Baby Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. McDaniel Dies in Abilene

Little Hazel Jean, 17 months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. McDaniel, died shortly after noon Wednesday in Abilene, where she was carried Tuesday in hopes of finding relief from her sufferings, lasting over a period of several days. The child was thought to be suffering from infantile paralysis, but was later diagnosed as having erysipelas. However, its death, according to reports, was from other complications. The little remains will be buried in Abilene, this (Thursday), according to information received here. The Santa Anna News joins other friends in extending sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. McDaniel in the loss of their only child.

O. C. Cartwright called at the News office first of the week and ordered a large poster printed, announcing the opening of a Truck Line from Brownwood to San Angelo. Mr. Cartwright will make the trip daily and expects to build up a business that will justify more than one truck in the near future.

Good Will Advertising

A number of the largest corporations in the United States have adopted a system of spending a portion of their advertising appropriation for good will advertising. All newspapers, especially those usually termed Country, Weekly or local newspapers devote considerable of their space for good will purposes. This paper carries one or more messages of good will reading each week, and we are satisfied with the results. However, this message is for the purpose of directing our readers attention to the regular and special advertisements found in this issue of the Santa Anna News. Read them and profit by answering their invitations to purchase their goods.

Santa Anna News to Make Change

After this week, the Santa Anna News will make its appearance in a little different form. For the past several years the News has come to its readers each week in the form of a six column paper, but since the volume of business has grown until an eight page six column is not sufficient, we will go to a seven column paper, beginning with our first issue in November. Many other west Texas papers have adopted the seven column sheet this year, and we just cannot afford to let Santa Anna fall short of what other progressive towns are doing. We feel sure our readers and the town in general will appreciate this progressive step on the part of their local newspaper. May we continue to have your support and much valued good will?

TAYLOR COUNTY VOTES MILLION DOLLAR BOND ISSUE

In an election held in Taylor county Monday, the voters of the county authorized a million dollar bond issue for road improvement by a vote of 10 to 1. No wonder Abilene can make such progress when she is backed up by such a large citizenship over the county.

Cotton Price Jumps $5.00 Per Bale Upon Report of Ginnings

Washington, Oct. 25.—Cotton of this year's growth ginned prior to October 18 totalled 8,118,978 running bales, counting 252,978 round bales as half bales and excluding linters the census bureau announced today.

Ginnings to October 18 last year totalled 8,727,709 bales, including 259,529 round bales, and in 1925 ginnings were 9,518,946 bales, including 145,980 round bales. This year's crop, as indicated October 1, is placed at 12,678,000 equivalent, 600 bales, last year's crop was 17,977,374 bales and the 1925 crop was 16,103,679 bales.

Jerry Simpson Dies From Injuries Received At Gin Plant

A very sad death occurred in this city last Sunday just before noon, when the life of Jerry Simpson, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Simpson, took its flight into the Great Beyond.

Jerry was severely wounded early Friday morning at the Rose Gin, the property of J. D. Simpson and J. Frank Turner, when, in some way, he was caught in the machinery and his left arm and shoulder were badly mangled, the arm being broken in several places, and the shoulder badly crushed.

He was rushed to the Sealy Hospital where aid was given him, and, according to his own pleadings, an effort was made to save him without amputating his arm. A close vigilance was kept over him and everything done that was within the powers of human skill to save him, but fate was against him and death was his only relief. Carl Greene set up in his arm shortly after midnight Saturday night, and his limb was amputated about 5 o'clock Sunday morning, but all efforts failed and he died a few hours later. Death was very unexpected, himself and family thinking life was possible until the end came.

Deceased leaves a young wife and child, his parents, three brothers and four sisters, besides a host of other relatives and good friends to mourn his untimely demise.

The funeral was held at the home of his parents at 3:00 o'clock Monday afternoon, and his body laid to rest in the family lot in the Santa Anna cemetery. A large number of sorrowing relatives and friends attended the funeral and the floral offerings were profuse. The funeral was conducted by Rev. Seba Kirkpatrick, assisted by Rev. Sidney F. Martin. The Santa Anna News joins in extending sympathy to the bereaved.

WELLS' NEW TRIAL MOTION IS DENIED

Coleman, Oct. 24.—Oliver C. Wells, given the death penalty by a jury in district court last week when found guilty of the murder of J. A. Mitchell here January 27, was denied a new trial by District Judge J. O. Woodward Saturday afternoon. Notice of appeal was immediately given and Judge Woodward gave the defense until January 12th to perfect the appeal. Judge J. K. Baker of this city, a member of the commission to the court of criminal appeals during Ferguson administration is representing the condemned man.

In seeking a new trial for Wells, Judge Baker introduced a copy of the Coleman Democrat-Voice of February 4 in which appeared a full account of the killing of Mitchell, which was read by some of the men composing the jury that returned the death verdict.

The Newspaper's Value

There is no way of estimating a newspaper's worth to the town and community in which it is published. Every one knows that a good paper is a splendid asset for a town and that a poor one is a discredit. All people are not in agreement as to what is a good paper. Perhaps the best definition is to say a good paper is one that fairly represents the spirit of its constituents—one that is no better and no worse than the people for whom it is published. Yet a paper must always be a little in the lead of public sentiment if it would serve a useful purpose. All publishers are not leaders, but all should try to lead in the things that are really worth while. If your local paper is making an honest effort to render a worthy public service, help it along. If it is not, you still owe it to your community to aid the publisher to make it truly representative.

Controlling Root Rot

Experiments made at the Temple Agricultural Experiment Station show that where cotton is rotated with other crops it does not have as much root rot as does cotton continuously planted on the same ground. A bulletin on the subject says: "Rotation of crops practically controlled, although it did not eradicate the disease." It follows that the sensible thing to do, pending further experiments at eradication of root rot, is not to plant cotton on land where the disease exists. The rotation experiments at Temple covered a period of three years. Doubtless better results could be obtained if cotton is kept off root rot infected soil for a longer period. At least it is well worth trying.

Texas Border Irrigation

Eagle Pass is taking steps for financing the irrigation of some 60,000 acres of land. The irrigation of all available land in Texas is as certain to come in the next few years as flying is sure to be made a success. It is hoped that a plan may be evolved for the equitable distribution of all Texas waters. Apparently plenty of rain falls. It should not be allowed to go to waste.

