COOKING SCHOOL SCHEDULED NEXT WEEK

Under Direction of Home Economist With National Reputation

School Will Be Great Benefit To All Who Attend

Mrs. Stella Floyd, Home Economist, and Louis Hoffmaster, Electric Range Expert, will be in Santa Anna next week making preparations for the holding of a West Texas Utilities Company Cooking School on June 30 and July 1 and July 2nd, according to an announcement from V. Van Zandt, Local manager for the Company here.

The Shield building has been acquired, and preparations are being made to take care of the hundreds of progressive local home managers who are expected to attend the three days demonstration.

Mrs. Stella Floyd under whose direction the school will be held is an experienced Home Economist with a national reputation. The recipes she will make available for attending women will prove interesting and delicious. In addition to the demonstration and the recipes, Mrs. Floyd will explain the advantages of electric cookery, and will show how hours of time can be saved each week through following approved short cuts in cooking methods.

Cotton Production Urged As Special Session Subject

Austin, Tex., June 23—In the event a special session of the legislature is called, regulation of cotton production should be submitted as a subject for legislation, in the opinion of J. E. McDonald, commissioner of agriculture.

McDonald declared that soil conservation, as well as oil conservation, was fitting subject for legislation. His statement follows: "Press reports indicate that Governor Sterling may call a special session of the Texas legislature. Conservation of soil, as well as conservation of oil, should be submitted as a subject for legislation in the event of such a session.

"Both oil and cotton producers are proceeding as a demoralized mob, wastefully producing and thereby dissipating the natural resources of the state in a manner detrimental to the economic and social welfare of our people. Some definite and positive means of regulating both oil and cotton production must be established. This is imperative if we are to avert social as well as financial bankruptcy.

"The cases of oil and soil are virtually paralleled. The chief distinction is that vastly more people depend upon the soil, and more lives are affected by the price of cotton, than by that of oil. It is my hope that in case Governor Sterling finds it necessary to call a special session, the call will embody conservation of our natural resources, which, will include soil conservation our greatest, natural resource."

PROOF READERS DO MAKE MISTAKES SOMETIME

In the hurry and scurry to get the paper out last week, the proof reader made a big mistake. The price on steak at the Helpy-Selly market was really 19cents per pound instead of 9 as it read. We regret the mistake very much but there are times when even a proof reader makes errors.

Santa Anna Lions Visit Coleman Club

Joint Meeting And Banquet Enjoyed

The regular routine of business was transacted at the Lions Club luncheon Tuesday. About the usual number was present and the new officers are making a good start in the right direction for progress the ensuing year. Due to prevailing conditions the Club voted to hold only three meetings each month in the future, as a matter of economy.

Some twenty members of the local Club attended a joint meeting of the Lions Club and Kiwanis Club at Coleman, Wednesday at noon. The joint meeting was held for a three-fold purpose, possibly more. In the first place, the Coleman Lions Club was due the Santa Anna Club a banquet, as the result of an attendance contest conducted by the two clubs last year. Some of the Coleman lions have been trying to convey the idea that the Santa Anna lions, "by some hook or crook" outcounted the Coleman Club and won in the contest. Well, if the Santa Anna lions can out crook the bunch at Coleman they are certainly going some; but, as we intended to say, that when a Santa Anna lion undertakes to do a thing, he never stops until the job is complete, regardless of how crooked the path. Santa Anna lions have good intentions and prefer to travel the "straight and narrow path", but on the home stretch, if the trail becomes a winding affair, there's nothing like being equal to the occasion and coming home over the lonesome and winding trail.

The Coleman Lions took advantage of the opportunity, acting upon a tip from County Agent C. V. Robinson, procured from sheep raisers over the county, gratis, if you please, several lambs, "euchred" the good ladies of Coleman into preparing the trimmings, used the meeting as an advertisement for the "Eat More Lamb" Club, received the honor of entertaining several visitors, when, on its face, it was a settlement of a contest prize of long standing in the form of a well perpetrated joke. Well, the claims have all been settled and we are ready for another contest, but Santa Anna will dictate the terms.

Girl Drowned Near Colorado Bridge

Agnes Corinne Cathey, aged 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Cathey, 1101 Vine street was drowned in the Colorado river Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock while her mother and other women in a picnic party of thirty people were unable to get assistance in time. She was wading in the river about 25 miles from Brownwood near the Colorado river bridge on the Brownwood-Brady highway when she stepped from shallow water into an eight foot hole. Seven other children in wading with her did not get in the deep water.

