Wounded Fugitive Captured After Policeman Is Slain

Had Escaped After Fight At B'wood

Overtaken By Posse; Had Broken Jail At Palo Pinto

STEPHENVILLE, Feb. 3 (AP)—A badly wounded gunman sought as the slayer of Policeman Jack Fuston in a Brownwood tourist cabin early today was captured by a posse between Dublin and Stephenville at noon, when he leaped from a car and attempted to flee in thick brush.

Deputy Sheriff Ed Hasler said the man, believed to be William Thomas Haley, Jr., fugitive from the Palo Pinto jail, was wounded in the arms and legs.

Hasler headed a posse which flushed the man on the highway and captured him as he fled into C. E. Jordan's house near the Green's creek community.

The capture climaxed a chase in which more than a hundred heavily armed possemen scoured highways in byroads in Brown, Comanche and Erath counties after the early morning slaying of Fuston at a tourist camp on the outskirts of Brownwood. Fuston, a rookie policeman, was questioning the suspect.

There were a score of men in the posse which finally closed with the fugitive, who had abandoned one stolen automobile at Dublin and there, at pistol point, held up a youth whose name was given at Watson. The bandit crawled to a front fender of the automobile and told Watson to drive him out of town on State Highway No. 20. No shots were exchanged as the suspect was captured, and he was hustled back to Brownwood.

A woman companion of the fugitive, who told officers at Brownwood, was questioning the suspect.

Rules On Stock Show Sent Out Through Mails

Rules and regulations for the second annual district 4-H club and FFA livestock show were placed in the mail Friday as the chamber of commerce pushed plans for the area affair here Feb. 27-28.

Previously, the chamber had secured use of the Winn warehouse at 1st and Goliad streets, for the show through contacts by T. W. Ashley, chairman of the show committee.

While advance reports indicated that the number of animals to be shown here might be slightly below that of a year ago, the quality of stock promised to be uniformly better.

Club and FFA boys in Scurry, Borden, Dawson, Martin, Glasscock, Sterling, Mitchell and Howard counties are eligible to compete in the show.

Eight Firemen Perish In Burning Building Collapse

Walls Fall In After Roof Gives Way; Ninth Man Rescued From Ruins

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Feb. 3 (AP)—The plight of eight firemen buried more than five hours in the fire-scarred ruins of a five-story office building was described by rescuers as "hopeless" when the structure's two remaining walls fell inward today.

"We're just about given up hope of getting any of them out alive," declared District Fire Chief Frank M. Savage. Collapse of the two side walls of the building piled tons of additional debris upon the trapped men, who were fighting the blaze from the third floor when the roof collapsed and carried them with it into the basement.

A ninth fireman, trapped in the wreckage with the eight still missing, was rescued an hour after the collapse and taken to a hospital, critically injured. Two others were treated in hospitals for minor injuries received earlier.

Final collapse of the walls was accompanied by a fresh burst of flames from the smoking wreckage. Firemen poured new streams of water on the blaze before resuming rescue operations.

Two hundred public works department employees were put to work in the ruins with picks and shovels as the city mobilized all its resources in a desperate attempt to reach the men.

Before the collapse of the walls, rescue workers had reported hearing voices coming from the ruins and had expressed hope some of the men were still alive. Families of the victims huddled in a fire station near the scene of the blaze, many of the women weeping and hysterical.

The structure where the fire occurred is located near the heart of the business section. The lone fireman rescued from the ruins was identified as William F. Moore.

Un-American Inquiry To Continue

Dies Of Texas Wins House Vote To Go Ahead With Probe

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (AP)—The house voted overwhelmingly today to continue for another year an investigation of un-American activities and propaganda.

That action brought to an end, at least for the time being, one of the bitterest controversies of the new congress.

Opponents had leveled accusations of unfairness and un-Americanism at the committee which handled the inquiry last year under the chairmanship of Rep. Dies (D-Tex.).

Dies himself took the floor just before the final vote to assert that from the start "a well-organized attempt" had been made to discredit the committee by ridicule.

The resolution reestablishing the committee until Jan. 3, 1940, does not require action by the senate or the president's signature.

Speaker Bankhead already has announced his intention to reappoint Dies chairman and name to the committee again members who served in the last congress. There is one vacancy.