Paper Shell Pecans

It is estimated that the pecan crop in Texas this year will be about 30 per cent of last year's crop, but it is also stated that the yield of the thin or paper shelled pecans in most sections is better than usual, which is another reason why the improved pecans should be cultivated. They also begin to bear several years earlier than native pecans and sell for at least twice as much.

Llano to Have Hotel

The W. B. Colliffs, son and father, owners of the Llano News, have been hammering away for a long time to get a much-needed hotel for their town. At last the people have awakened to the need and are taking steps to finance a modern hotel, for which the Collins can now crow most lustily.

Crystal City Spinach

Can you imagine 12,500 acres of land in one community planted to spinach. I can't any more than I can imagine the feel of a million dollars, but that is the acreage being planted around Crystal City. That is by no means all of the spinach being grown in Texas. Farmers around Martindale in Caldwell county have bought $2,000 worth of spinach seed for fall planting. Spinach growing pays when there is not too large a crop and if the marketing is well handled.

Snyder Solves Water Problem

Snyder is fairly luxuriating in good water, having some time ago brought in a well that under a 72 hour test pumped 1,000 gallons of pure water a minute. As a result the water rate has been cut to $2.50 for the first 10,000 gallons and 10 cents for each additional thousand, and there is promise of a further reduction. Plenty of cheap water and fuel are the best aids to city growth.

Brazos Bridge Celebration

The new bridge across the Brazos river at Gauze, in Milan county, solves the problem of East and West travel for a large part of Central Texas, and the event is being celebrated in a suitable way. Texas appears to be moving slowly in the matter of road and bridge building, but Texas is an immense state and all big bodies move slowly of necessity.

Sheep Flocks Improved

It has not been a great while since any sheep was merely regarded as a "sheep" in Texas, little or no attention being paid to pedigrees or registration. Sheep have become so valuable that growers now want to be certain they have the best stock to be had. In other words two pounds of wool are being grown where but one was grown before. In a few years there will be small flocks of sheep on all Texas farms.

Jasper is Expanding

When the spirit of progress strikes one of the old towns of East Texas, it goes the limit in whatever it undertakes. Jasper has voted a quarter of a million dollars in bonds for extending the water and sewer system and improving the streets. That amount of money judiciously spent should go a long way toward making Jasper as good a town in which to live as any in Texas.

Paving Forty Blocks

Carrizo Springs, down where the vegetables and fruits grow in such profusion, has completed the paving of forty blocks of streets with asphalt. The spirit of the town is also shown in raising the money by private subscription to improve a four acre park, which the municipality has agreed to keep up.

Texas Turkey Crop

Texas will this year market two and a half million turkeys, according to present estimates, a greater production than any other like territory in the world. You may not be able to comprehend just what this means for the wealth of Texas, but if you attend the Brady Turkey Trot you will be willing to agree to the figures as you will think you have seen most of them there.

National Pecan Show

It is a big thing for a town the size of San Saba to put on a National show of any kind, but that is what San Saba is getting ready to do next month with its pecan show, the first pecan show of National scope in this country. If you can, go to San Saba and see just what fine pecans can be grown. A Kingsland man says he is going to exhibit some that weigh 26 to the pound, or about three-fifths of an ounce each. With pecans, though, as with some other things, the biggest is not always the best.

Erath County Peanuts

Erath county has about 15,000 acres of its best sandy land planted to peanuts this year and has a peanut growers marketing association that is trying to show that peanuts pay better than cotton. It is a safe bet that it will succeed.

HUNTING THE BUFFALO

It seems a far cry back to the days when great herds of wild buffaloes, or bison, covered the plains of many of our western States from Texas northward and up into the far Canadian Northwest. However, quite a few western plainsmen are still living who well remember those early days, and some there are who had an important part in helping well-nigh to exterminate these large herds of buffaloes, as well as ridding the American frontier of hostile Indian tribes.

Under the title of "Hunting the Buffalo" an old Texas Ranger tells how near he came to losing his life in an encounter with a wounded buffalo. The story will appear in the monthly Magazine Section of the Santa Anna News, Nov. 4th.

KNOW TEXAS

According to the latest estimates this state has 2,680,000 persons of voting age.

The first settlements in Texas were made for educational and religious purposes. They were the missions established by the Spanish in the latter part of the 17th century.

The Texas Declaration Day of Independence declared that Mexico had failed to establish any public system of education, and the constitution of the Republic of Texas contained provisions for such a system.

President Mirabeau B. Lamar was the first to take direct action looking to the establishment of public schools. In his message to the Texas Congress of 1838 he urged setting aside land for this purpose.

Adams Company Leases Site

Of Gin From B. A. Pessels (From Democrat-Voice)

The Adams Oil Company of Comanche has leased the site of the old Rogers Red Gin from B. A. Pessels for a period of five years, beginning November 15. Mr. Adams has not been in Coleman and could not be interviewed, but it is understood a filling station and building for the handling of gasoline, oil, automobile accessories, etc., will be erected by the company. The site is on the Burkett highway south of the Santa Fe railroad track and east of the Horne building occupied by the express office. Mr. Adams is a brother-in-law of Johnnie B. Howell.

The above Adams referred to is Vernon Adams, former citizen of Santa Anna, who has a number of friends here.

Time is money, but it hasn't anything on gasoline.

WHAT'S DOING IN WEST TEXAS
 (By West Texas C. O. C.)

Presidio—Rapid progress is being made on the Orient Railway and the lines will soon be to this city from the Old Mexico terminus.

Tulla—Considerable improvements are underway at Hotel Tulla. Gas stoves have been installed, and concrete walks are being laid about the building.

Canadian—The Hemphill County Agricultural Exhibit was shown at three fairs this year, the Tri-State Fair at Amarillo, the Texas Oklahoma Fair at Wichita Falls, and the State Fair at Dallas. This exhibit took third place at Amarillo, fourth at Wichita Falls, and third at Dallas, beating every county that scored above it at the other two fairs at the Dallas showing, except Garza County.

Abilene—President R. W. Haynie of this city, and Manager Homer D. Wade of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce will motor to Brady on November 10 to attend the annual Turkey Trot held in that place November 11.