The child was a member of a party of thirty employees of the Maytag Washing Machine Company and their families on the annual picnic of the company employees. Her father is service man for the local Maytag shop. After the picnicers had eaten lunch the children went to wade in the river with Mrs. Cathey and other women sitting on the bank to watch them. When the girl stepped into the deep water the women ran for the men who were over a high bluff from the river several hundred yards distance, playing baseball.

Dive for Body
By the time the men reached the river the body had sunk to the bottom. The men dived for fifteen minutes before the body was recovered. It was found only a few feet from where the child went down.

Artificial respiration was applied for about fifteen minutes before local physicians and an ambulance from the McInnis Funeral Home reached the scene. All possible means of reviving the drowned child were applied but to no avail.

Before the body was recovered and while the men were still diving, two youths Richard Kretschmar and Harold McArthur of San Angelo, in a twelve foot canoe enroute from San Angelo to Austin via the Concho and Colorado river came down the river. They gave assistance in carrying members of the party back and forth across the river and in helping apply artificial respiration.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the McInnis Funeral Home chapel with Rev. Hal Wingo of Santa Anna officiating. Interment was made in Greenleaf cemetery immediately following the services.

Agnes Corinne is survived by her parents and two sisters, Pauline, 8 and Denna Fay, 2—Brownwood Bulletin.

Mr. and Mrs. Cathey are former Santa Anna residents, having moved to Brownwood, just three weeks ago from here. Mrs. Cathey is a sister of Mrs. J. M. Slaughter. Mr. and Mrs. Slaughter and several Santa Anna friends attended the funeral Monday.

Cross Plains Invites Exiled King

Cross Plains, June 22—The citizens of Cross Plains believe in their town and county—so much so that they have invited Alfonso, exiled ruler of the Spanish house of Bourbon, to come and make his home among them. A citizens committee of more than 50 business men today framed and cabled a formal invitation to Alfonso at his villa near Paris. The invitation read, "We have been noting sympathetically the press dispatches of your difficulties abroad and wish to invite you to this particular section of the United States to make your home. Cross Plains, Callahan County, Texas, offers unmatched opportunities for investors and happiness seekers. Come to this haven of happiness and be one of us. Will appreciate reply."

The cablegram was signed "A Committee of Cross Plains Citizens."
If Alfonso doesn't like the climate in Cross Plains, he would not be inconvenient to move over to Santa Anna, where he would find things ideal.

W. C. T. U.

The W. C. T. U. will have their regular meeting next Wednesday afternoon July 1st. This will be an open air meeting and will be held in the park. A good program is being arranged and all members urged to be present and to bring a friend.

Greenland is an Island.

Exhibits Being Planned For The Coleman Fall Fair

Exhibits Will Be Best In History Of County Fair

Coleman, June 21—County Farm Agent C. V. Robinson and Miss Gertrude Brent, Coleman County home demonstration agent, are planning for the third annual Coleman County Fair, Robinson is urging farmers to save their best grain for exhibition and Miss Brent declares that women in her home demonstration clubs are ready for the fair with a fine assortment of canned goods.

There will be an exceptional exhibit of sheep, poultry and livestock. The county, from an exhibit standpoint, is in better shape this year for a fair than it has ever been.

NEED BETTER LAWS, NOT MORE LAWS

This country is surfeited with laws. There are so many statutes that it is utterly impossible for the average citizen to be conversant with them even superficially. This superfluity of statutory law tends to lower general respect for law. It should be the purpose of all legislative bodies to keep down to the minimum the number of legislative enactments.

Fewer laws, and laws of better quality, is the supreme need of the hour, throughout the Nation, says an exchange.

Library To Be Opened Twice Each Week

The Library board announces that the Library will be kept open on both Wednesday and Saturday afternoons from 3:00 until 6:00 during July and August. Those wishing to join or renew their membership may do so by paying 50 cents. This will entitle them to membership until next March.

J. E. Ford, of the Georgia School of Technology arrived on Monday to spend a few days with his parents and friends. He leaves Saturday for Elizabethton, Tenn. where he is employed during the summer as a chemist with the American Glastoff Rayon corporation.

Averaging 50 bu to Acre; Jim Daniels Gets 103

Gardens and Truck Patches Assure Winter Vegetables

A grain crop that is equaled only by the 1919 crops is being harvested in this territory. More than fifty car loads have been shipped from Santa Anna and the crop is hardly half gathered. While the price is unusually low, thanks to the Federal Farm Board, it is estimated that the crop will put about thirty-five thousand dollars into circulation here, beside giving the farmers plenty of feed to carry them through the next planting season. The average crop is yielding around fifty bushels to the acre, some getting only thirty while numbers are fortunate enough to reap seventy-five, and on the Jim Daniel place, five miles south of town, the yield is 103 bushels to the acre, the best we have heard of this season and equaled only once before when Ed Wallace harvested 105 bushels to the acre in 1905.

