

Night Meeting Possible For Big 4 Heads

BULLETIN

GENEVA (U) — President Eisenhower today urged Soviet Russia to tear down the Iron Curtain and permit freer exchange of ideas and travelers between East and West.

GENEVA (U) — The Big Four were reported to be considering a possible summit session tonight to permit more time for discussion of key problems, including President Eisenhower's dramatic proposal to trade military blueprints with Russia.

As the leaders plunged into a full afternoon of talks, informed quarters said United Nations officials had been alerted to have the council chamber of the Palais des Nations ready for a possible night meeting.

The President was said to be definitely committed to leave tomorrow evening for Washington and the summit conference was running far behind schedule.

The four foreign ministers went back into session this afternoon. A three-hour session this morning failed to complete final recommendations to the heads of government on any of the three problems under discussion.

One informed source said the President's proposal was not specifically mentioned at the morning session. This meant that Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov had not given a hint as to whether Russia would accept the plan or even promise to consider it further.

Some quarters saw a possibility that the Eisenhower proposals might get shunted aside, along with other proposals on disarmament, German unification and European security for discussion after the summit conference.

The leaders appeared to be aiming now primarily at setting up directives for the guidance of a foreign ministers' conference next October and for further discussions in the U. N. subcommittee on disarmament.

The foreign ministers spent the morning on this problem and the afternoon on the job in the afternoon.

The four heads of government — President Eisenhower, Soviet Premier Bulganin, British Prime Minister Eden and French Premier Faure — arranged to meet later to take up whatever recommendations were handed up by the foreign ministers.

Meanwhile, the French Premier circulate a draft resolution calling for a disarmament program under a joint East-West inspection and control system. The plan apparently attempted to combine his own budgetary control ideas with Eden's plan for disarmament in a limited area of Europe and with Eisenhower's call for new talks on an inspection system.

Molotov's silence on the Eisenhower proposal to exchange military information left unanswered the bit question: Would Russia accept it or even promise further discussion on it?

Both British Prime Minister Eden and French Premier Faure quickly hailed Eisenhower's proposal yesterday. Soviet Premier Bulganin made no direct comment, saying only that the statements by the heads of government had a great importance.

Whatever the Russians did subsequently, the American President had certainly seized the initiative at the conference.

Eisenhower, Eden and Faure approved Bulganin's suggestion that the foreign ministers be directed to work out recommendations for them and for the United Nations on all proposals submitted at the meeting.

Eisenhower's plan had two main points:

1. That the United States and Russia—in order to assure the rest of the world against their using the "new and terrible weapons" they possess—exchange "a complete blueprint of our military establishments, from one end of our countries to the other."
2. That the United States and Russia provide each other full facilities for photographing from the air all installations in each country.

This, the President explained, would be "but a beginning" until a "sound and reliable agreement" could be concluded on disarmament and the inspection and reporting system necessary to make it effective.

Eisenhower added a recommendation that the Big Four direct the U. N. Subcommittee on Disarmament give priority to efforts to work out a disarmament control system.

Ike Supporters Hopeful For Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (U) — Administration supporters in both parties voiced confidence they can muster enough votes to beat down new moves to slash President Eisenhower's foreign aid budget in the Senate today.

Sen. Clements (D-Ky), acting majority leader, held out hope that if the calendar of routine bills was cleared and the aid bill passed, a Saturday session he originally had planned might not be necessary. Congress has been hoping to adjourn about a week from now, but House Democratic Leader McCormack of Massachusetts said yesterday it won't hit that target.

The President asked Congress for $3,266,000,000 to give military and economic aid to America's friends in the current fiscal year. The House whacked $627,900,000 from his request but the Senate Appropriations Committee Tuesday voted to put back $508,000,000, recommending a total of $3,205,000,000.

Sen. Saltonstall of Massachusetts, assistant Republican leader, said in advance of the debate he was confident the committee's position would be sustained. While Democratic leaders made no public predictions, it was evident they too expected the Senate to follow generally the committee's restorations.

However, Sen. Ellender (D-La) told a reporter he would strike at two of the biggest restorations. He said he would move to knock out of the bill 429 million dollars for worldwide military assistance. He said he also would seek to eliminate a large part of a special fund asked by Eisenhower for Asian economic development. The President asked 200 million for this; the House granted him 100 million; the Senate committee raised it to 150 million.

Crossnoe Bond Cut Is Denied

Judge Charles Sullivan declined to lower bond for James Harris Crossnoe charged with two cases of burglary, at a habeas corpus hearing in 118th District Court here Friday.

The court held the $2,500 bond fixed in cases involving burglary of the Glascock County Courthouse and the post office building at Garden City Feb. 24 and March 1 was not excessive.

Witnesses called by District Attorney Gil Jones included Justice of Peace W. C. (Pete) Underwood and Sheriff Sam (Buster) Cox of Garden City. A. G. Mitchell, special agent for the T&P Railway Company and former police chief here, testified Crossnoe was the same individual who was convicted in 1948 in Howard County of burglary. Also called was David Weir, a participant in the alleged burglaries and who appeared as a state's witness.

George Thomas, attorney for Crossnoe, questioned Underwood extensively about dates on his records.

CASE AT END?

80-Acre Spacing Ruled For Luther

The Texas Railroad Commission has ruled in favor of 80-acre spacing in the Luther Southeast Field.

This action apparently brings to an end litigation dating back to last October when fee holders obtained a 40-acre ruling from the commission.

Gil Jones, who represented the landowners in their appeal for the minimum spacing, was advised in the latest decision the commission had settled on the plan of one well to drain each 80 acres.

Originally, the operators had sought one well to each 160-acre. The commission had granted the 40-acre rule in October, but in February, six operators (five in a unified operation, joined by Goldston Oil) filed for the 80-acre ruling.

Approximately 50 landowners were involved in the case since the 40-acre ruling would have about doubled the number of wells to be drilled. Several more tests will be required even under the 80-acre plan.

The Luther Southeast pool produces from a relatively thin section of the Siluro-Devonian at depths below 9,000 feet. The field extends a distance of about four miles north and south and roughly two miles east and west in westerly direction from the Luther store.

Peron Aide Quits As Party Chieftain

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (U) — Rear Adm. Alberto Teissaire, vice president of Argentina, resigned today as head of the Peronista party and said he would devote his full time to governmental affairs.

He said he was leaving party affairs to politicians.

Teissaire made clear at a news conference that in taking this course he was following the lead of President Peron, who in a speech on July 15 said he was stepping down as head of the Peronista revolution to become "President of all Argentines, friends and foes."

Peron, who survived the revolution attempt of June 16, was not the party's titular executive.

Although Teissaire relinquishes the party reins he continues in his government jobs of vice president, presiding officer of the Senate and Peron's secretary of political affairs.

Peron's move to separate the functions of government leaders from party chieftains was the result of his announced plan to achieve political peace in Argentina.

Teissaire had stressed at a news conference yesterday the Peronista party was continuing to function normally and hinted he and other Peronista party leaders would keep their jobs.

Today Teissaire called for the party's National Consultative Junta to meet on Monday to formally accept his resignation and pick a successor.

Pretty Steno In Spy Trial

FRANKFURT, Germany (U) — Ursula Schmidt, Germany's first woman spy, went on trial in secret here today on charges that she spied on the United States for the Russians. The trial is being held in a secret location in the city.

Mrs. Schmidt, 29, who allegedly used the code name of "Garbo" showed up for the trial wearing a tight-fitting black sweater, a black skirt, rhinestone earrings and sunglasses. She is accused of maintaining "reasonable relations" with Soviet intelligence in East Germany from 1951 to 1953, when she worked as a stenographer at the U. S. Rhein-Main Airbase here.

Mrs. Schmidt contends she was forced into her role. She says the Russians arrested her when she crossed illegally into East Germany in 1950 to visit an aunt. Then, she says, the Russians accused her of being a Western agent because she was carrying her employment papers as a clerk for the British military government. They released her only after making her sign a written pledge that she would work for the Russians, she claims.

She is accused of receiving 1,200 marks ($285.50) from the Russians, and sending reports written in invisible ink.

Ike Trade Offer Catches Reds Off Their Guard

LONDON (U) — Astonishing... Gratifying... Grand... Somewhat bizarre...

President Eisenhower's offer to swap military blueprints and aerial reconnaissance with the Russians struck the imagination of Europe today in all these ways and more, even among those who admitted they didn't expect anything to come of it.

Only the Russians — and their Communist supporters in the West — were gingerly cautious in their reaction. They gave signs of being caught off guard.

"The rocks the Big Four" blazed the headline in Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express, one of Britain's biggest newspapers.

Underlining the Eisenhower plan was the hope it raised among the European peoples looking longingly to lasting peace. Some newspapers said it seemed too much to hope for complete success, however.

Britain's liberal News Chronicle said: "Had it come from anybody else we might have caught a whiff of a political maneuver; but it is plain from all who were present that here was a man truly saying what he deeply felt."

"Its chances of acceptance must be almost nil... if Soviet Russia in the next 48 hours agrees to the proposal, then times have changed indeed."

"But what the speech accomplishes is suddenly to raise Geneva from the clammily folds of petty technicalities, from the orders of priority on this or that agenda, to what is in fact the true summit — the idealism which is prepared to fight for peace at any cost."

Newspapers in traditionally neutral Sweden appeared impressed yet somewhat bewildered by the Eisenhower proposal.

Stockholm's Dagens Nyheter termed the plan "grand" though "somewhat bizarre" and declared it was bound "for understandable reasons to be rejected by the Russians."

Rome's biggest newspaper, the Independent Il Messaggero, said the plan "created a moment of emotion, or rather commotion."

Il Popolo, organ of Italy's dominant Christian Democrat party, said it was "generous and genial, but one can hardly imagine swarms of American spotter planes in Russian skies."

Rome's pro-Communist Il Paese was more cautious in hailing both the Eisenhower plan and Russian Premier Bulganin's own disarmament proposals with the assertion: "We trust that the halfway point on the road to peace already has been sighted."

West German newspapers described the Eisenhower plan as both "surprising" and "revolutionary."

The Geneva correspondent of the Frankfurter Rundschau said, however, "in conference circles it is believed this proposal will not have much chance of being realized because the disadvantages for Russia would be greater than the advantages."

The Muenchner Merkur of Munich called it the "first recipe for disarmament."

Paris' Communist l'Humanite said "the sensational character of the proposition made by Eisenhower... brilliantly emphasizes the changed climate in international relations... It is clear that we are now on the way to peaceful coexistence."

In Copenhagen, the daily B. T. said: "An era is not initiated by a gesture, but the gesturing hand may wave away fogs to make truth suddenly naked and present. That was what Eisenhower did. That is his great achievement, regardless of what the continued tug of war will lead to."

Explosive Effect On Russ Citizens

GENEVA (U) — Western experts said today President Eisenhower's mutual military inspection plan could have explosive effects on Soviet citizens who must have police permission whenever they want to travel in their own country.

Russians must carry internal passports. Every movement within the country is controlled, Western experts ask what would be the effect of a group of Americans traveling at will in areas forbidden to Soviet citizens?

"Movement control" is not a Communist invention. The Tsars used it too. But it has grown and extended.

For the United States to agree to give blueprints of its home military establishments and to permit aerial reconnaissance by Soviet planes is relatively simple. Air photos of practically the whole country can be bought by just about anyone who wants to put down the money.

For the Russians, acceptance of such a plan would involve a revolution in thinking which for centuries has dominated Russia, always the country of "secrets for secrets' sake."

All through its history, Russia has had closed areas and these have grown more numerous in recent years. Just about every border area is closed to foreigners and so are other vast areas. There are only a few routes along which foreigners may leave Moscow. Even then permission must be requested from the foreign ministry 48 hours in advance.

Such restrictions on both citizens and foreigners are deeply ingrained in the Russian character. The thought of foreign planes — and especially American planes — flying at will about Russia is almost incredible to anyone who has spent much time there.

Eisenhower talked about "blueprints" of Soviet military potential. This to a country where military secrecy forbids selling a street map of Moscow to tourists.

The location of every industrial plant in the Soviet Union is a secret; production statistics are not released. Could the Soviet leaders risk even hinting all this might be reversed?

Adlai's Got Troubles Too, So Back To Bed

HOUSTON (U) — Senator Lyndon B. Johnson, recuperating in Bethesda Naval Hospital from a heart attack, has received this letter from Adlai Stevenson, the 1952 Democratic Presidential candidate:

"Dear Lyndon: I am sitting on my little farm recuperating from bronchial pneumonia.

"They are making hay out here. But now the tractor has broken down; and the hay wagon has collapsed, dumping 50 bales of hay in the middle of the driveway, and my farmer has lacerated his arm on a hay hook.

"Besides, it is hot.

"I think I will just go back to bed, cough for a while and take it easy.

"And that would be the best thing you can do, too.

"Cordially,

"Adlai."

The letter was published by the Houston Post this morning.

INDIAN LEGATE Truce Commission Elimination Try?

NEW DELHI, India (U) — The Indian government said today it appears the rioting in Saigon Wednesday followed a decision by the South Viet Nam government to seek what it termed the "elimination of Polish and Indian pro-Communist elements" on the Indochina Truce Commission.

An official Indian statement, based on reports from Commission Chairman J. S. Desai of India, said:

"It appears that a resolution by the South Viet Nam government had been adopted a day or two before the mob violence 'with the concurrence of all the ministries.' This resolution mentioned, among other things, the 'elimination of Polish and Indian pro-Communist elements in the international commission as one of objectives of the South Viet Nam government.'

The Indian statement also reported demonstrations occurred against truce commission teams outside Saigon but that these teams suffered no damage.

The rioters in Saigon wrecked the hotel in which the truce commission has its headquarters and another hotel in which its members live. One Indian soldier and two Poles attached to the truce group were reported hurt.

The riot followed a demonstration called by supporters of Premier Ngo Dinh Diem to protest the Indochina armistice and support the Premier's opposition to unification elections which the truce provides are to be held next July in both South Viet Nam, G. and the Communist-ruled North.

