Changes Announced In Santa Anna Senior Adult Program

Contributed
Some important changes have been made in the Santa Anna Senior Adult Program that we would like to share with you. The group has moved from the Armory to the Presbyterian Manse (Parsonage) at the corner of Willis and Sixth Street. We are grateful to the church for allowing us to use their nice facility. The program is independent of the government nutrition program; thus there is no paperwork to fill out and sign. (This is a combination of the Senior Adult Fellowship Group that met in the high-rise for several years and the group that met in the Armory. Our desire is to have a place for Senior Adults to gather for various activities.) We appreciate the support, cooperation, and encouragement of the City Council in organizing this program. Our agenda is noon meals on Monday, Wednesday and Friday. Monday and Friday meals are prepared by Tammy Morris for $2.50 per meal. Anyone desiring to eat with us on Monday or Friday must call a day ahead. Call Lodema Jones at 348-3738 and leave your message. Wednesday's meal is a covered dish luncheon. Tuesday evening from 5 to 8 p.m. is game night. We invite all adults age 55 and up to join us for part or all of these activities.

WELL SAID

City To Report Outstanding Traffic Citations To DPS; Driver's Licence May Not Be Renewed

Santa Anna drivers beware! The Santa Anna Municipal Court is issuing cautions to drivers who fail to pay their outstanding traffic violations. These drivers are at risk of not having their licenses renewed because of the Court's recently signed contract with the Texas Department of Public Safety (DPS) which allows Santa Anna to participate in the failure to appear program. This program denies the renewal of driver's licenses to persons who fail to appear in court in response to a traffic citation. The Santa Anna Court will soon be providing information on violators to Texas DPS via a computer system and will enter into the system all unpaid citations dating back to Sept. 1, 1995. When DPS receives the information that a driver is in violation of failure to appear, a letter is sent to the individual within 24 hours. The letter informs the person of their citation status and that they will be denied renewal of a driver license if they do not pay their fines. Citations which place a driver at risk of not receiving a license renewal are Class C misdemeanor traffic violations.

The Wills Family will give mini concerts beginning at 7:30 the first two nights of the Havens Cowboy Camp Meeting, June 19-20. They are well known gospel artists who have appeared all over the south.

Cowboy Camp Meeting Set To Begin June 19

Back in the days of the Old West, about once a year or so the God-fearing cowboys and their families would come together for worship and fellowship at a Cowboy Camp Meeting. Cowboys would gather into one place in their covered wagons, buggies or whatever their transportation was. At dusk, they would gather around the old chuck wagon and feast from the bean pot. After eating, they would come together and sing the old hymns that everyone knew while a cowpoke here and there played along on his guitar, banjo, fiddle or harmonica. Then some would start testifying! Some wrangler with an extra good understanding of the Good Book might even get up and preach a sermon. Before you knew it, some of the folks had gotten so happy they'd even start shouting! Those were the good ole days. Ever wish you could go back to those days. Well, you can actually go back to those when the Little George Haven's annual Cowboy Camp Meeting begins its 32nd year on June 19 continuing through June 28.

The Cowboy Camp Meeting takes place each year at the Flying H Acres, located on Highway 84, along the Old Western Cattle Trail and between Coleman and Santa Anna. The old bean pot will be there along with the chuck wagons. One the chuck wagons was made by a Texas Ranger and his brother and was on early-day Texas ranches, in Standard Oil Films and in a John Wayne movie. At 5:30 each evening cowboy vittles are served and on Saturday the camp furnished the meat, sour dough bread, iced tea and creek-bank coffee. Area residents bring salads, vegetables and desserts. On other evenings campers gather for a pot-luck supper. Everyone is welcome to come and spend the week and camp in house trailers, tents or whatever they may have. Last year the Camp added new RV spaces with water and electric hookups and septic tank disposal. There are tent dormitories for men and women. Those planning to stay in the dormitories need to bring cots and bed rolls.

Check It Out

By Alice Anna Spillman

It's such a thrill to me when people respond to this column. This week two teenagers answered the call for help. They will help with the summer reading club. I'm not going to tell you who they are now but will give them special recognition in July. We need more adults and juniors.

Also answering the call were a couple of younger girls. Becca Fellers and Jessica Rameriz donated several good children's books. They looked through their own library and helped others.