The farmers are holding as much of the crop as they can possibly care for, as the price will probably go up right away and too, the oats will bring more when turned into beef or produce.

There is a wonderful garden yield this year and the people are canning as never before. Almost every farmer in the entire community is following the "live at home" program, canning, pickling, drying and preserving everything edible; for there is a surplus of everything excepting fruits. When the farmer lives at home, that leaves him money to spend on clothes, linen, hardware, gas and repairs for the family car, that has been neglected for so long and for a few of the pleasures that have been cut down on to get by.

Here For The Summer
Miss Glenda Ford, who has been teaching in the public schools in Dallas, is spending the summer in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Ford.

C. B. Verner spent the weekend in Amarillo visiting relatives Mrs. Verner and the boys, who have had quite an extensive visit there, returned home with him.

ROWENA RIDES THE RUMBLE

COPYRIGHT 1931 BY THE AUTHOR

FIRST INSTALLMENT

The whole trouble lay with Peter—Peter Blande. He was the fly in the ointment, the blot on the escutcheon, the carbon knock in the motor. Things just couldn't have worked out more to Rowena's fancy, except for the persistent presence of Peter. And there was absolutely no hope of getting rid of him—he was too deeply mixed up in everything.

To tell the truth, it was Peter's project in the first place. Rowena herself only got into it at the last minute in answer to an advertisement in the morning paper. It was Peter who put the ad in.

Peter was a commercial artist one of those thrice unfortunates with a soul for art, a talent for paint and a need for more ready money. He spent his days painting trees, rocks and running brooks, dotted here and there with pretty girls, Algonquin anglers and Broadway golfers, as a background for the Rackruff Roadster, 1931 model, comprising fully half the picture.

It was Peter who conceived the exquisite idea of a Rackruff motor tour across country with the well known artist, Peter Blande, at the wheel. He figured—and converted Mr. Rack, President, and Mr. Ruff, Secretary and Treasurer, to his figures—that it would be the pinnacle of publicity to conduct such a tour, with pauses at all points of prime interest for him to paint a picture of the Rackruff roadster poised on the brink of a precipice, pulling its way pluckily out of a volcano, skidding securely off a racing glacier, or defying the sands of the desert.

Peter said, and Messrs. Rack and Ruff agreed with him—it would be good business to take a copy-writer along in the car to feature the high lights of the trip and apply the proper adjectives both to landscape and motor, in this way insuring a maximum of newspaper publicity.

that would establish the new roadster once and for all in the motor mind of America.

So Peter advertised for a copy writer.

"Wanted," read the advertisement in the morning papers. "A pretty woman who can write. One who has had some experience and met with reasonable success. Must be free to leave the city. Expenses paid and moderate salary. Must be good-looking. Apply Rackruff Salesrooms today."

Rowena Rostand was one of many women who read the advertisement over her breakfast that morning. It wasn't much of a breakfast in Rowena's case, for she was extremely hard up. She had given up a newspaper position in Ohio in order to be in New York.

It was at eight-thirty that she saw the advertisement. By nine o'clock she was ready to set out for the Rackruff salesrooms. Surveying herself in the mirror she was obliged to admit fairly that in spite of the little thinning of her face, in spite of the dark circles with which anxiety had shadowed her eyes, she was still undeniably good-looking.

Her black and white ensemble was freshly sponged and pressed—Rowena herself had seen to that—her ruffled white blouse was smart in spite of the worn spots here and there. Her black and white shoes were spotless, the fingers of her gloves neatly mended. The collar of her silk coat shone from countless pressings.

"Pick out the best-looking one," Mr. Rack began when the secretary announced the applicants were outside.

"Don't you think," interposed Peter neatly, "in his mind, in evaluating draws, that you had better look them over yourself? After all, nobody can visualize a lovely face and figure behind the wheel of a Rackruff roadster as you can, you know."

Mr. Rack thought that was a particularly good idea. He called in Mr. Ruff to assist, allowing Peter also to sit by, and had the secretary usher them in, one at a time. And he and Mr. Ruff frowned over them, and asked about their literary efforts, and noticed their eyes and ankles and complexions, jotting down indecipherable comments on their memorandum pads.

The secretary having some notions of dramatic sequence, saved Rowena for the last. Rowena was so lovely that at first they would not believe she was a writer at all, and she had to show them a copy of her book and some of her signed stories in magazines. Rowena's hair was a curious chameleon shimmer of gold and bronze and brown. Her eyes were limpid pools of light and swam now blue, now green, and in gentle moments softened to hazel.

