Fifty cents of every dollar of the membership fee of these enrolling in the organization has been sent with the report. The soliciting of the members was done by the representatives from the high school classes. The freshman class has the honor of getting almost half of the membership. The schools in county were in competition for the honor of sending in the largest report. The one doing this will receive the beautiful Red Cross banner that has been on display at Walker's Pharmacy for the past two weeks.

Queen Candidates Nominated Friday

Petitions for the nomination of Dorothy Baxter, and Clara Parnelly for Simmons University Queen, both bearing more than enough signatures had been accepted by Gerald Williams, student president, last night as time for filing ended. Election of the Queen which is provided for in the constitution of the student organization will be held on the second Tuesday in December, which falls this year on December 8. Candidates for the place must be members of the senior class and must have attended Simmons a full session sometimes before this term.

Both young ladies are members of the Cowgirls, of which Miss Parnelly is president. Dorothy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Baxter of Santa Anna has been especially prominent in Players Club activities during the past two years, taking leading roles in three major productions.

Clara, a graduate of Abilene High is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Parnelly of this city. The two were named to represent the union class last year in the Brand Beauty contest judged by Gary Cooper. Miss Baxter was one of the winners—Simmons Brand.

Free Performance at Tent Show Monday Night

The Standley Players, a stock company, will open their show in Santa Anna with a free performance. Those who have attended this attraction say that it is one of the best on the road. They will play here under the auspices of the fire boys. Frankie Marvin, the radio and recording artist, will be here in person. Many have listened to him over the radio as he has appeared in the large cities and before the "mike" on national hookup programs. He is said to be a whole show by himself, and those that have heard him say that his singing and playing are marvelous.

The show carries a wonderful orchestra and their playing alone is said to be worth the price of admission. The show will play here the entire week from the 7th to the 12th.

Holiday Spirit Comes With Heralds Of Season

Employees of the West Texas Utilities company and the Santa Anna Telephone company have been putting up the colored lights that have become a herald of the Christmas season in Santa Anna. With the shining of the brightly colored lights on the streets one seems to always catch the "Christmassy" feeling. No expense to the city has been attached to the stringing of the lights this year as these companies have graciously done the work gratis.

Many of the store windows are also in holiday attire and soon the Main street will present a festive air.

Farm Board's Stabilization Losses Shown

Washington, Nov. 30.—Of a total of $388,000,000 invested by the Federal Farm Board in attempts to stabilize wheat and cotton, the board has admitted a loss to date of nearly one half of that amount, or $168,000,000. This was disclosed in a statement issued by the board as to these operations, requested by the Senate Agriculture Committee which is holding hearings on the Farm Board and operation of the agricultural marketing act. The board invested in wheat and cotton approximately $270,000,000 and $118,000,000, respectively.

The board's statement shows that on Nov. 1, the Government had 189,656,187 bushels of unsold wheat. Including costs, carrying and operating charges, and the loss the board has sustained on wheat sold to date, these remaining stocks represent an investment of $1.17 per bushel or approximately $222,000,000. The board bought the wheat at an average price of 82c.

The value of this wheat computed at the market price of Nov. 1 is approximately $120,000,000, revealing a shrinkage of $102,000,000, which the Government stands to lose, as a result of wheat stabilization unless there is an increase in the market to $1.17 a bushel.

The board advised that its cotton stabilization stock of 13,107,789 bales represents an investment of 18c per pound, or approximately $120,000,000. The value of the unsold cotton stock as of Nov. 1, is estimated at $45,000,000, therefore representing a cotton shrinkage of $75,000,000, or a total shrinkage of cotton and wheat stabilization of $177,000,000. This is more than one-third of the total appropriation Congress made for this farm relief.

COACH LOCK GIVES HIS OPINION OF THE BIG GAME

Coach Lock

The long rest since the hard fought Bungs game, the hardest in years, on the local field, has helped the boys a great deal. Several come from the game with injuries that needed a long rest. Clifford Wheeler, Woodrow Niell and Murrell Spence had turned ankles. Robert Curry and Ernest Harrod had bruised legs. Lenton Oaker had a sprained wrist and Deggs Traylor and Clovis Fletcher had muscles pulled in their backs. All of those are well now. Edwin Rollins, Captain, who has been out with a sprained foot for two months will be in the starting line-up against Coleman and it may be that Noel Campbell who got his collar bone broken in the game with Melvin will play part of the game. With all these boys back in tip top shape we shall be able to present a strong lineup in our final game with our rivals the bad weather is keeping the boys off the practice field and that will hurt us some. Workouts will be had daily this week inside the building until the weather clears up so that they may stay in condition.

The two teams will be about evenly matched when they meet according to the dope. However, dope doesn't figure much in these old grudge fights. Our boys will be out there playing with the same hustle and drive that won the last two games.

