MISSISSIPPI BUYER AGAIN BUYS BULLS FROM LOCAL HERD

Mr. Ray Lum of Vicksburg, Mississippi was in this territory recently and purchased fourteen registered double-standard Polled Hereford bulls from the Gill Ranch, Whon, Texas. This ranch maintains the fourth largest herd of registered double-standard Polled Herefords in the United States, and has been selling bulls to Mr. Lum for several years. Mr. Lum is an extensive dealer in all kinds of high quality live stock and is well known to Santa Anna people. He is devoting his time and energy to improve the live stock of his native state, and has shipped many bulls from this territory. In fact, one County Agent in Mississippi reported sixty Gill Bulls in service in his county.

Mr. Lum also buying a few loads of horses and mules.

Baptist Revival Drawing Crowds At Every Service

Rev. Wingo Announces His Sermon Subject For Sunday A. M.

(Editor's Note—The News herewith re-prints verbatim a story and its caption which appeared in the Winters Enterprise of the past week.)

The annual spring revival, which started at the First Baptist Church last Sunday morning, has been drawing good crowds at both the morning and evening services, and especially is this true of the evening services. Services are being held each morning at 10 o'clock and 7:30 in the evening.

The Rev. Hal C. Wingo, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Santa Anna, is doing the preaching, and has endeared himself to the crowds that hear him by his earnestness and forcefulness with which he is delivering his messages, and interest in the meeting is growing with each day.

Joe Trussell of Brownwood, is leading the congregational singing and at each service gives a special message in song just before the starting of the sermon. Asked if he had any announcements for the paper concerning the revival, Rev. Wingo said he only desired to make one announcement and that was the subject for the morning service Sunday, as follows: "Gathering the Flowers From Life's Highway." At this service, Mr. Trussell will sing "Pearly White City."

A cordial invitation is extended to the public to attend all the remaining services of the revival, which will probably close Sunday evening.

MRS. REX GHOLSTON TO BE HOST TO O.E.S. WITH RADIO PARTY

The members of local chapter O. E. S. have been invited to the home of Mrs. Rex Gholston on Sunday evening, April 24th, at 9:30 o'clock, at which time the Golden Jubilee Executive Committee will broadcast a program over radio station WBAP through the courtesy of the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce and station WBAP.

The program will feature a concert by the 35-piece band of the Masonic Home and School of Fort Worth. Brief addresses will be made by the guest speakers.

This program has been arranged for the pleasure and information of Eastern Star members, and officers of the Santa Anna chapter invite all friends to tune in.

CAR ACCIDENT ON STREET COMES NEAR BEING SERIOUS

An accident occurred Wednesday morning in front of the Post Office which came near being serious. Clifford Grantham collided with Robert Tatum, who was driving a car belonging to Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Dyess. Mrs. R. E. Tatum and Robert had pulled out from the curb when the cars hit. Little damage was done except a tire being ruined on the Dyess car.

Good Rains Fall In Santa Anna Early This Week

Rockwood, Shield, Trickham, Whon and Other Places Receive No Rain

The drouth of several weeks duration was partially broken here this week. Sunday night and early Monday morning rains fell in Santa Anna and a portion of the trade territory, and repeated Monday night and Tuesday morning. It is estimated that as much as two inches of moisture fell in places.

The territory south of town and throughout the southern part of the county received no rain, according to reports. Whon, Shield, Rockwood, Trickham and the intermediate territories received no rain.

W. L. Moseley, who seems to delight in teasing, lambasting or in some other way having his fun at the editor's expense, says that people who are not getting spring rains are not living right. We do not question his charges, and at the meeting in our community of the "Anxious Order of Yellow Dogs" we will advise the members what he has to say, but I'll be dagdummed if I advise them to set a pattern after Mr. Moseley!

Former Resident Dies Friday

W. F. Jordan, a former resident of Santa Anna, died last Friday morning about 1 o'clock at the home of his son-in-law, Willie Henderson, of the Echo community. Mr. Jordan lived for several years near Santa Anna and is very well known here. He was buried in Coleman last Friday afternoon. Quite a number of relatives and friends from Santa Anna attended the funeral service.

Baptist Church

We will have all our regular services next Sunday. Sunday school at 9:45 A. M., with Supt. J. R. Lock in charge. The pastor will preach at both hours, the night service beginning at 8:00 o'clock. Baptismal service at the close of the night service.

B.T.S. will meet at 7:00 o'clock. Let me urge all who possibly can to be in this service. We are striving to build up this department of the church. Come and help us!

We invite all the heart-hungry to come and worship with us.

A WOMAN'S EXCHANGE

Many women in our town as well as those on the farm would appreciate an opportunity to exchange hand-work, plant-life, pets, and many other products for what they do not possess.

Why not have one day devoted to this interesting project? This matter should be given careful consideration by our women's club, a date and place of meeting designated.

Results should be gratifying and profitable to all who take part in such an enterprise.

Miss Carrie Reaves Announces For Legislature

Prominent Club Woman And Brownwood Citizen Seeks To Be Representative

Miss Carrie Reaves this week authorizes the announcement of her candidacy for representative of the 125th legislative district, composed of Brown and Coleman counties.

It is her opinion, said Miss Reaves, in making her announcement as a candidate, that the state's business should be handled with the same care and the same adherence to business principles as private business and that economy and honesty in the administration of the state's affairs need to be two watchwords of the legislators.

Miss Reaves is well equipped by training and experience to cope with questions that come up in the legislature. She has had extensive experience in public affairs, including four years as county superintendent of Brown county. She has been a member of the Brownwood school board for the last seven years.

She is president of the Sixth District, Federation of Women's Clubs, which comprises fifty counties, and has a membership of 3,000 club women.

For the last four years Miss Reaves has managed the ranch and cattle business of her father, the late A. J. Reaves, and she is agent for the Mattie B. Coggin Estate endowment fund of Daniel Baker College.

She holds degrees from Daniel Baker College and the University of Texas, and did graduate work in the University of Chicago. She is now serving as executive secretary of the Brownwood Employment Bureau for Relief.