Many supporters of Diem have charged repeatedly in recent weeks that Polish and Indian members of the armistice group are favoring the Communists.

The Peiping radio broadcast, heard in London today, accused the United States of encouraging the riot. It also charged Diem's government with planning eventually to "scrap the (Geneva) agreements and sabotage Indochina peace."

No Americans were hurt in the Saigon violence, but the mob destroyed clothes and personal belongings of 57 Americans living in the two hotels. The U. S. ambassador to South Viet Nam, G. Frederick Reinhardt, protested to Diem and the Premier disavowed the rioters, saying his government has taken energetic steps to prevent a recurrence.

He described the ranch as "decidedly beautiful country"—rough but without steep canyons.

He said it would probably withstand drought better than country to the south.

On cross-examination, he said he could not define market value in response to a question by Dist. Atty. Les Procter.

Jones said his $40 estimate "seems to be the going price for land in that area."

E. A. Stricklen, Del Rio real estate dealer, returned to the stand briefly this morning to complete testimony he began yesterday. He was one of three witnesses called by the defense yesterday in its effort to show the ranch was worth the $34 an acre paid for it last year for resale to 54 veterans.

The state, in 19 days of testimony preceding the opening of the defense case yesterday, had sought to prove the 10,000-acre ranch was over-priced at the $34-per-acre cost to the state. Purchase price a year earlier had been $17 an acre.

Joe York Kinney County rancher, testified yesterday he had bought a ranch in 1950 neighboring the Rosenow Ranch under question. He said he had paid $26.50 per acre for it and had had several chances to sell it since at a profit.

He testified he thought land in the area would now bring $30.

He said he had not been on the Rosenow Ranch in 20 years but remembered it as "what we call a hill country ranch—rough country."

E. A. Stricklen, Del Rio real estate dealer, testified he had sold "almost identical" land in the vicinity of the Rosenow Ranch in 1953 for $40 an acre. He estimated the Rosenow Ranch land would be worth $35 an acre minimum.

"Speculative value would be $60," he said.

He said he based his evaluation on the land's worth for ranching, hunting and minerals. He described the area as the "best in the state" for deer and turkey hunting.

Dist. Atty. Les Procter, in cross-examination, attempted to show that under an "income minus expense" formula the total indicated value of the land would be about $30,000. Stricklen would not agree with the figure.

Lenox Ligon, Llano rancher and land appraiser, on the stand earlier, had also disagreed with Procter's figuring.

Ike Timing Had Air Of Football Play About It

GENEVA (AP) — President Eisenhower's timing of his sensational proposal to trade military power secrets with Russia had a good deal of football quarterback strategy about it.

The President had the play in mind all along. He waited at the Big Four conference for a quick opening and then cut loose with the ball.

He decided the moment had come when Soviet Premier Bulganin presented pretty much the same old Soviet proposals on disarmament—proposals the West already had examined and found wanting.

Eisenhower went to yesterday's summit meeting with a prepared statement outlining the general U.S. position on the subject of freeing the world from fear of an atomic attack.

The United States and Russia, he said, "admittedly possess new and terrible weapons in quantity."

But there was a deliberate gap in Eisenhower's prepared text. It did not include the two-point proposal he made for an exchange of military information.

There probably were at least three reasons for that:

1. Perhaps the most important was the matter of timing. The President undoubtedly wanted the Soviet disarmament ideas presented first—so the United States then could recapture world attention. For the West had something new for the world.
2. Eisenhower didn't know in advance whether yesterday's session would prove to be the strategic occasion for his move. For that reason he decided it would be best not to bring the proposals into the conference room in written form.
3. Presidential aides feared that if the proposals were included in a prepared text, the substance of the plan might leak out and give the Russians a chance to develop counterstrategy.

But when Bulganin concluded his disarmament presentation, Eisenhower saw his opening.

He read from his prepared statement for three or four minutes, then suddenly whipped off his horn-rimmed glasses, put aside his text and looked directly at Bulganin. Speaking extemporaneously, the President addressed himself "particularly to the delegates from the Soviet Union."

When he resumed reading his text two minutes later, he had set forth "soft the cut" his challenge to the Russians to exchange military power blueprints with the United States.

He also proposed letting the two nations make all the aerial photographs they want of the other's military installations.

Top officials in Washington said last night that the President's plan followed the essentials of a proposal prepared by the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff. And since March Harold E. Stassen has been working as the President's special assistant on disarmament.

Eisenhower had been studying the problem long before he named

Stassen to the post. He had given the matter intensive study during the last few weeks. So he knew exactly what play he wanted to call when he saw what looked like an opening in the Soviet line.

When the President ended his statement, the lights in the conference chamber suddenly went out. A moment later they came back on.

Eisenhower grinned and said: "I didn't mean to blow out the lights, but I had finished my remarks anyway."

Probers Keep Up Pressure For Adams To Tell Dixon-Yates Role

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate subcommittee kept pressure today on Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams for "the full and true story" of his role in the controversial, canceled Dixon-Yates power contract.

Persuasion rather than force apparently will be the sole means of applying pressure on President Eisenhower's No. 1 White House aide.

Asked if a subpoena had been considered, Chairman Kefauver (D-Tenn.) of the Senate Judiciary subcommittee told reporters:

"Frankly, I don't think we can subpoena him. We are going to try this first." The "this" was a strongly worded letter the three-man subcommittee on antimonopoly matters rushed to Adams by messenger yesterday asking him to reconsider his refusal to testify.

Adams could not be reached for comment.

The subcommittee said Adams' written refusal yesterday was the fifth instance of a claim of privilege by executive department officials that they cannot be required to give information to the subcommittee.

"In these circumstances," the subcommittee said, "a claim of privilege is tantamount to suppression of evidence of possible crime and corruption. Not even the privilege of attorney-client can be used for such a nefarious purpose."

"Certainly officials of the government itself cannot and should not assert privilege where the result would be the suppression of evidence which would show corruption and deception in a matter involving millions of dollars of public funds."

The Dixon-Yates contract, negotiated on Eisenhower's orders by the Atomic Energy Commission, called for construction of a 107-million-dollar power plant at West Memphis, Ark., to furnish electricity to the Tennessee Valley Authority to replace power it supplies to AEC. Eisenhower ordered it canceled after Memphis, Tenn., decided to build its own power plant, which would reduce demands on TVA.

Now in adjournment until Tuesday, the subcommittee is currently concerned with two letters involving facts of the Dixon-Yates controversy:

1. Adams' letter, which in effect confirmed that he had asked the Securities and Exchange Commission to put off last month a hearing on Dixon-Yates financing, at a time when the House was considering a $1-million-dollar appropriation for a transmission line to hook up TVA and the proposed Dixon-Yates plant. The House apparently vetoed the item and the hearings subsequently resumed.

2. One from AEC General Manager Kenneth E. Fields to Kefauver which subcommittee members contended was confirmation that Adolph H. Wenzell served in a dual capacity as unpaid consultant to the Budget Bureau on Dixon-Yates at a time when he was an official of First Boston Corp., which later became Dixon-Yates' unpaid financial agent.

Wenzell's name, and that of Paul L. Miller, another First Boston official, were omitted from Budget Bureau and AEC chronologies were "false," and designed to conceal the activities of Wenzell and Miller.

Richard W. Cook, AEC deputy general manager, testified yesterday the two names were in an early draft which he prepared but were removed from late drafts "after the Bureau of the Budget suggested that we leave their names out" and include only names of "principals."

"We did not try to conceal anything," Cook declared. "If we had thought these names were going to blow up as they did we would have included them."

Kefauver has said Adams suggested delay in the SEC hearings because he didn't want testimony by Wenzell to reach the House while it was considering the TVA appropriation.

F. Sinclair Armstrong, SEC chairman, has testified that Adams suggested the postponement and also mentioned the appropriation item to him. Adams' letter yesterday said Armstrong had "testified fully" and "there is nothing that I could add."

West Texans Set Vote On Promotion, Advertising Program

SAN ANGELO (AP) — West Texas wool growers will vote in the national referendum on the proposed wool advertising and promotional campaign called for under Sec. 708 of the National Wool Act of 1954.

County agricultural stabilization & conservation offices are preparing lists of known eligible sheep producers.

The deadline for voting is Aug. 19, 1955.

To be eligible to vote a grower must have owned sheep six months or older for at least 30 consecutive days since Jan. 31, 1955.

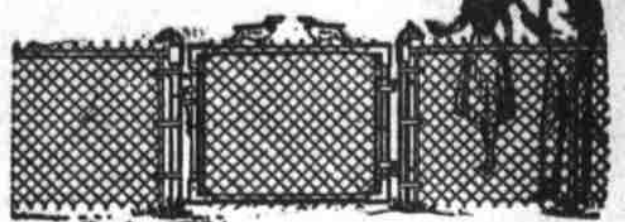

If sheepmen vote for the program, the government will deduct from incentive payments made on the 1955 wool clip, the money to go for advertising and promotion of wool and lamb.

Deductions from the 1955 incentive payments will be 1 cent per pound of shorn wool and 5 cents per 100 pounds liveweight from lamb and yearling payments.

Explanation Of More Difficult Clues

CLUES ACROSS:

4. Ace is preferred. "More than one" does not suggest a very great number, but there were countless such Aces during the war. Our fighter Aces were, by comparison, pitifully few.
6. Goat is best. Find it "there" means "where you left it". A Goat will hardly be where you left it if you don't tie it up. A Boat might, of course, if the water is still.
8. Mind is the more comprehensive answer, since it includes Mend. Mending her clothes is part of the work of Minding them.
10. "Very nervous" points to Rink. You would probably expect a nervous person to keep off a Rink. As for Risk, why single out a "very nervous" person. We should all avoid Risks, wherever possible.
13. Set is best. The clue implies that luck is a relatively small contributory factor. (It "can play its part"). This favors a Set (of tennis) in which skill is the prime factor. The winning of a Set, a gamble, very largely depends on luck.
16. Data is the more comprehensive answer. The Date would merely be one piece of Data. Also, there must be a certain amount of Data, but there may be no Date at all.
19. Barker is particularly apt, since it is his job to get customers inside. There is no point in specifying Barber, as against any other tradesman. Also, a Barber lacking capital may find it very difficult indeed to improve his business.
24. See is preferred. He may well prefer not to See him, but whether or not he preferred to See him would depend on the nature of his offense in law.

25. Star is more apt. Surely all "old trouperers" must Stay in business for many years else they are not really "old trouperers".

26. The clue calls for "a cry of warning". Fore is specifically a cry of warning in golf. Fire is not; it may be merely announcing that there is a fire.

CLUES DOWN:

1. A Lamp will be the better for regular daily attention. A Lamb must be taken out and brought in, but does not require individual daily attention.
2. There is a sounder general application than Mink. Any average person knows what a Monk looks like, but may well have difficulty in distinguishing furs. Also, what you take for Mink may be artificial.
5. Cake is best. Not Coke, since, in industry, it is natural to think of vast quantities being consumed. If you ate very little Cake yourself, you might well be surprised to hear how much was consumed annually by the whole nation.
7. They are quite definitely Tired. But there is nothing to prevent a man attempting the swim without being Tired.

Jovial Welcome To A New Secretary

Secretary of Defense Charles Wilson shakes hands with Wilbur Brucker, right, as he gives the new Secretary of the Army a jovial welcome to his new Pentagon post in Washington, D. C. Brucker, a former governor of Michigan and general counsel of the Defense Department, succeeds Robert T. Stevens, who resigned.

Judge Convicted On Gun Battle Charge

BRATTLEBORO, Vt. (AP)—Manuel Miller, 47, justice of the peace, was convicted yesterday of two counts of "forcibly resisting" U.S. marshals May 3 when they went to his Bethel home under a court order to take his wife Lucille, 45, to a mental institution.

A federal jury of eight women and four men deliberated less than two hours.

Sentence was deferred by Judge Ernest W. Gibson until Aug. 8, the same day Mrs. Miller is scheduled to be sentenced for violating the federal draft law by counseling nine young men to evade military service.

Miller faced a maximum penalty on each count of 10 years imprisonment and a $10,000 fine. He was convicted of resisting with a rifle U.S. Marshal Dewey H. Perry and Deputy Marshal John H. Breen when they sought to carry out a court order.

Mrs. Miller faces a maximum penalty of five years imprisonment and $10,000 fine on each of 18 counts.

Miller is free in $10,000 bail. His wife is under $1,000 bail.

Miller's counsel Maurice A. Broderick indicated an appeal will be filed. Mrs. Miller's lawyer has said she may appeal the draft law's constitutionality as far as the U.S. Supreme Court if necessary.

Judge Gibson, who presided at both Miller trials, issued the disputed committal order which set off the 12-hour siege at the Miller home May 3.

Miller held the marshals at bay with a loaded rifle until a volley of tear gas shells forced him and his wife to surrender.

Mrs. Miller, mother of three, was taken the next day to St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Washington, where she was pronounced mentally competent after a month's examination. She returned to Vermont and was convicted last week.

Compromise Made On Reserves Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate-House conference committee has agreed to exempt present and former servicemen from compulsory reserve training, but to require it of future draftees and enlisted men.

That was the major compromise on which the conferees agreed yesterday in working out differences between Senate and House bills designed to provide a strong, ready military reserve to supplement the regular forces.

The compromise version will go to the House for action Monday, and may go to the Senate for final approval later the same day.

It falls far short in some respects of the program President Eisenhower had asked to boost reserve strength to 2,900,000 men by 1960, but Sen. Russell (D-Ga.) said, "This is about as strong a bill as the Congress would now approve."

Russell, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, called the measure "a more workable bill than either the Senate or the House passed."

It retained the administration plan to permit up to 250,000 men a year in the 17-to-20-year age bracket to volunteer for three to six months of special active duty training and complete their eight-year hitch draft-free in the active reserve. The activity duty period could be deferred until they complete high school if their work is satisfactory.

But the measure ignored Pentagon requests for authority to draft men for that program if there were not enough volunteers.

