US May Press For A Change In Iran Policy

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (R—The United States is prepared to press for a radical change in Britain's policies toward Iran If it appears such a step would help avert the danger of Communist seizure of Iran from the inside.

American officials, facing a new round of consultations with the British on the Iranian situation this week, appeared uncertain to day whether political conditions in Iran would offer opportunity for effective action by the Western powers. They were hopeful, however, that some steps could be taken fairly quickly.

Intensive talks to date have produced an understanding between Washington and London, informants said, that the best bet for blocking the intrigues of the Communist Tudeh party and of others who might play into Communist hands is to strengthen, if possible, the position of Premier Mohammed Mossadegh.

How that could be done is a problem.

the position of Premier Mohammed Mossadegh.

How that could be done is a problem.

American officials privately suggest that if Britain could find a way to relax its economic blockade of Iran and permit Iranian oil to be sold to the outside world Mossadegh's anti-Communist influence in his badly split country would be reinforced. This is because he would have gained both a political objective and 20 to 30 million dollars of income from stored oil.

Only by a drastic modification

The Iranian Senate's action came as a shock to official Washington and raised anew the question whether even Mossadegh is a strong enough "strong man" to constitute a defense against the Reds which the United States can back. The difficulty is that at the moment neither Washington nor London sees any destrable alternative to his leadership.

To Bury Truce

By SAM SUMMERLIN

Mike Monroney (D-Okla) proposed to day that the White House offer bury briefing on Korea and other interval to bury Korean armistice negotiations by stepping up air attacks on North Reds which the United States can back. The difficulty is that at the moment neither Washington nor London sees any destrable alternative to his leadership.

Of Indiana's Jenner we know little, But d Bricker and Kem, we know this: They ire more likely to appeal to the Old Guard lepublicans than the independent voters, vhose support Eisenhower must have to vin. And of McCarthy we know this: That he is the object of active revulsion on the part of many Republicans, most independents, and all Democrats. His assistance to Eisenhower will be a distinct disadvantage.

These men have amounced that they intend to attack the administration of Gov. Stevenson in Illin is for various "scandals." We believe such charges will be hard to support with facts and that such a campaign will win more votes for Stev-

Adlal Stevenson is an honorable and intelligent man, from all we can learn of him, and a campaign which sets out to drag his name through the mud in the well-known McCarthy tradition will bring discredit to the Republican Party and will pile up votes for the very man intended to barm.

Perennial Political Problem Is How To Get More Voters To Polls

Howard County did no better than the fest of Texas - which is no good - in its record at the polls in the first Democratic primary. About 57 per cent of the voting strength was tabulated at the ballot boxes, and only a little more than half of the total in the state voted, although there was a record turnout. Some observers are professing to find evidence in this that a great many Texans were "saving" their vote to cast it in the other side of the ticket in November. This is explained by saying that many voters did not know they would be free to go into the Democratic primary and vote for local and state candidates and then go into the November election and vote for a Republican candidate for the presidency. The split ticket is, of course, perfectly

Although there appears to be decidedly more interest in politics this year than in recent election, the slim vote in the primore or less in line with the World Report show that in 1940, people of voting age numbered 79.4 million and nearly 50 million votes were cast for all parties in the general election. That was

In 1948, potential voters numbered just under 94 millions but only 48.4 million votes were cast for all party candi-

This year the potential vote will run 100 million and if the same per centage go to the polls as in 1940 this will mean 14 million more votes than were cast in 1948 and this vote might well determine the outcome of the election.

The big problem for the major parties is to get the vote to the polls in November. And that is ironic. For the citizen's right of suffrage underlies all other rights of which Americans are prone to boast. Once it is lost, all other rights will be lost or in grave danger.

two American companies 1,300,000,000 barreis of Kuwait-Iran oil over a 20-year contract period.

"Thus these contracts result in the division of the production of Kuwait and Iran between the buyers and the sellers, and in effect, give them mutual and continuing interests in that production over a period of many years," continued the Federal Trade Compulsion.

"The significance of the contracts as in-struments for the control of the Middle East oil is further evidenced by the provisions restricting and controlling the marketing of oil."

The report then tells how the Gulf Oil Company agrees not to sell its oil "eastof in competition with the British-Dutch combine, and how Standard of N. J. and Socony could sell "not more than 5 per cent east of Suez.

"Jersey Standard and Socony, under the first purchase agreement," stated . the FTC report, "were to distribute their oil in Europe and North and West Africa. Socony, under the second purchase agreement, was to import its oil into the United States. In short, under these agreements, the three parties agreed upon the markets into which this oil was to flow."

The Federal Trade Commission also goes into interesting detail regarding the British - American - Dutch campaign to preach oil conservation "at a time when a rising flood of international production threatened to depress world prices."

Equally interesting is the story of joint oil contro in Venezuela, where originally the Mellon family's Gulf Oil predominated along with Rockefeller's Standard of New

"In the mid-1930's," states the PTC report, "it was evident that the impact of new production upon the world petroleum markets would concern all of the international oil companies, particularly Standard and Shell Accordingly, the various subsidiaries of Standard, Shell, and Gulf entered into agreements designed to attain the following objectives:

"I. The virtual elimination of Guff as an independent factor in Venezuela. This was complished by the transformation of the Mene Grande Oil Company, Gulf's operat-ing subsidiary in Venezuela, into a joint enterprise, owned and controlled by Gulf. and Standard (N.J.), and by attendant surrender by Gulf of valuable management prerogatives. Two so-called sale of oil agreements were the principal sedium for this transformation.

"2. The control and regulation of petroleum production of all Venezuela-eastern and westerr alike—so that Venezuelan output would, at all times, accord with the current world market situation as seen by the producing companies. A production quota system was set up to achieve

The control and regulation of the development of the newly discovered east-ern Venezuelan oil fields. This was accomplished partly by the re-creation of Mene Grande as a joint enterprise, partly by the production quota system, and part-ly by the morging of a major portion of the eastern Venezuelan holdings of Mene Grande and of Standard (N. The Justice Department has now called a special grand jury to probe allegations that American oil companies may be violating the law by combining with the British and Dutch However, it appears doubtful that the Sherman Antitrust Act has been violated, anne the oil operations have taken place outside the United States.

The Democrats, in their platform, accept centralized direction of American economic affairs as important and necessary. They're planners. They believe, for instance, in farm production quotas and marketing allotments.

The Republican platform, on the contrary, is laissez-faire in outlook: The least goernment is the best government.

Neither could a man fly to the moon with a pair of wings. Even if the wings worked, they would need air to work against. Most of the space between the earth and the moon is without air.

Ikeda estimated it would cost Japan more than 11 billion dollars to set up an army of 51 divisions, an air force of 5,000 planes and a navy similar in strength to the one the country had during the Pacific war. He said nearly three billion would be required annually to maintain such a force.

The total amount, Ikeda said, would be equal to Japan's entire national income.
