He Profits Most Who Serves Best

Thanksgiving Day Comes Thursday November 29

Thursday, November 29th is Thanksgiving Day, and we hope every business house in Santa Anna will close their places of business for the day. It seems a difficult problem to work out a unified closing program in Santa Anna, a distance day this year happened to be on Sunday, and most of the neighboring towns observed Monday 12th by closing their places of business. The matter of closing was not agitated very much, and no announcement was made to the effect that the town would close, thus, the result was, only a partial and unsatisfactory closing. In this connection permit us to state that every merchant in Santa Anna, who will notify the Santa Anna News prior to Tuesday evening of next week of their intention to close for Thanksgiving will publish the fact without charge. Be sure and not overlook this very important matter, and extra to the complimentary column, it would be well for the merchants to also mention the fact in their advertisements next week. Above all things, don't wait until Thanksgiving day to make up your mind to announce your intentions to close.

Special to Subscribers

Our renewal business has been exceedingly good this season, but we still have a few who have not been in to see us. Please permit us to again urge the importance of your calling in and renewing your subscription, as that is the only way we have of knowing you appreciate our little paper. We believe we have the largest paid up list of subscribers in the Santa Anna News has ever had. Just on the merit of the paper and not the result of a contest campaign. Service is our motto and the more people we can serve the better we are. If you happen to be one of the few who have not yet called and renewed your subscription will we please do so at once as a printing office is always pressed for means.

Polled Herd On The Texas Range

(By Glenn L. Gill, Whon, Texas)

The ultimate object of the cowman, or any other business man, is to succeed financially and to provide his family with the necessities and comforts of life. In order to do this he must produce the kind of goods that command the most ready market. As range breeders, our principal business has been the production of steers for the Kansas and Oklahoma feeders. In response to their demand, we began to breed Polled Herefords.

But to go back to the beginning, our first start in the breeding of Herefords was in 1901, when we purchased a herd of grade cows headed by registered bulls. We continued to breed these cows to registered bulls and to sell high grade Hereford steers. During this time we were still effected with the fever tick and could not use bulls from the North without taking an enormous risk of losing them with the Texas fever. So we had to depend on the local breeders. As the popularity of the Hereford grew, the demand far exceeded the supply so that by 1910 we were hard put to find registered bulls of the quality desired.

Founding a Purebred Herd

In 1910, my father attended the dispersion sale of the H. Albert Shaw herd at Christoval, Texas. There were buyers present from every state south of the quarantine line. Father had gone there to buy several bulls, but in the face of the competition that developed he was able to get only two bulls. However, he also brought home two cows with bull calves at foot and re-bred to Mr. Shaw's herd bull. With these cows as a start we began to breed registered bulls to use in our own grade herd. Our herd soon grew until we had a surplus of bulls to sell to our neighbors. At that time the few breeders of registered Herefords south of the quarantine line had a virtual monopoly. The demand was continuing to grow by leaps and bounds while the supply could be augmented by the natural increase of herds already in existence.

At last in 1918 we completed the work of eradicated the ticks from our section of the state. The quarantine was then lifted from our territory. This represented the greatest forward step ever taken by the cattle industry of the Southwest, but for a short time its effects were demoralizing. Where we had enjoyed the monopoly of the registered bull market, it exposed us to the competition of the world. This gave the registered cattle business a temporary setback. But the same stroke opened a way for the progressive breeders of Texas to strengthen the bloodline of their herds by importation from the Northwest, and perhaps to meet this competition.

Feeders Object to Horns

About this time the feeders became more interested in their objections to horned steers. This continued to grow until in 1923 we had a very high grade bunch of Hereford steers to sell. We advertised them and received over a hundred inquiries. Every one of these asked if they had horns and over half of them stated they could not use them at all if they did. This was quite a job to me who had been breeding horned Herefords for 22 years. We finally sold this bunch of steers for less than we could have gotten for the same grade of cattle without horns. At this time we began to discuss means of removing the horns. At last we decided that the best way to remove the "bayonets" from our cattle was to breed them off. The next year some of the Polled breeders under the leadership of Secretary B. O. Gammon put on a sale at the Southwestern Exposition at Fort Worth. At this sale we secured our start in Polled Herefords.

Fighting the Blow Fly

As you have seen, our customers practically forced us to disarm our cattle, but we have been breeding polls for 4 years and have never had any occasion to regret it. As I have stated before, the greatest cattle pest we have to contend with, since eliminating the tick is the blow fly and his larva, the screwworm. Various methods for the control of this pest are being tried in different parts of the state. These methods include burning of carcasses and the ex-

Live Oak Community Fair

In the community fair held at Live Oak Saturday, November 10, Mrs. John C. Brown won first place in the complete (bibli) department of the exposition. In addition to the score cards displayed, large numbers of exhibits of sewing, cooking, and agricultural products were shown.

Mrs. J. W. Johnson placed second with her complete exhibit and Mrs. Virgil Newman won third place. Included in the prize winning displays were needlework articles, canned fruit and vegetables, cakes and pies. Prizes totaling $10 were awarded to the three women by the Santa Anna Lions Club.

