

GLASS FACTORY NOW OPERATING

People who have been here for almost fifty years say that when they first came to this country they heard talk of using the sand in the Santa Anna mountains for making glass. Time and again efforts have been made to interest outside capital in the erecting of a factory here for that purpose. Such discouragement had been met that when the reports went out last year that the factory was an assured thing at last, people scoffed.

When construction of the railway spur was begun and the erection of the factory building was actually started, then, these who had hoped so long began to realize that the plans and work of a generation had not been in vain.

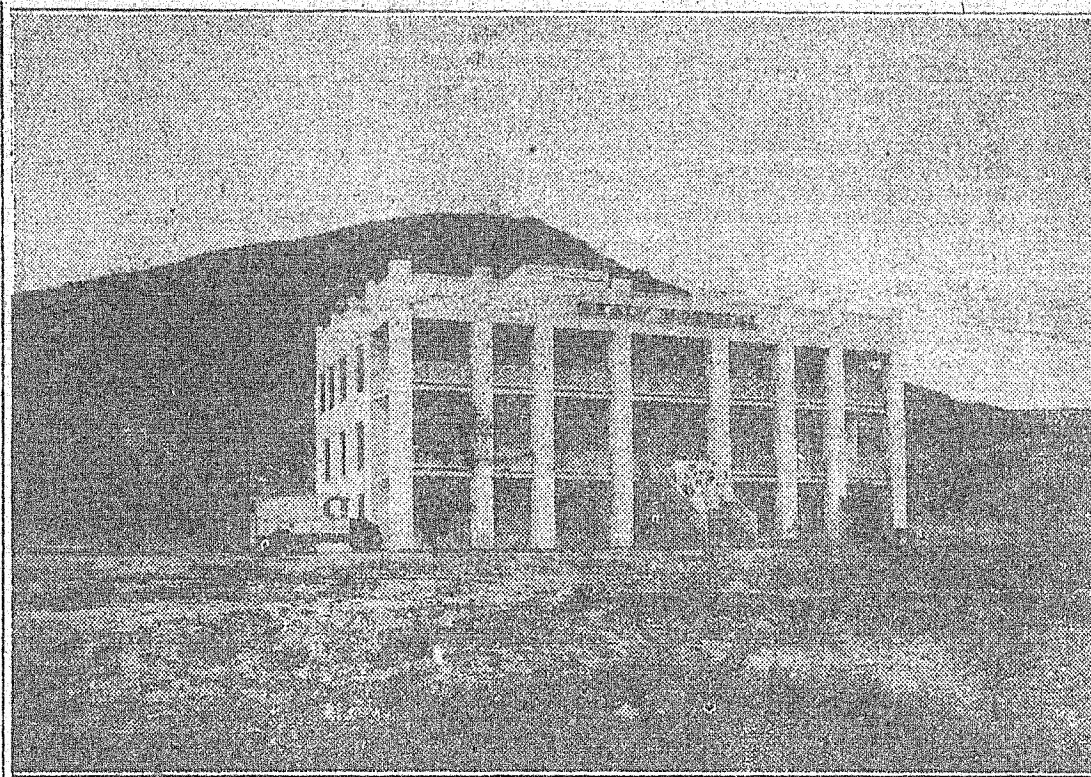

Work on the building, installation of the machinery and the adjustment that has to be made on all mechanism of this nature has been rushed. It is remarkable that so much has been accomplished within the past six months.

Since the first of April some bottles have been made each day. An almost continual stream of visitors has been presented with glass souvenirs; walking canes, dippers, flowers, and clever novelties, besides the numbers of imperfect bottles which are appropriated daily.

The glass is marvelously clear—to the Santa Anna people—it looks different, finer, better, from other glass.

Mr. McClellan purchased the first dozen bottles made. He sent one to each of his children, one goes with his son David to South America, another to a daughter in Pennsylvania—the story of the first dozen bottles would be interesting.

While turning out glassware daily, the plant is by no means complete, and is not running to full capacity as yet. More machines will be installed at an early date, a larger working force will be necessary, carloads of bottles now contracted for will be delivered. All of this will happen within a very short time.

The Journal of the American Medical Association, says of this Institution: The Sealy Hospital is a general Hospital, individually owned, has 36 beds, with a daily average of 18 Patients, 2 bassinets, established in 1917. It has a school of Nursing, whose curriculum, is recognized by Texas State Board of Nurse Examiners. Has a complete Laboratory, an ex-ray and complete modern equipment throughout. There are three graduate staff nurses and 14 student nurses and a $10,000.00 Nurses home.

In the years to come—who can tell? but we look forward to other plants locating here. Bot-ties are not the only commodity made of glass. There is plenty of sand- gas- electricity- and people who need the work to supply a dozen plants. And, if these institutions come other enterprises will be attracted. Then, will the hopes of the plo-neers be called mere fantastic day dreams?

Mesdames Ross Kelley and Auther Turner were Brownwood visitors Friday.

C. G. Madox of Coleman was a business visitor here Monday.

BARLETT & DOZIER HELP BRING GLASS PLANT HERE

Two of the big items of expense connected with the manufacture of any kind of glassware are silica and fuel. Providence favored Santa Anna in that its two mountains, skirting the town on the north, embracing a total of about 800 acres, contained a bed forty feet thick of sand which assays 99.52 Silica.

