PET BROWN SLAIN BY CONSTABLE

Cisco, May 6.—Elmer D. (Pet) Brown, middle-weight champion wrestler of the world, was shot and instantly killed last night about 11 o'clock at his construction camp a short distance east of Cisco on the Eastland road, in an altercation with Constable Louis J. Starkey.

The body was brought to Cisco and placed in charge of a local undertaking establishment pending funeral arrangements. It is thought that the remains will be sent to Taylor, Brown's former home, but plans have not yet been announced.

Constable Starkey was carried to Eastland after the shooting and given examining trial and released under a $5,000.00 bond.

Mr. Brown is well known throughout the country and has many friends who will regret to learn of his untimely demise.

Mayor Abney Says Two Things There In Which There Is Full Accord

Mayor Fred S. Abney in the course of his address at the Lions Club luncheon at Southern hotel today created considerable enthusiasm when he declared that although there were many things, perhaps, over which Brownwood and Coleman disagreed, there was at least one thing upon which they were fully agreed and that was that Hon. Walter Woodward, who was present with the Lion delegation from Coleman, should be elected to Congress to succeed Honorable Thomas L. Blanton, the present incumbent. This seemed to touch a popular chord and brought forth prolonged cheers.—Brownwood Bulletin.

MOTHER; CHRISTIANITY AND PATRIOTISM

(By S. E. Weaver)

Next Sunday has been designated as Mothers Day and many of the churches throughout the country will hold services that are real suitable for the occasion. The minister and other speakers will, no doubt, do what they can to develop or encourage a keener appreciation on the part of the people in general for the mothers of this land.

Christian churches and their leaders have often been charged with mixing with their religion many things that are not essentially religious in nature, and it has often happened that churches have been made the vehicles for propagating ideas that have nothing to do with worship. Political and social reforms have been carried on in churches. Patriotism has frequently been mixed with religion to the hurt of both. Many things occurred in churches during the last war that were highly objectionable to those among us who were not completely overwhelmed by the excitement of the times.

It was taught during the war by sane and well educated ministers that if a man was killed in battle fighting for us, our Allies or democracy that he had met the requirements for entry into the better world. And it was taught by equally honest German ministers that if their soldiers died fighting our Allies they would obtain the same reward. Such teachings have brought reproach upon the church and disrespect upon the ministers.

I would consider objectionable a Sunday lecture or discourse that dealt wholly with women or mothers. For there is no absolute connection between motherhood and Christianity, despite the opinion of many loose thinkers. Pagan mothers love their children and care for them in a manner similar to that of Christian mothers. However, since Christianity is reputed to be responsible for the introduction into the world of the ideas of humility, self-sacrifice, mercy and sympathy as they are found in the civilized nations today, and since ideal motherhood carries similar ideas, I think that it is proper and fitting that Christian churches should celebrate Mothers Day.

A large per cent of the speakers who are on the programs of the different churches will not go far in the development of their subjects before they refer to, if they do not discuss fully, the part that the mothers had in the last war. It is true that a great per cent of the mothers of the United States were too busy with their tasks to keep themselves posted on history and the war and its cause. But when the call came they were ready and willing to give their all, if needs be, for their country and for the preservation of free institutions everywhere. They, unlike the remainder of us, were accustomed to denying themselves that others might be happier. To sacrifice themselves for others was a daily experience with them. So they did their duty without noise and demonstration. They were unaccompanied by bands and gay colors as they did their work of encouraging those about them and reducing their suffering and in convenience of their families and friends.

Unlike the mercenary capitalists and traders, they did not seek to make gains out of the war; unlike many of the ex-soldiers, they did not seek adjusted compensation for their services, but have only asked that steps be taken to prevent the recurrence of war.

