Do You Remember?

Do you remember—you older folk—St. Valentine's Day of old?

Do you remember the gorgeous Valentine cards, with hearts and flowers and ribbons?

Do you remember how you gave your nicest valentine to the one you loved best, or perhaps only one valentine to the only one you loved?

Do you remember the valentine you received—the one you cherished most—from the one you loved best, or perhaps from the only one you loved?

Surely you do remember. Certainly you can't forget. You remember the sweet innocence of your childhood days, crowned by lovely Valentines.

Where are the Valentines and all that they meant to you? Are the hearts still as red and as perfect? Are the flowers still 'a n d fresh? Are the ribbons still spotless and unsoiled? If so, you are fortunate—more than fortunate; you are still one to love and be loved.

Amid the rush of adult life is there still a Valentine in your life; still a memory that has lasted; still love to bestow every day upon those about you? Have you a Valentine whose memory can never fade? You have if you remember.

To Make A Long Story Short

Harry Dudley used to be chambermaid to a steam turbine in the Abilene power plant. Then one day Al Breihan lit on him and separated him from the hum of the turbine wheels to become local manager of the company properties at Tuscola. That was six months ago. Last week Harry Dudley came back to Abilene and made a speech. The speech was on the subject of public relations and was made before a meeting of employees of Districts A and B. It lasted exactly four minutes by the watch, and if it was not the best speech ever made on that particular subject it was certainly as good as any ever made. If he had talked for four hours instead of four minutes, it is doubtful if he could have said any more than he did.

Here is Harry Dudley's prescription for compounding the elusive mixture known as good public relations. First: know your town, study it, work for it, be loyal to it. Second: know your home town people, be one of them; share their joys and their sorrows; like them and let them know you like them. Third: be honest; tell the truth; don't promise to do what you do not intend to do or what you will not be able to do.

In almost that few words Harry Dudley stated his public relations creed and sat down. What more, after all, was there that could have been said?—West Texas Utility News.

It is said a worldwide radio language is needed. We nominate statistics.

Livestock Industry at Peek

Austin, Texas, Feb. 3.—In 1927 the livestock industry experienced one of the most successful years that it has ever had with the exception of the World War period, according to George M. Lewis, livestock specialist in the Bureau of Business Research of the University of Texas. Cattle prices reached the highest levels since 1920 and prices received from sheep, goats, wool and mohair were especially satisfactory to producers, Mr. Lewis points out. These increases, Mr. Lewis believes, were encouraged by the 17 per cent decrease in the number of beef cattle in the United States since 1920 and by the prosperous conditions that have existed in all channels of trade and industry which helped to hold the consumption of beef up to normal.

Although sheep and lamb prices were under the level of the two previous years, they were sufficiently high to enable the producers to realize excellent returns, Mr. Lewis writes in the monthly "Texas Business Review" published by the Bureau of Business Research. "Wool and mohair production, likewise, was heavy and both of these products commanded satisfactory prices. The trend of hog prices was downward most of the year, which resulted in very disappointing returns to producers."

The December hog quotations were the lowest since the middle of 1924. These low prices were brought about by the high price of corn, the heavy market receipts, the large cold storage holdings and the light foreign demand for American pork products.

In regard to prospects for 1928 in the livestock industry, Mr. Lewis says:

"The cattle market is faced with two peculiar conditions; one is that beef prices are high and the other is that hog prices are very low. The tendency during 1928 will be for many consumers to substitute pork products for beef. On the other hand, the cattle industry possesses some very strong factors that should keep prices up to a satisfactory level during the year. In the first place, the number of beef cattle available for market will be smaller than last year because there are fewer on feed. If a normal rate of consumption can be maintained during the year, cattle prices are likely to continue strong. Producers should place emphasis on better quality and not market their cattle before they are in good flesh. Poor quality meat will discourage consumption.

"Sheep men are increasing their flocks too rapidly both in Texas and in the United States. There were 450,000 head or ten per cent more sheep and lambs on feed on January 1, 1928, than a year ago, according to the United States Department of Agriculture. Unless this annual increase is checked the market soon will be unable to absorb the available supply. This year is the time to begin to check this movement before the good market is demoralized.