There are now three women representatives in the Texas legislature, Mrs. Lee J. Rountree of Bryan, Mrs. H. B. Moore of Texas City, and Mrs. Pat A. Dwyer of San Antonio. Miss Margie E. Neal of Carthage is a senator.

O.E.S. MEETS MONDAY NIGHT; OFFICERS TO BE ELECTED SOON

Santa Anna Chapter O. E. S. met in regular session Monday night with a good attendance. After the business a very interesting study of secret work was participated in. The chapter was closed and a short social period was enjoyed. After an "old sayings" contest, refreshments, consisting of cake and coffee, were served.

At the next regular meeting there will be an election of officers. All members are urged to be present.

APRIL 30 LAST DAY FARMERS CAN APPLY FOR U. S. FINANCING

As April 30 is the "dead-line" for farmers filing applications for Uncle Sam's Reconstruction Finance Corporation money, it is expected there will be a last minute rush in filing applications with County Loan Committees.

While many farmers who have adopted balanced farming methods do not require credit, there are thousands of other farmers who do need credit but because of misinformation or lack of information have not applied for loans, field representatives of the Dallas Office report.

"These loans are in no sense charity," said Fred Florence, President of the Republic National Bank, Dallas "because this money has to be repaid."

"Just because a farmer has a little collateral is no reason he can obtain needed credit from ordinary sources this year. Any deserving farmer who really needs money and is morally entitled to it should take advantage of this opportunity of obtaining a government loan because of the scarcity of commercial credit financing the present crop."

MAYO-LONGVIEW CLUB MEETS WITH MRS. D. C. NEAL

The members of the Mayo-Longview Club met on the first Tuesday in April with Mrs. D. C. Neal. Nine members and four visitors were present. Although Miss Brent, county home demonstration agent, was unable to meet with us, we enjoyed a very pleasant social hour. The next meeting will be held with Mrs. Jesse Griffin on the first Tuesday in May. All members are urged to be present, as Miss Brent will meet with the club at that time. —Reporter.

Heart O' Texas Press Association Met in Brownwood Last Saturday

Saturday morning publishers from over the heart of Texas met in the gold room of the Hotel Brownwood for their regular spring meeting. President Edgar McLendon of the Junction Eagle presided at the meeting, and the session was interesting to us newspaper men and women who are now fighting the battle of our lives.

The invocation was led by the Rev. John Renfro, pastor of the First Methodist Church, and the editors were welcomed to the city by Lee Watson, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and Tom Taylor, president of Howard Payne College. Music was furnished by the Howard Payne peanut band.

Dr. Taylor paid high compliments to the newspaper editors and publishers of this district, stating, among other things, that it is the task of the editors in this district to bring the heart of Texas to the front. He said he had heard criticisms of the standards of the press, but that he found the standards of the press to be higher than the general standard of the public. Editors, as a rule, are generous to meet out news of an elevating and optimistic trend, and often more generous in withholding news calculated to be of a detrimental nature. Editor M. S. Sellers of Rising Star responded to the address of welcome.

Following is a partial report of the meeting published in the Brownwood Daily Bulletin Saturday afternoon.

Newspaper's Obligations
"The Newspaper's Obligation to Its Readers" was the subject of a paper by C. P. Shepherd, Ballinger Ledger. Newspapers are property of the public, said Mr. Shepherd, and cited the often heard expression by readers, "our paper." Newspapers, of course, should give the readers truths, but not truths that are unwise. Consideration of all classes of people should be given by the newspapers, giving the news alike of the rich and poor, whether socially prominent or not, he said. He also said newspapers should not take too much part in politics, but of course should have their own policies.

Discussion on the subject was led by Harry Schwenker, Brady Standard. H. H. Jackson, Coleman Democrat-Voice; R. M. Thompson, Goldthwaite Eagle; H. F. Mayes, Brownwood Bulletin, and R. F. Higgs, Stephenville Empire discussed the subject.

Advertising Discussed
Miss Roberta Clay, teacher of journalism in John Tarleton College, was introduced by Mr. White. Chester Parks then played two violin numbers. He was accompanied at the piano by Miss Mae Branom, director of Daniel Baker College orchestra.

Expressing his strong faith in advertising and giving the newspaper men ideas of the advertisers concerning advertising, S. A. Wells of Hemphill-Wells, Lubbock, spoke on the subject, "Advertising from the Standpoint of the Merchant."

In expressing his faith in advertising, he also said he believed newspapers are the best advertising media.

"If I had a popcorn stand I would advertise it," Mr. Wells declared.

More Important Now
"This is an age when advertising is more important than ever before. Merchants are more clearly analyzing the returns of advertising and are doing better advertising. Advertising is an intangible quantity. Newspaper men, however, when advertisers do not realize the worth of advertising, can conduct educational work. Advertisers should be encouraged to develop styles of their own in advertising. Daily use of space is important—smart merchants are everlastingly advertising," Mr. Wells said.

Newspapers should help the stores to prepare their advertising, but some members of the advertising firm should also have some knowledge about laying out ads, he said. Merchants also should not depend altogether on the advertisements, but should help themselves by displaying the merchandise they are advertising.

In discussing rates, Mr. Wells said rates sometime make too narrow a base for the newspaper. Some schedules should be worked out whereby a greater number of firms can advertise, instead of the firms that are already advertising taking great number of inches.

Sam Harben, Richardson Echo, secretary Texas Press Association, and Bill Grant of the Lone Star Gas Company, discussed the subject.

Discusses Printing Problems
A. C. Baldwin of Austin spoke on problems of printing and other problems of both the printer and the newspaper man. He said that the problems of the newspaper man of today were the same as those of half a century ago, but that now they are more complex.

He said that the problems themselves had not changed a bit but that there are many things now entering into the problems that did not face the printer and editor 50 years ago. He raised the thunder of the old editors of many years ago and their bombastic editorials and other individualisms of the newspaper business at that time, he said.

