She was never too tired or busy to help a friend or neighbor and was a mother to all. She passed to her eternal home May 9, 1931, at the home of her baby son, Merritt, at Silver Valley.

She was 86 years and 6 months old. Funeral services were held and interment made in the Winchell cemetery at one p. m. Sunday, May 10th, with Bro. Newton pastor of the Brooksmith Baptist church holding the service, assisted by Bro. Reese, of Winchell, an old friend of the family.

DOUGLAS H. MOORE MARRIES OHIO GIRL

Miss Louise Cecile Graham daughter of Mrs. Laura Graham of Washington and Douglas H. Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Moore of Santa Anna, Texas were married at 11 o'clock this morning. Rev. P. E. Roll, Christian minister, pronounced the ceremony at the parsonage.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Steward signed as witnesses. Mrs. Stewart being a sister of the bride. Other friends at the ceremony were Mrs. Carl James Miss Leona Eales and Miss Irene Shelangoski. Mr. and Mrs. Carl James have been living for the last six weeks in an apartment at the home of Mrs. Laura Graham and they introduced Mr. Moore to Miss Graham when they first came to Washington.

At the wedding this morning the bride looked pretty in the light green traveling suit and matching hat which she wore. She was educated in the local schools and has been employed by the Iowa Continental Telephone company in their local office.

Mr. Moore has been living at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Green Squire since coming to Washington. He is employed by the Oklahoma Contracting Company and is being transferred to Springfield, Ill. The couple will leave this evening for Springfield where they will be located for some time.—Washington News, May 2, 1931.

The News and Mr. Moore's many Santa Anna friends wish these young people every good thing in life.

NEW WATER RATING

The City Council has, in view of the unusual rains, which so filled the City Lake, given a nice reduction in water rates. That is, the monthly statement cards now read:

Rates
Minimum Rate $1.25 per month.
First 2,000 gallons 62 1-2 cents per 1,000.
Next 3,000 25 cents per 1,000.
All over 5,000 gallons 15 cents per 1,000.

The minimum has not been changed but the card formerly read All over 2,000 gallons 25 cents per 1,000.

This reduction of 10 cents a thousand of all over five thousand will mean quite a little saving to the citizenship during the summer months.

May Fete Beautifully Presented Tuesday Night

Unfavorable weather made it impossible to have the May Fete on last Friday evening. The pageant was presented on Tuesday night to one of the largest gatherings that has ever attended an entertainment in Santa Anna. The park was a fitting setting for the occasion, with its myriads of colored lights and arches and handsomely decorated stage.

The program was a continual change of characters and brilliant costumes.

The faithfulness and untiring efforts of the teachers and committees in practicing the children and in the splendid arrangement is to be commended. Especial credit is due Miss Ruby Vollintine, chairman of the committees, on whom the responsibility of the entire program rested.

The large crowd that witnessed the performance was delighted and hopes to enjoy a repetition of the evening again, next year.

Mr. and Mrs. James L. White of Brownwood and Mr. and Mrs. Byron England of San Angelo visited Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Verner Sunday.

Boy Scout Meeting Well Attended

Troup 55 of the Boy Scouts of America met Friday night, May 9, and began their work for the summer. Mr. J. R. Lock has consented to be the Assistant Scout Master this summer.

At the beginning of the meeting, every Scout that was present told his entire history as a Scout. Then every boy was required to tell his rank as a Scout and the number of Merit Badges that he had to his credit. We then told what we aimed to do this summer, in the phases of Scouting and other activities.

We briefly discussed a trip to the river after school, and the meeting adjourned.

Scouts present were: Brownlee Hunter, Russel Hale, Carl Flores, Jesse Lee Sparkman, Ernest Van Zandt, J. D. Pieratte and Garland Close.

WORLD EXPERTS SAY FARM CROP OUTPUTS MUST BE REGULATED

Austin, Texas, May 15—Delegates to the International Chamber of Commerce meetings in Washington, D. C., who advocated controlled regulation of farm production expressed views coinciding almost exactly with purposes of the Olsen acreage reduction bill, J. E. McDonald, commissioner of agriculture, pointed out today.

The Washington dispatch quoted Alfred Falter, chairman of the Polish delegation, and Dr. H. L. Russell, former dean of the college of agriculture at the University of Wisconsin, as saying agricultural production must be adapted to demands. Falter declared the need for regulation was "imperative" according to the dispatches.

McDonald pointed out that the Olsen bill attempts to do for Texas what Falter advocates on a world wide scale. The bill proposed a commission to study world trends, upon which acreage of the principle crops would be established.

The agricultural commissioner declared he had been preaching controlled production for the last four years. If these students of international conditions are correct, he added, it would be better for the individual southern states to deal with their own problems rather than wait for the inevitable federal regulation.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

Here's an item or so that might well pay to think about seriously.