Mountaineers To Put Up Toughest Fight Of Season

Every loyal Santa Anna resident who can find a way, to attend the football game between the Mountaineers and the Blue Cats at Coleman, today, will be at the Fair Park at three this afternoon, rooting and cheering for the Mountaineers.

In past years these high school teams have played and the rivalry has been keen, but this year there seems to be a climax to all previous feelings and the afternoon's battle will be hard fought and bitter. The Mountaineer eleven has shown a winning streak in the past two games and are quite determined about the game they will play this afternoon. The Coleman Cats will not give up the game without a terrible struggle and they are fully aware of the strength of the line they are trying to break. While our boys are going to have the advantage of the season's training and playing, Coleman too will come to this game wiser for their experience, but this is one time when the Mountaineers plan to give all they have—and they mean for that to be plenty—so, look out Cats!

Christmas Holidays Will Soon Be Here

The Yuletide is now approaching and Christmas holidays will be our next stirring event. Merchants of other towns have already begun their Christmas advertising, calling attention to the buying public of their special arrangements for Christmas shoppers. We don't know just when the Santa Anna merchants will start their special holiday advertising, but we have been informed that several of the local merchants are making arrangements to supply Christmas shoppers with Christmas goods. Keep an eye on the advertising columns of The Santa Anna News which will keep you posted where you may find the best bargains in gift goods and suitable presents for the occasion.

Lions Clubs And Their Work For The Blind

One of the most powerful and effective agencies working in the interest of the Blind and in the interest of Sight Conservation to-day is the International Association of Lions Clubs. The field is covered in its entirety, ranging from eye sight conservation to providing those unfortunate ones who have lost their sight, with the necessities of life with recreational outlets, and with industrial facilities to enable them to be totally or partially self supporting. The necessity for strenuous use of the eyes is increasing with each generation, and up until recently the advancement of the science of eye sight conservation has lagged behind the increasing number of eye disorders resulting from over taxation of the eyes.

Lions Clubs adopted Blind Work as one of their major activities almost from the time of their inception as service organizations.

More than three thousand dollars per year is spent by Lions International in the publication of the magazine "Juvenile Braille" in the interest of the Blind, and more than six hundred copies of this magazine are distributed monthly by the organization. The Lions Club of Santa Anna is contributing its share of this cost and thus it is rendering valuable and commendable service to these less fortunate folks who are among us. Many clubs are having examinations made, and furnishing glasses free of charge to poor children, while many others are operating eye

IF I DON'T PAY MY TAXES

The schools may shut down. The State cannot pay the full per capita distribution because, like the local school tax, it depends on my payment.

Banks cannot advance further money to schools against unpaid taxes.

It is my personal duty to pay up even though it hurts.

Thoughtful citizens in some localities have organized "Pay Your Taxes" clubs. Occasionally larger tax payers are advancing half all they owe, long before due date.

After all of us have paid who can, there yet will be left enough unpaid taxes that schools will have a struggle.

I will start now to plan how I can do "my bit."

BEAT COLEMAN

"Old Lady Fate" is going to be visiting the Coleman campus, joining hands with "Old Man Bardluck." It is hard for the Mountaineers to win a game when too many good men are kept out of the lineup due to injuries.

S-A-H-S

Some people think that the Mountaineers can't beat the "Blue Cats". Well, just wait until next Friday, and they will show you. Men such as Edwin Rollins and Scott Wallace and others who have not been allowed to enter conference games, will be ready to go after 'em that day. I think that is going to be a sad, sad story for the folks back in Coleman.

The last word for this week is Beat Coleman.

Officer: "That makes no difference. You can read all about it in tomorrow's papers."

SPORTSMANSHIP

We have the impression that one is out to gratify his pride in the human race would do well to avoid athletic contest. The members of the competing teams are likely to perform creditably enough. They are sound physical specimens, and they can usually be counted upon for exhibitions of considerable skill. But for the spectators, less can be said. The greater majority, no doubt, can enjoy a game without violence. It is likely that the poor sports are a minority. But when a coyote howls, it sounds like a pack, and when the extremely vocal grouches and wise crackers and all-around poor sports get into action at a football game, their outpouring sound like the cries of a multitude. If their bad tempered egotism to the grandstands, little harm would be done. But a poor sport is usually the growler, the pessimist.

Let us hope that each of us will always defend our team, be loyal but be real sports; broadminded and generous, always smiling, win, draw, or lose.

SANTA ANNA PEP

"P-E-P, that spells pep. That's where Santa Anna gets her rep."

Santa Anna pep is, indeed, something that means more than just the expression by loud vocal acclamations. Pep is spirit, and spirit comes from loyalty, and loyalty is deeply ingrained in the heart of every Santa Anna High student.