He then dwelt on the problems of government and the newspapers and printing. He scored the government for printing commercially and said that it was not right for the government to do work that could be done by individuals. He spoke of a slogan which had reached him a short time ago which said "Keep the government out of business or you will be out of business." He said that he believed that the government should be in charge of every monopoly, but that they should not enter into other forms of business. He spoke especially of the printing that he took of the expense of government printing offices and of the way that the printing for private firms was handled and the loss thereby incurred by the commercial printer.

Increase in Postal Rates
Next he spoke of the recent increase in postal rates on the class mail and said that he did not believe that this should be done as far as class of mail goes to the business world. He told of the profit of this department and of the much greater loss on second, third and fourth class mail and the financial losses of commercial printers that if there were no increase it should be a matter of regret.

Next he spoke of government printing and the ways in which the people would be letting commercial printers do the work.

He urged that the people of the country should be made aware of the changes to be made.

In conclusion he said that there is a great business men who are public service and work for their country more than the newspaper of each town.

State Association Head Speaks
R. L. Scott, editor of the DeLeon Free Press and president of the Texas Press Association, brought greetings to the association from the state organization. He told of aims of the state group and plans for the program of the state meeting which is to be held at Mineral Wells in June.

He said that it was a pleasure to be present and to bring greetings to the organization of which he is also a member and former office holder.

The resolutions committee was appointed and included W. T. Hawkins and Rufus Higgs of Stephenville and J. J. Gregg of Santa Anna.

To close the morning meeting the Caldwell Brothers, three of Brownwood's grade school boys sang two numbers.

Among the guests
Among the visiting newspaper men and other guests who registered for the meeting Saturday morning were: Edgar McLendon and wife, Junction; A. C. Baldwin and wife, Austin; C. P. Sheppard, T. P. Simpson and C. P. Jones, Ballinger; M. S. Sellers, wife, son and daughter, Rising Star; W. M. Knight and wife, Abilene; Mrs. A. Cowan and Mrs. Brookshire, San Saba; P. H. Sullivan and wife, Abilene; Joe E. Payton, Abilene; Virgil Buzard, Fort Worth; Ray Holder, Lancaster; R. L. Scott, DeLeon, Sam Harben, Richardson; J. J. Gregg, Santa Anna; H. F. Stokes and wife, Goldthwaite; F. C. Sharp, Dallas; W. B. Smith, San Saba; Beaman Fisher, Dallas; H. Gaupenter, Comanche; Tom Dailor, Fort Worth; J. C. Taylor, San Antonio; J. C. Taylor, San Antonio.

When TEETHING makes HIM FUSSY

One of the most important things you can do to make a teething baby comfortable is to see that little bowels do their work of carrying off waste matter promptly and regularly. For this nothing is better than Castoria, a pure vegetable preparation specially made for babies and children. Castoria acts so gently you can give it to young infants to relieve colic. Yet it is always effective, for older children, too. Remember, Castoria contains no harsh drugs, no narcotics—is absolutely harmless. When your baby is fretful with teething or a food upset, give a cleansing dose of Castoria. Be sure you get genuine Castoria with the name:

About a hundred and twenty-five newspaper men, their wives and Brownwood business and professional men attended the luncheon at noon. The luncheon program was one of the outstanding occasions of the entire meeting and the visitors were made welcome to the city by the business men.

Dr. Thos. H. Taylor was the toastmaster and conducted the program, introducing the speakers.

Joe Taylor, State Press of Dallas, in a short talk said the discussion can be ended by the printer.

'BONERS'

For Laughing Purposes

The Viking Press of New York City has compiled from classrooms and examination papers "delightful collections of school pupils' unwitting wit and humor" under the title "Boners" and "More Boners."

We know our readers will get a good laugh from some of the "boners" as they have been prepared by the Reader's Digest in its August issue:

Aerimony, sometimes called holy, is another name for marriage.

Celibacy is a crime a priest commits when he marries.

A Protestant is a woman who gets her living through an immortal life.

What are rabies, and what would you do for them? Rabies are Jewish priests. I should do nothing for them.

A momentum is what you give a person when they are leaving.

Contralto is a low sort of music that only ladies sing.

In Christianity a man can have only one wife. That is called Monotony.

The dog came bounding down the path emitting whelps at every bound.

Jacob, son of Isaac, stole his brother's birth mark.

Henry Wadsworth Longfellow was born in Portland, Maine, while his parents were traveling on the Continent. He made many fast friends; among the fastest were Alice and Phoebe Cary.

Launcelot arrived at a castle, where he asked if he could be put up with for the night.

A census taker is a man who goes from house to house increasing the population.

The government of England is a limited mockery.

The letters M. D. signify "mentally deficient."

Solomon had 300 wives and 700 porcupines.

The Mediterranean and the Red Sea are connected by the sewage canal.

Climate lasts all the time, but weather only a few days.

Chivalry is the attitude of a man toward a strange woman.

Appendicitis is caused by information in the appendix.

In 1470 Elizabeth had an indisposition from the Pope.

A monologue is a conversation between two people, such as husband and wife.

Vesuvius is a volcano and if you climb up to the top you will see the creator smoking.

Science is material. Religion is immaterial.

Gravity was discovered by Isaac Walton. It is chiefly noticeable in the autumn, when the apples are falling off the trees.

What part did the U. S. Navy play in the war? It played the Star Spangled Banner.

At any rate, a laugh is worth a hundred groans in any market although education at times defies any effort at reasonable definition. How dreary the world would be without amusement, comedy and "boners"? How uninteresting it would be if no one made a mistake?

Maybe prices generally are down but tuition fees in the school of experience were never higher.—Omaha Evening World-Herald.

AS USUAL "JONES, HE PAYS THE FREIGHT"

Opposition to the sales tax in congress was based largely on the undeniable fact that it would fall more heavily on those least able to pay than those in better circumstances.

Right now any suggestion that the masses be taxed is especially unpopular. At a time when millions are out of employment, when millions of others do not know whether their jobs will last another day or not, when the income of millions of wage and salary workers have been slashed any proposal to levy a direct consumer's tax meets with stern popular rebuke.