There are four thousand motor-driven vehicles registered in Palo Pinto County. If each vehicle owner buys a gallon of gas a day at an average price of twenty cents it amounts to $800,000 and if they keep it up for one year, 365 days, it totals $292,000.00 or more than three times the value of the cotton crop raised in the county in 1930.

The number of registered auto mobiles and trucks is almost eight times the number of hogs in Palo Pinto County.

Parked in and around the Chamber of Commerce Monday night at the joint meeting with the farmers were sixty-five auto mobiles which averaged at $800.00 amounted to $52,000.00. These nor any one of the 4,000 cars and trucks in the county consume a thing raised by the farmers.

There are many other figures and facts that are just as incongruous to the situation as these, but these are sufficient unto this day and also sufficient to give the thoughtful person financial indigestion.—Mineral Wells Index.

Bill Harvey made a business trip to Cross Plains, Tuesday.

Damage Will Be Slight To Grain Crop

There are a few army worms in every grain field at this time according to the farmers. The infestation ranges from a few to numbers sufficient to be a menace to all crops in the vicinity. Sometimes the infestation is not great enough to do any serious injury to the grain, still a migration to young cotton, or feed would be disastrous, because the smaller plants do not furnish much food and are soon destroyed.

As the grain begins to ripen the worms leave it and go in search of green food. Once they are scattered over the fields they will do injury to feed crops and cotton as long as they live.

Method of control is to prevent the worms leaving the grain field. This can be accomplished by making a deep steep sided ditch with the sides covered with finely pulverized soil. The best means of accomplishing this is to plow out a ditch about six furrows with a turning plow the last two in the bottom of a ditch made by the first four furrows. Then plow the dirt back into the ditch filling it up. Then plow out by going six or eight times in the same place. This will make a narrow steep sided ditch with the sides of loose dirt.

The Army worm feeds principally at night but their presence in the grain can be easily detected by the litter they make. Parts of the blades and oats or other grain they have cut off will be noticed scattered about. Winter grass in pastures and along the fence may carry enough worms to do a very serious injury if they are allowed to enter the field of young crops. In late afternoon the worms can be found feeding, or crawling on the ground.

The farmers in this section feel that the worms will not do a very great damage to the grain crop as they feed on green stuff only and the time will soon be at hand for the feed crop to ripen.

Garland Franks, who has been teaching at Trent the past term came home last Friday evening to visit with his parents Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Franks for two weeks. He will attend the State University during the summer term. He has been re-elected as principal of the grammar school at Trent for the coming school year.

JUST BECAUSE THEY TASTE GOOD

Let's make some dishes, let's eat some foods, just because they taste good! Healthful foods are essential, economical dishes are sometimes a necessity, quickly prepared things are a boon when time is short, easily made recipes come as blessings to the amateur cook. But now and then let's forget those dull attributes and eat something just because it melts in our mouths, because it is all a perfect bit of cooking should be—because it tastes good. Taste is defined in the prosaic phrasing of the dictionary as that "particular sensation" excited by the application of a substance to the tongue." It's all a matter of taste-buds—but what victual-eating son or daughter of us needs definition or explanation of a delightful experience! The fact that it exists is quite enough.

So, let's try some recipes that are wholesome enough, sufficiently economical, easy and quick enough not to destroy our pleasure in making them, but above all—taste good! What your particular idea of luscious food may be is something else again, but the following recipes have tasted good to many, many palates!

Bagdad Cream Puffs
1 cup of boiling water, 1-3 cup of corn oil, 1-2 tsp. salt, 3 eggs, 3-4 cup bread flour and 1-2 tbsps. corn starch, with 1tbsp. baking

When BABIES are Upset

BABY ills and ailments seem twice as serious at night. A sudden cry may mean colic. Or a sudden attack of diarrhea. How would you meet this emergency—tonight? Have you a bottle of Castoria ready?

For the protection of your wee one—for your own peace of mind—keep this old, reliable preparation always on hand. But don't keep it just for emergencies; let it be an everyday aid. It's gentle influence will ease and soothe the infant who cannot sleep. Its mild regulation will help an older child whose tongue is coated because of sluggish bowels. All druggists have Castoria.

Shape in to circular form. Bake from thirty-five to forty-five minutes in hot oven, 400 degrees F. Cut with sharp knife near bottom and fill with Bagdad Filling.

Pineapple Mousse
1-2 pig pasteurized dates, 1 cup marshmallows 1-2 cup nutmeats, 1 cup heavy cream, 1-2 tsp. vanilla and a few grains of salt. Cut dates and marshmallows with wet scissors. Chop coarsely. Beat cream, add vanilla and salt and fold in dates, marshmallows and nuts. 1 dozen large puffs.

