Lions To Co-operate In Clean-Up Campaign

The weekly luncheon was well attended Tuesday. Announcement was made by committee in charge of arranging for banquet for Lions and their wives and family friends on Tuesday night, October 30th that this would be made an occasion and affair unparalleled in the history of Lionism in Santa Anna. All members are looking forward to this gala occasion with happy solicitude and anxiety. The banquet will be held in the armory building which will be decorated in keeping with the season and the ideals of Lionism. It is hoped by the committee to honor the meeting with the presence of the district governor of the organization in this section.

The subject foremost in the minds of all members present was the proposed Clean-Up Campaign for our little city which could be made one of the prettiest in the state with every citizen doing his full duty in the matter. The club heartily endorsed the movement which is being fostered by the various organizations of the town and expressed its desire to assist in every way possible to make this Clean-Up a success.

Each individual is an integral part of organized society. Only in so far as each individual does his duty in all civic enterprises will society function in a manner measuring up to its greatest possibilities. If everyone will make it his major activity to see that his own premises are cleaned up then we shall have a clean town.

God has blessed us in giving us a city landscape unlike any other. Anyone who has ever chanced to pass through our little city will always happily recall it because of the unique topography of the vicinity. May we not show our appreciation of this blessing by doing our bit and making our premises as beautiful as is consistently possible.

Burnet County Youths Hurt When Hit By Large Bus

Three Burnet county youths were severely bruised and cut when struck by a Pecan Valley bus, said to have been driven by Jack Nelson, near here Friday night at eight fifteen.

D. C. Ballard and Bill Whiteley were both carried to the Sealy hospital where the left leg of Ballard was amputated and Whiteley received treatment for cuts and bruises which are said to be painful but not serious.

Fred Murphy was carried to a hospital in Coleman where it was found his right leg was broken and where he was treated for scalp wounds.

The death rate in this country is anything above 45 miles an hour.

The Infinity Within Us

Dr. Robert A. Millikan, who is just about America's best known scientist, does not believe that the world is ever going to come to an end.

Far out in the cold darkness of interstellar night the universe Dr. Millikan believes, is constantly rebuilding itself. One age-long miracle is replacing worn-out stars and rejuvenating fading planets; when our sun burns to a cinder a new sun will replace it, and when the far-flung torches of the milky way burn down in their sockets the heaven will blaze with new lights.

Dr. Millikan, being a scientist and dealing with such things as cosmic rays, is not concerned greatly with the human aspects of this vision. But, although our days are rather strictly limited and numbered, we cannot help being thrilled. Our souls never will be satisfied with anything less than infinity and eternity; if we hear that the earth's life is to end fifty million years from now we are depressed. The word "everlasting" is the greatest word in our vocabulary.

This is odd, when you stop to think about it. We measure our daily affairs by single years, by decades, or at most by centuries. We speak of the "antiquity" of Egyptian pyramids 3000 years old, and to speculate on the civilization of the year 1928 seems like peering into the most remote future. Yet we can wistfully stretch the time in which the scientist deals, and we can shiver when we hear that our sun, aeons hence, will go out.

Yet this may not be so strange after all. We are, as the psalmist said, as the flower that withereth but there is something strangely imperishable and unchangeable in our hearts. Limited to a span of three score and ten years, we have, nevertheless, infinity within us.

This may be irrational, but it is magnificent. It is what has sustained men in all ages, from the day of dark caves to the day of skyscrapers. It has heartened uncounted millions of nameless heroes to die for causes they only half understood. It has led them to the way from Arbel to Chateaubault. It has led them to the slow un-rewarded toll on tossing ships, in damp mines, on sunbaked farms, in gloomy city slums. It has led, at intervals, lonely figures to solitary heights from which they could glimpse confused visions of splendor and trace some sort of pattern in humanity's chaos.

The world will never end—the universe does not know what death is. Did we, after all, need Dr. Millikan to tell us? Did we not know it all the time?

If you want to make up your mind which candidate to vote for, try the blindfold test. But don't drink too much of any of them.

Athletics On Cash Basis Again

We are deeply appreciative of the liberality and generosity of the following donors who when solicited the past few days for contributions made it possible to get the athletic department out of debt for the first time in years and to get the local gridiron properly marked. It has been an uphill grade to finance athletics with a slim patronage of games and trying to pay off an inherited debt of around $375. When I took over the financing of this activity we owed about $375. This is now paid in full and we have a fairly well equipped squad and a small balance in the bank. This accomplishment has been made possible only through the gratuity and support of our friends. May our school and its teams ever acquit themselves in such a manner as to warrant your continued good will and assistance.

A New Cotton Disease

A new disease of cotton has been discovered by Dr. J. J. Taubenhau, Chief, Division of Plant Pathology, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, in connection with his studies of the cotton root rot disease. This new disease has been found in three different sections of Texas, including the blackland section, and its effects upon cotton are in many respects, similar to those due to the cotton wilt, common in the eastern states. Just how serious this new disease may now be, or may become, is not known, but it is not believed to be of so much importance as cotton root rot, nor is it believed that farmers need feel serious apprehension at the present. In the study of cotton root rot disease from every angle that offers hope for a practical solution of the problem, these workers are also careful to note the presence and activity of any other disease of cotton which may be affecting the crop under Texas conditions.

Dates for the eight annual poultry show of the Coleman County Poultry Association, to be held in that city, were set for December 6, 7 and 8, according to plans made Saturday night at a meeting of the association.

In addition to making plans for the show, officers and directors for the ensuing year were elected. A. L. Lockhart was chosen president; J. G. Whitlington, vice president; C. G. Pitts, treasurer; Charles R. Wilson, secretary; Elmo V. Cook, superintendent.

Directors selected were: R. B. Barnett, Cecil Gray, C. A. Gordon, John Slate, R. D. Boyer, Jack Coker, S. O'Neal, J. W. Mead, J. R. Adams. A grievance committee composed of S. O'Neal, Cecil Gray and C. A. Gordon was also selected.

Go-Op. Members May Now Fix Price On Cotton In Bureau

Farm Bureau Members, Under New Contract Now Effective, May Designate Day They Want Price Fixed

A new Farm Bureau contract, giving the member the privilege of naming the day upon which he desires the base price of his cotton fixed, has been approved by the Board of Directors of the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Association, and is now in effect. This information was received here last week by D. A. Cameron, field service representative. The new contract he said also gives the members privilege of cancellation at two years intervals, and in addition to the price fixation pooling plan, still retains the regular seasonal pool. Cotton shipped by the member to the price fixation in the future can now be sold and the price fixed at any time designated by the member. Mr. Cameron said, "assuming the member practically complete settlement at any specified time. This assurance will now enable the member to make his financial arrangement along definite plans and the new contract from this view should also prove of more unanimous endorsement and approval on the part of business interests."

