"He Profits Most Who Serves Best"

Another Trades Day Past Into History

A Great Day Considering Bad Weather

Tuesday marked the passing of Santa Anna's third Trades Day this season, and, considering the inclement weather, it was a successful day.

Tuesday morning a cold north wind was blowing, accompanied by rain, and it looked for a while like the Trades Day prospects were all blasted, but later in the day the rain let up and a large crowd came in. The awarding of the prizes, beginning at three o'clock was an interesting feature of the day. People stood in the cold breeze shivering, but enjoying the program.

But few people were dressed for such occasion. Most people were like the writer, dressed in 1928 model clothes, after three or four hard wearing seasons, and the pressure of the fresh north wind was just about all we could stand.

Merchants reported a fairly good days business, and most of them are enthusiastic over the prospect of making our Trades Day a real event. It helps to bring the people together once in a while, gives them an opportunity to exchange jokes, match their wits and disperse a little good-humor. As to the trading we cannot vouch for just how much there was going on, but considerable trading was done, however, some of the trading property intended to be on the premises were not brought to town on account of the rain.

The next Trades Day will be on the fourth Tuesday in November, and we hope to make it the best one of the season up to that date. An effort will be made to get the merchants to advertise a number of real bargains for that day, and we hope to see every man, woman and child in the Santa Anna trade territory here with something to offer for trade. Plan now to be here with something to trade and plan your shopping budget in advance.

The committee plans to better advertise the next event, and exert a special effort to make the day a real event. In this, they hope to have the cooperation of the people in the town and also those in the country.

MRS. ANNIE MAUDE CLARDY
Mrs. Jack Clardy, nee, Miss Annie Maude Mitchell, died at their home in Trickham last Wednesday night, October 19th, and was buried in the Trickham cemetery Thursday. The funeral services were in charge of Rev. Melvin E. Livesay of Brownwood, assisted by Howell Martin of Trickham.

Deceased is survived by her husband and little daughter, 19 months old, her father, O. V. Mitchell and the following brothers, Buck Mitchell, Corpus Christie, Texas; W. W. Mitchell, Fort Worth, Texas; and Doug Mitchell of Mason, Texas.
Mrs. Clardy was born July 13, 1905, in Johnson County, Texas. She moved to Trickham with her parents when a child, and was reared in the Trickham community. She has a wide circle of friends who mourn the family's loss. Her mother and one brother, Beverly, preceded her in death about five years, both passing away within a few weeks of each other.

The Most Common First Name In the Freshman Class

No, it isn't John, nor Sallie, nor Tom nor Dick nor Harry, but it is Mary. Yes, we have five Marys, but they are all smart and pretty and we are proud of them. The freshman Marys are Mary, Mary, Mary Lee, Mary Lee and Mary Emma Jeanne, and they all take the same subjects. The teachers sometimes get them mixed up, but just the same they are still themselves. But still, the rest of the class wonders if sometimes when one of the Marys is looking at herself in the mirror if she says, "Is it I, or is it Mary?"

NOTICE

On Trades Day in November the women of the Presbyterian Church will interest art lovers, and conduct a food sale at the Crum building. Cakes and pies a specialty. Admission 10 cents.

First National Bank Makes Statement

Your attention is directed to the condensed statement of the financial condition of the First National Bank, published on the front page of this paper, showing their standing at the present time.

This is one of the best showings offered by any bank in this part of Texas this season, and should eliminate any doubt in the minds of any one, should there be such, as to the safety and reliability of the First National Bank.

The statement shows the bank to be in excellent condition, and any one can point to this statement with a finer of pride and say it has faced the storm, weathered the gale and come out victorious.

We congratulate the management of the First National Bank for the splendid manner they have used in the conduct of their business affairs during the business trials of 1930-31 and 32.

Baptist Church In All Day Service Last Sunday

The all day program announced last week at the Baptist Church was carried out Sunday, and a fair crowd attended. The pastor preached at the eleven o'clock hour, and took up a special offering to raise the annual budget of the church to its completion. A liberal amount was raised, considering the general conditions of the country, but not sufficient to put the program over in its entirety.

At the noon hour a bountiful dinner was spread and those present with their families greatly enjoyed the luncheon and the social hour that afforded them. Plenty was spread to feed the crowd and more was carried back home than was consumed.

The afternoon was devoted to a song service lasting for an hour, followed by a talk made by Miss Effie Baker, a missionary from the Santa Anna church to Japan, who has been in the service about eleven years.

The day was not all that was expected in every way, but was a splendid day.

MAYO-LONGVIEW CLUB

All members are urged to be present at the next regular meeting, Tuesday, November 1. We expect Miss Brent to be with us. Bring your reports for the years work or, if you cannot be present, please send them.

Miss Madeline Golston of Fort Worth visited in the Mountain City this week.

Santa Anna Gas Co. Moves to New Location

The Santa Anna Gas Co. moved their office from the Childers building, near the City Hall, to the Mathews building on the corner north of the old Shield hotel, this week, where they will probably be permanently located. The present location of the Santa Anna Gas Company was for many years occupied by the Santa Anna Gas Company, which is now the Coleman Gas and Oil Company.