Pep is defined by Webster as "that enthusiastic display of loyalty." Then it is certainly evident that Santa Anna High students and the people of Santa Anna are loyal for their "display of loyalty" has certainly been exhibited, the past two weeks, in preparation for the game with Coleman.

Down those Coleman Cats!

LINEUP STRONGEST DURING SEASON

Friday, December Fourth, three o'clock in Coleman Park Date time and place for the fighting Mountaineers to smoke the Blue Cats out of the log. The Mountaineers say they don't only intend to smoke them out but are going to burn the log and possibly the forest. The boys wearing the Black and GOLD are determined to ruin a nearly aged tradition by pelting the Cats in their own lair.

To-morrow the Cats will run up against a fighting wall of seasoned vets. There won't be any first minute scoring rush by the Cats this time. As you remember the Mounts rallied in the first Cat game of the season and completely played them off their feet during the last half. Remember, the first, downs were ten to two at the end of the half and thirteen to fifteen for the Mountaineers at the end of the game. The boys found out what they could do with the Cats and assure us they are going to do it this time regardless of whether O' Lady Luck frowns on them again or not.

The Mountaineers were off to a slow seasoning of the material. But shaped up in time to put some fine playing in the district running, only having lost two conference games. So to-morrow will see the S.A.H.S. warriors go on the field ready to show Coleman their best brand of football, sixty minutes of fight, and a determination to get on the long end of the marking. They will be backed on the side lines by most of the population of Santa Anna and maybe the Curb Stone at Wit wasn't far wrong when he said that in case the Mounts didn't beat back the Cats that the Santa Anna Mountain can go to Coleman. Otherwise, we take the Court-house.

So, let's go, Mountaineers! Show those Blue Cats a real fighting Mountain City Team, with sixty minutes of fight unopposed on a gridiron. Linedmen, show those Cats a charging, unbreakable forward wall. Back-field, show those Kittens that passing, driving and running. Heads up Mountaineers!!! Break that eight year run of Coleman home victories! Hang that old Blue hide up in the chimney corner for the Mountaineer's winter fire to dry. Show that Santa Anna side line what they came to see. Side line back that lean and watch them; you know what they are out to do. HEADS UP!! ON YOUR TOES!! MOUNTAINEERS, LET'S GO!!!

PLAY THE GAME

If the other side is winning. And the stuff is going wrong. And no matter how you battle You can't get very strong. Don't start to crab your fellows. Don't be the one to blame; But, grit your teeth and buckle down. And Mountaineers—play the game!

If you can't just seem to rally. And you can't bring down their lead;

If the chap who sprained his ankle Was just the one you need; If the good old bunch seems beaten.

If the team is stiff and lame— just call a cherry word or two. And, Mountaineers—play the game!

And if a chance to cheat comes up. When no one would ever know. Remember, boys, your team plays clean.

So play the game and let it go. If you feel like lying down. Though it bring your old school shame.

Remember, it's when you're losing That you have to play the game.

If, when the show is over, The other bunch has won. If a your dreams are shattered. And you feel your day is done. You didn't feel very cheerful; But, Mountaineers—just the same.

It doesn't hurt one-half so much If they know you've played the game!

DOWN THOSE COLEMAN BLUE CATS

Friday, when the Mountaineers fall in line, We're going to win the victory another time.

We're going to hit that line, and circle in.

We're going to fight! fight! for every score we win.

We're going to show those cats what real sports are like.

We're going to fight hard, hit hard, with all our might.

And when the whistle blows for the game to stop

And how! The cats will be down. The Mountaineers on top! Yea Mountaineers

On Friday, December the 4th, the Santa Anna Mountaineers will fight the last gridiron battle of the year with the Coleman Blue Cats, on the Coleman field.

The Mountaineers have had two weeks of rest and most of them are in good condition, and ready to give those Coleman Cats one of the toughest fights of the season, and the way the Mountaineers have been working lately, it looks as though at the close of the game Wednesday those Coleman boys will be "Blue Cats."

Santa Anna High school has won three out of five of the conference games, and when they win this game with Coleman they will stand second in the district.

Hard luck has been on the trail of the Mountaineers all season. First the knocking out of that powerful, one hundred seventy pound fullback, Jesse Goen, then, the one hundred-fifty pound back-felder, Dexter Walthall. Then came the accident to the captain of the squad, Edwin Rollins. Next, they lost Yantis Hines, who plays left tackle and weighs one hundred and fifty pounds. Another blow that crippled the team came in the Melvin game, when Noel Campbell got his collar-bone broken.

It will take more than this, however, to kill the fighting spirit of these Mountaineers.

There are only three letter men on this year's squad—Rollins, Wheeler and Myers. But, from the way the rest of the boys played this season, one would think they had had plenty of experience. When the Mountaineers face those Blue Cats on the Coleman gridiron tomorrow, they are going to be at their best, and will accept nothing but "victory"—because—

Captain Edwin (BeNi) Rollins is going to be back in the game. BeNi is a two year letter man, plays guard, can tackle hard, block hard and run interference. He weighs one hundred and fifty-five pounds. He will lead the Mountaineers to a glorious victory.