"I'm Rowena Rostand," she said, looking at them straightforwardly. "I am twenty-five years old. I have had one book published and it was so good that practically nobody read it. I worked on a newspaper for three years and I've had eleven stories published in first-class magazines. And you may not think I'm so very good-looking, but lots of people do."

Rackruff Motors, Inc., in the persons of Messrs. Rack and Ruff, thought so, too. Even Peter nodded his approval.

And so Rackruff Motors, Inc., bound itself by written agreement to finance a motor tour for a party consisting solely of a beautiful young writer twenty-five years old and a commercial artist thirty years and the opposite sex.

Rowena and Peter were called in for a conference early the next morning, and Mr. Ruff, put it up to them squarely. Somebody had blundered, everybody had blundered, if it came to that. An insurmountable difficulty had been encountered.

"There are no insurmountable difficulties," Rowena said sweetly.

The whole enterprise was dead locked, plans were checkmated, contracts were canceled. The way Mr. Rack put it, with the full accord of Mr. Ruff, it seemed pretty hopeless. Peter quite wilted under the deadly finality of it all.

"Unless," he suggested tentatively, "we advertise again and get an older author, maybe a married one—suppose a little less good looking would be better under the circumstances—would attract less attention?"

"But you signed me," protested Rowena quickly. "If you try to put any one else in my place, I'll get out an injunction and tie up everything."

Rowena's eyes at that moment were a clear, cold, business blue. Not one of them doubted for a moment that she would do just as she threatened.

Mr. Rack threw out his hands despairingly. "Well, it's off, that's all," he declared.

And Mr. Ruff nodded his head. Peter seemed cowed into acquiescence. But Rowena was never one to be cowed into acquiescence. She laughed brightly.

"Why, my dears," she said, "it doesn't make the least bit of difference. This is a business trip. I am a professional writer. Mr. Blande is a professional artist. We are thrown together in a purely business capacity and our ages and sexes have nothing whatsoever to do with it. Nobody thinks anything of a man spending eight hours a day locked into four walls with his stenographer. Certainly an author and an artist riding the public highways in an open car are far safer."

Unfortunately for Rowena, however, Messrs. Rack and Ruff continued to object. Even Peter did. They made all due allowance for Rowena's purity of purpose and nobility of nature, but Rackruff Motors, Inc., said Mr. Rack, stood firm for the conventions.

"Of course, if you feel like that," Rowena said cheerfully. "Mr. Blande and I will be guided entirely by your wishes. We will have to get a chaperon; that's all."

"We wouldn't care about paying the expenses of a third party," said Mr. Ruff quickly.—Mr. Ruff was Treasurer of the Company.

It will not be necessary," said Rowena. "We will take a lady with us who will be glad to make the tour for her transportation, paying her own living expenses en route."

"Can you find such a person?" asked Mr. Rack.

"Certainly," said Rowena brightly. "Leave everything to me."

"What are you going to do?" asked Peter.

"The same thing you did. Advertise!"

So they went down the street to the nearest Childs' and figured out an advertisement that seemed to suit their purpose.

"Wanted: Young woman to serve as companion on extensive motor tour of the United States. Transportation provided, but must pay own living expenses."

Peter wanted to put in something about a pleasant disposition being an asset, but Rowena thought they had good dispositions.

"You advertised for a good looking author, didn't you? And did you see the mob that answered?—We'll have to trust her disposition to luck. Besides, she will be in the rumble seat—we won't see much of her."

They received a great many answers to the advertisement and Peter went down to assist in making the selection. This proved not difficult.

The letter chosen was written on plain creamy paper of very fine quality.

"I am twenty-three years old, college graduate, and can pay my own expenses unless you plan to travel on a very deluxe scale. I can start at any time and stay as long as you like. The only thing I am really interested in is to go—and go at once. I enclose references."

The name was Roberta Lowell. The references were good so Rowena got the number on the telephone, with Peter standing interestedly by, and talked to Roberta Lowell.

"She has a nice voice," she whispered to Peter.

Miss Lowell said she could start on Monday morning, that she could get all of her traveling equipment in one suitcase and a small traveling bag, and that she had an allowance of twenty-five dollars a week.

"Wait a minute," Rowena put her hand over the transmitter. "She can spend twenty-five a week," she said to Peter.

"Well, that ought to be enough," said Peter. "Except for the car, I'm hoping to get along on less."

Miss Lowell said she would meet them, bag and baggage, at the Rackruff show-room at ten o'clock Monday morning, without fail, and she thought it was going to be great fun.

"Oh, by the way, Miss Lowell—"

"Oh please don't call me Miss Lowell. Call me Bobby. Everybody calls me Bobby. Miss Lowell is so stiff."

"Well, by the way, Bobby Lowell," went on Rowena, "You'll have to ride in the rumble seat."