Our Subscribers Honor Roll

The following subscribers have our thanks for calling in during the past week and renewing their subscription, some for one, some for two and some for three years.

We certainly appreciate this business for if it were not for you and others who pay us annual visits, we could not exist in business.

Milford Harris, Rt. 1; Sam McCrary, Rt. 2; Mrs. Frank Miles, City; W. A. Standley, City; W. M. Bell, City; Don Ewing, City; A. E. Switzer, Trickham Rt.; W. A. Stacy, Rt. 1; A. A. Campbell, Rt. 2; W. T. Verner, City; J. W. Davis, City; B. Wagoner, Trickham Rt.; George O. Wells, Trickham Rt.; Mrs. W. H. Ragdale has the News mailed to her son, William Earl, who is attending Simmons University at Abilene, C. B. Rendleman, Little Rock Ark.; Miss Minnie Wheatley of Shields paid up her subscription for her and her mother, and reported that they are moving to town for the winter and will receive the paper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Gardner. Miss Louella Chambers subscribes for her brother, W. E. Chambers, Brady, Texas.

There are many others due to renew, some for one, some for two years, and others for a longer term, and there never was a time in our life when a few dollars would be more appreciated than now. If all those who owe us the small sum of one and two dollars would come to our rescue right now, it would relieve us from a very embarrassing situation.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

As there has been so much discussion on the reign of the Holy Ghost and its Design in Santa Anna in the last twelve months, we will discuss the subject at the Church of Christ on the Fifth Lord's Day in this month at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon. Everybody is invited, especially the ministers of the town.

Solving Major Farm Problems

(By J. M. Finion)

Agricultural prosperity does not have its beginning in Washington, it begins on the individual farm and with the individual farmer. The departments at Washington are to assist the farmer in solving his problems and not to solve problems for him. It is now known that farming is no longer an occupation that any person, regardless of his or her training, can successfully enter. It is a vocation that calls for knowledge and a wide range of skills. A good farmer must know soils, plants, animals, machinery, wood working and carpentry, business methods, etc. It is not enough to know them by sight but he must know the intricate details of each.

Members of the vocational agriculture classes of the Santa Anna High School realize that the above is true and have set up the following major farm problems of this district for study: 1. Feeding livestock and poultry; 2. Control of plant insects; 3. Care of livestock and poultry; 4. Managing the farm business; and 5. Marketing animal, poultry and plant products. With the assistance of several different sources of information each of these major farm problems will be studied in detail. When they have finished them at the end of the year they will be farther along the road of successful farmers.

Methods of dealing with farm problems are constantly changing. It is the duty of every farmer, if he wishes to prosper, to acquaint himself with the latest and most improved method of handling his farm problems.

LINE DEVOTIONAL CLUB

The meeting was held at the regular meeting of every other night, at Line School house.

The president called the meeting to order and one of the group opened with a prayer. The group then joined in singing two songs. The program was then given. The subject of discussion was the third chapter of John. All on program were present. Two songs were sung and Mr. Carl Williams closed the meeting with a prayer.

Program:
First topic for discussion: "Nicodemus Speaks" — Ruth Davis.
Second topic: "Regeneration" — Sarah Williams.
Third topic: "The Love of God" — Tucker Newman.
Fourth topic: "John's Further Testimony" — Hettie Williamson Reporter.

Cross Plains Newspaper Man Dies Here

Glenn Adams, 31, former editor and publisher of the Cross Plains Review, died in the Sealy Hospital here Monday. Mr. Adams was brought to the hospital Saturday, in an almost dying condition, and passed out Monday.

Mr. Adams was carried back to Cross Plains where interment was made in the Cross Plains cemetery Tuesday. He is survived by his wife and small son, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Adams of Cross Plains and several brothers and sisters.

Lions Club Plan Open Night

At the regular weekly luncheon of the Lions Club Tuesday it was voted to hold an open house one night during the following month, and invite the ladies to be guests of the Club.

The following visitors were present at the luncheon Tuesday. Mrs. Viola Page Mayes, Mrs. R. R. Lovelady and W. Ford Barnes of Whon.

The Club is still boosting and working in the interest of Santa Anna and the trade territory, and needs the cooperation of every citizen in the town and community.

Baptist Church

We had a splendid day together last Sunday in an all-day service. Had 225 in Sunday School, a fine crowd for the morning preaching hour with several visitors in our midst.

Miss Effie Baker brought us a splendid message in the afternoon on "Japan and Her Needs." This message was preceded by a great hour of singing. Some referred to the singing as the greatest event of the day, seeming to have enjoyed it even more than the fine dinner served at the church. When people express appreciation for the spiritual we are grateful for it is a blessing to know that some even now do not follow Jesus "for the loaves and fishes."

We will have our regular services next Sunday. The pastor will preach at both hours. Sunday School at 9:45 and B. T. S. at 6:45 p. m. Our B. T. S. is showing a splendid spirit. Come all ye weary, and we will do thee good at the house of the Lord.

NOTICE

Buy your cake and pie for Sunday from the Methodist Ladies. They sell each Saturday at the Crum building.