We hear a lot about bad things some kids do but look around Santa Anna has many really fine kids like these.

Adults who have made donations are Carol Herring, Mr. Brashear and Gale Brock. Carol brought mysteries. If you enjoy Faye Kellerman you will find a row new paperbacks. All her books have a real twist, quite different from those of her husband.

Mr. Brashear brought some westerns, perhaps the rarest of all donations.

I've been told lately that collectors are buying up both paperback and hard backs of Zane Grey, Louis L'Amour and Elmer Kelton. First editions are choice.

We have good people. They return our books. If you ever see books for sale that are stamped property of Santa Anna Library. Look for a discard stamp or second copy. Tell us if other books are for sale. Books in this library belong to the City of Santa Anna.

Gale Brock will be missed so much. She will have a new home in San Angelo. She has served this community as teacher, church worker, business woman, city judge and mayor. She helped with check out for summer reading. Several times she has donated books. Today she sent four boxes of books. Thanks Gale for years of service.

Here's my magazine reading tip: June Reader's Digest page 209. The Greatest Gifts We Can Give Our Children. Do read every line and this is an advertisement. Gift 1: Dinner is a family event. Turn off the TV. Gift 2: Reading to or with your child is crucial during the summer. Kids can loose from one to three months of learning, but parents can prevent that. Gift 3: Watch TV together. Carefully select the programs then discuss them. There's much more.

Doretha Faye Gilmore presented a lovely painting. Her mother, Mrs. Arthur (Faye) Casey painted the beautiful roses. Mr. Casey cut a portion of a refrigerator door. Not just any door but one of their first. This was the center piece of the display that honored Mrs. Casey at the Porcelain Club that she helped start. Come by and see this beautiful painting.

MEMORIAL to Mr. David Pinkerton from Mr. and Mrs. Pat Gilmore of Mobile, Alabama.

Dear Editor

Fixing Blame Fixes Nothing Has American got mad? Has she consistently misplaced her priorities? Consider the following illustrations from among many and then decide.

First, there was "mad cow" disease. Not to worry, that was basically confined to England. Then a group of cattle producers from Texas (I am embarrassed to admit) blame one talk show host for one remark on one show for drastically lowered market prices destroying their businesses.

Then there was "mad DI" disease and after her death in a speeding car with a drunken driver, the news media and especially the photographers were blamed. This woman reportedly had already had an adulterous relationship and a subsequent abortion prior to her divorce. Instead of being home with her two sons she is out partying past midnight the night she died.

Then there was "mad HI" disease as Hillary Clinton blames the religious right for all her husband's problems. Perhaps someone needs to tell her that the opposite of the religious right by definition has to be the "irreligious left" to which she might belong.

Then there was "mad Si" disease as America suffered the trauma of Seinfeld going off the air. Well, "duh!" Has anyone anywhere had his life enriched by the likes of these do-nothing sex fanatics portrayed on his show?

Then there was "mad Si #2" disease as American could scarcely survive the death of Sinatra. Here was a man who had been gifted with a good voice by Almighty God. Good health for years to use that voice was also a gracious gift of the One True and Living God. What a pity he never used it to glorify God. Instead his life-long theme was "I Did It My Way". Well is he not alone. Most of what is wrong with America (indeed the world) can be summed up with the same "song". Approximately six billion people with the same philosophy, "I Did It MY Way".

Au Pair Woodward kills a child and blames everything and everyone but herself and essentially goes free. O. J. Simpson kills two people and blames racists cops and he goes scott-free. Lt. Kelly Flynn disobeys military orders, commits adultery and then lies to superiors and blames the USAF for not giving her a fair deal. The list could continue ad nauseam.

As someone wiser than I has said, "I Did It My Way" is simply hell's Alma Mater. It is high time we start seeking to do things God's way or else there is not much hope for America? Fixing blame fixes nothing.

The Old Buggy

By Jack Kingsbery

When I was about ten years old living on our ranch near Santa Anna in Coleman County, Texas, I would often visit my Grandmother Woodward who lived in Santa Anna. Her next door neighbors were the Coverwells. They were both elderly and had a buggy in their barn that had been stored there after it had been replaced by the car. When my brother, Tom and I would visit the Coverwells, we would look the buggy over from one end to the other. It was a fine buggy in excellent condition with a complete set of harness on the seat.