"The outlook for the hog industry is encouraging. Prices seem to be near the bottom of the price cycle, and lower prices should stimulate the demand for pork both at home and abroad, especially with beef prices at their high level. Texas consumes many more hogs than are produced in the state. It would seem advisable, therefore, to encourage farmers who have adequate facilities to avail themselves of the present low prices to restock their farms with more hogs."

Time To Take Stock

Once a year business establishments take stock, weigh resources against liabilities, turn back the old pages and put pen to new. Each year the well-regulated business strikes balance and starts again, not over again from the old beginning, but fresh from the old year's finish.

Once a year the individual—serious-minded man or woman or ambitious girl or boy—takes stock of happiness and the health and the wealth upon which it is founded. Each measures with the yardstick of conscience the component elements of these two great pillars of life; health of body and mind and spirit, and wealth of experience, mental resources, friendships, the will to do, and self-esteem.

Inventory is important to the corporation and to the individual because it points out basic truths. First, perhaps, is that life is growth. Another that the matter of our growth is in our own hands. And still another that we may guide ourselves to a more productive and happier future by knowing and correcting the mistakes of the past.

To "know thyself" continues to be the first rule of happiness, and success, which are one and the same. Honest self-examination is profitable, but painful, as most unaccustomed exertion is. Probing a lazy mind, a sore conscience or a hollow tooth is unpleasant. But it is absolutely necessary to prevent farther decay, and eventual dissolution.

Experience exposes the weak links in the chain of life as in the chain of business. Inventory is the reading of experience. It must be done honestly, courageously, without self-deception. Else, one day the chain will snap.

Let us take stock, not fear to know our weaknesses. Knowing, we may correct them, and build stronger and surer, happier, for ourselves because more useful to others.

When a business house opens its doors, it places a sign over the door or on the window. Why not send that sign over the whole community by means of advertising in the Santa Anna News.

Not Only a Privilege but a Duty

From every section of the United States comes the complaint that people do not take advantage of the opportunity to vote. Seldom is the full strength of any county thrown into an election. This business of casting a ballot is not only a privilege but a duty. That it should not be more often discharged than it is causes grave concern among those who take to heart matters of government. It is the lack of interest among the voters as much as it is anything else that must be blamed for undesirable conditions in affairs of state.

With 1928 an important election year—county and national officials to be elected among other affairs to be decided—it is almost unbelievable that one-half of the people of a county should apparently be intended to deliberately disfranchise themselves.

What Is Your 1928 Farm Program

Some months ago Farm and Ranch reported a meeting of farmers in which the wife of a tenant farmer got up and said:

"Jim and I have had less money this year, owing to bad crops, than for several years, but we never lived better in our life. We owe less money than ever before. In fact, we are practically free of debt and we will enter the new season full of hope and with bright prospects. We have followed the live-at-home plan. We have canned chicken, corned pork, beans, tomatoes, okra, corn and peas, and a variety of fruit, both canned, preserved, and jellied. We have had our own milk and butter and more than enough eggs and poultry for home use. Our grocery bill for the year was out more than 60 per cent and our feed bill, reduced to such items as we could not raise. We are on the right track."

Just how many of the readers of Farm and Ranch are planning to provide food and feed for home and farm consumption? How many are going to say again that it costs more to raise corn, or a hog, or a rabbit than it does to buy at a grocery store? We ask our readers to remember that it is not what you can sell an article for that should be considered, but what it will cost in case of need. A dozen eggs may not be worth 10 cents at the store, if you have them to sell, but fresh eggs are just as good to eat when the price is 10 cents as when they are 50 cents.

If the wife of a tenant farmer can can and preserve food enough to last a full year, then there are thousands of others who can do the same thing. When you are square with your grocer and your banker at cotton-picking time, every bale you gather means real money. Try the "live-at-home" program and board at the same place.