Buckwheat Cakes

Add syrup and yeast to 1-2 cup lukewarm water and when dissolved add to the remaining 2 cups water. Sift together buckwheat flour and cornstarch and add to liquid. Beat thoroughly and set away in warm place to rise over night. In the morning add the butter, salt and soda, eat thoroughly and bake on a hot oiled griddle. Serve with corn syrup, hot or cold in maple, butter-scotch or sorghum flavor.

Date Bars Delice

The Harvester-Thresher Savings Investment Plan

MAKES IT EASY FOR YOU TO OWN A McCORMICK-DEERING HARVESTER-THRESHER

Under This New Plan Every Responsible Grain Grower Can Pay for His McCormick-Deering Out of a Part of the Savings His Combine Will Make

CROP production cost figures compiled by McCormick-Deering Harvester-Thresher users show savings in harvesting and threshing costs of 20 cents or more per bushel when compared with government average costs for farms with similar yields.

We are so confident that thousands of additional grain growers can make proportionate savings with a McCormick-Deering Harvester-Thresher that we are announcing the McCORMICK-DEERING HARVESTER-THRESHER SAVINGS INVESTMENT PLAN, under which you or any other responsible grain grower can purchase a combine now and meet the first payment after harvest with just a part of the savings made possible by the new machine—with two more years to pay the balance.

Keep in mind that under this plan you get a time-tried and time-tested combine backed by 18 years of field experience with harvester-threshers. It is sold to you by a well-established McCormick-Deering dealer in your own community, whose stocks and service are supplemented by this large, permanently established International Harvester branch house right here in your own section.

In McCormick-Deering dealers' stores the repair bins are well stocked with genuine IHC repair parts. Thousands of these dealers maintain completely equipped service stations, offering factory-standard service on McCormick-Deering Harvester-Threshers and Tractors and all International Harvester equipment. Additional service stations are being established as rapidly as they are justified by business in the community. As a direct result, McCormick-Deering service is better today than it was last year or 10 years ago; our resources and reputation are your guarantee that it will be still better when the harvester-thresher, tractor, or any other machine you buy today is 10 years old.

Consider well the value of this superior service before you select a harvester-thresher. You want to buy where you get the greatest value; not just the day you sign the order, but through every day and every year you rely on your purchase for cost-reducing performance at home and in your custom work. Consider, too, the advantage of being able to pay for your combine under the McCORMICK-DEERING HARVESTER-THRESHER SAVINGS INVESTMENT PLAN... making it doubly advantageous for you to buy your equipment where you can get the absolute assurance of good, quick, complete service which is offered you by this International Harvester branch and the McCormick-Deering dealer serving your community.

See the McCormick-Deering dealer for full details of the McCORMICK-DEERING HARVESTER-THRESHER SAVINGS INVESTMENT PLAN.

CLASS 1931

The Junior class elected new officers to serve during the next year. Our Senior year. The house was called to order by Junior President Wilson, and nominations were opened for president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer and reporter.

Annie Wilson, was elected to serve again as president of our class. Annie is faithful, loyal and generous, and has stood by us all these years and never has she failed to what's fair and best. She is one of the most popular girls of S. A. H. S., having served as president of the Junior class and pep leader of the Mountaineers Pep squad. We are looking forward to a great leadership year under her capable leadership.

Kathryn Rose Pinney was elected vice-president again, Kathryn Rose who has been with our class for three years, has proved herself of very capable management and adequate leadership. This will make the third year she has acted as vice-president; having been secretary-treasurer, one year.

Elizabeth (Bessie) Evans was elected secretary-treasurer. This is Bessie's first time to serve, but we elected her because she is capable to fill the position.

Emmet Stiles was elected reporter. "Tocy" has been with us for six years. During this time, he has proved himself loyal, peppy and an all round student.

Juniors, here's to the Seniors of the future! May they show themselves to be the most outstanding graduating class in the career of S. A. H. S.

The class of 1931 is happy to announce its plans for commencement. We feel deeply honored in having Dr. M. E. Davis of the Bible department of Howard Payne College for our Baccalaureate Sermon which is to be on Sunday night, May 17, at eight o'clock.

Dr. Davis has a host of friends in Santa Anna and is a polished speaker. We are sure that he has a treat in store for sane thinkers.

We are fortunate in having Dr. E. B. Surface of Abilene for our commencement address. Dr. Surface needs no introduction to Santa Anna for he will be pleasantly remembered as the magnetic force in our community meeting of a few months ago. His sincerity has endeared him to all who were privileged to hear him. Our commencement exercises will be held Friday night, May 22, at eight o'clock.

On Tuesday night, May 19, the Seniors will have Class night. This is the first time this night has been observed in Santa Anna and we cordially invite all friends and patrons to come get better acquainted with us.

Besides a program of timely interest under the management of our efficient president, William Earl Ragsdale, we shall present a one act comedy, "College Capers," which we hope will be interesting and entertaining.