I think that mothers throughout the world who were made to suffer on account of the war would be interested in knowing something of the man, who probably contributed more to the development of the Prussian spirit that caused the war than any other man unless it was Bismark. Nietzsche, the German philosopher, was the man. He, it was, who developed the idea that "Might makes right." He cursed Christianity and all the principles that it teaches men. He declared that meekness, self-sacrifice and self-abasement were the attributes of the weak and that the practice of them would make the weak weaker and the strong weak as well. He thought to have or to show sympathy was the height of stupidity. He thought that man could never reach the highest degree of development if he accepted the principle of Christianity and practiced them. He held that such foolish and wasteful ideas must be cast aside if man should develop into the race of superman that he dreamed of.

It would be very interesting if we could get a frank expression from the followers of this exponent of might who now live in Germany. These super-men are now crying for forgiveness and sympathy like small children. They have abandoned force as a means of obtaining the things that they desire. They have seized upon the very means that they had contempt for, and considered slave like, in order to get what they need and want.

One of the interesting phases of Nietzsche's life was the end. After all his railing against sympathy, pity and mercy he was like a child when he died. It ought to be said in justice to him that he was insane when he died. But such a pessimistic philosophy as he taught would make any human being mad.

It was one of the examples of the ironies of fate that this man who despised kindness and even the instinctive impulsive of motherhood said not a word for the last few days before he died but mama, mama, mama, which he repeated times without number.

Ample tribute ought to be paid to the mothers for what they have done for the race and nation as well as to encourage others to join a class that is gradually becoming unpopular. Mothers ought to be appreciated more than they are in an age when everyone is seeking pleasure and none want to do for any one but themselves. It is up to the women and mothers to see that the home and family as we now know it does not become woefully transformed or does not completely disintegrate. It has been truthfully said that the kind of mothers that are found in a nation constitute an infallible barometer of the moral condition of that nation.

When the mothers quit or begin to loaf on their jobs we are approaching the end. For the greatness of a nation does not consist in its rich acres, coal, iron, lumber or gold, but rather in its ideals. And without real mothers a nation will not have ideals for sociologists; ministers and teachers can not give them the ideals that their mother can give them if they have the right kind.

So every man, woman and child ought to attend some service Sunday and learn well the lessons that are offered to them by the speakers and try to make easier the tasks of the mothers that are still among us.

This country continues to have plenty of rain and the farmers are very optimistic over the prospects for a bumper crop this year. Planting has been delayed some on account of rain but we do not think the delay will be any drawback to the harvest. Planters are now running from early to late and if some of the planters don't happen to get the seed planted with the wrong end down excellent stands of cotton will be out in the near future.

C. G. ERWIN BURIED WITH HONORS

The remains of C. G. Erwin were placed in the City cemetery Friday afternoon, following a very impressive funeral service at the Methodist church. The Knights Templar Masons assisted in the funeral rites and took charge of the remains. Messers John Yantis, Will McCulley, W. S. Weir, Frank Morris, W. L. Turner and others executive officers of the Brownwood Commandry officiated, assisted by Leon Shield, Fred Henderson, Mayor Scarborough and G. C. Dalton of the Coleman Commandry. The pall bearers were S. H. Phillips, Dr. T. R. Sealy, R. D. Kelley, F. C. Woodward, E. G. Overby and Taylor Wheeler, all members of the Knights Templar Commandry and close friends of the deceased. The honorary pall bearers were J. D. Simpson, W. L. Mills, R. L. Todd, J. M. Martin, Jocie Joiner, J. E. Watkins, O. W. Parris, H. J. Ratcliff, Moody Polk Jr., and B. T. At the regular weekly luncheon of the Chamber of Commerce Wednesday morning, the body voted to authorize the president to appoint a board of directors and an assistant secretary, and the following were appointed: C. D. Foote, Stafford Baxter and D. R. Hill were appointed directors and Ed Baxter was appointed assistant secretary. The newly appointed officials will be requested to recommend some one for vice-president at the next regular meeting. A fair crowd was out Wednesday morning and several items of interest were discussed and passed upon. The body will meet again next Wednesday morning.

Mr. Kelley also enclosed a program of the Band, Glee Club and Orchestra to be broadcasted by Radio next Sunday at 3:30 in the afternoon. This is the only Osteopathic band in the world, and every member of the band is a bonified student in the Kirksville school of Osteopathy. If you have a radio set and care to listen at this good music, tune in for it Sunday.