Turner Gin Destroyed By Fire

The volunteer fire department was called out early Tuesday morning to the scene of one of the most destructive fires of the season, when the Turner gin was reduced to ruins.

The Turner gin, the property of J. Frank Turner and J. D. Simpson, and managed by Mr. Turner was one of the large gin plants in Santa Anna, being a 4 stand 80 saw gin plant fully equipped.

The fire originated in the opinion of those associated with the plant; from the burner that was erected to burn the burrs. Several bales of bolles were ginned Monday, and it was thought that the fire started from burning trash in the furnace.

The fire was under such headway when discovered, it was impossible to save any part of the plant. One bale of cotton in the press and a team belonging to Irl Burden, who is an employee of the gin, and several tons of seed were consumed in the fire.

Other property in the vicinity was threatened by the consuming flames, which was confined to the gin plant by the fire company.

The loss is reported to be total without insurance, and is estimated to be $15,000.00 or above. The rate for cotton gin insurance is said to be so high it is next to prohibitive, and the Turner gin was not covered with insurance.

Mr. Turner and Mr. Simpson are pioneer gin men in Santa Anna, having installed one of the first cotton gins in the community about forty years ago. Their loss is heavy and very much regretted, not only by them but by the community at large.

The News has not been informed whether the plant will be rebuilt or not. Due to the price of machinery and the income to be derived from ginning under the present depressing conditions, the plant may not be rebuilt. However, this is just a surmise on the part of the writer and is without authority.

TO THE FRIENDS AND PATRONS OF TURNER GIN

We wish to thank you for a most pleasant and profitable association which we have enjoyed for more than a quarter of a century.

Added to the loss of the gin we regret that the fire occurred during the busy part of the season but we hope to recompense this annoyance by being able to serve you with a bigger plant which will be fire proof and up-to-date in every way.

In the meantime we will be pleased to have you come to Rose Gin where you will receive the usual efficient service and courteous accommodations. Respectfully,
J. D. Simpson
J. Frank Turner

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our thanks in the strongest terms of gratitude for the kindness, sympathy and help in so many ways during the illness, death and burial of our daughter, sister and companion, Mrs. Annie Maude Clardy.

May God's richest blessings be upon you all.
Jack Clardy, Mother and sister.

Mrs. Whit McKinney left Sunday for Fort Stockton to join her husband there, where they plan to make their future home. W. M. Koonce of Rising Star, a long time friend of the editor, is here for the remainder of the season in the interest of the Stockwards National Bank in Fort Worth.

C. V. Robinson of Coleman and W. B. Barnett went to Meridian last Saturday to judge turkeys in an exhibit of toms, collected for show and utility purposes.

The first noticeable frost of the season visited this section Wednesday morning. The editor found out about four o'clock in the morning that it had happened — we just happened to walk out in the yard and found it in the act.

The Freshman Class set sail on the good ship "Simplicity, Sincerity and Service." They are just leaving the harbor and a wind is rising.

COURTESY

Courtesy in the school takes so many forms that it is difficult to include all of them in one article. Some of these forms may be found in the respect of student for teacher; teacher for student; student for school building; student for student; and student for school in general.

Another type of courtesy is the way in which a student holds up for his school building. Some of the students scar the desks; throw paper in the corridors during intermission.

Then there is the courtesy of one student for another. It is not necessary to go into detail; anyone can understand it in a minute if he is intelligent.

One rule for courtesy which we may follow is: "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you."

BEAT CROSS PLAINS AT CROSS PLAINS

The Mountaineers feel pepped up over beating Bangs last Friday, and feel that we can beat Cross Plains. Let's do our part to keep the boys pepped up by being at the game next Friday, full force.

EXAMINATIONS

Every student seemed to look very intelligent as they entered school Monday, after having completed the examinations for the first six weeks. There were some very good grades made so let's keep up the making of good grades and let this be the best school term that Santa Anna High School has ever had.

SENIORITAS!

Students who served in the Spanish tea Wednesday afternoon were Ernestine Thames, Helen Turner, Nell Bell, Kathryn Creamer, Beth Barnes and Francine Merritt. This tea was given at the home of Mrs. W. Ford Barnes for the benefit of the public library.

Courtesy Made Compulsory

The faculty of the Santa Anna High School has been forced to resort to the "Detention" system as a means of improving the conduct of some of the students. Some people seem to forget that it disturbs other people to run up or down the stairs; skate in the halls; speak in extra loud tones; or come to class without having as much as opened a book or made a pretense of studying.

The teachers do not enjoy or have spare time to spend in keeping students in, nor do the students find it pleasant to spend forty-five minutes after school hours each day, but it may prove to be the means of forming a good habit—the habit of refinement and obedience to worthwhile commands.

The Two Kinds of Taxation

Mrs. Bartlett: There are two kinds of taxation. They are direct and indirect. Give me an example of the indirect taxation. Garland Close: The dog. Mrs. Bartlett: How is that? Garland: Because he doesn't have to pay it.

Miss Land: Dexter, I noticed you were talking in class this morning. Dexter: I do not recall it, I must have been talking in my sleep.