The cast for the play comprises some of our best talent and we promise you a full evening of wholesome entertainment. Your support and cooperation in all of our worth while endeavors makes us desire to give to you the best that we have. Our motto has inspired us to greater things and we feel that we are and have been dependable and have rendered service; thereby living up to our motto of "Dependability and Service." Our Class flower is the pink rose which symbolizes the subtle radiance of our lives in doing worth while things. Our colors are pink and white, a combination of vitality and purity.

Honor us with your presence at our exercises.

S-A-H-S JOKES

The staff wishes to say that these jokes are the best we can find. Some fellow, we believe that it was "Honest Abe" Lincoln, said:

"Some of the people like all of the jokes, all of the people like some of the jokes, but none of the people like all of the jokes all of the time."

Booky: "Will that anaesthetic make me sick?"
 Doctor: "Not a bit."

Booky: "How long will it be before I know anything?"
 Doctor: "See here, young man, isn't that asking a good deal of the anaesthetic?"

A charming young singer named Anna,
 Got mixed up in a flood in Montana.
 So she floated away, and her sister, they say,
 Accompanied her on the piano.

S-A-H-S STATE MEET

Last Thursday Mr. Scarbrough and Mr. Binlon, carried the track team to Austin where they competed with the district winners for the State Championship.

There was keen competition in the preliminaries, but Wilburn DuBois, a senior and Clifford Wheeler, a sophomore, were lucky enough to get into the finals where each won fifth place. Although they did not win first place, we are very proud of them for being fifth best runner and discus thrower in the great State of Texas.

The other boys did well, and we are proud of them, too.

The group returned late Saturday night and after a few recuperations, we feel sure they would enjoy another similar trip.

Tuesday at the home room period, the seniors were issued their caps and gowns for the closing exercises.

A gray silk poplin is used in the gowns which makes them cooler than the woolen mixtures. Our class of forty-four is looking forward to the biggest, best, and most beautiful commencement Santa Anna has ever had.

TO WHOM THANKS ARE DUE

Editorial

Washington, D. C., May 14—Nation-wide agricultural interests is centered this year on the seventh annual session of the American Institute of Cooperation, to be held at Kansas State College, Manhattan, Kansas, June 8 to 13. Meeting in different sections of the country year after year, these sessions have taken on the characteristics of an annual round-up of agricultural leaders. They have proved a stimulating force to advance the cause of cooperation. They have served as a clearing house of information to farm business leaders, a point of contact between the cooperative executives and the federal state and academic authorities whose work touches the cooperative movement. They have also afforded a means of collecting current information concerning the movement and putting it into permanent printed form.

Plans have matured for making this year's session the most interesting of all the sessions held. Every subject assigned is considered to be of vital significance by the more than 125 persons who cooperated with the Institute trustees in selecting the topics and suggesting the speakers for them. Never before have so many persons been called into service to build a program.

The Institute will be entertained by the Midwest Association of Agricultural Agencies and the Kansas State College. Heads of the association and the college in cooperation with the Manhattan Chamber of Commerce, are preparing to find quarters for at least 2,000 persons during the week. Correspondence already shows that attendance will be registered from coast to coast and from over thirty states.

At the time of the Institute sessions the regular reduced tourist fare rates will be in force on all railroads from both East and West. Persons in the East may buy tickets to Denver and return with the privilege of either stopping over or validating their return tickets at Manhattan. Likewise persons traveling from far-western points may buy to Kansas City, and have their tickets validated at Manhattan. Also the Midwest Association of Agricultural Agencies has secured from several of the railway passenger associations authorization for fare and one-half privileges. Persons desiring to obtain advantage of this concession may ask the ticket agent at each station for a certificate made out in the name of the Midwest association. Then if 150 of such certificates are presented for validation, the holder is entitled to buy his return ticket for one-half the regular fare.

As hotel facilities are limited most of those attending the sessions will live in the college dormitories, the frat houses and in the homes of families in the neighborhood of the college campus. Living expenses, therefore, will be very reasonable.

Each morning during the week of June 8 there will be one general session opening promptly at 9:30 o'clock. In the afternoons the Institute will divide into special sections for discussion of commodity problems. There will be as many as six sections in session at the same time. The commodity conferences arranged include livestock, grain, dairying, potatoes, poultry, and wool. Other special afternoon conferences include cooperative buying mutual insurance and educational relationships. Each morning before the general sessions begin editorial and publicity men associated with cooperative and farm organizations will meet for discussion of their specific problems.

Among the organizations that have decided to hold meetings at the time of the Institute are the National Cooperative Council, the directors of the National Cooperative Milk Producers' Federation, the Midwest Association of Agricultural Agencies, the Producers Cooperative Commission Association of East Buffalo, N. Y. There will also be a special conference of agricultural and cooperative associations interested in producing oils and fats for the purpose of discussing their mutual problems.

