SANTA ANNA HIGH LOSES TO COLEMAN

In one of the best played and hardest fought football games ever played here Santa Anna High lost to the strong Coleman gridders here last Friday afternoon 7-0. The game was a real battle from the beginning until the last whistle. At no time during the game was it certain what the final outcome would be.

The first half was a punting duel between Rader Dick of Santa Anna and Bourland for Coleman with Dick having a good advantage over his opponent. Neither team got within scoring distance during the first half and it ended without either team scoring.

The second half opened up with a rush and within a few minutes after play had started the Santa Anna gridders had pushed the ball far down into the opponents territory by opening up a dazzling passing system which netted them gain after gain, but after having battled down to the thirteen yard line a field goal was tried by Captain Dick which was blocked by one of the opposing ends and recovered by Coleman. From this point on the ball was held by Coleman the greatest part of the time, however they were held for downs several times before they got within scoring distance. With two minutes left to play a Coleman back after a series of mighty line plunges advanced the ball to the two yard line. Here the Santa Anna line showed unusual strength as Coleman was unable to advance the ball one inch until the fourth down, however on the fourth down the ball was carried over for the only touch down of the game.

Santa Anna showed great line strength as well as backfield power. Atkinson played stellar ball at his tackle position while Harrel played equally as well at center. In the backfield Donham and Bannister showed up well in plowing the line and sweeping the ends. Dick was in good form and got off many nice punts and passed well. Sealy calling his first game at quarterback displayed fine generalship and played well on the defense. Bourland and Crenshaw played best for the visitors, each being able to make nice gains several times during the game.

The next game Santa Anna will play will in all probability be as fierce a battle as the one just experienced. The opponents will be Melvin High here next Friday afternoon at 3:30 p. m.

Hitting On All Four

There are four parts to every business and each one is worthy of honest thought and consideration.

The first part is the merchandise—having what people want, when they want it, how they want it and where they want it.

The second part is sound financing.

The third part is service, handling merchandise and customers.

The fourth part is getting customers for the merchandise.

Without the fourth part, the other three are of no value.

The best merchandise in the world is no good if nobody buys it.

The best service in the world accomplishes nothing if there is no one to be served.

It is only when you have people to do business with that you have a real business.

Advertising creates this link. It is at least a quarter of every business program. Without it, the other three-quarters are wasted effort.

To try to conduct a business without advertising is like trying to run an automobile up hill on three cylinders.

Maybe it will make it—and again maybe it won't.

THE CONFEDERATE RE-UNION AT ABILENE

(By Ollie Pearce Weaver)

Early Thursday morning Father and I boarded the train for Abilene to attend the U. D. C. Reunion. We arrived in Abilene at 11:30 and went immediately to the fair ground where the Reunion was in session. The people of Abilene certainly endeared themselves to the "old Soldiers by their great hospitality and kindly consideration for them. Everything was done for their comfort that could be done. Cots, blankets and pillows were placed in the main building for their welfare and one of the physicians of the town slept at the grounds in case he should be needed. One building was fitted up as a dining room and kitchen and splendid meals were furnished them free. There were also furnished cigars, soda water, apple cider and ice, water, all free, and believe me they were all enjoying them too.

Many were dressed in their uniforms and despite their age and feebleness were making their best efforts to be spry and lively. There were about 300 in attendance. Houston and Ft. Worth sent the largest delegation. One had his violin with him and he was playing "Turkey in the Straw," "Arkansas Traveler" and other old time tunes with all his might. While his comrades patted their feet and seemed to enjoy the music immensely. There was dancing at night for those who cared to participate and several did. Two gave me a pressing invitation to attend and dance with them. All over the grounds you could see the old men in groups listening to one of their comrades as he fought over again the battles of Gettysburgh, Chancellorsville or some other noted battle as you looked at the fire smoldering in his eyes as he talked you could still see that he was a rebel.

There was public speaking by several. Among the speakers were Lon Smith, Railroad Commissioner, and Miss Kate Daffon.

