

O'DANIEL PROPOSES 1.6 PCT. TRANSACTION TAX

Three Texans Are Named To Potent House Committees

Mahon Wins Place On Appropriations Group

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 (AP)—Of utmost importance to Texas today was the selection by house democrats of three additional representatives of the Lone Star state for membership on major committees.

Those chosen were Representatives Charles South of Coleman, George H. Mahon of Colorado, (Texas), and Paul Kilday of San Antonio. They will serve on the interstate and foreign commerce, appropriations and military affairs committees, respectively.

(Named in a caucus of democratic members, their final appointment depends on favorable vote of the entire house, which is taken for granted.) Last week Representative West of Brownsville was elected to the house ways and means committee, which made recommendations to the caucus of all other committee assignments. Texas members already had chairmanship of four important committees, and assignments on several others.

The selection of Representative Poage of Waco for the flood control committee was hailed by Texans. Although not an exclu-

One committee—one considered so important that members must serve on it exclusively—the flood control body considers legislation of vital interest to Texas.

Kilday was chosen from among several candidates to fill the only democratic vacancy on the military affairs committee. His district, comprising one of the strongest military centers in the United States, includes such army posts as Fort Sam Houston, Randolph, Kelly and Brooks airfields.

Would Abolish Ad Valorem Levies

Governor Gives His Views On Altering State Financing

AUSTIN, Jan. 18 (AP)—Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel recommended to the legislature today the levying of a 1.6 per cent transaction tax to pay old age pensions.

He said, however, "the legislature in its wisdom may discover a better method of raising this revenue. If a better method can be found, I am perfectly willing to accept it."

Simultaneously with his recommendation for a new tax, O'Daniel said he favored writing into the constitution of this state "a provision abolishing all ad valorem taxes."

He suggested both propositions be considered in a single constitutional amendment. Sixty per cent of the money collected in the form of taxes to carry on state and local government in Texas comes from ad valorem taxes, he asserted, "and I think the amount is tremendously excessive."

A few words later, however, he said "x x x therefore, it is my opinion that ad valorem taxes should be reduced."

Later he made it fairly clear he was suggesting the actual abolition of the ad valorem taxes. He proposed the abandonment of the levies be made effective Jan. 1, 1941, and that the revenue derived from the current tax on cigarettes be transferred to the available school fund as of Jan. 1, 1940.

"This will mean," he said, "that in 1940 and 1941 the schools will receive the ad valorem tax which they are now receiving and, in addition, both years they will receive all of the cigarette tax, which will mean a net increase to the school revenue during these two years of the amount of revenue diverted from the cigarette tax, which will be approximately $9,000,000."

The new governor said the pension bill he was recommending "will guarantee an income of $30 per month to every old person who meets the requirements of the pension law as to age, residence, etc."

He was careful to point out the bill would raise the income of every aged person by at least $30 a month, not to provide a flat $30 monthly.

"For instance, under this bill a person 65 years of age, otherwise qualified, who has no income, would receive $15 from the state and $15 from the federal government; if he had an income of $10, he would receive $10 from the state and $10 from the federal government, leveling the income at $30; if he had an income of $15, he would receive $7.50 from the state and $7.50 from the federal government, again leveling his income at $30."

O'Daniel said he was opposed to a retail sales tax; to a tax on oil, to a gross income tax of one and one-half per cent as a means of raising the pension revenue.

"It is my deliberate judgment that the transaction tax is the best means of raising the money," he said.

The plan would divert, the governor said, the $5,000,000 of the state's oil tax to the treasury and the $10,000,000 of the state's income tax to the treasury, to be used for the state's general fund.

OUTDOOR INAUGURAL SCENE AT TEXAS U. STADIUM

An estimated 50,000 citizens assembled in the University of Texas stadium yesterday for the first outdoor gubernatorial inauguration in Texas. Beneath brilliant sunshine, the incoming governor's party, ex-governors, and distinguished guests gathered on the platform (right center) for the ceremony of induction and from which point W. Lee O'Daniel delivered his inaugural address.

Writer Ousted From Mexico Tells Story

Correspondent Says He Knew Too Much About Oil Deal

BROWNSVILLE, Jan. 18 (AP)—Frank L. Kluckhohn, New York Times correspondent who was expelled from Mexico, said today the United States embassy at Mexico City had made photostatic copies of credentials showing he entered the southern republic properly.

The government press bureau at Mexico City stated last night Kluckhohn entered the country "in violation of an order of immigration authorities" and charged Kluckhohn "maliciously interpreted" Mexico's policies. The newspaper, who came here by plane, said he would remain for several days.

"Over a period of two full years in the Mexican republic I have sent hundreds of news stories. The Mexican government during that period has not denied the facts in these stories. I think that speaks for itself," Kluckhohn said.

"As for the one specific charge I entered the country in violation of an order of the immigration authorities, I can only say I entered on a passenger train and presented my credentials which were duly stamped by the proper authorities. I paid duty on some articles, giving my full name, and obtained a receipt. I was not informed of any order against my entering, such as the Mexican government claims to have made."

"A legally-witnessed photostatic copy of my Mexican credentials, showing proper entry, was made by the American embassy in Mexico City yesterday. It is in the embassy's possession together with

Paxton To Head Scout Council Ninth Time

Colorado Man Is Given High Honor At Session Here

Scout leaders of the 15-county Buffalo Trail council area Tuesday elected Charles Paxton, Sweetwater, to serve a ninth term as president of the organization, reduced their budget for 1939 and accorded W. W. Porter, Colorado, the council's highest honor—the Silver Beaver.

Dr. Thomas H. Taylor, Brownwood, president of Howard Payne college, termed the Boy Scout movement "the greatest boys organization in human history" as he addressed 157 scout leaders and their wives at a banquet session.

Bringing what he declared to be a "message of new hope," Dr. Taylor hit at criticism of boys and said that the juvenile crime wave was greatly exaggerated. He said that scouting was "the greatest work being done in our country" and added that "if we believe in our boys, then we are able to work for them."