Among the major subjects for discussion are recent developments in cooperation prior and after the passage of the Agricultural Marketing Act; possibilities of adjusting production to demand in relation to a number of major commodities; financing and risk bearing for cooperatives; evaluation of the progress of various cooperative undertakings fostered by the Federal Farm Board; national and international problems of competition

QUEEN THEATRE

If cast has anything to do with the success of a picture, Columbia's all-talking version of Broadway's smash stage hits, is going to repeat its popularity on the screen. This romantic drama is coming to the Queen Theatre on the first of next week and its players represent the finest acting talent available.

Walter Huston, in the leading role of the prison warden, heads the list. Though Huston has long been one of the highlights of the New York stage, he made his debut in pictures only a short time ago. Yet this time he has established himself as a screen personality second to none.

Phillips Holmes, the Princeton student who has made a meteoric rise in pictures, has the leading juvenile role in the picture as the youthful convict. Playing opposite Holmes, is Constance Cummings. Others prominent are Boris Karloff, Mary Moran, Arthur Hoyt, Ethel Wales DeWitt Jennings, Paul Porcasi, Nicolas Soussanin and John Sheehan.

The ever popular Buck Jones will be here this week-end in one of his latest and best pictures, The Avenger.

Look for a Herald inviting you to attend the showing of Criminal Code, a Columbia picture, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. There is an attractive offer on the Herald, be sure to look for it.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Gipson and children of O'Donnell, and Mr. and Mrs. Homer May and daughter of Miles, are here with their father, F. N. May, who is in the hospital for treatment.

Miss Jimmie Vinson visited with relatives in Breckenridge, Sunday.

Joe Bridges visited homefolk in San Angelo last week-end.

WOMEN: watch your BOWELS

What should women do to keep their bowels moving freely? A doctor should know the answer. That is why pure Syrup Pepsin is so good for women. It just suits their delicate organism. It is the prescription of an old family doctor who has treated thousands of women patients, and who made a special study of bowel troubles.

It is fine for children, too. They love its taste. Let them have it every time their tongues are coated or their skin is sallow. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is made from fresh laxative herbs, pure pepsin and other harmless ingredients.

When you've a sick headache, can't eat, are bilious or sluggish, and at the times when you are most apt to be constipated, take a little of this famous prescription (all drug stores keep it ready in big bottles), and you'll know why Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the favorite laxative of over a million women!

ANNIVERSARY OF TICONDEROGA

"In the Name of the Great Jehovah and the Continental Congress."

Early in the morning of May 10th, 1775, the "Green Mountain Boys" of Vermont, numbering less than ninety and led by Ethan Allen, surprised and captured the British garrison at Fort Ticonderoga. Included in the capture were two hundred cannon which Henry Knox later dragged over the mountains to Boston where they were used to good advantage by General Washington in his siege of that city.

The spectacular attack on Ticonderoga occurred less than a month after the opening gun of Revolutionary War was fired at Lexington. It was carried out by men who appreciated the grim significance of the event, and who were determined not to turn back until Independence had been won. The spirit which actuated the attackers was clearly shown in their refusal to forsake the enterprise when Allen gave each one the opportunity to withdraw just before the attack was made.

When the Americans had forced their way into the Fort they proceeded to the quarters of the commandant, De La Place. Col. Allen confronted the Briton with the demand for his surrender. According to Washington Irving in his Life of Washington, La Place wished to know by what authority the demand was made and received the now immortal reply, "In the name of the great Jehovah and the Continental Congress." Resistance appearing futile the garrison surrendered and Ticonderoga passed into the possession of the Americans.

There's a wide difference of opinion among economists as to what caused the present crisis, and what methods should be used to restore us to our former high standard of indifference—sometimes referred to as prosperity.

There's a slight difference of opinion as to what causes economists. Some say they are born of depression; others say they are just born.

Some people will tell you that an economist is any man who can scrape up a diploma and a few B. A.'s, M. A.'s or H. A.'s and whatever else is necessary to give the title a dignified, all-knowing aspect, that the public may swallow his economic offerings all the more easier. Other people will tell you that an economist is just some "hoey" praying on an unsettled public mind. But regardless of which argument is the best, the fact remains that the successful economist is the one who can strike public fancy. His economic life depends on it, in fact.

When ever an industrial slump visits this country, or this world, we find more than enough of the boys who proclaim to anyone willing to listen that they know their stabilization, unstabilization, inflation, deflation and proration as well as any other economist that ever came down the pike—or wherever they come from.

The word economist is a derivation of the old Egyptian words "eco" and "mist" meaning "we hear you, but can't see you for the mist." The word was brought to this country shortly after the Revolution. It is about the only thing that we have in this country that didn't come over on the Mayflower. And that probably accounts for its unimportance.

