WHEN WILL THIS DE-PRESSION END

A young man from the State of Kansas, in comic verse would remind us that he knew of somebody, or, at least, somebody knew of some men, who might possibly tell us when this depression may end.

In that day when God created the earth

Had no reference to our common day of anything's birth,

But included six other days we are told,

And all together makes our earth very old

In the day that thou eatest thou shalt surely die, Is neither a fable nor a mean-

It simply meant when they disobeyed God, They would be driven from the garden into the land of Nod; In that day when Christ was born and crucified, Meant several days or one magnified: Ye know not the day nor the

For this is hidden from angelic power;

And yet there are signs which point the way,

Enabling us to know that very day, Yea, even the hour when our Savior will come Around the world with the morning sun.

Don't be deceived and not think I'm right, Lest your Savior should come like a thief in the night.

Watch, my dear brother, and quit

listening to men, For that is the time this depres sion will end. I expect to deliver a public lecture soon, entitled "That Great Day", in which I will be loosed from the poetic brevity which I have here employed.

Respectfully, JAS. O. STEPHENSON

Santa Anna, Texas Meets on Monday night following the third Saturday in Visitors Weleach month.

The Study Club meets on Friday night, previous to stated meeting night.

Faye Childers, Secretary

Prison problems have vexed the people of this state almost since the first penal institution was established nearly a century ago. Antiquated and out-grown, the prison system of late years has served as a sort of political football for scheming politicians. Much political capital has been made at the expense of both taxpayers and incarcerated.

Two years ago the legislature wrangled over re-location, centralization and rehabilitation of the system, and adjourned without accomplishing much in the way of corrective legislation. Appropriations were made for a few structural and other minor improvements, but the surface was hardly scratched as far as the main problem was concern-

The system as a whole was in a deplorable condition. Prison population had almost doubled; housing was bad; sanitary conditions were unhealthful, and wholesale escapes were frequent. Prison dormitories on the state farms were classed as fire hazards; the cells in the penitentiary at Huntsville as dungeons. There was much idleness, little discipline, and less morale. The situation was intolerable.

Then came Lee Simmons, a successful business man and farmer, and a former sheriff, to take the reins as general manager of the prison system. He was given a free hand to employ his own ideas about prisoners and prison management. His program—industrialization, modernization and reformation—was inaugurated. The idle were put to work cleaning up the grounds and building and planting truck gardens; discipline and morale showed signs of improvement. Mr. Simmons was getting results.

Now comes the annual report of the prison board. A saving of $165,000 over 1930, and $360,000 over 1929, in the operation of the prison system is shown. And this despite the fact that the prison population has increased over 500 during 1931. Mr. Simmons is getting results.

Since he assumed the managership, the system has been raising its own food, feed and livestock. A canning plant erected at Sugarland will operate full time during the vegetable season. The new pack-ing plant will begin operations shortly, which is expected to e-liminate the bacon bill, a large expense in the past. Other economies have been effected. There Good Jersey Milk Cow. Fresh omies have been effected. There is more efficiency and less deficiency. Sanitary conditions are greatly improved., the prisoners are being given wholesome food, and escapes are few.

Mr. Simmons is gradually raising the prison system out of the morass into which it had fallen through neglect and inertia. What will the politicians say?

Retail stocks in all lines are at low points. Goods in the hands of consumers are being used to the last ounce of good but must wear out eventually.

Roger W. Babson, noted statistician and economist, whose comments on what we may expect for 1932 were published in this newspaper Saturday, points out that as soon as retailers are convinced that commodity prices have reached the low mark, stocks will be replenished and the wheels of industry will begin to turn. When industry becomes active and wages are paid new buying power is created and we start up hill toward another prosperity peak. Economically speaking, this is the gloomiest potent and the brightest future that we have faced in many, many months. — (Harris Ellsworth, News Review, Roseburg, Oregon).