Fluvana—Oil and mineral tests are being made in this section, but the Fluvana section is not depending upon such development for prosperity. Agriculture is the main stay of this region. The Fluvana community exhibit won first place at the 1927 Scurry County Fair, Snyder, and it displayed many excellent home-grown agricultural products.

Lorraine—New four inch water mains are being laid into the Templeton addition in the eastern part of town, and will be complete for service at an early date.

Sweetwater—Date for the West Central District Convention, of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce has been reset for November 28. The previous date scheduled was November 14.

Stinnett—Work of laying concrete on the highway has been started at the south line of the county and is well underway.

Mason—Native stone is being quarried and hauled on the grounds for construction of a second story to a local building. The addition will house the leading law firm of the city.

Eastland—Plans are now being made for construction of eight or ten new business houses to be occupied by new firms.

Lubbock—The last mile of grading on the Estelline-Lockney-Lubbock line of the Fort Worth and Denver South Plains Railway above the caprock is underway. Trains are expected to be in operation over the entire line by May or June first, 1928.

Dumas—Six new residences are under construction here. Gas and light conveniences are now available, systems having been completed just recently. Oil in Moore county has helped the town and promoted record activity here and throughout the section.

Midland—Opening of the new Mayo Hotel has given approximately 250 hotel rooms to the city. This number will be augmented to 400 when the new Scharbauer Hotel opens the first of January.

Artesia, N. M.—Twenty-five cars of apples have been shipped from here to date. Production is heavier than first anticipated.

The Brain Is Supreme

Remember how on Fourth of July night you used to take a little fireworks stick called a sparkler, and whirl it about? You wove circles, figure eights, all sorts of fantastic patterns in the air. And at that time you didn't realize that the figures you were seeing didn't exist at all. It was your eyes that were deceiving you.

Try the same experiment any time with a match or a glowing cigar. You can't trust your eyes. That's why so many of us need glasses.

You can't trust your nose, either. The sweetish, almond smell may come from deadly cyanide of potassium. Many of the poison gases in the World War had a not unpleasant smell—at first.

Your ears are just "as unreliable. Just try to whistle a tune in someone's presence. Unless you are a phenomenon, you'll whistle mostly wrong notes, off key. Your whistler's all right. It's your ear that's playing a trick on you.

Your taste, allied to smell, is equally deceptive. The sense of touch is probably the most reliable of all, but it is a poor thing at best. How would you like to sit down blindfolded among enemies, and agree to eat whatever you might be permitted to feel of?

Then, if the five senses are such poor servants, how is it we get along so well with their aid? It is because the brain directing them is more perfect than any one sense. When the eyes fail, the brain orders the touch-sense and the hearing-sense to help out.

No life, no home, no business, can be successfully carried on without a central mind more capable than any of the subordinates. Just as your sense, cooperating, achieve what no single one could do, so in your every activity you will find most success if you; too, learn to cooperate. Know when to subordinate yourself, and be not afraid when it comes your time to command.—Selected.

Business Consistency

Good business judgment has a two-fold value. It keeps commerce sailing on an even keel, and in the end returns to the public the fullest measure of service.

As to what constitutes good business judgment we must look to the individual business man, and to the public that makes up his patronage.

Out-throat prices are not always the great benefit to the trading public that the self-styled public benefactor would have people believe. The cutting and slashing appears to serve the customer for the time, and then the blow-up comes. Quality is sacrificed for price; but worst of all, the continuance of the concern in business is doubtful.

The old saying that you can't get something for nothing finds its primary application in the world of business, in merchandising.

The merchants of Santa Anna are not cut-throats. This does not mean that they do not have special sales and bargains. But they are of the type that believe in living and in letting live.

The fact that there have been comparatively few business failures in Santa Anna in the past speaks well for the business men and women of this community.

But where does the public come in? The public comes in stronger, if at all, than anybody else, because business failures hurt the community more than they hurt the individuals involved.

To sustain the community the community must sustain business. A correct level of prices must be found and adhered to in light of conditions. The correct level of prices are those that meet fairly existing competition, plus prices that will permit the merchant to stay in business and meet his community obligations with self-respect.

It's an old song, but one that lives. Every dollar spent outside of Santa Anna for things that could have been purchased with a fair competitive price in Santa Anna is a constant pull against the business of Santa Anna, which in turn pulls down local prosperity that affects everybody else in the community.

 Suppose the theory of trading away were applied 100 per cent. What stretch of the imagination does it take to see the community go backward: to see business men failing because they went into business to serve you and failed to receive your patronage; to see property values lower, institutions suffer, jobs lacking, industry lag, and community spirit and civic pride lessened?

There was never any competition as now. And because of this every citizen keen as community competition is ized should rally to the support of his home town. In so doing he is following his own business consistency, and it is good business to trade at home.

COLDS AND ROUP

(By F. W. Kazmeier, Bryan, Texas)

Chickens like man and beast, sometimes catch cold, and other diseases affecting the respiratory or breathing system.

To attempt to cure roup or other forms of cold is going after the trouble wrong. The practical plan is to locate the cause and then to remove it.

When your chickens are continually catching cold, any of the following may be contributing, yet indirect causes.

Many times we have called your attention to intestinal worms, being the chief indirect cause. Many people continue to overlook these parasites as possibly being the chief cause. If your flock, especially your pullets, continually seem to be bothered with some form of colds, be sure and investigate the possibility and probability of either round worms or tape worms, as the guilty agencies. There is only one way to be sure your flock are not infested with worms, and that is to have just completed a good job of deworming, by individual treatment.

Housing

In the fall and winter faulty housing may cause colds and roup. First of all, a lack of fresh air is the greatest cause. Fresh air in abundance and without direct drafts, is of prime importance. It might be interesting to state that in the summer direct drafts among grown stock is desirable, but in the late fall and winter this is not true. Floor drafts are especially harmful and also are drafts over the roosts. A good plan is to close the north, east and west ends as nearly air tight as possible allowing all the fresh air to come in thru one end and that preferably in the south side. We prefer to have openings in south end close to the floor, to prevent the wind and rain from beating too far into the interior of the house. Wide houses are better than narrow houses.