Economists are divided into two branches—those that say one thing and those that offer the rebuttal for what the others have said.

One branch of the "profession" tells us that we must cut wages in order to meet foreign competition, and that if we do this we will put everybody to work faster than a politician can get on the bandwagon at a last minute political rally. The other branch of the trade retaliates by saying that if we raise the wages of our workers a few cents a day we won't have to meet foreign competition; that we can and will consume all we produce right here at home.

Without taking sides in the argument, we feel that by leaning to the latter view point we are violating no rules of the games. If the citizens of Texas, in making purchases, will show preference for Texas-made products, where quality and price are in line with the products of other states we will have gone a long way toward prosperity for Texas. Other states may do likewise, if they choose. For, after all, the whole economic scheme centers around mass buyin power of the workers.

Miss Roxie Robinson, Field Secretary for Baylor, school for girls, at Belton, was here last Saturday, calling on the high school graduates.

TIGER EYE

by D. M. Dower

EIGHTH INSTALLMENT

Bob Reeves, the kid, was nicknamed Tiger Eye by his friends down in the Brazos country because his "guneye" was yellow. When his father "Killer Reeves" died the kid left Texas to avoid continuing his father's feuds. Reaching Montana he is forced to draw on Nate Wheeler, an irate nester. In the exchange of shots Wheeler drops dead, the kid later learning that Babe Garner who had also shot at the same time, really killed Wheeler. Garner gets the kid to join the Poole gang as a rim rider. The kid succors Wheelers widow and is interrupted by Pete Gorham and some other nesters. He shoots Gorham through both ears for coupling his name with Wheeler's widow. Later he rescues a girl, Nellie, and her dad, from Gorham, wounding Pete again. The girl in spite of her belief the kid is an imported Texas killer, warns him the nesters will kill him. The kid warns Garner the nesters are planning an attack on the Poole outfit. He meets Jess Markel, a Texan who is boss of the Poole wagon crew.

That night the kid shoot's Markel through both hands when the latter attempts to kill him for being the son of Killer Reeves. The rest of the gang approves of the kid's action. While near Nellie's home he hears the crack of a rifle and finds her dad has been shot from ambush and helps carry the dead man into his house.

On leaving the nesters cabin, the kid examines the slayer's tracks and finds a match, broken like the ones Babe discards. He returns home and Babe sees he thinks he is the one who has killed the old man. Just then the foreman arrives and eats with them, preventing a show-down for a time. As the foreman finishes his coffee he breaks a match the same way Babe does. The kid blushes and looks for-eivngly at Babe.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"That feller that shot old Murray down in the valley; yuh say he left broken match stubs where he waited, Tiger Eye? Can't go much by that. Lots of fellers in a grass country break their match stubs in two before they throw 'em away. Less danger of fire."

With his big gray hat far back on his head and his high-heeled boots hooked over the edge of the neatly brushed stove hearth, "Yo'all plumb shoah ole Pappy Murray was a cow thief, Babe?"

"Shore he was! Why, hell, I told yuh a thousand times, Tiger Eye, there ain't an honest man in the whole valley. Not a one. Say, how'd you come to know he was shot, if you was off over on the river side of the Bench where I sent yuh?"

"Nevah did ride awn to the river, Babe. Got right curious about something in the valley, so I taken a jog down off the Bench to see foh m'se'l."

"Poole riders'll be shot on sight down there. I told yuh that Tiger Eye. You was takin' too big a chance."

"No biggan chance than some other Poole ridah taken, going down to kill ole Pappy Murray."

"How'd you know it was a Poole rider? You didn't see 'im, did you?"

"No, suh, I nevah did see him."

"How'd you know it was a Poole rider, then?"

Babe flung down his book and sat up, eyeing the kid sharply while he pulled tobacco and papers from his pocket. "Nesters ain't above dry-gulchin' each other if they's got a grudge, and lavin' it to the Poole."

"Nestah wouldn't hit out foh the Bench affah he done his killin'."

"Which way'd he go when he hit the rim?"

"Kain't say, Babe, plumb rocky along the rim."

Babe studied the kid for another ten seconds and gave a grunt that seemed to release the tension within his mind.

"You come into camp, here, actin' like you thought I done it," he stated calmly, lighting a match and deliberately breaking the stub into while the kid watched him with an unblinking steadiness in the stare of his yellow right eye.

The kid let go of the basin and dropped to his knees.

"Nevah said I thought it, Babe."

"You looked it, when yuh come to camp."

"Kain't tell a thing by my looks, Babe. This yallah eye of mine is plumb deceiving, some-times."

"What gets me, Tiger Eye, is how you come to take it to heart the way you do. Ain't a bigger cow thief in the country then ed over a nester all at once."