The bill would require all draftees and enlistees who enter service after the bill becomes law to continue with reserve training on completion of their active duty. But it omits Eisenhower's request that the reserve training be required of present and former servicemen.

That will mean a two-year gap before service veterans move into the active reserves in large numbers because the minimum term for draftees is 24 months.

To help fill the gap with trained men, the joint committee offered two "incentive plans" to get these service veterans to volunteer for reserve drills and thus shorten the present eight-year period of military obligation. The eight-year obligation has been part of the law since 1951, but has not been enforced.

The first incentive would allow up to 150,000 men a year to get out of the armed services after one year, if they volunteer for three years reserve training, and are approved by the secretaries of Army, Navy or Air Force.

The other incentive would allow up to 200,000 servicemen a year who complete active regular duty to meet the requirement by enlisting for one year of reserve training. A two-year draftee thus could be free of military obligation after as little as three years.

Both incentives would operate only to July 1, 1957.

Active reservists who failed to complete satisfactory training any year could be ordered to serve an additional 45 days active duty. Six-month trainees under the same circumstances could be drafted for small two-year term.

Men entering service after the new bill becomes law would be subject to an over-all total of six years' service, including a combination of five years training in the active and reserve forces.

Flood Waters Up Level Of Rio Grande

By The Associated Press

Muddy flood waters coursing down the Rio Grande sent the long border river on the rise Friday but serious inundations appeared unlikely.

At Laredo, often a sensitive spot when the Rio Grande acts up, all appeared calm early Friday.

"The river is up about 6 or 7 feet above normal," said Laredo police Sgt. Joe Pena, "and it'll rise a few feet more Friday afternoon when the El Paso storm water gets here."

"But the engineers have studied the situation and they don't expect any trouble."

The high water on the Rio Grande resulted from heavy rains which hit earlier in the week at El Paso and in the watershed of the Pecos River, a tributary.

The thunder storms which brought that rainfall appeared to be letting up Friday. Texas skies were mainly clear during the morning and no rain was reported. The forecast, however, said more scattered thundershowers were likely in the afternoon and evening.

The Laredo police said it appeared temporary bridges across the Rio Grande, built after last year's disastrous floods ripped out the regular spans, would withstand this week's high water.

Dispatches from Mexico City said the temporary pontoon bridge at Laredo had been ordered strengthened. One of the longest and most intense rainy spells in Mexican history was blamed for considerable damage, at least seven deaths and 33 injuries during the past 36 hours.

Actress' Condition Remains 'Serious'

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Doctors say Susan Ball's condition remains serious, but that she "continues to rest comfortably."

MP Charged With Beating Offspring

BALTIMORE (AP)—Cpl. Paul Anthony Mihalik, 240-pound military policeman at Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md., is awaiting trial under $11,000 bail on charges of beating his 4-year-old son and 5-year-old daughter.

The boy is in serious condition in Johns Hopkins Hospital with a fractured skull and internal injuries. The trial of Mihalik, 33, was postponed until Aug. 2 because of the child's condition. He has pleaded innocent to the charges.

Police testified yesterday they were told by the mother and another son that Mihalik hit, kicked and knocked two of his six children down the cellar steps.

Police said Mrs. Mihalik told them her husband came home about 5 p.m. Tuesday and demanded to know why the children were not in bed, then beat the daughter. The mother said she went to a movie after that incident.

Investigators said 6-year-old Paul Jr., the oldest child, told him his brother was beaten after he came in from play about 9 p.m. with dirty feet.

Mrs. Mihalik called police after her husband left for duty at Aberdeen to report the beatings.

Shooting Skirmish Panics Argentines

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—A shooting skirmish touched off by a political demonstration spread new panic in jittery Buenos Aires early today. One person was reported killed by the gunfire.

The incident—second violence in 24 hours—occurred as members of the opposition Radical party left a political rally after midnight and paraded through the city's movie district.

Reports said shooting suddenly broke out and 22-year-old Alfredo Prat fell wounded. He died in a hospital.

Police arrested several demonstrators as crowds leaving the theaters milled in panic.

Early yesterday a bomb went off in front of a Peronista political school, shattering windows in the city's downtown area.

MORNING PEEPERS

By Joyce Connaway

If you were driving slowly along Hillside Drive between 8:45 and 9:30 this morning, you would have heard many phones ringing as the housewives were disturbed from their present activities.

A home permanent was in progress at 409 Hillside Drive. Mrs. B. L. Eggleston was giving her little daughter the "new look" in curls.

Mrs. Dale Smith, 401, was reading the paper and Mrs. Douglas C. Sadler, 402, was getting ready to go to town.

Out in the yard cutting flowers for her house at 403 was Mrs. Jeddie J. Hardegree. Next door, Mrs. Vance C. Kimble, 405, was listening to the radio.

The Harold Hall family have a clean clothes in store for them at Mrs. Hall, 407, was busy washing.

At 410, the Samuel W. Wells answered with a busy signal.

Mrs. Joseph G. Blake, 417, had just finished her morning bath and Mrs. Edna Taylor, 419, was reading the newspaper.

There was no answer at the Ray

H. Boren home, 423.

"I was asleep," was the reply when I disturbed Mrs. Millard C. Boyd, 424, from her lovely morning rest.

No one was home at the Grover Cunningham Jr. residence, 426.

Beauty parlor bound was Mrs. Frank M. Purser, 433, while Mrs. Abram V. Karcher was making a bed.

"Friday is cleanup day, so I am busy at it," explained Mrs. T. S. Currie, 501. Mrs. G. Hobson Hayward, 502, had gone to the doctor.

No one took the receiver from the hook at the homes of Louis G. Talley, 506, and Robert W. Currie, 509.

Mrs. Marvin M. Miller was catching up on the news of the day as she read the morning paper.

"I was trying out Mrs. R. E. Satterwhite's recipe for the Ice Box Cake that was in yesterday's Herald," said Mrs. Joseph C. Watts Jr., 521. "Sure sounded good, but also fattening," she exclaimed with a laugh.

Mrs. Hattie A. McCleskey, 533, was not at home, but Mrs. George Peacock, 529, was reading the newspaper.

Wrapping packages to be mailed to her sister was the activity engaged by Mrs. Mickey H. Carroll, 535.

The phone just rang on and on at the Murphy N. Thorns, 539, the Robert L. Striplings, 551, and at the home of Mrs. Lou E. Graves, 549.

Mrs. Kelley E. Lawrence, 543, was washing dishes. Someone is fixing to receive some money, because Mrs. Raymond L. Tollett, 553, was getting ready to write a check.

Mrs. J. Gordon Bristow, 554, is out of town. I found Mrs. Shelby G. Read cleaning house.

A stitch in time was being made by Mrs. Allen D. Engle, 700, as she sewed on a button. Mrs. William A. French Jr., 714, was out on the Country Club greens, playing a round of golf.

The Angels were talking, at least the ones of the Clyde R. family that live at 706 Hillside Drive. One of the Angela was harping over the phone, because their line was busy.

Make Proper Equipment For Do-It-Yourself Bug

Now that Dad has been bitten by the do-it-yourself bug, life often becomes complicated around the old homestead.

The home workshop can be tough on Mom, when it comes to soaking paint stains out of a shirt or mending a pocket ripped by the weight of a hammer. So local sewing center experts suggest that you give the man of the family an ounce of prevention, in the form of a sturdy workshop apron. You can stitch it up in an afternoon using a standard pattern and 1 1/2 yards of sturdy fabric.

Denim or heavy sailcloth will give the best results. Old-fashioned mattress ticking also will stand the strain. The apron has enough pockets and straps to please the most gadget-minded worker. A tool strap runs across the apron near the waistline; a double pocket at the bottom has room for sketch pad, nails and screws, tools and even a sandwich. The double top pocket is slotted to hold pencils or chalk, the lower half is just the right size for a pack of cigarettes.

A four-inch adjustable closure on the neck strap makes one apron adjustable to fit any member of the family. Edges are finished with contrasting binding, easy to sew with the multi-slotted binder attachment on your sewing machine.

It is suggested that you double-stitch the pockets, using good heavy thread, a size 16 machine needle and about 10 to 12 stitches to the inch.

The pattern envelope also contains rubber plants and palms, are subject to scale of different kinds now. Whole oil soap and plenty of "elbow grease" should keep them clear of this disease.

Spider lilies, planted now, should bloom in September if they are given enough water to make good growth.

Queen's wreath, which is blooming at this time, will have more abundant blossoms if the vines are fed and watered well. The drip of a hose overnight at its base is a good way to water this vine.

One more pinching back of single, small chrysanthemums and one more feeding should be right for these flowers. Then leave them alone except for plenty of water. Sprinkling the leaves will help refresh a wilted plant quickly.

All annuals that have finished blooming should be pulled up and the beds cleaned out. Cutting the old blossoms and scraggy growth from plants and shrubs will make for a neater appearance in the yard and garden.

Strong sprays from the garden hose will help to combat spider mites on shrubbery and evergreens. It will also improve the looks to remove the dust and dirt from the leaves.

Pick tomatoes as soon as they show a light shade of pink and before the hot sun bakes them. Keep in a cool place to ripen before placing in the refrigerator.

Mulching during this hot weather is a great help in the garden. Straw, leaf mulch, peat moss or even grass clippings can be used to advantage in keeping the intense heat off the roots.

MISS UNIVERSE

Five Beauties On Inside Track

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—An exotic Oriental, a statuesque Swede, a voluptuous Englishwoman, a blue-eyed Latin Marilyn Monroe and a Vermont Republican are favorites today to win the Miss Universe crown.

Fifteen international lovelies—each the potential winner—will parade for hours before a panel of judges tonight with a first elimination parring the group to five finalists.

The fifteen are the Misses Argentina, Belgium, Brazil, Canada, Ceylon, El Salvador, England, Germany, Guatemala, Honduras, Japan, Norway, Sweden, United States and Venezuela.

A reporter asked all 15 in the group for their choice as winner. The answer was practically unanimous—Miss Sweden. She is Hillevi Rombin, a buxom, short-haired blonde who wears a bathing suit as if it was sprayed on her.

The girls know whereof they speak for Miss Sweden fits the pattern of previous Miss Universe winners. The judges, virtually the same year after year, lean toward the wholesome, milkmaid type of beauty.

However, the crowd pleasers in last night's preliminary judging were Miss Ceylon, 18-year-old Maureen Hingert—one of the most exciting Oriental entries yet; Miss El Salvador, Maribel Arrieta, who bears a striking resemblance to Marilyn Monroe; and Miss England, Margaret Rowe, who has the kind of shape the English dollar situation should be in.

Carlene King Johnson of Vermont is among the favorites by virtue of her choice as Miss U.S.A. Wednesday night.

Sleepers are Miss Japan, Keiko Takahashi, and Miss Honduras, Pastora Pagan Valenzuela. Miss Belgium, Nicole de Meyer, is another good long-shot bet.

Cathy Diggles, of Toronto—Miss Canada—measures 38 inches in the bust—a statistic that is better than an Oscar in Hollywood. Miss Guatemala—Maria del Rosario Molina—also is on the bosomy side.

'Tin Goose' On Way Back

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The "Tin Goose," a ghost of the skyways, is on its way back under its own power.

A new Los Angeles aviation company says it will start soon on construction of the Ford Trimotor, which hasn't been built since 1934. The company thinks it will sell as a cargo plane.

Phil Cooper, project manager for Hayden Aviation Co., said yesterday that engineers are now working over blueprints of the original Trimotor. Hayden plans to build two a week, with the first model flying next April. William B. Stout, who designed the original Trimotor and retained patents rights, is an associate of the firm.

Cooper said the Trimotor will be modernized a little, but essentially will be the same as the slab-sided, three-engine workhorse which pioneered many of the nation's present air routes.

The Ford, first built in 1925, was a square-looking, all-metal, high-wing transport with an engine hung under each wing and another in the nose, directly in front of the pilot's compartment. Its cruising speed was just over

Talbott Business Inquiry Still Open

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.) said today a Senate inquiry is "still open" into a profitable business interest which Secretary of the Air Force Talbott has offered to give up if the senators think he should.

Talbott told the Senate Investigations subcommittee yesterday he has reaped no "improper" profit as a partner in the New York efficiency firm of Paul B. Mulligan & Co., some of whose clients hold government contracts.

He said his "special partnership" in the firm pays him more than $50,000 a year. McClellan put it at $60,000. The Air Force secretary's salary is $18,000.

At Talbott's request, the subcommittee hastily arranged the public hearing late yesterday. It adjourned without giving any official reply to the secretary's request that it say whether he should relinquish his interest in the Mulligan firm Aug. 1.

McClellan, the subcommittee chairman, set no date for another session in the inquiry into the propriety of the arrangement and into hints that Talbott had used his official position to further the firm's interests. Talbott said he had "certainly not" done so.

Declaring that "the finger of suspicion" has been pointed at him by some newspapers in a manner that "I don't think I deserve," Talbott gave a company-by-company report on his contacts with clients of the Mulligan firm.

"There is no question that I have tried to be helpful to Mulligan," Talbott testified. "I have."

But he said this help involved no "influence, pressure or preference" and insisted: "I don't think I have done anything improper."

But if the senators think such action "is to the advantage of our U.S. Air Force," he pledged, "I'm going to give it (the partnership) back to Mulligan. I'm not selling it."

He said he has given up all the other business interests he held when named secretary in early

TALBOTT TESTIFIES
"No improper profit"

1953. He said he had outlined the Mulligan arrangement to the Senate Armed Services Committee when it was considering his nomination then.

McClellan's subcommittee questioned Talbott closely about his contacts with officials of the Radio Corp. of America after the RCA Service Co., an affiliate, had questioned the propriety of renewing a contract with Mulligan in view of Talbott's position.

He said he had given orders to drop the negotiations when he learned that RCA was demanding that Mulligan get from Atty. Gen. Brownell an opinion on the propriety of the contract.

He said it would have been "unthinkable" for him to urge RCA to sign the contract in the face of such qualms and that he "absolutely" didn't do so. He said RCA should have come to him.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

The San Angelo paper is building up a case against Nick Cappelli, the Big Spring shortstop who was involved in that fight with Sherwood Brewer, the Negro second sacker for the Colts, in San Angelo last Sunday.