DIXIE SEEKS A CHAUFFEUR FOR UNCLE SAM

We people down in Dixie have a "knowledge" with our "zeal". We know a man that's "boozey" Should never "hold the wheel". So, in seeking for a chauffeur For dear old Uncle Sam, We've found a noble "Yankee" Who's as sober as a lamb.

So, it's good-bye "Allie", With your "Tammany" mob; For you're too "loud-sneeling" To ask us for the job. You may drive for the "woppies" Of your own foreign state; But never, Ah! No, Never! For "America The Great!"

Yes, Dixie knows the danger It's pangs we keenly feel; Of a "Rum-soaked" driver If he's seated at the wheel. We know there's a wreck awaiting For our Uncle's "Flivver-e" So, we're "passing up" the "donkey" For the sober G. O. P.

Some call us wicked "boilers", And "cuss" through and through; And say that we are "big-gots", And that we "whisper" too; But this will only help us— Add courage to our zeal. To keep a "boozey" chauffeur From our Uncle Sammie's wheel.

Gill Ranch To Exhibit Fine Cattle

B. O. Gammon, of Des Moines, Iowa, secretary of the Polled Hereford Breeders' Association, visited the Gill ranch near Whon last week and selected two heifers and one bull calf to be placed on exhibition at the Fat Stock Show in Fort Worth next March. The Gill is the leading Polled Hereford ranch in these parts, there being only four ranches in the southwest registering more polled cattle than does the Gill.

Vocational Agriculture Class Attends Runnells County Fair

Last Friday afternoon, headed by their instructor, Prof. J. M. Blinton, 26 of the Vocational Agriculture class of the Santa Anna High School, left by auto for Ballinger to attend the Runnells County Fair.

Upon arrival a survey of the exhibits was made, the various departments, located, the inner man provided for, the boys retired to a camping sight outside the city, where camp was set up. After all arrangements were made for the night's repose, they returned to the fair grounds and enjoyed the carnival attractions and other amusement features until time to retire for the night.

With the coming of the new day they were up bright and early to make a detailed study of the fair. The boys were furnished with information blanks and each filled in the blanks according to his personal observations. After every department of the fair had been visited and a careful study made of the existing conditions the journey back to Santa Anna was made.

CHEVROLET CAR AND TRUCK TOURING FOREIGN COUNTRIES

News of the conclusion of what was perhaps the most hazardous endurance test ever undertaken by an automobile—the famous Chevrolet trek up through the center of Africa from Cape Town to Cairo—has just reached the United States recently in the form of the following brief cable from General Motors, South African Ltd., "Chevrolet expedition reached Cairo August 6. All the way by road, no boat, no rail. Greatest achievement of its kind in automobile history. Sedan and truck in excellent mechanical condition."

As this is written the expedition, consisting of a standard Chevrolet sedan and truck, manned by four adventurers, has in all probability, crossed the Bosphorus to Constantinople. Twenty-four large European cities are to be visited before it arrives in London. Ten thousand miles will have been traversed when it concludes marking the trip in Stockholm.

The expedition, which informed the world of the finish of the 8,000 Cape-Town-Cairo journey in the astonishing time of 100 days, was lacking in detail, but it sufficed for the time being to satisfy American Chevrolet officials that no trail however perilous is too difficult for a standard Chevrolet car.

Of the earlier stages of the perilous undertaking there was no lack of detail. From the day the expedition set forth from Cape Town, March 7 at the height of the rainy season, vivid accounts of the trek were sent back to civilization at intermittent intervals. The party is not lacking in competent historians. Besides C. H. V. Lackey, the chief of the party includes Gordon Makepeace, newspaper man; Wallie

Wilson, expert wireless operator, and Billie Williams, famous cinematographer. Published accounts of the journey were made possible from time to time thru the co-operation of the famous South African Argus group of newspapers.

No summary, such as is necessary here, can do justice to this jaunt over "the great North road. Cecil Rhodes dream highway." Knee deep in water for weeks at a time, the expedition plugged doggedly on across treacherous crocodile infested, Bahora Flats and the swelled banks of the Ruvu river. The Bahora Flats are 70 miles across, yet it requires the intercept Chevrolet expedition 17 days to effect a passage.

The sedan is outfitted with two spare tanks each holding seven gallons. It has detachable gauze windows, and seats that drop back to allow sleeping accommodations. Wire screen were fitted in front of the radiators of both sedan and truck to prevent grass seeds and mud from choking the radiators.

Inside the sedan, rifles and shot guns are slung up under the roof. The tire carriers at the rear of both cars have been altered to carry two spare tires. Over-size tires, $125.00 are used. Both cars are equipped with bumpers, and two lights and a heat meter. The expedition was expected to have reached Stockholm early in October.

TOO MUCH GLARE

It is little wonder that the National Electric Light Association is in the spotlight. Turning the light onto a light association ought to make quite a flash.

Many a man ultimately succeeds because he has the ability to look prosperous and happy when he is neither.

USE YOUR JUDGMENT AND VOTE

Somehow we can't get up much enthusiasm for the fellow who is always declaring there is no difference between the two great political parties; that both are controlled by grafters; that neither party cares anything for the welfare of the people; that all the politicians are merely out to feather their own nests. There are good men and bad men in both parties. But there is a fundamental difference between the Republican party and the Democratic party. Always has been. We respect the citizen who makes an honest choice and goes to the polls and votes for what he considers his best interests, whether that vote is Democratic or Republican. He is using his best judgment and performing a duty of good citizenship and is rendering his country some service, much more in fact than one who says the whole political game is a rotten frame-up, and falls to vote. There are differences of opinion as to public questions; but each political party is striving to do what it thinks best for the country, from selfish interest if for no other reason. Use your right as a citizen. If politics is the crooked game that some claim, then they should take hold and help clean house.

Tailored Coat Dress for Street Wear

Interest is revived in the coat dress for street wear, styled one of the very new lightweight woolens, or of the new rayon and wool weaves which are so effective. Perfect tailoring is the outstanding feature of these frocks, with attention directed to unusual detail. A handsome fur neckpiece is indispensable.

A VALUABLE VOTE

We often hear the inquiry pleasantly "What you payin' for votes today?" As a matter of fact if a candidate actually paid for votes what they are worth he would be broke by election day and owe a lot of money besides.

