"He Profits Most Who Serves Best"

VIENNA ROAST

On last Friday evening a crowd of young people met at the home of Miss Ruth Crosby and went from there to the country for a moon light picnic.

A huge camp fire was built and soon every one was roasting hot dogs and having "just loads of fun." After every one had eaten as much as possible, they all gathered around the camp fire and sang songs, until some one took all the joy out of life by saying it was time to return to town.

Those present were: Messers George England, Bob Garrett, Basil Gilmore, Odgen Brown, R. A. Crosby, Cecil Verner, Melvin Hook, C. B. Verner, Dick West, Jodie Baker, Artic Stewart, Roy Newman, Henry Mitchell, Misses Ruby Brannan, Georgia Gilmore, Ruth Crosby, Florence Dodgen, Bill Vinson, Minnie Ola Rothermel, Ruby Rountree, Ruth Stephenson, Margaret Barnes, Lucile May, Winnie Todd, Messdames R. A. Crosby, R. L. Todd and R. C. West.

WHEN I AM A MAN

When I am a man
You just wait and see,
I'll be a man
Like they ought to be.
I'll be awfully nice
To little girls and boys,
I'll load them with candy
And all sorts of toys.
I'll buy them toy pistols
With bushels of caps,
Let 'em shoot 'em in the room,
Where the old cat naps.
I'll get them some dogs
As many as they please,
Let 'em bring 'em in the house,
And feel perfectly at ease.
I'll let 'em stay up
From sunrise till sunset,
No naps in the daytime,
At special times set.
I'll never allow them
To be mopped in the face,
And bored to the ear drums,
And every other place.
If they really need a bath
I'll take them to swim,
Let 'em dive to the bottom,
And rise with a bin.
They can play in the rain
Throw balls in the snow,
Go in all sorts of weather,
They'll be happy I know.
When I am a man
You just wait and see,
I'll be a man
Like they ought to be.

TOWN PESTS

The Henpecked Husband is a Pest of the First Water because he can't do Nuthin' ner Bay Nuthin' without first asking his Wife. If the Fore Fish'd only Grow a Backbone, instead of Bleating Pitiably about the Wife, his Friends wouldn't feel So Much the Needin' Him for a Bow of Ash and an Army Lodge Night.

THE BUSY IDLERS CLUB

Miss Thula Standley was the charming hostess to the Busy Idlers on last Friday afternoon. Piano and victrola music helped to make the hours more pleasant. Dainty refreshments of hot chocolate, sandwiches, olives and cake were served to the following members and guests: Mesdames R. A. Crosby and R. C. West, Misses Blanche Collier, Lucile May, Ruby Brannan, Florence Dodgen, Grace Ewing, Ruth Crosby, Sibly Simpson, Bill Vinson, Margaret Barnes, Ruth Stephenson, Georgia Gilmore, Lois Verner, Thula Standley and Beth Barnes and Master Graham Hensley.

GOLLYBUM

The editor and family moved Monday and Tuesday of this week from the Higgins place in the west part of town to the Rhem place in the south part, and are now engaged in acquainting ourselves with new surroundings. If, per chance, this happens to fall into the hands of any person who has never moved, you just ought to try it one time. Others know what it means. We have our furniture insured for about one-half what it cost and since moving three times about twice as much as it is worth. At this early stage but few of our new neighbors have been around to greet us, so we take this method of introducing ourselves to them. We are just common folks, appreciate good neighbors and feel sure we will have them in our new community, the same as we did before we moved. All we ask is that each buy his own chewing tobacco and eat his own chickens. Come to Texas.

FOOT BALL FRIDAY, NOV. 10

The hard fighting, light team of the High School will play a game of foot ball with San Saba High School Huskies on next Friday afternoon as early in the afternoon as possible. The game will have to be called early as the San Saba boys will go home after the game.

On Nov. 17, the local team will play Goldthwaite on the local field. These games should both prove very interesting to the local fans, as Santa Anna defeated a team this year that has defeated each of these teams. Let's make it snappy for the home youngsters by being out to see the game full of pep that helps to win.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to extend to our neighbors and friends our heart felt thanks for the many deeds of kindness and words of sympathy during the suffering and death of our little son Robert Marion. May God bless you all and we trust that in some way we can prove to you our appreciation.—D. M. Simmons and family.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to extend our thanks to the faithful ones who administered to our needs during the suffering and death of our aged companion, Mrs. Johnson. Our friends and neighbors did they could to comfort her during her sickness and offered words of sympathy after her death. God alone can pay you, and we invoke His blessings upon you.—C. W. C. Johnson and family.

Mrs. E. T. Haden of the Milligan crossing on Home Creek, presented this office with a fine sample of her Sweet peppers Thursday. Mrs. Haden has specialized this year with garden truck and has a creditable showing of eatables.

The fellow who angles for the good opinion of his neighbors generally shows himself up for what he is and gets what he deserves.

PREPAREDNESS

Many folks are fond of recalling the days when they were poor, their early struggles, and drawing from those experiences what they are pleased to regard as valuable lessons.

We all recall those lines of Riley's, "back where we were so happy and poor." Many of those who have had such experience will recall that their changed conditions for the better began the day they learned the value of the habit of thrift. A great financier, himself once a poor farm boy, says that the new relations between the United States and the rest of the world should teach Americans this vital lesson of thrift. It is his idea and vision that we are to become a wellspring for all the nations.

We must be thrifty as individuals. We should learn over again the lessons of the last 4 years. We must realize that we are a unit among many other national units; that we must have regard for proper and adequate national protection, for material national progress.

Thrift is our one best means of continuous national preparedness. In the days of plenty, let us lay up treasure as against the lean year.

Take a lesson from the squirrel.

WE ARE THANKFUL

Well, it will soon be Thanksgiving time again, and then Christmas holidays lie just over the hill.

There will be the usual shrinkage of bank balances and tightening of purse strings as the season draws nearer.

Always we have wondered why people get hard up as Christmas draws near. And we wonder if it affects other business like it does the printing business. People just naturally stop paying the newspaper man until after New Year's.

But what's the use of worrying? We are thankful the gas bills for November won't be as high as they would have been if all those predicted coal waves had come. We are thankful there are no hospital or undertaker's bills to pay. We are thankful we have a job that keeps us busy. We are thankful that we are not rich and worried about numerous investments. And we are thankful that we live in a town this size and don't have to endure a continual strain to make both ends meet in a wild endeavor to keep up with fast friends in a cold and cruel city.

SPREADERS OF GLOOM

Prophets of gloom and woe are finding ample evidence of the wrath to come which is to overwhelm the present civilization. One of these sad pessimists tells us, though every age in a sense faces a crisis of its own, but of the whole civilization.

We are willing to admit that the struggling of human society at present is not pleasant to contemplate, even that it presents many ominous aspects which seem to threaten the stability of the social order so painfully erected by Christian civilization through nearly twenty centuries. But what then? Shall phases of unrest, want and despair—the results of violated law, though often the victims are innocent of all responsibility for the wrongs which compel their suffering—destroy in us the hope of the ultimate victory of truth, justice and righteousness? Not at all.

ARE YOU A PATRIOT?

Mr. Webster defines a patriot as being "one who loves and serves his country."

We really have no desire to raise a delicate question on this community, but we candidly wonder how many of us can qualify in that class? Can you?

MAJORITY OF 150,000 OR MORE IS RECEIVED BY DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE

Election Ended Long Period of Litigation Which Was Carried Through Many Courts and Featured by Several Injunction Orders Against Officials.