Nowlin Myers is a letter man, weighs one hundred sixty-five pounds, plays center and will fight! fight! fight! to the end, to down those Cats.

Clifford Wheeler, also a letter man has done some excellent playing this season. Clifford plays right end, weighs one hundred and sixty-five pounds and if he ever gets his hands on the ball "It's his". He will fight from start to finish "meow," poor kitty!

Clovis (Bull) Fletcher weighs one hundred and fifty-three pounds and is the only back fielder on the team who has played all season with out an accident bad enough to keep him out of the game. Clovis can plow through most any team's line and if there isn't a hole in the Blue Cat's line Wednesday, trust Clovis "He'll make one."

Ernest (Red) Harrod, weighs one hundred forty-eight pounds plays quarter back. Red uses a clever head in calling plays and always plays the right play at the right time. He can kick and pass the ball as well as run with it and can be depended upon to deal those Coleman boys plenty of misery Friday.

Deggs Traylor weighs one hundred and fifty pounds plays right tackle and will be in that Coleman game, fighting every minute for his team.

Scott Wallace weighs one hundred and forty-eight pounds and plays left end. This is Scott's first year out for football. He can snag passes and tackle hard and when he is turned loose on those Cats Friday, you can look for the fur to fly.

Rankin McIver weighs one hundred and fifty pounds plays left tackle and can be depended upon to help his team "Down Those Blue Cats."

Leon Ward, weighs one hundred-fifty pounds and can put the ball where he aims, and when he starts running with the ball, he just can't be stopped. His spirit of fight will give pep to the Mountaineers and make the Coleman Cats blue.

Robert Curry weighs one hundred-forty pounds, plays center guard and how he can block and tackle! He is always working and is sure to get a "meow" from those Cats.

Grady McIver, plays left end and weighs one hundred-sixty pounds. He is going to show those Cats just what a fast mar can do.

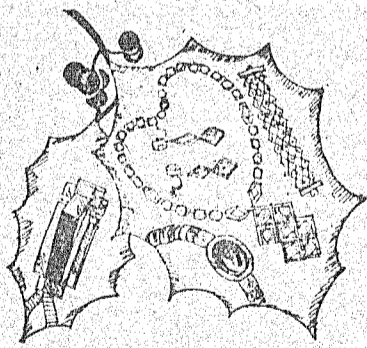

Woodrow Niell plays right tackle and weighs one hundred forty-five pounds. He knows football and is going to help make it hard on those Coleman boys.

Essworth Brannon, weighs a hundred and fifty-five pounds and plays full back. He is one powerful man that those Coleman boys better watch.

ELEVENTH INSTALMENT

Six people, Horace Johnson (who tells the story), his wife, old Mrs. Dane, Herbert Robinson and his sister, Alice and Dr. Sperry, friends and neighbors, are in the habit of holding weekly meetings. At one of them Mrs. Dane, who is hostess, varies the program by unexpectedly arranging a spiritualistic seance with Miss Jeremy, a friend of Dr. Sperry and not a professional medium.

At the first sitting the medium tells the details of a murder as it occurs. Later that night Sperry learns that a neighbor, Arthur Wells, has been shot, mysteriously. With Johnson he goes to the Wells residence and there find confirmation of the medium's account. Mrs. Wells tells them her husband shot himself in a fit of depression.

At a second seance, Miss Jeremy adds details about a summer resort where Charles Ellingham was known to have been at the same time that Mrs. Wells was there. She also speaks of a pocket book being lost which contained some important car tickets and letters. Mrs. Dane, alone of the women, seems thrilled by the investigation.

Johnson goes alone and investigates the deserted house. He is frightened by strange noises as of an intruder in the house, but completes his investigation.

He leaves the house and in his excitement carries off the fire songs, leaving them in his own hall rack where his wife discovers them the next morning and reproaches him for his nocturnal wanderings.

He gets to bring away his overcoat, which is carried off by the mysterious stranger. Mrs. Dale learns of his peculiar actions and charges him with possessing an unsuspected sense of humor.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

There was, on the contrary, a definite place beyond which the medium could not go.

She did not know who had killed Arthur Wells.

To my surprise, Sperry and Herbert Robinson came together to see me that morning at my office. Sperry, like myself, was pale and tired, but Herbert was restless and talkative, for all the world like a terrier on the scent of a rat.

"Hawkins will be here soon," Sperry said, rather casually, after I had read the clipping.

"Here?"

"Yes. He is bringing a letter from Miss Jeremy. The letter is merely blind. We want to see him."