TEXAS AND TEXANS

(By Will H. Hayes)

Working Toward One End

Some women's organizations could teach the men's clubs a good lesson if only the men were willing to profit by their observation as to how the women's clubs accomplish things. Usually it is by working at one thing at a time until it is accomplished. The men's clubs too often start numbers of worthy efforts only to drop them for something else, but women's clubs seldom drop a good word until it is finished. This statement is prompted by the appearance of a splendid edition of the Weatherford Democrat devoted to the Weatherford Public Library and edited by the Business and Professional Women's Club of the city. Editor Phillips in that edition, after complimenting the club on what it has done for the library, says: "Having undertaken a definite task these ladies have wholeheartedly applied themselves to it. Regardless of the future what they have done has been very much worth while. Having progressed thus far they are making a special effort to build up a larger and better library." It is a safe prediction that they will succeed even beyond their present anticipations.

What Shall It Be?

Interest in many clubs, whether men's or women's organizations, is lost too often by lack of that "definite task" on which interest can be centered with sufficient force to succeed. Even one small thing well done in a year is far better than a dozen big efforts started and dropped. It is easy to get too many irons in the fire in civic and club work. Any one of a dozen or more things might be undertaken by any organization in any town that would be worthy of its efforts. For instance a number of Cuero women have formed a "hospital auxiliary" the purpose of which is to beautify the hospital property, furnish the hospital with linens and supplies and make the stay of the patients there more bright and cheerful. Could any local work, if well done, be better than that proposed by these women? One needs only to look about to find useful and needed service.

Planning Year's Work

The Marble Falls Messenger says "If we get the cotton mill in operation this year, the cheese factory to going and a cold storage and dressing plant, Marble Falls will step lively this fall." That looks like a big program, but as the plans are already laid for these Marble Falls will likely get them going. Besides there is that good roads movement to push along. There is lots of latent energy in every town the size of Marble Falls, if only it can be started actively to work.

Catching Flies

The Sonora Experiment Station people experimented last spring at catching flies on twenty-five Menard County ranches in destroying screwworms that affect cattle and sheep disastrously. Some 16,244,000 flies were caught in 280 fly traps and brought together in one place. A trap that will last four or five years costs from $3.00 to $5.00 and the cost of operation is about 65 cents a month. This suggests the possibility of eliminating course, the Lamesa country is a kind of concerted effort. It also suggests that right now is the time to begin campaigns against the swarms of flies and mosquitoes with which many places will be afflicted next summer if preventive measures are not adopted early.

Successful Farming

Starting there five years ago in a little one-room box shack, and soon making a first payment on 150 acres of land, A. C. Woodward and wife, at Lamesa, now have a home valued at $34,000 and "have money" and material possessions besides. They have done this by working together at intelligent farming and stock raising. Of flies altogether with the right road country, but the Woodwards would likely have succeeded just as well in any other part of Texas. Farming, to be successful requires the same intelligence and effort necessary to build up any other successful business.

Join Your Town

The Wortham Journal asks its readers: "Have you joined Wortham?" While urging its readers to patronize the home business whenever possible, the Journal rightly says: "No trade-at-home movement founded upon compulsion is sound. The trade-at-home movement that holds water is based on good business and civic loyalty. In this modern age of competition no alert business man thinks of depending upon trade-at-home propaganda as an excuse for his own non-progressiveness." Good roads have put country and town, town and city, very close together, and business goes where it is sought and where there is evidence that it is appreciated.

Shipping San Saba Turkeys

San Saba doesn't seem satisfied to be known as the leading pecan county of the country, but is trying to take the laurels for turkey raising from its neighboring counties of McCallloch, Burnett, Llano and Brown. One "turkey ranch" in that county is shipping breeding turkeys to California, to Vermont and to Saskatchewan, Canada. In past few weeks turkeys have gone from this ranch to Oklahoma, Kansas, Colorado, New Mexico, Nevada and Idaho.

Preside County Mines

Texas metal mines last year produced 408 ounces of gold, 1,000,000 ounces of silver and 500,000 pounds of lead, the greater part of which came from one mine in Presidio County, according to the United States Bureau of Mines. This mine has been a consistent producer since 1833 and since that time has produced 18,987,000 ounces of metal. Mining for metals is perhaps the most neglected Texas industry, the mining development having received comparatively little attention.