Nevertheless, the sales tax, whatever the objections may be to it at any time, has one eternal virtue. It constitutes a reminder to the consumer that he is being taxed. He needs to be reminded of that. Lack of a realization that he was being taxed is responsible for our over-expanded governmental system.

Indirect taxation is the mother of governmental extravagance. When the masses do not realize that they are paying taxes they are indifferent to governmental expenditures. Our practice of making many tax levies painless and indirect brought about the era of lavish spending.

The masses in America—the millions who own no real estate—have fondly imagined that they were escaping taxation. People whose incomes are not large enough to require filling out an income tax return imagine they are escaping. Many people rush to vote for bond issues, many of such issued needlessly, on the theory that the other fellow will have to pay them off.

As a matter of fact, the consuming masses pay all the taxes, in one way or another. No one escapes, because many of the levies are indirect, the tax is no less real. When business and industry is taxed, the burden is passed along to the ultimate consumer.

"Soak the rich" is the slogan not only of demagogues, but also of some well meaning but ill-advised persons. When the rich are "soaked" for more than their proportionate share of the tax burden, they usually are able to find means to pass it along. There is no way for the producer and the ultimate consumer to escape. Indirect taxation does not invalidate the adage: "Jones, he pays the freight."

If every person could see just what proportion of what he spends every day went for taxes, we would have economy in government expenditures with a vengeance. If every time the individual makes a purchase, pays rent, or spends for any purpose, he could know what part of his dollar went for the upkeep of government, we would come nearer having that frugal simple government the fathers of this country proposed.

Federal, State and local governments are cluttered up with useless and expensive bureaus, commissions and offices, and hundreds of millions of dollars are being spent annually for services the people do not need, or could do for themselves, because the masses do not realize how much of the dollar they earn with the sweat of their brows actually goes for taxes.—(Hamilton Herald-Record).

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

by REV. SAMUEL D. PRICE D.D.

International Sunday School Lesson for April 24th ABRAM'S GENEROSITY TO LOT

Genesis 13:5-15

In ordinary times the old saying is true: "Money makes money." Certainly at all times it is a fact that sheep make sheep. It was so in the case of Abram and Lot, his nephew. They had goodly herds when they left Haran in Mesopotamia and the animals kept on multiplying until both men were cattle owners of real consequence.

Uncle Abram, like many uncles we know, was a truly big man. He loved his nephew and felt a keen responsibility for his care, and Lot often needed just that help. It was noble of the older man to say "Let there be no strife." Harsh words must be faced after they are spoken and years are often required to overcome the scar that is made in a moment of lack of self control.

Mindful of the great open country Abram proposed that there be a separation of flocks. A good bit of fresh air will stop many from quarreling and even a brisk walk around the block is sedative. Opportunity for first choice is graciously given by Uncle Abram to nephew Lot and the selfish younger man chooses the better portion.

It may have been because Abram was disheartened at this evident selfishness on the part of Lot. Right then Jehovah gave a wonderful compensation in a renewal of the vision and promise which pledged a transcendent future.

WALKERS, WEEPERS

Custom has ordained that the pedestrian on the rural highway like the vehicles, "shall keep to the right." That is proper for the vehicle, but for the pedestrian the right side is the wrong side. Remember, when walking on a country road, that the left side is the right side. Walking on the left side of the road the pedestrian can at least see the cars coming.

Walking on the paved highway is an outdoor sport highly hazardous. There is always a fool in an automobile coming or going. This is not to say that all automobile travelers are fools. State Press himself occasionally goes somewhere in an automobile, either in company or alone, and he would under no circumstances include his companions or himself in the foolcular class.

What he aims to say is that among hundreds in cars always there is at least one fool. Also there is sometimes a nonfool who uses control of his car or of his view of the road, and for that reason pulverizes a pedestrian without criminal blame to himself. Those who run over others from lack of care forever after regret their misfortune. It is those who cause tragedies for the lack of sense that do not let the accident bear heavily upon them.

Arriving at this unalterable standpoint, we pass on to the matter of sidewalks along State highways. In our haste to build conveniences for drivers and spend the gas tax for hasty courists, we have neglected and ignored the foot passenger. We have as a public policy opposed leg exercise. Europeans have more wisdom in some ways than we of America. Europeans are good walkers. They organize hiking clubs and spend holidays and vacations legging it over hill and down dale, building up legs which support them in their old age.

State Press has demanded sidewalks for foot tourists. He still demands them and will continue to demand them, although he probably won't get them. Reasonableness is not in style now.—State Press in The Dallas News.

A little learning is a dangerous thing. So it is with advice about walking on the highway. The editor of the Plano Star-Courier advises his readers, those who walk on highways, at least to adopt the left side and convince themselves that left is right, adding, "the pedestrian can at least see the cars coming." Some years ago, when we were still in our teens, we had the same notion, but were convinced that, while we can see the car coming, we can not see it going. We walked down the highway on the left side, saw no car coming, but suddenly a car was "going" past us on our right. This old wagon galloped past at the reasonable rate of about forty miles per hour. But just behind this car was another car whose driver was presumably in a great hurry to go nowhere and do nothing, and of course he came along at about twice the speed of the car ahead of him, passing the front car on the left side. We realized something was about to happen but did not stop to take the matter under advisement—instead, jumped a six-foot ditch and anchored our trousers, shirt, etc. safely in a barbed wire fence. Our advice to pedestrians is: Walk on the left side and carry a large rear view mirror.—Bellville Times.

THE IDEAL "DAD"

Parents usually have plenty to say about the shortcomings of their children. The youngsters though, don't often get a chance to express themselves about their parents.

The other day, however, children in a middle western school were asked to write compositions on the subject, "The kind of dad I'd like to have." And the thing they wrote might provide many fathers with some useful tips.

It's a wistful, pathetic little list, really. Here are some of the things the children put down: "I'd like my dad not to laugh at me when I do things."

"I want my dad to be kind and cheerful to mother and everybody."

"I don't want my daddy to whip me when I don't mean it—I want him to give me a chance to explain."

"I don't want my dad to holler at everything."

"I want a daddy the fellows like, so we can have a club in our basement."