Cheating Ourselves

The story is told of a dishonest worker. He and his family were roofless, whereupon a certain good Samaritan decided to surprise this poor man with a comfortable home. So, without telling his purpose, he hired the builder at a fair wage to build a house on a sunny hill, and then went on business to a far-away country. The builder was left at work with no watchman but his own honor. "Ha," said he in his heart. "I can skip the material and scamp the work." So he went on spinning out the time, putting in poor service, poor nails, poor timbers.

When the good Samaritan returned the builder said: "That's a fine house I built on the hill." "Good," was the reply. "Go move your folks into it at once for the house is yours. Here is the deed." The builder was thunderstruck. He realized that, instead of cheating his friend, he had been industrially cheating himself when he did not know it was his own house he was building.

That illustration reminds us vividly of the predicament our voters and taxpayers find themselves in today. They suffer under a burden that has become almost unbearable. They wail loud and long about the burdens of taxation, wasteful and foolish governmental expenditure, graft and cheap politics. But are they not criticizing the house they built themselves?

Back a short time ago when most of us had more money than brains and when we were drunk on the power of the almighty dollar, we openly voted for and supported candidates of a spend-thrift character, knowing when we did so that we were "slipping in shoddy materials" in the governmental structure we were building. We knew that government justly and economically administered required our sober thought and honest action, yet we dismissed the thought with the snap of a finger and went right along with our selfish pursuit of the dollar. We didn't have time to vote intelligently.

Now we are reaping the rewards. Of course the house we built leaks and cracks and threatens to collapse. But we can't blame it on the other fellow. We built it ourselves.

Let us profit by our lesson and build the next house as it should be. Our democratic government isn't at fault. The fault lies with us voters who built it. We have been cheating ourselves. Guide, Batesville, Ark.

WHICH?

"Which did de Lord make first, Brudder Johnson, de hen or de egg?"

"De hen, ob korse—de egg comes from de hen."

"Yais, but de hen comes from de egg, too."

"Now, see yar, Brudder Jefferson, if de Lord had made de egg furst, he'd had to make an incubator to hatch it, a saw mill to get de wood fo' de incubator, a tin mine fo' de tin, a winder-glass factory fo' de glass, a cotton mill fo' de cotton batin', a steam heating plant fo' de heat and a drug fo' a thermometer to tell de temperature, besides getting de permission 'sosome walkin' delegate to operate dem industries, and take chances on de egg hatchin' at dat. No, no, Brudder Jefferson, de Lord dun simply make de hen furst and Ah reckon He didn't make a colored man fo' a year or two after." Exchange

Politicians must be hard up in this election. So far we have not heard of anyone fixing a price on votes.

WHERE IS THE SQUARE DEAL?

Is the farmer a man apart from all other men? Is there justice for one class of citizens and a different kind of justice for him?

Is there one class to be preserved and protected—the other class to be destroyed?

Railroads are protected by the interstate commerce commission, which fixes rates and prevents devastating competition—or unjust gouging.

Labor unions fix their price schedules, demand them, and get them.

During the war the government stepped in and fixed rates and established prices by the wholesale and it was to the benefit of our citizenry generally.

Is there any reason why congress could not by law protect the farmer from bankruptcy by establishing minimum prices for his products?

Congress and the government were quick to grant moratoriums to foreign governments who owe us billions of dollars. Is there any sane reason why a moratorium could not or should not be granted on farm debts, in order that the farmer may recover from the prostration which is destroying him?

Given fair prices for his products and a moratorium on his crushing debts and taxes, the farmer would rapidly recover, and the return of prosperity would keep pace with that recovery.

For after all, the farmer is the keystone of the arch upon which our republic is founded. Without his strength our whole fabric would crumble.

FIRE OUT OF PLACE

Fire is a wonderful thing in its place, and a terrible thing when not cared for in the right way. Many living beings are made happy and comfortable by its warmth. Many are also made homeless by its destruction. Many lives are lost in its scorching flames, and still we are careless.

My grandmother once told me a true story which I shall never forget.

Many years ago a mother left her twin babies in their little crib and went to the field to work. After she had been gone an hour or more she looked toward the house and saw a great smoke rising. Of course her babies were her first thought. But she thought too late. The house was all afire and her babies were burned to death.

Most women those days smoked pipes, and she knew then that when she put them to bed some fire fell from her pipe. But she thought she was sure it was all smothered out when it was not.

Carelessness caused her great sorrow. She was careless to leave her babies. But her first mistake was having fire where it should not have been, and that reminds me of another word from grandmother. "A place for everything and everything in place."

Verma Neal Copeland, Sixth grade.

Borrowings on the Decline

When times are very bad life insurance companies make many loans on the policies of their members.

During the past month these borrowings have sharply declined, according to company officials, who attribute the change to a general improvement in economic conditions.

MR. WELTON WINN SELECTED NATIONAL SECRETARY & TREASURER

The national board of directors of the Agricultural Business Association of America held a meeting in Levelland, Texas, on October 3rd, and elected The Honorable Welton Winn, of Lubbock, Texas, as National Secretary and Treasurer.

