SANTA ANNA ENTERTAINED BRADY BOOSTERS

A caravan of 36 automobiles loaded with about 125 men, women and children of Brady, made their presence known in the Mountain City just before noon Wednesday and spent some two hours as guests of Santa Anna. Upon arrival, the party of boosters paraded through the main streets of the city lead by the Brady municipal band, formed a circle in the center crossing, let out some real yells, rendered a few pieces of music and then surrendered themselves into the captivity of the Santa Anna Lion's Club, who escorted the boosters to the new Skating Rink building, where they were treated to a nice feed. The Lions Club looked after the finances, and the good ladies of the Christian church provided the fine dinner, which, we pronounce first class in every respect. The good ladies only had a short time in which to prepare the dinner, but no time was lost and the deal was put over in fine order.

The Brady boosters, through their speakers, informed us they were out on a booster trip, and so long as they were in McCulloch county, they made it a point to boost Brady from a business standpoint, but after they crossed the boundary line they were boosting the State Sheep and Goat Raisers Convention to be held in Brady the last week in July. Many expressed themselves favorable to going and probably will.

The occasion was a profitable one for both Brady and Santa Anna, as a spirit of friendship was manifested throughout the period of time the boosters were here. Many of the Brady folks promised to return at some future date and see more of the Mountain City. Come on fellows, bring your families and pay us a visit. The longer you stay the better you will like and it will help you to inoculate yourselves with our pure air and fine water of which we have plenty of both.

J. M. Clark, representing the Banner Bulletin at Brownwood, was a pleasant caller at the News office Tuesday, and while here, took a flight upon the Santa Anna Mountain. Mr. Clark didn't know it, but he was about as near heaven as a newspaper man ever gets.

J. M. Morgan, who a few months ago moved to Cross Plains and later to Coleman, is prospecting in Santa Anna. They all eventually come back.

BOY BURNS TO DEATH NEAR BALLINGER

Father Seriously Burned In Vain Attempt to Rescue Lad

Ballinger, Texas, June 8.—Fowler Simmons, 8-year-old son of John Simmons, was burned to death yesterday in a fire which destroyed the family residence near here. The fire was not discovered by Mr. Simmons, who was sitting on the front porch, until it had partly destroyed the house.

Mr. Simmons was seriously burned about the head and shoulders in an attempt to rescue his son.

The child, who had been playing around his father a few minutes before, had gone into the house to take a nap, but was awakened by the flames, crying several times while its father vainly attempted to force entrance into the room thru a door which had become fastened.

Other children of Mr. Simmons were away at the time.

The cause of the fire was unknown.

Santa Anna Visits Ballinger

Some ten or a dozen automobile loads of Santa Annaites went to Ballinger last Friday afternoon to attend a get-acquainted meeting of the West Texas Utilities Company. The main feature of the afternoon was a negro baseball game played in the fair park, between a Ballinger team and a team from San Angelo.

Married

Miss Bulah Vandertford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Vandertford, a good family of farmers living just east of town, was married last Sunday morning at the Baptist parsonage, to Mr. Warren Aldredge of Goldsboro, Pastor S. F. Martin officiating.

The happy young couple left first of the week for Goldsboro, where they will make their future home.

The bride is a very popular young lady, and has many friends who will join the News in extending best wishes for a happy and prosperous future.

The many friends of Mrs. R. P. Crum will rejoice to learn she is very much improved from an emergency operation, followed by conflicting complications that almost ended her life. The hospital attendants and physicians report her condition very much improved and she is on the road to recovery.

Monday, 15, is Dollar Day.

A Business In Itself

No retail merchant could continue in business unless he kept abreast with new products and the progress of new devices and money-saving merchandise. He would soon be bankrupt if he did not "keep up with the times."

Women are the buyers—the purchasing agent—for the home. They can always do their work more effectively by knowing of new articles that save money and time; that add new ease to life.

The advertisements tell of these products. They are reliable sources of information that keep women in touch with everything that is desirable and that has been tested and has proved to be in the public's favor.

Read the advertisements, because they will make the business of running a home easier. They will save the home manager money and assure faithful quality in everything that is bought.

NEW HEARING DENIED CONVICTED NEGRO IN DISTRICT COURT HERE

Negro Will Be Held In Neighboring County Pending Appeal of Case.