Beautifying Public Square

Many courthouse squares in Texas are neglected-looking, unattractive spots in the heart of the business districts. The commissioners of Kerr County have appropriated the funds to beautify the courthouse square at Kerrville and will spend about $8,500 for walks, parkways and other improvements.

Yates Pool Possibilities

Oil operators at the session of the oil and gas bureau of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce freely predicted that the ultimate recovery of oil in the Yates pool in Pecos County would reach 500,000,000 barrels—one of the richest oil pools in the world.

With the Candidates

Last week, two new names were added to our announcement column but the editor was confined to his room considerable of the time just before going to press, and the only mention given them was their own announcements. It has been our custom to mention each candidate with a little introductory or complimentary write up in the paper their announcements appeared in, and we beg their pardon for this oversight last week.

The above refers to the candidacy of J. H. Kellett, present incumbent, who is seeking re-election to the office of County School Superintendent, and the candidacy of H. C. Davis, candidate for the nomination of the very important place of Public Weigher of Precinct No. 7. Mr. Kellett, in so far as we know, has given faithful and satisfactory service in the capacity of County School Superintendent, and pledges a continuance of his services if re-elected. He is opposed by Miss Maud Laws of Glen Cove, who is now teaching at Hardin in the southern part of the county.

Mr. Davis was in the run-off or second primary two years ago, and was only defeated by a small vote, 27 if we remember rightly, and he is making the race again upon his own merits and desire to serve. Both candidates request your fair consideration and will appreciate your vote in the primaries next summer.

Miss Elizabeth Jane Smith of Cross Plains underwent an operation at the Sealy hospital one day last week.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Rev. P. B. Fitzwater, D. D.
Dean, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago
(© 1927, Western Messiaher Union)

Lesson for February 12 JESUS PICTURES THE KINGDOM OF GOD

LESSON TEXT—Mark 4:11-15.
GOLDEN TEXT—The kingdom of God was with us, and we were not knowing it.
PRIMER TOPIC—How God's Kingdom Grows.
JUNIOR TOPIC—How God's Kingdom Grows.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How the Kingdom Grows.
YOUNG PEOPLE TOPIC—How the Kingdom Grows.
TOPIC—The Growing Kingdom of God.