Herbert was examining the door of my office. He set the spring lock. "He may try to bolt," he explained. "We're in this pretty deep, you know."

"How about a record of what he says?" Sperry asked.

I pressed a button, and Miss Joyce came in. "Take the testimony of the man who is coming in, Miss Joyce," I directed. "Take everything we say, any of us. Can you tell the different voices?"

She thought she could, and took up her position in the next room, with the door partly open.

I can still see Hawkins as Sperry let him in - a tall, cadav-erous man of good manners and an English accent, a superior servant. He was cool but rather resentful. I judged that he considered carrying letters as in no way a part of his work, and that he was careful of his dignity.

"Miss Jeremy sent this, sir," he said.

Then his eyes took in Sperry and Herbert, and he drew himself up.

"I see," he said. "It wasn't the letter then?"

"Not entirely. We want to have a talk with you, Hawkins."

"Very well, sir." But his eyes went from one to the other of us.

"You were in the employ of Mr. Wells. We know that. Also we saw you there the night he died, but some time after his death. What time did you get in that night?"

"About midnight. I am not certain."

"Who told you what happened?"

"I told you that before. I met the detectives going out."

"Exactly. Now, Hawkins, you had come in, locked the door, and placed the key outside for the other servants?"

"Yes, sir."

"How do you expect us to believe that?" Sperry demanded irritably. "There was only one key. Could you lock yourself in and then place the key outside?"

"Yes, sir," he replied impassively. "By opening the kitchen window, I could reach out and hang it on the nail."

"You were out of the house, then, at the time Mr. Wells died?"

"I can prove it by as many witnesses as you wish to call." Now, about these letters, Hawkins," Sperry said. "The letters in the bag. Have you still got them?"

He half rose—we had given him a chair facing the light—and then sat down again. "What letters?"

"Don't beat around the bush. We know you have the letters. And we want them."

"I don't intend to give them up, sir."

"Will you tell us how you got them?"

He hesitated. "If you do not know already I don't care to say."

I placed the letter to A 31 before him. "You write this, I think?" I said.

He was gently startled. More than that, indeed for his face twitched. "Suppose I did?" He said. "I'm not admitting it."

"Will you tell us for whom it was meant?"

"You know a good deal already gentlemen. Why not find out from where you learned the rest?"

"You know, then where we learned what we know?"

"That's easy," he said bitterly. "She's told you enough I dare say. She doesn't know it all, of course. Any more than I do," he added.

"Will you give us the letters?"

"I haven't said I have them

I haven't admitted I wrote them on the desk. Suppose I have them. I'll not give them up except to the District Attorney."

"By 'she' do you refer to Miss Jeremy?" I asked.

He stared, and smiled faintly. "You know who I mean."

We tried to assure him that we were not, in a sense, seeking to involve him in the situation, and I even went so far as to state our position, briefly.

"I'd better explain, Hawkins. We are not doing public work. But, owing to a chain of circumstances we have learned that Mr. Wells did not kill himself. He was murdered or at least shot, by some one else. It may not have been deliberate. Owing to what we have learned, certain people are under suspicion. We want to clear things up for our own satisfaction."

"Then why is some one taking down what I say in the next room?"

He could only have guessed it, but he saw that he was right by our faces. He smiled bitterly. "Go on," he said. "Take it down. It can't hurt anybody. I don't know who did it, and that's God's truth."

And, after long wrangling, that was as far as we got.

He suspected who had done it, but he did not know. He absolutely refused to surrender the letters in his possession, and a sense of delicacy, I think, kept us all from pressing the question of the A 31 matter.

"That's a personal affair," he said. "I've had a good bit of trouble. I'm thinking now of going back to England."

And, as I say, we did not insist. When he had gone there seemed to be nothing to say. He had left the same impression on all of us. I think of trouble, but not of crime. Of a man fairly driven; of wretchedness that was almost despair. He still had the letters. He had, after all, as much right to them as we had, which was actually, no right at all. And, whatever it was, he still had his secret.

Herbert was almost childishly crestfallen. Sperry's attitude was more philosophical.

"A woman, of course," he said. "The A 31 letter shows it. He tried to get her back, perhaps, by holding the letters over her head. And it hasn't worked out. Poor devil! Only—who is the woman?"

It was that night, the fifteen-day after the crime, that the solution came. Came, as a matter of fact, to my door.

I was in the library, reading, or trying to read, a rather abstract on physics phenomenon. My wife, I recall, had just asked me to change a banjo record for "The end of a Pleasant Day," when the bell rang.

In our modest establishment the maids retire early and it is my custom, on those rare occasions when the bell rings after nine o'clock, to answer the door myself.

To my surprise, it was Sperry, accompanied by two ladies, one of them heavily veiled. It was not until I had ushered them into the reception room and lighted the gas that I saw who they were. It was Elinor Wells in deep mourning, and Clara, Mrs. Dane's companion and secretary.

