to acquire alcohol, consumption, and driving while intoxicated (DWI) -- with punishments including license suspension and jail time.

The Legislature also gave the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission the authority to use minors in undercover enforcement operations against stores that sell booze to minors.

Tobacco: a terrible trap for kids

The vast majority of adult smokers begin using tobacco as teenagers. Although Texas law makes it a crime to sell tobacco products to minors, a 1994 study estimated that over 20 million packs of cigarettes are sold to Texas teenagers every year.

Despite the overwhelming evidence of the health dangers posed by smoking, studies show that the number of Texas children using tobacco is going up. The tobacco industry has played a major role in addicting kids to tobacco products by explicitly targeting youngsters with cartoons and other promotions in an effort to build a steady customer base for the future.

To help reverse this trend and restrict teenagers' access to tobacco products, the Legislature enacted statutory changes which:

- make it a crime to sell or give tobacco products to a minor;
- require sales clerks to ID any tobacco buyer under age 27, and force stores to post a prominent notice about selling tobacco to minors;
- bar minors from possessing or using tobacco, or from using a fake ID to obtain tobacco products;
- ban cigarette vending machines where minors have access;
- prohibit distribution of free tobacco samples to minors.

The Texas Legislature also enacted a ban on most outdoor advertising of tobacco products within 1,000 feet of a church or school, and required outdoor tobacco advertisers to pay a fee to the state to be used for education and enforcement of tobacco laws.

Through the toughening of the laws and our vigilance as a society, we can protect our children from alcohol and tobacco marketers, whose products kids have been paying for with their lives.

Parent Quiz

Are You Teaching Your Child Values for Success?

Here's a quiz to see whether you're helping your child develop values for success.

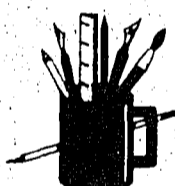

Give yourself five points for something you usually do, zero points for something you never do or any score in between.

1. My child has responsibilities at home.
2. I help my child use time wisely.
3. I expect my child to do his best.
4. We turn off TV and spend some time each day reading.
5. I expect my child to tell the truth.

How did you score?
 Above 20 means you're giving your child the values that will lead to success. A score of 15 to 19 is average. Below 15 may mean you should try some of these ideas with your child this month.

Texas' Academic Standards Make The Grade

AUSTIN--Texas ranked first in the nation among states that have written academic standards in five major subject areas, according to a Fordham Foundation report titled, "The State of State Standards" released this month. The five subjects are geography, history, English, mathematics and science.

When states with partially completed standards are considered, only Arizona outranked Texas. Arizona has completed standards in only three of the five subject areas. California, which has completed four, tied with Texas for second place.

Of the 50 states and the District of Columbia, only three (Texas, Arizona and California) scored a "B" overall. No state received an "A". Fifteen were graded "C", 21 ranked "D", nine ranked "F" and three have not developed standards in any of the five areas.

"Texas is ahead of other states in the area of accountability," said David Sublasky, TASB president from Fabens ISD, "and the Fordham Foundation's report underlines the fact that the Texas public education system has become a role model for the nation."

Among other Fordham findings: *Texas scored an A on its geography standards. Only two other states, Colorado and Indiana, scored as high.

*Texas scored a B on its history standards. Only Virginia scored higher with an A, and only two other states scored B's (California and Massachusetts).

*Texas scored a B on its English standards. Only one state scored higher (Massachusetts with an A), and only four other states scored B's (Arizona, Virginia, Georgia and Illinois).

*Texas scored a B on its math standards. Only three states scored an A (California, North Carolina and Ohio).

*Texas' lowest ranking came on its science standards, scoring a C. Six states scored A's and seven scored B's.

The Fordham Foundation, based in Washington, D. C. sponsors research, publication and action projects in education reform at the national level. Its major focus is the renewal of elementary and secondary education.

Commentators who were asked to cite the main lessons the country should draw from the Fordham report said, "We should do everything we can to encourage the good work going on in states such as Arizona, California and Texas and to hold it up as a model for all." Texas was specifically lauded as having a model standard in geography, and Texas and Virginia were cited for having "history standards light-years better than the national history standards."

Texas developed the draft of its academic standards, Texas Essential Knowledge and Skills (TEKS), over the course of 1995 and 1996. Fifteen subject-area teams met collectively to consider format consistency, comparability of skills at each grade level, and articulation of skills from kindergarten through grade 12.

Meeting individually thereafter, the teams produced the first draft of TEKS in February 1996 and received over 12,000 responses to that draft. In addition, the State Board of Education (SBOE) Review Committees provided advice on revisions. The second draft was sent out for further public review in July 1996.

The review processes included distribution to all campuses and school districts, publication on the world wide web, and public outreach by regional education service centers through town meetings and public hearings. The SBOE adopted the TEKS in July 1997. Full implementation in the classroom begins with the 1998-99 school year.

Texas Set To Receive Heat Relief More Than $850,000 Allocated For This Part Of State

AUSTIN — The Big Country will receive more than $850,000 to help pay high electricity bills, fix broken air conditioners and buy air conditioners for low-income families suffering from the scorching heat.