"I want him to be able to fix things and make things."

Those are representative samples of the kind of desires those school kids expressed, and, really, they form about as mild a set of injunctions as any mortal could be presented with. It is amazing, when you stop to think of it, how little our children demand of us.

What would be required of a man to score 100 per cent on that list? Simply that he be decently kind, good-natured, tactful and understanding, that he be likeable enough so that other children will like him, and that he have some rudimentary knowledge of how to repair those little defects that are constantly developing in a boy's toys.

That, surely, isn't asking an awful lot, is it?

To win and hold the love and admiration of a child is the easiest thing on earth. Your youngster doesn't ask that you be brilliant, successful, wealthy or clever. The standard that is set for you is so pathetically simple. Wouldn't you feel ashamed if you ever failed to measure up to it?—(San Angelo Times).

The Student's Viewpoint

Allen Melton, senior law student at Southern Methodist University, in his talk on "Disarmament" stressed the fact that war is such a destructive force that we cannot afford to become involved in another world conflict.

He spoke as a student for students and voiced the opinion held by them all over the United States. This college generation does not want war, and since it constitutes a large part of our population, and would be first to have to go to the front in case of war, its opinion and wishes should have some weight. A careful study of the cost of war has brought students everywhere to the conclusion that it is too great a price to pay. Some have gone as far as to say they will not fight.

War is directly opposed to everything for which college training stands. It breaks down the culture and moral standards of a nation and so undermines its whole population that its effects are felt for generations and generations. The student's education makes him see war as one of the most merciless, uncivilized of practices. He is, therefore, ready to cooperate in every way possible to maintain peace.—(Baylor Bell)

A Tribute to Texas

Bruce Barton, author of "The Man Nobody Knows," has written this tribute to Texas for the "Parade of the States" Monday night programs of the General Motors Corporation, part of an educational plan to make the country as a whole better acquainted with the individual states—their history, scenic beauty, industries and people.

REMEMBER the Alamo! For twelve days, twelve nights, Travis, Bonham, Bowie, Davy Crockett, and their little group of loyal soldiers held Santa Anna's forces at bay. They went down fighting, one by one, but their valor roused a people to action, won for Texas her independence.

Texas, free Texas, the only state that was once a nation! Kings sent their courtiers to knock at her gates. And well may all the states be proud that she chose to cast her lot with the Union.

For Texas is the giant of America's children. She could tuck New England away in a corner, engulf all the land between New York and Chicago. Her busy, rich, and vast domain measures a quarter million square miles.

How can words paint its picture? Here cotton blankets more acres than many another state holds. Here turkeys march to market in droves ten thousand strong. Here a single pecan orchard yields a half million dollar crop, a single cattle ranch boasts a million acres, a single farmer plants onions by the billion. And even the State University strikes oil.

"I am listening to the footsteps of the coming millions," said Robert E. Lee, on the Texas prairies eighty years ago. Today the millions have arrived. The plains are fenced and the trails are fading, and peaceful dairy cattle fatten where the restless Longhorn roared. Texas is our richest farm, our biggest oil well. Her helium gas keeps our dirigibles aloft. Her petroleum and sulphur and lignite, her potash and silver and carbon-black enrich the markets of the world.

Past Texas rolls the Rio Grande, dividing the Americas. Where once the Indian pitched his tepee, Dallas and Fort Worth, El Paso and San Antonio, Amarillo and Waco, and other cities rear their skyscrapers. Austin boasts America's most impressive capitol, that building for which the Texans paid a casual three million acres. Houston dug a canal for fifty miles to bring sea-going vessels to her inland port. Galveston and Port Arthur and other cities on the Gulf attract the commerce of the world.

And the rich state of Texas is doubly rich in sons and daughters. From the days of Sam Houston, with his vision of freedom, of Mirabeau Lamar, with his vision of education, the men of Texas have been quick to make today's dream tomorrow's truth.

O, Henry turned his days in Texas into colorful short stories. Dorothy Scarborough and Chester Crowell give us fiction of the Southwest today. Texas was one of the two first states to name a woman governor.

You will never completely know America until you taste the wonders of the Lone Star State. See the cowboy's ride in Fort Worth's rodeo. Visit Fort Sam Houston, our largest military encampment; Fort Bliss, our biggest cavalry post; Brooks and Kelly Fields, where American aces won their wings. Travel by air, as the Texan does, to sense the breadth and the might of his state. Linger by sunny fields of Texas bluebonnets, hear the mocking birds whistle in the pecan groves, enjoy the color and charm of gay southern playgrounds. The state's very name implies hospitality and a warm-hearted welcome awaits you.

Six flags has Texas known and served. To these emblems of her past, to Texas today, to the vigorous promise of her future, the flag of General Motors dips in salute. Hail, Texas!

ALGERIA

THE STALK IS SWEET, CONTAINING A LARGE AMOUNT OF SUGAR, AND LIVESTOCK EAT THE ENTIRE STALK WITH RELISH. STALK GROWS FROM 4 TO 5 FEET TALL, WITH 15 TO 20 HEAVY LEAVES. THE HEADS ARE 12 TO 13 INCHES IN LENGTH, AND WEIGH FROM ¾-LB. TO 1-LB. PER HEAD. THE GRAIN IS LARGER THAN MAIZE AND MUCH SOFTER. THE PLANT STOOLS OUT WELL AND MAKES SEVERAL STALKS.

The following is a brief account of my experience with ALGERIA in 1931:

I purchased 40 pounds of ALGERIA seed in the Spring of 1931, and planted it on about 9 acres. I intended to plant 5 pounds to the acre, but did not plant more than 4 or 4½ lbs. per acre. The soil was fairly good, but it was planted late. The land was bedded and planted the third week in May. The only rain we had after April 28 was on June 9, until after the feed was harvested. I gathered about 15 tons of heads from the 9 acres. I have never fed a better bundle feed than the bundles cut with a row binder. Stock relish my bundle feed and eat it all. ALGERIA has roots similar to corn, except they grow straight down. I found ALGERIA to be the greatest drought resister of any of the eight varieties planted in 1931.