John Smith, 23 years of age, negro, convicted and sentenced to die in the electric chair, was this afternoon refused a new trial in the Thirty-Fifth District Court by Judge J. O. Woodward following the hearing of an amended motion presented by B. L. Palmer of Houston, attorney for the negro.

Smith was returned to Brownwood Tuesday afternoon at two-forty-five from Fort Worth where he had been in the Tarrant County jail. Deputy Sheriff Carl Adams returned the negro to this city.

Attorney Palmer will send the case to the Court of Criminal Appeals at Austin for the final decision, he said today.

Only ten of the twelve jurors in the case were examined this afternoon, two being out of the city. Affidavits were made by the ten jurors present in District Attorney Walter Early's office this morning, and presented in court this afternoon.

Smith will probably be removed to some nearby county jail for safe-keeping until the appeals court passes on the case.—Brownwood Daily Bulletin.

The boys present were very enthusiastic over the prospect to organize and each one was furnished an application blank to carry home and have properly signed. Hunter Woodruff and Joe Christie Barnes were appointed patrol leaders to enlist a patrol of 8 boys each, to meet again Friday night of this week and further complete the organizing of a troupe here. The meeting place is at the local Ice Plant and the hour is 7:30.

LIGHTNING KILLS BALLINGER MAN DURING STORM

Ballinger, June 9.—John Campbell, a gravel hauler, was killed by a bolt of lightning Tuesday afternoon about 6 o'clock. The casualty occurred during a terrific hail, rain and electric storm, and just after Campbell had left the gravel pit one mile west of Ballinger. In falling to the ground from his wagon Campbell sustained bruises on his face and his body soon turned black from effects of the stroke.

Telephone poles and trees were broken in and near town, but no damage is expected to crops from the hail as the storm was confined to the section immediately surrounding Ballinger. About two inches of rain fell in about one hour and the downtown streets were flooded to the sidewalks.

B. A. Munger, who lives out on Route 2, was in town Saturday, selling tomatoes. Mr. Munger exhibited a crate of his home grown tomatoes in the News office, and we pronounce them absolutely fine. ### High School Graduates Make This Summer Pay

In a recent edition of "The Business Training Salesman," a successful business man cites a few facts and figures which, while they are applicable to schools all over the land, are equally applicable to YOU. He says:

"I wonder how many young people have stopped to consider just how much it is costing them in actual dollars and cents to delay taking up their business training until fall. If they could but be made to realize that a summer of idleness would cost them from $200 to $400 in cold cash, I believe the summer schools conducted by the Business Educational Institutions of the country would be filled to overflowing immediately after the high schools close.

"Here's how it works out: Suppose, for statistics' sake, a young man or young woman elects to take a business course, beginning Monday, June 15, 1925. Suppose, on the other hand, he or she decides to wait until September 7. It's only a three months' delay and it seems insignificant, but it means graduation THIRTEEN WEEKS LATER than the student who enrolled in June. In these thirteen weeks the 'early bird' has collected thirteen weekly pay checks amounting in all to $200 to $400 or more."

Do you see the importance of beginning now? The time for you to enroll is TODAY in the Tyler Commercial College at Tyler, Texas, for a thorough practical business training. They teach the Private Secretarial, General Banking, General Business, General Civil Service, General Cotton Classing, Railroad and Western Union, Bookkeeping, Shorthand, Penmanship, Telegraphy and Radio courses.

They maintain an Employment Department whose privilege is to introduce their graduates to business opportunities. The Service of that department is free. The student who goes to them earnestly and desirous of making a good record and who completes his course creditably will always find a welcome there.

"Achieving Success in Business," the most interesting book published on business education, will be sent to you free. It tells of the work of the students and teachers, describes the course and opportunities open to each line of work and the success of their graduates.

The book will tell you what they have done for others. Let it tell YOU what they can do for YOU. Fill in the coupon below for the large free book and mail it now.

JUST TALK

"That talk of two dollar wheat and dollar corn last fall and winter was mostly talk" announces the Illinois Agricultural Association after a careful study of the agricultural situation among 150 member co-operative organizations scattered throughout the state.

"Farmers received only $1.11 for their wheat on the average," this organization announces after compiling figures received from all parts of the state. In short wheat prices began to skyrocket shortly after the grain was out of the hands of the farmers, and continued to mount until the crop for this coming year began to come into sight.

Whether these figures are exact or not, it is quite evident that the marketing system in this country is not quite right in spite of the effort made during recent years to organize the farmers. It also points to the need for better organization in the future if farming is really to prosper.