The money comes from the $100 million President Clinton released last week for Texas and 10 other states to help the elderly and needy survive the ongoing heat wave.

"This money is extremely important," said Brian Montgomery, spokesman for the Texas Department of Housing and Community Affairs, which is administering the funds.

"The last time Texas received similar assistance was a cold spell about four years ago when Texas got $4.1 million. That doesn't even compare to what Texas is getting now."

The money Clinton released goes to 11 states where temperatures have been extreme this summer. Texas' cut is $32.7 million, Montgomery said.

The heat is blamed for at least 95 deaths statewide since June 1, $1.5 billion in agricultural damage and more than 6,700 wildfires.

Parts of Texas have gone 22 days with over-100 degree weather and all regions of the state received below-normal rainfall from April to June. Clinton has declared all of Texas a disaster area because of the heat and drought.

The federal money will give $864,534 to area counties. Taylor, Shackelford and Stephens counties will share $219,221, TDHCA records show.

Other counties will split more than $600,000: Haskell, Jones, Knox, Kent, Stonewall and Throckmorton, $171,664; Brown, Callahan, Coleman, Comanche, Eastland, McCulloch and Runnels, $347,013; and Fisher, Mitchell, Nolan, Scurry, $126,636, records show.

TDHCA officials recently sent letters to nonprofit community action organizations statewide saying funds will be released shortly.

The money was allocated based on population, percentage of the population at or below the poverty level and the number of days the area has had high temperatures, Montgomery said.

The federal funds will be distributed through the Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program.

"We have already instructed local service providers throughout Texas to begin meeting with prospective clients and to start processing applications," said Larry Paul Manley, TDHCA executive director.

To qualify for the help, Texas households must be at or below 125 percent of federal poverty guidelines. That means a family of

NEW LAW STOPS A STALKER

On April 2, 1998, an Alabama man accused of threatening his ex-wife and sons in Texas became the first in the nation to be convicted by a jury and sentenced for interstate stalking.

To me, this was a red-letter day. In the words of U.S. Attorney Bill Blagg, in Austin, "This case should send a clear message to those who consciously prey on and terrorize innocent victims: Their actions will not be tolerated."

Since my days in the Texas Legislature, I have been acutely aware of the great vulnerability of innocent people who are stalked or threatened. In 1996, I introduced legislation in the U.S. Congress to strengthen the protections we offer stalking victims — many of whose stories we so often hear only after they end in tragedy. The bill became law that same year.

The law makes it a felony for a stalker to cross state lines with the intention of injuring or harassing a victim. It makes it a felony to place a stalking victim in fear of death or serious injury in violation of a protective order by such travel. And it extends that protection of law to members of a victim's immediate family.

The first man successfully prosecuted under this law is a case in point. Frank Odom, 52, had a lengthy history of domestic violence on his record before this case even started. In 1993, he was convicted in federal court in Alabama of telephone threats against one of his ex-wives. When he was released from an Alabama federal prison in December, 1996, his plans consisted of traveling to Texas in order to stalk his first wife and their three sons. He first threatened his wife and sons over the telephone, saying he was coming after them. He told numerous people in Alabama he was going to kill the victims and take his youngest child, an 11-year-old boy who was in the legal custody of one of his older brothers.

Once in Texas, Mr. Odom tried to obtain their addresses from the post office, caused one son to have an automobile accident by driving across several lanes of traffic in front of him, cutting him off, and sent a letter asking to visit another grown son's newborn baby. His arrival in Texas was a nightmare-come-true for the family.

But his threatening behavior in both Alabama and Texas allowed federal prosecutors to invoke the new law and intercede. The case was investigated by special agents of the FBI, which also was provided for under the law. Our law, enforcement agencies and criminal courts were able to stop Mr. Odom and get him away from his victims before he committed a serious act of violence.

This has been a part of the problem for so long: even when there were threats, until this law was enacted, there was no legal way to help victims.

U.S. District Judge James Nowlin sentenced Mr. Odom to the maximum 20 years in federal prison and fined him $50,000. His family can now breathe easy, knowing he will be incarcerated for a long, long time.

Freedom from fear is one of the most cherished freedoms we enjoy in this country. Stalking victims are robbed of that freedom everyday. Now we have a law that holds stalkers accountable for the threats they make.

Society is better knowing that women and children do not have to wait until a tragedy occurs for the law to step in and provide victims with the protection they deserve.

four must earn no more than $20,563 and an individual must earn no more than $10,063, TDHCA records show.

There were no estimates available on how many local residents might qualify.

Households are potentially eligible to receive up to $1,000. But benefits are based on how much electricity is used.

"I commend the state for moving quickly on distributing these emergency funds," Stenholm said. "Living with this degree of sustained heat can be hard on all of us, but it is especially dangerous for the very young and the very old who are living without an adequate cooling mechanism in their homes."

"I'm hoping that these funds will provide some desperately needed help immediately," he added.