Tom and I were really fascinated with the buggy and since one of our old cowhorses, Rollo, had pulled a buggy when he was young, we wanted that buggy. Two young, adventurous boys set out to convince their dad that they needed that buggy. Dad finally said we could buy the buggy if the Coverwells would sell it and if we had enough money. That was in the early thirties and times were hard.

We finally got up never enough to ask Mr. Coverwell if he would sell the buggy and if so how much he would take for it. Since it has been an expensive buggy and was in excellent condition, we just knew the price would be way out of our financial means. We had pooled all our money and had twenty-seven dollars. That was lots of money in those days and we just knew it wouldn't be enough.

Mr. Coverwell looked over those two little kids nine and ten years old and real slowly said, "Five dollars". How surprised and thrilled we were. We immediately gave him the five dollars and didn't let him see the other twenty-two dollars. We could hardly wait until we could go home and ride Rollo back up to Santa Anna and get our buggy.

In a few days Mother was going to town so Tom rode with her in the car and I rode Rollo the eight miles to Santa Anna. I rode horseback and still don't know why I didn't saddle Rollo and put the saddle in the back of the buggy for the long trip home. It was a complete set of buggy harness and since neighbor of us had ever put buggy harness on a horse, it took a while, but we finally got Rollo harnessed.

We hooked Rollo up to the buggy and since it was getting hot, we put the buggy top up. Rollo worked just fine and two proud little boys drove right down the main street of Santa Anna in our newly acquired method of transportation.

When we got to the ranch, we drove to the barn and as we went around the barn, two young horses that we had just started breaking took one look at the new contraption and over the fence they went.

We had a great time for several months taking our friends riding in the buggy, and we'd even go in the buggy to pen the milk cows. Rollo was old and we began to realize that we were working him too hard and we needed a replacement for him. We had several good ranch horses that we used work cattle so we picked Sundown as Rollo's replacement. Sundown was about four years old and was the gentlest one of the cowhorses. We knew we had to break him to a wagon first before we could hook him to a buggy. Even though we were only nine and ten years old, we had had a lot of experience with horses. We hitched two of our work horses to a wagon and drove out to the middle of a big field. Tom drove the wagon and I rode another horse and led Sundown. We took the harness off one horse and put it on Sundown and hitched him to the wagon next to the other horse. I rode next to Sundown on my horse with a lead rope so I could help hold him, and we had him going good in a short time.

We worked Sundown to the wagon for several days and decided he was ready for the buggy. Tom drove the buggy out in the middle of the big field and I led Sundown. We changed harness and hitched Sundown to the buggy. I was on my horse and had a lead rope on Sundown to help hold him if he tried to run away with the buggy. Sundown was a little spooky at first and tried to run a few times, but with Tom in the buggy and me holding him from my horse, he was easy to slow down. We worked Sundown all morning in the big field and unharnessed him at noon. We worked him again that afternoon and he was sure going good and I didn't need my horse to help out.

Since Sundown was working so good by late afternoon we decided to drive him up to the house to show Mother what great horsemen her two little boys were. We were both in the buggy as we drove right up to the side of the house and called for Mother. She heard us call and went to the bedroom and started to raise the shade to see what we wanted. We had driven right up close the bedroom and when Mother started raising the shade, it slipped out of her hand and flew to the top of the window, making a big pop. That sudden big pop scared Sundown out of his wits and away he went pulling the buggy and two scared little boys. We managed to rein him through two gates and into a big pasture. Sundown was running as fast as he could go and even pitching some. We were reining him around some of the trees and bushes, but he wasn't slowing down. We went down a little hill and Sundown made a quick turn to the left and the buggy skidded into a big tree.

It was a heck of a wreck. The buggy was smashed to pieces and Tom and I went rolling on the ground. We were shaken up but not hurt. The front wheels and shafts were intact and still hooked to Sundown as he kept running and heading back to the barn. Mother saw the beginning of the runaway so she came running down in the pasture looking for us. Just as she got to the pasture, she met Sundown flying toward the barn with just the two front wheels. Of course she was really worried about her little boys. About that time she saw us walking toward the house and her worries were somewhat over—she wondered what catastrophe we'd be in next.