More good is coming out of the 12th scout law—a scout is reverent—than out of the Texas centennial, he said, in laying an increase in disorder and drunkenness to the doorstep of the state's 100th birthday party. Dr. Taylor said that scouting was doing a commendable work in encouraging Sabbath observance, respect for law and order, by teaching by example and laying emphasis upon character.

Two Injured As ACC Band Bus Overturns

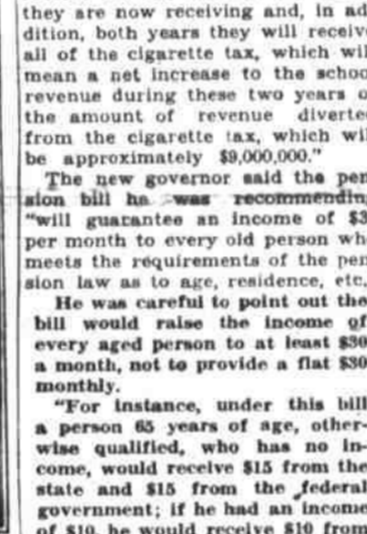

BROWNSWOOD, Jan. 18 (AP)—Two members of Abilene Christian college band, returning from the Austin inaugural, were injured, one painfully, when the band bus overturned early today near Zephyr, 18 miles southeast of here.

Two hours later, while the 28 band members huddled around a fire near the demolished bus, an automobile occupied by Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Noble of Eastland county, crashed into the wreckage. Mrs. Noble was taken to a Brownwood hospital with a serious head injury.

Cites Possible Revenue Hike

300 Million Seen In Removal Of Tax Exemptions

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 (AP)—John W. Hanes, under secretary of the treasury said today the treasury might realize $300,000,000 annually by adoption of President Roosevelt's proposal to remove tax exemptions from future state and local salaries and bond interest.

Hanes, first witness before the special senate committee studying the proposal, said removal of exemptions would help prevent wealthy persons from avoiding taxes and would stimulate investment in private industry.

In a statement prepared for reading to the committee, Hanes, himself a former Wall street broker, said: "Industry finds it difficult to compete with tax-exempt securities in attracting the capital of individuals in the higher income brackets. x x x"

CHANGES RUMORED IN NAZI OFFICIALDOM

Goering Would Gain Power

Reported Shakeup Also Would Affect Goebbels

BERLIN, Jan. 18 (AP)—Rumors of far-reaching changes in the Nazi administration involving such men as Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels and others were current in Berlin today.

They coincided with the return to his desk in the propaganda ministry of Goebbels after nearly a month's illness. Official sources declined to confirm or deny them.

According to these reports, circulated by men usually in a position to know, Goering will shortly become vice-chancellor and minister of war. Both posts have been vacant for some time—the vice-chancellorship since Franz von Papen, its last holder, was made special ambassador to Austria after the assassination of Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss in 1934, and the war ministry since the resignation of Field Marshal Werner von Blomberg in February, 1938.

Goering now is chief of the four-year economic self-sufficiency plan and air minister, in addition to holding numerous lesser posts. The additional appointments would make him more conspicuously than ever Germany's No. 2 man.

Goebbels, according to the reported new setup would be placed

Those 'Worn-On-Approval' Dresses Cost Stores 32 Million Per Year

NEW YORK, Jan. 18 (AP)—Then there's the case of the young lady who wore a brand-new gown at each session of her Thursday bridge club.

"Oh, I really don't have a large wardrobe," she told her admiring fellow-members, "I just take these out on approval from the shops and return them in a couple of days."

Some of the delegates to the National Retail Dry Goods association convention brought her into a discussion today.

One of them figured that she and her sisters cost the retailers of America at least $32,000,000 annually—dead loss.

Here is how it was figured: The stores each year sell about $750,000,000 of women's ready-to-wear clothing. Of these dresses, coats and suits, 15 per cent—$108,000,000—is returned to the stores from which they were purchased.

Other "returns" include 16 1/2 per cent of all negligees purchased and 14 per cent of all underwear.

Most of these garments, it was said, are later sold to other customers, but the loss involved is a bit on the staggering side. The return of a $25 gown, for example, costs a store approximately $4.

Barcelona To 'Fight Back'

Loyalist City Stirs To Meet Insurgent Threat

BARCELONA, Jan. 18 (AP)—The stiffening of government defenses which gripped the government capital when insurgent armies drove within 35 miles of Barcelona disappeared today. The greyish morning sunlight found the streets full of hurrying crowds and noisy truck traffic.

The few white-gloved, white helmeted traffic police who have survived the sweeping conscription decrees wore themselves out whistling and waving in the heavy flow of vehicles rushing through the streets with war supplies.

The traditional idle Spanish stroller vanished from the streets and pedestrians walked as if they were late for vital appointments. The loafers' haven, Ciutadella park, was deserted.

A few forlorn animals, still in their cages in the park, looked startled by stray passersby.

Nowhere was there a sign of fright or panic.

Any siege of Barcelona seemed farther removed as the government announced the southern defense lines had been stabilized after the retirement from Terragona.

In the north, the government said the rough terrain would make going hard for the insurgents. There was heavy fighting in that direction, from Pons to Seo da Urgel, with aviation being used plentifully.

Opera Star Thinks Western Young People Enjoy Concerts Better Than Those From Eastern States

Interviewing some opera stars is a chore but talking to Miss Alice Mock and her accompanist, Miss Shibley Boyes, is a pleasant experience. Miss Mock, who is to be presented in concert tonight at 8 o'clock at the high school auditorium, is enthusiastic and animal-like and explained that this was her first trip to Big Spring.

"And we have enjoyed it so much and the people have been so nice to us since we have been here," said the coloratura soprano, "that we know we will want to come again."

The talk ranged from world affairs to Texas and then to California, which is both the opera star's home and her accompanist's. Miss Mock told how she had noticed in her southwestern tour that young people seem to like music and concerts more than the young people farther east.