A feature of the fair was a picnic dinner served by the Live Oak home demonstration club. Large numbers of visitors viewed the various farm products and curios throughout the day. Miss Gertrude Brent, Coleman County Home Demonstration Agent, directed the exposition. Miss Ruth Ramey of Eastland acted judge of the articles in the women's department and Elmo V. Cook, vocational agricultural manager of the Coleman Chamber of Commerce, judged the field products.

According to Miss Ramey, the Live Oak fair is one of the best that has been staged in this section this year.

A community fair will be held at Brown Ranch, Friday November 9, under the direction of Miss Brent.

The following awards were made by Miss Ruth Ramey, Eastland county home demonstration agent, who judged the Live Oak exhibits.

Hidalgo Co. Election To Be Contested

McALLEN, Tex., Nov. 12.—Every office to which an independent candidate was not elected in the Hidalgo county general election last Tuesday will be contested, it was announced at Independent headquarters here today.

Reports to the effect that the election will not be contested are without foundation, F. P. Freeland, McAllen mayor, and Dave Kirgan, Weslaco mayor, said in a joint statement.

"Approximately 2,000 Independent votes were thrown out," Kirgan said, "and we are going to contest for every Independent candidate in every precinct in Hidalgo county where we have obtained evidence of irregularities, and that includes practically every precinct."

The only offices which will not be contested, it was said, are those of 33rd district judge and county commissioner for the McAllen precinct. Gordon Griffin, Independent, was elected to the former office and Robert Henderson, also an Independent, to the latter.

Griffin, called to Junction, Texas, by the illness of a daughter, is expected home today, since Griffin has been elected district judge, he cannot participate in the contest, Kirgan said.

Independent headquarters today were moved from Edinburg to McAllen, Mayor Freeland and Mayor Kirgan are in charge, with Mrs. Grady Calloway of Edinburg acting as secretary.

"The contest will be filed as soon as we have the evidence in shape," Kirgan said. "We have ample funds to carry on the fight and we have the assurance of more if needed. We have collected a great mass of evidence, and more is coming in every hour."

A mass meeting of Independents is to be held at McAllen Wednesday night.

Clyde Maner Shot Sunday; McInnis Under $1,000 Bond

Clyde Maner, 21, an employee of the United Tire Company, was shot through both legs by Mayor Palmer C. McInnis about 6 p. m. Sunday on the highway about half a mile west of Blanket. Only one shot was fired, the bullet penetrating both legs. Maner was taken to the Central Texas Hospital where it was found his condition was not serious, but Monday morning he was in a nervous condition, hospital attendants reported. A branch of the big artery in one of his legs was severed, but no bones were fractured by the shot.

Mr. McInnis declined Monday morning to make a statement to the press. He voluntarily surrendered to officers and was released Sunday night on posting of a $1,000 bond for appearance at an examining trial at 10 a. m. Tuesday before Judge E. T. Perkinson.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hammond who said they were witnesses told their story of the shooting to a Bulletin reporter Monday. They said that Mr. and Mrs. Maner and they were riding in a car headed toward Brownwood. Mr. Maner driving. They said that Mr. McInnis was in another car with his young son, and as he approached them he signaled Mr. Maner to stop.

Hayling stopped, the Hammonds said, Mr. McInnis called Mr. Maner out of the car and struck him. Mr. McInnis dropped a gun, picked it up and shot Mr. Maner, they said. The Hammonds said that Mrs. Maner stepped in front of her husband immediately after the shot was fired. Brownwood Daily Bulletin.

Queen Theatre Installs Junior Vita-Phone

The motion picture business is at this age one of the most enjoyable, cleanest, wholesome amusements, and is looked forward to for evening pastime and pleasure. Its newsreels are educational for young and old, and some pictures afford the amusements that the public want produced; and the manager of the local theatre is ever alert and on the job when it comes to securing the best pictures of the season. Mr. J. J. Keeling is hot overlooking the fact that the public enjoys good music with the programs and has installed at a great expense a Junior Vita-Phone, which is a first class and splendid production of the very latest music.

TULSA, Okla., Nov. 12.—A negro, identified as one who has attacked several women in a suburban section of Tulsa in the past eight weeks, was shot and killed here when he walked into a trap set by police.

With a woman companion as a decoy, Bob Hayde of the Tulsa county highway patrol, parked in a car in the southeast part of the city, where several attacks have been reported.

When the negro stepped on the running board of the car and ordered Hayde to put up his hands, the officer fired. The body was identified by a woman who said the negro attacked her. The negro's name was not determined.

THE OLD WEST

The old West of hard-riding and quick shooting cowboys, sagebrush and endless rolling hills, will return for a few hours at the Queen Theatre Saturday, November, 24th. The picture is entitled "The Two Outlaws" with Rex the King of the Wild Horses and Jack Perrin. Rex is a marvelous animal and he really stounds one with his almost human intelligence.

Intensive use of fly traps at watering places. All of these are good. But our experience is that the most effective method of reducing the number of worm cases is to reduce the number of skin places. A disposition to horn and gore each other is characteristic of range cattle; and any time that a large number of cattle are crowded together, as at round-ups and similar occasions a large number of horn wounds result. To my mind the elimination of these worm cases is sufficient to justify the universal disarmament of range cattle.

We have prepared this article from the point of view of the rangeman. The superiority of the hornless head in the feedlot has been and is still being demonstrated time and again by experienced feeders, but we leave that part of the discussion to them. We predict that the time will come when the polled head will share with the white-face the honor of being the two-fold badge of uniformity and superiority of the range cattle of the Southwest. This will not come all at once, neither did it come all at once when a few men were leading and pointing the way to the conquest and domination of the range by the white-faces.