Mr. Winn's selection was met with wide spread approval among the membership and many others. His selection has been very pleasing and gratifying to T. W. Moss, the President and founder of this new movement, he having worked with Mr. Winn many years ago, and states that Mr. Winn is authority on Agricultural matters, having given a life study to agriculture and its problems. He has also given careful study to the marketing systems now in operation, and claims they need immediate revision.

It is the ultimate object of this organization to remove the price making on all agricultural products from the exchange of the country, which is at present only a gamble, and place it in the hands of the producers of these crops which, in the last analysis, is the only solution of the producers' problems.

Headquarters of this organization will be established in Lubbock within the next thirty days.

The Pup Barks

Even in times of stress we get a good laugh occasionally.

The new government of Manchukuo, Japan's puppet, is preparing to serve notice on the world powers that Manchukuo must be recognized within four to six months, or the new "government" will refuse to recognize treaty rights of the "offending" nations within their borders.

Lord save us, how the little pup does bark!

The law excuses no man on the ground of ignorance, but it excuses many who know all about it.

FRUIT AND VEGETABLE SHIPMENTS DECLINE FOR SEPTEMBER

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 17.—The movement of Texas fruits and vegetables during September was unusually light — even smaller than the meagre loadings of 56 cars in September, 1930, according to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research. Only 54 cars of Texas fruits and vegetables were loaded during last month, according to the Bureau's report.

"September is, of course, an 'in-between' month as far as loadings of fruit and vegetables in Texas are concerned," the Bureau's report said. "It is too early for the crops that move in the fall and the loading of melons has just about been completed."

"Eighteen carloads of grapefruit, the first for the 1932-1933 season were shipped, just half as many as in September last year; and only one car of onions was loaded, as compared with 13 in the corresponding month a year ago. Cantaloupes accounted for only 21 cars during September last year, and 6 carloads of sweet potatoes were shipped as against 15 during the corresponding month in 1931. Eighteen cars of honey dew melons and 19 cars of mixed melons were shipped in September last year; only 2 cars of mixed melons were shipped last month."

We Want Your Business

I Am Calling You

I am the best friend of mankind. To the man who prizes sanity, peacefulness, pure-mindedness, social standing, and longevity, I am a necessity.

I am hung about with sweet memories — memories of brides — memories of mothers, memories of boys and girls — memories of the aged and as they grope their way down the shadows.

I am decked with loving tears, crowned by loving hands and hearts. In the minds of the greatest men on earth, I find a constant dwelling place. I live in the lives of the young and in the dreams of the old.

I safe-guard man through all his paths, from the first hour life's sun slants upon his foot-prints, until the darkness falls.

I strengthen the weak, I lift up the fallen, I help the distressed. I show mercy, bestow kindness and offer a friendly hand to the man in fine linen and the man in homespun. I am the essence of good fellowship, friendliness and love.

I give the gifts that gold cannot buy, nor kings take away. They are given freely to all who ask.

I bring back freshness of life, the eagerness, the spirit of youth which feels that it has something to live for ahead.

I meet you with outstretched arms and with songs of gladness. Some time — some day — some hour — in the near of far future, you will yearn for the touch of my friendly hand.

I am your comforter and best friend. I am calling you!

I am the church.

Geo. Gordon Hamilton.

SPEAKING OF LAZY PEOPLE

All of you have heard of the fellow who was so lazy he couldn't stand still—he couldn't bear his weight on either foot. But here is a story that will beat all the others: Once upon a time there was a fellow who was so lazy he couldn't earn a living for himself. His neighbors finally quit helping him, so it seemed certain that he would die. Finally a neighbor entered and said: "I will give you money to work for me. Would you not rather work than die?" The lazy man said: "Yes, just to please you I will." The man was found dead beside his work some time later. An investigation showed that he had started to work and was too lazy to quit. Exchange.

There are two sides to every question.

FRIENDS OF FIRE

The Smith family were to be envied by all their classmates and friends for they had at their home a real Fire Chief. This was very fortunate for he was their uncle and lived at their house. He was the fire chief of the Fire Department. His name was Jim Smith. Besides Mr. and Mrs. Smith there was Jim, Alice and Billy who were all tickled to have their uncle live with them.

Jim, Alice and Billy were all in school. Billy was only in the first grade and therefore did not have many lessons but Jim and Alice sometimes had very puzzling problems to solve and so it sometimes took them until bed time to finish them. But on Saturdays it was their day off, so to say, and if uncle Jim was not needed at the office, they never let him get out of their sight. He sometimes had large baskets of lunch fixed up and they went to the woods for the day, or went to a play or show and so enjoyed the day.

Often in the evenings he would tell them about his old experiences which he had had in his past days.

One evening Mrs. Smith was filling the match boxes on the wall and put a handful in the lion's mouth on the mantle and started to put some in a bowl at the end of Uncle Jim's elbow on the table. Uncle Jim picked one up and examined it closely and then said, "This is one of fires best friends."

Mrs. Smith laughed and said, "A very little one I should think."

"But a very powerful one," answered Uncle Jim. "Do you remember the story of the lion and the mouse? The mouse was very small but yet it was large enough to set the lion free."

Then the children were aroused and said, "What are some other friends of fire?"