"You can sing in French, Italian, Spanish," she gave them light opera, classical music, it just doesn't seem to matter, they like everything we put on."

And as she went on to explain, anyone would enjoy giving a concert to an enthusiastic audience like that.

Conversation finally got around to hobbies and Miss Mock was anxious to buy some yarn for her knitting. She just "loves" to knit and is doing her best to teach Miss Boyes but the accompanist explained she wasn't a very apt pupil. Her hobby is gardening and camping but she doesn't have much time to enjoy these.

Miss Mock will go from here to San Antonio where she will sing and may be heard in broadcasts from Dallas on Jan. 29 and from Fort Worth on Feb. 3.

The program tonight will include a group of French songs which is Miss Mock's favorite foreign language. Having lived in France and studied in Paris for a total of eight years, she speaks fluent French. The program is as follows:

- Alleluiah...Mozart

The Sports Parade

By HANK HART

It is hoped that the playoff games for the first half championship of the Major City basketball league can be arranged to be played in the local gym within the near future. At the present time Garner, the Bankers and Coahoma are deadlocked for first place. Coahoma can become qualified to oppose either of the other two teams by defeating Planter's in Coahoma tonight. George Neel and Floyd Burnett managers of the Bankers and Garner aggregations, respectively, will get together later in the week to arrange for a meeting and, provided arrangements can be made for the gym, the tilt will go on here. The winner in turn will oppose Coahoma for the title, provided, of course, the Oilers can get by the Ginners.

Cage fans are seeing their best basketball in several years or since the balmy days of Mileway Baker's Dukes and all at no cost. Interest in the game has done an about face here and more and more fans are coming out for the games.

Wimpy McGuire becomes eligible for high school basketball next week and his addition will add steel district hopes tremendously. Where Coach John Daniel will use the youth is uncertain at the present time but he is almost sure to be used as a regular. He may go to center in place of C. B. South or beat out one of the guards. At any rate his presence will enhance local hopes.

Latest development in Abilene's hopes for a professional baseball team have taken a darker turn. The sportmen club of that city does not want to shove softball out of the picture there and promoters are afraid to back the competition which will be offered.

Texas players were given liberal consideration in Dr. B. E. Spencer's third annual All-Mid-South high school football team selected recently. He's a Sterlington, La., medic whose yearly nominees for an all-star team composed of performers of teams of Arkansas, Louisiana, Missouri, Tennessee and Texas have gained wide attention in Dixie.

Dr. Spencer names Walter Webster, the wild Lubbock captain, "probably the greatest back in high school circles this year," selects another Texan, Tom Pickett, Temple, in his first string secondary along with Bobby Eifers, the high-scoring 185-pounder of Kingsport High, Tenn., and T. J. Bankston, Istrouma, La.

For a wall Spencer would have Leo Ambort, Little Rock, and Pat Hall, Corpus Christi, at ends; Oliver Hawk, Kingsport, Tenn., and Paul Howell, McComb, Miss., at tackles; E. G. Goehner, North Little Rock, and Lee Smith, Meridian, Miss. guards; and Harold Koffman, Jackson, Tenn., center.

San Francisco Open Begins

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 18 (AP)—With a field of 195, including ambitious caddies and some of the nation's best professionals, the $5,000 San Francisco national match play open championship gets under way today.

The eighteen holes to be played today and the 18 tomorrow will make up the qualifying round. Some of the professional barnstormers after the big money are Horton Smith, Sammy Snead, Johnny Revolta, Dutch Harrison, Dick Metz—who won the $5,000 Oakland open just ended—Jimmy Thomson, Jimmy Hines, Harry Cooper, Lawson Little, Jimmy Demaret and Jug McSpaden.

Forsan Loses To Lamesans, 33 To 20

Buffs Tied Count In Third But Later Fade

FORSAN, Jan. 18.—A Forsan rally roared into high gear in the third period but faltered in the fourth and the visiting Lamesan basketball team made away with a 33-20 decision in a thrilling encounter here Tuesday evening.

Paced by Myers and Crawley, who between them accounted for a total of 25 points, the Tornados gained a 9-3 advantage at first quarter time and were out front, 14-8, at the half. After Aquilla Fleetwood had paced a third quarter rally that had knotted the count at 16-16, the Lamesas attack got to clicking and pulled away. The invaders were in front, 19-16, at the finish of the third period.

Hollis Parker's four field goals and two free tosses paced the Forsan futile assault.

Forsan will go to Lamesa Friday night to return the game.

Eddie Barrow Looks For NY To Win Again

New York President Says No Changes Contemplated

NEW YORK, Jan. 18 (AP)—Eddie Barrow, 71 years old and a powerful character in every way, is the new president and absolute dictator of the world champion New York Yankees.

As a fitting reward for nearly 20 years of service with the club as its secretary and business manager, Barrow was unanimously named to fill the vacancy created by the death last Friday of Col. Jacob Ruppert, whose wealth combined with Barrow's baseball wisdom to create the Yankee empire.

Though he left no explicit instructions in the matter, the colonel doubtless would be happy to know that the man he placed in charge of the Yankees at his death had passed on complete power to his old lieutenant. The colonel's brother, George Ruppert, declined the presidential post at the meeting of the estate's directors and assured the election of Barrow.

An active figure in baseball for more than 40 years and acknowledged to possess one of the shrewdest brains in the business, Barrow is the proper man to carry on the Yankee tradition of victory. Only in the most important matters, like for instance the sale of a Yankee property, will he consult with his three fellow trustees—George Ruppert, Frederick Grant and H. Garrison Silleck, Jr.

"There won't be any real change," he said last night. "I always made the decisions, and it was only very seldom that Colonel Ruppert questioned my judgment. I think we'll rock along about as usual. I wouldn't be surprised if we won another championship this year."

ABC Seniors Win Sixth Tilt In Row

The ABC senior boys' basketball team chalked up its sixth straight victory at the expense of the Mexicans, 22-2, Tuesday afternoon on the ABC playground to take a long lead in their division of the Senior-Junior cage circuit.