"I don't care," was the brave retort, "I'll be willing to ride a cowcatcher to get out of New York and get out quick."

Now Rowena did not like artists. She said they were so abstract. Rowena herself was extremely concrete. She felt, in her heart of hearts, that it was a shame that such a heavenly opportunity to go places, see things meet people—and best of all make money doing it!—had to be all messed up with an artist like Peter. Even Rowena, however could see that she couldn't very well get rid of him—not

Consider your Adam's Apple!!* Don't Rasp Your Throat With Harsh Irritants

"Reach for a LUCKY instead"

When you visit your physician for your periodic health examination, one of the very first things he asks you to do is to open your mouth wide, and to say "Ah." He is examining the delicate lining of your throat. "Ah!" There is not a man or woman who could even make this simple sound, if in the throat there were no Adam's Apple. For your Adam's Apple is your larynx—the voice box containing your vocal chords. And what a delicate piece of Nature's handwork the Adam's Apple is. A slight cold—even a tiny particle lodged in the throat—and our voice often grows husky. In acute cases, we may even lose our voice for several days. Don't rasp your throat with harsh irritants—Reach for a LUCKY instead—remember, LUCKY STRIKE is the only cigarette in America that through its exclusive "TOASTING" process expels certain harsh irritants present in all raw tobaccos. These expelled irritants are sold to manufacturers of chemical compounds. They are not present in your LUCKY STRIKE. No wonder 20,679 American physicians have stated LUCKIES to be less irritating. LUCKIES are always kind to your throat. And so we say "Consider your Adam's Apple."

Things Are Picking Up

Cotton Booster's Group Will Start Functioning

Austin, Tex., June 23—Aims of the Association for the Increased use of cotton were outlined here today by J. E. McDonald, commissioner of agriculture, as plans were laid for promoting the organization in Texas.

The official set-up of the Texas division was completed, with the exception of an advisory committee and executive secretary, at a recent meeting in College Station, and a membership campaign will be started soon, McDonald said.

The commissioner explained that the association hoped to act as a link between the research bureau, which develops new uses for cotton, and the consuming public. He pointed out that many agencies such as the Cotton-Textile Institute, the research bureau of the U. S. Department of agriculture, and various experiment stations are continually testing new uses of the snowy staples, but there has been heretofore, no agency to bring these findings to the consumer.

One of the early aims of the association, he asserted, would be to convince Congress of the need for a rule providing for the sale of cotton on the basis of net, instead of gross weight, in order that cotton and jute bagging might be placed on an equal competitive basis. The jute bagging weighs seven pounds more than the cotton bagging and therefore the cotton bale is penalized by seven pounds, although the cotton bagging has been proved superior in every way except weight.

The association also will urge the use of more cotton in its many known forms and its less widely known forms.

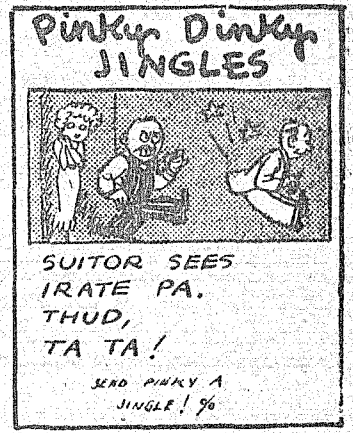

"Obviously, the association can not accomplish its purposes single handed," McDonald said. "It hopes, therefore, to enlist the aid of chambers of commerce in this patriotic project. It hopes to enroll members in every community—active, working members, not only using more cotton themselves, but inducing their neighbors to go and do likewise."

Officers of the Texas division elected at the meeting at College Station, were as follows:

President, Commissioner McDonald; vice-president, G. D. Ulrich, general manager of Sugarland Industries; John D. Rogers, Navasota, president of the Texas Certified Cottonseed Breeders Association; Miss Lillian Peck, state department of education, Austin. Secretary-treasurer, D. T. Killough, in charge of cotton work, at the College Station experiment station. The executive committee: W. B. Lee, chairman of the agricultural committee, Texas Bankers Association; A. H. Leidigh, dean of Texas Technological College; R. E. Nichols, president of Texas Press Association, Vernon; W. A. Sherman, president, Texas Cottonseed Products Ass'n Houston; James A. Smith, president, Texas Cooperative Cotton Association, Paris; Col. C. S. E. Holland, former chairman, agricultural committee, Texas Bankers Association, Houston; and O. B. Martin, director of extension service, College Station.

Blanton Hits Hoover Debt Plan

Abilene, Tex., June 23—Congressman Thos. L. Blanton, returning yesterday from Washington, wrathfully denounced the Hoover plan of a one year moratorium on inter-governmental debts.