While I am quiet sure that I was not thinking clearly at the opening of the interview, I know that I was puzzled at the presence of Mrs. Dane's secretary, but I doubtless accepted it as some connection with Clara's notes. And Sperry made no comment on her at all.

"Mrs. Wells suggested that we come here, Horace," he began. "We may need a legal mind on this. I'm not sure, or rather I think it unlikely. But just in case—suppose you tell him, Elinor."

I have no record of the story Elinor Wells told that night in our little reception-room, with Clara sitting in a corner, grave and white. It was fragmentary, incoherent. But I got it all at

MORE EVIDENCE

A very old adage has it, "Fools make feasts; wise men eat them." But we are living in a different age; I don't call anybody a fool because he spreads a feast—if he can afford it; the very much bigger fool is the fellow that gorges himself at the feast!

Last evening much against my better judgement, I accepted an invitation to dine at 6 o'clock with a professional brother—our wives were in attendance. The cares of the day were past and gone; it was the time for recreation that is essential to the brain worker. Every one in the happy group, except myself, adored the six o'clock dinner, and indulged in it at every opportunity.

To say that this was a fine, sumptuous meal, does not half describe the setting. It was a triumph of culinary skill—the quantity was limited to capacity only.

Incidentally, one of the physicians present said he was a little ticklish about coffee—he had a blood-pressure of something over 200, and was a bit apprehensive about it; he was only sixty, and looked forty-five. Yet, he was being seriously threatened.

My wife and I went to the party in a neighbor physician's car. As we came home at 10:30

HINTS TO "JELLY BEANS"

A Beauty Chat From a Man Who Knows the Secret of a Beautiful Complexion

Since I have recently had a "facial" given me by a beauty specialist, I feel that I am in position to offer advice to men who wish to improve their complexion to the point of making themselves more attractive to the ladies.

The all important thing for a beautiful complexion is CARE.

It is necessary to use a good cleansing cream and then follow this operation with a tissue cream, and then only the best of face powder should be used. As a protection against weather and dust a good vanishing cream should be applied daily as a foundation for a smooth, velvety make-up. Much care should also be taken in selecting just the right tint and shade of lip stick and rouge.

The following chart is suggested.

If you are blond with blue eyes, use orange rouge and flesh face powder. If dark brown use theatrical rouge and brunette powder. Caution: Don't use un-matched shades of rouge and powder.

For results obtained from these suggestions, see Altus Bowden.

3 RULES big help to BOWELS

What a joy to have the bowels move like clockwork, every day! It's easy, if you mind these simple rules of a famous old doctor:

1. Drink a big tumblerful of water before breakfast, and several times a day.
2. Get plenty of outdoor exercise without unduly fatiguing your self.
3. Try for a bowel movement at exactly the same hour every day.

Everyone's bowels need help, sometimes, but the thing to use is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. You'll be a thorough cleanser. It will leave your insides working like a clock. This family doctor's prescription is just fresh fruits, herbs, purgatives, and other helpful ingredients. It couldn't hurt a child. But it will wake up those laxatives that give you that "poisonous" water.

A Remarkable Year
Soon To Close

The year ending with this month has, indeed, been a remarkable one. At the beginning it was unusually wet, which lasted over a period of two months, with almost even temperature, then came spring, which lasted for several weeks with practically no rain and an almost even temperature, then came summer, which started in warm and dry and lasted over a period of several months with but little moisture but plenty of hot weather. Had it not been for the fine underground season from the winter rains, but little would have been produced in the way of field crops.

October 11th, the rainy season set in, and up-to-date, instead of improving it seems to grow more drizzly and chilly. Not so much moisture has fallen, but most people have stock water and the small grain is looking fine. If no hard freezes set us back, the outlook for a grain crop another year is fine. The remarkable thing about the year is, when it rains it rains eternally and when it quits it is dry everlastingly. Now it is chilly and the writer is wondering where some "longhandle" under wear is coming from? Anyway 1931 will soon come to a close with its good and bad, and when we took a chance on living in this world without our consent, if we had known that such a year was on the span of life, we would have tried awfully hard to have shaped our business affairs in a different way and retired into oblivion for the period rather than going out to try to make a living by tilling the soil. Making a living would not be so bad, but trying to pay debts accumulated while conditions were different is some ordeal. In fact, we have not found how it could be done so far, under this "Hoover-Prosperity" administration.

Anyway 1931 will soon be gone and we trust the misery that has been wrought during her period will soon disappear and better times will come out with the dawn of a new year.—J. J. Gregg.

Moody Polk of Abilene has been here this week attending business.

Jack Holt comes again to the Queen Theatre, on the first of next week in a picture which carries a general theme very much like the other late pictures he is featured in; that of the eternal triangle. He has used this peculiar style of plot until it would be monotonous if it were not for the superbe acting of the cast and the thrills introduced.