On Thursday afternoon the U. D. C. Chapter of Abilene entertained the visiting daughters at the Country Club. There were something near one hundred in the receiving line, and I was just a bit tired when I was through with the hand shaking. We passed from the reception room to the dining room which was beautifully decorated with American Beauty roses. Delicious refreshments of red, white, and blue brick ice cream and squares of white cake decorated with the pink monogram "U. D. C." was served to the guests. Plate favors were tiny Confederate flags. Music was furnished by an old Veteran who "fiddled" while a young girl accompanied him on the piano. He gave vim and fire to his fiddling on "Little Brown Jug," and "Money Musk" that would have done credit to a younger man.

On Friday everything went along harmoniously until they took up the question of Abe Lincoln's picture and bust having been placed in the Texas Technological College and Jefferson Davis' was left out.

Resolutions were read demanding that Abe Lincoln's picture be removed, but the Veterans disagreed on this question and Pandemonium reigned. You could not hear your ears. In vain Gen. Foster, the Commander, tried to get order. I think if Dr. Horn had been there they would have crucified him. Miss Daffan took the floor and with much tact tried to reason with them, but to no avail. Then the pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Abilene tried to quiet them, but in vain. The band struck up Dixie and everybody went wild. There was one old Veteran with long white hair that hung down on his shoulders. He got so wrought up and wanted to fight so badly that it took two women and a man to hold him. One woman went into hysterics. I had to leave about this time to catch my train so I did not get to see how they settled the matter. If you think these old Veterans have not the fire and pep to fight yet, you are badly mistaken.

AN OPPORTUNITY

There seems to be no fad in this country at the present writing. Who is going to be the successor to the inventor of the cross word puzzle?

What's Doing in West Texas

(By West Texas C. of C.)

Stamford—B. M. Whiteker, exhibit manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce will open the exhibit program of the organization at the East Texas Cotton Palace at Athens Oct. 5. Seven regional fairs are included in the itinerary of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce exhibit program this year and the exhibits will advertise West Texas resources to over two and one half million people.

Graham—Young County voted $400,000 road bonds for the purpose of constructing over 30 miles of state highway in Young county. This sum will be matched by state and federal aid making a total of $800,000 to be spent on county highways. Three previous elections failed.

Alpine—Fifty thousand lbs. of Candelilla wax were shipped from here to New York by one firm. This is the largest single shipment made in months. The wax comes from a wild plant here and is used in manufacture of rubber.

Artesia, N. M.—A new modern four story hotel is under construction here to cost $140,000. The hotel will have fifty rooms and will be one of the best in New Mexico. It is needed to accommodate the oil men here.

Rising Star—The longest continuous asphalt highway in Texas extends from this place to Ft. Worth and Dallas. Asphalt is now being placed on the gravel highway from here to Coleman and by Jan. 1st the entire distance from Ft. Worth to Coleman will be asphalt paved. The splendid highway has caused a stage line to route their busses from Ft. Worth to San Angelo via Rising Star traveling over Bankhead Highway to Cisco.

Estelina—A Chamber of Commerce has been organized here. R. H. Whaley was elected president and R. L. Erwin secretary. Two major programs to be worked out at once are incorporation of the city and the building of a larger and better school.

Goldthwaite—Construction of the new "Pecan Belt" highway has begun here. The highway is to be the artery of travel thru central west Texas and extends from Del Rio to Oklahoma City.

Lubbock—The executive committee of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce met here on the opening date of the Texas Tech. R. Q. Lee, president of the organization presided. The Board went to Littlefield Oct. 1, where they were guests at a nice chicken barbecue given by the Littlefield Chamber.

Pecos—The new cotton compress began operations here this week. The plant not only compresses the cotton but fumigates and sterilizes it. This compress will serve a large territory in southwest Texas.

Paducah—This city which has been handicapped for several years by inadequate water supply has solved its problems and has secured a supply of soft water sufficient for a city of ten thousand people. A new reservoir has been installed and new mains laid thru out the city. The water system is municipally owned.

Slaton—Surveys and field work are completed and construction is to begin at once on the surfacing of the Lubbock-Slaton highway. The highway will be 16 feet wide and will be constructed of caliche rock. The project will cost a total of $200,000.

Roswell, N. M.—A silver fox farm is a new industry near here. It is located on the Roswell-El Paso Highway near the Mesquero Reservation. The farm will start with fifty pair of foxes and will be increased to 300 pair. H. H. Reid who is interested in a number of such farms in Colorado is in charge of this farm.