Some 20 years ago Fred W. Turner of Santa Anna induced certain capital to cooperate with him in prospecting this part of Coleman county for oil and gas. They met with sufficient showing of both to warrant further drilling and some 17 years ago the Santa Anna Oil and gas field was opened up and the little city has since had a bountiful supply of gas for domestic and cotton gin purposes.

In 1918 the late Thos B. Slick of Clarion, Pa. who became one of the leading independent oil operators of the country was induced by G. F. Barlett who was also reared in Clarion county, Pa but had been a prospector for oil and gas in Texas for several years previous to begin a deep test in the local field. This well drilled on the Jno. W. Harris Est land in the Jno. Starnes survey, was not of sufficient size to interest a man looking for gusher production. At the same time it demonstrated the existence in this field of the Ranger pay.

Slick and Barlett drilled a second deep test on the L. O. Rendleman Est farm in 1920 and developed considerable gas in both the Turner and Ranger formations but saved only the Turner sand gas.

Shortly afterward while Mr. Barlett was connected with the Gladys Belle Oil Company of Tulsa, Okla. he persuaded them to drill No. 5 Schirmacker farm well, five miles southeast of Santa Anna to the Ranger depth and there was uncovered one of the most consistent and longest lived gas wells ever found anywhere. This well was connected on the pipe line running to Coleman on May 1, 1921 and for six years of itself supplied our County seat with sufficient natural gas and is still capable of supplying almost as much gas as when first drilled.

Mr. Barlett was convinced through these early drillings that there was a future for this town in this combination of sand and fuel and believed the time would come when Santa Anna would become the center of the glass industry of this great state. This belief led him to remain here and work to the object. In the meanwhile he acquired the leading interest in the East mountain also containing the Trinity sand formation.

The larger gas companies piping gas in and out of Coleman county had contracted the gas from practically every other gas well in the county but Mr. Barlett who had increased his leases to a block of 920 acres held his for glass factory purposes and had drilled the H. Campbell No. 1 gas well consequently when C. P. Zenor & Sons, were induced to start to move their Bristow Oklahoma plant here last December, they were assured fuel at a reasonable price.

Even prior to the locating of The Texas Glass Plant at this place Mr. Barlett, had entered into a partnership with D. B. Dozier of Brownwood for the purpose of additional drilling. Mr. Dozier is a native of Concho county, Texas and has been a drilling contractor and operator in the central Texas field for a number of years. While with the Humphrey Bros. and Union Oil Co. he drilled a number of wells for them in the field im-

Early Efforts at Developing Natural Resources

About 1900 there were parties coming to this section looking for drift gold and among them N. R. Stegall a close student of nature, who came to look for gold on the creeks flowing into Home Creek from the north.

Not finding satisfactory gold showings he began studying the oil and gas possibilities, also sands, limestone, ocrea and other materials. He had his own blowpipes and made his own deductions as far as possible with the equipment he had, learning that the sands in the Santa Anna mountains were almost pure silica.

After some two years in looking over the oil and gas situation he became convinced there was both oil and gas in this section, leading from Electra to the Colorado River. He, interested with him H. L. Benson the discoverer of the sour Lake field and together they organized the Santa Anna Industrial Company with San Antonio and local people connected in it.

This company employed Maj. John W. Otley, who in that day was probably the best versed man on oil and gas properties, in Texas and his efforts probably gave to Texas more of its early oil fields than any Geologist up to that time. Otley and Stegall covered the section of country from Trickham to Cisco and upon their reports the company acquired some 25000 acres of leases, blocked at different locations in this territory and on each block of this acreage oil has now been discovered.

The old Gutherie well was started west of Trickham by this company but given up before oil was reached as the company got out of funds.

Oil was cheap and there were no marketing facilities. Later this well was drilled deeper, by local capital and remediately west of this town.

It was but natural that Barlett & Dozier, should contract to supply The Texas Glass Co. with gas for fuel. They began the lying of five miles of 5 1-2 inch gas main to the plant early in January of this year and had gas ready when the furnace tempering process started on the 14th of February. The heat at the factory was gradually increased and the real melting of sand began March 5th.

The Rendleman and Campbell wells proved sufficient to more than supply the factory needs which had reached a requirement of over 300,000 cubic feet per day with the installation of the new milk bottle machine it is probable this one plant will be using one half million cubic feet per day another unit would almost double that demand for gas.

Last week Barlett & Dozier drilled in their No. 1, Mrs. M. M. Jennings farm well. It offsets the famous Schirmacker No. 5 and is about the same calibre of a well. They have many more proven locations on their block for both Ranger and Turner sand gas wells and are now engaged in drilling Rendleman No. 2. They also have other gas production in the immediate vicinity of Santa Anna and feel that they are in a position to supply the Texas Glass Co. and any and all other glass plants which may come here with fuel for many years to come.