At Greco, an Angelo scribe, stated authoritatively that Cappelli roved far out of the base line in trying to cut down Brewer on a double play. He also expressed a yearning to learn what Nick had said to Brewer immediately prior to the fistfights that took place.

It was Greco's contention that Cappelli shouldn't pick fights with someone smaller than himself. He maintains that Nick is a good four inches taller and probably weighs 20 pounds more than the former Kansas City Monarch.

How's that again? I always thought Nick was the smallest player in the league. He looks small enough to be the mascot of the Cosden Cops. Brewer might have appeared to be the smaller, however, after Cappelli cut him down to size. I understand Brewer still has lumps on his head.

Cappelli doesn't claim to be the bare-knuckles champion of the Longhorn League but he intends to hold up for his rights. He plays the game with wide-open throttle and expects everyone else to do the same.

San Angelo, let it be said, had best be prepared to play a ball game every time it faces Big Spring. The Cops are conceding nothing to the Colts, even though Angelo has been at or near the top of the standings since the season began.

Incidentally, League Presy W. J. Green must have seen a different game and a different fight than did Greco Sunday. He slapped a $100 fine on Brewer (an act which caused Manager Pat McLaughlin to bellow about discrimination) while Cappelli got off with a $25 levy.

The financial problem got so serious with the Artesia ball club recently that Manager Tom Jordan had to warn his players about hitting practice balls out of the park.

Those who did lose the ball had to go out and find it.

Freddy (Trompoco) Rodriguez, the former Big Spring mound ace who brought only $250 when he was sold to Greenville of the Tri-State League by Midland last winter, reeled off ten straight wins before he finally suffered a defeat recently.

Rodriguez is leading that Class B circuit in strikeouts.

Cananea of the Arizona-Mexican League, a C circuit, has averaged 3,000 paid admissions at its home games this season. Attendance there is already past the 100,000 mark.

There has been three triple plays pulled in the Longhorn League this season and all have occurred in Steer Park.

The Cosden Cops staged the first one the night of May 19 against Midland.

San Angelo turned the second one against the Cops last week.

I remember Bruce Lindsey, the Coahoma young man who lost his life in an automobile accident near Big Lake recently, as one of the finest football players in the history of Coahoma High School. He was a back and could zip with a football.

Ever hear of a fighter named Eddie Booker? He knocked out Archie Moore in Los Angeles Jan. 21, 1944. Some Coast people maintain Moore went into the tank that night. The fight brought on a demand of one of the boxing commissioners that Archie be suspended for taking a dive. When no action was taken, the official resigned.

Lippy Silent On His Plans

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Leo Durocher can return as manager of the New York Giants next year if he wants, but he'll have to make up his mind soon.

That's the word from the Giants' front office. A source there said President Horace Stoneham is ready to renew Durocher's contract but is peeved because Durocher so far has shown no great interest in whether he returns in 1958.

"Horace is waiting for Durocher to bring up the subject," the source said. "All Leo has to do, I believe, is tell Horace he wants to manage the club next year and I'm sure they can come to an agreement."

"It's not open and shut, of course. Horace is a loyal and proud person, loyal to his players and proud of the club's tradition. He will have to be assured Durocher is really anxious to manage the Giants, above all else; and that he will devote his full attention and apply all his talents toward bringing in another pennant."

"I would say that Leo's deportment on the field during the next two weeks probably will determine whether he'll be back next year."

It is known Stoneham has great admiration for Durocher's managerial ability. He gave Leo what was interpreted as a small vote of confidence a month ago when it was rumored Durocher was leaving to manage the St. Louis Cardinals. Stoneham scotched the rumors quickly by absolving his manager of any blame for the club's collapse.

Durocher acknowledged today he has not discussed next year with Stoneham. He merely shrugged his shoulders when asked whether he intended to bring up the matter soon.

Philly Streak Overlooked In Bums' Rush To Pennant

By ED WILKS

The Philadelphia Phillies, overlooked and overworked, have popped up in fourth place in the National League, riding a 10-game winning streak that has taken shape almost overnight.

It all came about in seven days. Last Friday morning, the Phils were in seventh place. Today they are just one game shy of 300, and after skipping past Cincinnati, St. Louis and Chicago in the standings, are only two games behind third place New York.

Brooklyn's 11-game success story in early season tops the majors this year, but the Phils could reach that mark tonight when they meet St. Louis in a two-inning, they're fourth doubleheader in six days. Manager Mayo Smith's club which lost 13 straight in May, tops in the majors this season—scored three eighth-inning runs to beat Cincinnati 5-3 last night after the Redlegs gained a 3-2 lead on Gus Bell's three homers.

Chicago's Cubs dropped out of fourth place with a 4-1 defeat by the Yankees; Cleveland went 10 innings to snap Washington's five-game streak 4-3; Boston dumped Kansas City to a 10th straight defeat 4-3, and Detroit nudged Baltimore 1-0.

Chicago's Cubs dropped out of fourth place with a 4-1 defeat by the Yankees; Cleveland went 10 innings to snap Washington's five-game streak 4-3; Boston dumped Kansas City to a 10th straight defeat 4-3, and Detroit nudged Baltimore 1-0.

East Defeats West In All-Star Game

MIDLAND, (SC) — For the eighth time in nine Longhorn League All-Star games, Big Spring was represented on the winning team as the East topped the West, 6-4, in ten innings here Thursday night.

Glenn Burns of Midland swung the issue the East's way when he drove out a towering home run with Elias Osorio on base off Evello Hernandez, Hobbs hurler.

The winning hurler was Ben Bonine of San Angelo, who repelled a mild uprising on the part of the West in the top half of the inning.

Three Big Spring players were named to play in the game but only Nick Cappelli and Art DiCesare of the Cosden Cops saw action. Jim Zapp, also named, did not appear.

Cappelli went in as reliever to Shortstop Eny Wilcox of Midland in the fifth and earned plaudits with his defensive play. He also reached base twice on walks.

NO REAL DANGER Expenses Hurting Game: Ford Frick

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP)—Baseball is in no danger and it's only real problem is meeting rising costs, Ford Frick, the game's commissioner, said Thursday.

Meeting with Texas League club owners at their annual mid-season session on the occasion of the league all-star game, the commissioner said baseball was showing a marked increase in attendance over its normal period—World War II—and that the upturn about equalled the gain in customers.

The big leagues drew 5,000,000 before the war and are getting 7,500,000 to 8,000,000 now, he pointed out, while the minors are going to show over 20,000,000 if the present rate continues, which also is a good increase over pre-war attendance.

"There are more kids playing baseball than ever before—more colleges, more high schools, more boys on the corner lots—and we aren't worried about the future of the game," he emphasized in discussing the big surge he is conducting to find out from the fans what they considered wrong with baseball.

He said the survey, which brought 400,000 letters, wasn't made because baseball feared for its existence but to find out what could be done to make it better.

"We have received many, many helpful suggestions and I am confident that the game will use this information for its great betterment," he declared.

Frick saw a system of incentive as a boost to baseball—the development of ball players through the minors without the big bonus to compete with. He said he liked the idea of giving the player part of his purchase price as an incentive to advance in his profession. He also said he favored an unrestricted draft, claiming this would go hand-in-hand with the incentive plan and would be instrumental in killing the bonus rule.

"No one would pay a big bonus for a player if they knew he would be drafted," Frick commented.

White Teams Quit Marshall Play

MARSHALL, (AP)—Little League baseball is being abandoned by eight teams of white boys here. A Negro team will continue to play in district playoffs.

Charles Spangler, president of the Marshall Little League, announced the decision.

Hogan A Prophet

VANCOUVER, B. C. (AP)—Ben Hogan proved he knew his "up and coming players" when he invited Jack Fleck and Dow Finsterwald to the Colonial Invitational tournament. Fleck beat Hogan in a playoff for the U.S. Open title and two weeks later Finsterwald won the British Columbia Open.

Colors Aid Bowlers

CHICAGO (AP)—If you're having trouble bowling your average high on the alley, William M. Stuart, president of a Chicago paint company, suggests the use of middle range colors—not too bright, not too dark—on bowling alleys. He also believes air lights should be shaded and that spinning surfaces should be dimmed.

Budge Named Tennis Coach

By WILL GRIMSLEY
NEW YORK (AP)—Don Budge, one of America's all-time tennis greats, was named coach of the U.S. Davis Cup team today and Captain Bill Talbert announced he would assemble his forces formally the second week in August.

"That's when we'll start organized preparations," Talbert said. "Of course, we've been thinking about the cup and working on our plans right along but we'll get the team together as a unit right after the Eastern Grand Court finals at Orange, N.J., Aug. 7."

Budge, champion of the world in 1937 and 1938, will serve in the same capacity that Jack Kramer did in Australia last year. He will work out with the squad and assist Talbert in mapping strategy.

Kramer, relieved of his duties as coach of the Junior Davis Cup squad because of a controversial magazine article in which he said he received money as an amateur, probably will be frozen out of the Davis Cup preparations as well.

However, the U.S. tennis bosses may be splitting themselves in clinging to this pet peeve. Kramer is the best of the U.S. pros and performed valuable service with the squad at Sydney last December.

The American squad will be identical, as far as the top spots are concerned, with that which Talbert carried to Australia in 1953 and again in 1954, winning the trophy last year.

It will be headed by Wimbledon champion Tony Trabert, U.S. titleholder Vic Seixas and Hamilton Richardson, the perennial sub who has never played in the Challenge Round.

The fourth spot on the team is wide open and even Talbert acknowledged today he hadn't the faintest idea who might fill it.

"If one of the better veterans, Art Larsen or Herbie Flam, were a whale of a season then he'll have to be considered," the captain said. "Otherwise we'll probably call up a youngster with an eye on the future."

THREE DAYS OF RACING SCHEDULED AT RUIDOSO

RUIDOSO, N. M., (SC)—Another three day week-end of Thoroughbred and Quarter Horse racing will be offered by Ruidoso Downs, with several out-standing Quarter Horses and Thoroughbred races carded for all three days.

Friday will find the two-year-olds; Thoroughbred and Quarter Horses claimers; as well as some of the better Quarter and Thoroughbred allowance horses competing for the top honors on the card.

The eleventh race of the afternoon at 5 1/2 furlongs, "a starters allowance," will see the hard charging Wee Aird, under the able guidance of Ruidoso Downs leading jockey, Jack Brown, matching strides with such outstanding horses as Ambrose, a winner in her last outing; Miss Array, always a strong threat; Extra Dream, a winner of many races in the past year at Ruidoso Downs; and Dido Do, who turned in a tremendous race again in the handicap winner Clear Day in his last outing; Muley at 114. Fast String at 117, and Precioso at 115 will round out this better than average field.

The sixth race of the afternoon, Quarter Horse Allowance at 350 yards will bring together an outstanding field of sprinters. The race, which according to its merits may be placed too low on the card, in one of the best balanced fields of the day.

Roan Man, an easy winner in his last appearance, has drawn such competition as Chain Truckle, an AAA winner in Tucson, Jess Shurbit, an easy winner in his last race, Skippy's Baby, one of the best Quarter Horses on the grounds, Donna Lou, last year upset winner in a handicap, as well as Frankie Dee, Gray Ninety and Brook's Teena. To pick a favorite in this field seems almost an impossible task.

Post time for the three days has been set at 1:30 p.m. with the very popular Daily Double offered on the first and second races. Twelve races are carded for each day of racing.

Sunny Jim Still Active At Track

NEW YORK (AP)—Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons will be 81 tomorrow, up at the crack of dawn and out to Aqueduct race track to see about training his big string of race horses.

"Everything is running along perfectly," said the dean of American trainers who saddled his first winner at the old Brighton Beach track in Brooklyn Aug. 7, 1900, and has been going strong ever since.

The bright, blue-eyed man who probably has trained more great horses and won more of the country's major stakes than any other horseman, was just as chipper as ever as another birthday approached.

"I feel great—just as fine as I did 50 years ago. I haven't any aches or pains, and I eat and sleep as well as I ever did."

"The only thing is, I don't have that old speed any more. If the boys don't do things just the way I want, I can't pitch in and go do it myself like I used to."

Castellani, riding a string of four straight triumphs since his loss to champion Carl (Bobo) Olson last August, was installed a 9-5 favorite a week ago and the odds remained firm today.

The Oiler's gain ground was in both ends of a doubleheader, 6-5 and 14-13. Both victories came rallies.

That double victory, plus Amarrillo's 12-4 conquest of Plainview, moved Amarrillo past Albuquerque and into second place and gave Pampa its widest leading margin in well over a week.

In the other games, Abilene stepped Clovis in both ends of a doubleheader, 4-1 and 3-1, and Lubbock stepped El Paso 8-7. Abilene's double conquest of Clovis moved it one percentage point ahead of Clovis in fifth place.

The teams all stay in the same locations tonight.

New Coach

Steve Owen, former coach of the New York Giants professional football team, has joined the staff of Baylor University as assistant coach. Owen, noted for his skill in teaching defense, will report after the All-Star game in Chicago in August.

Floridan Paces Western Field

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP)—Young golf stars from the South, headed by medalist Don Bisplinghoff, monopolize today's opening 36-hole match-play round in the Western Amateur Golf Tournament.

Bisplinghoff, of Orlando, Fla., led seven survivors through a grueling 72-hole qualifying trial by rounding out a 70 yesterday for a total of 276, eight under par for the rolling Rockford Country Club course. The 20-year-old North-South Amateur champion faces Bob Brue, 20, Milwaukee longshot, in the lower bracket of man-to-man combat on the eight 6,500-yard par-72 course.

Hillman Robbins of Memphis State, the 1954 National Intercollegiate title, takes on defending champion Bruce Cudd of Portland, Ore., in the featured upper bracket match.

Two other matches complete the field of eight. Alex Welsh of the host club, whose 35 years make him the "granddaddy" of the group, squares off against husky Jim Tom Blair of Jefferson, Mo., son of Missouri's lieutenant governor and a Western Amateur finalist in 1951 in another upper bracket sizzler.