Agents are selling ALGERIA seed for 25c, 50c, 75c and some are taking orders for the seed for as much as $1.00 per pound. I paid a high price for my seed, but, under the circumstances, I will offer it for sale at only 6c per lb. Several of the merchants have agreed to sell ALGERIA seed for me, and the seed will soon be placed on sale in Santa Anna and Coleman. We took first and second prizes at the Coleman County Fair last Fall.

A World's Record

MORE than three thousand births without a single loss of either mother or child! That is the official Piatt County record of Dr. W. B. Caldwell, in fifty years' family practise in Illinois.

No wonder mothers have such entire confidence in giving little ones Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin!

If you have a baby, you have constant need of this wonderful preparation of pure pepsin, active senna, and fresh herbs. A child who gets this gentle stimulant for the stomach, liver and bowels is always healthier. It keeps children's digestive systems from clogging. It overcomes the most stubborn condition of constipation. It builds them up, and is nothing like the strong cathartics that sap their strength and energy.

A coated tongue or bad breath is the signal for a spoonful of Syrup Pepsin. Children take it readily, for it is really delicious in flavor. Taste it! Take Syrup Pepsin yourself, when sluggish or bilious, or you are troubled with sick headaches and no appetite. Take some for several days when run-down, and see how it picks you up.

It is a prescription preparation which every drug store has ready; in big bottles, just ask anywhere for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

"MY TRIP TO MEXICO"

MRS. OLLIE PEARCE WEAVER

On March 24th I joined the Fred Haskett Party in San Antonio for a tour of Old Mexico. There were only seven in the party—six ladies and the conductor. We entered Old Mexico that afternoon about 3 o'clock, at Laredo. Here we were inspected by the custom house officials, and then we had some American dollars exchanged for Mexican pesos. Soldiers were placed on the top of our train for protection, and we were off for Mexico City.

I had always heard that Mexico was a very arid region, but was not prepared in my own mind to find it as dry as it is. Miles and miles are covered with cut-caw and cactus. Prickly pears grow as large as trees.

The Spanish dye or also makes a small tree in this region. There are many different species of cactus, which bear fruit which is used as food by the Mexican population. The maguey plant is extensively cultivated. Pulque, an intoxicating drink, is made from the juice of the maguey plant. The plants are two years old when they are first tapped for the juice and are discarded when they are twelve years old.

The poor Mexicans we see here are rich compared to some in Mexico. They live in adobe and grass huts with but one room and sometimes all the back out of the hut. There are always many children as well as many dogs and some pigs are running loose.

Unfortunately, I did not get to see Monterey, as we passed through in the night going and returning.

Our first stop was at San Luis Potosi. It was here that the Mier prisoners were imprisoned and drew the white and black beans which meant life or death.

As soon as we stepped from the train we were surrounded by the poor Mexicans selling their hand-work of various kinds and their candles and baskets of food. All of them looked to be in very needy condition. There were many beggars, too.

I do not think there are any school buildings at the smaller places. There were crowds of children all around the train at all stops.

I am sure they never heard of a school or a book but are children of the desert. Everywhere there are tall, bleak mountains where brigands could hide and never be found.

At Altura we saw the most abject poverty of any place. Old men and women, dressed in rags and barefooted, begged for alms. One tiny girl had a great big baby tied on her back. She would run up and down near the train crying "Centava!", "Centava!".

We stopped at the Imperial Hotel, which is situated on the Paseo de la Reforma near the Columbus Circle.

Mexico City has a population of one million. There are many beautiful buildings and much fine statuary.

The places of interest we visited in the city were the National Palace, National Cathedral, National Opera House, the Post-office, the Alameda, the Church of St. Dominic, the Old Court of Inquisition, which is now used for a medical college, Chapultepec Castle and Park.

Avenida Juarez is the fashion Avenida Juarez is the fashionable street of the city.

We also visited the flower market, which had the most and loveliest flowers I have ever seen. Another place visited was the Thieves Market and a restaurant which was patronized by the poorer people.

The stadium where they hold their bull fights is patterned after the Coliseum and will seat sixty thousand. From six to ten bulls are killed in each fight and two horses are slaughtered with each bull.

One of the most interesting trips we made was to Hochimilco. We ascended the mountains 10,000 feet, passing Mts. Popocatepetl and Sleeping Lady, both of which are covered with snow the year round. We passed through the great lava beds. Excavations have been made in one of these. We went in and saw some skeletons which had been found. These excavations showed three different periods of time—Mayan, Toltec and Aztec.

Our next stop was at Hochimilco, where the celebrated "floating gardens" are found. These gardens were laid off and planned by one of the Aztec Kings. Forms were made of willow withes, woven together. These were covered with soil and seeds and planted on them, then the forms were placed on the lake to float. Gradually roots went to the bottom and the forms became stationary. These forms gathered vegetation and became islands. These islands are now covered with many beautiful flowers, trees and vegetables. The islands are separated by canals and canoes pass thru the canals with visitors. These canoes are covered and have seats on them. They reminded me of the gondolas of Venice. In fact, Hochimilco is called the Venice of America.

All the way to Cuernavaca the highway was patrolled by soldiers. Cuernavaca is a lovely old town of 80,000 population. Dwight Morrow had his summer home here.

We visited the old Guadalupe Church, the oldest church in America, which was begun in 1530. The altar is very beautiful. Cortez worshipped in it. We also visited the Cortez palace, which is still standing. On this building are some wonderful fresco paintings by Rivera.

The Natural Museum is very interesting. The Calendar Stone, the Sacrificial Stone, many images and much pottery of the Aztecs are in this building. We also saw the jewels which were recently found in the State of Oaxaca. There are strings of pearls and turquoise beads as well as gold pendants, necklaces and all kinds of ornaments.

From the museum we went out of town to the Church Guadalupe, which is the finest church in Mexico. It has a crown of pure gold over the altar which cost $300,000.00 in one of the rooms the balustrade around the altar was solid silver. There is a shrine here to St. Guadalupe and a spring of holy water where they claim miraculous healing is done.