CHRISTMAS SHOPPING

Store windows become an art, attains its climax in the pre-holiday period. What would the main street of any village or the shopping centers of the great cities be without the decorations, illuminations of the store fronts? The streets without store windows seem dull and dead in contrast. Where the windows are the throngs pass and repass, pausing, attracted by the display to see the latest novelty, to admire the beauty of the exhibit or the artistic effect produced by the skill and taste of the decorator.

Many of the windows, too, are simply expressions of the beautiful in which merchandise is eclipsed by the spell of art, but the inspiration thus provided finds reflection in countless homes and in mutual benefit.

While on his way to Washington the night of election, Mr. Curtis went to bed with the request that, elected or not, he wanted to be let sleep. He probably was wanting to practice up for his duties as Vice-President.

"WHERE YOU RECEIVE COURTESY AND ATTENTION"

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By Edson R. Waite
Shawnee, Oklahoma

THAT good advertising creates an irresistible sales appeal—use plenty of it.
THAT people always read the ads to find the latest and most popular goods.
THAT advertised goods are always standards of excellence.
THAT you will find consumers of the best buy from modern merchants because they advertise the best.
THAT the modern merchant does everything to cut down delay and serve the busy shoppers fully and quickly.

THAT at these stores you will find the goods right, the prices right, and an opportunity to get the best for less.
THAT the up-to-date advertisers have a constant growth, constant development and constant betterment in their business. They do it by truthful advertising backed up by quality goods.
THAT there is always something new advertised. Keep up to date—read the ads!
THAT there is no secret about good advertising; it may seem like a secret to those who make no attempt to get the business. If they should want to know how the successful business concerns meet with success, all they have to do is to read the ads; the reason is plain and easy to see.

Better business is bound to follow intelligent advertising!
THAT the average small town business man is overlooking his most valuable asset—the small town newspaper.
Advertising to him is too often considered a donation, when in reality it is one of the most important, if not the most important, single factors in his business.
The small town newspaper is read from cover to cover with the greatest reader interest of any publication in the world.
Advertising is prepared for this small town clientele through the small town newspaper is the cheapest per customer invitation available.
Too frequently the small town business man uses merely a sign board advertisement—run day after day without a change of copy. He will allow Tom, Dick and Harry to write his ads and they wonder why they don't pull.

Attractive copy, changed every issue, with a direct human interest appeal will get results far beyond the cost involved.
Your advertising is your most efficient salesman, show window and trade stimulator and newspaper advertising is the closest read and cheapest advertising available.
Consider your advertising as the Keystone of your sales organization and your newspaper your best advertising medium.
Anybody can make a good President who can make good as President.

JUST HOW WE FEEL
We will not attempt to tell how we feel about the election, but will relate a story. A certain old time ox driver who was noted for his profanity, at the slightest provocation he would cut loose with a streak of cuss words that would curl the hair on his oxen. Plodding along one day with a big load of timber on his wagon, all at once the king bolt in his front axle broke, the front wheel of his wagon was pulled out from under the timber and down it went with one end of the timber resting on the ground, and the other end up on the hind wheels. About the time three friends who were nearby and witnessed the accident, rode up expecting to hear an explosion of wrath and profanity from the high-tempered old teamster, but he sat on his old pony, dumb as an oyster, speechless. Finally, one of his friends said: "Jim, what is the matter with you?" On the slightest excuse and no excuse you can out-cuss any man on this road, and here you have the best opportunity of your life to give us a fine sample of your proficiency in cussing, and you are as mute as a mouse." "What the devil is the matter with you?" Slowly turning to his friends, the old ox-driver drawled: "Gentlemen, I feel myself unable to do the damn subject justice, and therefore have nothing to say." The election, county, state and nation has gone so entirely different from what we expected, we feel just like old Jim did on that occasion and have not a word to say.—W. E. Gilliland, Editor Baird Star.

The High School girls met Monday and organized a Basketball team.

The girls must pass in three subjects to be on the team. Come out to practice girls and help us to have a good team.

ARMISTICE PROGRAM

Last Friday morning the Sophomores had charge of the program rendered in assembly. Since Armistice was coming on Sunday, they carried out a very entertaining program for that date. The following is the program rendered:

 "Invictus"—Geneva Caldwell.
 "The Poppy"—Irene McCreary.
 War-Time Choruses—"There's a Long, Long, Trail" and "Over There"—Eight Sophomore Girls.
 "Our First Call"—A. G. Weaver.

"Our Work Over There"—Fred Faulkner.
 "Reconstruction"—Wm. Earl Ragsdale.
 Pantomime—"Star-Spangled Banner"—Eight girls: Mary Harriette Simpson, Maurice Kirkpatrick, Geneva Caldwell, Ona Mae Smyth, Irene McCreary, June Bond, Cula West, and Geneva Atkinson.
 Everyone enjoyed the program very much.
 The Freshmen will have charge of the next regular program, which will be Friday.

FRESHMAN HISTORY I. B.