In another senior fray the East Side retained second place in league standings with a 16-12 victory over South Side while in junior competition the Mexicans dubbed the ABC team, 8-6, on the ABC court while the South Siders were disposing of the East Siders, 9-4, on their own court.

DORRIS-REED BOUT IS A POSSIBILITY

Veteran May Have To Slip Into Heavier Ranks Due To Weight

All fighters who expect to be lined up for preliminaries in next Wednesday's first show of the Herald-Cosden Golden Gloves boxing tournament are urged to be on hand tonight at the Road hotel gymnasium. Promoter Ray Simmons indicated that he wanted definite assurance from each of the entries before the weekend.

Only a few were in attendance at Tuesday evening's drill but many of the others are due to blossom out tonight.

One of the harder workers thus far has been Jack Dugris, a veteran who had been trying desperately to trim off enough weight to slip into the feather ranks. It has become apparent, however, that Dorris must compete in the 135-pound ranks. Should that happen one of the liveliest rivalries in the tournament may develop since that is Ellis Reed's division. Ellis thus far has been ranked alone as the supreme lightweight but Dorris now must be considered a leading threat. He throws a powerful bit of leather and may be able to tag the champion.

If Dorris departs from the feather division that weight interest is expected to be revived. Jack has been so impressive thus far that several of the boys had threatened to withdraw from competition.

2nd Half Play In Mury Loop Begins Mon.

Coahoma's Oilers, in a three way tie for first place honors in the Major-City basketball league, will play the Planter's Ginners this evening, 7:30 o'clock, in their final game of the first half chase. A win would put them a half game in front of Garner and the First National Bank team, who will meet later in the week. Winner of that game in turn will oppose the Coahomans some time next week.

Second half schedule will get underway Monday evening in the high school gym, continuing through five weeks.

Champions of the first and second half will meet for the city title the week of Feb. 27. Second half schedule: Monday, Jan. 23—Vaughn's Sweet Shop vs. R-Bar; Garner vs. First National Bank; Coahoma vs. Planter's Gin Co.

Monday, Jan. 30—First National Bank vs. Coahoma; Planter's Gin Co. vs. Vaughn's Sweet Shop; R-Bar vs. Garner.

Monday, Feb. 6—Garner vs. Planter's Gin Co.; First National Bank vs. R-Bar; Coahoma vs. Vaughn's Sweet Shop.

Patterson And Wolcott Named To A-A Team

Present Crop Should Insure Great U. S. Olympic Team

NEW YORK, Jan. 18 (AP)—American track and field supremacy in international competition seems in no great danger if the All-America team selected by Daniel J. Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the National Amateur Athletic Union is any criterion.

Led by the great Glenn Cunningham, outdoor and indoor national champion at 1,500 meters, the team is an especially strong one. It should insure Uncle Sam another strong team in the Olympics next year.

Seventeen collegians are given 21 of the 38 berths on the all-star team with four of them nominated for two events each; Ben Johnson of Columbia for the 60-meter and 100-meter sprints, Fred Wolcott of Rice Institute for the 110-meter and 200-meter hurdles, Don Lash of Indiana for the 3,000-meter and cross country runs and Irv Forwatschky of Rhode Island State for the 35-pound weight throw and the hammer throw.

Thirteen college athletes are placed on both the All-America and the all college teams. Johnson, Ray Malott, of Stanford, John Woodruff, of Pittsburgh, Wolcott, Jack Patterson, Bill Lacerfeld, Frank Ryan, Forwatschky, Pete Zagar, Nick Vukmanic and Joe Scott are included in this group.

Bankers To Oppose Oilers; Vaughn's Meet Drugists

Two Major-City basketball league teams, George Neel's First National Bankers and Squeaky Thompson's Vaughn's Sweet Shop quintet, go to Odessa Thursday evening for exhibition with league aggregations of that city.

The Bankers are slated to collide with the Hainsdall Oilers while the Piemen will skirmish with the strong L&H Drugists.

Both games will be played in the high school gymnasium.

BOVINES DEFEAT ANGELO, 30-27

David Lamun Stars In Reserve Win As Local Teams Score Grand Slam

Following a thrilling game of the reserves in which David Lamun tossed in an angle two pointer in the last two seconds of play to give the Big Springers a 17-16 victory, the Bovines varsity squadrons made a grand slam over the invading San Angelo Bobcats by winning the feature basketball attraction, 30-27, here Tuesday evening.

The second day was not as close as the score would indicate. The Bovines pulled away into a ten-point lead early in the fourth quarter and the desperats San Angelo rally came only too late. The invaders roped three field goals and a free toss in the last two minutes of play.

Boovy Savage and Marvin House paced the offensive attack beautifully to outdistance Ted Carley, changeous Hobbs guard. Savage took top scoring laurels with 15 points while Carley was runnerrup with four field goals and as many free tries.

The locals jumped into a 7-4 lead in the opening period, coming from behind when Bowman and Carley tossed in a free throw and field goal, respectively, for the invaders. Jobby Carlisle passed the ball to Bowman and the latter, with a foul shot, followed with a field goal and a couple of gratis throws. After House had dropped in one of two Lee tosses offered, Bowman accounted for the other Angelo tally with a one pointer after South had charged into him.

Nip And Tuck. Carley initiated the second period with a two pointer from out front. Savage dropped a long one and, after Carley was due on a pair of gratis passes, Angelo went into the lead when Carley again came through with an angular pita. House pushed Big Spring back into the lead with a short one but Cunningham rattled the Bobcat forces with two swifter born than the tally to 12-11 with the visitors in front. House dribbled in front the side and hit the target for the half's final Big Spring tally and the lead only to have Carley drop a free toss on a technical foul called against the Big Spring team for calling time out while the ball was in play.

In the third Woodruff shot one from out on the court to push the forces of Harry Taylor out front again but that advantage was short lived. House deadlocked the count and, after Bowman had cripped in one Marin rattled with the tying count. Pepper followed with a long toss that gave Big Spring a lead they never lost. A free toss by Savage on Cunningham's foul ran the count to 20-17 and Hobbs followed with a two pointer from under the basket. Cunningham's field goal came just before the third period ended and left the score, 23-19.