A vote is worth more than the amount of effort to cast it. It is not so much the fact that one vote has often decided an issue or elected a candidate that renders it valuable; but it becomes worthy and valuable in proportion to the conscience and judgment of the voter who casts it. Strange as it may seem, a vote is more damaging to the individual and to the country when it is not cast by reason of carelessness and indifference than it is valuable when cast. This is because of the loss of interest in government—a contagion that is serious. The man or woman who gets out and works for a candidate, who the election is lost, actually does less complaining and criticizing of the way things are running than the man or woman who stays at home on election day and says it won't make much difference anyhow.

A single vote may not represent a large poll—of registering numerically the strength of the electorate. On the other hand, we urge a heavy vote because we believe citizens gradually, at least, grow into citizenship's responsibilities by a repeated exercise of the right of suffrage. Just as we believe no person was ever made "good" by force of law, no government was ever made better by compulsion of the ballot. The proper interest in government results from a high sense of duty in the functions of citizenship. The act of voting is but an incident in the cause of good government.

We would not think of urging votes for the mere sake of securing a large poll—of registering numerically the strength of the electorate. On the other hand, we urge a heavy vote because we believe citizens gradually, at least, grow into citizenship's responsibilities by a repeated exercise of the right of suffrage. Just as we believe no person was ever made "good" by force of law, no government was ever made better by compulsion of the ballot. Chinese Fear Tiger As Dragon

C. P. O. Box No. 1234, Shanghai, China, Aug. 30, 1928

Dear Editor: Enclosed I send you a tiger. Chinese speak of four tigers—The yellow and black tiger, the black tiger, the white tiger and the money tiger. The latter is made of cash, the black tiger is the steed of the god-of-wealth. The white tiger is a sign of bad luck so is never seen in pictures. From childhood the Chinese fear the tiger. He is made a bogaboo to frighten children. If naughty they are told the "Tao-hui" (tiger) will catch them. So "tiger" is an ever present fear to little "Chinks," not only, but it remains to old age, rather as an evil-spirit than as a tiger. As one goes along the roads he sees paper tigers pasted over the door that the evil spirits, seeing the tiger, will flee away to a tigerless house. Chinese have great faith in tiger bones, claws and sinews as medicine. Since the tiger is so strong, medicine made of him must make one strong. Travelling medicine men with tiger skins stretched on poles as sign-boards rarely wait long for purchasers of their wares.

On the tiger enclosed, rides Chang Tao-ling, the first Taoist Pope in China. He is said to have been born on Tien Moh San (Heavenly-eye Mountain) in A. D. 35. I have been on this mountain when out itinerating and slept in one of the temples, Chang was asked to be an official; but he chose to meditate in silence and cultivate virtue. He went to dwell in China's Western Hills where he was shown, by a book given him from above, how to find the elixir of life and from other ancient books, how to ascend to heaven, how to fly, and how to walk among the stars. With such other magic powers he could fight demons, divide mountains and seas, rule the winds and thunder and send demons running with fright or bring spirits cowering before him. Being the head of the Taoists and being in possession of the elixir of life and of talismans for the cure of all diseases, not only is he highly respected; but he has enabled the Taoist priests to gain great wealth by the sale of such things to the people and they themselves to be sought out as great healers.

Charm with Chang Tao-ling's seal are purchased by rich and poor for goodly sums, and are carried about on their persons. You can see these charms and seals above Chang's head. You will see, too, that he is dressed in fine figured garments. In his right hand is his gavel of authority and in his left hand he has a cup of the elixir of everlasting life. The tiger on which he rides is crushing with its paws the five poisonous creatures that represent all creatures that injure the health. If you look carefully you can make out a snake, toad, centipede, lizard, and a spider. The little spider behind has in its mouth Chang's own magic sword. Chang is pasted up in the home on the "Double 5th"—5th of 5th Moon—June 22nd this year. He's supposed to repress the poisonous creatures so to ward off calamity and sickness, especially during the hot, trying months of summer. On the Double 5th the children are dressed in cheap, tiger-like suits of clothes, also to keep off disease-causing evil spirits who wish to harm children but are afraid of tigers. The children are also decorated with charms around their necks and arm and have tiger stripes of yellow paint on their faces.

Chang Tao-ling is also called the "Heavenly Teacher." "Chang the Angel," "Chief of the Wizards," "The Ideal Man," etc. I suppose 50,000,000 of him, such as I enclose, are pasted up and worshipped each year. The headquarters of this descendants and of the Taoists has been on the Dragon-tiger Mountain in Kiangsi Province since A. D. 1000. From this place comes millions of charms, talismans, etc., to be sold to credulous people all over China. So you see how deeply steeped in superstition the Chinese are and how they need the Precious Gospel of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ. With best wishes and kindest regards, Yours in Christ's glad service, (Rev.) H. G. C. Hallock.

NOT A NICKEL COUNTRY

Time was when the Nickel was an important piece of money in this country. It bought a quart of milk, a glass of beer (hurst), a good cigar, a street car ride, or a ham sandwich.

You could get an automobile ride for a "Jitney." A Jitney, you know, is a Nickel. Only the name survives. The first motion picture theatres were "Nickelodons," another word that died shortly after birth. You can still buy a newspaper for a Nickel, or less, but few of them are worth it at that.

There are those who mourn the shrinking purchasing power of the Nickel and who wish for its return—not considering that such isn't a consummation devoutly to be wished. With its return to what they consider Normal would come $1,500 a day for unskilled labor, $12 a week for the skilled labor, and $25 a week for the top-notch goal in the white collar class.

Of course you could take your Nickel to rance where it would be venerated. Drop a Nickel on a Paris sidewalk and many a Frenchman would lose his dignity and risk a thumb and forefinger being trampled on to get it.

But here it isn't much. It is Good Money, however, for they say it goes to church.

American women use ten thousand tons of talcum powder each year. So far statistics have not revealed how much gun powder they use also.

The trouble with living in a big house would be to think of the many rooms you would have to search in looking for your pipe.

Birds

BIRDS seem to have played an important part in the superstitions of all countries and ages. They cause us to wonder continually on the wings they were supposed to observe and know the hidden action of men, and all their secrets. As the old adage runs: "No one knows except perhaps some bird."

Some of the singular superstitions in regard to birds are: If anyone cut the tongue of a goose alive and lay it upon the breast of a man or woman asleep, they will confess all their sins.

If a man carry the heart of a male crow, and his wife the heart of a female, they will never be true to themselves all their lifetime.

The eyes and heart of a nightingale laid about men in bed will keep them awake. If anyone dissolve

When and give them secrets, to any eye to drink, he will never sleep, but will die; there is no cure.

That the soul quits the dead body in the form of a bird is a widespread belief or superstition from the earliest of times. The Egyptian hieroglyphs bear witness to the soul of a man.