J. A. Tillery

J. A. Tillery, 68, died near here last Friday and was buried here Saturday. Mr. Tillery was born in Montgomery County, Ala. The News failed to get data as to how long he has lived in Texas. He was a professed Christian of 35 years standing.

Deceased leaves a wife, one brother and one sister, besides his other relatives and friends. The News extends sympathy to the bereaved.

Great groans from little aches grow.

Assuming that every country weekly in the state received practically the same number of free publicity communications that the Empire did during September, all at two cents postage each, our estimate is that $19,999.98 were invested in stamps and fully that much was spent for paper and envelopes, all to no purpose. To those who are thus wasteful we would offer a word of advise but we know they will not take it. Too many free publicity agents would lose their jobs if they acquainted the various interests for which they work that so little of their offerings were being used by the press. However, why should we worry? All of it comes on fairly good quality paper and the reverse side is simply fine for writing live news and alleged editorials on.—Stephenville Empire.

A DOLLAR SAVED

is a dollar made. We have often heard this remark and we know it is true. The man or woman who invest their dollars wisely first stop and consider the investment. They do not expect something for nothing, for they would not be wise if they did. Our business has been conducted from the beginning on the theory that a dollar's worth for your dollar every day in the year is better for you and better for us, than your dollar's worth a few days, or a few weeks in the year.

When you come to Santa Anna do not make your purchases until you have compared our prices and merchandise with some of the bargains—you may find they are not such bargains as you thought.

When Debtors Dictate

Things to Remember in Spending 1925 Crop Money

Farmers are now selling their crops—crops made in the sweat of their faces, crops representing not only the toil of the farmer, the farmer's wife, and the farm boys and girls, but also their hopes. Let's resolve now to make the best possible use of every cent of crop money that comes to us. If we have been paying "time prices" usury on anything this year, let's resolve to stint and economize till it hurts so as to avoid ever having to pay "time prices" any more. Let's try, too, to make purchases as far as possible for "productive purposes" for things that will help us earn more. Better equipment, better livestock, more horsepower, more land, more conveniences for doing housework, some of these things are probably necessary in order to enable us to work better and earn more. If we buy something now that helps us earn more, these increased earnings may later help us buy the other things we want and need. Before considering any purchase, let's ask ourselves:—"Is it for a productive purpose"—that is to say, is it for something that will help us produce more and thereby pay back the money spent in buying it.

Or is it for a "consumptive purpose"—that is to say, is it for something that consumes or eats up the money spent on it, without enabling us to produce anything more with which to recover the expenditure?

We don't mean at all to say that we should make no consumptive purchase; many are necessary. But we should always give the preference to productive purchases; and when there is some consumptive purchase we wish to make, we should often postpone it and make a productive purchase instead—one that will help us earn more with which to pay for the consumptive investment. Especially should farmers who have insufficient work stock or tools or machinery or land aim first of all at getting these things.—The Progressive Farmer.

Elder Potrer preached a fine sermon Sunday night at the Methodist church on the subject of Evolution. Mr. Porter presided at the quarterly conference on Sunday morning. This is the last conference of the year here.

Insuring America's Air Strength

President Coolidge's newly appointed commission to investigate government aviation has a chance to perform a service for the country that will leave its effects for generations.

The people of this country want the army and navy aviation services kept up with those of other nations. Colonel Billy Mitchell says they are not, now. Personalities, jealousies and red tape bickerings will not solve America's air problem. The commission, unless it cuts through all the official and unofficial nonsense that it will encounter, had best never been appointed.

The likelihood, however, is that it will function as the president intended.

Certainly it should never lose sight of the fact that it has great responsibility—that of assuring America's air strength adequate for years to come. The air service is on trial before the commission; the commission is on trial before the American people, whose experience with air matters has been both bitter and costly, and who are in no mood to brook further nonsense in a matter so vital to national defense.