While the problem confronting the farmers of this country is too great for the Editor to attempt a simple explanation, facts that come to our attention from time to time indicate that before farming communities can really get justice in this country, it is necessary for the farmer himself to take over the marketing of his own product on a large scale.

Conditions are rapidly improving. The pinch is not so badly felt now as it was felt two years ago. And many farmers may think that the crisis is past and go back to the old individualism which spelled ruin to thousands and yes millions of hard working farmers of the soil. But sooner or later agriculture will be back in the dumps again as ever unless our farm organizations become large, powerful, and national in scope. Sane, businesslike, co-operative marketing is the only solution to this great problem.

What Christianity is Not—

The following by the Rev. J. Warren Day, of the Episcopal Church of Oklahoma City, is so good you should read it:

"A Christian is not soft, flabby, sentimental and half-baked. He does not speak of Jesus as the 'dear Lord' on Sundays and then drag the name of Jesus through the muck and mire of vulgar and idiotic profanity the other six days of the week. He is kind, charitable, sympathetic and wholly unashamed to declare his loyalty to the Master wherever such declaration of loyalty seems necessary to protect his conscience and the belief that is in him.

He is a man of such faith that he is willing to bet his life that there is a God and that ultimately God will bring order out of moral chaos in the same way as He has brought order to the physical world out of the fundamental elements of the universe. With his adventurous faith he looks upon the universe as friendly and not hostile to his aims and aspirations.

He is not a mollycoddle, nor a jellyfish, neither is he an icicle nor a grouch. He has the capacity of friendship and does not look upon his fellows as material for plunder and objects of condescension. A Christian is not a gambler, a loafer nor a hard-boiled fighter. He is everything that characterizes wholesome manliness and courageous gentlemanliness. You don't find him striving to remove the mote from his neighbor's eye, because he is always conscious of his own shortcomings and imperfections.

Finally he knows that prayer and work are complimentary and that the progress of the Kingdom of God is not measured by bricks and mortar, but by the spirit of friendliness, the spirit of love and forgiveness, the spirit of joy and peace which motivates any individual or group of Christian people."

Co-operative Egg Production Especially Needed

We have heard much in late years about co-operative marketing. What we need in addition is co-operative production of many of our farm products, and this is particularly true of quality eggs. When producers of these commodities, they can then go to the markets and say, "We can deliver a given quantity and a given quality of grade or size," and in this way secure the top of the market. The co-operative production of one variety of cotton around Corpus Christi has enabled the farmers of that section to deliver in large quantities one variety and one grade of cotton which resulted in the very highest price. Within the past two years, farmers at Electra have co-operated in the production of good quality milk. A creamery was established and this little community creamery has found a market for its products in large markets where other brands of butter had long been established. Any community, which will co-operate in the production of quality eggs will have no difficulty in finding a profitable summer market. Mrs. B. Oates, in the Progressive Farmer.

Santa Anna Girl Enjoys Quiet Life—Attends University, but Lives Alone

(By Vivian Richardson in Dallas News)

Because she believes with Walt Whitman in absolute freedom of thought for the individual and with Peter Pan in the realization of dreams, Eudora Garrett of Santa Anna, a Texas University student, has lived alone for two years in a tent near Lake Austin. There, with only her brown dog, Son, and her books for company, she studies for the five courses she takes in the University. There, too, she "thinks out for herself" philosophies of life and dreams the dreams that each of us would like to dream were we not afraid.

No evasion veils the clearness of her purpose. She likes nature. She likes both the yellow disc of the moon rising over the cedar hills and the steady drip and swish of rain pattering down on the tent top. Days when others are hovering over the fire, Miss Garrett sits snug and comfy by her oil stove and plays "Indian Lament" on her portable graphophone while the wind shakes her khaki house.

In Trousers

But love of solitude and quiet does not deprive this hermit maid of interest in her fellow beings. I found her, and in the corduroy trousers and shirt she wears to each of her classes looking sad over the words of a Gypsy girl who had just said, "I am not happy!" The Gypsy Woman, by the way, is only one of a troop of Serbian wanderers now camped at the lake who adore Miss Garrett.

Miss Garrett came to Texas University two years ago from Trinity University, where she had gone for three years. There she was president of the Y. W. C. A., an office that carried with it many of the student executive and administrative duties of the campus, and editor in chief of the Trinitonian, the school newspaper.