Asserting that Americans are more concerned "with our own six millions walking the streets without work," Blanton called the President's proposal "an unprecedented usurpation of legislative power—an authority inherent alone in Congress—never before attempted by any other executive."

The West Texan called attention to a $900,000,000 deficit in the American treasury. He declared that "while other countries will be granting a moratorium only to Germany, Mr. Hoover is forcing us to grant a moratorium to all countries. No American opposes a sane tariff for revenue, such as will equalize the cost of production of American products in this as against all foreign countries, and such as will maintain our institutions and uphold American standards of living; but the thousand million dollars annually Mr. Hoover's administration is giving in tariff subsidies to contributors of Republican campaign expenses has built around the United States an impregnable wall that has stopped trading, and keeps Europe from buying from us. Europe naturally hates us and retaliates in every way possible."

Hoover Generosity

"At the proper time and in a constitutional way. Americans would gladly match the generosity of all countries to relieve distressed Germany. But under our constitution only Congress can appropriate and apply public money, or grant a moratorium concerning debts foreign countries owe us. While Congress would likely authorize this European relief, at the same time granting proper relief at home this is but another example of Hoover generosity to foreign peoples at the expense of Americans, and of his cold blooded niggardly, unsympathetic treatment of his own countrymen. When American farmers impoverished by three successive crop failures, resulting from unprecedented drouths, could not pay their interest to federal land banks, President Hoover and the last Congress were implored to suspend foreclosures for one year Mr. Hoover had his department prevent a sympathetic Congress from granting such a moratorium, and many American farm homes were foreclosed.

Hot Wells Of Brownwood Are Becoming Ailing Man's Necessity

Many Find Baths Beneficial And Pleasing Recreation

Many people of Central West Texas are ignorant of the fact that the Hot Wells of Brownwood Texas is proving a natural benefit to the ailing men and women of this section of the state. This summer resort is situated about two miles south of the city of Brownwood and in its two large pools thousands of people swim each year. If you are bothered with some physical disturbance or feel badly and run-down, it might be wise to visit the Hot Wells of Brownwood as this wonderful mineral water has the following analysis as given by the State Chemist: Sodium Chloride, 11.08; Potassium Chloride, 230.05; Calcium Bicarbonate, 454.00; Calcium Sulphate, 49.05; Magnesium Sulphate, 329.00; Silica, 30.00; and Iron Bicarbonate, 66.03. There is also up-to-date equipment at the well for hot tub baths and expert attention as to rub downs and health advice.

The swimming pools have been remodeled and the bath houses rebuilt throughout making them more convenient and attractive under the capable management of Mr. L. B. Johnston of Oklahoma City, who has had many years experience in the swimming pool business. Mr. Johnston says it is his honest effort to run a clean, sanitary, sane and safe pool this season. There will be no dances held at Hot Wells this year and instead the second floor of the bath house will be used for parties and picnics of all kinds. There is to be no charge for holding these parties in the space provided and Sunday School classes, churches and societies are invited to make use of the space at any time this season. For the safety of the people who swim in the pool there will be two life guards on duty at the pool, one during the afternoons and both in the evenings. Major mf vbg bgkthmwf dings.

Every sanitary safeguard possible is used by the management for the safeguard of their patrons. The Pools are drained and refilled every 10 days, all suits are laundered by Shaws Laundry before use for each individual bather, antiseptic foot baths are maintained for use so that infection may not be carried into the pools from the feet of the bathers, no smoking or tobacco chewing is allowed inside the bath house and a large fence enclosing the grounds keeps all animals from entering the pools or grounds.

W. Carl Williams, manager of the Wichita Falls Ball Club, was a visitor here last week-end.

West Texas Utilities Extension

Extensive improvements on existing electric and water facilities and the construction of new lines to serve additional customers are current construction activities of the West Texas Utilities Company, according to the latest bulletins from the general offices.

Electric extensions will be made at Vernon, where a three wire secondary line will be strung to serve additional lighting demands in West Vernon, and at Goodlet, where a new 2,300 volt line will furnish power for the operation of a grain elevator.

Rural electric lines will be built south of Vernon, and at Estelline. Both of these extensions will serve new customers.

Distribution systems at Etter, Mason and Sunray will be extended and improved, according to the report. At Etter, the third phase of the 6,900 volt primary distribution system will be extended over one-half mile to serve the R. E. Roberts Grain Company and other customers. At Mason, the system will be improved and new feeders installed to balance the load. At Sunray, the 6,900 volt system will be extended to carry service to new customers.

A 2,300 volt line and transformer equipment will be installed in the South Vernon oilfield to serve the power demand of the Stanolind Oil Company.