(By Associated Press).

Dallas, Nov. 8.—The victory by more than 150,000 majority for Earle B. Mayfield for United States Senator from Texas followed one of the most bitterly contested political disputes in the history of the State. It makes Mayfield, who is forty-one years old, one of the youngest members of the United States Senate.

The multitude of court proceedings was cleared up and just the day before election, when the Supreme Court ruled that his name should go on the ballots. He was attacked by his opponents because of the alleged support of his candidacy by the Ku Klux Klan. For the past six weeks or more there has been ceaseless litigation, passing through three district courts, the Fifth Court of Civil Appeals, the State Supreme Court and the New Orleans federal circuit court. As a result of this litigation, Mayfield's name was not printed on the ballots for the election except in a very few counties. The name of his opponent, George B. Peddy, was likewise left off the ballots as a result of counter-litigation by Mayfield supporters.

GERMANY LOST ONLY THE WAR

Truly America is nothing if not magnificent. Germany can attest to that. While no country in the world is carrying more than 5,000,000,000 of worthless paper marks, the United States is the proud possessor of German paper currency to the extent of 80,000,000,000 marks, bought at an average of $12 per thousand. Today German marks are selling at 70 cents a thousand.

Translated into American currency America has invested $960,000,000 in German money since the armistice and the investment today is worth only $56,000,000. The loss therefore rests at $904,000,000 with strong possibilities that it will increase.

Disclosures show that America has given to Germany since the end of the war more than twice the amount of gold the German government has paid in war indemnities to the entire combination of the allies up to date.

Surely greed, and the desire to get something for nothing has led the country into dangerous paths. The best America gets out of the situation is a laugh, because indirectly the whole nation will suffer from the Saturnalia of speculation that has led down the lane of folly.

However, our big city brothers undoubtedly will hesitate before smiling again when the simple, unsuspecting countryman falls a victim to the astute gold brick swindler of the city. Germany has unloaded on the city slickers the most gigantic financial ignis fatuus in the history of the ages. The Mississippi Bubble is a piker's game compared with it. Such national idiocy, like the wisdom of the Lord passeth all understanding. Truly can it be said that Germany has lost nothing but the war.—Ex.

Will money buy anything? It would almost seem so.

In one of our large cities two supposedly reputable citizens have confessed to perjuring themselves in giving testimony that freed a murderer from paying the penalty of his crime.

They were promised $10,000 each for their perjured testimony. They received $125 each.

Is American manhood slipping away, or are only the black sheep being exposed?

VIOLETS

ROBBING THE FARMER

Somebody somewhere is robbing the farmer of his legitimate profits, to the detriment of the nation as a whole.

With the improved methods of agriculture, and the consequent increase in production, the farmer's profits should be far in excess of what they are today.

From one end of the country to the other the consumer continues to pay high prices for farm products, only a small portion of which as a rule goes to the farmer.

Who gets the difference? Who is lining his pockets at the expense of both the farmer and consumer?

Many official investigations have been started—but are still to be heard from.

Many promises have been made—but are yet to be kept.

Many people are wondering how long this condition will continue—but they will keep on wondering.

Because, as a matter of fact, there appears to be no one with moral, physical and political courage enough to unearth the robbers and give them their just deserts.

"I don't like this town."

It is only occasionally that we hear such a remark, but when we do we wonder how much the people of the town like the person who makes it.

Most of us like this town because we know and like each other. We enjoy our daily interchange of views.

But we feel sorry for the poor fellow who is "out of tune." He reminds us of a fiddle with a busted string.

His noise is not music to our ears.

GRAND JURY ENDORSES COMMISSIONERS CT. IN ROAD MATTER

(From Democrat-Voice)
"We beg to make the further report in respect to the issuance and sale of bonds, the building of roads and letting of contracts in respect thereto, that we have carefully investigated same having had before us witnesses whom we have examined and, having examined the records in reference thereto, are pleased to report that we have found no illegal transactions nor have we found any laws violated in reference to the matters mentioned. Upon the contrary, we beg to report to you that it appears to us that the Commissioners' Court has diligently and carefully followed the laws in respect to the issuance of bonds, the safe thereof and awarding of contracts; and, in our opinion, there is no just grounds for censure of the Commissioners' Court in any respect whatever."

The foregoing is a part of the Grand Jury's report concerning county road matters and road finances and the connection of the Commissioners' Court therewith.

Find Three Felony Bills.
The Grand Jury reported 3 bills of felony degree and none for misdemeanors. The remainder of the grand jury report was as follows:

"We have examined the reports of officers submitted to us and find them regular and correct.

"In regard to sleeping quarters for petit jurors, we recommend that the room and beds be cleaned thoroughly and clean beds and bed clothing be provided for the jurors and that the janitor be instructed not to allow the furnishings to be taken from the room except for laundry purposes, that the sheets, pillow cases and blankets be properly packed away between terms of court.

"A committee from this body examined the jail and report that it needs a thorough overhauling, as to cement floors, plaster, window lights and toilets.

"We have had before us citizens from different parts of the county and while they reported gambling and other disturbances it seems that no one would take the trouble to find out who is doing those things. We would recommend that when citizens hear of these disturbances they take the trouble to get names of parties implicated and turn the information to local officers. This would do more to stop gambling and other misdemeanors than anything else."

The report was signed by W. W. Gober as foreman.

Men's clothiers are always pleased when a new and pretty girl comes to town. It stimulates trade.

TOWN PESTS

This Sweet Ohld ain't Really got No Bizness in these here Pest Pictures, for he's only a Gay College Boy home for the vacation, but still the New Line of Campus Slang and his Giddy Gabble of Frats and Froons and Shiflers and Flappers and Studees does become Rather a Bore before October.

ARMISTICE DAY

We sometimes hear complaints against the custom of national memorial days, made by those short-sighted, materially minded people who arrogate to themselves the word "practical," but who in the most far-reaching sense of that word, are the least practical of citizens. Such days, they complain, are a waste of public time, and are meaningless displays of public sentiment, hypocritically or superstitiously observed. Fortunately, the direction of nations is not in the hands of such blind guides, men who can see nothing beyond the day's work, and the day's profit. Wiser heads have managed from generation to generation to gain control of our destinies. Such men have always realized one cardinal defect of human nature—the shortness of its memory for the great moments of history, its significant instructive crisis of achievement and warning. A great object is achieved, a great danger is passed. In the hour of triumph and escape, men rend the skies with jublations, crowd them with flags, irradiate them with bonfires. Never was such a moment. Left to themselves, however, a week or two would suffice for the achievement to become a commonplace, the danger to be forgotten. But, those wiser, far-seeing ones, as they look on at "the tumult and the shouting," perceive the eternal significance of such moments. Great moments of achieved freedom. For these there must be consecrated monuments, commemorative days forever set apart, lest men should, through forgetfulness, fall into bondage again. Heroes, saints, fighters, workers, dreamers, the dauntless martyrs for ideas, for these it is not merely well, but necessary that there should be abiding memorials, by which men looking up from the dusty preoccupations of their daily tasks shall be sharply and inspiringly recalled to that something in our lives which we call the soul.

The world has recently gone through one of the gravest crises in its history. But already, like men who have survived a tidal wave that has laid their city in ruins, we have begun to minimize the danger that threatened us. It is past and gone, and once more we return to our work and our play. The dead that died for us sleep, and the grass grows.