Defining a Gentleman

(Colorado Springs Gazette and Telegraph)

Emerson once analyzed the characteristics of a gentleman and the manners which one who goes by that name is supposed to possess. A gentleman first of all must have a "wide affinity," the ability of being a friend of man. The original aim of manners is to facilitate life, therefore at all times they are means, not an end. A gentleman must have nothing of the pretender about him; he must be sincere. Further, he has a "graceful self-respect" to which may be added in the ideal case an aloofness which will warrant the absence of the evils of too much familiarity. A gentleman is good-natured, with an insight which gives him the discernment necessary to harmonious living. Emerson summarizes this ideal type of human being very happily: "I have seen an individual whose manners, though wholly within the conventions of elegant society, were never learned there, but were original and commanding, and held out protection and prosperity—yet with the port of an emperor, if need be, calm, serious and fit to stand the gaze of millions."

Manners are fundamental if one accepts Emerson's definition of them. One is rich when he can find a friend in man; he is vulgar when he refuses to be rich. In short, Emerson has defined the manners of the soul; the outward manners are significant only in that they are the sign by which men learn the inner.

WHEN THE EDITOR IS REMEMBERED

We ran across an article in the papers yesterday headed, "Consider the Editor." We didn't read it for the reason we've cut out fairy stories. No one ever did consider an editor.—Mineral Wells Index.

Where have you been, Bro. Miller, all these years in the newspaper game, that you say nobody ever considers the editor? You must have forgotten a great deal. We are sure that there have been many times when somebody considered the editor of the Index. We venture to say that there was never an enterprise undertaken by the citizens of Mineral Wells for the public good or private profit that the editor didn't receive a good deal of consideration. There was never a public meeting wanted, or a campaign to be waged, that the managers of these did not consider the editor. We doubt if there was ever a committee solicited funds in Mineral Wells that didn't consider the editor. On the other hand, many a subscriber with a prize-winning calf, or a show hog, or a fine horse has considered the editor. Many a kindly soul has also brought him a Thanksgiving turkey or a pumpkin for pies, or a sack of nice potatoes, or the first fruits of the spring garden were divided with him. There have even been those who spoke in praise of his editorial—or his write-up of a wedding in the family. Sometimes though not often, after he has spent hours gathering information and has written a story of the life work and virtues of a leading citizen who has been called hence, some one has said "What a beautiful tribute to a good man." Oh, yes, Bro. Miller, the editor has been often considered, and will be as long as anybody needs his help, or he can render the public a real service.—Bonham Favorite.

The Real Purpose in Life

The day is rapidly coming when at the finish of a man's career the vital question to be asked is not how many dollars he had, but rather how he lived and served.

Successful life is not in getting, holding, accumulating, possessing anything and everything for one's personal comfort or enjoyment. What are life's motives?

Any man, anywhere, is a pauper who is living and working only to get material gain for his own account. Any man, anywhere, is a millionaire who is living for service, for the cause of Christian ideals.

Almost without our thought America has become the richest nation in all history. We have in ten years changed from borrower to lender of gold to many lands.

A good deal is being said about "one hundred per cent Americanism." What is meant? Certainly it does not consist in simply boasting about the flag. The people in some nations have done that while their countries were sinking into oblivion.

Surely real Americanism does not consist in advocating national selfishness. That has failed wherever tried. Positive-ly it cannot inhere in boasted power and possibilities of big armies and navies. The saddest pictures in the world today are of ruined peoples who put their trust in arms.

What use is America to make of her colossal power? If the passion for wealth is unleavened with noble idealism it will ruin America as surely as passion for power ruined Germany. If the doctrine of service can be made dominant in the lives and dreams of the youth of America so that it becomes the slogan in State, National and international considerations, it will produce the same results in the nation that it does in individuals. The life of a nation is the sum of the lives of its citizens.—Exchange.

BOOSTING WITHOUT

In the column of a newspaper devoted to printing the views of the people is a letter from a citizen who suggests that holding booster parades is fine and that it accomplishes some good, but that it is merely looking at ourselves in the mirror.

Instead of boosting within, what more of us need to do is to boost without; tell others about our community and its good attributes.

It is a natural conclusion that everyone living here believes in the future of this community, else they would change residence. On this premise then, it is wasted breath to endeavor to convince anyone that this is the best place on earth to live and make a living.

The wisest course for the true booster is to tell others about the good qualities of his home, not boastfully, but intelligently and interestingly.