SIGNS OF PROSPERITY

If you are a business or proessional man and have been cooped up in an office in recent months you cannot vision the progress that has been made on one thing that will let the cat farms in Coleman county. You cannot, to save your soul, imagne the wonderful transformation that has taken place, convincing that necessity is really the mother of invention. only is necessity the motive of invention, but as well the incubator of new ideas.

The writer had the pleasure last Saturday morning of touring a part of the county with Farm Agent Robinson. On the 30-mile trip more hogs were seen in pens and lots and fields than we had seen since coming into the county in 1924. Chickens and turkeys were grazing on landscapes and fine cattle were seen where scrubs roamed in years that have passed and gone

Every farm house reflected a degree of prosperity even in the face of the severest depression the world has ever seen. "The Hoover" has swept antiquated ideas from the realm and new ones have been adopted. Our contention still is the the era through which we are passing is a blessing in disguise. People will emerge from the chaotic condition better prepared to live than they ever have before. The test has been severe-almost intolerable-but it has tempered men. It has taught lessons that could never be learned in colleges and universities.

Diversification, preached for so many years, has become a reality and instead of crude meals poorly prepared for the people of Texas are enjoying the finest and most wholesome foods it is possible to prepare. The days of corn pone, red beans and sow stomache have passed. In rural and city homes pantries and cellars are filled with cans of graphed sheets of paper which, the meats did not come from The vegetables end, would paper a fair-sized and fruits did not come from unsanitary market places.

There are few rural homes but the disguise is very thin, so where thrifty people live that not a supply of canned boy can tell that hopeful manu-goods—an ample supply for a facturers are seeking thereby to vear. Yet canning has not stoppobtain valuable advertising with-ed. Beef canning season has out paying for it. YOUR NEWSPAPER

A town or community may be able to cover up the evidence of its decay and backwardness to all local apperances but there is out of the bag in spite of everything that can be done about it. The newspaper is the mirror of the community, and if the town is dead, its gaunt grinning skeleton will stare out at you from every column from the banner head line on the front page to the last boiler-plate "filler!"

That does not mean that newspaper is dead. Far from it. Some of the liveliest newspapers in the county are published in towns that are not entitled to any kind of a news medium whatever. But that condition does not exist for long, because with ads of all local concerns a newspaper is a business enterprise as well as anything else, and if it runs at a loss, in time, it too, will of necessity fail. And a newspaper cannot run without advertising patronage

The cost of newsproduction is probably higher now than at any other time in the history of journalism, higher because more is demanded. Whether a newspaper is paying or not it must give the

Many people think if a newspaper has a large number of subscribers it is a paying proposition. But such is not the case. Circulation is a costly feature of the business. If an editor can secure enough out of his ciculation to maintain the cost of keeping it, of clerical work and collections and securing and man County as well as elsewhere maintaining the business, he is who have chewed gum had a lucky. There is no profit in that branch whatever.

So it takes advertising to make a newspaper. The cleanest and newsiest newspaper possible without ads denotes a dead town. If the local business people are not liberally represented in the advertising columns of the local newspaper, it is a reflection on, he enterprise and progress of the community.

A merchant pays his advertising bills because he wants to stay with the broker and the manufacturer. He pays his rent so he will not be thrown out of his building. He pays his light and water and telephone so his utilities service will not be cut off. But he keeps up his advertis-ng for the simple reason that it is good business to do so. He knows that he must have a constant turnover of merchandise, that styles are constantly changing, that new goods must come in whether the old is sold or not, that his profits will dwindle unless a constant volume is maintained, and he knows that nothing but continual practical advertising will keep his business moving and enable him to show a profit at the end of the year. So the local newspaper filled growing town. -From Texas Commercial News.

NICKELS AND ADVERTISING

Coleman Democrat-Voice: Not many people realize the value of a nickel and advertising. To such the study of the life of William Wrigley, Jr., will be a lesson in bussiness economy. He died recently in Phoenix, Ariz., and news dispatches tell us his fortune was in excess of twenty million dollars.