From Guadalupe we went to Tlathuacan, passing the old causeway, the Morelos Statue and the old battle ground of Cerro Gorda on our way.

The pyramids and the ruins of Tlathuacan are the most wonderful things to be seen in Mexico. This was once a walled city of several thousand inhabitants. These people were a highly civilized people. The pyramid of the sun is 760 feet long, 722 feet wide and 216 feet high. It is perfectly symmetrical in every way and the stones in it are placed together in beautiful designs. There are walls around the temple yet and stone steps pass over the walls. The color-

This Lawless Country

It is not to be wondered at that the press of Europe points to the Lindbergh kidnaping as proof that the United States is the most lawless nation in the world. There is no other country pretending to civilization in which the machinery of the law is so inefficient to protect the individual, in which people generally hold the law in disrespect.

It is a disgrace to the United States that Colonel Lindbergh should have felt it necessary to call, not on the constituted police authorities but upon acknowledged "underworld" characters to lead the search for his baby. We do not blame Col. Lindbergh; any father in his case would do whatever he could regardless of the law, to get his little boy back safely. But it is an amazing confession of impotence on the part of the police of New Jersey and of the country at large that kidnaping can be carried on without fear of punishment, as so many recent instances have proved.

Perhaps the public indignation arising from this dramatic disclosure of the failure of our law-enforcement and protective machinery may result in an anti-crime wave which will wipe out the shameful reputation our nation has earned by public indifference to crime. Perhaps we may see citizens taking the law into their own hands, as in the old Vigilante days in San Francisco, and hanging racketeers and gangsters from the most convenient lampposts. Perhaps.

And then, perhaps, nobody will do anything much about it. That is more likely, in view of our past history in such matters. —(Tulia Herald).

ing of the buildings are beautiful yet. There is much pink and brown in them. We went in one excavation that was said to be a home of a priest. There was a well in one of the rooms which contained water. On all of the buildings there is much ornamentation and statuary. In a museum nearby there are many wonderful carvings and images, which have been taken from the buildings.

In conclusion, I will say that the National Palace and Chapultepec Castle are equal in beauty and interest to most of the castles and palaces of Europe.

Potsdam, San Souci and the palace of Emperor Joseph at Vienna are better.

"THERE OUGHT TO BE A LAW"

"There ought to be a law!" Well, there is. In fact, it is almost impossible nowadays to find a thing that isn't against the law—somewhere. If something or other isn't a fracture of the statutes in one's own municipality, county or state, step over the line and—awa!—you are a law-breaker.

This is considered to be the land of the free, but it is a fact that thousands of acts and ordinances and rulings regulate our life and habits from before we are born until after we are dead. Even the average well-meaning motorist traveling between New York and Washington unconsciously commits 289 violations enroute. It is predicted that 20,000 new laws will be placed on the statute books this year, but there is no ground for hope that the same number of obsolete acts will be removed.

Of course the higher civilized a nation becomes the more laws it seems to require. "The glad-some light of jurisprudence" must shine; lawyers must live; there must be some excuse for congress, but, as a Kentucky editor puts it, "laws should not have teeth enough to bite off more than they can chew." Perhaps this was the thought of the Assemblyman Carl Pack of the New York legislature when he recently moved to repeal some of the ancient and once honorable laws of his State.—(Hamilton Herald-Record).

Politically speaking, if the war didn't make this country safe for democracy, the depression and the Republicans did.

TIME TO GET BUSY

Do you realize, students of Santa Anna High School, that final exams are "just around the corner"? Will you be a winner in the game, or will you be a loser? Will your average for the year be an honor to you, or will it be a disgrace?

Seniors, make a resolution that you will make passing grades this last six weeks of school! Show that you have some fighting blood in you. Surely, you do not want to be among the "ones who are left behind" on graduation night!

Juniors, don't give up the fight! Work as you have never worked before! Do you want to be a junior next year, while the remainder of your class, then seniors, will be ordering their class rings and diplomas, and making plans for graduation? Fight, for your reward will be great!

Sophomores, are you going to lie down on the job? Next year your class, then juniors, will be planning for the Junior-Senior Banquet, and looking forward to their senior year. It's worth the fight, so try it!

Freshmen, there's only a word for you. Do you like to be called a "fish"? If not, go to work. It's time to get busy—ALL!

Supt. Scarborough Is Again Honored By Mid-Texas Teachers Ass'n

Supt. J. C. Scarborough was elected second vice-president of the Mid-Texas Teachers Association at its meeting in San Angelo, Saturday, April 9th. Mr. Scarborough is a past president of that large association which includes twenty-two counties in this section of Texas, having served in that capacity during the years 1923-1929. His prominence as an educator has been recognized with the result that he has been asked each year to serve on important committees. The past year he was chairman of the committee on Educational Progress in Mid-Texas.

Santa Anna is very fortunate to have as the superintendent of its public schools a man of high character and ability. Doubtless, the respect accorded Santa Anna High School by larger institutions of learning may in some degree be due to his capable superintendency.

SPELLING CERTIFICATES

Eddie Vaughn Mills received a certificate for having a one hundred per cent paper in the Inter-scholastic League Spelling and Plain Writing Contest. This achievement will prevent his participating in this contest in the future.

Sylvia Ann Barrett spelled all of the words correctly but was not awarded a certificate because of some very small technical errors in writing. The school is in one sense glad that she did not receive the award as she will be eligible to enter the contest another year.

Kathryn Creamer's paper was recognized as one hundred per cent in spelling and plain writing but was not given the award because she was not given the necessary number of words to qualify for the award. Since Kathryn is a Junior, she will have one more year to represent S.A.H.S. in senior spelling.

Ruby Williams, who has been on a spelling team from our high school the past two years, is also a Junior and can represent us one more year.

ON TO DISTRICT MEET!

Santa Anna will have ample representation in the meet to be held in Brownwood on Friday and Saturday.

Students have been drilling in their particular events and we feel sure that S.A.H.S. will have many contestants for the State meet in Austin.

Jesse Lee Sparkman is reading widely in order that he may be well prepared to deliver an extemporaneous speech Friday.