An "Unclassified" Student

She is registered at Texas as "unclassified" because she wishes to extend her school years so that more courses in philosophy and psychology may be included. At present she is majoring in philosophy and would receive her degree next June, if a straight course to the sheepskin had been taken.

"I like the University of Texas," Miss Garrett said. "Before I came here I knew my courses were not just what I wanted, but I couldn't find the trouble. But I discovered it when I found at Texas University the subjects I had been wanting all along without hardly realizing it."

A Versatile Girl

A player of the piano, of the violin, of the mandolin and the ukulele, an artist of ability—one can hardly believe these things of the slim girl in brown boots and corduroy trousers who cleans the spark plugs or resets the carburetor of her own car. Once, before she bought the car, she wanted to spend a few days at her ranch home near Santa Anna, so she donned the big black Stetson she wears off campus and on, and walked from Austin to Santa Anna a distance of over 250 miles.

That walk home was something she wanted to do. So is living in a tent, wearing knickers and studying philosophy or reading poetry by Rupert Brooke what she wants to do. Miss Garrett believes firmly in the selfishness of not troubling others and in doing the thing that lies nearest the heart.

"All my life," she said Saturday. "I've wanted a camp like this. Now I have it and I like it. Here I can write—and think—and learn."

Once hailing journalism as her field of endeavor, she had relinquished that aim, at least from a mercenary standpoint, to delve into poetry, religion and psychology. She still writes both prose and poetry though she has never submitted any of her work for publication.

"They'd want me to change it," she said. "And I wish to be free. I wouldn't want to change it. When I have thought things out for myself a few more years, then perhaps I'll try at submitting my work."

Does Newspaper Work

During last summer she worked on the Austin American and was for a short time assistant issue editor on the Daily Texan, the University newspaper.

"At present she is preparing a manuscript on Hindu religion and philosophy in connection with her University courses.

Even the most prosaic acknowledgment that no more fitting place could be found to write or dream than in this hermit maid's canvas home. From the rustic table piled with books to the magic rug on the floor, the whole room breathes originality. The rose and blue magic rug, which causes, Miss Garrett says, "all who steps over it to forget their troubles carried a story with its acquisition as does also the bronze image of the "Thinker" and the tiny log cabin of incense. The case of books contains many a volume few coeds would take trouble to read or could understand if they did; the album of records includes haunting Indian refrains and violin master pieces.

How She Got Her Tent

Just how she acquired her tent home is a story in itself. At the State exposition two years ago, Miss Garrett saw a painting of a woman. There was haunting something in the eyes of this woman and she wore tilted on her head a big black Stetson hat. It was the portrait of a vagabond, yet of an aristocrat, and it intrigued Miss Garrett until she sought the painter of the picture and the owner of the Stetson hat. The artist was Mrs. D. B. Dickard of Austin, another lover of the out-of-doors who could appreciate the ranch reared girl's wishes.

Together, the artist and the girl, they planned the camp. Mrs. Dickard's house overlooks Lake Austin, so it was near here the tent was set up. Now she has given Miss Garrett the picture of the woman in the Stetson almost identical to the artist's.

Feminine Still

But well as she loves to wear trousers as much as she abhors frocks and turbelows, Eudora Garrett still indulges in a few feminine vanities. In a cretonne curtained little cabin well hidden from the casual observer she showed me, quite with the air of a conspirator, cold creams and

Chickens Beat the Drouths

One of the most encouraging signs for present and future prosperity to be seen in the country is that the farmers are going in more for poultry raising.

The one-crop plan has been definitely dethroned. Everyone now is convinced that it is too dangerous a game for a conservative man to play. The man who follows this plan stands to win—sometimes. When he loses, he loses heavily.

The farmer who is wise practices diversification, and gains thereby. Among the many products which Brown county farmers are going in for strong these days, none is more important and none offers greater opportunity for profit than egg production. The fact that poultry raising is increasing by leaps and bounds is shown by the astonishing increase in incubator facilities in the county since the first of the year. The egg hatching capacity of the county has been more than doubled in the last five months.

When drouths come to this part of Texas, as they do every now and then, poultry is found to be a life saver to farm income and to business in general. The production of eggs goes merrily on, practically unaffected by climatic conditions. It can safely be said that the chicken industry is one of the greatest in the country and no farmer will make a mistake in building up a big flock of high-bred layers.—Brownwood News.