"Well," Uncle Jim began, "I should think that the match your mother uses, for I am not talking about safety matches, is his very best friend. Then there is the wind. He loves to help fire, but cannot do so unless some of the other friends have been along first. Kerosene, gasoline and benzene are faithful friends; so are waste paper, hot ashes, fireworks, dry grass, cigarettes and cigars, flues and Christmas trees."

"Who-ew!" Jim whistled. "But a lot of those things are our friends too, Uncle Jim, especially Christmas trees!"

"Of course they are and we could not get along without some of them. But they are also friends of fire."

"There is one particular friend that I have not mentioned. If it were not for this one all the others would not count. Can you guess what it is?"

The children looked puzzled. Even their father, who had come in while the family were talking, wore a wondering look.

"Aw, tell us!" Jim begged and Uncle Jim laughed as he spelled the word that he wished them to remember.

"C-a-r-e-l-e-s-s-n-e-s-s!" Which is of course carelessness. Helen McKeand. Seventh grade.

WHAT'S RIGHT WITH EDUCATION?

Any discussion of "What's Right With Education" is sadly incomplete if it fails to include the deal of universal education. The free schools offer free educational opportunities for everybody of school age, with no discrimination of class, or creed, or race. The democratic way in a democracy to assure good government is to educate the whole people so they will know good government when they see it, and know to keep good government when they see it. The public school is, therefore, the state's guaranty of good government through enlightened citizenship. The illiterate person, neither appreciating the beneficent function of government, nor enjoying the capacity to render skillful service, may at any time be a liability to the state. "The educated mind is the guardian genius of democracy; it is the only dictator free men acknowledge and the only security free men desire."

Free educational opportunity is not a dormant statutory affair; its vitality—and indeed it has tremendous vitality—comes not merely through the outdoor policy, but also through subsidiary measures that make free school privileges practicable, popular and efficient. What good does it do to open a door if we promptly make entrance difficult and undesirable? Since parents who are financially unable to buy text-books would probably save personal humiliation by declining to enroll their children in the schools, the state protects children against such contingencies through constitutional mandate under which free text-books are supplied. Since the professionally qualified teacher is prerequisite to efficient school preparation for citizenship, the state designates teacher-training institutions, such as the State Teachers Colleges for the preparation of teachers.

Since the indifference of parents and the exploitation of capital would keep children in the fields, shops, and industries with no chance of schooling, the state enacts compulsory education laws. Since antagonistic boards of trustees would cut school terms to save taxes, we have mandatory tax levies by vote of the people. Since a narrow, state course of study lacks appeal to large numbers of children who would drop out of schools not motivated, we have multiplied the range of subjects offered to keep step with the range of interest manifested.—C. E. Evans, Southwest Texas Teachers College.

Pushing Prosperity Along

Here's the way some banks are aiding the return of prosperity.

In Chicago a congregation with a church building and lot worth $100,000, all free of debt, wanted to borrow $1,000 to $2,000 for one year, and was willing to pay 6 or 7 per cent interest. They needed some repairs and wanted to give employment to the needy.

Chicago bankers, with their vaults bulging with money, gave the churchmen the financial stare. Not a cent for them.

Millions for Insull, the crook, whose security was almost worthless, but nothing for a house of God whose security was of the best.

THE BIG ONES ARE ALWAYS ON TOP

Years ago, when apples were bought by barrel, it was said that the big ones were always found on top. A Missouri farmer explained it in this fashion: "As a boy I used to haul barrels of apples to the cider mill. We put large and small fruit into the barrels in a promiscuous manner but by the time I drove over several miles of rough road I found that the small apples had worked their way to the bottom of the barrel and this left the big ones on top."

To further illustrate this point we once heard of a lecturer who placed a glass jar full of beans and walnuts on the desk in front of him. The beans and walnuts were thoroughly mixed, but by the time he reached a certain place in his lecture, he called attention to the fact that the beans were on the bottom and the walnuts on top.

Not many years ago we had a class of people in the United States who advocated the dividing up of all wealth in order that every citizen would have an equal amount. If that had been done and we had continued on with our notion of the value of competition and individual effort, the wealth of the nation would have been redistributed by this time and in the hands of the comparative few.

No matter where you go, one always finds the big ones on top. This applies to the professions, to industry, and to agriculture. It is true that there are exceptions, but the rule holds good. The little fellow on the bottom who is calling for help will remain there unless he saves his breath and by his own efforts becomes big enough to work his way to the top. In this, man has an advantage over the beans in the jar with the walnuts. Some, however, will always play the part of the little apples and the beans.—Farm and Ranch.

SPORTSMANSHIP

The thing that distinguishes a genuine sportsman from a "bum sport" is that those who have the spirit of sportsmanship not only know how to win gracefully but how to lose uncomplainingly. The difference between a genuine sportsman and the other kind is that your real sportsman never tries to shift the responsibility for his failure upon somebody else.

We have long believed that the sporting attitude toward life is the soundest of all philosophies of living. Try your best to win, but if you lose don't be too quick to blame somebody else for your failure. Nine times out of ten people get whatever rewards their individual ability, character and industry entitle them to. But it is our observation, also, that about nine times out of ten the man who fails is ready to lay the blame upon the Government, or the capitalists, or the boss, or anybody else but himself.