In 'Dirigible' the plot reveals the age old truth of love being a woman's whole existence—but a man's pastime. While this woman's husband swept the star dust from the skies in search of new worlds to conquer, she remained at home among his trophies -- just another of his souvenirs.

It is rather unusual to preview pictures from the financial angle rather than the artistic, etc., but too much attention has been given to how the heroine wears her hair and eyelashes and the hero his monocle rather than how the duo stack up as entertainers for people who are shopping for pictures and making their nickels and dimes talk business!

"The Hurrigan Horseman" is a fast-moving Western melodrama, with Lane Chandler doing his best shooting and riding. He is a gun repairer, and this enables him to capture the chief villain, Walter Miller, and his gang by fixing their revolvers so they won't shoot straight. In the meantime, the heroine, Marie Quillan, is held for ransom, and she is finally rescued by Chandler.

Miss Quillan puts on an excellent tango dance, is very pretty, can act convincingly, and handles the Spanish dialect very nicely. Walter Miller, as a sort of Pancho Villa villain, is A-1. The supporting cast includes Yakima Canutt, Richard Alexander, Lafe McKee and Charles Shafer.

This is the main attraction at the Queen Friday and Saturday.

"But past performances and past scores will help neither team as they line up to-morrow. If either team will be benighted, it will be the Mountaineers. They more than likely will play an inspired game to avenge past humiliations suffered in past conflicts."

THE MOUNTAINEER

Murrell Spence plays right half and is one fast man. He is sure to do some real playing on Wednesday.

The Santa Anna squad will average around one hundred and fifty two pounds, while the Coleman line up is much heavier. But our motto will be "The Heavier They are The Harder They Fall".

These husky Mountaineers, have decided to wear Blue Cat skin caps this winter instead of the Coon skin caps. So each man will enter the game determined to skin at least one cat.

Mountaineers, Santa Anna is for you and the Pep squad will be with you dressed in Black and Gold to cheer you as you "Down Those Cats."

Hail gold and black!
 We'll praise you gladly;
 We love you madly.
 To you we'll ever be true!
 Down Those Cats!

JOKES

A Bangs boy: "Why do you call me a pilgrim?"
 Mary Alice: "Because every time you call you make little progress."

Clavis: If Lapland's people are "Laps" and Japan's people are "Japs" then where on earth is the land of birth, of all our millions of "Saps".

Scott: "I've bought the little lady a machine of her own."
 Dexter: "What kind, Packard, Lincoln, Mormon or Buick?"
 Scott: "No, a Maytag."

Hettie Fae: "Are you in the habit of speaking to ladies you do not know?"
 Red: "Yes, the ladies I do know won't speak to me."

Mrs. Bartlett: I sent my boy to college.
 With a pat upon his back I spent ten thousand dollars and get a quarter back.

Clifford Wheeler had been "cramming" Physics before the last exams and when he went into English class, he seemed to forget himself and paraphrased the line from Lockinvar, "He stayed not for brake," as follows "He never stopped for a mechanical contrivance to reduce speed by means of friction."

What? Football.
 Where? Fair Park Field, Coleman.
 When?
 Who? Mountaineers vs. Blue Cats.
 Why? To prove that Santa Anna can down Coleman!

SUBCONSCIOUS THOUGHTS OF THE FACULTY

"I draw triangles, rectangles and squares," said Mrs. Pieratte, as she was interviewed by a reporter. This was the answer to a question as to what she did while idly and unconsciously scribbling. It is often wondered why people unconsciously do things. To know what a person draws or writes, while idly holding a pencil, is usually an insight into their thoughts and everyday actions. To know that Mrs. Pieratte draws rectangles, triangles and squares, might tell us that she is undoubtedly interested in her work at school and that she thinks about it a great deal.

Miss Hays, the Home Economics teacher, was heard to say that she drew the fagoting stitch, row after row at a time. This might tell us several things. It may mean that she has several dresses with fagoting on them and that by looking at the trimming so often she has unconsciously begun to draw the stitch, or it might tell us, that she is thinking deeply along this line of her school work.

Eighty-six, eighty-six, eighty-six. Such is the number that Mr. Binion writes by the dozens. It is not known exactly what this means, but it is supposed that by this "unconscious reminder, he may live to be eighty-six years old or that something outstanding in his life may happen in the year nineteen eighty-six, which constantly impresses that number upon his mind.

Why Mrs. Scarborough draws stars is not known but it evidently must show that her aims are high and lofty. Perhaps a few more people should start drawing stars, conscious or unconscious. It might be an incentive to work harder and set a higher goal.

History students should work harder so Mrs. Bartlett won't have to underscore so many incorrect words. Mrs. Bartlett draws many lines while unconsciously scribbling. This is caused by underscoring a careless flow of incorrect words from the pens of the students.