1. Jesus Preaching the Gospel of the Kingdom of God (Mark 4:11-15).
1. The time.
After the resurrection of Jesus, the apostles were still in the city of Jerusalem. Jesus took up the message.
2. What he preached.
It was the gospel of the kingdom of God. Since "kingdom" means "rule" or "control," the good news which he preached was that Christ had come to establish his kingdom.
3. How he preached.
He said, "Repent, for the kingdom of God is at hand." The King was then ready to set up his Kingdom if the Jews would receive Him.
4. Jesus Pictures Four Classes of Hearers (Mark 4:11-20).
1. The sower.
He was obliged to enter a boat to escape the pressure of the crowd.
2. Why he taught in parables (vv. 11-13).
It was not until the rulers had set their hearts against Him that He employed the parable method.
3. The parable of the four kinds of ground (vv. 14-20).
Observe that the seed and the sower are the same in all these instances, but the results are entirely different, determined by the condition of the soil.
(1) The wayside (vv. 14, 15).
The birds come, the seed is scattered by the birds, and the feet of men tread it. The seed could not get beneath the surface, therefore was destroyed by fowls, which represent the agents of Satan (v. 15).
(2) The stony ground (vv. 16, 17).
Stony ground means stones with a thin layer of soil upon them. Under such conditions the seed springs up quickly and is soon scorched because it has no-much depth.
(3) The thorny ground (vv. 18, 19).
In this case the ground is good, but has thorns in it. It is mallow and has depth, but has not been cleaned of the thorns. The thorny ground hearers of this age are (a) those who are so immersed in worldliness, business and anxious care that the good seed cannot mature; (b) those who are rich. The effect of riches is often to blind the spiritual perceptions; (c) those who are running after the pleasures of life. All these things choke the Word.
4. The good ground (vv. 8, 20).
This ground differs from all the rest. It is soft and mellow, deep and moist, therefore is capable of bringing forth fruit in varying degrees of abundance.
11. Jesus Pictures the Growth of the Kingdom (Mark 4:21-34).
1. The parable of the candle (vv. 21-25).
The bushel stands for the cares and material things of life, and the bed for ease and comfort. The teaching is that the Word of God should permeate our being, that in our business and social life we may have a testimony for Christ.
2. The parable of the growing grain (vv. 26-29).
(1) The attitude of mind of the gospel preacher (vv. 26, 27).
He should with the utmost fidelity cast seed into the ground, preach the Word, and leave results to God.
(2) The processes of the spiritual life are gradual (v. 28).
It is like the blade, then the ear, after that the full corn in the ear.
(3) The consummation of the spiritual process (v. 29).
Despite the difficulty under which sowing is done, we can be assured of a harvest time.
3. The parable of the mustard seed (vv. 30-34).
(1) The unimportant beginning (v. 31).
It begins as the least of all seeds and becomes the greatest among herbs.
(2) Its vigorous growth (v. 32).
The greatest power on earth today is that which has had its inception in the preaching of the gospel.
(3) Its lodging capacity (v. 33).
The birds which lodge in the branches do not represent the children of men who find safety and salvation in the church, but the children of the world who find protection and food in that which was inaugurated by Jesus Christ.
Messdames D. J. Johnson, G. W. Faulkner, Lemar Brown, Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Childers, Miss Jeanette Johnson and Elgean Hensley attended the show "Broadway" in Brownwood Tuesday evening.

Unique Dance Settings in "Quality Street"

Unique dance settings of provincial England during the early Georgian era are shown in Marion Davies' latest film starring vehicle "Quality Street," a Metro-Goldwyn Mayer picture coming to the Queen theatre Wednesday and Thursday. The settings are all out of doors and the dance platforms are elevated, encircling the trunks of gigantic oak trees. Conrad Nagel has the leading male role. The picture, based on the whimsical Sir James Barrie play which served as a stage vehicle for Maude Adams, has been elaborately filmed.

Advice Boys Will Listen To

In fighting this battle of life do it gamely, fairly and honorably," is the advice given boys of Riverdale on the Hudson country school, the other day. The injunction did not come from the lips of the headmaster or any other educator. No leader of men spoke the words, nor soldier, nor football coach, nor person devoting his efforts toward influencing youth. But the advice will fall upon particularly fertile ground. Not because the boys of Riverdale are especially in need of the advice, or because the man who spoke the words had distinguished position in boy leadership. Such words falling from the lips of any other man would have been heard as easily but would not have penetrated so deeply. "The will to win when associated with natural qualifications cannot be defeated," said the speaker. "Some boys will meet with misfortune and quit; others will continue to fight. A sportsman obeys the rules, he doesn't take advantage of the weak; he does not hit when one is down. Sportsmanship is that quality of spirit which makes you want to and keeps you within the rules of the game. And the quality that I would place next to sportsmanship, is loyalty—to principles, to God, to friends and to your country. It is only bullies who swear and they are always cowards. The words are from Gene Tunney, world's champion title-holder. Headmaster Hackett characterized the talk as the best speech for boys he had ever heard." —St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

GETTING BROODER READY FOR CHICKS

(By E. W. Kazmeier, Bryan, Tex.) Some people still believe they can raise baby chicks without a brooder. Sooner or later they learn of their mistake. It is an almost hopeless and certainly a discouraging task to try to raise chicks without a good brooder.

The Brooder Kerosene burning brooders are most desirable unless electricity is available, in which case electric brooders may be used. In buying a brooder, buy a good one, a cheap brooder may be a fire trap and prove unsatisfactory from other standpoints. The 34 inch hover brooder will brood up to 200 chicks. The 42 inch hover brooder will take care of up to 350 chicks, and the 52 inch hover brooder will take care of up to 500 chicks. We prefer to brood only 350 chicks in one lot, and never more than 500. It takes an expert to brood 500 chicks safely under one brooder. Over-crowding chicks under a hover is certain to cause much trouble. It is much better to place only 350 chicks in a 500 chick size hover, than to over-crowd.