Yet, as the sea but waits its hour to sweep once more against our careless walls, so the danger that was will surely menace us again, unless we make sure that its lesson shall never be forgotten, and so school our minds against it that not only shall it never again catch us unawares, but that it shall in time be wiped out from the category of permitted things.

Armistice Day has been decreed that it shall keep alive in a symbol, from year to year, the memory of the horror of the cruelest and foulest war ever fought, the memory of the vast gladness that swept the world as its nightmare came to an end, the memory of the universal resolution that no such infamy should ever stain the human record again.

In the past war has been regarded as a necessity, the only method of deciding conflicting issues between races and nations and its evils have been systematically concealed beneath the various bedazzlements of its fictitious glory, so that we forget.

But the time has come for us to see the monster as it is. Whatever be the matters in dispute between nations, it is now realized as imperative that some other way of deciding them must be found. Differences must inevitably arise, but the sword shall no longer deal with them. Surely, if slowly, a League of Common-Sense has been forming among the most advanced peoples of the earth which condemns war as obsolete as it is criminal.—The Elks Magazine for November.

AMERICAN LEGION ASSISTS U. S. VETERANS BUREAU

The Employment Representative of the U. S. Veterans Bureau, Dallas, recently took up with the local Post of the American Legion the matter of finding employment for disabled ex-service men who have been in training with the Veterans' Bureau for the past two years.

Mr. J. G. Williamson is now publicity officer for the local post, states that about one hundred men are completing their training each month with the Veterans' Bureau in the Fourteenth District, and before these men can be classed as successfully rehabilitated, the Government desires to find permanent employment for them along the lines for which they have been especially trained.

The American Legion has considered it owes its first duty to the disabled ex-service men and anyone having an opening for a rehabilitated Veteran can take it up locally with Mr. Williamson, local Adjutant of the American Legion, or directly with the U. S. Veterans' Bureau at Dallas.

Along agriculture lines the Veterans' Bureau now especially desires employment opportunities for a dairyman, a poultryman, a grain sampler and a cotton classifier.

In commercial lines they have an abstractor, bookkeeper, cotton man, dry goods clerk, office man, railroad rate clerk, railroad station agent, stenographer typist, and a telegrapher that they desire jobs for.

Among the trades they have men ready to accept employment as auto upholsterer, acetylene welder, auto mechanic, auto electrician, cleaner and presser, cabinet maker, electrician, shoe repairman and vulcanizer.

Among the professions they have men who desire opportunities as mechanical dentists, photographers and undertakers.

STATE UNIVERSITY NEWS

Austin, Texas, Nov. 8.—Practical experience in scientific housekeeping is offered to girls in the home economics department of the University of Texas. As a prerequisite to the bachelor of science degree in home economics, each senior student must spend one term in the Practice Cottage, a two-story house owned by the University. Miss Jet Winters, adjunct professor of home economics, lives in the house with the girls, and supervises their plans and activities. With four girls in the Practice Cottage each term, one girl serves for 2 weeks in each of the following occupations: cook, assistant cook upstairs, maid, and downstairs maid. The girl acting as cook for each week has to plan the meals, order the food supplies, and prepare them, keeping the cost of raw material within the budget of 50 cents a day for each person. The expenses are shared equally, and the girls are given experience in every phase of house work and are trained to assume responsibility in house management.

Austin, Texas, Nov. 8.—With a circulation of 4,400 the Daily Texan, student newspaper of the University of Texas, now has a subscription larger than other college newspaper of the country, according to Thomas G. Pollard, supervising business manager of the Texas Students' Publications, Inc. The list of subscribers includes the 3,750 students who paid the student activity fee during the registration week, 525 high schools, approximately 100 ex-students, and the members of the Board of Regents.

Austin, Texas, Nov. 8.—Among the students of the University of Texas who have selected the study of law as a profession, there are eleven women, including three junior laws, two middle laws, five senior laws, and one post graduate student. Two years work in the academic department of the University is a prerequisite for entering the Law school and three years work are usually required in the Law school to finish the course leading to the bachelor of laws degree. Austin, Texas, Nov. 8.—Former students of the University of Texas now living in Oklahoma will hold a reunion at Norman, Okla., on November 18, in order to attend the game between the University of Texas and University of Oklahoma football teams. They will have a banquet in Oklahoma City on the night of November 18, and Dean H. Y. Benedict, of the College of Arts and Sciences of the University of Texas, will deliver the principal address. John A. Lomax, secretary of the Ex-Students' Association, will also attend the reunion. Former students living in the northern section of Texas have also been invited to attend the game and banquet, according to Gathings Walker, of Oklahoma City, who has charge of the arrangements.

Austin, Texas, Nov. 8.—In order to encourage research work among advanced students, the chemistry department of the University of Texas regularly employs on its staff more tutors and assistants than instructors and professors. For the present session, there are 26 tutors and assistants, employed on a part-time teaching basis, and registered for advanced courses. Selection of these tutors and assistants is based on their scholastic standing in all their work, their work, their selection of work in the field of chemistry as a profession, and an aggressive personality insuring their respect in the classroom.

TWENTY-FIVE BOOKS FOR A ONE-ROOM SCHOOL

The librarians and teachers of the United States at the recent conferences of the American Library Association and the National Education Association selected by ballot a list of good books for a one-room school, comprising 25 books for children in grades one to eight.

"Little Women" by Louise M. Alcott comes first on the list chosen by librarians and first on the list chosen by teachers.

Following this on both lists were "Alice's Adventures in Wonderland" and "Through the Looking Glass" by Lewis Carroll, "Robinson Crusoe" by DeFoe, "Tom Sawyer" by Mark Twain and "Treasure Island" by Stevenson.

The only books which appears on the joint list are: Nicolay, Boy's Life of Abraham Lincoln.

Kipling, Jungle book.
Andersen, Fairy Tales.
Aesop's Fables.
Pyle, Merry adventures of Robin Hood.
Stevenson, Child's Garden of Verses.
Lamb, Tales from Shakespeare.
Arabian Nights.
Malory, Boy's King Arthur.
Van Loon, Story of Mankind.
Wiggin, Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm.
Stevenson, Burton E. Home Book of Verse for Young Folks.

Dickens, Christmas Carol.
Irving, Rip Van Winkle.
Mother Goose.
Dodge, Hans Brinker.
Hagedorn, Boys' Life of Theodore Roosevelt.
Hawthorne, Wonderbook.
Seton, Wild Animals I Have Known.
Spyri, Heidi.

Three books selected by the teachers but not included on the combined list were:

Riis, The Making of an American.
Baldwin, Fifty Famous Stories.
Eggleston, Stories of Great Americans.
Three books selected by librarians and not included on the joint list were: Dickens, David Copperfield.

Grimm, Household Stories.
Wyss, Swill Family Robinson.
That teachers are eager to get this list as an aid in making their selection of books, is indicated by the inquiries that have been coming in from all parts of the United States to the Chicago headquarters office of the American Library Association.—The Progressive Farmer.

Land that is bare through the winter loses heavily by washing if it is even slightly rolling. It should not be left bare. This is pretty generally understood and summer crops are very often left as they grew in order that they may reduce washing. This is not the best plan, since getting alternately dry and wet, frozen and thawed, disintegrates and decomposes them and lets a part of the nitrogen they contain escape into the air, and parts of the leaves and fine detached parts blow away. Of course the very best thing to do is to plow the crop down early in the fall or at a time when it may be plowed under to best advantage for sowing a winter cover crop—preferably a legume. By doing this two soil-improvement crops are grown on the same land and then there is the additional advantage that comes from fall plowing and the superior advantages of a growing crop as a soil builder.—The Progressive Farmer.