BOOK CONCERNS WIN CONTRACT LITIGATION

Austin, June 8.—Late Monday afternoon the Texas Supreme Court awarded to eight textbook publishing companies mandamuses compelling State Superintendent of Public Instruction S. M. N. Marrs to carry out the textbook contracts made by the Neff administration and which were sought to be voided by Marrs under the administration of Governor Ferguson.

The court held that the textbook contracts, said to involve something more than $2,000,000 worth of books, are valid, legal and binding and must be carried out by Marrs and the present administration.

The contracts in question were made last December and in April and May it was sought to hold them void and Marrs refused to order for use by children in Texas public schools the books contracted to the value of more than $1,500,000. The ruling of the court makes it mandatory that those books be used and paid for according to the terms of the contract, and validates all other textbook contracts made at that time.

Mandamuses were granted in all eight cases.

Eleventh Annual Convention of Baptist Organized Bible Classes Meets in Dallas, June 16, 17, 18

With Texas railroads guaranteeing a rate of one and a half fares for the round trip from points in Texas to Dallas, all indications point to the largest gathering of organized Bible Classworkers in Dallas, June 16-18th ever held in America. When this convention met last year at Wichita Falls the registration of delegates reached beyond thirteen hundred. This year, its secretary, Mr. William P. Phillips of Dallas, declares that more than 3000 delegates will be registered during the three days of this Convention, not only from Texas but Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana. This Convention was the first of its kind ever organized in the South and has for its objective the inspiration of its delegates to build great classes of men and women in the Sunday schools of Baptist churches for the study of the Bible and winning them to a personal acceptance of Jesus Christ as their Savior and Lord.

Texas Baptist Sunday schools now have more than 3000 classes, some of which have more than 500 enrolled in their membership, representing a constituency of more than one million people.

IZAAK WALTON LEAGUE MEETS AT BRADY

Brady, June 8.—The Second annual convention of the Izaak Walton League of Texas convened in the district courtroom here Monday morning, with William J. Tucker of Longview, president of the organization, presiding. The invocation was given by the Rev. S. H. Jones, pastor of the Presbyterian church. Sam McCollum, lawyer of Brady, made the welcoming address. In extending cordial invitation to the delegates, McCollum called attention to the fact that Brady expected in the near future to announce completion of the largest game preserve in the State, a tract of 100,000 acres in the eastern section of the county.

In responding, President Tucker stated that the move to establish Izaak Walton League chapters in Texas had its origin only three years ago, but that today there were over 50 chapters in the State. It is becoming one of the most powerful sportsman's organizations in Texas. He stressed the purposes of the league as being the fighting of stream pollution, violations of game laws, and as favoring the establishment of game sanctuaries and fish hatcheries throughout the State. He paid tribute to Turner E. Hubby, fish, game and oyster commissioner, and past president of the league, for his successful efforts in the past in promotion of better sportsmanship in Texas, and gave him credit for the passing of the act forbidding the sale any time in Texas of white perch, crappie and bass.

Tucker recommended to the convention that, in addition to electing a state president, vice-presidents from four or five sections of Texas be elected in order that the work of the league might be more ably carried out.

Lois Wilson Is Only Girl in "Contraband"

Even though Lois Wilson is the only girl in the featured cast of the Paramount picture, "Contraband" coming to Queen Theatre Wednesday, 17th, she hasn't everything her own way—not by long shot. Miss Wilson has the role of a young girl who inherits her uncle's run-down newspaper, takes it over and, what's more, makes a "go" of it.

The story is an adaptation by Jack Cunningham of Clarence Budington Kelland's novel, produced for the screen by Alan Crosland, who made "Enemies of Women," "Sinners in Heaven" and others.

Edwards Davis heads the cast playing in support of the principals. He has a heavy role of a crooked politician, head of a band of rum-runners who, heretofore, had used the Gibeon Free Press as a means of furthering his schemes and he is furious when he learns that he can't handle the new "boss" of the paper as he had handled her uncle. That's why Miss Wilson's position is not so good. Davis, as Abner Fownes is always trying to tell her how to run the press. Noah Beery is a crooked deputy sheriff and Fownes' "yes-man."

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Holt left Friday for Austin where they will enter the University for the summer session. Mr. Holt will be superintendent of the Eden school next year.

MRS. WALLACE REID IN "BROKEN LAWS"

The growing disregard for the laws of the land and the effect of this upon children inspired Mrs. Wallace Reid in her greatest production, "Broken Laws," which comes to the Queen Theatre, Thursday and Friday, 18 and 19.