Extensive water improvements will be made, at San Angelo, where over 2,700 feet of six-inch water main will be installed, and at Dalhart and Stratford, where two-inch mains will be extended to serve new customers. The Stratford extension will also furnish water to the new Stratford public school.

According to the company's construction department, work on the projects listed is going forward at the present time, with completion dates scheduled in the near future.

SEVENTH DISTRICT LEGION CONVENTION AT LLANO JUNE 22, 1931

The quarterly meeting of the 17th District, Department of Texas, American Legion, will meet at Llano on July 4-5. As this is the last district meeting preceding the meeting of the State convention, and as it comes on a holiday, a large crowd of delegates and visitors are expected. Committees from the local post of the American Legion, and from the Auxiliary have been appointed and preparations are well under way.

Among the items of entertainment are a rodeo, a free barbecue and a dance. The Llano country is full of scenic interest; among points of interest to visitors are Enchanted Rock and the new Hamilton Dam being constructed on the Colorado near its junction with the Llano.

The citizens of Llano especially the members of the Legion are busily preparing for a huge crowd of delegates and visitors to the meeting of the 17th district American Legion Convention July 4-5.

Some of the best speakers of the state are slated to appear on the program and plans for the entertainment of the visitors between the sessions of the convention are moving forward.

Cecil Cone, Post Commander, states that everything is in readiness, while Adjutant E. E. Martin, states that indications are that all the posts in the district will be represented. Convention headquarters will be in the new Hotel Llano.

Miss Aline Harper is attending the Young People's League meet in Georgetown, this week, in the interest of the local league.

MEAT

Meat packers are making a great to-do over the advice of the U. S. Public Health Service that people should eat less meat in Summer. The packers have sent a protest to the Government saying that Eskimos live on meat the year around and do not suffer from it.

This is an interesting example of the way in which commercial interests try to influence Government affairs. The public health is a secondary consideration with the packers; they are concerned with selling more meat.

Americans are the largest meat eaters in the world. Also we have the highest rate of deaths from heart disease and hardening of the arteries. I asked an eminent heart specialist the other day whether there was any connection between these two facts. His reply was that meat is a highly concentrated source of muscular energy which should be used sparingly by everybody who does not regularly do a great deal of heavy physical work or exercise.

"Eat what you like, but all in moderation," was his advice, which sounds like good common sense.

Mrs. Mike Johnson of Brownwood was a business visitor here, Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Brown were here Wednesday on their way to see Mr. Brown's brother, Willis Brown of the Brown Ranch community, who is seriously ill.

under the circumstances. If only she and the Roberta girl could go alone now—ah, there would be a travel worth the telling. And how they would photograph the two of them, in the snappy 1931 Rackruff roadster! The publicity they would get!
 Mindful that there would be photographers to record their departure from the Rackruff Salesrooms—the Publicity Department was taking care of all that!—Rowena took extreme pains with her appearance that Monday morning, and that was an unusual thing with Rowena.
 When she presented herself at the Rackruff show-room at ten o'clock on Monday morning Messrs. Rack and Ruff had good reason to congratulate themselves on their choice of author. Photographers and reporters were alike enchanted. A girl like that, now swinging along the Rocky Mountains in a Rackruff roadster—ah, there was publicity made to your order. And it was all Peter's idea, too. Continued Next Week.

BY RADFORD MOBLEY

There is no longer any question in the minds of political gossips here as to who is the leading candidate for the Democratic nomination for President in 1932. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Governor of New York is much more strongly entrenched in the lead today than Al Smith was at this time four years ago, while his position is a thousand times better than that of Woodrow Wilson in 1911.

No attempt has been made to try and line up delegates for the big convention this far in advance, although Governor Roosevelt's "non-political" visit to Ex-Governor Cox of Ohio, the 1920 candidate when Roosevelt ran in second place on the ticket, and to George White, the present governor, drew the statement from Mr. Cox that he would be glad to support Roosevelt for the nomination, while Mr. White proved more than friendly to Roosevelt.

What the hot weather prophets look upon as the greatest boost for the New York governor is the public announcement by Col. Edward Mandell House that he wants Roosevelt to run and will be glad to do anything to further his prospects. If Col. House should be made Roosevelt's campaign manager it will mean that the Republicans will have to extend themselves to win House's support of Wilson proved the turning point in the war president's career, and Wilson's victory was largely due to the astute politics played by the man from Texas. Col. House, in his statement, declares if Roosevelt is defeated for the nomination, he will back Newton D. Baker as his second choice.