A song sung by the women of Africa, Venice, declares that the soul of Daniel-Martin, the poet, is flying above the lagoons to this day in the shape of a heron.

Montaigne is said to have received singular information from a woman which was a superstitious belief of the angel Gabriel to appear and whisper in his ear. Another curious belief is that good birds cleanse and assist through their talismanic virtues. One of these supposed to be found in the beginning of a century gave health and success to its finders.

Storms and the Moon

IN BOHEMIA the peasants hold it unlucky to walk under a rainbow, and they say that the rain which descends through the bow blights all it falls upon.

Among the ancients good and ill luck was derived from thunder and lightning; if these occurred on the left, the omen was favorable. Thunder in reports evens in number in "divine" good luck; lightning from north to west, evil, if accompanied by hail.

The moon exercises a great influence on good or ill luck; to see a new moon the first time after change, on the right hand, or directly before one, indicates good luck.

The Africans believe you should never begin a journey by the east quarter of the moon. It is bad luck to look at the new moon for the first time through the window.

A new moon seen over your right shoulder is lucky; over the left shoulder is unlucky; and straight before you indicates good luck to the end of the season.

Spangled Jackets and Capelets for Evening

In the frivolous little spangled jackets of chiffon and the palmetted shawls of tulle, also various variations of fantastic capelets, the same to be worn over extremely delicate velvet or chiffon evening gowns, fashion has attained the coveted "something different." The quaint little jackets, some of them as thin as summer mist, others of net, often have long or tight fitting sleeves, or they may be sleeveless. Brown tulle is liked for the diaphanous shawls.

DON'T LET SUCCESS GO TO YOUR HEAD

The main chance is today's chance. The wrecks along life's highways testify to that simple truth. It is right and good to look ahead, but the man who sees farthest is the man who keeps his eyes on his job. It is splendid to have the urge to climb high. But the man who gets there is he who never takes his gaze from the finger holds in the sheer rock wall of his hard ascent. Pitiful is it to see the broken hulk of a man lying at the base of life's mountain side and to know that he fell from high when success had turned his head.

Every day in every field, we see these wrecks. And they point a moral that no man dare disregard. Life's work is, in deed, a climb and few and far between are the plateau lands upon which the breathless toiler may seek refreshment. How many are the men in private business or public concerns, who, flushed with zeal for great attainment, despise the smaller tasks which lead them to the goal. How often a man who uses a public office to gain a higher honor, awakes to the rude actually found wanting in his simple trust.

The key to great opportunity lies in proving true in the obscure, humble tasks of the present moment. The man who keeps ever in his mind that his present job is his main job, that the present chance is the main chance, builds, slowly, but surely, to broader trusts and greater achievements. The builder knows that the higher he would rear his structure toward the heavens, the deeper and broader and stronger must be the Preliminary estimates for 1928 place the values of Texas crops for the year at $800,000,000 and of livestock at $400,000,000 making a total of $1,200,000,000.

KNOW TEXAS

Texas produces between 700,000 and 800,000 barrels of oil a day.

A survey indicates that there are sufficient citrus trees in the lower Rio Grande Valley to produce a commercial crop of more than 10,000 car loads of oranges and grape fruit within a period of five years.

Texas has the first unattended dial system telephone exchange in the Southwest. It is located at Pasadena, one and one-half miles east of the Houston city limits. The plant works automatically without the attention of any attendant. A second such plant is to be installed at Lisbon near Dallas.

Texas ranks first among the states in number of ice manufacturing plants and numbers of persons engaged in the industry. The annual production is valued at $25,000,000.

It is estimated that 5,000,000 persons outside of Texas are engaged in industries directly dependent on or connected with Texas cotton.

The ratio of increase in electrical production in Texas is greater than the average for the United States. Interconnection has made electricity available to hundreds of Texas towns which otherwise would not have had this convenience.

For eight years Texas has been the leading state in total value of crops produced. It is estimated the production could be more than doubled by increased land in cultivation.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1928

Among the letters accumulated on our desk while absent last week was one from our good friend, Dr. T. Richard Sealy, who wrote from Boston, Mass. Among other things he states he is having a very interesting time. After leaving home he visited the General Hospital in Kansas City, where he witnessed several major operations performed, then went on to Rochester, Minn. where he spent a week with the Mayo brothers, witnessed a number of interesting surgical operations, while studying for a few days in the Mayo Clinic. The doctor went on to Chicago, and New York where he watched various surgeons work, then went to Boston where he is attending the 18th Annual College of Surgeons in Clinic Congress. It is a wonderful opportunity for surgeons to assemble and compare their work, for the general benefit of all. A number of the leading physicians and surgeons from over the United States are there in congress this week. Dr. Sealy states that he is having a wonderful time, but will be glad to get back to his home and work he loves so dearly. He expects to arrive about October 21st.

Another measure of economy that none of the candidates has pointed out, would be for Florida and California golfers to borrow the rest of the country's outfalls for the winter season.

Many of those who are old enough to remember and to have drunk "the beer that made Millwaukee famous" probably will consider Governor Smith's Milwaukee speech as having a similar effect on Governor Smith.

Coleman Democrat-Voice Greatly Improved Recently

Recently, the Coleman Democrat-Voice came out all dressed up in a new and very attractive form. The Democrat-Voice has been recognized as being one of the leading weekly newspapers in the state for several years, the business growing until it became necessary to add considerable equipment in order to meet the requirements of the plant. The owner and publisher, H. H. Jackson, has taken time by the forelock and prepared to meet the requirements for years to come. A new and modern building has been erected, new typesetting machine, two large new presses and various other equipment has been added until the plant now represents an investment of near One Hundred Thousand Dollars, and is the best equipped printing plant in the southwest that is only publishing a weekly paper. Mr. Jackson is prepared to meet an emergency, and should the demand for a daily paper be thrust upon him, very little changes will have to be made to begin its publication. In fact, the necessary changes could be made overnight. We congratulate Mr. Jackson on his success in the newspaper and printing field, and congratulate the business interest of Coleman for having such a plant and service at their command. The Santa Anna News is proud of the fact that the leading weekly newspaper in the state of Texas is published in Coleman county. That big, eight column, 28-page edition, recently looked good to us, and proves that nothing short of good management, and the support of a live set of business men, could bring about such a splendid medium.

After some candidates air their views, the voters step in and give them the air. Many men have found that a word to the wives is not sufficient.