Eddie Merrins of Meridian, Miss., recent champion of the Colonial Invitation at Memphis, meets Rex Baxter of Amarillo, Tex., runner-up the last two years in the Trans-Mississippi and 1954 Mexican Amateur winner. Baxter is the youngest in the group, 19, and barely qualified with 283.

Red Hennech Says Odessa May Be Able To Continue

MIDLAND, (SC)—Longhorn League directors, meeting in a special meeting here at noon Thursday, got an optimistic report from Red Hennech, general manager of the Odessa Eagles.

Hennech said there would be a meeting held in Odessa this evening, at which time efforts will be made to raising $5,800 toward a fund that would keep the War Birds in business the remainder of the campaign.

Donations totaling $1,200 were made by fans during a double header held in Odessa Wednesday night, which would bring the aggregate to $7,000.

Hennech said the club would not be able to make it on its present income and he did not want to appeal to the Eagles Club, sponsors of the team, for more revenue.

League directors voted to assess each club $40 a game up to 666 paid admissions and six per cent thereafter in attempts to erase indebtedness. The league owes about $5,000 and League Presy W. J. Green said an additional $7,200 will be needed to finish the season.

Salaries of umpires in the leagues have been reduced in an effort to pare expenses, Green stated.

Robinson Takes On Castellani

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Boxing fans across the nation get another chance tonight to see whether Robinson takes on Rocky Castellani, No. 1 contender for the middleweight title, at 7 p.m. (PDT) in the Cow Palace ring in a scheduled 10-rounder. The telecast, with San Francisco blacked out, and radio broadcast will be carried by NBC.

The last time Robinson, once champion of both the welterweight and middleweight divisions, was on television was last January when he took a sound thumping from Tiger Jones at Chicago. Since then he's knocked out second-rater Ted Olla in Milwaukee.

Castellani, riding a string of four straight triumphs since his loss to champion Carl (Bobo) Olson last August, was installed a 9-5 favorite a week ago and the odds remained firm today.

Pampa Oilers Gain Ground

By The Associated Press
Pampa's Oilers opened up a solid two-game lead in the West Texas-Northern Mexico League last night and crushing Amarrillo jarred into second place.

The Oilers disposed of Albuquerque in both ends of a doubleheader, 6-5 and 14-13. Both victories came rallies.

That double victory, plus Amarrillo's 12-4 conquest of Plainview, moved Amarrillo past Albuquerque and into second place and gave Pampa its widest leading margin in well over a week.

Ford Medalist In PGA Meet

By JOE FALLS
DETROIT (AP)—Doug Ford, who hasn't won a golf tournament since last year, boasted medalist honors today in the tough PGA championship—but he wasn't celebrating. He knows today is "Black Friday."

At the Meadowbrook Country Club, this is the day the favorites and big name players fear the most: a day of two 18-hole rounds of match play in which the field of 64 will be chopped to 16.

Trophy Winners At Summer Camp

Awarded trophies at the annual encampment of the 36th Infantry Division at North Fort Hood were: Capt. Wyatt M. Barnett, left, of San Antonio, who holds the Governor's Trophy which he accepted for Company A, 728th Ordnance Bn., for being the outstanding company-size unit in summer training. Capt. Bruce Oberholzer, right, of Whitney, commander of Ambulance Company 111th Medical Bn., accepted the Eisenhower Trophy for outstanding proficiency.

Doubt About Reds Temper Ike Praise

WASHINGTON (U)—Bipartisan congressional praise for President Eisenhower's newest disarmament proposal was tempered today with expressions of doubt that Russia will accept it.

Eisenhower suggested yesterday that Russia and the United States exchange "a complete blueprint of military establishments," and permit unlimited aerial photographing of each other's areas.

Sen. Saltonstall (R-Mass) called the proposal "a very forthright step toward ending the cold war." He expressed "hope the Russians will see the light and allow the inspections."

Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala), a Foreign Relations committee member, commented: "I don't believe that the Russians will accept, but if they do, it should go a long way toward ending present world tensions."

Chairman George (D-Ga) of the Foreign Relations Committee said, "We certainly have nothing to lose from the military viewpoint because we live in a fishbowl."

Others elaborated on that idea, noting that the Soviets must already know much more about this country's military establishment than is known here about theirs. They said this gives the United States little bargaining power for the idea.

But Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) said, "It will test the good faith of the Communists and separate the warmongers from the peace-makers."

Sen. Clements (D-Ky) also hailed it as a "practical and workable" plan, and his opposite number in the House, Rep. McCormack (D-Mass), said its rejection by the Soviets would amount to an ex-posure of "insincerity" on their part.

On the Republican side, Senate Leader Knowland of California withheld comment for the time being, but House GOP Leader Martin of Massachusetts said the proposal "might be the step which would lead to peace."

Objections came from two members of the House Armed Services Committee. Rep. Short (R-Mo) said, "That's certainly co-operating, almost to the point of danger." Rep. Rivers (D-SC) commented that "I'm opposed to giving the Russians anything."

Spies Executed

Student Maintains Innocence In Slaying

REDDING, Calif. (U)—Sickly, tubercular Burton W. Abbott faced a murder charge today but still maintained he was innocent of the death of Stephanie Bryan.

Fully aware that the 14-year-old Berkeley girl's decomposed body had been found near his family cabin in Trinity County, the 27-year-old University of California accounting student discussed his case for several hours last night with Berkeley police, who claim to have cracked his alibi for the day the girl vanished on her way home from high school last April 28.

He told them nothing new, police said.

Berkeley Police Capt. A. H. Fording said Abbott's story of having been at the cabin, some 200 miles north of Berkeley, when the girl disappeared had gone "right out the window." Fording said it had been flatly contradicted by Wildwood Innkeeper Delbert Cox, who has a "positive recollection" that Abbott had not come into the tavern April 28th as he claimed.

Prosecuting Atty. J. Frank Coakley of Alameda County said here yesterday, after the girl's remains had been identified from dental work, that he would file a murder complaint today against Abbott.

Bloodhounds located the dead girl Wednesday night in a shallow grave on a steep ridge above Abbott's cabin near Wildwood Inn, some 50 miles southwest of here.

Alameda County Pathologist George S. Loquvam said after an autopsy that the girl had been beaten or strangled to death.

The skull showed "multiple, compound depressed" fractures either by a "double-pronged" weapon or two blows of a single weapon. A white cloth which may have been a pair of panties was knotted tightly about her neck.

Abbott, arrested in his Alameda home shortly after the body was found, stuck firmly to his story that he knew nothing of the girl or how she met death.

"I haven't the slightest idea how the body got there," he told Inspector A. E. Riedel.

He had been questioned many hours since his 35-year-old wife Georgia found Stephanie's purse in a box of old clothing last Friday night and notified police—at Abbott's suggestion, she says.

The next day police found Stephanie's books and a pair of eyeglasses buried in the soft earth of the Abbott basement.

Abbott then volunteered to take a lie detector test, which showed "sensitive reactions" which sent police and newsmen hurrying back to the "Dead Man's Cabin" area in Trinity County—so-called because of an unrelated murder in the same cabin several years ago.

Abbott's family firmly supports him in his claim to innocence.

Both his wife and his brother Mark stress his physical condition and say he could not have done physical violence to the girl or carried her body to where it was buried up a steep hill from the cabin.

Abbott has only one lung due to an operation five years ago for a tubercular condition.

"I am utterly convinced he is innocent," said Mrs. Abbott.

What Happens If Bulganin Says Yes?

GENEVA (U)—What happens if Soviet Premier Bulganin says yes?

That was the question diplomats and observers asked here today in the wake of President Eisenhower's challenge to the Soviets to swap military information with the United States.

Some informants said Eisenhower is ready to order immediate negotiations if Bulganin is willing.

There was a strong impression among Western delegates that the Soviet Premier would not agree. But the experts have become so used to hearing the Russians say "No" over the past 10 years that their reasoning may be in a rut.

Some of the President's advisers feel that sooner or later the Kremlin may agree to at least a modified version of the Eisenhower proposition.

The President seems to have put the Soviet leader on the spot. Here are some of the problems raised for Bulganin:

Propaganda: If he turns down the President's proposal for reciprocal blurring of military establishments and aerial photographing, the free world can say he was not willing to consider the bold new move to break the East-West disarmament deadlock.

Military: Russia's military dispositions and installations—protected by vast reaches of its territory and a zoning system for hidden to foreigners—are the most secret of any power. America's arsenals, as Eisenhower told the conference earlier this week, are constantly reported in the world press. Thus Russia has relatively little to learn and much to give.

Internal: Despite changes since Stalin died, the Kremlin clique still rules Russia with an iron totalitarian hand. To permit Americans to explore by plane the utmost reaches of this shadowy land could have an incalculable effect on the Soviet population.

Disarmament: Some Western delegates believe the Russians really would like to cut their arms load and help readjust international burdens so that they could have greater freedom from the fear of atomic war.

Eisenhower's proposals, on the other hand, may raise some problems for him if Bulganin reacts favorably:

By what authority could the President give information on military establishments to any foreign nation?

Would specific congressional authorization be necessary?

Would Russian planes manned by Russian crews be based on American airfields with freedom to fly over military areas which are now restricted?

Does the President consider atomic installations "military establishments" on which blueprints should be traded with the Russians?

Brothers Hit Gold Mine In Funny Signs

BRIDGTON, Maine (U.S.)—Why be disagreeable when with a little effort you could be a real stinker?
Mottos like that, printed on pieces of board, on plaques, on stools and other wooden items, have built an international business for two brothers.

There has been something added to the old familiar, "God Bless Our Home." It has become "God Bless Our Mordgaged Home," to the Smith brothers.
Many of the sayings they print by the alk screen method Curtis learned while still in high school are their own ideas. Others are suggested by brokers who buy their product.

"This little stool belongs to me. It makes me happy as can be. I now can reach the things I couldn't. And often times the things I shouldn't."
Eighty per cent of the production is shipped out of New England. They also have customers in Cuba, Canada, Alaska, Puerto Rico, England and South Africa.
"Once thing led to another after I learned the silk screen process," said Curtis. He began his business in an alcove at his home. When he was graduated from high school in 1955, he was employed two men in a little shop. His dad, Albert Sr., an insurance man, joined the growing firm shortly afterward. Now 71, he retired two years ago. Albert Jr., who had been a grocery store manager, joined the company 10 years ago.

Visiting Russ Farmers Form Study Groups

AMES, Iowa (U)—The Soviet group of farm leaders began to break up into smaller study groups along lines of special interest today.

Their purpose is to accomplish as much as possible in the limited time of their visit at Iowa State College and in the United States.

Soviet corn specialist Prof. Boris Sokolov was set to see finally the main purpose of his journey here: Iowa State's Prof. C. F. Sprague. It's understood Sokolov would not be at all adverse to spending all of the remainder of his visit in America working with Sprague, whose fame has traveled far across the oceans.

Arrangements are now in the works for the big farm machinery executive, stolid and solid Alexander Yezhevsky, to make a fairly extensive tour of other farm machinery factories than those on the original itinerary which included the International Harvester works in Chicago and the Minneapolis-Moline plant in Minneapolis.

Yezhevsky has been champing at the bit while visiting ordinary farms because he's come with the task of getting an idea of what's up to the minute in the U.S. farm machinery field—something he wasn't finding out on the individual farms.

The division of the 12 Russians into smaller groups has given rise to serious translation problems. Today a new U.S. government translator arrives to assist. He is Eugene Serbrennikov of the Library of Congress.

But the problem goes beyond mere translation. It's a question of people from a very different culture with a very different type of social organization attempting to understand fundamental aspects of American life.

"Who controls this college from Washington?" asked Soviet farm chief Vladimir Maskaevich yesterday of the dean of agriculture at Iowa State, Floyd Andre.

Andre answered: "Nobody."

This was not easy for Maskaevich although he is quick to grasp and absorb. In Russia the existence of an immense educational institution without its being controlled by the government is unthinkable.

Solons Agree To Hear Union

WASHINGTON (U)—Sen. Eastland (D-Miss) says a Senate subcommittee is willing to hear representatives of the CIO American Newspaper Guild although it "has made no charges against nor cast any slurs upon" the union.

Eastland said he had telegraphed that reply to Ralph B. Novak of New York, the Guild's executive vice president, after Novak had asked an opportunity to correct what he termed a "totally false impression" given at hearings of the Internal Security subcommittee.

Eastland, the subcommittee chairman, replied that the group "is not investigating the press or radio-TV or the fourth estate or newspapermen or newspapers or the Newspaper Guild... We are investigating communism."

He said, however, that if Novak or other guild officials wish to testify as to their anticommunism, a hearing will be fixed for a date mutually convenient.

Eastland also made public the telegram from Novak. It said a false impression had been created that Guild policies "are still being influenced by Communist party members and fellow travelers."

Novak added:

"Attempts being made by the press to tie today's policies to those prior to 1941 are malicious and do great damage. The American Newspaper Guild in 1941 eliminated all vestiges of Communist influence from its national administration, and the New York local did the same shortly thereafter."

In a series of hearings in recent weeks, the subcommittee has heard some newsmen say they were Communists in the late 1930s and early 1940s, but have quit the party. Several declined to answer questions about past Communist connections.

Several witnesses described as Communists persons they said were active in New York Guild affairs in the late 1930s.

Police Nab Kidnaper

TOKYO (U)—Police clasped handcuffs on a 37-year-old unemployed schoolteacher as he reached for a kidnap ransom package at midnight.

An hour later they rescued his unharmed victim, the 6-year-old son of stage, screen and television comedy star Toshi Tani.

It ended Japan's most sensational kidnaping case and the nation's greatest postwar manhunt.

Tadahiko Miyasaka admitted to police that he had kidnaped Masami Tani from his primary school last Friday to get money to start a magazine.

Miyasaka was jailed and charged with kidnaping. Maximum penalty under Japanese law is 10 years imprisonment.