Some well meaning people are shy about mentioning the home town when away. The residents of some communities, and in some instances states, have a reputation for never failing to say a good word for home. And countless instances might be cited where they have been rewarded for their persistence.

I Am Happiness

I am that for which you are looking. I am the goal of religion. I am the objective of philosophy and science. I am the dream of the wretched. I am the quest of the world, the great hunger of humanity.

My dominion over men is world-wide. As children they romp toward me. As old men and women they totter after me. I am an insatiable thirst.

Because of me mankind carries on business and commerce. Because of me the scientist labors long in his laboratory. Because of me untold millions of dollars are spent for the purpose of education. For men know that knowledge, health and business are paths to my domain.

My name is written into the most exalted declaration of independence on earth. The right to the pursuit of me has been written in the hearts of men and sealed with their blood. Civilization is my reward and man's home is my chief dwelling place.

For all that, I am a bright dream and a beautiful purpose, the children of men still stumble and fall and bruise themselves in my quest. They still confuse me with pleasure and with riches and power.

Yet I am as I have always been. I was the same yesterday, and am the same today and will be the same tomorrow and forever. The children know me and possess me, and the childlike at heart never lost their hold on me.—Unknown Philosopher.

Lesson for October 11

PAUL IN CORINTH

LESSON TEXT—Acts 18:1-11. GOLDEN TEXT—"Be not afraid, but speak, and hold not thy peace."—Acts 18:26.

PRIMARY TOPIC—God Protecting Paul.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Paul in Workshop and Pulpit. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Paul's Experiences in Corinth. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Paul Plants the Church in Corinth.

1. The True Missionary Method (v. 1-9).

Paul came to Corinth a stranger in a strange city. He did not have an advance agent to do his advertising. His method in gaining a foothold in Corinth was as follows:

1. Finding a Home (v. 2).

This he found with Aquila and Priscilla, Jews, who were recently expelled from Rome by the cruel edict of Claudius.

2. He Told for His Daily Bread (v. 3).

He was of the same craft with them, being a tentmaker. Every child among the Jews was taught some trade by means of which he could gain a livelihood, should occasion require.

11. Preaching in the Synagogue at Corinth (v. 4-8).

1. Though Compelled to Told for a Living While Getting a Foothold in Corinth, He Did Not Lose Sight of His Main Work (v. 4).

He reasoned in the synagogue every Sabbath, persuading the Jews and Greeks. While the missionary should not be above honest toil when necessity arises, he must not allow toil to interfere with preaching the gospel.

2. His Activity Was Increased When Silas and Timothy Came (v. 5).

This resulted from three causes:

(1) They brought good news from the church at Thessalonica (I Thess. 3:6).

To hear of the steadfastness of those who had confessed Christ under his ministry, put new vigor into his labors.

(2) They brought pecuniary gifts from the Macedonian church (Phil. 4:15; II Cor. 11:9).

Being relieved from the necessity of toiling for a living, he could now devote more time and energy to the preaching of the gospel.

(3) Silas and Timothy became assistants to Paul in the work.

3. Paul Opposed (v. 6).

His increased activity was met with increased opposition. As the Lord's ministers become more aggressive in their work, the ministers of Satan put forth corresponding efforts in opposition.

4. Paul Announces His Purpose to Turn to the Gentiles (v. 6).

Because of their blasphemy and opposition, he ceased to work among the Jews. There is a time when good judgment causes one to abandon work where efforts have been fruitless, but it is difficult to know just when to do it. Oftentimes lasting harm is done to the work by pressing efforts when people have turned against the truth. Paul's declaration, "I am clean," was a most solemn one.

5. He Did Not Go Far Away (v. 7).

He remained sufficiently near those whose hearts God had touched that they could easily find him. It is likewise true that although Christ is obliged to depart from the soul that refuses Him entrance, He lingers with yearning love around that heart.

6. His Success (v. 8).

Crispus, the chief ruler of the synagogue, was converted. Perhaps Paul's severe action in turning away from them moved Crispus to act.

111. Paul's Vision (vv. 9-11).

His experiences since coming to Europe were very trying. He needed encouragement at this time. It is just like the Lord to come at the time of the servant's greatest need. Note the Lord's words to him.