Take Long Lead. Savage accounted for two field tosses and House one soon after the final period opened, and after Woodruff had cashed in on a gratis throw offering, Savage closed out the locals' counting for the evening with another shot from the side. Trailing 10 points Woodruff, Carley and Bowman collaborated to give the visitors seven points in the final two minutes but to no avail.

Apparently hopelessly beaten in the opening, the Big Spring reserves put on a great rally in the second half to thrill the large gathering. Lamun's toss capping off the show.

Coahoma Cage Tourney Sector's Weekend Feature; Sixth Annual Garden City Meet Set Jan. 27

Twenty Teams To Try For Titles, Forsan Favored

COAHOOMA, Jan. 18.—The third annual Coahoma invitational basketball tournament officially gets underway at 12:30 o'clock Friday afternoon when boys' teams of Courtney and Moore go to tilt.

Courtney and Moore go to tilt. Trying for the honors the two Forsan teams packed up last season will be 11 boys and nine girls teams. The Forsan crews will again reign as favorites although both face tougher going. Westbrook, Courtney and Garden City are major threats in the boys bracket while Westbrook and Garner are to be reckoned with in girls play.

A WISER MEAD ON WAY BACK

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 18 (AP)—Once the roughest, toughest jockey in the business, a wiser but by no means more subdued Don Meade is riding winners again—with the philosophic conviction his enforced layoff of two and a half years was the best thing that ever happened to him.

"It made me stop and think," Meade said today at Hialeah Park, where he has booted home a dozen winners in six days. "I was throwing money away like it was water; I wasn't saving anything. When I think of what a fool I was—" He sighed and shook his head.

Lake View And Forsan Teams Won In 1938

GARDEN CITY, Jan. 18.—Plans are being completed here for the sixth annual Garden City invitational basketball tournament Jan. 27-28. Many beautiful trophies are to be given to champions, runnerup and consolation winners of both the girls' and boys' division and to all-tournament teams.

The school board, P. T. A. organization and school officials are collaborating to make this meeting the most successful of any staged thus far.

O'DANIEL FACES HIS BIG TEST

No man in our time has ever been inaugurated governor of Texas with a solid support of the great common people behind him than has W. Lee O'Daniel. The great outpouring of humanity gathered in Austin to attend the inaugural festivities manifested the esteem in which he is held by those who gave him one of the most spectacular victories in Texas history.

Mr. O'Daniel comes to office at a critical time. The state is in financial straits with no immediate prospect of betterment. Mr. O'Daniel and others promised solemnly to perform prodigies of labor in behalf of more and bigger pensions. The old people have been led to believe that great days were immediately ahead for them, when all over 65 would be taken care of with pensions adequate to their needs.

The people expect great things of the new governor, based in part on his generous promises. They could not expect him to fulfill all promises, but they do expect a high degree of performance.

The first few weeks will tell the tale. Either the new governor will go into high gear and start making things hum, or he will become hopelessly tangled in a legislative situation the like of which has never been seen before.

GREEN MOUNTAIN HOLIDAY

Before Secretary Woodring goes ahead with that dam that the federal government contemplates building at Union Village, Vermont, he had better go and see "Knochebocker" Brock, the young man in that play, called himself the first American. He had a serious psychological disturbance. He couldn't bear to take orders.

His lineal descendants are not very numerous in Manhattan any more. But they have overrun Vermont. Practically the whole population of the state consists of Drom Brockes.

They are as polite, courteous and gentle-spoken as people you will find anywhere. But it is a mistake to try to converse with them. Because, if you do, you will find some extremely ornery creatures.

Vermonters are not accustomed to talking orders, individually or collectively. One reason for that is that more Vermonters work for themselves than do the inhabitants of most states. They are farmers, and 90 per cent of them own their own farms. If their daughters go out to work in the households of others, they go as "help" not as servants. You can't easily persuade a neighbor to "help you out" than you can hire him.

They are extremely knowledgeable about their local politics and problems. This is a state where the Town Meeting still is a living, functioning institution. They are accustomed to debating and discussing every sort of problem affecting their lives and pocketbook, not only in Montpelier but in the Town Hall in Barnard, population 200 souls.

They know all about the fight over flood control between the state and the federal government; they know the precise history of the Interstate flood-control project drawn up and ratified in 1937 between the commonwealth of Massachusetts and the states of Connecticut, New Hampshire and Vermont.

They know that this compact was made in strict conformity to the act of congress that authorized it and in closest co-operation with the war department—which was the only branch of the federal government concerned in the matter under the terms of the act—and they know that although the compact was favorably reported by committees of both houses of congress, its passage was blocked by executive interference.

And they are very, very sore about it. Not the governor. He is sore, too. But Vermonters. All Vermonters. They believe that the rights of the streams and valleys of Vermont belong to them; that if the federal government is going to take some of them it has got to consult them first, and even then it can only have them according to the terms of a written contract between the federal government and the state.

They are willing to discuss things with the federal government; they aren't saying they won't cooperate. On the contrary, they are saying that they will. But they believe that they are a party to the terms. And they want it put in writing.

And the reason they want it put in writing is because they don't want the precedent established that the federal government has any claim, without specific contract, to a single acre of land—except, of course, in time of national emergency.

They want to have something to say about where dams should go and what lands should be flooded. They believe that what they say in Gayville, or East Craftsbury, or Newfane, will be listened to with far more interest in Montpelier than it will be in Washington.

They have an enormous and quite fierce Vermont patriotism. They care, for instance, intensely how the state looks. Nobody has been able to sell Vermonters the idea that it is good for business, and therefore for the country as a whole and for Vermont in particular, to clutter up the waysides with billboards. They won't have 'em, because they don't like their looks. And they want to consider how flood-control reservoirs are going to fit into the landscape. The reservoirs, when depleted, are a horrid, scummy, ugly sight, and the Vermonters with both a trading and an aesthetic sense believe that Vermont's beauty is an asset, bringing in prestige and tourists' dollars. That doesn't mean that they don't want flood control. They certainly do. But they want something to say about how and where.