"If every killah was fixed so he couldn't shoot a gun, theah wouldn't be no moah killing, Babe."

"Well—they say he's got a good lookin' girl. You seeh her?"

"Wasn't no girl theah, Babe, when I rode along to the house, heard a woman screaming' and a-cryin' like my mammy cried when Pap was ambushed. Killahs don't think of the women, 'pears like."

"And as far as the Women are concerned—" Babe rose from the bunk, hitching up his trousers belt as he sauntered over to the water bucket and lifted the dipper with a jangle of tin. "They got to take their chance same as the men. There's always women cryin' over some man. There always will be, a song as there's a ma nto cry over. What yuh goin' to do about it? A man can't set and roll his thumbs all hi slife, just so his woman won't have cause for tears. They bawl a lot—but they sit over it."

"Reckon you're right, Babe."

"Darn right, I'm right. You've been so growed up and steady, far as I've seen, I shore never expected you'd git chicken-heart

"I'd rather be dead than have my hands smashed the way you smashed Jess Markel's. So would any man that was a man."

"I said killahs, Babe." Babe shivered as if a cold wind had struck his bare flesh, but he didn't say again that he would rather be dead than crippled. The kid knew he thought it though. The kid's eyebrows came together in a puzzled frown while he studied Babe at the window, peering out into the faint moonlight.

The kid had counted on Babe's friendship and on his being square so a fellow could trust him. But if Babe had waited like a coyote among the rocks and had shot Nellie's old pappy in the back, he was just mean, lowdown killer and nobody could trust him. A man like that would shoot his best friend in the back if he took a notion.

The kid would have to be mighty certain it was Babe, though, before he would believe before he would believe it. He'd want stronger proof than the broken match had been. It made him shiver to think how close he had come to shooting Babe just on the strength of a broken match. Now he didn't believe it—but he could not put it out of his mind either, and the vague distrust hurt like physical pain.

"Yuh don't want to let old lady Murray's cryin' worry yuh, Tiger Eye," Babe said abruptly, when they were pulling off their boots. "Best not to waste sympathy on a nester. They don't deserve no sympathy; man or woman, they're all tarred with the same stick. You're goin' to be valuable to the Poole, once you git over that sympathy of yours for nester women. You got to cut that out or yuh won't never git nowhere."

The kid did not answer that, and presently Babe's breath fell into the slow rhythm of sleep.

The kid's mind jarred back from deep dreaming and he opened one eye to see a yellow streak of sunlight on the cabin wall, high in the far corner behind the stove. By that he knew he had slept late. Usually they were ready to ride out along the rim when the sun showed above the mountains. Babe's side of the bed was empty, but there was no smell in the cabin and no crackling of fire in the stove. Gone to look after the horses, probably. Babe must have slept late, himself. Must have been Babe shutting the door that woke him up.

The kid swung his feet to the floor and reached for his clothes. Babe would expect breakfast to be ready when he got back.

The kid started a fire in the stove, set a kettle of water over the blaze and washed his neck and face and ears in the tin basin on the bench. He shoved another stick of wood into the stove, picked up the basin and pulled open the door, to fling the water out upon the ground.

The basin jerked spitefully in his hand, a round hole cut through its upper side where the water spurted through. From a clump of bushes over by the corral the bark of a rifle tardily followed the bullet. The kid let go the basin and dropped to his knees, then fell forward on his face and lay there with his arms stretched out in front of him.

The kid's fingers stretched slowly to their slender length, relaxed a little stretched again, moved this way and that, until they encountered something which they clasped so firmly the knuckles turned white. Babe's foot, Babe, lying there on his face, within a few feet of the door, shot down while the kid lay dreaming. It wasn't the shutting of the door—it was the rifle shot that woke the kid. Babe, shot in front of his door, just as Nellie's old pappy had been shot. Even at that moment, while the kid was taking a firmer grip of that limp foot, he wondered if Babe was only getting back what he gave old Murray.

The kid squirmed backward, dragging Babe by his foot. Slow. Back an inch or two, and wait a minute. Babe groaned at the third pull, and the kid's heart gave a flop and then raced for joy. Babe was alive yet. Something to pull for, now.

"I'm draggin' yo'all inside the doah, Babe," he muttered, in a tone that would not carry beyond the wood pile.

Babe did not answer except with another groan, but he pressed one hand hard on the ground and pushed backward when the kid pulled again, so the kid knew he heard and understood all right. The kid hurried after that. He wanted his body all inside the door as soon as possible, and with a last wriggle his tousled damp hair went in past the door jamb. Like a cat he was on his feet then and had Babe inside with one great yank and slammed the door shut.

Then he turned, picked Babe up in his arms and laid him on the bed.

"Damn, coyotes—got me when I stepped outside," Babe gasped.