Mr. Scarborough draws geometrical figures while in an unconscious mood. It has been said that he is very interested in mathematics and this might be proof of that statement.

Writing the alphabet seems to be the main diversion of Miss Land while in that unconscious state of mind. This probably means that she is striving harder each day to reach the goal which she has set in life. Each time she writes letters of the alphabet she may write a few new ones, which shows that she is gaining and drawing nearer each day to her goal.

History and algebra must be especially hard for some students because Mr. Lock writes numbers, or low grades, we might say, unconsciously. Of these numbers, he writes twos more than any. This might tell us that since two is a low number, that he writes low grades quite a bit. This statement might be verified by some of the algebra and history students he teaches, if you wish to know for sure.

Be on the lookout. Don't let your mind wander too far in that unconscious state!

ALGEBRA

Parentheses in equations are being studied about in the Algebra One Classes. Great care must be exercised at all times, because those plus and minus signs are so obstinate.

Removing parentheses, combining, transposing and reducing to an identity are the four steps used to solve the problems. "Keep Your Signs Right, Then Algebra Will Be Easy," is the admonition given to the students by Mr. Lock.

CHILDREN CRY FOR IT

CHILDREN hate to take medicine as a rule, but every child loves the taste of Castoria. And this pure vegetable preparation is just as good as it tastes; just as bland and just as harmless as the recipe reads.

When Baby's cry warns of colic, a few drops of Castoria has him soothed, asleep again in a jiffy. Nothing is more valuable in diarrhea. When coated tongue or bad breath tell of constipation, invoke its gentle aid to cleanse and regulate a child's bowels. In colds or children's diseases, you should use it to keep the system from clogging.

Castoria is sold in every drugstore; the genuine always bears Chas. H. Fletcher's signature.

EXCESS acid is the common cause of indigestion. It results in pain and nausea about two hours after eating. The quick corrective is an alkali which neutralizes acid. The best corrective is Phillips Milk of Magnesia. It has remained standard with physicians in the 30 years since its invention.

One spoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia neutralizes instantly many times its volume in acid, Horelsens, and indigestion, and yet its action is gentle. You will never rely on crude cathartics, once you know how quickly this method acts.

Be sure to get the genuine. "Bills of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Standard Trade Mark of the Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

The "Fight! Fight!" Mountain City Boys take the war path again to-morrow for the last conference game of the year, meeting the "dear friend rivals" Coleman Bluecats, on Fair Park field.

With three conference wins to their credit, the Black and Gold clad warriors are entering that game to give all they have and if necessary even more, that they may bring home one more victory laurel. Although Coleman is entering the game as favorite, the Mountaineers are going to cause them to do a great deal of hustling, and from all signs, they'll have to be warming up a good deal before they can retain their title.

Results of games of the past few years shows Coleman superior by four wins to Santa Anna's one and two ties. How very persistent habit of "kicking the bottom out of dope buckets" as has already been shown by wins over Melvin and Bangs. In the first game of the season this year, Coleman plunged, tackled, and sprinted their way to a 18 - 0 victory over the sickly looking Mountaineers. But that was the beginning and now the Mountain Eleven has gained a very fitting reputation as those husky, tough, scrapping Santa Anna Mountaineers. All we can say can be said in three little words "Look out Bluecats!"

Celebrates Ninety-Second Birthday

The father of J. L. McCaughan reached his ninety-second milestone in life on November 21st. Mr. McCaughan makes his home with his two sons, one of whom resides at Winters, dividing the time equally between them. He is a native of Mississippi and during the war between the states, he soldiered under Gen. Joseph E. Johnston. He relates many interesting narratives of those thrilling days of the sixties, yet he made a statement regarding his experiences which revealed a noble characteristic. He said: "I'm going to forget that war." During the days of army life he began the use of tobacco. He says that when a within fifty miles of his home, he cast away his last tobacco, resolving to never use it again, and this resolution he has faithfully kept until the present day. This is another mark of true manliness which boys of today well emulate.

Basketball helps one to be quick and to be a good sport. To learn how to think quickly when crowded. It helps one to be healthy and strong and to be fast. Letters to Santa Claus

It has been the custom of the Santa Anna News to publish the Santa Claus letters for the little folks for many years, and this year will be no exception. We want every little boy and girl who reads the Santa Anna News to write a letter to Old Santa and tell him what they want for Christmas. The Santa Anna News has made special arrangements to send the letters to Santa Claus by "Air Mail" but we must get them in this office in time for them to reach their destination and give Old Santa time to prepare them presents and get them to you for Christmas. Write your letters address them to Santa Claus, in care of The Santa Anna News, either mail them or bring them to this office any time between this date and December 20th, and we will forward them to the proper place.