Texas and Texans

By Will H. Mays

Good Roads and Hotels

Ten or more years ago most people thought that the building of good roads would ruin the hotel business in the small cities and towns of Texas—that every body who traveled, the roads would want to get to the larger cities to spend the nights. The cities began building larger and better hotels and found them filled with travelers. Some of the progressive small cities decided they would compete with the larger places for the tourist trade and erected better hotels. The hotel building quickly extended to most of the towns located on improved State highways, and it has been found that wherever hotels are erected in progressive towns on good roads they pay for their opening. It seems to be almost impossible to build too many hotels, if only they are modern and the prices are reasonable. Even in towns where the old and antiquated hotels have long been upbraided, the new hotels make money.

New Braunfels Builds

For a long time people who have an occasion to go to New Braunfels on a much traveled road have been so long without a modern hotel there—a good one of its kind is seldom crowded, but those who know the history of hotels here would pay as well as at any other place of the size in Texas. At last the town is to have such a hotel and it is confidently expected that it will be filled with guests who will want to tarry in the beautiful and quaint old town.

Lampasas Offers Bonus

Lampasas was once noted for its large hotel overlooking one of its beautiful parks. People were drawn there from all over the State to enjoy the comforts of the hotel and drink sulphur water for which Lampasas was a well-known health resort. The hotel burned and was not rebuilt. Visitors quit going to Lampasas in large numbers. The parks were neglected and soon had a dilapidated look. The growth of the town almost stopped and trade that once centered there was drawn to more progressive neighboring towns. Lampasas has the appearance of being half asleep most of the time. Its citizens are beginning to wake up and they are now offering a bonus to get a modern hotel in the hope of getting back much of the town's lost prestige. It doesn't pay a town any more than it pays an individual to become too contented.

Root Rot Losses

A trip through the best cotton section of Central Texas reveals something of the immense losses from cotton root rot there being thousands of acres on which no cotton has been produced this year although the land was well cultivated. It looks like poor business judgment to keep these lands planted to cotton. Farmers should at least for a time stop planting the infested spots to cotton and try to build up the soil with legumes or such crops as are susceptible to root rot. Experts are doing their best to combat root rot but it can't be done in a year or two and certainly the soil that has not produced any cotton this year can hardly be expected to prove profitable in cotton next season.

Heavy Train Trucks

The next session of the legislature will likely be called on to do something to regulate the weight of motor truck loads on the roads. Heavy gas tanks of three trucks in one train may now be seen on the Texas highways. These are said to haul as much as 6000 gallons of gas in one train. It is not infrequent to see trucks with trailers loaded with 20,000 to 25,000 pounds of cotton. These trailer train trucks are dangerous to travel and especially on the sharp curves on some roads. They are "road hogs" that are difficult to pass or meet with safety. They wear away the best roads and brodge out of all proportion to their value to commerce and the part they play in building and maintaining roads.

San Saba Fertilizers

Mixing and shipping fertilizers is expected to become a leading industry in San Saba, when the plant now in operation gets underway. Texas has been spending thousands of dollars for fertilizers, but geologists now say that the fertilizer industry is soon to become as profitable as the oil fields of Texas.

Flatonis Box Factory

A Flatonis reader writes to say that San Antonio is by no means the only place in Texas where boxes and crates are manufactured for the use of Texas gardeners and fruit growers and that Flatonis has an industry of that kind starting an extensive business. This columnist is glad to spread the news and to add that there are several other such factories in the State, all of which are prospering.

Texas Cement Industry

More than half a million barrels of Portland cement is manufactured and sold in Texas every month, and by far the most of it is used in the construction of Texas bridges and in various industries. The cement industry in Texas is something of comparatively recent development.

Getting Out of the Mud

Brown county may be a little bit slow about public activities, but it has at least become tired of being cut-off from the rest of the world during the rainy seasons and has voted a bond issue of sufficient size, with the Federal and State aid that will be received to build a complete system of State highways and many miles of lateral feeders. The vote was 3 to 1 for the bonds.

Dallas Feelings Hurt

Dallas became offended at the publication of reports from officials of the State Health Department as to the pollution of its water supply by the cities and towns whose drainage empties into the lake from which Dallas gets its water. Good water is essential to good health, and if it is necessary to hurt the feelings of a people to get them to take measures to secure pure water, why their feelings should be hurt.

Newspaper Advertising

There may be somewhere such a thing as a town that does better business than indicated by the patronage of its local newspaper, but I have never seen one in Texas. The surest way to judge the activities of a place is to get a few copies of its leading paper, read the advertisements, and take them as the best indication of whether the town is alive or dead. They tell the tale unerringly.

LITTLE BAND-WAGON JOURNEYS

24—First Joust of the "Plumed Knight"

ORATORY alone could have won a nomination for a popular, slightly tainted, recent scandal, then Robert C. Ingersoll's brilliant nominating speech, naming James G. Blaine for the Presidency, would have secured him the honor, at the Republican convention of 1876.

Colonel Ingersoll was the peerless orator of the time. Blaine was just coming to be the popular leader of the Republican party. A scathing attack he had made upon Jefferson Davis a short time before Congress had served to stir up the old Civil war feeling in the North and made him inevitably the leading aspirant for preterment of those in his party who were accused by waving of the bloody shirt.

But while he had girthed the North with his assault on Davis, Blaine also had fallen under a shadow. The notorious Mulligan letters showing him to have been involved in questionable relations with railroad stock manipulators, while speaker of the house of representatives, had just been made public. Mulligan was about to put the letters into testimony before a congressional investigation committee when Blaine, learning of his possession of them, went to Mulligan's hotel, begged assistance to be shown the letters and having gotten them in his possession, refused to give them back.

These while public opinion was beginning to rise against him at report of this action, he read the whole sheaf of them, in a dramatic hour before the house of representatives.

The coup was a sensational one. That it ended to vindicate him, and served to do so with many of his admirers. But others read the context more closely and found their idol tarnished.

A week before the national Republican convention, that he hoped would nominate him, Blaine collapsed in the hot sun on his way to church. He remained unconscious and helpless in his home for two days, while anxiety of his friends mounted and the telegraph wires even began to carry rumors of his death. Then on Tuesday afternoon he regained consciousness, his senses and almost his mind conscious act was to write his friends at Cincinnati that he was "outrageously convalescent."

But the combination of circumstances left Ingersoll with a hard task in his nominating speech to minimize Blaine's connection with the railroad scandals and his ill health, and to center attention upon his hero attitude toward the late Southern Confederates.

Ingersoll's great peroration is his tripartite: "Like an armed warrior, he tried, like a plumed knight, James G. Blaine marched down the halls of the American congress and threw his shining lance full and fast against the man forhead of every traitor to his country and every maligner of his fair reputation. For the Republican party to desert that gallant man now is as though an army should desert their general upon the field of battle."