President, Myrton McDonald took charge of our meeting on Tuesday of last week. Group Captain, Bessie Evans had her group to discuss interesting happenings that appear in current events. The next discussion will be held by Billie Barnes. The Group Captains are running a race to see which side has the best program every Tuesday. The side that loses has to entertain the other side. Our sole judge is our teacher, Mr. Milton Binion. To the Freshmen of 1928-29, rah rah!

A ROSE BLOSSOM

(Sky Locks)
 When in the beauty of life's green spring,
 Nature in all its glory seems to sing;
 I creep around the fountain by the garden wall,
 And listen to the splashing waters fall.
 I feel it's spray on my young white lips,
 And drink it in with lingering sips,
 I feel the warmth of early life's sun,
 And I know my cares have just begun.
 Then I burst into a white blooming rose,
 I spread my petals to the flight of time,
 I am ever kept in his path of light
 Till I pass from this world, on upward to heights sublime.
 All through life's summer I have leave to go,
 Sharing with me, my sorrow, joy, and woe.
 Now I shiver with autumn's cold,
 And as I climb upward, I seem to grow old.
 Now my petals are shattering,
 Soon I'll fold beneath the snow
 Giving place for roses to bloom in the spring,
 And as before, the water in the marble fount will ring
 In some quiet garden, 'neath a new-made mound,
 My withered petals may then be found,
 But my soul will ascend, to yonder portals fair,
 Where I'll be sheltered 'neath the tender Gardner's care.

wrist. Gladys Roberts entered school Monday. She comes from Capetlope Gap, but we are losing two pupils, Tylene Peoples who goes to Rankin, and Annie Small who goes to Wichita Falls.

 We had eight on honor roll and we are going to try to have more on next month.

 A part of our books for our library have come and we are enjoying them very much. We are indebted to the Ward School P. T. A. for them.

We hope to be the best Fifth grade that will pass to the Sixth grade. We had to learn Psalm I. We will have a number of verses to learn this year. Christene Zachary and Kathryn Wylie will be reporters next week.

home from five until seven o'clock Thursday afternoon. We had our fortunes told and played games. We had a very nice time.

Anita Kirkpatrick and Marilyn Baxter were chosen to ask them and most everyone responded. We are very grateful to the business people of the town for their liberal offering. We will try to give you a program soon.

Patriotism Boiled Down

Patriotism boiled down, reduced to its common denominator, is community service. Patriotism so unselfishly asserted in times of war is an indication of the intensity to which it has been developed in times of peace.

Men fight for those things which they have built up and of which they have become a part. The institutions of the people and for the people are worth defending when attacked, and are likewise worth supporting during the common experiences of less hazardous periods.

To be loyal to home, school, church, lodge or other civic organization—to the community itself—is not necessarily placing one's self into a position of prominence, nor imposing one's ideals and personality in respect to the work. To support home industry and business consistently is a mark of prudence, yet such a policy can be carried out without ostentation.

"To thine own self be true" is a time-honored phrase which can be translated into terms of community service. One can be true to one's self with considerable difficulty if all of one's thoughts and actions are the products of selfish motives.

A rich heritage has come down to us from those who pioneered the way. We have much on which to build, much now to enjoy. We stand even in the position of pioneering adventurers to those who will follow.

What we do, how much we leave behind will be taken up and put to use by the future generations. Should it not be a source of pride to us to build solidly and sensibly? What other markers can we leave to point the ways of progress?

There may or may not be more battles to fight and wars to wage in the literal sense. If not, shall we be less patriotic in the cause of freedom, or strive less devotedly for principles of right and conditions of well being? The tide of ignorance shall be stemmed, crime shall be battled against, and the forces of good government, education and morality shall be spurred on. And applying ourselves with full devotion to these tasks we, too, shall be called patriots.

What we can't understand is why the Presidential candidates have been fighting so hard to be the head of a government which the people rule.

Our constant aim is to make the Santa Anna News so good that a fellow can't borrow your copy for the very good reason that you are busy reading it.

When Is A Handicap?

All handicaps have their compensating values. This is why so many people who are physically handicapped are alert, cheerful, industrious, in a measure prosperous and comparatively happy.

Efficiency undoubtedly has something to do with success, but experience shows that physical "handicaps" are sometimes misnomers.

A man who limps to an extent that he can not do strenuous manual labor such as digging ditches, will often become the town's leading banker. If he has the gray matter to develop into one. Of course one form of occupation is just as honorable as the other, but decidedly less remunerative.

There is a physical law of compensation, mental in its workings but which even the medical profession will point out and sustain.

One may wonder why "fat" men are so often found in positions of proprietorship. It is not because the fat man has more brain power, but in many cases it is because of the nature of his body he can not become actively engaged in physical tasks, and therefore the world steps aside and places him behind an executive's desk, or into a position of directorship where he becomes the superior in the privilege of directing others who are more fortunate in body but less subject to the old inevitable law of physical compensation.

It must be understood here that all one has to do to reach a pinnacle of fame or goal of fortune is to go out and get one's foot smashed, one's arm cut off, or eat a lot of candy and potatoes and take on flesh. Such things aren't done deliberately, especially since civilization as we know it has advanced from the days when men maimed themselves as a sacrifice and an appeasement to the gods.

But should one happen to be a little out of line physically from the common run of people there is consolation in the fact that opportunity, thru compensation effects, will open the door for him if he uses his head.