"Broken Laws" deals with Mother Love and the necessity for Law Observance on the part of citizens. It is not a preachment, however, but a virile, throbbing drama of today which will interest everyone.

It points the way to better citizenship, and clearly outlines the necessity of teaching children obedience and to have respect for the constituted laws of the land.

Recently in the Philadelphia Juvenile Court fourteen boy bandits appeared before Judge Gorman in a single day. The oldest of the fourteen was but twelve. The court declared that it was "dreadful" and "incredible" that such conditions should exist.

"Investigation into such incidents," Mrs. Reid declares, "will reveal a lack of respect for the law on the part of the children's parents. In 'Broken Laws' we have attempted to show how serious the growing disregard for law is becoming, and how it vitally affects our children."

There is interest for everyone in "Broken Laws" and yet no one can see it and not come away a better citizen.

Playgoers of Santa Anna are looking forward eagerly to this latest and greatest of Mrs. Wallace Reid's productions.

Mr. and Mrs. V. L. Grady, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Hunter, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Pearce and children are touring the Texas coast country, on a general outing and vacation.

THE CHURCH AT ANTIOCH

LESSON TEXT—Acts 13:14-20.
GOLDEN TEXT—The disciples were called Christians first in Antioch—Acts 11:26.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Some People Who Received a New Name.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Barnabas in Antioch.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Lesson From the Church in Antioch—Lesson From the Church in Antioch—Lesson From the Church in Antioch—Lesson From the Church in Antioch.

INTRODUCTION—Saul, the new missionary, who was to lead in the evangelization of the heathen, having been miraculously called to his work. It was necessary that a new religious center be established. Antioch became that center.

I. Preaching the Word of God at Antioch (vv. 14-21).
 Persecution at Jerusalem scattered the disciples abroad. Some went among the Jews only with the gospel message, while those from Africa and Cyprus courageously crossed the line and preached to the Greeks also. The Lord blessed their work in granting many conversions. So great was the stir that the news reached Jerusalem, the mother church. Persecution worked for good in this case as well as in many since. These humble people with hearts touched with the Spirit went out with the glad message of life to others.

II. Barnabas Sent to Inspect the Work (vv. 22-26).
 1. The Character of Barnabas (v. 24).

He was a good man. It is important in sending a man to follow up the work of the Spirit that his character be good. He must not only have an unblemished character, but his sympathy must be broad. He must be capable of entering in full appreciation of the things about him. Barnabas was full of the Holy Spirit. This is an essential qualification for pastoral work. Only a Spirit-filled man can discern the workings of the Spirit of God. He was likewise a man of great faith. Only a man of faith should instruct young Christians.

2. Work Done by Barnabas (vv. 25, 26).
 (a) He heartily endorsed the work and earnestly exhorted them to continue steadfastly in the faith, and to cleave unto the Lord. There are many allurements to tempt young Christians.

(b) He rejoiced over the work which had been done. This shows that Barnabas could rejoice over the successful work done by others.

(c) He brought Saul from Tarsus (v. 25).
 He did more than merely inspect the work. Doubtless he preached also for many people were added unto the Lord. The work grew to such an extent that he brought Saul to help him. They labored together for a year with great success, and carefully taught the people. Believers, after they have confessed Christ, need careful teaching. Barnabas had the good judgment to seek Saul for this important work. It is the duty of church officials to seek out men and women who are qualified for the Lord's work, bringing them from their places of obscurity and setting them to work in the Lord's vineyard. Saul was a more important man than Barnabas. There are many men in obscurity who require a Barnabas to bring them forth.

III. The Disciples First Called Christians (v. 26).
 They were not called by this name in derision as often asserted. Stifter well says, "What Luke intends to convey is that Saul and Barnabas taught in the church for a year and the disciples were first called Christians. The name was a consequence of the teaching." Green renders the passage thus: "And it came to pass with them that they were combined even for a whole year in the church, and taught much people, and that the disciples were first called Christians at Antioch." This distinctive title came through Divine guidance. It was owing to the teaching of Saul and Barnabas that this body called the church was given its unique standing and place. Let it be remembered that it was not given as a term of reproach but because of the close resemblance of the body to its head, Christ.