TIGER EYE

by B. M. Bower

THIRD INSTALLMENT
The Kid's name was Bob Reeves, but back home on the Brazos they called him Tiger Eye because one eye was yellow—the eye with which he sighted down a gunbarrel. His father was "Killer" Reeves, but the boy did not want to kill. If he stayed home he would have to carry on his father's feuds, so he headed his horse, Pecos, northward and encountered Nate Wheeler, who drew his .45 and fired just as Tiger Eye did. The Kid didn't want to kill Nate, only to cripple him, but his aim must have been wild, for Wheeler dropped from his horse. Babe Garner came riding up. Wheeler was a "nester," he said, and had it coming to him. Tiger Eye rode to Wheeler's cabin to notify the dead man's widow.

The Kid breaks the news of Nate's death to his widow and then goes out and brings in his body, discovering he had not missed his shot to disable Wheeler but had broken his arm, while another shot had killed the man. A gang of strangers rides up. One of them insults Mrs. Wheeler by coupling her name with the stranger. The Kid shoots a hole in each of the ears of Pete Gorham, who hurled the insult, making his escape in the confusion. He lays in wait for the party and finally sees the men drive off with Wheeler's widow and child. He trails them silently.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
He followed the wagon to Becker's ranch and saw the men gathered there and listening to the signal, also watched the first two riders of "Who's Johnny Comes Marchin' Home?" and so got by them on a point at the side. The wagon could not get all its cargo together there. All some of the men in the dark and fell at once, snatched their guns from their hands that had been emptied and thrown away.

The Kid did not talk. He kept his mouth shut and his ears open, like old Killer Reeves always had advised. When the gathering showed sign of breaking up, he melted into the shadows so quietly he never was missed, and presently he rode past the unsuspecting guard at the gate and went his way.

The kid unsaddled Pecos, rubbed him dry and went whistling up the path to the cabin. It was warm and reeked with the smell of coal oil fumes and stale cigarette smoke. Babe's paper novel lay open, face down on the table only two or three pages left unread at the back.

"I down' near saddled up and took out after yuh, 'Tiger Eye,'" he said querulously. "These are shore had times to be ridin' around alone. Nester see yuh—well, you oughta know."

"Shoah do, Babe."

"Have any trouble? If it's a fair question."

"Not to call trouble. Trailed some Nestahs to Sam Becker's ranch. Had a meetin' there. Right smart gatherin'. They aim to call the Poole men into a trap. Some talk of drivin' cattle into Oxbow Bend. Poole men'll go theah and half the nestahs will be caught in the pass—"

"Yeah?" Babe looked startled. "Say, that might'a' drawn the Poole riders out at that, if they didn't know it was a frame-up. We been watchin' our chance to get 'em in the act, the damn' cow-thieves! Say, you got no call to take a chance like that," Babe frowned at the Kid's exploits recurred to him. "F they'd a' caught yuh there, they'd a' strung yuh to in a hovy minute. Don't yuh take another chance like that, Tiger Eye."

The Kid did not say anything to that.

"Say, you goin' to promise me yuh won't take no more chances like that?" Babe pressed the point. You got something more under your hat than what you told me. Damn you, Tiger Eye, what you been doin' to-night?"

The Kid turned and looked long at Babe over his cup. His yellow eye was curiously softened.

"I been hearin' talk about Nate Wheeler," he said finally, and blinked when he saw how Babe failed to repress a start. "I been findin' out I didn't shoot so wide. I aimed to hit his gun ahm down, and that ahm shoah was hit, just like I aimed at would be."

"Yeah?" Babe's eyes took on a hard, watchful look.

"I heared men say it was a rifle bullet hit him in the haid," the Kid drawled softly. "I reckon yo'all thought he was goin' to shoot me. I shoah am much obliged to yo'all, Babe."

Babe Garner stared then laughed shortly and turned away. "Yo're welcome, Tiger Eye." He turned and began thumping "Which side of the bed you want Me, I like to lay on the edge, where I can roll out quick."

"Just lay where yo'all feels the best, Babe," grinned the Kid, swallowing the last of the coffee. "I'm sleeping sound to-night, no mattah wheah I lay my haid."

The Kid was scouting along the rim of the Big Bench a day or two later, playing his mouth organ as he rode. Softly, because yo'all had to be mighty careful nobody down in the valley noticed and took a long shot at you, just for luck. But shucks! yo'all couldn't heah that mouth organ any farther'n you could flip a rock with your thumb and finger.

Bad country up this way. Nice country, but plumb full of onery on-account cow thieves that wouldn't wait to see if a fellow was allright but would holler, "Draw you coyote!" and come a-shooting, plumb crazy like.

Funny, though. If Nate Wheeler hadn't come riding and shooting that-a-way, the Kid wouldn't have met up with Babe Garner. It shoah was worth riding all the way up from Texas to Montana, just to meet up with a fellow as nice and friendly as Babe Garner was.

Shoah was a snaky kinda country, though. The Kid didn't know just all the ins and outs of the fuss. The way Babe told it, cow thieves that let on like they were nesters, had banded together to wipe out the Poole, which was a big Eastern outfit. Babe said the nesters were stealing the Poole blind and the bosses back East wanted it stopped. Babe said the Poole wouldn't stand for no more, and they nw looked on all cw thieves same as they did n wolves,—varments to be got rid of. Nate Wheeler was gunning for Poole riders, Babe said, and that was why he ride at the kid that way.

