Citizens Help Avert Financial Disaster In Santa Anna

The First National Bank of Santa Anna will open its doors for business Tuesday morning at the usual hour after the threat of disaster which was hanging over it last Friday and Saturday as result of rumors and restlessness among the people caused by the closing of financial institutions almost all around us.

The bank will emerge from the chaos and threatened wreckage in a position to announce to the people in the territory which it serves, and to the world at large that it is stronger and safer than ever before, and that no depositor need have any uneasiness whatever that his savings are not as safe as in any institution to which he may intrust them, and to sincerely solicit the patronage of all others and assure them that any money placed on deposit with it is much safer than outside of the bank.

Under the re-arrangement of its affairs it will be absolutely impossible for withdrawals to be made in a manner that will impair the service or affect the safety and soundness of the institution.

Our Bank Saved

"Together We Stand, Divided We Fall"

The First National Bank of Santa Anna, Texas is now standing like a giant oak after the hurricane of financial hysteria and the tongue of the scandal monger has swept many of our solvent banks.

The reasons our bank is standing are several.

First: Burgess Weaver had the nerve to declare a holiday to keep down a run until he had time to think of some way out and to confer with the Federal Bank Examiners and the banks who were supporting him. He returned home with the full approval of his proposed plan by the Bank Examiners and the supporting banks who praised him for trying to save our bank. His directors and employees all vigorously and loyally responded to help put the plan up to the depositors and seventy-five per cent of them, responded nobly with their loyal support, in which way only the bank could be saved. So, with a fearless leader, loyal employees and a confident and sacrificing citizen-ship, the Bank has been saved. Again the age-old axiom is true: "In union there is strength."

Coleman County Medical Society Meeting Held

The Coleman County Medical Society met in regular session, Thursday October 1, at 8 p. m. in Dr. Cochran's office in Coleman with the following present: Drs. Cochran, Sealy, Hays, Burke, Aston, Lovelady, Nichols, Tyson, Bailey, Barnes and Walker as members and Drs. Tottenham, Shelton and Daugherty of Brownwood. The guest speakers were: Drs. H. G. Walcott and Ben R. Buford of Dallas, who presented papers on stomach conditions producing heart symptoms and heart conditions producing stomach symptoms. The papers were very graciously received and discussed by several members and visitors.

The new law requiring all licensed physicians to register with the State Board of Medical Examiners, was discussed and heartily approved by the Society.

At 10:30 after a very profitable evening the meeting adjourned.

The next regular meeting will be on December 3rd at which time officers for 1932 will be elected.

Dr. E. D. McDonald, Sec'y.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Ewing and Dad Thomason visited with Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Moore in Coleman, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Walker and Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Day and boys were guests of relatives and friends in Cross Plains Sunday.

no other town or community has been able to accomplish an undertaking of this kind, and we look with pride to the spirit of sacrifice, unity and co-operation as was evidenced by this. Many men and women with small balances in the bank, and who would hardly know where they could get a dollar for any purpose any other way, were among the first to respond, there by challenging the best that is in any of us and putting some to shame. Let us admonish the people to pay no attention to idle talk and rumors that may be spread, and to remember that lack of confidence in ourselves and our fellow-men makes bad times worse. Depositors were entirely reasonable in their demands until so many banking institutions were closed around us, but let us not be susceptible to rumor and ready to accept them as being true from this time on and business will go on as usual and everybody will be happier and more contented.

Burgess Weaver Leads Santa Anna Thru Financial Crisis

Many offers of financial assistance were offered voluntarily by people and financial institutions outside of Santa Anna but they were not accepted because they were not needed.

We had what we needed at home, and that was co-operation, loyalty and that unconquerable determination to carry on.

The prospects are brighter and the country has not gone to ruin. The fine rain Sunday night makes prospects bright for the planting of grain for winter pasture. Tanks that were dry are now filled to overflowing and people who were hauling water for themselves and their stock are relieved of that ordeal.

We live in the best country in all the world, so let us not make the mistake of living in the past, but rather let us look to the future for brighter and better things, ever remembering that we must do our part and let Higher Powers take care of the rest.

We know we are going to come out of this depression and be stronger and more resourceful than ever, because we know the people of this section are not quitters.

The poet has expressed the determination of our citizens in the following lines:

"Out of the night that covers me
Black as the pit from pole to pole
I thank whatever Gods there be
For my unconquerable Soul
In the fell clutch of circumstance
I had not groaned or cried aloud
Under bludgeonings of chance
My head is bloody but unbowed,
It matters not how straight the gate,
How charged with punishment the scroll;
I am the master of my fate,
I am the captain of my Soul."