IV. Benevolence of the Church at Antioch (vv. 27-30).
 They made up money for the poor saints at Jerusalem and sent it by the hands of Barnabas and Saul. The genuineness of the work at Antioch is proven by their good deeds. It was further emphasized in that there was no division between Jew and Gentile Christians. The Gentiles ministered to the Jews.

Treasures
 Misfortune may whirl our material treasures from us; sorrow or sickness may engulf them; turn them to ashes in the mouth. They are not ours; we hold them upon sufferance. But the treasures of the intellect, the gift of being upon nodding terms with truth, these are treasures that are our impregnable own.—A. S. M. Hutchinson.

Advantage of Living

(Temple Telegram)

The human race is never satisfied. This is well, unquestionably, for nothing puts an end to initiative more effectively than absolute contentment. The fellow who is devoid of pride and is content to get along by mooching his friends and the public in general never accomplishes anything for the advancement of society. If everybody were like that pretty soon there would be nothing produced anywhere in the world and we would all have to live on herbs, berries and the few fish we could pull from the streams with crudely improvised hooks.

Every now and then you hear somebody yearning for the good old days of a generation or so ago. It has been thus in every generation; for nobody is satisfied with conditions of his day. Even now, these are the good old days we will be talking about twenty years from now.

But did you ever stop to think just what the good old days were? Of especial interest to those who sigh for a return of "the good old days" is the summing up of the advantages of then and now by the American Exchange National bank of New York, as follows:

"To the man who remembered the first trip of the first street car that ever ran in his town—or who has stumbled from one dim patch of light to another thrown at intervals upon a dark street by flickering lamps—or who recalls with a shiver the winter days when he was forced to leave his warm bed to start the breakfast fire in the old cook-stove—or who ever lived ten miles from a telephone or telegraph station, the development of urban and interurban transportation, of lighting, of gas and electric stoves, of the telephone and telegraph, is a source of wonder. To the younger generation who remember none of these things and who accept the conveniences provided by the public service corporations as a part of the natural order of things, full appreciation of the value of these services is more difficult.

value of these services is more difficult.

"A strike by the employees of the street railways, or a breakdown of the power plant, gives a brief glimpse of conditions as they would be without the services that are accepted as a matter of course. But temporary suspensions of public service facilities often leads to suspension of all other work and effort as well, so that the public of today only knows the difference between having these services and not having them. It knows little or nothing of the great improvement modern public service offers over the old methods. Today, if the transportation service is obstructed or the power or light plants go out of commission, we simply sit down and wait for them to resume. If storms interfere with communication, we go without news, many business operations come to a stop and we limp along until things are fixed up again.

"When we consider the maximum of conveniences that is ours and the corresponding debt that we owe to developers of public service as we know it there should sink into our consciousness an appreciation that should cause us to be exceedingly lenient in our criticism of temporary inconveniences and to be deeply interested and generous in our attitude toward all steps that are taken for the promotion and progress of the things that are essential to a happy social and economic environment."

Last Date For Induction into Training

The last date for induction into Vocational Training under U. S. Veteran's Bureau is rapidly approaching. The last proviso in Section 403 of the World War Veteran's act of June 1924 states that "no training shall be furnished to any person under any of the provisions of this title unless such person shall actually commence such training on or before June 30, 1925."

There are men, eligible to training who have deferred it and who should be reminded that they must actually be placed in training on or before June 30, 1925, or they will forfeit their rights.

This information comes from David F. Tilly, Assistant Director of War Service, and is published by the authority of the

A. & M. SHORT COURSE LAST WEEK IN JULY

Farmers should begin now to make plans for attending the annual Farmers' Short Course which is always given the last week in July. At this time the entire facilities of the great State Agricultural College will be devoted exclusively to giving the farmer and his family an intensive course of one week in some branch of his farm enterprise. The school is divided into a large number of short courses covering every phase of farming so that the farm man, woman, boy or girl may choose his week of study in any division of the subject in which he feels that he needs training or information. There will be a great number of instructors and nothing in which any group of farm people may be interested will be neglected in the courses of instruction offered.

To some men, home is a place where you stumble over the children's shoes at night.

NEW OWNERSHIP TAKES OVER LIGHT AND ICE PLANTS

Charles Eck, late of Santa Anna, Texas has taken over both the Hamilton Ice Factory, from Taylor Bros. and the Hamilton electric light business from H. M. Wieser.

Mr. Eck took charge of the ice factory on May 20, and the ice and light plants were consolidated at the ice factory site. The first power from the new plant was turned on at 2:00 o'clock, in the afternoon, Thursday, May 28.