The Parent-Teachers' Association served a real dinner in the building first door east of the First National Bank last Saturday, and rolled up a nice sum for expenditures on the school grounds. The editor can testify that the patrons got their money's worth Saturday.

Two of the greatest discussions we have ever read after have been going on in Texas this year, and now, that one of them must be about ended and out of the way, we wonder what is going to become of the other? The two things referred are politics and religion. This has been the most unusual year in politics we have ever witnessed, and those who are reading the Baptist Standard and the Searchlight, the Standard being the official organ for the Baptist denomination and the Searchlight the official organ for the First Baptist church in Fort Worth, have some idea about what is taking place in Baptist ranks. Dr. J. Frank Norris now seems to be the center of attraction, and at times, it appears he is fighting a losing game, but as soon as he has time to come back he appears as a Chinese puzzle and works like magic, and then it is all to be done over again. We are somewhat ashamed of the discussion and fail to appreciate the attitude some of the pretenders manifest, but can not help but to admire and appreciate the spirit of others. A mad person is in a poor attitude to discuss the scriptures.

The editor of this paper would just like to know how many people there are living in Santa Anna who would like to see a Commercial Club organized and working for the further advancement of this town. We would just like to know how the business men of the town feel towards commercial work for community development and progress. We have been trying every since we have been here to get an expression from them and so far our efforts have met with poor success. If our citizenship is so peculiar and indifferent that they do not want such a thing, the News will refrain from trying to push such a thing on them, for we do not want to burden this town with anything that is not worth having.

The News has recently added some new features to our service and we feel sure they will be read and appreciated by all the better class of our readers. One feature is the daily scripture readings, another to begin next week will be "The Sermon on The Mount," which is in a series of seventeen sections. Still another feature will be a series of three column stories prepared by one of the best feature writers in the United States, and we feel this addition will be received with pleasure by all our readers. The News is trying to be of real service to our readers and the community as a whole, and we just want to express our thanks in every issue of the paper for the many words of encouragement we are receiving.

The nations are paying the penalties, very largely, that they invited. But they will survive the present crisis. They will go forward. Their experience will be painful. Something of their burden will be transmitted as a legacy to succeeding generations, but they will be all the more firmly established in that faith which makes for peace and progressive development because of the ordeals through which they have passed and are now passing. It is strange that the war and its reactions worked no greater harm than they have. Looking out upon struggling human society, noting the wounds and scars left by the recent tremendous conflict, it truly is amazing how much has been done in the work of social reconstruction in every country that suffered from the ravages of the war. Achievement in this direction will be continuous. There is no reason why the nations, or any one of them, should despair. There is every reason why they should be hopeful of the future. Civilization is secure. Humanity's faith in itself is sound. Peace, prosperity and good will, will for all those who have courage and faith.

The American Society for the control of cancer, has set aside the week beginning Nov. 12th, as educational week in regard to the control of cancer. Talks are to be given by physicians when ever there is a public gathering. The idea mainly being to inform the public as to what cancer is, giving some of the first signs of cancer, and informing you what to do if you have it or any symptoms of it. At the meeting on Friday Nov. 17th, the Parent-Teachers Association, there will be several visiting physicians to make talks along general health lines, especially regarding cancer and cancer control. The public in general should take advantage of this opportunity to inform themselves fully regarding this disease.

The Casting Out of Jimmy Myers

By WILLIAM ALLEN WHITE

Copyright, 1922, by the Macmillan Co.

IT SEEMED a cruel thing to do, but we had to do it. For ours is ordinarily a quiet office. We have never had a libel suit. We have had fewer fights than most newspaper offices have, and while it hardly may be said that we strive to please, still in the main we try to get on with the people, and tell them as much truth as they are entitled to for ten cents a week. Naturally, we do our best to get up a sprightly paper, and in that the Myers boy had our idea exactly. He was industrious; more than that, he tried with all his might to exercise his best judgment, and no one could say that he was careless; yet everyone around the office admitted that he was unlucky.

We took him from the college at the edge of town. He had been running the college paper for a year, and knew the merchants around town fairly well; and, since he was equipped as far as education went, he seemed to be a likely sort of a boy for reporter and advertising solicitor.

One of the first things that happened to him was a mistake in an item about the opera house. He said that a syndicate had taken a lien on it. What he meant was a lease, and as he got the item from a man who didn't know the difference, and as the boy stuck to it that the man had said lien, and not lease, we did not charge that up to him. A few days later he wrote for a town photographer a paid local article about some one who was going abroad the county peddling picture frames and taking orders for enlarged pictures. That was not so bad, but it turned out that the peddler was a woman, and she came with a rawhide and camped in the office for two days waiting for Jimmy, while he came in and out of the back door, stuck his copy on the hook by stealth, and traveled only in the alleys to get his news. One could hardly say that he was to blame for that, either, as the photographer who paid for the item didn't say the peddler was a woman, and the boy was not a clairvoyant.

One dull day he wrote a piece about a gang who played poker at night in Red Martin's room. Jimmy said he wasn't afraid of Red Martin, and he wasn't. The item was popular enough, and led to a raid on the place, which disclosed our best advertiser sitting in the game. To suppress his name meant our shame before the town; to print it meant his—at our expense. It was embarrassing, but it wasn't exactly the boy's fault. It was just one of those unfortunate circumstances that come up in life. However, the advertiser aforesaid began to hate the boy.

He must have been used to injustice all his life, for there was a vertical line between his eyes that marked trouble. The line deepened as he went further and further into the newspaper business; for, generally speaking, a person who is unlucky has less to fear handling dynamite than he has writing local items on a country paper.

A few days after the raid on the poker room Jimmy, who had acquired a particularly legible hand, wrote: "The hem of her skirt was trimmed with pink crushed roses," and he was in no way to blame for the fact that the printer accidentally put an "h" for a "k" in skirt, though the woman's husband chased Jimmy into a culvert under Main street and kept him there most of the afternoon; while the cheering crowd informed the injured husband whenever Jimmy tried to get out of either end of his prison.

The printer that made the mistake bought Jimmy a new suit of clothes, we managed to print an apology that cooled the husband's wrath, and for ten days, or perhaps two weeks, the boy's life was one round of joy. Everything was done promptly, accurately and with remarkable intelligence. He whistled at his work and stacked up more copy than the printers could set up in type.

He told us in confidence that he never felt festive and gay that something didn't happen. He was not in the building that evening when the paper went to press, but after it was printed, and the carriers had left the office he came in singing: "She's My Sweetheart, I'm Her Beau," and sat down to read the paper.

Suddenly the smile on his face withered as with frost and he handed the paper across the table to the book-keeper, who read this item:
Died—Mrs. Lillian Gilsey.

Prepare for the hot weather, my good woman. There is only one way now; get a gasoline stove of Hurley & Co. and you need not fear any future heat.

And it wasn't Jimmy's fault. The foreman had merely misplaced a head line, but that explanation did not satisfy the bereaved family.

Jimmy was beginning to acquire a reputation as a joker. People refused to believe that such things just happened. They did not happen before Mr. James Myers came to the paper—why should they begin with his coming and continue during his engagement? Thus reasoned the comforters of the Gileys, and those interested in our downfall.