Dry Floors

Wet floors and litter are great causes. If the litter is continually wet, ventilation is insufficient, or too many birds are put in the house. Make special plans to keep dry litter on the floor. Sloping the floors a little towards the open front will keep rain from running towards the back of the house. Regardless of trouble or time, keep a dry litter on the floor. Dampness is a sure cause of colds and roup.

Over Crowding

Over crowding, is probably one of the most common causes of colds. It is just impossible to over crowd a house and get away with it very long. Sooner or later trouble is sure to make its appearance. At least 3 sq. feet of floor space per bird must be provided in fall and winter. Over crowding causes more trouble in the poultry business than any other principle that may be neglected.

Partitions

Long open front houses, unless properly partitioned, also contribute to colds. In houses longer than 20 feet, solid partitions should be provided every 20 feet. These partitions must be out of wood, the width of the roosts and at least four feet up from the floor. These partitions will help prevent drafts in long open front houses.

Direct Sunshine

Direct sunshine will also help prevent colds in the fall and winter. In case of open front houses, this will easily be provided. Sunshine kills germs causing colds and roup.

Lack of Green Food

A lack of succulent and fresh green food will also cause a form of cold, known as nutritional roup. With all the rain we have been getting lately, laziness alone can be causing your flock to suffer from lack of fresh and tender succulent green food of some kind. Now is the time to sow oats, wheat, barley or rye as a fall and winter green food pasture for your flock. It is not too late now, but soon will be, better do that today.

Epsom Salts

We have found it a good idea to give the entire flock epsom salts when signs of colds are first noticed. Add 1 lb. of epsom salts to 100 lbs. of dry mash and keep this before them for two or three days. Epsom salts may also be given in the drinking water.

Use of Iodine

Iodine for external use has been found very good for curing colds. We use a common atomizer for applying it. Get one man to hold the bird, opening mouth, spray inside of mouth and throat with tincture of iodine, also nostrils and eyes. You do not have to be afraid of getting the iodine in the eyes because it will not injure them. Repeat this every other day until birds get better. Many other remedies may be used. We have not found any better than iodine.

Weak Birds

It does not pay to keep weak birds. They are a money losing proposition at the best, and the first ones to contract contagious diseases and spread them to the balance of the flock. Kill all such and burn them.

Introducing New Stock

In buying stock or returning birds from fairs or poultry shows, it is a good plan to quarantine them 14 days, before introducing them to the flock. Birds coming from fairs and poultry shows, especially are subject to colds and roup, because of close confinement and common drafts in fair and poultry show buildings.

History of West Texas to

Be Released Soon

Rister, the author.

Dr. Rister, who is professor of history in Simmons University here, is a native West Texan and has studied for years the history of this section. Final acceptance of his volume came recently with a written contract from the Arthur H. Clark Co., of Cleveland, Ohio, exclusive publishers of high grade historical books.

Taking up the history of the southwest from 1865 to 1881, the book includes accounts of the coming of the settlers, Indian depredations, ranching activities, the coming of the railroads and the disappearance of the frontier. The volume includes color maps, drawings and interesting photographs taken in early times.

One hundred copies of the book will be printed by the Clark Company especially for use in the West Texas history class at Simmons University. This course is taught by Dr. Rister.

WEATHER SHARK OFFERS WINTER LIKE OLD TIMES

Cold Season to Set In About November 12, With Big Storms To Come

(By Robert W. Ginsberg)
Washington, Pa., Oct. 14.—An old-fashioned winter with plenty of snow, rain, sleet and ice, is the prediction for the next few months by Paul K. Schimmick, self-styled weather shark and astrologer.

Sitting in his study with maps and charts, Schimmick has traced the position of all the planets up to May 7, 1927, in a special forecast for International News Service.

Schimmick advises there will be a big flood in California on October 22, with winter weather setting in about November 12.

New York and vicinity will be visited by a big storm lasting from December 1st to 3rd inclusive. Three days later there will be a heavy snowfall in Canada and the northern part of the United States.

White Christmas

Christmas shoppers will have to wade about in mud and slush this year, but will be recompensed with a white Christmas, after which January and February will be cold and blustery.

Schimmick says that Lion will show his teeth the first part of March but that month and April will be relatively springlike, May and June will prove to be unseasonable, the astrologer said.

Cronologically, here is what he forecasts:

October 10.—A storm coming out of Oregon and sweeping eastward as far as Chicago.

October 11 and 12.—First snow in the Middle Atlantic States.

October 22.—A big flood in California. Mercury is in the sign of Scorpio and Venus descending in Virgo, Mars in Libra the Earth sign, Jupiter in Pisces and Saturn in Sagittarius—they are all in the water sign on October 22.

November 12.—May look for winter weather coming out of the east westward to Youngstown, O., including Pittsburg on November 14.

November 14.—Real Snow.

November 21.—Snow.

November 24.—Snow.

November 28-29.—More snow.

December 1-3.—There will be a big storm in New York.

December 6.—Canada will be buried in snow.

Snow in Canada

December 10-12.—Canada will be buried in snow again, a large portion falling also over the northern United States, as far south as Pittsburg, where outside work will be impossible at this time.

December 14.—Snow.

December 17.—Snow.

December 18.—Snow.

December 19.—Snow.

December 22.—Snow.

December 24.—Snow. Schimmick personally guarantees there will be white Christmas.

December 25.—Snow.

December 26.—Snow.

December 28.—Snow.

January 1-3 and 5.—Schimmick advises that heavy snow may be expected on these dates.

The entire months of January and February will be real winter months. March and April will be spring like.

May 7.—Will see the last cold of the year.

See, aren't you glad you live in sunny Texas?

Hallowe'en's Tragic Side

Like many days set apart as church days or festivals, Hallowe'en, the vigil of All Saints' day, has lost its original meaning, tho it may be shown to mean something even the way it is observed by the general public now.

Ghosts, goblins, black cats and other apparitions, designed and prepared for entertainment on Hallowe'en, have a hidden meaning. To the children they mean another thrill in their gay young lives. But to the grown-ups they are typical of the ghosts of every day life: ghosts of departed days, of failures great and small, apparitions of fear for the future.

Like the child, the grown-up finds, with Mark Twain, that most of his troubles never happen. A dusky-hued cat crossing your path actually means bad luck usually consists of the fear of it. There is a lot in mood.