However, our readers will kindly not expect an editorial in our next issue claiming that mental handicaps are a boon to mankind.

You don't see so many pictures of girls playing tennis, because they don't play in bathing suits.

There is much about crime in the newspapers—and in the Bible.

The Local Newspaper

In spite of the fact that the metropolitan press now reaches into nearly every town and village in the country, the local newspaper in the United States is each year getting a firmer foundation and becoming more and more useful to its home community.

It may be said that the day of the metropolitan newspaper is at hand. This is true, but it is equally as true that the day of the local newspaper is here, too.

The metropolitan daily with its world-wide news, its comic sheet and its magazine supplements, while of course essential in our modern civilization, cannot take the place of the home newspaper. The very fact that the big city daily must cover a broad field where the home newspaper dominates and where it finds its true usefulness.

For, after all, it is the home news which is most important to most of us. We have the greatest interest in the community in which we live, and in the people who are our neighbors and friends. And it is the local newspaper which records the happenings of the folks at home, and in addition fosters the civic pride and progressive spirit of the community.

We frequently hear it said that the old time independent spirit of the newspaper is gone, that editorial policy is now subservient to the business office. Yet this is not true. There is more unselfish idealism in the average local newspaper than in any other business enterprise. It frequently speaks out in the way which it believes will be for the good of the nation and of the community, regardless of what the consequences may be from a business standpoint. This is more than the average business man will do or can do.

Of course the local newspaper is now on a firm business basis. This is why it is improving from year to year, why it is giving its readers a constantly better newspaper, and why it is increasing its influence for good in the community. But the local newspaper is still the principal booster for the community, and it does its boosting often without any hope of material reward.

The greatest crime in the movies is the way they select their heroes.

Men who are letting their whiskers grow are doing so to probably hide the neckties they will get for Christmas.

Men who are letting their whiskers grow are doing so to probably hide the neckties they will get for Christmas.

THINKING IN RIGHT CHANNELS

"A penny for your thoughts"—how often have you heard that expression?

Very frequently, no doubt. You may expect some such a quiet rebuke from a friend when you are "lost" to everything about you.

Yet, how many of us waste much valuable time with "penny for your thought" thinking? It's nothing new that as a man thinks, so is he. And the more he thinks in the right channels, the better he will be able to reach the goal in life which he has set for himself.

But he is selfish if he thinks only for himself and this aims. He is not a good citizen unless he shares his thoughts with the place where he lives.

An dw hen he thinks of the community where he lives, does he think constructively or destructively? Does he see improvement and a bright future for his home town, or does he visualize in his thoughts only a bleak future for every public enterprise that is attempted?

That all depends on what manner of man he is. If he believes in the place he has selected to live in, he will think of it as a growing, thriving community that is going to become more attractive every year. If he is a community scoffer, he will think only of the failures that are ahead.

Santa Anna needs the former class and none of the latter. Men and women who believe in this community and are willing to put their thoughts into action are the ones who will ut us on the map.

And another thing, we've had considerable experience in writing obituaries, and time and test have proved to us that one isn't altogether satisfactory to the relatives unless it lays a great deal of stress on how greatly the departed was interested in the affairs of his community.

A man fell from a three story building the other day and landed on his head. Reports say he will recover. That man would make a good politician.

Men who are letting their whiskers grow are doing so to probably hide the neckties they will get for Christmas.

THE REWARDS OF SAVING

A Chicago banker has found that if the "widow's mite," assuming it to be a cent, had been invested 1900 years ago at 5 per cent semi-annual interest, compounded, it today would reach the brain-bling sum of $563,000,000,000,000,000,000.

Now the banker or no other person would say that the widow ought to have invested her mite rather than give it to the cause she did, but every person will point to it as an illustration of the tremendous expansion a small sum of money will experience if placed at compound interest.

The banker give a more practical example for his point, when he says that $5 a month placed in a saving bank paying 3 per cent will net the saver in thirty years the surprising sum of $29,113, or if invested at 5 per cent in bonds will become $41,609 in the same period of time.

Any school boy can catch the lesson of thrift, which these examples teach. Thrift as an abstraction may not have much of an appeal for youth, but in such terms as the Chicago banker uses, the subject become practical and interesting and illustrates that habits of industry and thrift bring their reward.

A Statement to the Public by L. W. Baldwin, President of the MISSOURI PACIFIC LINES

Future of the Southwest Will Be Measured by the Agricultural Development

BASIC importance of agriculture is unquestioned. Everyone knows that sound and lasting prosperity in the United States is dependent upon the prosperity of our Agricultural Industry. This is especially true in the Great Southwest. And this fundamental, economic truth is recognized by the Missouri Pacific Lines. Furthermore, the Missouri Pacific organization is doing everything possible to assist in putting all branches of Agriculture on a happy and prosperous basis.

Demand and market for products of Agriculture are increasing in far greater proportion than our increases in population would seem to justify. Improved transportation—distribution—is largely responsible. Fresh fruits and vegetables, only recently referred to as "out of season" and as hot house luxuries, now are common articles of diet the year round on nearly every table in the country. American producers now are marketing annually nearly 2,000,000 car loads of perishable fruits and vegetables. This is virtually double the consumption in the United States less than ten years ago and the fact is mentioned merely to show the possibility for future development.