The next day the "Statesman" wrote a burning editorial denouncing us "for an utter lack of all sense of common decency" that permitted us "to violate the sacred feeling known to the human heart for the sake of getting a ribald laugh from the unthinking." We were two weeks explaining that the error was not the boy's fault.

The summer wore away and the dog days came. The Democratic state campaign was about to open in our town, and orators and statesmen assembled from all over the Missouri valley. There was a lack of flags at the dry goods stores. The Fourth of July celebration had taken all the stock. The only materials available were some red bunting, some white bunting, and some blue bunting with stars upon it. With this bunting the committee on reception covered the speakers' stand, wrapping the canopy under which the orators stood in the sold colors and the star-spangled blue. It was beautiful to see, and the pride of the window-dresser of the Golden Eagle Clothing store. But the old soldiers who walked by nudged one another and smiled.

About noon of the day of the speaking the city clerk, who wore the little bronze button of the G. A. R., asked Jimmy if he didn't want someone to take care of the Democratic meeting. Jimmy, who hated politics, was running his legs off to get the names of the visitors, and was glad to have the help. He turned in the contributed copy without reading it, as he had done with the city clerk's articles many times before, and this is what greeted his horrified eyes when he read the paper:

"Under the Stars and Bars" Democracy Opens Its State Campaign Under the Rebel Emblem Today. A Fitting Token.

Treasonable Utterances Have a Proper Setting.

And then followed half a column of most violent abuse of the Democrats who had charge of the affair. Jimmy did not appear on the street that night, but the next morning, when he came down, the office was crowded with indignant Democrats "stopping the paper."

Jimmy had a peculiar knack of getting up little stories of the town—not exactly news stories, but little odd bits that made people smile without rancor when they saw their names in the quaintly turned items. One day he wrote up a story of a little boy whose please—bought extra copies for their scrapbooks. We were proud of Jimmy, and assigned him to write up the funeral. That was to be a "day of triumph in Capua." There being no relatives to interfere, the lodges of the town—and the governor was known as a "Jiner"—had vied with one another to make the funeral the greatest rooster-feather show ever given in the state. The whole town turned out, and the foreman of our office, and everyone in the back room who could be spared, made the governor's funeral. We put a tramp printer on to make up the paper, and told Jimmy to call by the undertaker's for a paid local which the undertaker had written for the paper that day.

Jimmy's face was beaming as he snuggled up to his desk at three o'clock that afternoon. He said he had a great story. Trusting the foreman to read the proof, Jimmy rushed out to get from a United States senator who was attending the funeral an interview on the sugar scandal, for the Kansas City Star.

The rest of us did not get back from the cemetery until the carriers had left the office, and this is what we found:

"The solemn woe of the organ had scarcely died away, like a quivering sob upon the fragrant air, when the mournful procession of citizens began filing past the flower-laden bier to view the calm face of their beloved friend and honored townsman. In the grief-stricken hush that followed might be heard the stifled grief of some old comrade as he paused for the last time before the coffin.

"At this particular time we desire to call the attention of our readers to the admirable work done by our bustling young undertaker, J. B. Morgan. He has been in the city but a short time, yet by his efficient work and careful attention to duty, he has built up an enviable reputation and an excellent custom among the best families of the city. All work done with neatness and dispatch. We strive to please.

"When the last sad mourner had fled out, the pall-bearers took up their sorrowful task, and slowly, as the band played the 'Dead March in Saul,' the great throng assembled in the street viewed the mortal remains mother asked him where he got a dollar that he was flourishing on a visit in Kansas City. The little-boy's answer was that his father gave it to him for calling him uncle when his ladies were around. It was merely spun, and knowing that it would not make John Luck, the boy's father, mad, we printed it, and Jimmy put at the head of it a foolish little verse of Kipling's. Miss Larrabee, at the bottom of her society column, announced the engagement of two prominent young people in town. The Saturday paper was unusually readable. But when Jimmy came in after the paper was out he found Miss Larrabee in tears, and the foreman leaning over the counter laughing so that he couldn't speak. It wasn't Jimmy's fault. The foreman had done it—by the mere transposition of a little brass rule separating the society news from Jimmy's story with the Kipling verse at the head of it. The rule tacked the Kipling verse onto Miss Larrabee's article announcing the engagement. Here is the way it read:

"This marriage, which will take place at St. Andrew's church, will unite two of the most popular people in town and two of the best-known families in the state.

"And this is the sorrowful story
Told as the twilight falls,
While the monkeys are walking together,
Holding each other's tails!"

Now, Jimmy was no more to blame than Miss Larrabee, and many people thought, and think to this day, that Miss Larrabee did it—and did it on purpose. But for all that it cost clouds over the moon of Jimmy's countenance, and it was nearly a year before he regained his merry heart.

But as the months rolled by he became calm, and when Governor Antrobus died, Jimmy got up a remarkably good story of his life and achievements, and though there was no family left of the dear old man to buy extra copies, all the old settlers—who are the hardest people in the world to of Governor Antrobus start on their last journey."

Of course it wasn't Jimmy's fault. The "rising young" undertaker had paid the tramp printer, who made up the forms, five dollars to work his paid local into the funeral notice. But after that—Jimmy had to go. Public sentiment would no longer stand him as a reporter on the paper; and we gave him a good letter and sent him onward and upward. He took his dismissal decently enough. He realized that his luck was against him; he knew that we had borne with him in all patience.

The day that he left he was instructing the new man in the ways of the town. Rev. Frank Milligan came in with a church notice. Jimmy took the notice and began marking it for the printer. As the door behind him opened and closed, Jimmy, with his head still in his work, called across the room to the new man: "That was old Milligan that just went out—beware of him. He will load you up with truck about himself. He rings in sermons; trots around with church social notices that ought to be paid for, and tries to get them in free; likes to be referred to as doctor; slips in mean items about his congregation, if you don't watch him; and insists on talking religion Saturday morning when you are too-busy to split. More than that, he has an awful breath—cut him out; he will make life a burden if you don't—and if you do he will go to the old man with it, and say you are not treating him right."

"There was a rattling and a scratching on the wire partition between Jimmy and the door. Jimmy looked up from his work and saw the brightly little figure of Parson Milligan coming over the railing like a monkey. He had not gone out of the door—a printer had come in when it opened and shut. And then Jimmy took his last flying trip out of the back door of the office, down the alley, "toward the sunset's purple rim." It was not his fault. He was only telling the truth where it would do the most good.

LESSON FOR NOVEMBER 12

JESUS THE GREAT TEACHER

LESSON TEXT—Luke 6:20-49.
GOLDEN TEXT—As ye would that men should do to you, do ye also to them likewise.—Luke 6:31.

REFERENCE MATERIAL—Matt. 5:1-13; John 3:2; 6:8; 7:46; Col. 2:3.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Teaching Us to Love Everybody.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Living by the Golden Rule.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Golden Rule in Everyday Life. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Jesus Teaching Us How to Live Together.

I. Characteristics of the Subjects of the Kingdom (vv. 20-26).

Only those who are subjects of the Kingdom know what blessedness is. The spiritual experience of the subjects of the Kingdom are marked by the following things:

1. Poverty of Spirit (v. 20). This means consciousness of one's lost condition and worthlessness. It is spiritual bankruptcy. It means to come to the end of self and to show sorrow for sin.

2. Hunger for Righteousness (v. 21). The one who has come to know his poverty desires the true righteousness of Christ.

3. Weeping Because of His Lack (v. 21). This is the godly sorrow which worketh repentance (II Cor. 7:10). Those who thus sorrow are assured that they shall laugh.