Fall Season Made For Winter Grain

Breaking an almost three months drouth, the largest rain since last June started falling here, Sunday night. The rain continued through Monday noon more than three inches having fallen in the time. The rain was general over this section of the state and Coleman county was drenched. It means a great benefit to the fall crops and has provided a season for the planting of winter grains. Slight damage was done to the cotton in the fields but this was more than offset by the storing of water in the tanks and cisterns and the benefit to the winter pasturage. It even caused a noticeable change in the atmosphere which seemed to revive the spirits of the people.

To The Friends And Customers Of The First National Bank

The officers and directors of The First National Bank of Santa Anna wish to express our thanks and appreciation to the depositors and patrons of the institution, and to the people in general for their whole-hearted loyalty and support in rallying to the plan for the protection of the financial interests of the bank and the community itself.

Especially, do we want to express our sincere appreciation for the 100 per cent response from the business and professional men of our town and community, for without this sacrifice of time and energy, and their council in a trying crisis, the wrecking of the institution itself could not have been averted.

We wish also, to include those depositors who are living outside of Santa Anna and community who so readily responded in a satisfactory manner thereby proving their confidence in the soundness of the institution and their concern for its usefulness in the community.

We believe we are living among the best people in the world and we know there is none better on the face of the earth.

In return for this expression of confidence and loyalty we pledge our sincere efforts to give you the same courteous treatment and the best service it is possible for us to render.

Mrs. Barnes Again Receives International Recognition

In a letter, written September 21st, from Paris, France, E. M. Channing-Renton, Editor of the International magazine, "Home & Abroad", hitherto published quarterly but now to appear but once a year, addressed Leola Christie Barnes in the following complimentary manner:

"It is a long time since I read such a fine poem as 'Unlaureled Glory' and I congratulate you. I am interested in your future and shall publish the poem in 'Home & Abroad'. You may expect to see it in the 1932 volume."

The first number of the new "Home & Abroad" to be published in January, 1932, will mark the eighth year of its existence, and to celebrate the occasion it will be packed with pages of Drama, Music, Cinema, Dance interest; fragments of Literature, with peeps into dress, health and domestic topics; unique Photographic studies; Travel and Motoring articles; scores of illustrations in colour and in black-and-white, and copious headpieces as well as cartoons and caricatures; Reviews of current Books and Periodicals—in fact, while losing none of the qualities which built up the old series, the 1932 "Home & Abroad" will be something NEW, with entirely fresh matter and a fine selection of authors, artists and photographers.

THE STARS OF YESTERDAY
Three players who were formerly screen stars of the first rank, appear in minor roles of "Ex-Bad Boy", Universal's sprightly comedy which is now showing at the Queen Theatre.

The most important part, that of a maid, is played by Grace Cunard, recognized a dozen years ago as the undisputed queen of the serials.

The other two former stars play only extra roles in the picture. One is Florence Turner, the "Vitagraph Girl" of early days. The other is Francis Ford, who was starred in many serials, as well as western and military "specials."

It simply illustrates the varying fortunes of "the business." The stars of yesterday are the "extras" of today.

How many of us remember the hair-raising serials that Grace Cunard and Francis Ford starred in? It is almost like meeting old friends to see their faces again.

"Ex-Bad Boy" features Robert Armstrong and Jean Arthur, and also includes in its cast Jason Robards, Lola Lane, George Brent, Grayce Hampton, Spencer Charters and Mary Doran. Vin Moore directed, and that means—a good picture!

GIRL SCOUT NEWS
The Girl Scouts met Monday afternoon, when plans were discussed for the float for the fair parade.

We are going to study ants this winter. Hettie Fae Todd has joined us and we hope that it won't be long until she is one of our lieutenants. Elizabeth Rollins was elected editor-in-chief of our Girl Scout annual. This is the first time we have tried to have one and we hope it will be a success. We will be looking for new girls at every meeting.

COUNTY B. Y. P. U.
The Coleman county Association of B. Y. P. U. will meet next Sunday afternoon at three at Burkett. The program will be in charge of the Santa Anna Union and will probably be "The Stewardship of Farmer Brown." See that your Union is represented. Have your reports ready to hand in and be there on time.

PASTOR RESIGNS
DEL RIO, Sept 29—"I am not in favor of light wines and beer; furthermore, I'm not afraid to come out in public and so declare myself."