17. "Be Not Afraid." When one is executing the commission of the Lord, he need not be afraid.

2. "Speak and Hold Not Thy Peace." The one who has heard the voice of God cannot refrain from speaking. He cannot be still.

3. "I Am With Thee." The Lord is with every one who faithfully carries out His commission.

4. "No Man Shall Set on Thee, to Hurt Thee."

The one sent by the Lord to do a work is immune from danger and harm until his work is done.

5. "I Have Much People in This City." It is most encouraging to know that in the great cities the Lord has His own people, and that the one who goes in His name shall have fruit for his service.

All Are His

Real Estate Values

Some of the most fertile land in the world is almost worthless while the sand piles south of Chicago are being valued at fabulous figures. What is the reason?

Population. People make land a good town is worth many dollars. Land in the business section of a good city runs into the thousands of dollars a front foot, merely because it is accessible to a great number of people.

Chain stores determine location by the number of people passing the corner. For people to make business, and business makes land valuable.

A farm located one mile from a good town is worth many dollars more per acre than a farm located ten miles from any center of population. Because the farmer near town has but a short haul to market, can send his children to the best of schools, and loses little time in making a shopping trip.

There is a thought in this for the people of Coleman county. Property owners profit as the community grows and booms, and the community goes ahead in direct proportion to the amount of business people keep at home.

AMERICANS SHOULD PRODUCE THEIR OWN RUBBER

THE PLUSH BACK ALBUM

(By Joe Sappington)

One by one old customs and institutions are passing away. The side saddle, the wagon, circus, Punch and Judy, the country fiddler, side burns, the long drooping mustache and the plush album are fast fading memories. But the dearest of all is the memory of the old plush album that came upon the scene in the early eighties and reached the height of its glorious reign A. D. 1892, or about four years before Bryan began running for president.

The family album played a conspicuous part in most of my early courtships. Strange as it may seem to those who know how eloquent and entertaining I am today, I was a bashful, diffident boy, a poor conversationalist and frequently sought inspiration while turning the leaves of the family album when paying court to my lady love. One of the largest collections of photos I ever saw congregated under one roof was in the hospitable home of old Sam Dugens, sire of Polly Dugens, a tongue-tied lass of some seventeen summers, and like myself inclined to be bashful. Polly was my first real sweetheart, and if it hadn't been for the big plush album our love-making would indeed have been dull and colorless. Our conversation usually started something like this:

"I bet I know something you don't know, Miss Polly." "Please tell me, Mister Tho." (she could not say Joe.) "No, I ain't goin' to tell you Miss Polly, cause you won't tell me nothin'." "Now Mither Tho, you ought to be ashamed of yourself to treat me thobad." "No, I ain't goin' to tell you nothin', for if I did you would tell Mac Jackson." "Fleathe, Mither Tho, tell me what it ith and I'll never tell Mathe a word, no indeed I wont." "No, I can't." "Yeth you can." Sometimes this line of conversation or something just as brilliant would last for several minutes, and after we had "noed" and "Yethed" till we couldnt "Yeth" and "No" any longer, Polly would bring in the plush album and I would hold her hand while she turned its pages.

Polly's pa was an ill-grained old fellow and never missed an opportunity to show his dislike for me. He overtook us one Sunday as I was escorting Polly home from church and made her dismount from the family mare and crawl in the wagon with the rest of the family, after which he tied the old filly to the tailboard and drove away. I almost know the old cuss seen me holding Polly's hand during one of our seances around the family album.

Sally Moore's folks had a whoopin big album also. No telling how much the thing cost. It was not only finished in plush but had a looking-glass on one of its covers. No telling how many times I said to Sally: "Do you want to see the purtiest girl that ever lived on Cave Creek?" "Yes, show her to me," she would say, and I would hold the glass in front of her face and say, "Look at yourself then" Then she would blush and peep at me thru her fingers and say I ought to be ashamed of myself for making fun of her. "How would you like for somebody to make fun of you that way just because you was ugly and couldn't help it," she would ask still peeping through her fingers. "Sally, I would plead, you know you air the purtiest thing in ten thousand miles of here and you needn't deny it either." "No I aint." "You air." And after "airing" and "airing" until we were both out of breath, we would lean our heads until they touched and slowly, very slowly turn the leaves of the big plush album too full of love for utterance.