As we sit with the children on Hallowe'en even the rustle of leaves startles us. The shadows of the buildings that stand stark against the autumn sky seem as grim specters that strike with awe. Mere fancies that pass in the night appear portentous and ill-boding.

But what does the morrow bring? Another sunlight, another day of hope, of tackling the tasks of life with a will to accomplish. The Hallowe'en of impending disaster has vanished. The soul is born again, the heart courageous, the mind fearless. Hallowe'en teaches a great lesson as well as furnishes a good time. Many people have Hallowe'en all the time, but in different ways. Some go merrily on, responsible, living in shadows, without depth of thought or breadth of vision. There is the Hallowe'en without substance, empty and temporary. Others break thru the thin crust and make-believe, and there find the real purposes of life, full and eternal, the real destiny, the happiness that comes from knowing what is real and what is unreal. There is the Hallowe'en of essential values and of genuine worth to mankind.

Epworth League Entertained

Mrs. T. R. Sealy was hostess to the Epworth League on Tuesday evening. The house was beautifully decorated with roses. The young people participated in many games as a pastime and a very enjoyable evening was spent. There were twenty-five present. Later refreshments of cream and cake were served.

An Even Hundred Now!

Seven years ago the electric lines of the West Texas Utilities Company served seven West Texas towns and cities. Today they serve a hundred.

Seven years ago this company maintained and operated eighty-three miles of transmission lines. Today it has in operation fifteen hundred miles.

Seven years ago this company had five thousand electric customers. Today it has forty-five thousand.

Seven years ago the total capital invested in properties of this company was less than three millions of dollars. Today invested capital totals nearly thirty millions.

Where, except in that magic land of opportunity, West Texas, could such a record of progress have been written.

West Texas Utilities Company

WELL, WHY NOT?

(From the Texas Digest)

Sermons in stones, and a moral in Texas onions. By gradual processes we will come to the subject of canteloupe.

Eighteen years ago the now celebrated Texas Bermuda onion was having a hard time becoming established on the market. The only reason why that was not widely known. When it became known, the onion eating world paid homage and dollars to it and for it, because it had a flavor that was not then and is not now surpassed by anybody's onion anywhere at any time. The point is that it took a little work to acquaint the public with its superior qualities, and it also required a few men with gumption enough to see the opportunity, seize it, and put the idea over to their lasting profit. There are now solid train loads of Texas Bermuda onions shipped from south and southwest Texas every season, and the total runs into thousands of cars annually.

In 1923 a solid cargo of onions from the Laredo district was shipped to Bermuda, the supposed home of that vegetable. And the cargo brought a good price, proving that world's premier onion enters finally acknowledged the superiority of the Texas product.

There is a man in Dallas who 18 years ago did as much as anyone else to put over the Texas onion. He is George D. Hunter, and at that time was general eastern traffic agent for the I-G-N Railroad, and was stationed in New York. He knew all about the Texas onion. He knew that the true onion enthusiast would sit up and beg for it once a taste was obtained. Also, his road wanted the business of moving the onions. So he got busy?

The Arkwright Club, famous in those days, was induced to place Texas Bermudas as such on its menu. That was a job. But the Waldorf and big hotels in Boston and Buffalo soon followed, and then the dining cars on the New York Central and the Baltimore & Ohio started featuring them, and the Texas Bermuda was launched.

In a short time, as soon as farmers in the onion districts saw the opportunity, the I-G-N started moving onions. Solid trains of onions in two and three sections are now common.

So much for the onion. Onion growing is now a big Texas industry, creating from two and a half to four millions of dollars of new wealth annually. Practically all this is placed in circulation in Texas and is therefore important.

Now, the canteloupe. Out in the Pecos country in West Texas there is a canteloupe that is food for the gods. There is something in the soil that places it beyond any comparison. There is a market for it that can absorb large quantities at high prices. But the supply at Pecos is limited to about thirty acres. This is bought up by the Texas & Pacific Railroad for its dining cars, where it is featured as the Pecos Valley Canteloupe, having been renamed that instead of the Challenge, which meant nothing. The T. & P. would buy more if more were available. It would also see that the eastern market was developed—if the supply were greater. It is two weeks earlier than the Rocky Ford, and could reach eastern markets at premium prices. According to figures of the T. & P., this melon is the best shipper of any, because it is 98 per cent good and the spoilage from shipping long distances is negligible. Its season is from July to October. Comparatively shallow wells supply all the water necessary for irrigation. With the construction of the Red Bluff dam on the Pecos River, 100,000 acres additional can be thrown into cultivation in less than a year—into Pecos Valley Canteloupe if it is so desired.

The Imperial Valley of California ships more than 10,000 cars of canteloupe a year to eastern markets. It is a big thing. But the Texas project could be made bigger and better than the Imperial Valley.

In the case of the Bermuda onion, the crop was grown, but the market, such as it was before the missionary work took effect, was sluggish.

In the case of the Pecos Valley canteloupe, the market is already made and anxious for it, but the supply is extremely limited.

The situation may be unique, but one thing at least is apparent. Here is an industry that could be developed with a minimum of risk, and at the same time add millions more to the primary wealth of Texas. That, certainly, is worth attention.

And it is also to be remembered that George D. Hunter, the man who made the Bermuda onion in the East eighteen years ago, and who is now general passenger agent for the T. & P., is just as ready to spend money and time now as he was then, in selling canteloupe to the East.

Did we mention that our embryo canteloupe district is 1,000 miles nearer the eastern markets than California's Imperial Valley? Cost, flavor and shipping qualities are all in favor of Texas.

An Entertaining Community

The finest compliment a stranger can pay to a community is to say that it is an enterprising community. In the word enterprise may be included the meaning of moral, material and spiritual development. To be enterprising is to be alert and wide awake to our possibilities; to be energetic and progressive in practical affairs and devoted to high ideals.

From its beginning Santa Anna has advanced rapidly, but still more cooperation is needed. Santa Anna has evidenced the cooperative spirit in the past in proof of its present advancement. With a little more pulling and boosting together Santa Anna can keep going forward.