They also want to think about their taxes before they flood lands, and about the land itself. There isn't so much good valley land in Vermont that you are casual about it. They think the federal government is extremely casual about a lot of things. They haven't forgotten yet that way back five years ago some of the boys from the Rural Resettlement Administration declared Vermont to be 83 per cent inhabitable and suggested the city of New York be evacuated off the hill farms.

DANGEROUS SERVICE

that little dent in his chin, and that he had dusty eyelashes. Her brother! She was happy again. "Sorry if he gets into trouble," James started to help her. "He never bleeds for long. But could you teach him to fight?" "No, he's lighter, that's all," James felt a pang of jealousy. Petrel was good for a girl. Peter didn't know how good she was; bowing to him for hours in the hot sun, letting him in at night, he'd have been killed in the tunnel, that time he wanted to discover what it felt like when the train came through. If she had not reached him just in time, to tell him about the shelters, hollowed in the walls. Peter said the rush of wind had pulled her skirt, and made her scream and scream.

There was a hooting at the corner of the private road. James ran. It was Maisie Mason. "Gate please, Petrel!" she called crisply. Sitting bolt upright at the wheel she swept past, and pulled the car up with a jerk. She had seen James disappearing. "Petrel, come here!" the taut woman, with the hat set straight on her gray head, could produce a voice like a sergeant major from within her small dry body. Petronella's heart hammered. "Who won?" Maisie demanded. "J-James," gasped Petrel. "I thought he would!" In dumb warm gratitude, Petrel climbed in beside her. To look at Maisie Mason, it would have seemed impossible that she could be a good foster mother to two children. But it was so. For those who knew her, her very charmlessness possessed a charm of its own. She had been a school teacher. Fifteen years ago she had inherited money and had taken the neat, white gabled house in the Forest estate, above Hallfield village.

Life had given Maisie none of the things she had set out in youth, desiring. Her pretty younger sister had married the man she loved. She had taken Peter and Petronella, her children. They both loved her. During the years that followed Peter, James, and Petrel all did the things Peter suggested. He was brilliant, but he never took notice of the past. He was in a moment when the train reached Paddington station. "I want to meet your marvelous brother," said her friend Marigold. Petrel smiled at her bright, lovely face. How simple life was for some people! If only father were easy going, like Marigold Earnshaw's parents. Then, neither she nor Peter would have to "think seriously of their future." She would not feel trapped, as she did. Father was determined she should come out to Rangoon this September. Peter met her, looking shabby and healthy. "You're excited," said Petronella. "What is it?" "This was something new in Peter. "I've decided to become a journalist! Remember that note-book I used to keep, as a kid? I've got the right kind of mind, Petrel. I'm curious. Once I know about a thing, I go on to something else. "Although you don't make use of it, you're always looking for copy," she cried. "Peter, I believe you're right at last! If necessary, this is going to be flaming rebellion against Father, rice milling, everything." (Copyright, 1938, Grace Elliot Taylor)

NEW YEAR'S LOVE

by Angela Lorden

Chapter 20 VISIT TO CLAIBORNE

"Mr. Feigel wants you to call him on the Coast immediately." The message came to Noel next day from the New York office. Feigel's probably furious at me, Noel thought as she followed the New York office's suggestion and put in the call for Holywood. And he was, as soon as he spoke with her.

"Why didn't you stay here like I told you to?" he asked impatiently. "I thought you'd forgotten about me," Noel explained half-heartedly. She didn't say, "I couldn't stand the waiting in Holywood when everything was so uncertain." "Come out at once!" Feigel's voice was arrogant. "Take the next plane here. We'll sign the contract when you arrive."

"The test was satisfactory then?" Noel asked. "Yes, it was," came the non-committal comment. "But as it is able to do things with you," then he added calmly, "We've bought the screen rights to 'Susan in Waiting.' Anyone we can fix it so you'll play the part you did on the stage." "I'd like that," Noel told him, trying not to let her voice sound so excited. She was excited—playing Susan would be perfect for her.

"The boys in New York will get busy right away," Feigel went on enthusiastically. "So what they do to you—they know their business." "Their business," as Noel discovered, was to keep her occupied for the next ten days. She had to go to the studio, to see the camera at her hotel and after her telephone conversation with Feigel, she took her to a photograph, and dozens of poses were taken through immediately. There was a meeting with eastern executives at the Ambassador. And a few special interviews with writers from the papers and fan magazines.

As the while Noel was thinking: they're funny people, this movie crowd. I haven't signed the contract yet, that didn't seem very businesslike to her. Douglas would have had her name on the dotted line first. "What about your romance with David Norris?" one of the interviewers asked Noel. "The publicity campaign," she said at her hotel and after her telephone conversation with Feigel, she took her to a photograph, and dozens of poses were taken through immediately. There was a meeting with eastern executives at the Ambassador. And a few special interviews with writers from the papers and fan magazines.

"I've treated you both badly," David flushed as she said it. "I've thought about you, Allan, I hope you were completely recovered." She would have taken those words back if she could. "We understand," Mrs. Marchand interrupted. "You've had your own problems." Now it was the older woman who was embarrassed. "Mother!" Allan admonished.

"You saw those stories of me in the papers?" Noel thought she might as well get it over with. "I behaved like a silly young girl. I was too excited at the time to use good judgment." The atmosphere was strained. Mrs. Marchand was apologetic in her manner. In desperation Noel said, "This is a lovely place in summer. I've been admiring the country since I came up. And I thought it was perfect in winter!" Indulgently her glance strayed to Allan. Did he remember, too? That afternoon in the woods?

"Why don't you go out on the terrace?" Mrs. Marchand suggested. "I'll have Annie bring tea out there." "She?" "Who?" "The girl who was a little question from Allan. His eyes were saying other, more serious things. Or did Noel cry imagine it?" She walked beside him slowly, trying not to notice how badly he limped.