He played absently as he thought, dwelling on what Babe had said. Babe seemed to think that the Poole riders had to be fighters. Reckon he ought to tell Babe he wouldn't kill a man for nobody; he'd seen too much of that back home. Anyway Babe never asked him a word about that part. If he did, the Kid would tell him straight out where he stood.

Poole riders kinda expected to down a man for keeps if it came to gun play between them and the nesters, the Kid reckoned. Babe said the Poole had tried the law and it wouldn't work, because the Poole was an Eastern firm and all the nesters and town folks hung together. No jury in the country would convict a cow thief, Babe said.

So the Poole was going to shoot it out with the gang.

The Kid's job was to ride, along up here on the rim, just lazy like, and watch through field glasses for any bunch of cattle being rounded up or driven along in the nester country below.

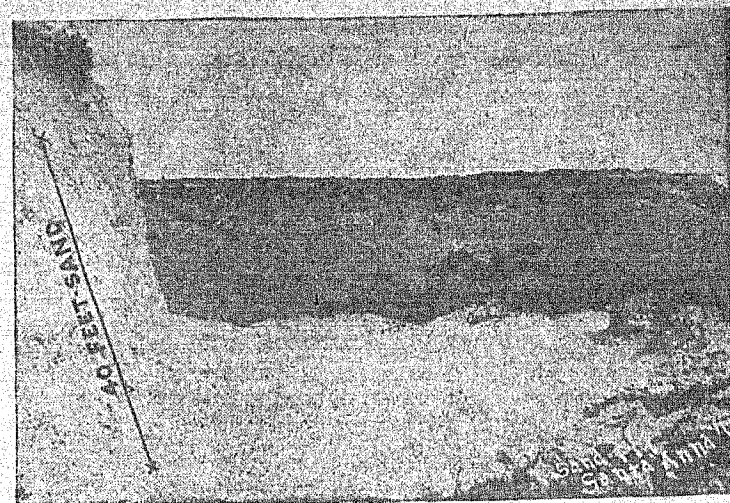

Anything that looked like a round-up down there, or even a bunch of riders going anywhere, the kid was to ride to the top of a small pinnacle, standing back from the rim of the bench, and signal with a little round looking-glass Babe Garner had given him.

It wasn't much of a job. The kid would rather ride with Babe, wherever it was he had struck out for at daylight. But Babe didn't act like he wanted anybody along.

The kid watched faithfully for awhile, halting Pecos behind bowlders while he got off and focused the glasses on this ranch and that ranch and the tranquil range land in between. Quiet as a Quaker village down there.

The kid swung the glasses farther into the coulee and along the trail to the gate, and on up to Wheeler's cabin. There he held them steady, little puckers showing in the skin around his eyes, he squinted so. His lips fell slightly apart as he watched. No wonder the valley was empty and no nesters stirring! Having a funeral for Nate Wheeler, that was why. Yard full of wagons and saddle horses, men standing around outside the house, not talking but just standing there looking sour. Every one packing guns.

The kid sharpened the focus a little still gazing with his forehead wrinkled, trying to figure out what was wrong. Now the men were edging back from the door—plain as if he were in the yard with them he could see all they did; plain as looking at a play on the stage. Fetching the coffin out now. Just a board box

Parker Silica Sand Company Contract to Furnish Sand For The Texas Glass Factory Here

FURNISHED SAND TO MANY OF THE LEADING GLASS FACTORIES OF THE U. S.

Many years ago it was known that the Santa Anna mountains carried a high quality of silica sand but none of it had ever been used for glass making until about twenty years ago, when a glass factory was built at Ft. Worth and supplied with sand from this place. But that plant soon got into financial difficulties and was dismantled.

A few years later, after Ball Bros. established their big fruit jar factory at Wichita Falls, the Parker Silica Sand Co. began supplying them with sand. These shipments were continued for a number of years, as many as 300 cars of sand being shipped to Ball Bros. in one season.

This company has also shipped sand to the Texarkana Glass Co., the Wichita Falls Window Glass Co. and the glass factory at Monterrey, Mexico. First and last, more than a thousand car loads of sand have been taken out of the Parker pit, and used for glass making purposes.

Mr. H. J. Parker, manager of the Parker Silica Sand Co. is a firm believer in the superiority of the Santa Anna sand and has been advertising it for years. Fred W. Turner, also has given a great deal of time toward the development of this natural resource of ours.

The following analysis of the Santa Anna sand reveals the high quality of the product:—Silica, 99.53 per cent. Alumina .09 per cent, Ferric Oxide .18 per cent, Alkalies .07 per cent.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Phillips, Mrs. N. E. Phillips, Mishses Ella and Bell Phillips of Coleman were here Monday to visit little Billie Faye Harris who is a patient in the hospital.

S. A. HARRELL BURIED MON.

S. A. Harrell, who resided about two miles north of Santa Anna, died suddenly at his home Saturday evening about 8 o'clock from a heart attack. He lived only a few minutes after the stroke hit him. Mr. Harrell had worked on the farm that morning, but came to Santa Anna after dinner and soon returned home, sitting around the fire reading throughout the afternoon. He ate a light supper and was sitting by the fire when he complained of a peculiar pain around his heart. His wife told him to get up and he arose and started into the other room but turned and came back toward her and fell into her arms and died.