4. Treatment Which the Subjects of the Kingdom May Expect (vv. 22, 23). When the subjects of the Kingdom become like the King they incite the hatred, contempt and persecution of the world. Those who pass through this for Christ's sake should rejoice, for there is great reward laid up for them.

II. The Governing Principles of the Kingdom (vv. 27-38).

1. Love Your Enemies (v. 27). To love friends is easy, but to love enemies is only possible to those who have been made partakers of the divine nature.

2. Do Good to Those Who Hate You (v. 27). Love acts according to its own nature. Enmity only stimulates love to act in harmony with its own laws.

3. Bless Them That Curse You (v. 28). Injury by words is hard to let go—unchallenged.

4. Repay for Them Which Despitefully Use You (v. 28). Christ's own example is the best commentary on this precept (Luke 23:24; cf. Acts 7:60).

5. Patiently Endure Wrong and Injury (v. 29). The Christian is not to bristle up in defense of his rights, but rather to suffer insult, injury and even loss. This should not be pressed so far that evildoers can go unchecked. It expresses the law which should govern individual action.

6. Give to Every One That Asketh (v. 30). This does not necessarily mean that the thing asked for should be given. We should give to every one that asketh, but not necessarily the thing asked for.

7. Do as You Wish to Be Done By (v. 31). This is called the "Golden Rule." If men were to live by this rule the labor problem would be solved. An end would be put to war. International relations would be peacefully adjusted and all profiteering in business would end.

8. Be Merciful (v. 36). The mercy of the Heavenly Father is the grand example.

9. Censorious Judgment Condemned (v. 37). We should not seek out the evil in others for our satisfaction.

10. Danger of Following False Teachers (v. 39). The one who does not know God and the way to heaven will lead others to ruin. Happily, we have the Scriptures, and the Holy Spirit is ready to make their meaning known, so there is no excuse.

11. Those Who Reprove Others Should Strive to Live Blameless Lives (vv. 31-46). It is easy to see others' faults, but hard to see our own.

12. The Sin of Profession Without Fruits (v. 46). The one who professes a life and fellowship with God should practice the principles which reveal the nature of God.

13. The Judgment to Be Applied to the Subjects of the Kingdom (vv. 47-49).

1. The one who hears and does the sayings of Christ the King shall be as secure as the house built upon the solid rock. The storms of the judgment cannot destroy him, for the Rock of Ages is immovable.

2. The one who hears and does not the sayings of Christ shall be overwhelmed in the judgment and go down to utter ruin and destruction.

Are You Short and Slender?

THIS is one of the most charming types in the world. But because she is such a miniature edition, the short, slender woman has to be oh! so careful of her lines. An extra inch in the wrong place destroys the whole illusion. Gossard Corsets mould this type into the alluring proportions of the perfect figurine.

Understanding your type is one of the most important aids to beauty you will ever find. Remember that whatever your figure may be there are Gossard Corsets with just the support you need at your age and weight to give you the proper proportions of the type to which you belong. Gossards are moderately priced, launder beautifully, will outwear two or even three ordinary corsets and will give you a comfort such as you never knew before. Gossard trade marked Corsets as low in price as $2.00

ADENOIDS: WHAT THEY ARE AND HOW TREATED

When a child has adenoids his voice becomes altered; the speech stuffy from lack of resonance. The nose being diseased and especially subject to congestion from colds, loses to a large extent its sense of smell, and with it the sense of taste. Appetite depends upon the senses of taste and smell, so adenoids interfere with the appetite and with the desire for food. This interferes with the general growth and strength of the body.

Adenoids produce a peculiar facial expression. When the mouth is used as a breathing tube, the roof slowly bulges upward in order to make a larger passage. This causes the arch to the teeth to bend and become more pointed, with overlapping of the teeth and a shortening of the upper lip. The nose, on the other hand, remains undeveloped, small and narrow. After the disease has become established these effects give what is known as the "adenoid expression."

A child with adenoids has disturbed sleep because the adenoids interfere with his breathing. The hearing is often interfered with, causing various degrees of deafness, because the adenoids growth closes the passage leading from the throat to the middle ear. Deafness in a child should always suggest a throat examination. In addition to the deafness, a child with adenoids often develops earaches or abscess of the ear on account of the ears becoming infected through the obstructed ear passages.

The treatment for adenoids is relatively simple and the danger is very slight. In other words, the treatment, as compared with the danger of leaving the adenoids alone, is a small danger compared with a great danger. When adenoids are large enough to be recognized they are doing harm. If the child is under 8 or 9 years of age, the harm will almost certainly increase and, perhaps, the injury will become permanent.

Whenever adenoids are suspected the only safe thing to do is to take the child to a nose or throat specialist or to some physician who is known to treat adenoids.—The Progressive Farmer.

COW GIVES BIRTH TO THREE GOOD CALVES

Jeff Riddle, living three miles east of Winters has a cow that has proven in her seven years of life that she is willing to do her best to keep the home dairy herd stocked.

At three times heretofore she has given birth to twin calves, all of them living and doing well and last week she outdistanced her former record by bringing three well developed, healthy calves.

If anyone knows of a cow that can beat this record the Enterprise will be glad to know about her.—Winters Enterprise.

The above reminds us of a story we heard a lawyer in Eastland county tell, in relating incidents of pioneer days in this country. As we remember, this was a circumstance where an old time freighter drove an ox wagon and hauled freight from Waco to this country, making about one trip a month, and in the winter when feed was scarce and the weather too severe for the old man to drive, he struck camp for the winter and turned his four head of oxen out to rustle for themselves until spring, and often when he went out in the spring to herd in his oxen to start his freighting for the summer he would have as many as twenty head. This cow stuff has always been plentiful in Texas.

THE LOCAL PAPER

Speaking of what a newspaper does in a community the late United States Senator Davis, of Illinois, made an address in which he said:

"Every year each local paper gives from $200 to $1000 in free lines to the city or town in which it is located in boosting, praising, and for lodges, churches, schools, societies, etc. The editor in proportion to his means does more for the town than any other man in it, and he ought to be supported because a local paper is one of the town's best features. Today the local papers are doing more for less pay than anything on earth and it's a fact in many cases of free notices."—Exchange.

Texas Will Be Combined By U. S. Income Tax Men

Washington, Nov. 1.—Income tax squads will sweep through Texas in a nation-wide round-up of income tax slackers. The drive is to be made by the income tax division of the treasury department, which believes that many small business men have failed to make returns.

While Texas and other southwestern states will not be overlooked, New York state will be the chief point of attack.

Treasury officials expect the added returns to the government will come to $700,000,000. This would be enough to cover the anticipated treasury deficit rendering increased taxation unnecessary.

Information already in the hands of the government, lead officials to believe that there are more than one million persons in the United States who should be paying income taxes but who have made no returns, have not reported anything. Of the million delinquents, it is believed there are at least 50,000 in New York City.

BODY OF FIFTH HUSBAND FOUND SEARCH FOR POISON

Chicago, Nov. 3.—Authorities announced today that they have found the dead body of a man they believe to be that of the husband of Mrs. Lillie Klimex. If such be the case, this is the fifth husband she has gotten rid of. Four others have gone the poison route within the past few months.

The government will find it utterly impossible to make our American ships dry. The bottom will always be wet.

FOREIGN DEBTS ARE PUZZLE TO HARDING

Washington, Oct. 31.—President Harding is willing to award a prize for any practical concrete suggestion for the collection of the foreign indebtedness to the United States.