"Three months more and I can't tap this thing away," he said. "Then as they sat in the big white chairs on the terrace, his mouth close to hers, Allan gave her a sad, quizzical look. "So they're going to make you a famous picture star, Noel?" "I don't know what they'll do with me, once I'm out there. I'm going to sign the contract when I get west tomorrow. I'm not crazy about movie work. I think I like the stage better. But at least it's more certain." She was sparring for time, trying to calm herself.

Allan reached for her hand. He looked at it intently, lying in his palm. The touch of his fingers sent an electric shock all through Noel's body. If it could last forever, like Allan's voice, she was thinking. She heard Allan's voice husky caressing. "Noel, I didn't mean to tell you, but I can't let you go so far away without knowing—" (Copyright, 1938, Angela Lorden)

TAX, HEALTH PROGRAMS ARE PRINCIPAL ITEMS AHEAD FOR LAST HALF OF FD'S TERM

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 (AP)—President Roosevelt, approaching the half-way mark of his second term, began rounding out today his 1939 legislative program for expansion of new deal social and economic agencies and for finding new sources of revenue.

With his budget, emergency relief, defense and social security recommendations already made, he let it be known that in the next few days he would ask congress to grapple with:

1. Further taxation.
2. A national health program.
3. Railroad rehabilitation.
4. Philippine trade.

Little legislation has reached the senate and house floors, but committees rapidly are getting it into shape. Two committees were studying the president's $552,000,000 armament program, and a senate subcommittee was holding hearings on his request for relief funds, from which the house trimmed $150,000,000.

Mr. Roosevelt told reporters yesterday he would send a message to congress again urging a law providing for reciprocal taxation of federal and state salaries and the income from future federal and state bonds now in the tax-exempt class.

He proposed this last April, but congress did nothing about it. It has been estimated upwards of $100,000,000 in new revenues would accrue from such levies.

Mr. Roosevelt also made it plain he looks with disfavor on a proposed tax to help finance the farm benefit program.

In his budget message the president said new taxes would have to be found to raise about $422,000,000—for the extra farm benefits and for part of the defense program. His only specific recommendation so far on taxes has been to extend various excise and "nuisance" taxes about to expire.

TEN QUESTIONED IN BRITISH BOMBINGS

LONDON, Jan. 18 (AP)—Ten men were detained for questioning today as picked Scotland Yard detectives guarded British cabinet members lest they be intended victims of gangs responsible for a 3-day series of bombings throughout the United Kingdom.

A Manchester police court magistrate ordered seven Irishmen charged with illegal possession of explosives, held a week for investigation in connection with Manchester explosions in which one man was killed.

One of the accused, who gave his name as Mike Campbell of Belfast, protested against "English occupation of Ireland."

Larry Clinton Band Added To Broadcasts

Larry Clinton and his orchestra will brighten the Mutual network from "The Meadowbrook" in Cedar Grove, N. J., beginning Friday, Jan. 20, adding another name to an already imposing list of Mutual super-maestro offerings.

And, if you didn't know—Larry Clinton is the gentleman who set the nation a-swinging to the "Dippy Doodle," "Study in Brown," and now that irresistible tune "My Reverie."

Larry started his career by "tooting" a trumpet for Ferdie Grofe, the man who really awakened the scope of modern music. The friend Clinton began arranging and he gave numbers such a distinctive "twist" that he soon snared a name for himself. From this point it was only a couple of puddle-hops to the baton itself and his soon to fame.

Larry Clinton and his orchestra will be heard several times weekly over Mutual and KBST featuring as vocalists lovely Bea Wain and Ford Leary, the "Shadrach" Sultan.

The Mutual network, in cooperation with NBC, and CBS, are arranging a stupendous hour broadcast including scores of the best radio performers from coast-to-coast. The program, "The March of Dimes," with Eddie Cantor as master of ceremonies will be heard on KBST Sunday night from 10 to 11.

As one of the new inter-station exchange features with KRBC, Abilene, "Love Song Time," featuring Wanda McQuinn and the Rhythmites, will be heard this afternoon at 5 o'clock in both Big Spring and Abilene. The trio harmonies of the Rhythmites feature the voices of Glarinda Mary Sanders, DeAlva McAllister and Wanda McQuinn. The "Love Song Time" narrator is Jack Wallace.

If you like old-fashioned fiddling, be sure to tune in on the Chamber of Commerce Goodwill program Thursday from 5 to 5:30 p. m., and listen to three "fiddlin' demons," J. A. Whittington, John K. Whitaker and Jim Winslow in 15 minutes of fiddling of the following tunes: "Texas Quick Step," "Soldiers Joy," "Texas Waggoner," "Ace of Diamonds," "Bill Cheatham."

Also appearing on this same program will be a group of young musicians: Robbie Finner, Shirley Jane Hopkins, Martha Thorry Jr., of Big Spring, and Jackie Grant and James Gardner, of Foran, in 15 minutes of piano and vocal selections.

Motive Sought In Woman's Death

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 18 (AP)—Detectives looked for a man and a motive today in the mysterious slaying of blonde, attractive Mrs. Carrie Leah Romig, 35-year-old wife of a young ten-cent-store lunchroom employe.

Mrs. Romig, formerly married to a wealthy Hooster manufacturer, was found dead last night on a bed in her five-room first-floor flat. Deputy Coroner Norman R. Booher said she had been struck in the right temple and forehead with a small claw hammer which lay nearby, broken in two.

Investigators followed up two leads.

(1) A statement of the dead woman's husband, Daniel Romig, 28, that several diamond rings and other jewelry were missing from the apartment.

(2) Evidence that a man she knew had called on her some time in the day.

Loan Cotton Worrying Senators

Arrange Parley With FDR About Govt. Surplus

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 (AP)—Southern senators, worried about the huge surplus of cotton piled up under government loan, sought the help of President Roosevelt today.