Mr. Harrell was born at Holly Springs Mississippi, April 1st 1872, where he spent the first several years of his life. He later came to Texas, settling at Eddy. Here he was married to Miss Georgia Miracle. Four children were born to this union: one daughter and three sons. The daughter, Miss Hilda, died some five years ago. The sons, Wintry and Gordon of Corpus Christi and Noley of Luling, survive him as does his companion.

Mr. Harrell was converted when 19 years old and united with the Missionary Baptist church at Eddy soon after his conversion. He came to Santa Anna in 1915 and was a member of the Santa Anna Baptist church at the time of his death.

The funeral was conducted at the First Baptist Church of Santa Anna Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock by the pastor, Rev. Hal C. Wingo. Interment in the Santa Anna cemetery. Mead Undertaking in charge of the arrangements.

Odell Starb and children of Trickham were here Monday to be with their wife and mother who is a patient in the hospital.

In the center of the table was a beautiful birthday cake, the light from candles shed a faint glow over the room. A four course dinner consisting of grape juice cocktail; combination salad, chicken, dressing, gravy, creamed peas, stuffed celery, creamed potatoes, fish balls, biscuit, iced tea, fruit whip and cake, was served to the following guests; Misses Katheryn Rose Penny, Irene McCreary, June Bond, Ona Mae Smith and Messers Jewel Hill, Billie Barnes, Myrton S. McDonald and John E. Smith.

After dinner, bridge and dancing were enjoyed until a late hour when the guests departed wishing June, many more happy birthdays.

PIONEERS---THEN AND NOW

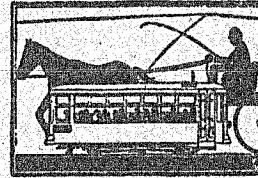

Not so many years ago, hardy pioneers, attracted by the richness, beauty and character of West Texas, halted their ox-drawn "covered wagons" in this section of the nation's last frontier, and sensing, perhaps, its future greatness, made it their home. Wrestling their livelihood from the virgin soil, these sturdy Empire-builders laid the foundations for our present high standard of living, our progressive cities, substantial industries, beautiful homes and alert citizenry.

In a comparable manner, the West Texas Utilities Company—pioneering the widespread distribution of electric energy—has made possible, through the equalizing influence of dependable and inexpensive electric power, the intensive development of West Texas.

Just previous to the organization of the West Texas Utilities Company, the average residential cost per kilowatt-hour in this territory was 13 3/4 cents. Now, under the modern rate schedules of this company, it has been REDUCED to 6 1/2 cents—a REDUCTION OF MORE THAN FIFTY PER CENT! During the year 1930, monthly residential consumption averaged fifty kilowatt-hours per customer. Under the present rate schedule of this company, the customer can increase his use of service to three times that amount and only increase his total bill by 10 cents a day. Before the organization of the West Texas Utilities Company, a similar increase above the normal average would have cost more than four times that amount, or more than 40 cents a day for the additional comfort or service now available for 10 cents! In other words, you can now use an abundance of service, knowing that the added comforts and conveniences possible in this manner will make only a small increase in your total cost.

The building of a transmission line system, which links scattered communities and widely separated rural homes into one unit served from strategically located main generating plants, was a revolutionary theory when the West Texas Utilities Company first pioneered in this territory. This system—in a territory as sparsely settled and undeveloped as the West Texas area of a few short years ago—has increased the quantity and quality of service, and at the same time reduced rates. Only a sincere faith in the future development of the territory has warranted this investment of many millions of dollars.

The Way of Life

by BRUCE BARTON

NAZARETHS

I was at Deerfield Academy visiting my boy, and on the way back I had an hour between trains at Northampton. It was Sunday evening. The main street was almost deserted. I walked into a side street and past the little two-family house where Calvin Coolidge lived until a few weeks ago.

I went around to the old building in which he and his law partner used to have their modest offices. I stood in front of the square town hall. It was interesting to think of the days when he was mayor. One could picture him coming slowly up the street after breakfast.

"Morning, Cal," people would say.

"Morning," he would answer. And a stranger in the town would probably have exclaimed, "Is that your mayor, that quiet little fellow?" He doesn't look like much.

If any one had suggested that the quiet little fellow might one day be President of the United States, the laughter would have echoed from one end of the Main Street to the other.

A few years later, when Coolidge had become governor of Massachusetts, a merchant in Boston named Frank Stearns began to make the presidential suggestion. He came to New York and persuaded a few of us Amherst graduates that the thing was not impossible.

Even then the idea was usually greeted with smiles, especially by folks in Massachusetts. "That's all right for you fellows in New York," they said. "But distance lends enchantment. We are his neighbors; we know him." And one of the wisest men in the Commonwealth remarked to the son of Frank Stearns: "Calvin Coolidge is nothing but a figment of your father's imagination."