It was said today at the White House that suggestions by numerous individuals that the debt should be collected were regarded by the President as interesting, but at the same time he found an unanimous disinclination to make concrete proposals as to how the collection is to be accomplished.

The President, it was said, holds to the view that the liquidation of the foreign war indebtedness is a matter of negotiation and adjustment to existing circumstances. The government was said to be still wholly averse to the opinion advanced by several foreign spokesmen that the solution of the debt problem lies in cancellation. At the same time Mr. Harding was reported as feeling that he could suggest no way at present to enforce collection except by going to war, which he had no intention of doing.

The foreign debt question facing the country was likened by an administration spokesman to the situation confronting a banker who holds a number of claims which he cannot at the moment collect. The banker, it was suggested, would not seek to injure his prospects of payment by harsh insistence for immediate payment, but would seek the means for placing his debtors in a position to meet their obligations.

GLORY AND HONOUR AND POWER

November 12. HUMILITY:—The sacrifices of God are a broken spirit: a broken and a contrite heart, O God, thou wilt not despise.—Psalms 51:17.

November 13. HEAVENLY TREASURES:—Lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt and steal.—Matthew 6:20.

November 14. POWER AND MAJESTY:—Bless the Lord, O my soul. O Lord my God, thou art very great; thou art clothed with honour and majesty.

November 15. TAKE NO THOUGHT:—Take no thought, saying, What shall we eat? or, What shall we drink, or, Wherewithal shall we be clothed? For your Heavenly Father knoweth that ye have need of all these things.—Matthew 6:31, 32.

November 16. WISDOM AND UNDERSTANDING:—Whence then cometh wisdom? and where is the place of understanding? Behold, the fear of the Lord, that is wisdom; and to depart from evil is understanding.—Job 28:20, 28.

November 17. SONS OF GOD:—For as many as are led by the spirit of God, they are the sons of God.—Romans 8:14.

DEVVOE

PAINT AND VARNISH PRODUCTS

The "Magic Coat" That Brings Wealth and Beauty To Your Home

At its touch unsuspected charm is revealed; dinginess vanishes; useless things become valuable; old things become new.

A "magic coat" is this coat of paint or varnish. Think of it! Every article or surface finished with paint or varnish immediately makes the home more beautiful; increases the pride we have in it; the pleasure we get from it.

Every quart used increases the value of the surface or article, ten, twenty or thirty dollars—and the better the paint the greater the return. Therefore, when you buy paint and varnish products buy only the best.

Devvoe products are time-tested and proven, backed by the 168 years' experience of the oldest paint manufacturing concern in the U. S. Founded 1754.

EARLY DAYS IN SANTA ANNA
(By L. V. Stockard)

The recollection I have of the men in this end of Coleman County who settled here prior to the coming of the railroad are as follows, and I think these names will include at least 75 per cent of the citizenship of this end of Coleman county at this time: E. W. Oliver, L. D. Boyd, D. A. Jackson, L. O. Rendleman, T. C. Leedy, T. J. Lancaster, R. D. Kirkpatrick, A. R. Kirkpatrick, George Kirkpatrick, Ben Allison, W. S. Baxter, Frank Jordan, O. F. McGonial, H. Volentine, Luns Woodward, M. C. Ashley, John Stewardson, Capt. Harper, and his sons, Will and Sam Harper, G. W. Mahoney, M. L. McFarland, Sam Gilliland, Tom Johnson, H. W. Kingsbery, W. B. Dunson, Bill Feathersen, Tom Jenkins, W. F. Guthrie, J. L. Vaughn, L. L. Shield, C. C. Burk, Ben Brown, Billie Woods, C. F. Shield, Capt. Will Hubert, J. W. Henderson, H. S. Pearson, R. F. Campbell, A. E. Campbell, W. W. Brannan, Jim Brannan, Jap Brannan, George Williams, W. C. Williams, Will Currie, Webb Currie, C. F. Wilson, Bob Story, W. W. Hunter, Sell Lowe, Bob Lowe, Pink and Baily Barton, E. B. Fowler, Turk Barton, Will Turner, Uncle Pete Turner, C. M. Grady, Calvin Holmes, Alex Milligan.

These people lived in the country and those living in the old town of Santa Anna were Capt. L. M. Craven, J. F. Wofford, Miles Wofford, J. W. Parker, W. J. Crosby, John Moffitt, Lewis Taylor, W. C. Brooks, Dr. J. P. Mathews, W. G. D. Kilgore, W. C. Walker and H. C. McGlathery. L. L. Shield was in business at Trickham and had been for several years and handled as much freight through the Santa Anna station as the town of Santa Anna. Henry Sackett was in the Camp Colorado country and was in business there. Some of these men came to this country 25 years before there was any railroad here and did their freighting from Fort Worth and Round Rock, and some of these men hunted Indians and buffalos over the prairies of this country and they drove cattle over the trail to Wyoming and Colorado before there were any shipping facilities and before barbed wire fences were known. They have heard the Coyotes howl and the Hoot Owls hoot. They have stood herd at night when the thunder roared and the lightning flashed and have seen the electricity dance upon the horns of the cattle at night while trying to keep them from stampeding. Some of these people could tell stories about the west that would be interesting matter to read. If you have never seen a stampeded herd of cattle you have missed something that is hard to describe, and if you have never been around a real Cow Camp where the cook was barbecuing a fat calf and cooking bread in a large oven with the fire on the lid and under the bottom with a big coffeepot boiling good coffee you have also missed something worth while. Then if you have never seen a bunch of cow punchers eat after riding from morning until night, you do not know very much about the real western style back in the early days of Western Texas experienced by some of the men named above.

The first photographer to come to Santa Anna was a young man whose name I have forgotten but I still remember a joke Will Ashley and Relbue McGonagill played upon him. These two boys were typical cow boys and knew how to handle wild cattle and were good with the lariatt. They asked this young photographer to go out with them and take some wild west pictures. They told him they wanted to have some taken showing them as the performers roping wild cattle and he consented to go. So one day they rounded up a bunch of cattle and among the lot they had a very wild steer. The photograph machine was one of those that stood upon a tripod and they used a cloth to shade the camera. After getting out on the prairie some where about the west end of the mountain they roped the wild steer and had the photographer to get his machine properly set from fifty feet away from the lassoed steer and about the time the photograph man was ready to take the picture the wild steer broke loose from the cow boys and made a dive for the machine. The young photographer broke and run to a mesquite and the steer knocked the instrument winding but the photographer made his escape. Of course these two boys were very sorry that the steer got loose and broke up the picture for they claimed it was purely accidental. It may be of interest to some people to know who were the professional men or all the professional men who have lived in Santa Anna. I mentioned the first lawyer some time back, his name was R. M. Buck; then came E. H. Wilkes, afterwards W. E. Smith, E. M. Critz, W. H. Garrett. The first doctor to locate here was Dr. J. P. Mathews and Dr. J. E. Cannon and Dr. Mayers. Then came Dr. Stanley. By the way Dr. Stanley was in this country before there was any railroad or much prospects of a railroad here, but did not move here for several years after he had purchased 320 acres of land situated where Dr. Hays now lives and where Dr. Mathews now lives. Dr. T. M. Hays came shortly after Dr. Stanley. Then Drs. Miller, Session, Long, Sealy, Ramsdal, Strozler, Lovelady, Holland, Tyson and Garrett.