Coal burning brooders are not a success, in most parts of Texas, because of the difficulty of getting proper size and quality of coal. Coal burning brooders also are not desirable for small houses, because they keep the entire house too warm. In large houses and in sections of Texas where good hard coal is available, coal burning brooders may be used to advantage.

Brooder House On every farm there should be a specially built brooder house. A brooder house is just as necessary as a poultry house. Anybody that tries to raise chickens without providing a house, undoubtedly is on the wrong road. It is much better for such party to go into the hog or dairy business. There are many good types of brooder houses, but a few factors are necessary in all, first they should be built movable, second they should have a tight board floor, third a good roof, fourth have ends and walls so constructed to permit fresh air and direct sunlight without causing a floor draft. A floor draft in the brooder house will surely cause a great deal of trouble. The size of the house depends on the number of chicks to be brooded. A flock of 250 chicks, requires a house 10 by 10 feet square, 350 chicks require a house 12 by 12 feet and 500 chicks require a house 14 by 14 feet. If the house is too large it is difficult to move. An ideal combination is a house 12 by 12 with a 32 inch hover brooder for 350 chicks. Over-crowding of chicks in the brooder house is a very serious mistake. The house may be large enough for 350 baby chicks, but remember the chicks increase in size each week, but the house does not grow with the chicks. Remember 350 chicks is quite a large number of chicks, they must have room to grow and develop especially after the fourth or fifth week.

Locate brooder house if possible on clean, fresh and uncontaminated ground, upon which no chicks were allowed to run the past 12 months. Clean ground saves much trouble, worry and loss in the raising of baby chicks. We will be glad to furnish blue prints, showing construction of brooder houses, free of charge.

Friendly Words to Advertisers

We certainly appreciate your business, and hope that the returns from the investment highly please each of you, but we are forced to call attention to the matter of getting copy to us early. Here-of late the editor has been in poor physical condition, not able to be on the job much of the time, and several of our much valued customers have drifted into the habit of waiting until Thursday or late Wednesday to bring in their copy. This practice incumbers us with more work than we can do and get the paper in the office Thursday evening. We will stay on the job and do our best, but there is a limit to what people can do, and when we reach the limit we have to quit. Will you please get your copy ready as early in the week as is possible and give us more time in which to prepare the advertisements and mail out the paper.

The Fort Worth Record-Telegram says: "A 'wet' President would be powerless to accomplish any modification of the existing law." Maybe, not, but he would have the appointing of any number of Federal Attorneys, Federal Judges and probably one or more members of the Supreme Court at the United States. And this would have the power to interpret and enforce according to the true view of the situation.

Reliable Electric Service a Big Aid to Our Progress

Electric Power is revolutionizing American industry. It is increasing manufacturing efficiency by jumps. It is transforming the American workman from a wage-slave to a mechanical expert. It is doing some of the hardest work on the farm. It is cooking, sweeping, washing, ironing and refrigerating for the housewife. It is lighting factories, stores, offices, homes and streets much better than they have ever been lighted before.

Wherever it goes, this flow of electricity increases wealth, encourages industry, provides comforts, speeds progress, reduces drudgery and hardships.

Wherever it operates, this company provides better service at lower prices than its customers could provide for themselves, and it pays federal, state, county and city taxes.

To give genuine satisfaction, electric power must be plentiful for all needs, uninterrupted in flow and priced fairly to the user. This calls for up-to-date equipment, top-notch maintenance, capable engineering, adequate capital and freedom from political interference.

The Birthday Party

Birthday anniversaries of the children are red-letter days in the family calendar. The arrival in the world of little Johnnie and little Mary were occasions for rejoicing and congratulation, deserving of annual commemoration. Another reason for birthday parties is the persistence of those who hope to be thus honored.