In many ways Col. House is the most powerful politician in the Democratic ranks, if not in the entire country. A millionaire, he has shown not the slightest desire for political preferment for himself, declining the highest offices in the gift of President Wilson. He is a politician out of sheer love for the game. Although 73 years old he is wiry and active and can hold his own with much younger men physically.

Col. House is a "dry" politically, but is well liked by the "wets" for his stand against national prohibition. He is believed to have inspired Wilson's famous letter in which he declared that prohibition was a local question and should be kept out of national politics. Roosevelt, while a dry personally, holds the same position as Wilson on liquor, that it is not a matter for Federal Government but a purely local question.

Being a dry has not been easy for Col. House. The Democrats of Texas split wide open years ago on the liquor question and it needed all of Col. House's astuteness to pull victory out of the fire caused by the gaps made in his fences by the question. If he handles Roosevelt's campaign it will be up to him to manoeuvre so that the wets and dries of his party can find a common basis on which to work for the success of the national ticket. A "moist plank" will have to be explained very carefully to the Southern Democrats but, if anyone can make them adopt such a plank, it is felt that Col. House is that man.

Washington gossips believe that John J. Raskob's effort to "put over" Al Smith again is already a failure, and that Governor Ritchie of Maryland, an out-and-out wet, right now is Roosevelt's leading opponent for the nomination. His stand on liquor is felt to be against him, much as he is liked personally. At the present moment, close students of politics can see nothing but a race between Hoover and Roosevelt in the 1932 presidential campaign and the New Yorker, with the prestige of following exactly in Wilson's footsteps as far as the liquor question is concerned, and the advantage of having the same sponsor as Wilson, is in a most powerful position, even his opponents say.

Woodrow Wilson has been dead seven years and it is ten years since he left the White House to become a private citizen. In those years his enemies have exhausted their vituperations and the real Wilson is beginning to emerge as a popular figure. Lincoln was only a Republican idol until some forty years ago, when the whole country began to understand that he belonged to all parties and his true greatness began to be appreciated. Wilson's memory is undergoing the same process and the coming campaign may see his name used with that of Jefferson for the purpose of conjuring votes for Roosevelt.

GAMBLING

A colored man in Boston won $150,000 in a gambling pool on the British Derby. Thousands of other Americans won large sums and the city newspapers have printed columns about their winnings, which will make it easier for the sellers of chance on these events to rope in more suckers next year. Lotteries and other forms of gambling are illegal in most of the United States, but it is questionable whether they do any more harm than unlimited speculation in stocks or grain. The desire to get some thing for nothing is inherent in human nature. Mankind has always gambled and always will.

Nevada has recently legalized gambling and is licensing gambling establishments. A curious result of this is that a great gambling center will be set up close to the Government's "model city" at the Boulder Dam, on a twenty-acre strip which the authorities overlooked in acquiring land for the town site. Prohibition laws, it is said, will be strictly enforced but it is easy to foretell where a considerable part of the wages paid to workers on the big dam will go.

TELEVISION

So many miracles have been performed by science in the past few years that we are ready to believe that anything is possible. That explains why the public has been so easily "sold" on the idea that, before long we shall be able to see distant events while they are occurring, by radio television. Scientific experiments in this field are not so confident. The technical problems to be overcome are the most difficult they have ever encountered. Leaders in radio development are hopeful but not certain. H. P. Davis, "father of broadcasting," Lee De Forest, inventor of the radio tube, Harold A. La Fount, of the Federal Radio Commission, Ray H. Manson, president of the Institute of Radio Engineers, and several others have recently stated that it will be years before broadcast television will be commercially practical, if at all. Today a small picture in motion can be sent by radio, or better by wire, over apparatus which costs about $100,000 at each end of the line. That is the best that has been done so far. Thousands of clever engineers are working on the problem of improving and cheapening television, but few are willing to promise anything very definite.

The equator crosses Brazil. STATE ADOPTS U. S. CODE FOR TESTING WEIGHTS

Austin, Texas June 23—Standards of the U. S. Department of Commerce for weighing and measuring devices will be put in to effect in Texas under an enactment of the 42nd Texas legislature, according to M. S. Frazee chief of weights and measures in the state department of agriculture.

The new law authorizes the state to adopt those rules for tolerance in testing scales and measuring devices which have been found by the federal bureau of standards to be practical. A tolerance in a scale is the amount of variation allowed from absolute accuracy.

A gasoline pump, for instance may be accurate for all practical purposes, yet may vary under the tolerance regulation, as much as seven cubic inches on a five gallon tank, that capacity tank containing approximately 1,100 cubic inches.

Tolerance is allowed to take care of the natural effect of use upon scales, in order that the merchant may get a fair commercial return on his scales, consistent with fairness to consumers, before it becomes necessary to purchase new equipment.