One likes to hear the man in the other town say, "Well, your town is surely alive. We hear a lot about you people over there. You're doing big things." It brings out one's vanity. And it will bring a well deserved pride if you have had some individual or cooperative part in the accomplishment of the things of which the man talks.

Failing to work together for the good of all; knocking and degrading ambitious spirits who sincerely want to make Santa Anna and community a better place to live in; neglecting to interest one's self in public undertakings and home institutions that affect one's own family and business; refusing to give back in service in proportion as one takes from the community in cash—is not only an exhibition of the most backward spirit, but is positively the most expensive course that any man can pursue. It makes taxes higher or at least less servicable because progress suffers as it is retarded. It makes citizens less happy and content because it stifles fellowship and prevents the formation of friendships that by all moral right ought to be made. It hurts business because it lacks the power of creating good impressions of the town in the minds of people who might otherwise buy goods and transact business.

What would it be worth to Santa Anna in cold dollars and cents, in civic pride, in beauty, convenience, in education, religion and social contact, in self-respect if, wherever one went and whomsoever one met in any part of the country, one could hear said of our community, "That's certainly an enterprising town." Figure it out.

A Big Difference

We never knew how time has changed in this old world until we overheard a couple of women comparing dresses of 40 years ago with those of today. One of them consented to write out what it took to make an ordinary afternoon dress about 1887. It required 15 yards of wide silk, 5 yards of skirt lining, 3 yards of horsehair cloth to stiffen the skirt, 4 yards of silk or dust ruffle, 5 yards of velveteen skirt binding, 24 inches of skirt belting, the same of waist stiffening, 4 dozen fancy buttons, 1 card large hooks and eyes, 2 cards medium and 1 card invisible hooks and eyes, 5 spools silk thread, 2 spools cotton thread, 4 buttonhole twist, 2 yards featherboning for waist, 1 yard small boning for collar, bolt of seam binding. Today it takes three yards of silk and thread. Yet no man on earth can figure why today's dresses cost far more than those of 40 years ago.

Winter Pasture Crops

Texas is exceedingly fortunate in having a mild winter climate that permits certain types of vegetation to grow during the entire winter season, advises Charles H. Alvord, Director of Extension Service, A & M College of Texas. These pasture crops are especially desirable for farmers where any kind of live stock is maintained. The crop that can be used for winter pasture may be divided into two classes—those belonging to the grass family such as wheat, oats, rye, barley, spelt or emmer and those belonging to the class of plants known as legumes, including alfalfa, clovers, lespedeza, etc. September or October is the proper time of the year to plant these crops for winter grazing purposes. Early planting is especially desirable as this will give the crop a chance to get started before real cold weather. Barley and rye will make the heaviest growth of any of the grain crops.

Where a grain drill is not used the crop may be seeded by broadcasting the seed on the ground and disking it twice. Some farmers follow the practice of sowing the seed broadcast by hand, and then plowing the land very shallow. Barley, oats, and spelt should be seeded at the rate of about two bushels per acre, wheat and rye at the rate of about five pecks per acre. After the native pasture is started in the spring and winter grain pastures are no longer needed, the crop can be allowed to grow up and will produce a fine quality of hay, or if allowed to mature, in many instances will produce a large crop of grain. Possibly the greatest advantage, however, would secure by plowing the crop under for green manure and follow it by a crop of corn or cotton.

The Extension Division of the A & M College has published a record book for keeping account of the number of animals pastured on various crops. This book will be sent free to any one making inquiry for it. Address inquiry to the Extension Division, A & M College, College Station, Texas.

KNOW TEXAS

Texas leads all states in consumption of natural gas for production of electricity. Last year public utility plants of this state consumed 19,108,200,000 cubic feet, which was 35.91 per cent of the total amount used in the United States.

In 1920, according to the United States census, Texas had 946,629 dwellings and 1,017,413 families.

Texas has the third longest coast line among the states of the United States.

The Panhandle and South Plains area constitute one of the unique regions of the world, because it is one of the few places where advantages of high altitude are combined with fertile soil, abundant water, and mild winter temperatures.

Long Troubled by Constipation

"Black-Draught has been a family medicine with us for fifteen years," says Mr. F. M. Huntley, of Neosho, Mo. "I read about it first in the Ladies Birthday Almanac and what I read there sounded so convincing I made up my mind to try Black-Draught, as I had been troubled with constipation for a long time.

"I found Black-Draught to be the ideal medicine for this trouble. It gave me quick relief. Frequently I had bad headaches and pains, due to toxic poison. By taking a course of Black-Draught I gave my system a thorough cleansing, and I have had little or no trouble since then.

"Now, if I am becoming constipated, I take several small doses of Black-Draught, and am very soon feeling fine."

Costs only 1 cent a dose.

Boost Local Paper

Some towns, or some citizens in some towns, think they can get along without either a Chamber of Commerce or a newspaper. And some towns do—but just look at 'em! Good roads are making it difficult to hold their own. When it is a difference of only ten minutes or half an hour between towns, the fittest shall survive the others become a place with weeds holding carnival on main street. When two towns are outwardly equal, which is the fittest and will be survivor? The one with the most enterprise is the one with a newspaper and a Chamber of Commerce—anyhow a newspaper. But no newspaper can sustain itself on the hand shakes given him by his grateful fellowmen. If they do not give him advertisements, printing jobs and subscriptions to his paper he will have to move his outfit to a livelier community. After he moves and no successor takes his place, goodbye town! It is doomed to become a remembrance. But if the newspaper is sustained, hello town! You are set to stay. A town that keeps its newspaper will keep its place on the map. It costs much money to carry on even a small newspaper business these times. The capital investment can hardly be less than $5,000. If the office is machine equipped it can hardly be less than $10,000. And the income of a machine-operated office must be several hundred dollars a month nearly all of which is spent in the town. Hard work and good business management are now absolutely necessary in publishing a newspaper. Many publishers are more anxious to get out than to stay in. Towns that are indifferent to the press will find that the world is indifferent toward them. It works out that way. No two ways about it, no dispute about it.—State Press in Dallas News.

The Cost Of Thoughtlessness

To forget, like to err, is human. The most thoughtful people sometimes act unthinkingly, and a good memory does not save one from forgetting, on occasion, that which all should know. These human failings explain the frequent with which good citizens unintentionally hurt their community by word or deed.