Nazareth is the immortal illustration of the attitude of the home town. After Jesus had gone out into the world and become famous; after He had performed His miracles in Capernaum and even in Jerusalem. He went back home.

A crowd of His old neighbors greeted Him in the synagogue, but there was no pride or confidence in their attitude. Their skeptical expressions spoke louder than words. "You may have fooled them in those other towns but we know you. You are only the boy who used to work in the carpenter shop." And the record says sadly; He could do there no mighty work, because of their unbelief.

It's a wonderful thing to realize that Greatness is growing up somewhere around us all the time—that the most unprepossessing freckled boy may be a future conqueror. Unfortunately, most of us can never believe that the home town could possibly produce anything better than ourselves.

Nannie Catherine Robbins and Ina Niell came home from Coleman, victorious, having made two one hundred per cent spelling papers, thus stepping off with the prize in sub-junior spelling. These two children will be sub-juniors again next year and we are sure that they will bring home highest honors again.

Charlie Woodruff, formerly of Santa Anna Ward school, now living in Coleman, also made a one hundred per cent paper, but her partner missed one or more words. Hurrah for Charlie.

Final tabulation of results of the recent meet of the Inter-Scholastic League shows Santa Anna to have defeated Coleman by the close score of 125 to 120 points. The following figures are the basis for the above conclusion:

MAYO AND LONGVIEW HOME DEMO CLUB

Mrs. Roy Wilson was hostess to the club last Tuesday on the regular monthly meeting. The afternoon was enjoyably spent by those who attended. The topic for discussion was poultry. Miss Brent gave some very helpful remedies and hints to the care of baby chicks. There were eight members and three visitors present. We are urging all members to come to our meetings.

The next regular meeting will be with Mrs. Joe Copeland May 5th. Miss Brent will demonstrate a pressure cooked meal. The call meeting will be with Mrs. Kit Casey, April 21st. The making of cheese will be demonstrated.

Dont miss! The little three year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Reynolds of Childress was run over and killed by a car last Saturday noon. Mrs. Reynolds is the daughter of Mrs. C. W. George, who is known here as Mrs. E. Y. Harwell, sister of W. T., J. P., E. M., and Ben Vinson. Mr. and Mrs. M. M. EARLY DEVELOPMENTS sulted in the first oil and gas being discovered. This led to the drilling of several wells in the Trickham section, by various parties.

On the 14th of August, 1910, a contract for drilling three wells was made in Hot Springs Va., that resulted in bringing and saving in splendid condition, the first commercial gas well—a well without a market for its production. Efforts were made to interest glass manufacturer's in the fuel and glass sand which had been analyzed by the State University and showed 99.53 per cent silica. Hundreds of letters were sent to all glass factory owners in this country, but those who seemed interested were afraid of the fuel supply and in 1912 the gas was brought to Santa Anna to be used by the citizens for fuel and lights. This gave Santa Anna the first gas system west of Fort Worth. Other wells were drilled, the system was well maintained, and everybody pleased with the service and cheapness of fuel before the distributing price was raised. As the gas fields expanded in every direction from town it was brought to notice that fuel could be secured cheaply enough to compete with the factories outside the state in the making of glass bottles and other glass products, thus furnishing a market for the fuel and the sand and furnishing work to a number of people.

The Messrs Zenors had a bottling plant at Bristow Okla., and were seeking a new location in a broader field, which had developed in West Texas, with the settling of that section.

The West Texas Utilities Company, ever awake for developments in the section of country it serves, became interested in the Zenors and interested the citizens of Santa Anna in organizing the Texas Glass Company and at this time the factory is running with the equipment on hand, turning out as good or better bottles as usually found in this section.

More machinery is to be added and it is expected that the output will be materially increased in the near future, more people employed and more material and fuel turned into dollars, thus adding to the material growth and development of Santa Anna and its trade territory.

The developments of fuel in the territory will in all probability bring more factories to Santa Anna. The high grade limestone found here should prove attractive to lime operators, especially so, when it is considered that there is not a lime plant on the Santa Fe system, which now serves a vast portion of Texas.

FROM INDIA

The Following is a Report of a Year's Work on the Mission Field Written by Miss Lena Boyd for Publication in the Annual Report for Presbyterian Missions in the Punjab Province, North India

There is no nicer feeling than that experienced on returning to India after a furlough. Why, one does not know—India with her filth and disease, her carelessness and ignorance, her low moral standards and degrading religions! Perhaps it is just these things which call to us and make us the more needed and willing to come.

During the year we have become acquainted with seventy-six villages, which is only about half of those in which some Christians live. But a number of these we have visited from two to seven times. Especially during August and September when we couldn't get off the main road because of the rains, we were able to go often to the more conveniently situated villages.

In every village we have found the women hungry for the Word. Muhammadans, Sikhs, Hindus, Christians—and we are convinced that this is the most urgent work of this district now, and that it is a challenge to us to give all an opportunity to hear the Gospel message. We never leave a village without telling the story of Christ on the Cross, showing the picture and explaining the way of salvation through faith in Him for we realize that there are people listening whom we shall probably never see again.