Such was the statement here of the Rev. James F. Beck, church of Christ pastor, who also announced he had resigned as the chaplain of Val Verde Post No. 23 following the action of Del Rio Legionnaires who at their meeting for election of officers Thursday night turned in a 100 per cent ballot favoring light wines and beer.

As a result of the Rev. Black's resignation, Val Verde Post No. 23 is without a chaplain for the first time in the history of the local world war veterans' unit. The Rev. Black had been chaplain of the post about four years.

"I did not attend Thursday night" the minister announced. "If 19 members attending the session cast 19 ballots favoring light wine and beer, that is up to the post as a whole. The balloting compelled me to announce my resignation and to further state that I not only oppose light wines and beer, but that I am not backward about stepping out to so declare myself."

PROPHETS

We cannot think of anything quite so foolish as trying to predict what will happen next. There has arisen an unusually large crop of prophets in the past two years, some predicting a speedy return of prosperity, others telling us that we are in for many years more of hard times. We have our own opinions as to what is going to happen, but we try to keep them to ourselves. When it comes to predicting facts, we are sure only of a very few things.

We predict, for example, that there will be a lot more cold weather than warm weather between now and Spring. We feel reasonably safe on that point. We predict that there will be either a Democrat or a Republican elected to the Presidency next year and we don't believe anybody can hit it any closer than that as politics look now. We won't take a chance on predicting whether Henry Ford is going to bring out a new car for 1932 or not, but we feel safe in prophesying that if he does he'll sell a lot of them. We wish we knew whether the price of wheat and cotton were going up or down. We don't but we predict that, whichever way farm prices go, the political farmers will still be asking Uncle Sam to help them out. There are a few other things still in the future of which we are certain. Water will continue to run down hill, the sun will rise daily in the East as usual, and there will be just about as many fools on wheels breaking their own necks and others' next year as there were this year. We can't tell whether women are going to wear their hair and their skirts long or short, but we feel certain that whatever any man says they are going to do, they'll do the opposite.

Outside of a few certainties like that, because upon the unchangeable laws of nature, human and otherwise, we don't set up to be any kind of prophet. But we do predict that almost everything will be different next year and succeeding years from what they are today.

It would be a pretty dull world seems to us, if anybody could tell what is going to happen next. What makes life interesting is the variety there is in it.

AUTUMN

There is one thing in which America has it all over Europe. That is our Autumn season or as we usually call it the Fall of the year.

It must be admitted that we don't have very much of a Spring season, in most parts of this country. We go from Winter smack into summer. We don't understand what the English poets are talking about when they sing of Spring. But over there they go from Summer right into Winter, almost. There is none of that long-drawn-out season after harvest, when the leaves are turning and falling and, in the North, at least, there is a touch of frost in the early morning and the sweet smell of fallen leaves and Nature takes on a coat of gorgeous color before shifting to the somber gray of winter.

Fall is the season of play for the farmer. When the crops have been harvested and the Fall plowing done, there is a period before Winter sets in when hunting is at its best, when it is a pleasure to be out of doors with nothing of immediate importance to attend to. It is the season of relaxation after the heat and strain of the Summer, when folk can take time to sum up the result of the year's work and begin their plans for the next.

Thanksgiving Day, in most parts of this country, marks the end of Fall and the real beginning of Winter. Then we begin to look forward to Christmas and thence to next Spring. We hear travellers tell of countries where the seasons never change from one year's end to the other. It seems to us that half of the pleasure of life comes from the changing seasons and from looking forward to the next change.

Diversification is its keynote. . . living-at-home its preamble, prosperity its unceasing goal. Its initial purpose is educational, to exhibit the works of its agricultural leaders that others in the county might profit by exhibitor's success.

The importance of diversification will remain predominate at the exposition this year as in the past two. Never before in these preceding years has such splendid agricultural quality, expected for the fair this year, been on exhibition. . . never before has the citizenship of Coleman county co-operated so wholeheartedly in the fair.

This fact is due to two very outstanding reasons, the first because association leaders have worked unceasingly, co-operatively and consistently in the inevitable success of the fair. Second, because farmers of this county last year planted more feed, more food products and and launched the most extensive

A CRY in the night. Colic! No cause for alarm if Castoria is handy. This pure vegetable preparation brings quick comfort, and can never harm. It is the sensible thing when children are ailing. Whether it's the stomach, or the little bowels; colic or constipation; or diarrhea. When tiny tongues are coated, or the breath is bad. Whenever there's need of gentle regulation. And a more liberal dose of Castoria is always better for growing children than strong medicine meant only for adult use.