Police found Masami in an apple orchard, sleeping under a mosquito net with his own two children, a 6-year-old son and a 4-year-old daughter.

The kidnaper originally had demanded two million yen ($3,333) ransom but, in later telephone calls, reduced that to 400,000 yen ($711).

Hofheinz Wins Impeachment Round

HOUSTON (U)—Houston's wealthy mayor has won at least a temporary victory over the city council, which wants to impeach him.

Dist. Judge Ben F. Moorhead yesterday ruled it was illegal for the council to attempt to suspend Mayor Roy Hofheinz for 30 days pending an Aug. 4 impeachment trial by the council.

But the judge turned down the stocky, 42-year-old mayor's request that the council be enjoined from any new action toward impeachment. And the eight councilmen have made clear they aren't through trying.

Judge Moorhead also rejected the council's plea that Hofheinz be enjoined from carrying out the duties of mayor and be ordered out of his city hall quarters.

The council's impeachment charges accuse Hofheinz of being aware of irregularities in city land office scandals under investigation. Hofheinz denies he knew what was going on.

The eight councilmen met with their attorney after Moorhead handed down his decisions. Afterward their attorney, George Neal, said the council probably would meet again Monday to map their tactics against the millionaire mayor.

At the hearing before Moorhead, the mayor reported under oath his charge that Councilman George Kessler threatened him with impeachment if he did not call off his plans for a new city election.

German Army Bill Approved

BONN, Germany (U)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's first rearmament bills for the buildup of West Germany's new 500,000-man defense force won final parliamentary approval today.

The Bundesrat (upper house) swiftly passed two bills authorizing the government to call up the first volunteers this year and creating a permanent civilian committee to screen the appointment of all senior officers.

The bills now go to President Theodor Heuss for signature. They were approved by the Bundestag (lower house) last week.

Today's vote cleared the way for Adenauer's government to take the first steps toward building up the 12-division army, 1,300-plane jet air force and coastal defense navy pledged to the Atlantic Alliance.

Adenauer's coalition party members snarled under the opposition Socialists in the Bundesrat despite an earlier quarrel with the government over its plans to call up the first soldiers this year.

A recorded vote was not even taken.

Adenauer had demanded approval of the legislation before Parliament's summer recess as a proof of West Germany's determination to rearm within the North Atlantic Alliance.

Action on the bills was delayed for a time by objections, both from Adenauer's own Christian Demo-

'Alien,' 4, Faces Citizenship Fight

DAYTON, Ohio (U)—The government says Jane Edith Thomas, 4-year-old alien, can stay in the United States if she leaves by Sept. 30, then returns on an immigrant's visa.

But her father, Leslie Thomas, of Dayton, says he can't afford to take his daughter to Canada to get the necessary visa.

Immigration officials say Jane is in the United States illegally. She was born in a U.S. Army hospital in Trieste, where her father was stationed when in service. He had married an Italian national.

The law says the American parent of a child born overseas must have "had 10 years residence in the U.S., five of which is after attaining the age of 16." Thomas missed by one year. He was only 20 when Jane was born.

Accused In Bank Theft

John C. Siemer, 24, and his wife, Henrietta, 23, charged in the embezzlement of $82,143 from a Staten Island, N. Y., bank, were arrested in South Amherst, near Cleveland, Ohio. Siemer is accused of taking the money while a teller at the bank. His wife is accused of conspiring in the theft and converting funds to their own use. FBI agents said the couple had been living in the Ohio village with their three children.

Plane's Crew Escapes Injury

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Ten Navy crewmen escaped safely yesterday when a twin-engine patrol bomber made an emergency landing in a farm field eight miles north of Richmond. The plane, on a routine training flight from Jacksonville, Fla., to Washington, crash-landed when one engine caught fire and fell to the ground. The crew climbed out moments before the plane was destroyed by an explosion. All of the crewmen were from Florida, including Aviation Machinist's Mate E.C. Charles W. Schmehl, of Jacksonville, who was supposed to be celebrating his 30th birthday. "But I didn't think I was going to get to celebrate it," said Schmehl of the narrow escape.

That's One Bribe That Never Works

HOUSTON (AP)—Carl Jackson, 23, charged with burglary, carried a big Bible as he was escorted into Judge Langston G. King's court. "I've found religion," Jackson announced. The jury gave Jackson 12 years in the penitentiary and he was taken to the court's confinement room. There, courtroom attendant said, he tore the Bible to shreds.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States was reported today to be considering a halt in aid to Yugoslavia until Marshal Tito's government permits full inspection of the use of American weapons. Top State Department and Pentagon officials are reported seriously concerned over the Yugoslav government continued refusal to permit routine checks by American military inspectors in Yugoslavia. Yugoslavia further upset officials it was learned, by indicating it will produce Russian MIG fighters in Yugoslav factories unless the Western nations allow some of their models to be built in Yugoslavia. These developments combined to cause serious discussion of whether the American economic and military aid program to Yugoslavia should continue. The Senate Appropriations Committee yesterday recommended aid be suspended until the Yugoslav permit "continuous observation and review" of military assistance as required by the 1951 aid agreement signed by Yugoslavia. Yugoslavia is reported to believe it is providing enough inspection opportunities but the American military aid mission headed by Brig. Gen. Peter C. Hains is represented as believing the Yugoslavs could cooperate far more than they have. Top American officials are hoping Yugoslavia will avoid a shutdown of military and economic assistance. These officials are known to believe Congress would be upset if help continued to go forward under present circumstances. American officials in Yugoslavia are reported to have told Marshal Tito's aides the United States would take a very dim view of any Yugoslav effort to manufacture Russian MIG fighters. Yugoslavia is reported dicker-ing with aviation companies in Western countries to determine whether it can produce their fighters on license, presumably eliminating the need for turning out MIGs to bolster the Yugoslav air force. The administration is seeking $6,500,000 for economic and defense aid for Yugoslavia in the current fiscal year. Yugoslavia also receives military aid shipments, the amounts of which are secret. Yugoslavia has received 400 million dollars in economic and technical assistance aid since Tito broke with Moscow in June of 1949. An amount at least equal to this in military help also has moved to Yugoslavia from the United States. Included were jet fighters, tanks, artillery, transport, jeeps and much engineering equipment.

From Poke To Pokey

PLYMOUTH, England (AP)—A Royal Navy seaman was held today for taking a poke at an admiral for no apparent reason. The incident occurred yesterday aboard the maintenance ship Berry Head as 52-year-old Vice Adm. John Eaton was inspecting the crew at fire drill. The admiral staggered back from the unexpected blow and his hat sailed over the side into the sea. A navy statement said: "A rating (petty officer) assaulted the admiral and has been detained pending medical examination and investigation." The seaman's name was not disclosed.

But if you think that's all—listen! This gleaming grace of automobile is a Buick through and through—a '55 Buick, from the hottest-selling line of Buicks in all history.

So here you have the soft, firm steadiness of Buick's all-coil-spring ride and torque-tube stability. Here you have Buick brawn, Buick solidity, Buick handling ease, Buick styling and visibility and interior luxury.

And here you have the lift and life of vigorous new V8 power of record might—and coupled to the spectacular performance of Buick's Variable Pitch Dynaflo.*

Why wait a day longer—when you can come in right now and try the first true hardtop with the extra comfort, room and convenience of a full-sized 4-door sedan?

Drop in tomorrow, first thing—for a look at the price, and an idea of the whopping-big trade-in deal our huge sales volume permits us to make.

By Newman Campbell, EVEN MORE tragic than the lesson we studied last week, is the one assigned to us today. It tells of the dire warnings and advice of God's prophet, Jeremiah, which went unheeded, while the king and the nation went on to destruction.

The king of Judah was Zedekiah, whose reign extended from 598 to 587 B.C.—just 11 years—and ended with the total destruction of Jerusalem and the temple.

The king gave his promise, so Jeremiah repeated his prophesy, that if the king went to the king of Babylon and surrendered himself he should live, but if he did not Jerusalem would be burnt to the ground and its people, including women and children, would be taken captive.

The timid king told Jeremiah to tell no one of his words, but he did not take let this be a secret between the prophet's advice. On the contrary, he rebelled against the king of Babylon, and Nebuchadnezzar and his hosts came against Jerusalem and besieged it, for the fourth time.

And the city was broken up, and all the men of war fled, and the king went to the plain. Then Nebuzaradan, Nebuchadnezzar's captain of the guard, came and burnt the temple and all the fine houses, and leveled the city. They carried away the remainder of the treasures of the temple, for a description of which you must read II Kings 25:13-17.

King Zedekiah was overtaken by the enemy army and haled before King Nebuchadnezzar who killed his sons before their father's eyes and then blinded him. Also killed were the chief priest, the second chief priest and the three Keepers of the Door.

Thousands of the inhabitants of Judah were taken captive, the only ones allowed to remain being the poorest of the people who were left to tend the vineyards and till the land—the husbandmen, or farmers.

Jeremiah was treated kindly, however, then, we are told, he finally died in Egypt, having been stoned to death, according to Jewish tradition.

So, they took Jeremiah and cast him into a deep dungeon, or well, without water or food—and left him. They had let him down into this evil place with cords.

Jeremiah would undoubtedly have perished in this vile place in a short time, but he had a friend in court. Ebedmelech, an Ethiopian and eunuch in the king's palace, heard of Jeremiah's plight and he went to the king and told him the prophet's predicament and caused her "great mental suffering and anguish."

She asked for custody of their son Kayvon, 3, and for clear title to a $100,000 ranch in Madera County, Calif., claiming she bought it with her own funds.

Hillyer, now an importer, and the princess were married at Civitavecchia, Italy, April 13, 1950.

The young Shah expressed disapproval of the union but later forgave them.

So the vacillating king told Ebedmelech to take 30 men and take Jeremiah out of the dungeon. The Ethiopian did so, first letting down to Jeremiah rags of his idolatry.

Suit Against Winchell Ousted

NEW YORK (AP)—A $400,000 damage suit by entertainer Josephine Baker against columnist Walter Winchell, the Hearst Corp. and King Features Syndicate, has been dismissed in federal court.

Judge John C. Knox dismissed the suit, it became known yesterday, after the plaintiff's attorney had failed to file the required briefs by last June 30. A pretrial examination in the case was held in May.

Miss Baker, a Negro who adopted French citizenship, filed the suit in 1951, charging that Winchell "maliciously, wantonly and recklessly printed and published" items attacking her.

She charged he "embarked upon a public campaign to vilify, libel and damage" her following a visit she paid to the Stork Club. She said he was treated discourteously at the club, that Winchell was present during the incident and that he attacked her because he resented publicity concerning his presence.

The club management denied any discourtesy.

Iranian Princess Sues For Divorce

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Princess Fatiemeh of Iran has sued for divorce from the American commoner who drew the wrath of her brother, the Shah.

The princess, 26, youngest daughter of the late Shah Muhammad Reza Pahlavi, contends in her suit, filed yesterday, that Vincent L. Hillyer, 30, treated her cruelly and caused her "great mental suffering and anguish."

She asked for custody of their son Kayvon, 3, and for clear title to a $100,000 ranch in Madera County, Calif., claiming she bought it with her own funds.

Hillyer, now an importer, and the princess were married at Civitavecchia, Italy, April 13, 1950.

Army File Holder Surplus Reported

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Kennedy (D-Mass) said today he has learned the Army sought recently to sell as "surplus" a $450,000 supply of stiff paper file folders—enough to supply the entire federal government's need, for the item for 15 to 18 years.

Kennedy said one of his aides figured the seven million folders probably would be a 50-year supply for the Army. Saying that sounds wasteful, he said he will ask for some explanation of why a stock that big was bought.

Several Take Navy Trade School Offer

Several high school seniors in this area are taking advantage of the Navy's high school graduate program, Chief R. E. LaFon, Navy recruiter, announced today.

The high school program, LaFon explained, enables qualifying seniors to be guaranteed a trade school in the field of their choice. A total of 346 seniors will be accepted under the high school program from West Texas and New Mexico during the months of July and August.

LaFon said that in the electronics field alone there are 179 openings to be filled by seniors, the rest is evenly divided between the high school seaman recruit, airman recruit and hospitalman recruit programs.

The trade schools are located throughout the United States, the recruiter said. Graduates who qualify for these schools will be sent to school upon completion of recruit training, he announced.

Those interested in requirements for this program may inquire at the Navy recruiting base, LaFon said. Post Office basement, LaFon said.

Army File Holder Surplus Reported

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Kennedy (D-Mass) said today he has learned the Army sought recently to sell as "surplus" a $450,000 supply of stiff paper file folders—enough to supply the entire federal government's need, for the item for 15 to 18 years.

Kennedy said one of his aides figured the seven million folders probably would be a 50-year supply for the Army. Saying that sounds wasteful, he said he will ask for some explanation of why a stock that big was bought.

Several Take Navy Trade School Offer

Several high school seniors in this area are taking advantage of the Navy's high school graduate program, Chief R. E. LaFon, Navy recruiter, announced today.

The high school program, LaFon explained, enables qualifying seniors to be guaranteed a trade school in the field of their choice. A total of 346 seniors will be accepted under the high school program from West Texas and New Mexico during the months of July and August.

LaFon said that in the electronics field alone there are 179 openings to be filled by seniors, the rest is evenly divided between the high school seaman recruit, airman recruit and hospitalman recruit programs.

The trade schools are located throughout the United States, the recruiter said. Graduates who qualify for these schools will be sent to school upon completion of recruit training, he announced.

Those interested in requirements for this program may inquire at the Navy recruiting base, LaFon said. Post Office basement, LaFon said.

Suit Against Winchell Ousted

NEW YORK (AP)—A $400,000 damage suit by entertainer Josephine Baker against columnist Walter Winchell, the Hearst Corp. and King Features Syndicate, has been dismissed in federal court.

Judge John C. Knox dismissed the suit, it became known yesterday, after the plaintiff's attorney had failed to file the required briefs by last June 30. A pretrial examination in the case was held in May.

Miss Baker, a Negro who adopted French citizenship, filed the suit in 1951, charging that Winchell "maliciously, wantonly and recklessly printed and published" items attacking her.