Many patronize mail order houses and out-of-town stores, in thoughtlessness, not realizing that in doing so they are hurting their own community and personally losing more than they gain. It has never occurred to them that this money never comes back, while if it were given to home business a large percentage of it would remain in the community, bringing employment, civic improvement and prosperity.

The knocker is often a potential booster lacking in tact. Knowing the community's shortcomings, he would be a community asset if he would not thus over what the home town can do, instead of harp on what it has failed to do. The one method stimulates the community, the other depresses it. That is why the booster is popular and the knocker unpopular, although both may be striving for civic betterment.

Another common form of community thoughtlessness and forgetfulness is known as "lack of foresight." Cities and towns are building too much for the present without thought for the future. Millions are being spent for roads, public buildings, sewers, schools and water service which in a few years hence will be obsolete and inadequate. These mistakes cannot be charged to incompetence, unless foresight is a competency.

EASY MONEY

Ninety-nine out of every hundred easy marks for stock swindlers are people with limited savings, who cuddle the belief they are getting a gold mine which the bankers and wise men have overlooked. And they are! You'll notice that good bonds and securities never get to the people, but as soon as one becomes questionable it is quickly unloaded on the suckers.

The desire for "easy money" makes fools of many of us. And we are not entitled to much sympathy when we part with our money because of this overwhelming desire. Some of us are never wholly honest except under the compulsion of fear.—Winters Enterprise.

It is pretty evident now that the speculators are going to buy this cotton crop at around 20 cents, regardless of its shortage. When the market starts up the Government Agricultural Department issues another guess which puts it down. It seems like a conspiracy between the Department and the speculators to hold the price down, as when it is not possible to put out a regular statement a special one is issued. The last was a guess on the carryover from last year, which guess is repudiated by Hester, one of the most accurate estimators in the cotton business. Northern insurance companies and loan companies have mortgages on most of the land in the cotton belt, and few of these lands would sell under present conditions for sufficient to pay off the loans. It is a condition which is hard to analyze, and only time will solve the puzzle. It would be poetic justice if the speculators and loan companies had to work the cotton crops for a few years. Maybe that would create sympathy for the man who tills the soil and sweats in the cotton patches to have his products priced by those who know nothing of the cost of production. The only thing we see for the farmers to do is quit raising it until they are assured of a fair price before planting the crop. Between insects, speculators and Government guessers the cotton farmer is in the condition Sherman said war created.

Anna News is making them believe, delivering the goods as promised is making them know.

"Yes, Willard Mack is right, Luckies are best," says Paul Berlenbach

Willard Mack, Noted Author, Producer and Actor, writes:

"We people of the theatre are, as a rule, extremists. This is the reflex action from overworked nerves. When a man smokes forty cigarettes a day, as I do, he must be sure of his brand. I smoke Lucky Strikes because I have found they are soothing to the nerves and at the same time they cause no throat irritation. My voice is always in perfect condition and I am never troubled by any coughing which might be annoying to me in my work as an actor."

You, too, will find that LUCKY STRIKES give the greatest pleasure—Mild and Mellow, the finest cigarettes you ever smoked. Made of the choicest tobaccos, properly aged and blended with great skill, and there is an extra process—"IT'S TOASTED"—no harshness, not a bit of bite.

as growth continues, no town can claim trade territory within fixed boundaries. Each town ought to try to enlarge its trade territory. But this ought not to be done in a spirit of bitter rivalry toward neighboring towns. Towns can be competitors and still be friends.—Tyler Journal.

Picture Lessons

Pictures have played a vital part in the shaping of the destinies of the world and the individual. They are an inspiration either for good or evil—depending on the picture. Good pictures find their way into the cottages or castles of the thoughtful and the cultured. The thoughtful and the cultured bring good pictures into their cottages or castles.

We can not all afford to purchase the originals of the few immortal masterpieces but modern commercialism beneficently brings within the reach of the humblest home good copies. It is true that the rich buy "paintings" and the poor buy "prints" but no less true is it that there are millions of prints sold for each painting "sold for a fortune." There is a wealth in pictures that is unknown to "wealth." The artist could wish for no fuller and finer appreciation of his art than that bestowed upon it by those without means to own it "in oils."

The value of the picture is known to those in all walks of life. Newspapers have long recognized the news value in the picture, educators know its educational value, the church depends upon it for inspirational power. An advertising writer says "to unlock the average mind use a pictorial key." Sir Joshua Reynolds wrote "a room hung with pictures is a room hung with thoughts" and in the words of Ben Jonson "whosoever loves not a picture is injurious to truth. The picture is the invention of heaven, the most ancient and most akin to nature. It is itself a silent work and always one and the same habit."

Man learned to paint and draw pictures—roughly and rudely at first—before he learned to talk and to build himself a fire. Some of the pictures created by the genius of man will be among the last things cherished by man.

Let your light so shine that it will not blind the man coming toward you.

Carelessness Kills Thousands

Some one has said that accidents have come to be an epidemic and that this epidemic constitutes the most appalling situation now before the American people.

When we realize the loss of life, the suffering, and the destruction of property resulting annually from accidents, we are forced to accept the truth of the above statement.

From September 1, 1926 to June 1, 1927, a period of nine months, accidents of all kinds in Texas were responsible for the loss of 1,310 lives and 4,244 personal injuries. This is a greater loss than was sustained in three of the leading battles of the Texas Revolution.

Clarence E. Gilmore, president Texas Council of Safety, writes an able article entitled: "Carelessness Kills Thousands." It will be published in the Santa Anna News monthly Magazine Section Nov. 4th.

GONE BUT NOT FORGOTTEN

(The following is a tribute to Jerry Simpson, Deceased)

"Sentiment of the Old Colored Settlers of Santa Anna, as attributed to Jerry Simpson and his father, J. D. Simpson.

With due respects and the depth of sentiment to the relatives and friends of Jerry Simpson, I pen these lines.

"Blessed are the Peace Makers, for they shall be called the children of God." As such, we have known the father of the young man whose spirit has taken its flight to the Great Beyond. We had begun to look to this young man as the Peace Maker, following in the footsteps of his father, who is looked upon by the Old Colored Settlers of Santa Anna as a Peace Maker in the time of need.