The Way of Life by BRUCE BARTON

THE SUN UPON YOUR WRATH

There is a certain family in this country, consisting of several brothers whose combined resources total many millions. They meet every day at luncheon and discuss whatever problems the day's work has developed. Often the debate is spirited, but when it is over they make their decision unanimous and always act as a unit.

All their financial operations are pooled. If one brother has a fortunate investment all share the benefit. If another takes a loss, it is charged to the common account.

What has preserved this remarkable partnership? One great rule. They never allow a disagreement to carry over into a new day. If two of them have had a falling out they MUST meet and settle it before the sun goes down.

I had an acquaintance who recently celebrated his twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. He said that when he and his wife were married they faced frankly the fact that some disagreements would inevitably arise. Therefore, they tried to remove in advance, two of the most common causes of misunderstanding.

First of all, money. Nothing causes more marital grief than the constant argument about expense. The husband who does not make the wife a regular allowance. The husband who does not try to ask for money, explain its needs and account for its expenditures, is sure of plenty of debate.

They decided what part of his income she ought to have. He then arranged that his salary check should be divided into two parts; her part was deposited not only in a separate account but in a different bank.

Second, jealousy. He said to her: "I love you and trust you. I know that you love and trust me. When my feeling changes I'll tell you, and I'll count on you to be equally honest. Until that time I am not going to ask you any questions or fret myself no matter what you do or whom you meet.

"As for the troubles which we could not foresee," he concluded "we agreed that we should never take them to bed. We would make up and forgive before night fall, and go to sleep in peace."

Many years ago St. Paul, writing to his friends the Ephesians, said: "Let not the sun go down upon your wrath."

What would happen in business and in marriage, if we all should try that good rule for a year?

FAMILY DOCTOR

ODDS AND ENDS

Since I last touched this subject, I have noticed in the big daily newspapers no fewer than twenty-five deaths have occurred from "heart disease" in one great metropolis of the middle-west.

Men—all of them. And none of them over sixty years old. All of them big, two-fisted, bull-necked fellows. Some of them were personal acquaintances of mine. They were go-getters, if you please; the city and state sustained a distinct loss when each died. There's a lesson here for all but the heedless.

The skinny, lanky, dyspeptic, plunderbund artist of the big town may go crazy but he doesn't die of "heart disease." Had you ever noticed that? The fellow that "spits up" once in a while, and is afraid to eat much. It's the fellow that weighs from 190 up, whose "heart" gets him like a shot; the fellow that carries the canvas-back, and tops it off with a hot chaser; that does not have time to dine till the day is done—the big forceful he-man of business.

Lessons—lessons—to the observing. Over-fueling at wrong hours. The big feed just before the night of rest. Breakfast and noon lunch negligible in quantity and bolted—swallowed whole!

The rush back to business—no time for eating and digesting properly, until that office closes at six. The road to "tuberculosis," blood-pressure, rotten arteries, "heart disease" at 50 or thereabout.

Better be skinny with a bundle of nerves and a cowhorn stomach in the mad chase for the dollar. Then, you can at least avert the heart disease benediction, the overstuffed wares of the mortician, the tall marble shaft,—all these, till you really want to die and have it over with.

Teacher—If Columbus were alive to-day, wouldn't he be looked upon as a remarkable man? Jimmy—I'll tell the world. He would 500 years old.

"I hope you are not one of those men who go home and find fault with the dinner," said Kidder.

"No," replied Growcher, "my wife and I eat at a restaurant where we both can find fault."

Hornblower—I heard that a handit relieved you of your pocketbook last night.

Windjammer—No relief for me, but he saved my wife the trouble.

"At 20 you left the farm and came to the city. And for 30 years you have been working like the dickens. What for?"

"In order to get money enough to live in the country."

"Yes," said the facetious bar-

bar, "we're up-to-date here. We shave you while you wait."

"Indeed!" replied Fuller Fen. "I've usually found that you shave several others while I wait."

Confidence

In a bank is born of the reliable service it has rendered in the past. Its conservative policy. The substantial amount of its capital and surplus and, above all, the integrity of its personnel. That THIS BANK has measured up to those qualifications is attested to by the fact that our depositors continue to "back it" by trusting it with their savings. And their number is constantly INCREASING—we are happy to say.