She charged he "embarked upon a public campaign to vilify, libel and damage" her following a visit she paid to the Stork Club. She said he was treated discourteously at the club, that Winchell was present during the incident and that he attacked her because he resented publicity concerning his presence.

The club management denied any discourtesy.

Take your problems to Church this week

-millions leave them there!

SUNDAY MORNING

"Timmy" sleeps on Sunday Morning... Why not? "Timmy" has no place to go. And, what's more, "Timmy" has no problems, no worries, no fears. Mice and milk, and the occasional luxury of a little catnip, provide "Timmy" with all the requisites of a happy, useful life. He can afford to sleep.

But with human beings, it's different. We have needs that cannot be satisfied by a Sunday morning snooze. Six days of labor bring more than physical weariness. Those six days drain our spiritual resources, our courage, our confidence, our moral stamina. A thousand fears and a million worries sap our inner strength.

"Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God."

Sunday morning and the Church doors are open. They are open for every adult and child, that the deepest needs of humanity may be satisfied. Neither pillow nor armchair can give us the courage and faith and moral vitality that this busy life requires... these are the gifts of Worship!

The Church doors are open... open for you.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake, (2) For his children's sake, (3) For the sake of his community and nation, (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

A Bible Thought For Today

In indeed baptize with water unto repentance: but he that cometh after me is mightier than I, whose shoes I am not worthy to bear: he shall baptize you with the Holy Ghost, and with fire. (Matt. 3:11)

Bone Of Contention: NATO

At Geneva Premier Bulganin of the Soviet Union abruptly dismissed further discussion of German reunification by saying there was no hope for agreement as long as West Germany belongs to NATO. The Western group, however, thought the subject should be left open, and won Russian agreement to refer the matter to the foreign ministers for further exploration. Whether Bulganin's announcement preceded or followed President Eisenhower's extraordinary appeal to his war-time friend, Marshal Zhukov, to witness his honesty and vouch for his peaceful intentions isn't clear, but the two incidents were obviously connected. This was established when a report of the proceedings revealed that while Zhukov himself did not reply directly to Eisenhower's protestation of peaceful intentions, Bulganin remarked that some of his successors at NATO had not been so considerate, or words to that effect. Russia's hope is to destroy NATO, since it was unable to block West Germany's inclusion in that bloc, and its rearmament.

It set up a NATO treaty "treaty" with its satellites as a trading point in its campaign to undermine the Western alliance. By splitting the West and undermining NATO, followed by an East-West agreement to send all foreign troops out of Europe — meaning the U. S. — the Soviet Union would gain a bloodless conquest of the continent in the course of time. In pursuit of this goal, one newspaper report from Geneva — New York Herald Tribune — told of a Soviet approach to West Germany by way of diplomatic feelers from East Germany, trying to arrange a parley between the Soviet bloc with Chancellor Adenauer's West German Government, at the very moment the Big Four were discussing Germany's future. Apparently this maneuver was unsuccessful, but it does show to what lengths the Russians are going in their desperate effort to undermine NATO and split the West. NATO is what's hurting the Russians most.

The Obvious Not Obvious To Some

That was an interesting report the AP's Tom Whitney gave on the visit of a group of Russian agriculturists to several Iowa farms this week. The Russians, it seems, are looking for an answer—the answer to the riddle of why American farmers are the most productive in the world while those of Russia are among the least productive. Whitney says the answer was right under the Russians' noses the moment they stepped on an American farm, but he doubts if they will ever be able to see it. "People have got to have a motive to work," commented one Iowa farmer, to Whitney. "Would you work as hard and as well as you do on a government collective farm?" Whitney asked him. "No, I certainly would not!" The Iowan declared. At George Hora's farm the Russians ate fried chicken and three kinds of homemade pies. They asked to see Hora's account books, and the farmer obliged without hesitation. They were looking for the magic formula by which American farmers feed the country in drought and flood, in spite of insect pests and economic difficulties. Hora, his neighbors said, works 13 to 14 hours a day. So do other farmers, including young Richard Alleman, whose farm was the first visited by the Russians. "Young Richard works hard and efficiently. He does it because he's working for himself and his family. He knows it. His neighbors know it. Everyone in Iowa knows his secret," wrote Whitney. But the Russians couldn't see it. "Richard Alleman is good," their leader exclaimed. "Richard Alleman would make a good chief of a Soviet machinery and tractor station!" You see—the Russians never tumbled. The Richard Allemans and the George Horas of the U. S. work because there is an incentive to work, not because a government flunkie is standing over them with a knout in his hand. That is the answer to the big question the Russians seek, but will never find even when it is right under their noses.

Another $3 Million Doris Duke Should Have

Miss Doris Duke, who may or may not be "the richest girl in the world," needs another $3,000,000 like the rest of us need a hole in our respective heads. However, I, for one, hope she is soon $3,000,000 richer. For Miss Duke has just struck a blow for liberty, freedom and decency for filing a libel action in that sum against the most putrid of the so-called "expose" magazines now defiling the newstands. Let us hope she not only collects the three million, but that she is also awarded attorneys' fees and costs in the sum of another million or so. But, above all, let us hope that the gutter journalists or hacks responsible draw stiff jail or penitentiary sentences. They are in the same category as the purveyors of pornography via cartoon and comic books. The current boom in these expose magazines, each trying to outdo the other in filth and suggestiveness, is the end product of "gents' room journalism." Since in this best-of-all-possible worlds there have always been men and women who would do anything for money, it is not too surprising that persons have been found to write, edit and publish these bouquets of decaying garbage. What is really disturbing is the discovery that the United States of America, despite free public education and a high literacy rate, contains so many morons who will support these gamy magazines. The ringleader of the group is now boasting that its current circulation is 4,000,000. No normal person, with a shred of self-respect, would read the slime contained in this or its sister magazines. So the only conclusion possible is that there is an appalling number of citizens who are either mental defectives, who must move their lips when they read, or moral defectives who lick their lips over bouzour revelations. This is a grim conclusion and an even grimmer indictment of a substantial segment of the public. It becomes grimmest, however, with the statement of a social worker that teen-agers are among the principal and steady customers for this nastiness. They — the teen-agers — are abandoning comic books in favor of this expose tripe, which is lewder if not funnier. In her suit, Miss Duke, 42, charged that the expose magazine at issue published concerning her "a malicious, false, defamatory and degrading article — willfully, maliciously and completely without truth." "The article intended to charge and to be understood by the reader that I was prone to indecent acts in my private and public life . . . with intent to defame me and to bring me into public discredit and ridicule and to cause the public to hold me in contempt . . ." In a way, I am sorry Miss Duke is suing. I am sorry that, instead, she didn't organize an old-fashioned vigilante party and horsewhip the shabby crew responsible for this verbal assault. A cat-o-nine-tails speaks a powerful language that might even penetrate the elephant hide and conscience of these lice.

Film Escapes Back Again

HOLLYWOOD — Two escapees from film contracts are back in Hollywood for a movie, fresh from Broadway triumphs. But they won't stay long. The duo: David Wayne and Celeste Holm, both of the 20th Century-Fox contract list three years back. They are here to appear with Frank Sinatra and Debbie Reynolds in "The Tender Trap." First comes Mr. Wayne. He scored on Broadway as the leprechaun in "Finian's Rainbow" and as "Mister Roberts." He did a dozen or so movies, including "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying." His kiasoff from the studio was not exactly a happy one. He was assigned a minor role in an early CinemaScope stinker called "Hell and High Water." "They thought I wouldn't take it," he recalled. "But I fooled them. I decided that since the studio thought only about money, that's the way I'd think too." It was the final film under his contract, but he wasn't upset. He had the script of a new play, "Teahouse of the August Moon." He returned to Broadway and scored his greatest success as the Okinawa interpreter. His new film doesn't mean that he is returning to these shores. He now considers Westport, Conn., his home and plans to build a new house there for his wife and children. He'll commute here for picture assignments. He has two or three other film deals on the fire and hopes to do "Teahouse" when MGM makes it. Celeste Holm, the original Ade Annie of "Oklahoma!" made a sensational movie start by winning a supporting Oscar for "Gentleman's Agreement." She hasn't made a movie in four years and has sometimes been lumped with those who suffered the "Oscar jinx." She denies it. "I don't believe there is any jinx," she said. "After I won the Oscar, I also got nominations for roles in 'Come to the Stable' and 'All About Eve.' So I wouldn't exactly call that a jinx." —BOB THOMAS

French Legate Sets Ike's Teeth On Edge

WASHINGTON — There have been times at Geneva when President Eisenhower must have wished the French Premier, Edgar Faure, had stayed home. He slapped the Frenchman down in public yesterday. Faure, because of his performance, is the strangest figure at the conference although apparently far overshadowed by the three Prime Ministers, Eden and Bulganin. Twice—with his proposals on disarmament and European security—he seems to have set Eisenhower's teeth on edge. Americans at Geneva made it clear Eisenhower neither joined in Faure's ideas nor was happy about them.

The one on European security played into the Russians' hands before they said a word. And the Russians quickly seized on Faure's ideas about disarmament, saying they were worthy of consideration. Just how and why Faure decided to go off into left field, away from Eisenhower and Eden, is not clear. A member of the American delegation told reporters the three men had gone over their opening speeches together although not in detail.

The Frenchman, insecure in his job as prime minister, may have been talking for the benefit of politicians at home. One French source said Faure's proposals showed a dash of daring in his makeup. But if the Big Four's daring was to be the measure of their statesmanship and vision, they could just as well go climb an Alp.

Faure went to Geneva as part of the Western team with Eisenhower and Eden. On Monday, the opening day, he was the second speaker. He followed Eisenhower who, at that time, went no further than his own disarmament. The Big Four should work out an inspection system to prevent cheating in any arms cut. Yesterday Eisenhower followed this up by suggesting the United States and Russia exchange blueprints on their arms and permit mutual aerial checks. But on Monday Faure followed Eisenhower with a proposal that disarmament might be achieved by budgetary controls. The Russians, with their kind of government, could conceal arms spending better than the West, if either side cheated. And yesterday, as if to show how little he thought of Faure's ideas, Eisenhower told Bulganin in front of Faure: The United States hasn't yet found a way in which budget figures can be used as a sure way to control disarmament. Returning to Monday: Faure also envisioned an all-European security system which would absorb, meaning abolish, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, the West's military alliance against Russia and its chief hope of defense. The United States and Britain have insisted on keeping NATO. Russia has long demanded it be abolished. So Faure made about as big a concession to the Russians—before they opened their mouths in Geneva—as he could make. And when Bulganin did speak he called for an all-European security system and the end of NATO. He went into more detail than Faure. But both men's ideas on that point wound up in the same place.

NEW YORK — Should a man ever bowl out his boss? The ordinary principles of human safety would be against it. But now a doctor comes along and implies that blowing your top is a necessary safety valve — and the general idea is that if a guy gets all geared up about life he can explode against the boss. This may save the guy himself from a heart attack, bolster his pride a bit, and perhaps expose him to death by hunger. But what about the boss? What happens to him? How about his heart? The average office today often has several hundred employees, but only one boss. You can see what would happen if all these people, getting knotted up with their own personal problems, went in and individually barked at the boss on the grounds it would save them from a heart attack. Since even the most serious boss doesn't usually spend more than nine hours daily at his desk, there simply wouldn't be time for everybody to get his barking done. But a hired hand, hit by sudden indignation or woe, isn't going to worry about office hours. He will pursue the harried employer during his luncheon hour or follow him into the homeward-bound bus or suburban train to make his point. "Look, boss," he says. "I know this probably isn't the right place to bring up this situation. I hate to tell you what's wrong about the way you're running the outfit. But I have to — to protect my own health. You understand, don't you?" Naturally any boss, bound by the principles of noblesse oblige (Editor's Note: This is an old French expression for the Taft-Hartley act) at least has to lend an ear to the complaint. The problem here is that while the hired hand is saving himself from a heart attack the boss is building up steam. Who is going to keep him from a heart attack? So far as I know no doctor has come out and said that the way for a boss to avoid a coronary thrombosis is to jump up and down and shout "idiots!" at his employees. Employers don't do these things any more. One suggestion: Have a morning "shouting hour." As soon as everybody was assembled, the employees could prevent a heart attack by yelling at the boss what they thought of him. He would listen thoughtfully, then escape a coronary seizure himself by bowing himself blue in the face at all the butter-fingered bobbles of his fumbling staff. Then the boss and the bossed would shake hands and — hale and hearty, all tensions removed, each cheerfully misunderstanding each other, everyone sure he was still right — they would charge together the problems of a new day. And the blood pressure would be mutual.

So Who'll Save The Boss?