It is up to the voters of this school district to come out next Saturday and save the situation, or else our school will get a set back that will take several years to overcome, and, in fact, these same conditions will have to be met and overcome in the future before our school can ever be recognized as an affiliated school, then why should we take such a loss? We believe that if the patrons of the school could realize the conditions as they exist they would vote one hundred per cent for the tax, but the trouble will be to get the patrons to wake up to the full realization of the conditions as they exist. Let us urge in the name of better school conditions for our children to vote for the amendment.

Inactive Liver

"I have had trouble with an inactive liver," wrote Mrs. S. Nichols, of 4412 Spencer St., Houston, Texas. "When I would get constipated, I would feel a light, dizzy feeling in my head. To get up in the morning with a lightness in the head and a tremble feeling is often a sign that the stomach is out of order. For this I took Theford's Black-Draught, and without a doubt can say I have never found its equal in any liver medicine. It not only cleans the liver, but leaves you in such a good condition. I have used it a long time, when food does not seem to eat well, or the stomach is a little sour."

FORD TOURIST NOW ENJOYS A GREATER "AT HOME" FEELING

Family larger than ever and service always near to make his trip enjoyable.

That satisfying "at home" feeling which the Ford tourist always has felt wherever he has gone will be stronger than ever this summer. There are now nearly 5,000,000 Ford Cars in use in the United States and he will come upon more members of the great Ford family in the towns and cities and along the highways of the nation than in any year heretofore.

In the last year alone 1,500,000 new Fords have gone into use throughout the country. And the Ford owner who goes touring enjoys what no other car owner enjoys, the satisfaction of knowing he has the greatest of service facilities at his command, assuring him of a pleasant journey no matter where his travels may take him.

In addition to the Ford dealer organization of more than 9,000, there are over 14,000 authorized Ford service stations in the country, making a total of more than 23,000 points of contact with the motoring public.

Naturally the increased use of Ford Cars has brought a corresponding increase in service responsibilities. Ford dealers, everywhere, acting under the definite service policy of the company, are fully prepared to meet the new responsibilities. Their mechanics, many of them graduates of the Ford service course, are expertly trained in meeting all service requirements, and the dealers have provided themselves with special and approved equipment which enables them to meet any demand, promptly and efficiently, thus affording the Ford owner every facility which contributes toward making motoring as inexpensive and as enjoyable as possible.

The high excellence of Ford performance under all road conditions has made it the most popular of cars for general touring and also the most economical, for service is always close at hand when any minor adjustments are necessary.

LIBERTY NEWS

Our school closed Friday, May 4th, followed by a very interesting program at night by the Primary grades. Saturday night being the night of the play by the advanced grades was suddenly brought to a focus at the end of the first act by the storm. They will try it again Monday night. Ask Mr. J. D. Holt if the people left the grounds in a hurry when the cloud struck; he can tell you about it better than we can.

Among the Liberty people to attend the singing at Salem Sunday were A. L. Polk and family, G. C. Conklin and family, Henry Williams and sons and J. W. Dodgin. All report a good time, plenty of dinner and good singing.

Saturday night, May 12th is our regular singing night. Everybody invited to come and bring any kind of books you prefer. Out side communities especially invited to be with us.

Misses Minnie Bell and Grace McMinn of Santa Anna are visiting in our community this week, guests in the Woodward home.

Ben Wilson is the only man we have seen that doesn't want it to quit raining. He says he will have to quit playing 42 and chasing coyotes and go to fighting hurrah grass.

We forgot to mention that Ben Wilson was at Salem Sunday, but he says he only went to eat and not to sing.

Graduation gifts are constant reminders of an unusual and very happy occasion. One should select such gifts with care and deliberation. In most instances suitable inscriptions must be engraved upon them. In others, perhaps, they must be forwarded to distant points to the happy recipient.

Our suggestion that you give an Elgin Watch on such an occasion, is prompted by the knowledge that such a gift will endure and serve as a happy reminder of the occasion for many years.