Ingersoll's eloquence partially swayed the convention. He seemed to have captured the gathering with his glowing periods of oratory. Had the convention halted then there is little doubt but that Blaine would have been nominated forthwith.

But the gathering shades of evening made adjournment to the next day necessary after the nominating speeches had been delivered. That adjournment was fatal to the chances of the ill-fated Republican idol who was destined to try repeatedly to gain the Presidency and always to fail to win it.

Overnight the psychological effects of Ingersoll's orations eloquently were made plain. Blaine led in the early balloting next day, but did not command a majority. Rutherford B. Hayes, Ohio dark horse, who stood fifth on the first ballot, was put across, with five more votes than a majority on the seventh ballot after Michigan had begun to stampede in his direction on the fifth ballot.

Ingersoll's oration had been in vain. But he had given a popular title to the strong leader of his party. From that time onward to his death Blaine was known among Republicans as the "plumed knight."

Wouldn't Do

Grandma and grandpa had reared a large family and it was a source of great pleasure to them to have their grandchildren for week-end and vacation visits. On one occasion at the dinner table grandma made mention of the fact that she had read in the News that grandpa was to preside as toastmaster at a banquet. Little Mary seemed pleased and yet somewhat doubtful. Finally recovering herself, she said: "Why, grandpa, that won't do, because grandpa always burns the toast."

THE STATE FAIR

Thursday of last week, after sufficient copy for the week's issue of the News had been provided for the editor, accompanied by two daughters, Misses Queenie and Eris and Miss Pauline Williamson, left by auto for Dallas to attend the State Fair and incidentally visited over the week-end with kinfolks.

The fair was in full swing, Friday and Saturday being peak-days in attendance. Editors and their families from all parts of Texas were there, and every courtesy the fair Association could show them was extended. The exhibits this year are the equal if not superior to any former exhibits, and the amusements and other attractions are as good if not better than ever before. The editor not being well physically, had to spend the greater portion of our time resting, but the girls had the time of their lives. It was well worth the trip to see a bunch of young people who had never had the opportunity to attend such fetes amused at the various attractions. We were lucky in finding shelter in the homes of several nephews living in Dallas, together with their families who exerted their every effort to make our trip a pleasant one.

The Martha Circle of the Baptist W. M. S. met with Mrs. W. I. Hosh on Monday of this week. After the devotional led by Mrs. J. L. Boggs we entered into a short business meeting. Two new members, Mrs. Gayle and Mrs. Geo. Vaughn were added to our circle. Those present were: Mesdames Tucker, Newman, Barton, J. L. Boggs, John Lowe, Geo. Vaughn, Roscoe Hosh, Geo. England, S. F. Martin, W. F. Kirkpatrick and W. J. Hosh. Mrs. A. L. Bays, and son, Raymond, and Mrs. Johnson visited relatives in San Angelo Sunday.

Gorden Harrell returned to Howard Payne Monday after spending the week-end with his parents.

WHAT'S DOING IN WEST TEXAS

A 10,000 egg capacity electric incubator will be in operation in Tahoka by January, and the owners, Prof. Taylor White, and Verner Smith, will be in the market for eggs from certified flocks after that date.

The New Booker bakery recently built has equipped, and installed and has been baking for a week. L. N. Traylor is manager of the new bakery and states that he is able to feed the whole town.

An effort is being made in Nolan county to get a County Health unit with financial assistance from the Rockefeller Foundation. The county would finance half the project which would insure a full-time doctor and four helpers.

A survey of the whole of Dawson county to account for every cow in the county is being sponsored by the Lamesa Chamber of Commerce to interest a milk plant there. The milk plant pays 18 cents more per butterfat pound and deliveries are made after the milk.

T. L. Kimmel, proprietor of the Electric Hatcheries at Hockley, has doubled the capacity of his incubators this year and will handle 15,000 more eggs. This is one instance of the increasing interest in poultry in the town.

Randall county scored at the State Fair at Dallas, winning second place in the Agriculture exhibit. The exhibit was sent to the fair by the Canyon Chamber of Commerce and Randall County Commissioners, with County Agent W. H. Upchurch in charge.

Between 15,000 and 20,000 rabbits have been poisoned in Midland this year with the county furnishing the poison. In counties where the rabbits were not poisoned damage to crops is estimated as high as five percent.

Paving of 16 down town blocks is going on at Pecos. Six blocks have been graded and prepared for the paving with gutters and curbs constructed. Laying of the bituminous pavement has begun. Each block will be opened as it is finished.

Eight boys winning first place in the South Plains Fair were given a trip to the State Fair at Dallas by the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce. The boys were from eight different communities in the section.

It Isn't Your Town—It's You
If you want to live in the kind of a town, Like the kind of a town you like, You needn't slip your clothes in a grip— And start out on a long, long hike.

You only find what you left behind, For there's nothing that's really new, It's a knock at yourself when you knock your town, For it isn't your town—it's you.

Real towns are not made by men afraid, Lest somebody else gets ahead, When everyone works and nobody shirks, You can raise a town from the dead.

And if while you make a personal stake, Your neighbor can make one too, Your town will be, what you want to see, For it isn't your town—it's you.

Handbags of the Cloth of the Coat Are New Coatings of many colors and bold modernistic in design, answer the call of the sports mode for autumn. It adds a swagger note to the handling of the fabric.

Tweed travel coats, designers are creating even shoes of the identical tweed of the coat.

New Trends in Shawls and the Fall Scarf

Interest in gay scarfs, bizarre both in colorings and patternings has abated not at all. The fall scarf asserts its newness by assuming very odd shapes, some narrow in the back, broadening into caplike flares at each end, others with pointed ends and so on and so on. Shawls for evening wear are elaborate and fantastic.

Dine and Dance Frocks Flaunt Huge Bows

Bows, huge bows some with long trailing ends to be caught up and held in the hand while dancing, thus does fashion issue orders in regard to midday's evening frock. The bow which lends its flattering presence to the black velvet dinner frock in the picture is decidedly a mod. and a touch of bouffancy, compared to some.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for October 21

CHRISTIAN STEWARDSHIP

LESSON TEXT—II Cor. 8:1-15: 1. OLDEN TEXT—First gave their own selves to the Lord. PRIMARY TOPIC—Glad Giving. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Is God's Claim on Us? YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Principles of Christian Stewardship.

I. Examples of True Christian Benevolence (II Cor. 8:1-5). The liberality of these Macedonian churches exhibits practically every grand principle and motive which give value to the giving which has God's sanction. Objective: 1. The source of true giving (v. 1).