NEW YORK — The U. S. mint is finding a way to lick the sudden shortages of coins that sometimes plague various areas. In doing it the mint is also saving the taxpayer some money. Americans need more money year by year. Twelve months ago the mint was turning out 1 1/2 billion new coins a year. By new distribution methods the mint expects to get by in the current fiscal year with 850 million new coins. The U. S. mint is a monopoly. It alone can produce coins. Also it has but one customer — the federal reserve banks and branches — forbidden by law to buy coins from any one else. But even a monopoly can be expensive to run. When he took office a year ago as director of the Bureau of the Mint, William H. Brett, an Alliance, Ohio, manufacturer, ruled that the monopoly be run "as operated in the same light as if it faced stiff competition from other manufacturers." As a result, the Tax Foundation, Inc. (a private, nonprofit research organization) reports today, the nation's mints

Around The Rim

KP May Drop Re-Enlistments

I feel sorta sorry for the boys over there in Germany. An announcement was made recently in Heidelberg—Germany—that the U.S. Army will discharge some 4,000 German civilians who have been doing kitchen work. Reason given is that occupation funds are being cut. The "kitchen police" work is expected to be tossed to the guys who always get it in the neck, the GI's. This is what is dragging on my sympathy. Frankly, I'm sympathetic with any poor cuss who has to pull KP. It was KP that got me off to a bad start in the service, and it was KP that completely sold me on the advantages of civilian life. This might sound like a slight exaggeration, but so help me I spent my first seven days in the Army pulling kitchen police duty down at Fort Sam Houston. Fort Sam was the reception center those days for the Eighth Service Command, and the "soldiers" they were receiving were all about like me. They didn't know straight up from sidewise. There were about 60 of us in my group. We had all passed our induction physicals at Dallas and were transported to Fort Srm. As always, there was a wise guy or two in the crowd. When we got to Fort Sam, it seemed like we covered every bit of 10 miles walking to some tent where a sergeant had our names. When we finally got there, he was talking to someone, and he told us to put our bags on the ground and run around the basketball court nearby and he'd be ready for us. That was the point where the wise guy decided to be wise. He told that sergeant that "we" had just about all of that pushing around "we" were going to take. Running around that court was for the birds, he said. Well, sir, that sergeant just looked at us. You could tell he didn't take any great shine to our young faces. "I think we can get you fellows to the point where you will take orders," he stated. "Besides, we're looking for a group just about your size." We didn't even get checked out in uniforms before we were in trucks headed for the mess halls. And Fort Sam has plenty of mess halls. Somewhere down the line that first evening, we got uniforms. But we also got straight KP until our names came out on shipping orders. In my case, and most of the others who went in with me, the KP lasted exactly seven days. We went from floor scrubbing to "clipper" service, from serving chow lines to cleaning tables, from swabbing garbage cans to carting food supplies. We did it all, and we didn't like it at all. I thought I was in heaven when I hit basic training and got away from Fort Sam. KP came around only every month or so then, and by the time I got a few months under my belt I became just about as good a goldbrick as they had. Brother, I could think of more ways to get off the KP detail than most people could think of ways to talk. But when, in the period right after the war, German civilians were placed in our European mess halls and KP details were a thing of the past, I was a mighty happy lad. I could go to the mess hall with a clear conscience and without fear of KP hanging over my head. Ever since the war, the Army has had the German civilians in the mess halls for cooking, waiting tables, cleaning up, etc. Now, however, it looks as if the European holiday is over. The GI's are going to have to go back to work. As I say, I sorta feel sorry for those boys over there in Germany. —CLIFTON LAWHORNE

Positions Being Made Clear In Geneva Talks

Sensational developments may come soon to emphasize the much-talked-of new "spirit" which the Soviet Union is anxious to show to the world. The Cominform (Communist Information Bureau) which was set up in 1947 to coordinate the activities of the Communist party in Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, Hungary, Poland, Rumania, Italy and France with those in the Soviet Union may be dissolved. This would be a first step by the Soviets toward fulfilling the cry for "deeds, not words." But it would merely mean that the coordination will go "underground." For, when the Cominter (Communist International), the predecessor organization established in 1919, was ordered dissolved in 1943, the work was continued in much the same way. But Prime Minister Nehru of India, who was a recent visitor to Moscow, considers the forthcoming dissolution of the Cominform "logical" now as a corollary to "peaceful coexistence." The Soviets, of course, will argue that the move is an answer to the Allied demand that their activities of a subversive and infiltrating nature be abandoned. It could be spectacular stunt, with propaganda possibilities for the Soviets. The Soviet tactics in handling the Big Four meeting at Geneva in other respects have become crystal clear. First of all, the Russians agree to discuss anything that comes up but they are careful not to settle anything. Thus, reunification of Germany is a delicate question and the world was surprised that Foreign Minister Molotov agreed so readily to put it first on the agenda. The Soviets saw no harm in discussing everything provided they didn't have to reach any conclusion. So Bulganin discussed German reunification all right, but said conditions were not ripe yet and that other things had to come first, such as the need for closer commercial relations and exchanges of diplomatic delegations. What Bulganin meant, of course, was that the Russians want to talk with Chancellor Adenauer of West Germany when he goes to Moscow, and they prefer to bargain with Adenauer rather than with the three Western governments at Geneva. As for all-German elections, Bulganin said this was all right, too, but "at the appropriate time."

President Eisenhower and French Premier Faure can argue all they like against delay — as, indeed, they did with Bulganin — but the Soviets have already made up their minds to bargain first with Adenauer after the Big Four meeting. So it is natural for the conference to switch to other subjects on the agenda, and before the

Geneva meeting is over they will have talked about everything from the emancipation of the satellite states, as desired by the Western envoys to Geneva, to the "liberation" of Formosa, as demanded by the Russians. Each side will make its position clear and let it go at that. But it would be a grave mistake to write off the Geneva conference as just a talkfest. It is easy to underestimate the importance of what is going on in the Swiss town where the top men of the four major powers are gathered. The pressure for peace which is coming from all parts of the world is tremendous. It is certain that the impact of world opinion is fully comprehended by the Soviet spokesmen, for they have lately shown a keen awareness of the trends of public thought everywhere. They do not want to be placed again in the position of obstructionists. What is going on at Geneva is a dramatic example of moral force in operation. It means that all the world is pressing intensely for a sincere discussion. It means that past prejudices are recognized as existent but not as insurmountable. But, to be realistic, it is necessary to understand that what is said at Geneva will take a long while to sink in and that the argument and debate over the most delicate of issues cannot but have a powerful influence on future conferences when the subjects are discussed further either in similar meetings or at sessions of the foreign ministers. The world is fearful of a nuclear war. Soviet Russia knows it cannot precipitate a big war without risking destruction, and President Eisenhower's emphatic statement that America will never start an aggressive war may possibly be accepted in principle by the Russians because they do have faith in him. But mostly they can accept it because they know that the freely elected American Congress has to vote on war and never would sanction an aggressive war. It is fair to ask, however, what assurances the Soviet Union can give against aggression. That's the crux of the problem and, when the Russians can offer a convincing answer on that point, they will not need to worry about an attack from any quarter — not even from a rearmad Germany. For, as Mr. Eisenhower pointed out, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization can protect Soviet Russia, too, from any future aggression by any member of that Union, which now includes West Germany and should some day include East Germany as well. The Geneva debate isn't conclusive, but it is healthy and will help to clear the air even in Moscow. —SAM DAWSON

Coin Shortage Problem Solved

NEW YORK, July 19 — The U. S. mint is finding a way to lick the sudden shortages of coins that sometimes plague various areas. In doing it the mint is also saving the taxpayer some money. Americans need more money year by year. Twelve months ago the mint was turning out 1 1/2 billion new coins a year. By new distribution methods the mint expects to get by in the current fiscal year with 850 million new coins. The U. S. mint is a monopoly. It alone can produce coins. Also it has but one customer — the federal reserve banks and branches — forbidden by law to buy coins from any one else. But even a monopoly can be expensive to run. When he took office a year ago as director of the Bureau of the Mint, William H. Brett, an Alliance, Ohio, manufacturer, ruled that the monopoly be run "as operated in the same light as if it faced stiff competition from other manufacturers." As a result, the Tax Foundation, Inc. (a private, nonprofit research organization) reports today, the nation's mints will cost the taxpayers 17 per cent less to run this fiscal year than last. To tackle the problem of recurring coin shortages—which are expensive to the mint to meet on an emergency basis — officials of the mint and the federal reserve banks got together and took the first inventory of coins in the vaults of the banks ever to be made. In one bank they found excess coins valued 13 feet high. The excess inventories were cut. Then the mints and the reserve banks studied seasonal demand in various localities. Federal reserve and mint officials now estimate upcoming spurts in demand and try to supply commercial banks well in advance, but to keep inventories of unwanted coins from ever piling up. Other savings were made with considerable pain to localities and persons affected. In San Francisco and Seattle 14 employees lost their jobs. Reshuffling at the Denver mint cut off 45 more. Officials insist, however, that all who did not retire have been placed in other work. —SAM DAWSON

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

Today I have several questions about rubber to answer.

Q. What production of the world's rubber is used in the United States?

A. About half.
Q. Is natural rubber or synthetic rubber used more widely in the United States?

A. Although the United States uses more than half a million tons of natural rubber in a year, the consumption of synthetic rubber is even larger. For each 10 pounds of natural rubber, the U. S. A. uses about 15 pounds of synthetic rubber.

Q. Why does the United States use so much rubber?

A. Largely because the demand from the motor industry. Millions of new cars are fitted with rubber tires each year, and the tires of many old cars are replaced.

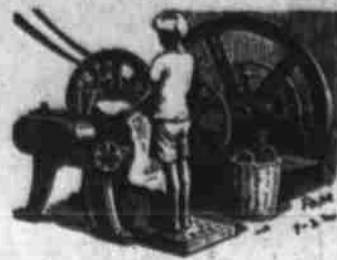

Aside from that, there is a huge demand for foam rubber. Foam rubber is employed to make mattresses, cushions, pillows, over-stuffed chairs and other products.

Q. When did rubber tires come into use?

A. Hard-rubber tires were fitted to many bicycles during the past century. Later came the air-filled tire which was patented by an Englishman named Thompson 110 years ago. Four of Thompson's tires were placed on a carriage, and were kept there until the carriage was pulled 1,200 miles.

That suggested what could come to be, but air-filled tires for bicycles and motor cars began to be practical only during the last 10 years of the past century.

Q. Which countries in Europe use the most rubber?
A. Great Britain, Germany, France and Russia.

Machines of modern type have been set up in the Malay area. Here a youth of that area is working at a crepe rubber machine.

Q. Which kind of rubber is most used in Canada?

A. Synthetic rubber ranks first in Canadian consumption.

Report Morrow Refuses To Quit

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Times Herald said today Wright Morrow told it in a telephone interview he had no intention of resigning as Texas Democratic national committeeman. He indicated any move to unseat him would be a move against state's rights.

The newspaper quoted Wright in Houston as saying, "I'm sticking by my guns and any report that I plan to resign is completely without foundation."

Water Mishap Stirs Things Up

SAN PEDRO, Calif. (AP) — A 12-foot outboard motor boat overturned in Los Angeles harbor yesterday, and then things really happened.

An unidentified spectator evidently turned in all sorts of alarms because, presently, two fire boats appeared, along with a police boat, three Coast Guard boats, a Coast Guard land rescue truck, a fire chief and assorted police cars.

Amid the marine hubbub, an unidentified water taxi operator nosed in among the official flotilla and calmly fished Harlan Silfies and Ed Burcham out of the drink.

They got back in their righted boat and went cruising about the harbor again, while the firemen, Coast Guards and policemen looked for a quiet, restful place to anchor.

Publisher Pleads Guilty To Libel

LAREDO, Tex. (AP) — Publisher Santos De la Paz of the Corpus Christi weekly newspaper La Verdad pleaded guilty yesterday to a criminal libel and was fined $100 and court costs.

The charges grew out of a news story about activities of M. J. Raymond, Laredo attorney and South Texas political leader. The July 8 edition of La Verdad carried an apology for the remarks complained of.

World Baptists Approve Program Against 'Menace'

LONDON (AP) — The Baptist World Alliance unanimously approved today a five-point program to combat the menace to "freedom, basic human values, even Christianity itself."

The resolution was submitted and approved at the Alliance's jubilee meeting in Albert Hall attended by some 8,000 delegates from all over the world. The week-long congress ends tomorrow.

The declaration contained these five principles:

1. "That the right to be free is a gift from God to all men of whatever race. A person is not physically born into a religious faith but must of his own free will enter upon his inheritance as a child of God."
2. "That a man's right to choose or change his faith must be preserved, as well as his liberty to dissent or to make objection because of conscience's sake."
3. "That toleration is not enough: That freedom to worship is not enough. As Baptists we seek not to be tolerated but to be accepted everywhere as equals in Christ with all the privileges and responsibility of loyal citizens. What we desire for ourselves we would secure for others, both for Christian believers and non-believers."
4. "That real religious liberty guarantees not only freedom to worship privately and publicly, but the right to teach, preach, publish and advocate, openly and without hindrance, the gospel of Christ, or other religious convictions."
5. "That our churches must be free from the interference of the state, that all our churches should, so far as their principles permit, abide by the laws of the state and loyally co-operate with the civil authorities in helping to create a community in which freedom of the press, speech and assembly and social righteousness, will be assured."

Cops On Lookout For Forgetful GI

STROUDSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Sgt. Andrew Nels Hegdhal, of Little Fork, Minn., stopped at a service station on Route 611 near this three days ago.

He told the owners, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gordon, he was hitchhiking to Ft. Carson, Colorado Springs, Colo., and asked permission to change into civilian clothes. They agreed and even gave him a meal.

But yesterday they asked the state police to be on the watch for him.

After Hegdhal left the station, they found his wallet with $60 in travelers checks and $10 in cash plus the soldier's identification.

"He probably didn't have another penny with him," Mrs. Gordon said. "We don't know how he's managing to eat. If he'd just contact us we'd be glad to send his billfold wherever he is."

Queen May Ban Speedy Cousin

LONDON (AP) — London newspapers said today Queen Elizabeth II may ban her speedy cousin, the 29-year-old Duke of Kent, from driving an automobile.

The duke, seventh in the line of succession to the throne, now is in a hospital recuperating from his third auto smashup in 13 months. He has been driving three years.

His third mishap occurred a week ago but the news only leaked out Tuesday.

The newspapers said today the Queen may tell the duke either to stop driving altogether, or at least not to take the wheel without an experienced driver in the car.

Her decision—which by royal custom must be obeyed without question—would likely depend on the outcome of a family conference.

Foreign Aid Officials Hit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Passman (D-La.) accused foreign aid officials yesterday of giving misinformation to senators and said, "We will demand they either retract what they told the Senate or . . . be discharged."

If no retraction is forthcoming, he said, he will seek to have all foreign aid funds held up for an inquiry into "the whole mess."

Passman heads a House Appropriations subcommittee which cut $27 million dollars from new foreign aid funds. The Senate Appropriations Committee has voted to restore $65 millions; the Senate has not yet acted.

Passman said in an interview foreign aid officials had misrepresented to the Senate committee that Rep. Taber (R-NY) had given his sanction to their action in reserving money voted in previous years.

"I never approved such a thing," said Taber, senior Republican on the House Appropriations Committee. "It is a stinking mess."