A large new brick building with cold storage and ice vaults has just been completed, also furnishing office quarters, affording a plant such as few towns the size of Hamilton can boast. Besides this new building new ice manufacturing machinery has been installed and the equipment of every department improved and made thoroughly modern, satisfying every demand for capacity service and a product that is as good as the best.

The electric light and power plant has also undergone improvements which means a far better service than formerly. Two new electric generators and two 100-horsepower Fairbanks-Morse oil engines have been installed in this department of the big concern, one set for regular use, and the other for assistance and for emergencies. The equipment is all new and modern, and everything first class, and Mr. Eck does not hesitate to promise the fine service which is expected by the public.

Mr. Eck is an experienced man in the ice and cold storage and electric light and power business, and comes to Hamilton highly recommended as a capable, responsible business man, and is a splendid citizen. He is a man of keen foresight and is quick to recognize unusual opportunities.

Mr. Eck works out plans on a big scale, and is establishing here a cold storage plant on such an extensive scale that it will provide facilities for the development of a splendid market for all kinds of poultry products, and at the same time provide Hamilton with an up-to-date ice factory that will not only supply this section with ice in plenty, but will give service in this line to a wide territory. Hamilton is most fortunate to have a man of Mr. Eck's capabilities, and loyal, optimistic citizenship come amongst us to invest his money and develop an industry which had lain unhandled for so long at our door.—Hamilton Record.

Old As Civilization

Co-operation may sound like a modern term to many Santa Anna citizens, but its practice was invented way back when savages laid the foundation of modern civilization by getting together for mutual protection.

Loans to Buy Feed Are Dangerous

Farmers who borrow money with which to buy feed for their stock are not considered safe customers by many bankers. The man who borrows money with which to grow feed is a better farmer and deserves accommodation at the bank. This seems to be the consensus of opinion among bankers as expressed by R. L. Thornton, of Dallas, president of the Texas Bankers Association, in a speech before the convention recently held in Houston. In his address Mr. Thornton said:

"The next big question is that of stock feed, and one in which the banker, as well as the farmer, is vitally interested. Any farmer who borrows money with which to buy feed produces his crop at the highest known cost and is at the mercy of every known ravage. The banker would be much wiser to lend more money to raise stock feed than to lend to buy stock feed. The hardest and most hazardous country bank loan today is the loan with which to buy feed, and it is my judgment, as a principle, that no farmer can continually buy feed and compete with the farmer who raises sufficient feed for his stock. The banker can become an important equation in this vital problem if he will only take the time and courage to take the interest that he should. Do it at your own desk and in your own way, but do it; and I commend to the Texas Bankers Association and its members more attention and encouragement to be given to these vital and fundamental questions affecting practically every community of this State."

Bankers may know very little about the various operations necessary in the production of crops, but trained in observation and schooled in economics as related to their own business, they are keen in their selection of customers. They know the kind of a farmer who is making good and who deserves credit, and when a banker says that the farmer who buys feedstuffs every year is a poor customer and slow pay, it is just another way of saying that he is not a good farmer.

Years when feedstuffs are plentiful in the Southwest are prosperous years.—Farm and Ranch.

Truth Basis of Success

Here's an editorial written by A. B. Farquhar, who died the other day at the age of 86. It's the last chapter of his autobiography, and it sums up life as he saw it after he had passed the four-score mark:

"And now, in conclusion, what does it all mean? What have these years taught me? Nothing of a startling nature—the incidents fade—but these principles remain:

"That it is as a rule safe to trust human beings. Comparatively few are unfair, if you are fair yourself.

"That troubles and apparent difficulties are but stepping-stones to progress—the most practical way of learning—and as Greely said, 'The way to resume is to resume.'

"That there is nothing that will take the place of work, either to gain success or to gain happiness or to gain both—and I think it is possible to gain both, if, in the striving and working for success, the dollar is not put above the man.

"That one can and must keep faith with oneself.

"That God is not mocked. You cannot break his laws without suffering.

"That one's only dangerous enemy is oneself. In the ultimate no one can hurt you but yourself.

"That friends are among the greatest assets—and the way to get friends is to be a friend.

"That one should never seek anything for which one does not give value. This avoids the disposition to speculate—which is one of the greatest dangers beset the business man.

"Following these rules, the world grows in interest and life is happier with gathering years.—The Nation's Business."