Bess Inez Shield continues to train for girls' singles. Leon Ward will play boys' singles. After three games, Jesse Lee Sparkman and Seth Ford were selected to play boys' doubles.

There will be representatives the weights, broad jump, high jump, half-mile, pole vault, quarter-mile, and mile relay. Clovis Fletcher, Edwin Rollins, Clifford Wheeler and Leon Ward will participate in the discus, shot and javelin. Ernest Harrod, Donald Williams and J. W. Zachary are in the broad jump, and Ernest Harrod in the high jump. Rankin McIver will run the half-mile; Deggs Traylor the mile; John David Harper the quarter-mile; and J. W. Zachary, John David Harper, Donald Williams and Rankin McIver the relay. Donald Williams and Ernest Harrod will represent us in pole vault. The prospects for winning the weights, broad jump, high jump, half-mile, and pole vault are especially good.

Both of the senior declaimers, Frances Louise Adams and Leon Ward, will speak in the Howard Payne auditorium Friday morning.

S-A-H-S

HOME-TOWN CONTEST ENTRY

Frances Louise Adams, senior, will declaim in the home-town contest which will be held in Sweetwater, May 12, 13 and 14. According to an account appearing in the San Angelo Morning Times, Frances Louise was the first entry in this tournament.

Frances Louise is an experienced declaimer and should do well.

SENIOR NEWS

A picture of the building was taken last week and has been sent with the class flower, motto and class-roll to Washington to be used on the diplomas of the senior class.

Seniors had their first rehearsal Monday of the senior play, "College Hobo," which is to be given April 29th.

May 5th is the day set for the annual senior day. The seniors have not made any definite plans but hope to make it a great success.

The senior girls of the Girls' Choral Club have begun practicing songs and steps to be given between acts of the last senior play, "College Hobo," April 29th.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB PROGRAM

Members of the Home Economics Club are to give the following program in chapel Friday morning:

Rebecca Turner will sing "My Hosiery." The entire club will sing the club song. The wedding procession will then be staged and Carmilla Flores, an old maid aunt, will sing "Oh, Promise Me." The ceremony will be performed and the bride's maids will sing "Love's Old Sweet Song." "Annie Laurie" will be sung by Maurice Kirkpatrick, another old maid aunt. The club yell will also be given.

SCRIBBLERS TO HAVE CANDY PULL

The Scribblers got enthusiastic last Tuesday morning at their regular meeting and decided to have a candy pull next Thursday night.

Each scribbler started telling her favorite candy, and it seems that there will be several kinds of candy exhibited at the meet.

HOME ECONOMICS III.

The Home Economics III. girls took a field trip last Thursday morning. They have been studying houses, furnishings, fixtures, and the like. They walked up to Mrs. Dennis Kelley's home, which has ideal furnishings. She showed the girls through the house and discussed it well, and all the girls enjoyed and thanked Mrs. Kelley for their visit. The Kelley home is English style. They viewed the McDonald home, the Barnes home and many other homes.

YES OR NO

DID YOU KNOW THAT:

The district meet will be held Friday and Saturday? Scribblers are going to have a candy pull soon?

The Travelers' Club went to Washington Wed., April 12?

Jesse Lee and Seth will play doubles in tennis? Five more weeks of school are left?

The Dramatic Club is planning a play to be given as a chapel program at the close of school?

Several classes are looking forward to a picnic next week?

Industry was discussed as a character trait Monday?

Juniors are using the Freshmen's English texts now?

Kansas State Teachers' tests are being given in some studies?

HO HUM!

Spring fever is here in full force. Students slump in their desks and try to go to sleep but the watchman is always alert in the form of a teacher. They simply may not sleep.

Everyone is crying "Picnic! Picnic!" Who would not like to stay under the shade of a tree and be lazy for an afternoon? Just be cool and comfortable and doze about half the time—a fitting occupation for an early spring day.

Perhaps soon the lazy feeling will leave and students won't mind their duties so much. But now—well—ho hum!

Mr. Hayes made announcements regarding the golf tournament. Following adjournment the members went to the country club to play the tournament, the winner of which will be awarded a silver loving cup.

The Economic Strength of Our Community

Banks are a part of the economic blood and sinew of all community life. Without banks commerce and industry could not carry on, nor contribute to the economic welfare of the people.

In times of prosperity unusual demands upon financial institutions are few; therefore their stability is considered a matter of fact. But when conditions drop to normal or blow-tis then the fundamental soundness and foundation strength of a bank is tested.

SOME THINGS MONEY CANNOT BUY

Sometimes we wonder what would be the effect if things should go on about as they are now indefinitely. How much worse off would we be as a people if the present standards of income should prove permanent? It all depends, it seems to us, on where you stand when you look at the world. If you're standing on a dollar-mark things are pretty bad right now. But there are other points of view. Why do we want prosperity to return? So we all can have more money. But if we had more money, what would we do with it?

It seems to us that during the boom years when money, for a lot of people, was easy to get, it proved to be pretty hard to hold. And from what we saw and heard and read about what people did with their money, especially the people who had never had any experience with money before, it didn't do many of them much good. On the contrary, it seems to us, it was a genuinely bad influence. And is there any reason to believe that people, speaking generally, would get any more lasting value out of easy money if boom times came back? We think not.

Of course, we want everybody to have a job. We not only hope that but we expect that conditions will change so that there will be no unemployment to the extent of wide-spread distress and privation. And we realize that there will always be some people who will have more money than they know what to do with, and who will continue to spend it foolishly. But it does seem to us that in the effort to make everybody rich our system has not succeeded in making anybody happy; and we wonder whether we have not somehow, as a people, lost our grip on the more enduring things of life in the struggle for the mighty dollar.

There are spiritual values that are immensely more important than riches, which are not at all dependent upon wealth, which, in fact, are likely to be destroyed by the possession of more money than is needed to keep the body warm and fed. Perhaps these lean years may prove to have had a disciplinary value in turning people's thoughts away from mere pleasure to the soberer but more important things of life.—(The Brownwood News).