This is said to be the grace of God, by which is meant that disposition to give freely of our means as a disposition created by the Holy Spirit. This puts the Christian giving on a much higher plane than that which brings the people under the bondage of the law to give a tenth. 2. They gave from the depths of their poverty, not from the abundance of their riches (v. 2).

Their limited means did not excuse them for restricting their gifts, but their deep poverty abounded into the "riches of their liberality." On the basis of this philosophy our poverty ought to be a call for greater generosity, for God has promised that if we give liberally He will give liberally in return. Increase comes not by holding, but by giving. 3. Their willingness surpassed their ability (v. 3).

God's gifts are reckoned by the degree of willingness, not by the amount given (II Cor. 8:12, 13:7). If such grace were to come upon the churches today, there would be an abundance of funds to carry on the Lord's work, for there never has been a day when there was such unlimited ability to give. 4. They were insistent on being allowed the privilege of giving (v. 4).

They did not need to be pressed into giving. How far have we departed from the apostolic method. Today we employ the shrewdest men in financial affairs that can be found to make appeals at our missionary meetings and the dedication of our churches. 5. They first gave themselves to the Lord (v. 5).

This is most fundamental to right giving. For when one gives himself to the Lord there is no reason for withholding his gifts. If one does not give himself to the Lord there will be the desire to retain as much for self as can be done within the bounds of respectability. The only right method of raising money for the Lord is first to induce men and women to give their lives to the Lord and then to give of their possessions. The only method which has God's sanction is a consecrated hand in its own pocket. 6. Emulation of Macedonian Benevolence Urged (v. 8-15).

As a proof of the sincerity of their love (v. 5). Love is more than mere sentiment; it is benevolent action toward the object loved. 3. As the completion and harmony of Christian character (v. 7). The Corinthian church abounded in spiritual gifts such as faith, gifts of knowledge, diligence, and in love for their ministers. But the grace of liberality was needed for the harmony of their lives. The stony man is lopsided in his character, unsymmetrical. 4. The self-sacrificing example of Christ (v. 9). Self-sacrifice is the love of Christ's self-denial and sacrifice is the supreme example of love. 5. Because the true principles upon which gifts are acceptable with God is a willing mind (v. 10-12). God does not estimate the value of a gift on the ground of its intrinsic worth, but the underlying motive of the giver. 6. Because of a common equality (v. 13-15). Every Christian should give something. The law governing the gift is ability. 7. Encouragement to Give (II Cor. 9:8-15).

1. The volume of reaping is based upon the sowing (v. 6). Those who sow sparingly cannot expect to reap bountifully. 2. There should be a heart purpose (v. 7). This calls for intelligence as to the object of giving. 3. Giving should not be of necessity (v. 7). No particular value accrues to the giver who does it because of pressure. 4. God loves a cheerful giver (v. 7). The one who has the right understanding of his responsibility toward God with reference to temporal possessions will regard giving as a glorious privilege.

Miss Lena Boyd is attending the annual meeting of Texas Synod of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A. at New Orleans. She will visit various churches in Texas and Oklahoma before returning to Santa Anna.

From the standpoint of economy the only people who really ought to vote are those who won't kill other people's votes.

Oysters
THERE are told by ancient mariners stories of oysters that grow on trees, and others so huge that they required to be cut like a round of beef. These were great exaggerations, but the fact is undisputed that there are large oysters that require to be carved, and oysters have been plucked from trees. Large oyster shells are used for holy water in some continental churches. One oyster was known to be eight years old by the layers of the shell. During the oyster dredging the fishermen keep up a wild monotonous song, or chant, which they claim charms the oysters into the dredge.

The herring loves the merry moonlight, The mackerel loves the wind, But the oyster loves the dredgers' song.

For he comes of a gentle kind, Fishermen often see large and hideous-looking lobsters, but they do not attack them. The eight armed cuttlefish has also been an object of superstitious exaggeration. In the Indian seas, the species has been found of such enormous size as to measure two fathoms in breadth across the central part, while each arm measured nine fathoms in length. The natives of the isles when sailing in their canoes always have knives and hatchets to cut off the arms of the animals that should happen to flug their arms over the sides of the canoes. Sneezing
SNEEZING was a strong omen of luck among the ancients. Sneezing to the left was considered unlucky; to the right, good luck. Aristotle inquires why sneezing from noon to midnight was good, but from night to noon was unlucky. The ancients were often known to go to bed if they sneezed while they were putting on their shoes. If the ruler of an African tribe sneezed, it was considered an omen of good luck and acclamation would rise from every part of the city. When the private bath was close to the common bath, you could hear every word that was spoken. Once when a person sneezed in the private bath, half a dozen voices from the public bath cried out in chorus: "God bless you!"

In India to the present day one makes while performing his ablutions in the Ganges. Having touched his forehead, nose, chin and cheeks with the tip of his fingers, he will repeat these motions and start all over again if he should sneeze. (©, 1928, Western Newspaper Union.)

OBLIGATIONS

Yes, we are under obligations—to the school board, to the citizens of the town, and to ourselves, as students—for we are the citizens of tomorrow. And it is very probable that most of us will live in our home town at least a portion of the time after school life is over. Shouldn't we like to see the building in as good condition thirty years from now as it is today? Yes, of course and it isn't impossible. The upper classmen should set an example for the lower classmen. We should see to it that the lower classmen take care of the structure and should be even more careful ourselves.

VOCATIONAL EDUCATION IN SCHOOLS

"Vocational education" it has been said, "is any form of education, whether given in a school or elsewhere, the purpose of which is to fit an individual for a recognized profitable employment." The dictionary defines a vocation as a destined employment or trade.

On February 23, 1917, Congress passed the Smith-Hughes bill, which granted aid to agriculture and vocational education of less than college grade. The vocational system in public schools has been a great help. First, it has trained young men and women to become more fitted for future years. Second, our country has prospered by its effect. Boys of the present time know more about agriculture than boys did fifty years ago. The girls are learning more about the vocation of home-making.

We could do nothing better worth while than to encourage vocational education in our public schools.

JUNIOR CLASS

The Junior class sent off an order for class pins last Monday. The design for these pins was selected last year by the class and will be used for four years in succession. These class pins are mounted with a picture of the high school building.

SOPHS TO REIGN OVER HALLOWEEN PARTY

Last Friday morning the Sophomores were victorious in having their royalty recognized. (You see we've had it all the while.) Charles, of the house of Turner was declared King; and Geneva, of the house of Atkinson was chosen Queen. This popular young couple will reign over the Halloween Carnival to be held in the high school on Wednesday night, October 31.