Just before Sundown got to the barn, he hit a big bush and broke the shafts off, leaving the two front wheels intact. We unharnessed Sundown and he seemed just fine so we turned him back in the horse trap.

Later Tom and I built a little platform on the front axle and used two one-by-four boards for shafts and drove Rollo many miles with the little cart.

Trickham Tidbits

By Anna York

The summer time heat has hit us and so far we don't have much of a promise for rain. Last Monday and Tuesday nights some folk received a little over an inch, it was nice for which we are thankful, but we need more to make hay. Hopefully it will come soon.

Felton and Betty Martin attended a birthday party at Blanket Saturday for her aunt Lillian Richmond who was celebrating her eighty-eighth birthday. Later they visited briefly with Maxine and Jerry Tongate in Brownwood.

Erlene Dockery attended the kindergarten graduation of her granddaughter Harlie Anderson in Santa Anna Thursday and took her out for dinner at Tammy's. Friday she and her dad and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Johnson of Coleman were in Clyde for the graduation of a niece and another niece, Ilene Johnson returned home with her to visit a few days.

Phillip and Cindy Cozart and Kellye of Round Rock spent the weekend at his parents' place Reba and Elvis Cozart while they were tending to business at Round Rock.

Mrs. Gertrude Martin and her daughter Laverne McClatchy visited at Hico Sunday with another daughter and her husband Minola and Ray McSwain.

Mary Lou Jones and Barbara Horner spent Friday at Stephenville visiting Barbara's son Robert Horner who is in college there and is going through the summer so he will finish faster. That's a smart guy is you ask me.

Mrs. Lodema Jones of Santa Anna visited Thursday with Verna and Arvil Bolton. Friday Alice Wells of Coleman and Verna visited with Bettie Johnson, an old friend at Rochelle.

Lea Mock of Post and two of her grandchildren Lindsey and Ryan spent last week with Lea's mother Mary Lea Mitchell. A granddaughter, Pamela and her daughter Leslie Garrett of Buda came Tuesday and visited with them until Friday.

Sherrie and Jim Blake and Megan had an ice cream social at their home Saturday. Attending were Rankin and Natalie McIver, Terry and Helen McIver and Phillip and Cindy Cozart and Kellye.

Kit Dean spent the weekend at home with his folks Mr. and Mrs. Ray Dean and Wyndham.

My son and daughter-in-law Donnie and Sherry York of Ozona spent the day Friday with my son Nikki and I, they are out of school for the summer and will be vacationing for a few days at Ruidoso, New Mexico.

Novella Stearns, Leona Henderson and Annie Lou Vaughn were Friday afternoon visitors with Mrs. Edna Laughlin.

JoAnna Smith of Terrell and Bruce LoveSmith of Waco and Mary Ola Woods of Bangs visited Saturday with Annie Lou Vaughn and had supper with her.

TPWD Stops Central Texas Rare Species Conservation Plan Process

AUSTIN—State Representative Bob Turner, D-Voss, has announced he has received confirmation from the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department that the planning process for the Central Texas Rare Species Conservation Plan has been "discontinued". In the letter received by Rep. Turner, TPWD states, "Two ingredients considered essential for such a program are the trust of landowners and an ability to protect their confidentiality. Unfortunately, the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service is unable to provide us an assurance that landowner confidentiality could be protected."

The proposed plan would have allowed landowners to sign a federal Safe Harbor Agreement whereby any additional endangered species habitat created by the landowner's management would not have been regulated by the U. S. FWS. TPWD hoped to further protect landowners by monitoring the Safe Harbor program participants themselves, as opposed to monitoring by the federal authorities. TPWD hoped this relationship would result in providing the program participants with confidentiality as to their identity and specific location. Opponents to the plan's development raised questions as to TPWD ability to reach such an agreement with U.S. FWS, and as to whether Safe Harbor Agreements actually provide landowners with a positive incentive to participate in the program.