"That's what a killah always aims to do," the kid observed drily. "Always aims to down a man at his own doah."

Whether Babe caught the significance of that remark or not, he made no answer to it.

The kettle was boiling on the stove and the kid brought basin and clean dish towels and a bottle of carbolic acid and set them on a box beside the bunk. He pulled off Babe's shirt and studied the round, purplish hole on Babe's right side just under the curve of his ribs.

Babe fainted, which left the kid free and unhampered in his crude surgery.

"I taken out the bullet, Babe," he said calmly, when Babe came back to consciousness. "Wasn't moah'n two-three inches deep. Kain't figure it, lessen it come from ovah across the field, Nevah did come from the berry bushes, or it's gone awn through. Two men out theah; I reckon."
"Two, yuh say?"
"Two and likely moah."
"And me down! They'll git us, Tiger Eye."
"In a pig's eye."
"Git my rifle and—help me on my feet."
"Yo'all lay quiet, I taken charge today, Babe." The kid was loading Babe's rifle, and now he placed it on the table. He turned his rifle upon the clump of bushes over by the corral.

Three shots carefully spaced brought a spiteful volley in reply.
"Peah's like the nestahs are aiming to take theah revenge for ole Pappy Murray," he remarked, as a steady stream of bullets came spating viciously into the cabin. It worried Babe, who was beginning to talk feverishly.
"Shoot to kill when yuh start in," Babe urged. "Am't going to try bustin' Knuckles now, I hope."
"Kain't see any knuckles to bust, Babe."
The kid's face clouded as he pushed his rifle barrel through the hole between two logs, but yellow right eye was as unblinking as a tiger's when it looked don along the sights. He caught a glimpse of gray hat across among the bushes beyond the spring. He didn't want to kill. Hat crown, head, shoulders below—The kid couldn't see the man he swiftly visioned, but he aimed where a shoulder should be and pulled the trigger. There was a sudden violent agitation of the bushes and a man went streaking it back toward his more discreet companions. The kid's fingers bent again deliberately and the man's swinging right arm jerked upward and went limp at his side. The kid was sure of that before he withdrew the rifle from the hole and crossed the room to another.

"Git anybody?"
"The kid did not answer at once."
"Taken the shoot outa one, Babe," he said at last.
"—kill 'im?"
"Reckon not. Shot his ahm down, 'peahs like."
"Shoot to kill, why don't yuh?"
Babe's voice was high and querulous. When he turned a strained look upon the kid, his eyes were glassy and had an anxious stare wholly unlike Babe Garner.
"Damn their arms and shoulders you can kill if you want to—any body that can whirl and bust knuckles the way you bust—Jess Marke's can put a bullet through a man's heart if he

PECAN ROOT STOCK TEST PROPOSED ON STATE WIDE SCALE
Austin, Texas, May 15, Experiments to determine the relative value as root stock of 50 to 100 varieties of Texas pecans has been proposed to growers all over Texas by J. M. Burkett, chief of pecan work in the state department of agriculture.
In a letter addressed to all the principal pecan growers in Texas, Burkett pointed out that information has been obtained in experiments with the older fruits and nut industries, but research into the value of pecan varieties as root stock has been neglected. Burkett proposed that growers plant nuts, furnished by the state department, and keep careful record on the seedlings for at least three years. Inspectors from the department would assist in the planting plan and advise as to the proper care and cultivation of seedlings.
Seed for as many as 50 to 100 varieties would furnish each grower cooperating in the project. After the experimental period, the seedlings would be the property of the grower making the tests.

Burkett cited a statement by J. M. Del Curto, state entomologist, as to the need for more exact knowledge concerning pecan root stock.
"The importance of root stock selection with the older fruit and nut industries," Del Curto said, "has been fully realized. In fact, many of these industries could not have developed without the advantage from this source. Experiments have shown that not only class selection of seed and seedlings has much to do toward governing the development of the trees, but that individual selection is of great importance."
"While much interest has been manifested in the selection of pecan varieties with reference to disease resistant powers in various sections, very little attention has been given root stock selection for this purpose. Varietal selection and its relation toward disease resistance is principally a matter of climate, while root stock selection is more of a soil problem. Consequently, in attempting to develop osette resistant trees, the selection of root stock is a very important factor."

Burkett added that the experiment would at least indicate generalities in a field of experimental research workers.
"We are not confident," he said, "that this experimentation will lead to a specific findings regarding any particular nut for root stock purposes that will meet all of our Texas requirements, but we are hopeful that we will at least be able to determine generalities that in the future will be of assistance to pioneers in this field; and perhaps will be able to determine facts of immediate benefit to our developing industry."
Mrs. Fred Rollins spent Sunday with her sister, Mrs. Jim Sheffield in Bangs.
G. B. Smith accompanied his son, Aubrey, on his return to Abilene, Monday.