The true sportsman does not imply taking defeat lying down. The true sportsman never knows when he is licked. He never accepts defeat as final, but continues to strive to the end of the game. He observes the rules of the game rigidly. If he doesn't like them, he may try to have them changed, but so long as the rules are as they are, he follows them. Stephenville Empire-Tribune.

AN OPPORTUNITY

We have a high regard for our church organizations, regardless of creed, but we often wonder if they are not devoting too much of their time to prohibition and to the disastrous neglect of state and local issues of great import.

Take the average city. With a few exceptions they are governed entirely by professional politicians who would be as lost in an efficiently governed municipality as a toad would be in the Garden of Eden. Their principal thought and endeavor is to get as many of their followers on the payroll as possible, and thereby build up their own political machines and insure their future feeding at the public trough.

And right there is one source of the burden of excessive taxation which is so destructive to our future prosperity.

The churches are all powerful when they unite in a just cause. Their membership is overwhelming in numbers, sufficiently strong to retire to private life any derelict public official against whom they might unite.

We can conceive of no higher or lasting duty the churches might undertake than that of purging our state and municipal governments and placing men in public office who will govern wisely and economically, thus curtailing public expense and reducing the confiscatory taxation which is crushing the life out of the nation.

ALL-DAY STUDY

Last Monday the members of the Presbyterian Mission Study met with Mrs. Womack for the study of the book "The Challenge of the Change," being an intensive survey of National Mission Work.

This proved to be an interesting piece of Mission study and well worth-while.

In the absence of Mr. Womack who was in Dallas, the friends of Mrs. Womack had the pleasure of aiding in a celebration of the wedding anniversary of their pastor and wife, although they were not informed of this fact before time.

Each one brought dishes of well prepared food from her kitchen, while the hostess completed details of the table in a manner most pleasing. An appetizing meal was thoroughly enjoyed at 12.

'Twas an enjoyable occasion throughout, and one to be remembered long by all present. Reporter.

FIGURES THAT DON'T LIE

Here are some figures that furnish food for thought: One corporation alone owns more than one-half the country's iron industry; another 90 per cent of the nickel; four major concerns rule the U. S. copper industry, while eight own 80 per cent of the nation's coal. Two giant concerns own 80 per cent of the automobiles produced; two packing companies handle more than 50 per cent of meat in interstate commerce, and one per cent of the country's banks hold resources equal to the other 99 per cent. Mountaineers Defeat Bangs Dragons

First Quarter

Last Friday the Mountaineers took the Bangs Dragons to a good cleaning.

Bangs opened the game with a kick-off of 35 yards. Ward made a nice sprint. "Bull" plows over right guard for 6 yards. Walthall 2 yards on a cut back over right tackle. "Bull" 6 yds. over right guard. Ward 35 yds. around left end. This boys tried to make a nice pass out of the end. Santa Anna's defense determined to show the "Bull" that when they could not pass they had to go. Ward passed to Wheeler. Wheeler passed to W. R. and Ward went over the goal line for a touchdown. "Bull" didn't quite come up to par, therefore we failed to receive the extra point.

"Bull" kicked off to the Dragons for 35 yards. Bangs 2 yds. over left guard, 2 yards over center, 2 incomplete passes and a 20 yard punt out of bounds. Wheeler punted it back for 40 yards.

Second Quarter

Bangs 1 yard over left tackle. Santa Anna penalized 15 yards. The ball was then on Bangs 1 yard line. It looked like the boys were going to lose a point but "Bull" dashed thru and set the Dragons back 1 yd. Bangs 1 yd over right tackle, no gain over right guard. "Bull" and Walthall dash thru and foil the plays of the Dragons about the time it looked shaky for the Mountaineers. The ball went over to the Mountaineers on the Bangs 3 yard line.

Wheeler punted for 45 yards. Bangs passed for 14 yards and was intercepted by Walthall and returned for 45 yards. Ward 16 yards on a right end run. Mountaineers fumbled but regained the ball. Walthall 3 yds over right tackle. Ward 25 yds over right tackle for a touchdown. "Bull" kicked the goal for the extra point.

The boys so far are showing some real spirit and football playing. In the last half they showed more pep than in any game prior to this. At the end of the half the score was 13-0 in favor of the Mountaineers.

Third Quarter

"Bull" kicked off for 50 yards. Bangs 7 yards over right guard, 4 yards over right guard, 4 yds. around right end, 5 yards over left guard, 2 incomplete passes and a 34 yard punt.

Walthall no gain over right guard. Ward incomplete pass to Wheeler. Wheeler complete pass to Wheeler for 15 yds. Ward 2 yds over right guard. Wheeler complete pass of 30 yds to Ward. Ward 3 yards around right end. "Bull" 1 yard and out of bounds. Ward complete pass to Wheeler for 12 yards and the latter dashed over the goal line for the third touchdown of the day. "Bull" kicked our goal.

The score was then 20-0 in favor of the Mountaineers.