Knowing that we will not see him again among the living, his memory shall forever be with us. By an Old Settler.—F. S. F.

When you cause your home and its surroundings to become the inspiration and admiration of your neighbors its no trouble at all to get others to do likewise. Fact is, you should make your place the show place of them all. Try it and you'll like it.

TEXAS' TREASURE ISLAND

Rich in romance and adventure, holding the secret of buried treasure and the deeds of freebooters, back in the days when Jean La Fitte and his bold buccaners roamed the Texas coast, Padre Island gives to the world a treasure trove of legends bearing on "pieces of eight."

The island is two to three miles wide and begins about twenty-seven miles from Brownsville, Texas, near the mouth of the Rio Grande river, and proceeds near and along the gulf coast for almost 150 miles. At the northern end it has been recently linked up by means of the Corpus Christi causeway, and affords tourists one of the finest ocean drives in the world.

The modernizing of Padre Island has brought to light its romantic past—the secret of its buried treasure.

Read this interesting story in the monthly Magazine Section of the Santa Anna News, to be issued Nov. 4th.

Removing Enmity From Competition

Along with their other strides toward progress and betterment during the last few years some of the East Texas towns that are located near each other have laid aside most of the ill feeling that had existed between them. They have slackened, if not stopped altogether, their frenzied scramble for the trade of territory which each competing town felt belonged to it.

The growth of East Texas towns and the resultant expansion of their commercial interests have caused trade territories of many towns to overlap and become divided. As long

Organize Assn. Against Thieves (Comanche Chief)

An Anti-Theft Association was organized for Comanche County at a meeting at the court house last Saturday.

The exact purpose of this organization is the protection of farmers against thieves of poultry, livestock and farm implements.

The Association will have its own brand, as well as individual marks. The plan is practical and is working in counties where it has been tried and will work in this county. Its effectiveness will depend upon the solid front that the county membership present so every farmer is asked to join and get his protection.

Santa Fe Purchases Promote Prosperity

WHILE the Santa Fe is itself a large employer of labor—its payroll in 1926 totalled $107,000,000, and its employes number more than 75,000—indirectly, as a buyer of materials and supplies it helps to furnish employment to many more. Such purchases last year exceeded $64,000,000. In addition it bought over $12,000,000 of new cars and locomotives.

Its largest class of material was fuel, which totalled $24,360,000. This consisted of about 2,267,000 tons of coal, and 507,800,000 gallons of fuel oil. The use of coal or oil on any division is determined primarily by which is the cheaper fuel in that locality.

The second largest class of purchases was iron and steel products, for which the expenditure was approximately $19,750,000. This included an expenditure of $9,500,000 for 152,700 tons of rail, frogs, switches, and fastenings. $1,500,000 went for wheels, axles, and tires, and $306,000 for flues and tubes for locomotives. Bridges, turntables, structural steel, forgings, and fabricated, unfabricated, and pressed steel took nearly $3,000,000. Steel and iron are basic necessities in railroading.

Purchases of forest products totalled $6,412,000, which included over 3,000,000 cross ties, and large quantities of lumber and timbers. The Santa Fe creosotes its ties and much of its timbers, otherwise greater quantities would be needed each year.

Folders, report blanks, notices, tickets, tariffs, and various items in the stationery line required $1,225,000, electrical materials $660,000, lubricating oil and grease, illuminating oils, waste, etc., $1,180,000, and air brake material $617,600.

These purchases were necessary to maintain the railroad properly and to give satisfactory service to the public. They were covered by 130,000 invoices and were made from 3,347 individuals and firms. Note the wide spread of this buying.

Thus the Santa Fe and all railroads are an important factor in maintaining the prosperity of our country through the employment arising from these large purchases of supplies, as well as the millions directly disbursed among their own employes for services.

When the railroads are doing well, they buy materials and supplies on a larger scale than when net revenues fall off. Money thus spent mainly pays for the labor of many persons, helping merchants, farmers, everybody—your own community included. You therefore are vitally interested.

Always look for the Red Strand (top wire)

cross fences

Successful farmers say that farms should really be cross fenced, hog-tight, into 20 acre fields. This way you can hog down, save fallen grain, green feed and missed corn, rotate crops, etc.

Some farmers even go so far as to say that the waste feed on the average farm, if saved, will pay the fencing bill in one to three years.

With "Red Strand" you can make cross fences soon pay for themselves and have many years of extra profit left at no expense to you. Copper content wires resist rust longest. An extra heavy covering of zinc guarantees long wear. Costs less because it lasts longer. See us for prices.

AGRICULTURAL ITEMS

(By N. H. Gottwald)

Terracing returns a greater amount for the labor and money expended than any other farm operation. Based upon estimates compiled by the Federal Land Banks and statements of farmers over the state it has been found the average cost of terracing is between $2.00 and $2.50 per acre. From the same source it is found the average annual increase in returns per acre is more than $3.00.

Twenty times as much plant food is leached from the soil on rolling land than is used by the crops. As the slope of the land increases the velocity of the water increase. With the velocity of the water doubled, it increases its soil erosion capacity 32 times.

Here are several questions I should like for every farmer to ask himself: Is your farm paid for? Do you grow hogs for your meat? Do your cows furnish your milk and butter? Do you have your own chickens? Do you have a good garden? Do you have a surplus of any of the above to sell? Do you raise your own feed? Do you "live at home"?

House flies can readily be controlled by placing in likely places shallow pans or plates containing a solution made by pouring 4 teaspoonfuls of formalin into a half pint of water, add a little milk and bread crumbs to attract the flies.

APPRECIATION

In our hour of sorrow and sadness we want to express our appreciation and thanks to all of our dear friends who, by your tender words, your most beautiful floral offerings, your every act of kindness during the sickness and death of our dear Jerry, has helped so much to lighten our burden and make the way easier.

Especially do we think Dr. Sealy and his able corps of assistants, Mrs. Lovelady and all of the hospital attendants who put forth such untiring efforts. Also to the Santa Anna Telephone Co., who so willingly helped to locate our relatives. For those floral offerings which were left with our cards we want to take this opportunity also to thank you. It is our desire to see each one personally and hope that sometime if needs be we can comfort and console you as you have us.