Recently the worker in the villages around Rupar took us to a new village only two miles from Rupar. He said there were no Christians there. But we found that a Christian family had moved there from another village and were living in a little straw shack they had erected on the edge of the village. However we went first to the Chamars as they, upon seeing us coming, had gone to bring out cots for us to sit on. A number of them gathered about us and listened attentively to the account of the birth, death, and resurrection of Christ. Then as we went to the Christian family and sat on the cot under the China-berry tree in the yard, the worker came and said that the Sikh women living nearby were calling us. So we went to give our greetings intended to return to the Christian family. But the Sikhs wanted us to talk to them. It was getting late and hot, and past our meal—and in hot weather we like to get back to the house before noon—so we said we would come again. No, they wanted to hear now, but we kept saying, 'It is late, no time now, another time, another time.' 'No, not another time,' they protested, 'now that you are here give us a message.' We find that when God has opened up a place for us to give the message, especially when we have asked for just that very thing before starting out, and He has prepared hearts to hear it, He is not to be put off. So we took this as a call from Him to give the news of salvation to a new group. So leaving the Christian family in the hands of the two Bible women, the missionary stood in the midst of the Sikh men, women, and children and for more than half an hour he preached them an evangelistic sermon, to which they listened attentively; some of them seemed touched, especially three men one of whom, not more than thirty years of age, seemed to be their religious leader. As he walked with us out of the village he said: 'We are idol worshippers, and it is not right. We want to find the true God and be taught how to leave this old way.'

In one village there are four Christian families, there is a group of Chamars who always listen well, both men and women, and who say to us, 'Always call us when you come here.' They are an example of the Chamar in nearly every village—hungry, groping, longing for the something which they have not. Some of them we feel sure are real believers. Some have given up idol worship and are seeking and finding the truth. And we dare not neglect them.

We find also many Muhammadans who are seeking the truth. While camping in Chamkaur a young Muhammadan, a senior in High School, came to us, carrying an English Bible which had been presented by the Bible Society to an older brother upon his being graduated from some college. He wanted some one to talk with him about Christ. This we did, asking him to come back. The next time he came two young cousins came with him, and I gave them tracts and sold them Gospel portions. To the young man I gave a small English Gospel of

The local West Texas Utilities Company plant, The Utilities Co., supplies the electrical power for the glass factory and encouraged the Santa Anna people in their efforts to secure the location of the plant here. We should feel very grateful to them, especially to Mr. V. Van Zandt, the local manager, for this cooperation.

St. John which I had marked in many places, and asked him to keep it in his pocket.

In the village Manella we camped beside the road by which the Muhammadan farming women went to the fields to dig weeds for their cattle. Every morning they would stop and sit near the tents just to look. I would ask if they wanted to hear singing and stories and they would move up to the tent door and listen to the message. One young woman named Niamat, mother of two little boys, whose husband lives in Mesopotamia and has taken another woman, said, 'Your religion seems very sweet to me—make me a Christian.' I explained that we cannot make any one a Christian, that that is the Lord's work, that we can only give her the message and show the way, and Jesus can change her heart. I showed the wordless book—the one showing the black and white hearts, and the red to represent the blood of Christ—and explained how to obtain the pure heart. One woman said of Niamat 'do good and you will be good.' They meant that Niamat was quiet and moral, not abusive and quarrelsome and said her prayers regularly. One day as they were sitting sickle in hand ready to go to work, the other women said 'Come, let's go!' Niamat wistfully said, 'I wish I didn't have to go—I'd like to stay here all day and listen.' We are trying to keep in touch with her, and hunt her up when we go to her village, for I feel that God's calling her, and I ask your prayers for her and for the many other women who may be having the same longing and who have not heard.

The fact that the Christians in this district are few compared to some other districts, gives us more time and opportunities to do real evangelistic work among these women who have not heard the message of salvation. And if it be God's will that we stay in this district another year, it is our hope and prayer that we may be able to go to as many as possible of the three hundred and fifty villages where not a Christian lives, and give the women and girls the story, new to them, but to us old and very precious, without which we wonder how they can go through the days and months and years, 'without God and hope in the world,' consequently without that joy and peace which comes only through our Savor, Jesus Christ.

Brother Patterson gave an interesting talk on "Climbing", last Friday, April 3. We regret very much to have him leave us since he is moving to Stephenville. We wish him much success in his new work. Brother Patterson will soon be boosting Tarleton just as he has old Santa Anna High. We will also miss his splendid talks and sermons rendered during his two years spent here.

The students body wishes him and his family all the success in his new undertaking as one could have.

Senior Reporter. S-A-H-S FRESHMAN PICNIC

The Freshmen pepped up on their grades so our sponsor, Miss Land took us on a picnic Thursday afternoon. All the class didn't go but those that didn't surely missed a swell time. We all reached the Richardson Crossing about the same time and games were immediately started. One of our pupils, Louise Wilstord, was left so some of us came back after her.

We were very glad to have Mrs. Flores and Mrs. Hardy to go along. They and Miss Land spread the lunch and everyone was right ready to begin eating and all went away well pleased except a few that wandered off and didn't return in time. Some of the boys enjoyed a cool swim before returning home.

Everyone that was present are looking forward to another picnic before the close of school.

S-A-H-S WHO WON?