MOTHERS OF MEN

All over this country our people observe Mothers Day. They listen to words of praise of the mothers of men, give credit to the mothers of other people, and perhaps a passing thought to their own mothers.

It is human nature, the way of the world.

We see the good traits of the mothers of other boys because we view them from a distance and analyze them from a disinterested standpoint.

We often overlook the excellent qualities of our own mothers because we have been accustomed to them from birth and accept their solicitous care and attention as our due and as a matter of course.

There is no one like the mother. She is the one who brings us into the world—the one who guards and trains us from infancy to maturity—the one who gives of such love as no other human being may ever know.

No pedestal is too high and no consideration is too great for the mother of man.

For mother is mother, the most wonderful work of Him who creates all peoples and all things.

EARTH HAS NO SPECIAL SEASON FOR A MOTHER'S LOVE

Sunday, May 13th, is Mother's Day. All over the country this special day has been set aside to do honor to the mothers of the world. But every day, is Mother's Day, after all. There is no time, no season of the earth or of the heart, that is not mother's day.

Sunday, May 13th, is the day when all the world bows in reverent homage to that wonderful being—Mother. Wonderful, no matter what her station in life, no matter what may have been her cares and sorrows, her smiles and joys, her grief or pleasure—still wonderful. Whether her form has graced the elegant mansion of the rich or the humble hovel of the poor, she is still—Mother. The Christian, the pagan, the law-abiding, the criminal, are all linked together in one common reverence of that loving and lovable being.

No man ever rose so high in life's ladder of success but that back of it all, and with it, inevitably is found the influence of a mother. No man ever sank so low but that the mother-creature who gave him birth, sank with him; No matter to what state of utter worthlessness, or even of vicious criminality man may fall, no matter how grievously he may have sinned against God and man, no matter how he may be shunned, loathed hated or despised by all the rest of humanity, if his mother lives that mother's cheeks will become wet with tears, or her prayers ascend to the God of the universe in behalf of her child.

The mother watches with tender care the moulding of a young life that is her's, part of her very being. She guides and counsels it on through the later years, never failing in her love and devotion. Many a man has gone down and down, until it seemed to him that all the world was against him, until he became soured, bitter in his resentment. But through it all there was a feeling way down in the innermost recesses of his soul, that somewhere, somehow, in spite of all, there was a mother, who waited and hoped and cared—and understood.

Many a daughter who has strayed from the path of righteousness or virtue, who may have drunk the very dregs of the cup of remorse and despair, who knew that the rest of the world looked upon her as a thing unclean, to be loathed and despised for her weakness and sin has, even in her darkest hour, been comforted just a little by the sweet consolation that Mother still loved her, in spite of all; that mother still hoped and prayed for her reformation; that mother understood.

Small wonder then, that all humanity should bow in homage to the wonder creature of all ages—the Mother. Small wonder that man and woman of every walk and station in life is glad of the privilege of having a universal "Mother's Day." And on that day all the world will stir with the tenderest of feelings, the feeling of reverent adoration, of deathless love for the one who always understands—Mother.

Love is the theme of Mother's Day and although the most cultivated and expensive flowers are none too good we should never stand back on this day and fail her because of lack of them. She understands, try her with the best within your reach. See how happy she will be, how much brighter your day and how much more beautiful the day has become for you and the best Mother in it.

To those whose Mothers have gone to the bright and beautiful shore this is also a day of days. The white flower you wear is a beautiful symbol of the tie you have in the land beyond the stars. Some time in the day there will be a silent hour and Mother's spirit will seem so near that you feel her actual presence. It is not a day for sadness but a day you can be thankful that God blessed you so in giving you the best Mother of anybody. Don't think of the white flower as typifying death but as your heritage of a little bit of heaven on earth. Hunt up some mother whose daughter is far away and make her a visit, she will long remember. There is no need for brooding or loneliness as long as we keep in touch with others. Mother's Day for all the mothers—those of earth and those of heaven.