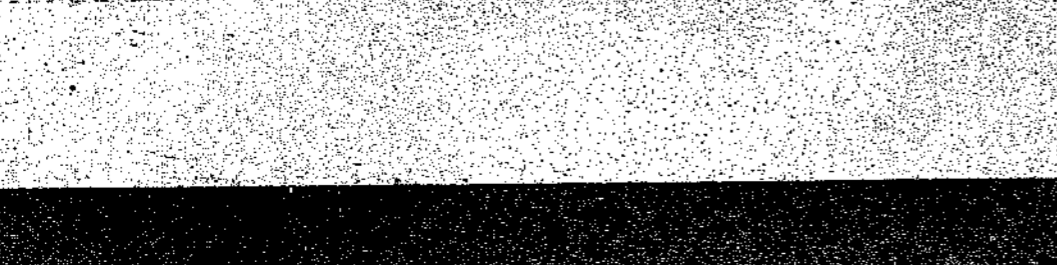

Responsibility for agricultural development rests primarily on the people who are living on the land, but other institutions such as the Missouri Pacific Lines can, and our earnest desire is, to be of great service in working out and applying the solution of the so-called problem of Agriculture. That is the reason the Missouri Pacific Lines maintain a staff of experts available to assist in the development of any community or section along sound and practical lines.

Our experts do not advocate "growing two blades of grass where only one grew before," but they do advocate more efficient and economical production. Or, in other words, Missouri Pacific men advocate more acres of cotton or bushels of wheat or corn on fewer acres. And, in addition, they advocate an intelligent diversification of production that has for its ultimate aim, a cash "pay day" on every farm every month.

There are vast areas of comparatively undeveloped territory along the Missouri Pacific Lines and not only the experts in our Agricultural Development organization but also every member of the Missouri Pacific Lines family will gladly help farmers and any others interested in any scheme or plan for constructive development of any community.

Millions of dollars of new wealth have been created and put in circulation in the Southwest, in some instances largely and in many places at least partially as a result of the assistance of the Missouri Pacific Lines. More such tangible prosperity is in prospect. Our organization solicits the opportunity to be helpful wherever possible and anyone interested should feel free to consult any Missouri Pacific man at any time.

I solicit your co-operation and assistance.

To the first half-million new Ford owners

TO THE half-million men and women who have received new Fords in the last eleven months, there is no need to dwell on the performance of the car.

You have tested its speed on the open road. In traffic you have noted its quick acceleration and the safety of its brakes. You know how it climbs the hills. On long trips and over rough stretches you have come to appreciate its easy riding comfort. Continuous driving has proved its economy of operation and low cost of up-keep.

This is an invitation to you to take full advantage of the service facilities of the Ford dealer organization so that you may continue to enjoy many thousands of miles of carefree, economical motoring.

The point is this. You have a great car in the new Ford. It is simple in design, constructed of the best materials and machined with unusual accuracy. It is so well-made, in fact, that it requires surprisingly little attention. Yet that doesn't mean it should be neglected. Like every other fine piece of machinery, it will serve you better and longer if given proper care.

One of the best ways to do this is to take your car to the Ford dealer every 500 miles for oiling and greasing and a checking-up of the little things that have such a great bearing on long life and continuously good performance.

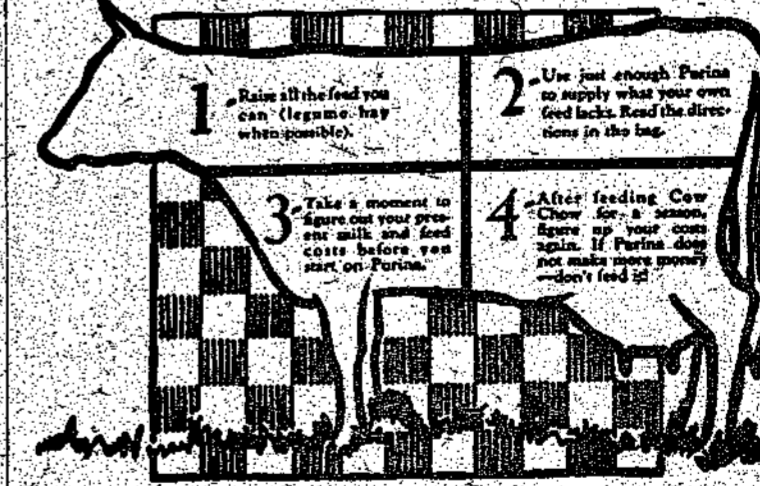

Such an inspection may mean a great deal to your car. To you it means thousands upon thousands of miles of motoring without a care—without ever lifting the hood.

Ford dealers everywhere have been specially trained and equipped to service the new Ford. You will find them prompt and reliable in their work, fair in their charges, and sincerely eager to help you get the greatest possible use from your car for the longest period at a minimum of trouble and expense. That is the true meaning of Ford Service.

Texas and Texans

By Will H. Mays

Railroad Business Improves

It is encouraging to find that the railroad business in Texas is improving despite the presidential election year and the competition of the buses. The report for the nine months ending October 1st shows a decided increase in revenues over a corresponding period of last year, as well as a decided net profit. While a report from the bus and truck lines is not available at this time it is safe to say that an even greater percentage of gain was made in their business. Where transportation companies are prospering the country is in pretty good shape.