In the April edition of "The Round-Up" the Coleman High School paper, we noticed that the head lines announced that Coleman won the Interscholastic League Meet. We also noticed that the paper stated that Coleman won eight first places in the literary events, but they could name only three. Also in the same article they state that Coleman won seventy points in athletic contests and in a separate article that they won seventy-five points and in still a third place they say that they won seventy three points. Facts show that they really won sixty seven with Santa Anna taking sixty five. We understand that these mistakes were due to the printers' errors.

JOKES

The men gathered in front of the station were eye-witnesses of most peculiar procedure. They saw one youngster fasten a muzzel on his little brother. One finally asked:

"What's the idea of that?"
 Samuel: "Cos I'm sending him for some candy."

Little Edith: "I'm going to marry a dutchman when I grow up"

Mrs. Watson: "But why a Dutchman?"

Little Edith: "Oh I so want to be a dutchess."

INSTALL NEW FIXTURES

Installation of new fixtures was completed this week by the Phillips Drug Co. The change in appearance and the greater ease in serving the patrons is gratifying to both the firm and the public.

The most pleasing feature of the new arrangement is the added amount of floor space. This is now one of the most up-to-date drug stores in the county.

C. V. Robertson, county agent of Coleman was a business visitor here Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Claud Boone left Thursday for Winters for a visit with Claud's parents Dr. and Mrs. C. Boone.

Nannie Robbins and Ima Niell won first place in Sub-Junior spelling both having 100 percent papers. This activity was sponsored by Miss Ruby Volentine.

Francis Louise Adams and Ruby Williams tied two other teams for first place in Junior Spelling. Mrs. Pieratt sponsored the Junior Spelling and was the county director of all spelling.

Leon Ward who the previous week had won first place in boys singles won first place in Senior Boys' Declamations. Mrs. Bartlett was local director of high school declamations and extempore speaking. Leon also placed in several of the field events on Saturday.

Jesse Lee Sparkman who in 1929 won first place in Extemporaneous speaking won first place in Boys' Extemporaneous speaking.

May Campbell won first place in Ward Essay which gave Santa Anna the permanent cup for Ward Essay since Irene Rountree won first place in it the past two years. This activity was sponsored by Miss Mattie Ella McCreary.

The arithmetic team composed of Eddie V. Mills, Bess Inez Shield, and Dosh T. McCreary not only made the three highest individual scores in the county but also brought back the team cup. This is the second permanent arithmetic team cup to be won by Santa Anna Ward School arithmetic having been won by our Ward School for the past six years. Mrs. Evans has charge of arithmetic each year.

The debate teams composed of Irene McCreary and Rebecca Turner, Wilburn DuBois and John Franklin Turner were nosed out by Coleman High teams in the finals Friday evening after having won over the Novice teams earlier in the day. Miss Land, alumna and former debator of Santa Anna High, directed and coached debating.

The Picture Memory team composed of Annell Shield, Doris Rollins, tied two other teams for first place. Miss Eunice Wheeler was sponsor of this activity.

An Unpleasant Subject

All of the functions of life are not pleasant to consider. Perhaps this is why some mothers refuse to think that such symptoms as restless sleep, loss of flesh, lack of appetite or itching nose and fingers in their children, can be caused by round or pin worms. Many mothers have proven, however, that few doses of White's Cream Vermifuge, that sure and harmless worm expellant, will make these symptoms disappear. You can get White's Cream Vermifuge at the TURNER DRUG STORE

ANOTHER EXAMPLE OF FORD VALUE

Bright, enduring RUSTLESS STEEL is used for many exposed bright metal parts of the Ford

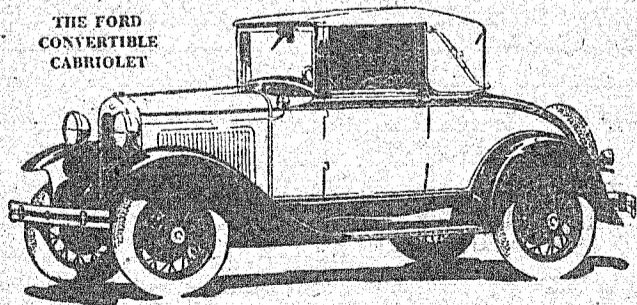

WHEN YOU BUY a Ford you buy enduring beauty. The body finish is made to last for the life of the car and practically all exposed bright metal parts except the bumpers are made of enduring Rustless Steel.

This Rustless Steel has great tensile strength. It is the same bright metal all the way through. A salt test equivalent to forty years' service under the severest weather conditions failed to have any effect on its brilliance. It never requires polishing. All you do is wipe it with a damp cloth, as you do your windshield.

This is just one of many features that show the substantial worth of the Ford. In speed, comfort, safety, economy and long life—in the richness of its finish and upholstery—it brings you everything you want or need in a motor car at an unusually low price.

Call or phone for demonstration.

THE FORD CONVERTIBLE CABRIOLET

LOW FORD PRICES $430 to $630

(F. o. b. Detroit, plus freight and delivery. Bumpers and spare tire extra at low cost. You can purchase a Ford on economical terms through the Authorized Ford Finance Plans of the Universal Credit Company.)