In a letter to the constituents of House District 73 sent recently Turner stated his opposition to the proposed plan due to his belief that the confidentiality of landowners could not be protected from the federal government. "The U.S. FWS is duty bound to enforce the Endangered Species Act. Based on that fact, I had no confidence in the federal authorities willingness to agree to a plan where they would not have the information needed to penalize those landowners who were in violation of the ESA or their Safe Harbor Agreement," Turner said, "This is another federal program where Interior Secretary Babbitt is trying to make a bad endangered species law palatable to private landowners. But, until we have an endangered species law which is incentive-based, instead of relying on penalties, it will be impossible for any federal program to offer landowners real incentives to preserve endangered species."

Wayne Goes To Jail

Santa Anna Police Officer Wayne Robbins knows all about putting people in jail but during Frontier Day he got to see what he was like being the one jailed. Wayne is pictured serving his time jail. Money raised by those caged benefited the Santa Anna Youth Crusaders. Other city officials who were observed serving their time behind bars were Mayor Karen Morris and Municipal Judge Bill Worley.

West Central Leadership Completes Training In Austin

Community leaders enrolled in the West Central Leadership Program completed their training sessions with a one-day trip to Austin on May 5. Participants in the program were Coleman and Runnels Counties. The West Central Leadership group is co-sponsored by West Texas Utilities and Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The leadership training program requires one-day a month for nine months. Professional speakers covered a variety of topics during the program which included: team-building, communication, motivation, leadership styles, problem solving and conflict management and strategic planning. Scheduled tours provided the group the opportunity to see businesses in each area.

The final session for the course was a bus trip to Austin to tour the Capitol, meet with state agency officials and receive graduation certificates from the directors of the Texas Rural Leadership Board.

Representative David Count's office was the host for the day. The West Central group was joined by members from Baylor County, Midwest Texas (Callahan and Eastland counties) Rolling Plains (Jones, Knox and Haskell counties) and Partners in Leadership (Nolan and Mitchell counties) for the bus trip.

There were 19 participants who completed the 1997-1999 West Central Leadership Program and received a framed certificate. Steven Arnold, Mike Bacigalupi, Linda Boone, Steve Everett, Dan Kenney, Lori Lawson, Kevin McMahan and Phillip Springer from Ballinger; and Cindy Belden from Rowena were graduates. From Coleman, Mary Griffiths, Jo Ann Roberts and Christy Simmons; and Celeste Simmons from Santa Anna all completed the course. Winters graduates were Rhonda Goetz, Aref Hassan, Jim Jordan, Irene Simpson and Manuel Vera; and Julie Springer from Wingate.

Helpful Tips From Santa Anna Elementary

Substance Abuse

Early Years Are Critical in Preventing Student Drug Use

Some parents may think their elementary school children are too young to learn about drugs, alcohol and tobacco. But experts say these years are critical.

Most children first try tobacco between the ages of 11 and 14. By the age of 13, one out of three boys and one out of five girls classify themselves as drinkers. And pressure to use marijuana, alcohol, and tobacco starts as early as elementary school.

Here are some ways you can help your child:
• Don't be afraid to talk about drugs. If you see people drinking or smoking on a television program, that's a good opportunity to talk.

- Help your child feel good about himself. Children feel good when parents praise their efforts as well as their accomplishments.
- Help your child deal with peer pressure. Children need to know that family rules and values are more important than what friends say or do.
- Encourage your child to take part in healthy activities. Hobbies, school events, and sports may keep kids from turning to drugs out of boredom.

Commissioners Discuss Burn Ban, Site Sewer Facility Permit

Coleman County Commissioners met Friday morning with County Judge Pro-Tem Alan Davis presiding in the absence of County Judge Sherrill Ragsdale.

Unanimously approved was given to support a resolution to legislators about inmates who have funds having part of their expenses while incarcerated.

Commissioners agreed to not implement a burn ban at this time due to recent rains in the county.

Bids were opened with Darrell Walker being top bidder on vehicles, scrap iron and such. Ted Andrews, Jr. was the highest bidder for the tin.

Discussion was held about the Site Sewer Facility permit. It appears the EPA is going to force the issue and each county will have to provide an inspector and issue a permit for all specific systems being installed in the county. Judge Ragsdale is discussing with other counties the possibility of going together to provide the service with one inspector.

County Auditor Shirley Sansing present the following bills for approval: General Fund $1,475; Road & Bridge $20; Precinct 1 $371; Precinct 2 $99; Precinct 3 $1,563; and Precinct 4 $293.