Glad It's Over

For a month before the election most business men in Texas when having anything to say about the presidential election would say "I will certainly be glad when it is over." It was the most acrimonious National campaign of many years and many unjust charges were made by campaigners on both sides. Neighbors often became embittered. Now that it is over, we will all likely find, unless we are making business of politics, that we have little effect, except from the temporary lull in business that always follows unnecessary agitation and excitement over any public question. If every Texan would only decide to work for Texas and his own community even half as hard as he worked for his party or his candidate during the campaign, this State would be a greater gainer from the lesson.

News of Public Business

Texas newspapers recently carried a report that the public was denied news of the detailed proceedings of a State board that had under consideration purchases for the state involving $2,000,000. At times it may be wise to hold sessions of purchasing or other boards executive pending the closing of public transactions, but when a board session of any kind, in which the people have an interest because they are paying the bills, has ended its business, every detail of the executive transactions should be made known. Anything short of this destroys confidence in public servants.

Traffic Lights

The announcement that Coleman is to have traffic lights not only shows that Coleman has reached the small city class, but also that Coleman is interested in avoiding traffic collisions. Traffic lights may slow down transportation, but they prove a wonderful help in lessening accidents. Motorists and pedestrians both should be glad to have them installed at every dangerous street crossing. Most of the towns, and this applies even to the small villages, need more signs through them showing the outgoing roads to neighboring places, for it is provoking to have to make repeated stops to inquire about the road out of a town.

Needless Railroad Crossings

The motorists in Texas can hardly make any trip of a hundred miles that it is at all parallel with a railroad without having to cross the railroad several times. Often these crossings are wholly unnecessary, as a better roadway on either side of the railroad could be found. In times of slow rail and vehicle transportation, the crossings were not so dangerous as now, when all traffic is speeded up. In many cases highway underpasses or overpasses could be built at far less cost than would result from one minor accident, but the peril remains for years. Somebody should have the authority and be required to take active steps to eliminate these unnecessary dangers.

Neglecting Valuable Assets

Texas has a wonderful variety of scenic views, and none of them are capitalized for their value. In a recent ride through three Central Texas counties this writer saw scenery of a kind that is seldom seen in other states—views beautiful beyond description—and yet he has never seen in any paper a picture of the scenery in either of the counties, or, as far as he can remember, an attempted description. Every community should do all that can be done to care for its beauty spots, prevent their despoliation, and call attention to them. To bring this about the local people must first be brought into a keener appreciation of them. Why not start by having a number of talks at local civic clubs and articles in the local papers on "the beauty spots" of your community or county? It would be surprising how many would be found.

San Angelo Museum

San Angelo is to have a museum at which will be collected and kept relics, curios, mounted birds and animals and other articles likely to interest this and future generations. The curator, Mrs. W. W. Carson, says there are many valuable private collections in that part of the State that are seldom seen and little known, and her purpose will be to secure as many of these as possible. The State needs and should have a great State museum at Austin in addition to numerous more or less local museums, and museum buildings should be fireproof. What is worth collecting is worth preserving from destruction.

Uvalde Pecan Show

The increasing importance of pecans as a source of revenue is shown in the Texas Pecan Show to be held at Uvalde Nov. 23-24, in the pecan growers institute to be held at Brownwood, Nov. 15-16, and in other meetings where the common interest of those engaged in the pecan industry are discussed. San Saba has even held a "National Pecan Show" that attracted national interest. One of the matters that greatly concerns the growers now is the bearish market always found for pecans, due to the domination of the market by a few large dealers of the North. In many sections dealers are pooling their crops, but they will not avail a great deal unless the pooling become general.

Voted in Texas

Edgar B. Davis, the Luling oil multi-millionaire, came to Texas to vote in the recent election. Since Mr. Davis became enriched by Texas oil, the State in which he formerly lives is unwilling to have him designate Texas as his home and is suing him for an income tax on his oil revenues, which he claims should not be paid there since he is not a citizen of that State. Mr. Davis would have it known that since his discovery of oil in Texas he is a Texas citizen and why shouldn't he be?

Some Radish Crop

The Bishop community has shipped several carloads of radishes, but is having trouble getting labor to gather the 200 cars still awaiting the harvesters. Only about a month is required to grow a crop of radishes, but they have to be gathered and marketed quickly after they mature.

OUR NEXT PRESIDENT

The heat of battle is to be subsided. The cudgels of political strife are to be laid aside. The country is about to settle down once more to the more sober pursuits of partisan peace. We can all look forward with much anticipation of our next President. After all, what democracy takes away from a President in the way of autocratic power it compensates in esteem and respect. The personality of the President typifies leadership. The office of President denotes order and dignity. The President of the United States at all times is both a figure and a head, but not a figurehead. Some one personality must necessarily represent the executive authority of the nation. Many can represent the legislative authority, none of whom is superior to the others; and this is true in a definite sense of the judicial forces of the country. But not so with the executive. The instincts of civilization demand leadership, and this is because of the co-operative and disciplinary instincts of the race for what might be correspondingly termed fellow-ship. The President of the United States is not altogether a remnant of kingdoms. It is more than that. For no organization whether civic, fraternal, political, social or religious can long exist without making itself secure by setting up some form of leadership. Such constituted authority is made possible thru recognition by common consent.