The Widow Jones, mother of Lucy, another sweetheart of mine, had a big heavy-set plush album full of the family portraits dating back almost to the days of the Inquisition. Some of the portraits were in a bad state of preservation on account of rough handling. Uncle Aaron had the misfortune of losing a goodly part of one of his ears by the knocks and jars of time. And there was Cousin Rufus with his smooth-shaven upper lip, but sporting a flowing beard, gazing into eternal space from the Widow Jone's album. The last time I saw Cousin Rufus the cockroaches had made sad inroads on his whiskers, besides gnawing one of his eyes out.

Lucy was a great collector of pictures, no matter whose pictures they were. Her collection embraced the hateful mug of a rival of mine—one Sid Hopkins, and for this reason I stubbornly refused to add my tins to her collection. One night while we were going through the album for the twentieth time, I became so insanely jealous of Sid that I snatched his picture, tore it to pieces right before her eyes and threw the pieces out at the window. I told her as plain as I could talk that there never was an album big enough to hold both Sid's and my pictures. She pouted awhile and said she hated me, but while her back was turned I slipped my picture in the place of the deposed rival. Before leaving that night she confessed that she had always loved me more than she had Sid and was proud I had torn up his ugly old picture.

There is another and dear old album that comes to my mind while I write these lines. If it is still in existence and I knew where it was, I would journey many leagues to see it, even if I had to walk, for it contains the portraits of loved one who have long since crossed over that mysterious river and are now resting in the shade of the trees.

Down deep in the heart of every true and loyal man or woman who is descending the western slope of Life's rugged hill is the memory—the sad, sweet memory, of facts in some old neglected album, now classed as rubbish. Sometimes it is the joyous face of youth that pulls aside the curtains of departed years and smiles at us from afar, and again it is the face of a sainted mother that illumines the pages of that dust covered and moth eaten old album that belongs to the smouldering past.

The old plush album may be relegated to the things that were, but many of the dear faces that nestle between its covers, will live and be cherished by the sons and daughters of men as long as reason holds sway.

Improving on History

I just finished hearing a Politician, one of the Washington Boys, talk on Abraham Lincoln. The only thing I could picture in common between him and Lincoln was that they had both been in Washington. When a Politician aint talking about himself he is talking about Lincoln. Lincoln has had more Public men speak of his good qualities, and fewer copy any of them, than any man America ever produced. His famous address was only about two hundred words long. No Politician has ever been able to even copy his briefness. In fact that is the last one of his qualities that they would try to copy. Lincoln said more in those 200 words than has been said in the entire City of Washington in the last 10 years, and here is a quality that no historian or speaker has ever brought out before. At the completion of the Gettysburg speech, he wisely refused one of Grant's Cigars, and borrowed a sack of "Bull" Durham from an Ex Southern private, rolled his own, got on his Mule and went back to Washington.

YOUR FALL CLEANING

Last Spring when you hung your clothes away you thought you would "one day soon" send them to be cleaned, pressed, and have 'em ready for fall wear.

Well, Fall is here, and before you know it a brisk cold breeze will be blowing, and you haven't sent us those clothes for needed work. We will make them look like new. Let us call for your work.

THE SCHERER CLARIFYING

system will better take care of your clothes than any other way. Here your clothes are thoroughly cleaned, as there is continuously a clean stream of gasoline passing through your clothes to take out the dirty places.

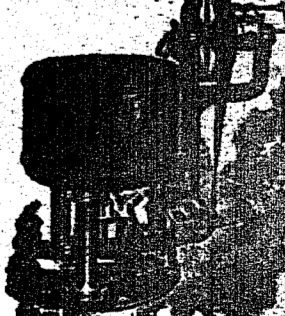

OUR WASHER

Is one of the latest improved and cleanses your clothes better for less wear. This does not only clean your clothes, but makes them thoroughly sanitary.

OUR EXTRACTOR

and dryer makes your clothes ready to press in a few minutes after they have been cleaned. This leaves your clothes fluffy and smooth, as they were when new.

We are especially prepared to take care of your Sweaters, overcoats, heavy dresses and coats.