Senator Bankhead (D-Ala.) one of the leaders in formation of a "cotton bloc" in the senate, arranged a White House conference that was to include Secretary Wallace.

Before going to the White House, Bankhead said senators from cotton growing states had agreed that their first problem was "finding what we can do with loan cotton."

The government now has nearly $500,000 invested in loans on some 11,000,000 bales—enough to supply domestic and foreign demands for American cotton without growing any new crop this year.

The loans were made as part of an administration effort to keep prices up by holding surplus cotton off the market.

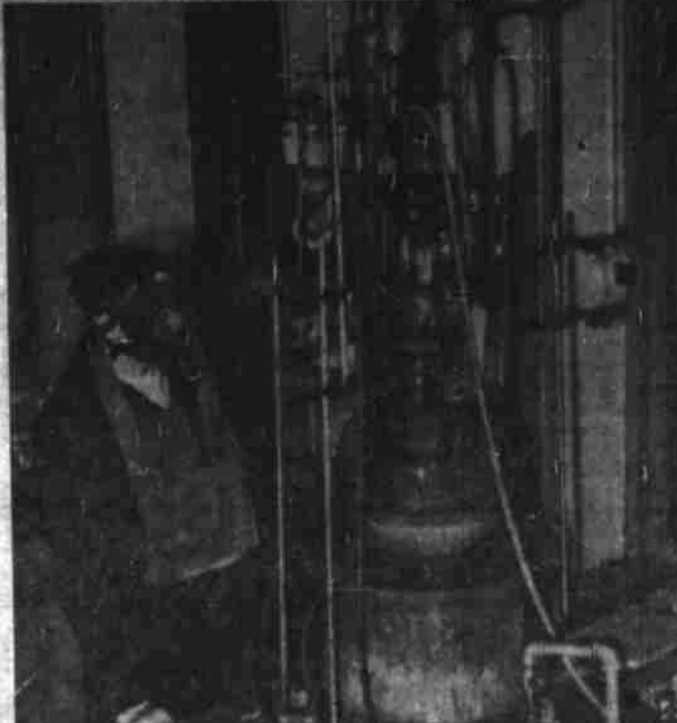

The senate bloc is seeking some way to get the loan cotton back in the hands of farmers who agree to reduce production under the crop control program.

More than a dozen southern senators attended a meeting yesterday to discuss methods of accomplishing this. A second session today was abandoned when only Senators Bankhead and McKellar (D-Tenn.) appeared. They explained that other southern senators were forced to attend senate committee sessions.

Bankhead said the group would meet again early this week after the White House conference.

The group is considering one proposal to sell the cotton back to growers at far less than the loan price to induce curtailed production. Another would give growers cotton equal to the amount they cut production below present allotments.

M. E. Allen, manager of the Big Spring Cotton Oil company, left Tuesday for Fort Worth and Dallas, where he will remain for a few days on business.

NEUTRALIZING MUSTARD GAS that taught world war soldiers fresh horror because of its ability to burn the body, a chemical has been discovered by Dr. Ralph H. Bullard of Hobart college, Geneva, N. Y. Hobart students (as above) helped Dr. Bullard find the compound which, when sprayed on clothing, causes no discomfort but neutralizes contacting mustard gas.

New Air Bases Recommended

Army Air Corps Chief Cites Defense Needs

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 (AP)—The army air corps' chief told congress today four new air bases should be constructed in the next two years to complete the defenses of the continental United States.

Major-General H. H. Arnold, testifying before the house military committee at the opening of public hearings on President Roosevelt's $552,000,000 defense program, said the new air bases should be built at Puerto Rico, Alaska and two in the United States.

In addition, he said, the air base in Hawaii should be expanded. Meanwhile, it was learned another set of locks at the Panama Canal, virtually providing a new channel for America's interoceanic "life line," may be financed by a bond issue.

Secretary Woodring, informed persons said, has proposed such an arrangement. Members of the house and senate military committees were reported to have listened intently to the proposal in a closed session yesterday.

Woodring's idea was said to be to use about $6,000,000 of the canal's $13,000,000 annual receipts to back a bond issue for the $200,000,000 program.

A third set of locks would provide a channel one to four miles distant from the vital waterway which connects the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. It would make use of natural lakes as does the present dual system.

Existence of an auxiliary channel would distribute the risk from a wartime air bomb attack, Woodring has argued.

Byron Housewright left Wednesday morning for Dallas, where he will spend several days on business.

Gives Methods For Fighting Plant Smut

Agent Cites Losses Suffered By Farmers Last Year

Declaring that Howard county farmers suffered losses that would total thousands of dollars in 1938 from smut on feeds, County Agent O. P. Griffin Wednesday suggested means of controlling the damage.

There was much damage to cane forage from smut last season, he said. Describing it as a plant disease which culminates in a sooty substance within the smut balls on sorghum heads, Griffin said that the infection spreads easily in threshing and other handling.

When seed is planted, the germs begin to develop, extend upward through the pitch of the sorghum stalk and finally mature by destroying the "rhizome seed and producing smut pores instead of grain."

Control is easy and practical since the disease is not carried over to any great extent in the soil as is corn smut. The method of control is to completely coat each seed with copper carbopate, a process that required from three to five ounces per bushel.

The agent explained the control procedure: "A machine for treating seed (suitable for all kinds of seed) can be made out of an old oil barrel. Cut out one head and substitute a wooden head with a small window hinged on one side. Pass a three-fourths inch pipe lengthwise through the heads letting it enter on one side and extend through the opposite side of the other head. This pipe should be long enough to extend eight or 10 inches beyond the ends of the barrel. Then on one end place an elbow making a crank used to rotate the barrel. Saw horses can be used as supports.

"Put the seed in the barrel (not over one-third full), then the copper carbopate and rotate for 15 or 20 minutes. In drawing the seed out, the excess copper carbopate can be left in the barrel to be used with the next lot of seed.

"Seed treated with copper carbopate produces stronger plants under certain conditions of soil, by preventing decay germs entering the seed."