The people of the United States might take away all power and authority in governmental matters from the President, and there would still be the necessity for the office. Such necessity would not alone grow out of the need for a spokesman in internal or in international affairs, not alone out of the necessity that the President delivered profound addresses on great occasions of state and country; but that there may be at the head of the nation in name at least a presence and a personality from whom the people may rightly expect an embodiment of the ideal that orderly and efficient government shall continue to exhibit. Tho all are equal in legal status and political opportunity one may well offer a toast of honor and good wishes to our Mr. Hoover. He represents that opportunity which by our form of government is made common to all Americans.

THE JOY OF LIVING

The greatest satisfaction of living is not to create wealth and then retire to private life, but to keep on spreading sunshine, good cheer and doing worthy deeds, making every minute of our life count.

What a contrast there is between men who obtain riches, and then drop down on Main street or Easy street to spend the rest of their life doing no good and the man who is in love with his work, and keeps consistently at it until his services are halted by a Higher Command.

For the past twenty years John Philip Sousa, noted band leader, has been reported as ready to retire, but every year he comes back again on his tour just an example of the joy of living!

There is a demand today for more like him. In his 85th year he answers this question of retiring, with, "When I do retire you will pick up your newspaper and say: 'Oh, look! Sousa's dead!'"

Wouldn't it be nice if an auto license would last as long as a marriage license is supposed to last.

The day of the log cabin has passed but almost any great man now will tell you that his grandpap used to drive a two cylinder car.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Rev. P. B. Fitzwater, D. D.
Dean, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago
(6, 1928, Western Newspaper Union)

PAUL'S EXPERIENCE IN JERUSALEM

LESSON TEXT—Acts 21:17-27.
GOVERNMENT—Be strong in the Lord and in the power of His might.
PRIMARY TOPIC—How a Boy Helped His Uncle.
JUNIOR TOPIC—How a Boy Helped His Uncle.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Paul's Defense.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Religious Prejudice and Fanaticism.

I. Paul's Vow (21:18-20).
Upon Paul's arrival at Jerusalem representatives of the church there gave him a most cordial reception. In order that the brethren in Jerusalem might graciously receive him, it was proposed to have by the elders that he take a Jewish vow to prove that he was in no way opposed to the law. The effort was to remove prejudice.

II. Paul's Arrest (21:27-40).
How far this act conciliated the Christian Jews we are not told, but it only enraged the unbelieving Jews, causing them to resort to mob law. These maddened Jews no the basis of a supposition seized Paul, dragged him from the temple and beat him mercilessly, intending to put him to death. Paul was rescued from the mob by the Roman guard. The chief captain, not being able to get any information from the howling mob, bound Paul and started for the castle. In order to protect him from the murderous frenzy of the mob, the soldiers lifted him upon their shoulders and bore him up the stairs thus shielding him from violence.

III. Paul's Defense (22:1-27).
Paul's chief concern was not his own safety. He used this last opportunity of witnessing for Christ.

1. His just claim for a hearing (vv. 1-3).
(1) His birth (v. 3). He was Jew-born in Tarsus, a city of no mean reputation.

(2) His education (v. 3). He was educated in a school under the tutelage of Gamaliel and instructed according to the perfect manner of the law of the fathers.

(3) His zeal (v. 3). He was as zealous toward God as those Jews who were trying to destroy him.

2. His fervent attitude toward Jesus (vv. 4-27).
"I persecuted this way unto the death," so that his attitude was one of hatred as was that of the Pharisees.

3. How his attitude was changed (vv. 6-10).
This change of attitude was wrought about by the intervention of God. While on his way to Damascus with authority to bring the Christians to Jerusalem to be punished, Paul was smitten to the ground by a light from heaven, and the voice of the Lord said, "Why persecutest thou me? When Paul inquired as to what he was to do, he was told to go into Damascus, where he would be told what to do. Ananias was sent by the Lord to make known His will.

4. The Lord commissioned him to go to the Gentiles (vv. 17-21).
It was not of his own will that he preached to the Gentiles, but by the Lord's direct commission.

IV. Paul Before the Sanhedrin (23:1-10).
The Roman officer, in order to learn why Paul was arrested, commanded the chief council to assemble and brought Paul before them.

1. Paul's earnest look at the council (vs. 1-2).
This was a solicitation of their honor to give him a fair hearing and also a look of conscious integrity and unflinching courage.

2. Paul's stern rebuke of the head of the council (v. 3).
"God shall smite thee, thou whited wall." This was a just sentence, no doubt directed by the Lord. Paul showed that he had the highest respect for the office, but the man then decrying it was not worthy of it.

3. Paul's appeal to the Pharisees (vv. 6-10).
Seeing that he could not get a fair hearing and perceiving that the body before him was made up of Pharisees and Sadducees, he appealed to the Pharisees hoping to get their support for his cause.

4. Paul's something to common with their belief.
The Lord stood by Paul (v. 11). He was in great need of grace to sustain him. He may have begun to question the wisdom of his going to Jerusalem, but the assurance that his course was right, and this comfort, was brought to him.

V. The Conspiracy to Kill Paul (vv. 18-22).
More than forty men banded together for the purpose of getting Paul out of the way. They placed themselves under a curse to abstain from eating and drinking until they had murdered him. This plot was known to Paul's sister's son (v. 16), who reported it, and thus doubtless saved the apostle's life.