DEAD REMEMBERED—LIVING FORGOTTEN
E. E. RISIEN

(In San Saba News)

Scarcely a day passes but what I see proof of these words. I never was in favor of shipping back any of the dead from the battle fields of France. President Roosevelt, who lost his son over there, gave the best reasons why he didn't want him moved, but it did not do any good. I myself helped to remove the remains of one buried in the cemetery on the hill by the Llano road to the present cemetery in the valley. That job settled my mind for all time to come that it was the poorest thing any one could do. Nothing whatever is accomplished; only satisfying a fickle mind. Men who have been mixed up in that greswome work over there have told me that the workers (mostly negroes) get careless about identifying the bodies; in fact there has been some shipped back here confronted with the living who prove it wasn't them at all. And now that the excitement and glamour of men in uniform is gone, the hysteria of the women exhausted who wanted to kill worse than the men. We now see some poor fellows who got injured; some ruined for life, getting the promised help but in words only.

Last week a bright young man, wearing a war medal but crippled for life, wanted to sell me a fountain pen. When I put some questions to him to answer, it developed that he hadn't had anything to eat all day, then 3 o'clock. (Too proud to beg, too honest to steal). I took him into a restaurant and told them to fill him up. I could mention other similar cases, including two full blooded Indians that got gassed, now objects of charity. Our government has spent millions on the dead—the living forgotten. I have in mind a good family in San Saba who did just about the same way. When one of the children died, the grief overcame the judgment of the Mother who sold the only milk cow they had to buy a tombstone, leaving seven children to drink water. The dead remembered, the living forgotten.

PROHIBITION'S EFFECTS

They are still complaining that "prohibition doesn't prohibit," but every time a survey is made to determine whether the effects of prohibition are beneficial it is found that it is getting very desirable results. The results of such a survey made by officials of Massachusetts are set forth as follows by the Houston Chronicle:

For comparison the seven wet years, 1912-1918, both inclusive, and the dry years of 1920 and 1921 were used. The comparison of crime and poverty show the following results. All the figures represent decrease as follows:

Drunkenness, 55 per cent; of drunken women, 69 per cent; men in jail, 52 per cent; women in jail, 60 per cent; offenses against public order, 27 per cent; offenses against property, 2 per cent; against persons, 19 per cent; women offenders, 39 per cent; neglected children, 22 per cent; non-support, 31 per cent.

The Boston Welfare Society (formerly Associated Charities) reports in 1917-18-19 it cared for 686 cases or 19.2 per cent, while in 1920-21-22 the number was reduced to 106, or 3 per cent of the population under its ministrations.

The South End Mission superintendent says liquor can be obtained, but family life continues on an infinitely sounder basis. While the new regime is not all that is desired, it is heaven on earth compared with what conditions used to be.

It has been said that almost anything can be proven by statistics, if properly juggled, but there is no need for juggling statistics as to prohibition. The whole purpose of prohibition was to reduce crime and misery and promote peace and happiness; and while the enforcement of the law is not perfect, it is accomplishing what it is intended to do. Meanwhile there is growing up a generation which will know nothing about and care nothing for liquor; and eventually the old sots who are now violating the liquor law will either reform or succumb to the steady poisoning of their systems. Some day the enforcement of the law will become therefore, a very easy matter and the ultimate purpose of the prohibitionists will be realized. The situation is already a great deal better than it was at the beginning of nation-wide prohibition.—Brownwood Bulletin.

PRESIDENT CALLS ON NATION TO GIVE
PRAYER OF THANKS

Washington, Nov. 3.—President Harding in his annual Thanksgiving proclamation issued today calls upon the American people to observe Thursday, November 30, as a "day of thanksgiving, supplication and devotion." He declared that the state of the nation "presents very much to justify the nationwide and most sincere testimony of the gratitude of the people for the bounty which has been bestowed upon us."

HEED THE SIGNAL

A danger signal has been hoisted which should be heeded by every law abiding person if we as a nation are not to come to grief.

That signal is the prevalence of crime and graft and contempt for law that is becoming daily more pronounced in all sections of the country.

Newspapers are filled with reports of this abyss of depravity into which we are falling, but their words seem to fall upon deaf ears. Little is ever done about them.

True, while the subjects are fresh in the minds of the people, through widespread publicity, official investigations are profusely promised, but sometimes abandoned. Pigeon holes are safe places for them until the storm blows over.

But why are so many of our law enforcement officers the country over so derelict in their sworn duty?

Why are there so many "investigations" started and so few cases actually brought to trial?

The answer is simple.

Because the law abiding element of our population storms for a few days and then forgets, while the lawbreaker sits tight until the storm subsides and then goes right ahead with his criminal practices, knowing full well that there is little likelihood of any one beng on his trial.

And because, again, we as citizens are derelict in our own duty. When those of us who vote leave the polls we seem to consider that we have properly and fully performed our duty.

And still again, the average reputable citizen shirks jury duty as we would avoid a pest, while the underworld is always ready to fill the juries with their own disreputable class.

While we are thus asleep the criminal element is wide awake and extending its destroying tentacles into every walk and activity of life, undermining everything that works for law and order and good government, and gradually attaining a power of numerical supremacy that is appalling to contemplate.

The danger signal is out. Will it be heeded? Or will respectability surrender its control of affairs to perfidy, rascality and debauchery?

When you hear a scandal let it go in one ear and out the other without stopping.

People who are continually looking for soft berths invariably find them—in the possessions of others.

Perhaps the straight and narrow path is hard to find because it is overgrown with weeds

If the Lord loves a cheerful giver the editor should be pardoned for dotting upon a cheerful payer.

Nobody wants to hear of your troubles. They would rather tell you their own.

Only brilliant people can afford to look bored.

We have several names on our mailing list who were enrolled as community correspondents who have quit reporting the happenings of their community and after this month they will all be dropped from the list who are not active reporters.

W. E. Vandeford takes advantage of our special clubbing offer and subscribes for our four magazines offered for 55 cents in renewing his subscription to the News.

Z. A. Parker has our thanks for calling in this week and paying for the News to go one year to his son-in-law, L. E. Abernathy, at Karnes City, Texas, where he was recently appointed Livestock Inspector for Karnes county. Mrs. Abernathy will leave this week to join her husband in their future home.

FOR SALE OR TRADE—Good farm, 90 acres in cultivation; 70 in pasture; four-room house; good well, situated on pike road 12 miles south of Valera. Will sell on terms to suit purchaser or trade for town property. For further information see Miss Ollie Pearce. 1tp.

Announcement was made this week of the marriage of Homer May and Miss Florence Burrow, the event taking place on Oct. 28th, in Brady. Homer is the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. F. N. May of this city, his friends are many. Miss Florence made her home with her brother, is a splendid young lady and has many good friends in this community. Their friends will join the News in extending good wishes.

Life is short, but many people manage to let it drag along.

The editor received a card from Dr. Sealy this week, mailed in New York City, in which he states that he is reading the Times instead of the News, what time he is not engaged in his work. He indicates that he is having a good time but will be glad to get back to Santa Anna.

Pastor Leon Williams this week finished his first year's work as pastor of the Christian church here and begins his second year's work next Sunday. Pastor Williams served the church here with three-fourths time the past year, giving one-fourth time to the church at Miles. He begins next Sunday with full time as pastor of the church here.

HAVE YOU A BANK ACCOUNT

If you have, it indicates that you believe in taking care of your money. That, again indicates that success in life awaits you.

Money in your pocket is gone before you know it. When in this bank it is here AND YOU KNOW IT.

It's a comfortable feeling at any time.