AN OLD FASHIONED GARDEN

Back a little from the noise of the street, There is a quite and restful retreat. Here proud and stately holly-hocks grow Along with the bright poppies, row after row. We see the bold sunflower lift its face. Just below the petunia blossoms with grace. And among these beauties, we stop to hear. The birdies chirp their songs of cheer. Such wondrous colors, red, yellow and pink, How they are formed causes us to think. And Reverence the unseen Hand As He weaves such beauty all over the land. These flowers in language all their own. Tell a sweet story that's never known.

Except by those who feel His care And revealing His wonders every where.

Let's linger a while if we may. And catch these whispers to-day. Coming to us through His messengers sweet. Here in this old-fashioned garden retreat.

WARD SCHOOL NEWS

One of the greatest desires, on the part of the grammar school faculty, principal, and student body is that the people of the town get better acquainted with the Grammar School. Some of the best citizens of our town are woefully ignorant of the facts concerning one of the most important institutions of the community, the Grammar School. Can You Answer These Questions? Is the Grammar School building in good condition? Is there a study hall in the building? How many pupils are enrolled in the school? Who is our English teacher? How many new teachers do we have? Is there plenty of playground equipment? Do the teachers play with the children? In what grades is the teaching work departmented? How often do we have chapel? Is our building life proof? Every good citizen of our town should be able to answer most of these questions, and not only these but all other general questions concerning the school system. Some people have an idea that the school belongs to the pupils and the teachers. That is a false impression. The third factor necessary for a school system is parents. It may be truthfully said that a school is as good as the parents demand it to be.

In order that the parents who are busy and have no time to visit the school may become better acquainted with what we are doing we have organized in such a way that the news from each class will be printed each week.

To those who do have time to visit the school, we extend a hearty and cordial welcome. We want you to come and see whether your school is functioning properly.

Santa Anna was playing Coleman at football. Santa Anna was leading 6 to 0. The Mountaineers were playing a defensive game. Instead of running with the ball the quarterback punted each time his team got the ball. Some fan yelled, "Buster, why don't you run with the ball sometimes?" Buster replied, "I do not choose to run in 1928."

Julian had just returned from his first football game. His daddy said, "Did you see them kick any goals?" After a little serious thinking Julian said, "I didn't see any gold out there nor silver either."

FIRST GRADE NEWS

We have eighteen boys and twenty girls in our room and a visiting pupil this week. Jackie Sutherland, who sings us new songs and tells us fine stories. We would like to have Jackie with us all year. All this week our "Doctors and Nurses" have found every one nice and clean so we have no hospital list. We have started reading in our Baby Ray books, besides having our new big chart to read. Every one said they wanted to be on the "Honor Roll." We have had these sick people this week: Jack Greider, Billie Pope, Mary Louise Curry, Louise Daniels. We are so glad they are back with us. We wish to invite all our mothers and Dads to come to see us any time. We have an exhibit the work we have done so far and we want you to see it.

The 2A class is making an effort to improve the appearance of the room. The members are saving seals for a picture, and new shades and curtains.

3A ROOM NEWS

Mrs. Kelley, Mrs. Baxter, Mrs. Zachary and Miss Cole were visitors in our room this week. We have organized a Glee Club in our room. We are planning to sing at a P. T. A. meeting some time this year. Friday afternoon we had a surprise party for the pupils in our room having birthdays in October. They were Anita Kirkpatrick, Irene Stiles, Jot Tucker and Charles Ford Chambers. We had pop corn and nuts to eat. We played a number of nice games and all had a very nice time.

4B GRADE

There are fourteen students enrolled and the average attendance is very good. Several members of the 4B grade are trying to win the Fair Prevention Week contest. Some very good poster work is expected to be exhibited. Ray Cross, one of our students will leave soon with his parents and plans to attend school at Concord, Texas.

The members of the 4B grade challenge the members of the 4A grade to a spelling match on any day of this week that they shall select.

Our room has twenty-two children in it. Of the twenty-two only nine have been here every day. We are striving to make this the best room in attendance. Only two children have made our tardies. I wish our mothers would help us to be here and on time every day.

BICYCLISTS

The editor, in trying to keep step with the boys in the home, and for the further purpose of trying to economize in transportation, purchased a bicycle last week and went out Monday to brake the thing to ride. We succeeded in riding it for several blocks, but never did get it perfectly gentle. Unless the thing cuts out that pitching, bucking and sliding, we are going to turn it over to Leman Brown to train. It is said he is the most expert in training wild bicycles in town, and takes a special pride in breaking in new ones. We have concluded that a good case of bicyclitis from the first exercise of the kind in twenty-five years is more suitable for a banker than a newspaper—many anyway. If Mr. Brown succeeds in training the thing, we will start up a rent shop that others might enjoy, some of the fun afforded bicycle riders.

Things could be worse. What if you had to father your lawn before you could cut the grass.

TO THE COLLEGE DROP OUTS

There may be any number of reasons why it was impossible for you to continue your college work this year. If you are one of those who had to drop out for any reason whatever, are you going to hoist the white flag and acknowledge defeat? Not on your life you are not. If you give up now you are defeated.

Why not do this: enroll immediately with us for an all round business course. We have a very special proposition to offer as many as fifty young men and women if quick action is taken which will enable you to pay for your course with the use of your course. A special plan has just been consummated to help young ambitious boys and girls, young men and young women, to go through our school. If you should want to go on to the university or some other school of higher learning the work done here in most cases will be recognized and with your business training you may work your way through the university or if you prefer you will be placed by our Employment Department in a position as quickly as you graduate.

You can complete a business course here with but a very small outlay of money and your success is almost as sure as the rising sun. By enrolling immediately you will almost be ready for a nice position by the first of the year. Write your name on the coupon below and send it to us quickly. Our special plan will enable us to accommodate only a limited number.

To the 5000 who daily become owners of the new Ford car. THE service obligation of the Ford Motor Company and its dealer organization is now growing at the rate of 5000 cars a day. It is to these new car owners that this message is addressed. The new Ford is a remarkably fine car for one that costs so little. It is simple in design, constructed of the finest materials, and built to unusually close measurements. These are the reasons it performs so wonderfully. These are also the reasons its service requirements are so few and the up-keep cost so low. When you receive your new car, the dealer will explain the simple little things that should be attended to at regular intervals to insure the best performance. He will also tell you something of his own facilities for doing this work promptly and at small cost. With the purchase of your car, you are entitled to Free Inspection Service by your dealer at 500, 1000 and 1500 miles. This service is due you and we urge you to take full advantage of it. Proper care during this breaking-in period means a great deal to the life of your car.