A birthday without temper or tears is ardently to be desired, but seldom realized. If there is to be no party, there are tears and if there is a party there are the tears of the little guests to mingle with those of the little host. For though little Johnnie may have been a gift from the gods, the fact cannot be disguised that contact with the world has made of him a very human being.

It would be entirely out of tune to punish little Johnnie on his birthday anniversary, all parents agree, and they start the day with determination to spare the rod and spoil the child. Unfortunately little Johnnie has more reasons for being naughty on his birthday than at any other times. A great fuss is made over him. He receives presents that stimulate his sense of greed. If a party is given in his honor he has not yet awakened to the social requirement that his guests have a better time than he. Finally, nobody is quicker than he to discover that on this day of days the rules of discipline are to be temporarily waived.

If many adults cannot, how can the juvenile mind, especially on a birthday, distinguish between the meaning of liberty and license? Few grownups can realize that there is greater joy in being good because you will not be punished than in being bad because you will not be punished.

Most mothers plan a birthday party for their "little lamb" at least every other year, and just as many solemnly vow, as the last diminutive guest departs, that it will be the last. But time and nature mend shattered nerves and broken bodies in time for another party on the next birthday in the family.

Who remembers when the age of discretion was the parentage?

The Campaign Of Information

The things which we do not understand are the ones which fool us.

It is easier to trust to luck than to acquire information.

A large part of human energy is expended in caring for the mistakes of others.

Poorhouses are filled because of waste, extravagance and ignorant spending.

Hospitals are filled because people disregard commonest rules of their own making.

Courts are filled with those whose troubles are largely of their own making.

Asylums are filled because people knowingly break laws of health and nature.

Penitentiaries are filled with men who commit premeditated crimes.

To help eliminate much grief and suffering, industry is today carrying on educational campaigns to show people the folly of being uninformed, careless and indifferent to rules of health, business and safety.

Insurance companies are striving to show the irreparable waste of life and property which results from preventable fires and accidents.

Utility companies have been leaders in safety-first campaigns in the home, on the street, and in the investment field where savings are spent.

Railroads are constantly working to eliminate grade crossing accidents.

In order to improve service and prevent delays in communication, telephone companies invite telephone users to call and inspect the complicated system of wires and signals which are maintained to complete their telephone calls.

And so it goes through a long list of industries, including lumbering, mining, manufacturing, etc. Private enterprise is endeavoring to prevent misinformation, and furnish reliable information to the public which has too often been misinformed about the commonest essentials of home and business life.

The hardest thing about loafing is buying things on credit.

"Small Town Stuff"

It takes some wise-cracking city slicker working in a railroad office for sixty bucks a month to pull a slurring remark about "small town stuff." City kids grow up like that. Reading lurid newspapers and hearing pool-hall wit they believe they know life and are a bit blasé toward it. Not one out of ten of them knows which end of a cow milk comes from, but they regard with pity or contempt any one from the provinces who doesn't speak their gutter-jargon. As a matter of fact, small town stuff is the stuff America is made of and run by. Small towns produce all of our industrial leaders; our bankers and our better artists. Industry feeds 80 per cent of its output to towns below 20,000 population. Cities are mere islands that float on the vast strength of rural and small town markets, and those islands are re-ruled by graduates from the sticks. Accidents of transportation layouts make cities, but genuine production and intelligent thrift make the big true.

market and the good men outside of city environs.

Men who know how to prime a pump, stretch barbed wire, or replace a barn door on its track; men who have walked home to lunch, worked ten full hours as a matter of common practice and who wear overshoes in winter; men who can make a fire actually burn at a picnic and who still think women superior—these men are small town stuff. These are the men the city slickers eventually work for, if they stay out of jail and work at all.—Southern Equipment News.

Will Rogers expressed the wish that, for the sake of this country's peace, that Colonel Lindbergh was twins. Probably the Colonel wishes he was also, if for no other purpose than to assist the Lone Eagle in carrying his medals.

Boys will be boys, and towns will be towns, but Santa Anna will be a great city if our dreams come true.