Fourth Quarter

In the last (supposed to be the last) quarter. Mr. Binion couldn't keep his eyes off those Bangs pep squad girls long enough to keep accurate time so the third and fourth quarters were the same as one) quarter the boys used that time mostly just to practice for their next game. We hope that the next one isn't such a run over as our boys aren't cut out for race horses. If the Mountaineers will do just that good from now on we will have the district football team. "Bull" then made a hundred.

Next Friday the Mountaineers play Cross Plains at Cross Plains. The final score was 20-0 in favor of the MOUNTAINEERS.

D. J. HARRIS PASSES AWAY

D. J. Harris, probably one of the best known men between Brownfield and Lubbock, shot and killed himself Saturday night at about 11:30 and died a little later. The act was committed as he lay in his bed after a hard days work.

Dr. Moorhead was called and he told the doctor he wanted to get out of his trouble and asked that only such medicine be given him that would ease his pain, he did not want to live.

Harris was a very capable man and built a fine wholesale and retail petroleum distribution agency. He also owned with his cousin, Beauford Reed, the Ropes Motor Co. He had been sic with dropsy for some time and he had just been told that his life was threatened by advanced tuberculosis and was a matter of weeks. He had lead a hard life as soldier and peace officer and did not view things as many of us do. He wanted to have time and energy to complete the work that he had set out for himself as he often told the writer, and that the tag end of a worn out existence was a thing of little value to him. He, however, wanted to get well and carry on if that were possible, there was nothing maudlin in his views, rather the contrary, he was inclined to view the whole affair in a cold dispassionate manner.

Harris was born in Bell county, October 23, 1887 and while a small boy moved to Coleman County. Back in those days that part of Texas was no modern tea party so he came up as men come up, fair, honest, able to hold his own in any company. While a young man Sheriff John R. Banister, the famous sheriff of the county took Harris on as his deputy which position he held until the World War. He became a government detective unattached and some of his experiences that have been hinted at in talks with him would raise the hair on any man's head. Harris was a man who knew not the meaning of the word fear. While the government has never recognized that his ill health was the outcome of his service it nevertheless is and makes a very deserving case.

After the war he married Miss Clara Copeland of Huckabee in 1920 and a little son, Noble 11, and a little daughter Mary Margaret 8, survive this marriage.

His first business in Meadow was contracting and he built most of the better homes here, he then purchased the Magnolia agency and made a fine business out of it, he had recently opened the Ropes Motor Co. which was just getting under way for a fine fall business. He was a director of the Meadow Bank and had health been his a few years more would have seen him one of the most powerful business men in this part of the country. Meadow will miss him for he was in on all civic things in a big way, and his help that is lost will be felt.

Mr. Harris is survived by his wife and children, his mother, two brothers and two sisters who reside in Coleman County. Bayliss D. Jeffery, Editor of the Tri-town News.

Albert Reasoner of Shields was in Santa Anna Wednesday, and reported a big frost which killed the cotton in his community that morning.

Mrs. R. F. Crum and Miss Geneva Caldwell left Sunday morning for a weeks visit in Belton, Temple and Killeen.

Miss Mollie Denton and Mrs. Willie Gibson spent Wednesday afternoon in Brownwood.

Bring your turkeys to L. G. Boho.

Mr. and Mrs. John Harris of Dallas spent Tuesday night with Mrs. Harris' sister, Mrs. Sam Forehand. Mrs. Forehand accompanied them to Brownwood Wednesday, where she visited her daughter, Mrs. Hal Wells.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Moore visited in Fort Worth last weekend.

Guaranteed permanents—$2.00, $3.50 and $5.00. Two $2.00 permanents for $3.50. Mrs. Shockley.

Mrs. S. W. Childers and Mrs. Dorothy Aston left Sunday for Fort Worth, where the State meeting of the Order of the Eastern Star convenes this week.

FRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Sunday is the last Lord's Day in the month of October. The autumn time is harvest time. The crops are gathered into the storehouse. Let us gather ourselves to the Lord's House and honor Him with the spirit of giving back a portion of our substance.

Sunday morning we will sing a hymn written by Isaac Watts. "Begin My Tongue, Some Heavenly Theme" He was a minister in the Congregational Church of England and one of the greatest preachers of his time. Because of over study during his childhood he injured his health and seldom preached after his thirty-eighth year. In 1740 he made the first attempt to use public worship as the giving of his hymns in the church instead of psalms. This met bitter opposition as hymns were not considered inspired. His hymns were called "Watts' Whims," and were excluded for nearly thirty years from the church. But after this his hymns were the only ones allowed to be used in services. His great mind and spiritual life are reflected in the depth of the words of his hymns. This hymn is an expression of praise in recognition of the power and sovereignty of God.

"Begin my tongue, some heavenly theme, And speak some boundless thing: The mighty works or mightier name, Of our eternal King."

The tune to which these words are sung was written by Joseph Haydn. His work was done in a reverential spirit, frequent in death and seldom preached after his thirty-eighth year. In 1740 he made the first attempt to use public worship as the giving of his hymns in the church instead of psalms. This met bitter opposition as hymns were not considered inspired. His hymns were called "Watts' Whims," and were toward heaven and exclaimed,

"Not mine, not mine: it came from above."