The vast estate was made up of nickels secured by the sale of chewing gum through judicious, consistent advertising. man woman and child in Coleman County as well as elsewhere part in building the fabulous wealth.

While others were after dollars or larger pieces of silver and gold Wrigley was storing the nickels at such a rate that he exceeded the more ambitious. His life and his financial success is worth pondering, especially by children who believe that great sums are necessary to construct great fortunes.

A good commodity well advertised will sell, and repeated orin business and to do so he must ders will keep pouring in as long maintain a good credit rating as the advertising continues. Products just as well known and more valuable than Wrigley's Chewing Gum have been forgotton because those responsible for sales thought they could quit telling the people about them. Wrigley, like all other business men, had strong competition, but succeded in spite of it or by reason of it.

There were 3,515 poll tax receipts issued in Coleman county for the year of 1932, approximately 60 per cent of the people within the age limit. The exemptions, those over sixty years of age, cripples and others who have reached the age of 21 years and became legal voters without having to pay a poll tax will probably bring the number of qualreflects the image of a live and ified voters up to 4,000 for the year. This is the lightest voting population Coleman county has had in several years.

EXAMINATIONS!!

This is the week for the students to give an account of how they spent their time the first six weeks of the second semes-ter. This accounting is the regular six-weeks examinations.

Students always seem to dread the last week of the six. About the fourth week the sixth week begins looming up in the distance with an ominence that is appalling. A small expression of worry begins to cloud the brows of those who have not worked sufficiently hard and are not sure of their knowledge of the work covered the past few weeks. Others go serenely on about their activities, and keep a smiling countenance. These are the students who have studied and learned their work well. are sure of themselves.

Many of the students have the added duty of working for the Interscholastic League meet These will simply have to spend a few more hours of the passing days in their studies and their extra work. In working for the Interscholastic League, one not only gains honors for the school, but, also, for himself as well, so it will certainly pay to do one's best in both the curricula and extra-curricula activities.

ENTER CONTEST

Mrs. J. Edd Bartlett entered her Current History classes this week in a contest sponsored by the editors of Scholastic, school news magazine.

The United States is divided or grouped into five regions. The student from any school within the region, making the highest score on a test to be given on April 20th will be given a trip to Washington this summer over a bus line. All expenses of the student will be paid and points of interest will be visited along the route.

The student from each school entering, making the highest score in the school, will get five dollars worth of books of his own choosing. The two schools within each region having as many as fifteen taking the test. and making the highest average score, will get twenty-five dollars worth of books.

Eunice Wheeler, of Simmons University, spent Salurday and Sinday with relatives.

F. F. A. NEWS

William Brown won fourth place on his baby beef at the Coleman show last Saturday.

Immediately after the show at Coleman, William carried his calf to San Angelo for entrance in the San Angelo Fat Stock Show and Sale.

This is the first time William has fitted fat cattle for show, and it is expected that the experience gained this year will greatly aid him next year.

J. M. Binion, instructor in agriculture, worked with the baby beef show until noon in Coleman Saturday, and then went to Winters to judge a sheep show in the afternoon.

Seventy-five excellent sheep were entered in the Winters Fifty of the best went to the San Angelo Fat Stock Show and Sale.

They played with the grammar school Friday and the score was 15-9 in favor of the high school team. They plan to enter the Interscholastic League contest, so they are getting in a lot of good practice now. Our team is going to play the Coleman South Ward team here next Wednesday afternoon. Come and boost our team, because we want them to win!

LONELY BUTTERCUP

I saw a little buttercup On a bare, windswept hill, Among the rocks it sprang up
And stayed to feel the winter

This little plant, dared wind and weather With the weeds and thistles

And then they died together. On a day quite cold and drear. This buttercup never knew the song of a bird, Nor the caress of a bee, Though the plowboy's whistle, it might have heard As he whistled in his glee

I'm a little sad, when I think of this,

That the little flower's gone It lived a life that knew no bliss To wither and die alone.