Dies has asked for an appropriation of $150,000, but the house was expected to compromise on $100,000.

The resolution provides no funds for a further inquiry, but Chairman Warren (D-NC) obtained permission for the accounts committee to hold afternoon sessions next week to discuss a measure to supply more funds.

MANY INJURED IN BOMB EXPLOSION IN BUDAPEST

BUDAPEST, Feb. 3 (AP)—A bomb explosion in the heart of Pest, the commercial section of Budapest, today injured many persons and damaged the Dohany street synagogue, largest Jewish place of worship in the city.

The explosion in the synagogue courtyard came just as worshippers were entering the rambling structure topped by Oriental-style cupolas.

It was heard several miles away and occurred as a parliamentary committee was considering legislation for control of Jews. Authorities regarded the bombing as a political demonstration.

Former Senator Steiwer Expires

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (AP)—Frederick H. Steiwer, who served 11 years as a republican senator from Oregon, died early today at the age of 55.

Near the end of his second term he resigned from the senate Jan. 31, 1938, to practice law here. He had not been in the best of health for the last three years.

Steiwer delivered the keynote address at the republican national convention in Cleveland in 1936, and had been mentioned that year as a possible presidential nominee.

PRISON GUARD IS JAILED IN SLAYING

RUSK, Feb. 3 (AP)—Sheriff Bill Brunt said today he had jailed a state prison guard for the slaying last night, of Charlie Goodson, Rusk world war veteran and barber in the backyard of a residence here.

Sheriff Brunt said charges would be filed in Justice of the Peace Ed Spinks' court "sometime today."

Goodson, according to Sheriff Brunt, was shot through the heart as he stood by the rear steps of J. C. Weaver's house. Two eyewitnesses stood a few feet away, Brunt said.

House Votes To Borrow For Pension Fund

$900,000 Needed To Meet Financial Emergency

AUSTIN, Feb. 3 (AP)—A bill authorizing the old age pension administration to borrow an additional $900,000 to meet a financial emergency sailed through the house today on a vote of 118 to 5.

Advocates expressed confidence they could obtain senate approval next week.

Reps. H. T. Brown of Jacksonville and Bryan Bradbury of Abilene, co-authors of the proposal, warned that pension grants would have to be reduced 25 per cent, effective next month, unless something was done. The present average grant is $13.80 monthly.

The $900,000 would be added to the $1,300,000 pension organization already owes. Under terms of the bill, the $1,300,000 would have to be paid back next January 1 and the other on June 1, 1940.

Governor W. Lee O'Daniel's attitude on the bill was not known. He had said he was against borrowing money as a governmental principle but many legislators believed he would approve the proposal because of the emergency.

Several advocates of the bill said they would support new taxes to finance pensions but it would be impossible to pass the taxes and start getting the money from them until late next summer.

"I don't want to ever go home for a week end," said Brown, "if we let the already low pension grants be cut 25 per cent while we are in session. It's imperative that we give the pension fund more tax money but we can't possibly do that by March 1."

The bill would permit sale of $900,000 in new warrants and resale of the $1,300,000 issue if an interest rate lower than the 1.9 per cent now paid to a Dallas bank can be obtained.

Tom Mooney Asking For A Divorce

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 3 (AP)—Mrs. Rena Mooney said today that Tom Mooney, pardoned recently after serving more than 22 years in prison, had demanded that she divorce him.

Mooney would not comment, but indicated he might issue a statement later.

Mrs. Mooney declared she would fight any divorce action.

Mooney was convicted of murder after the bombing of the 1918 Preparedness Day parade here. His wife said she had aided him throughout the years in his efforts to obtain freedom, which culminated in a pardon by Gov. Culbert L. Olson.

Bishop Holt To Be Here

Noted Churchman Will Speak Twice Sunday Morning

Bishop Ivan Lee Holt, presiding bishop of the Northwest Texas Methodist conference and a churchman of world renown, will visit Big Spring Sunday, delivering two sermons. Making his first visit here in the capacity of presiding bishop, Dr. Holt will speak at the Wesley Memorial church at 10 a. m. and at the First Methodist at 11 a. m.

Local pastors are inviting the public to attend these services, citing a rare opportunity for local folk to hear a religious leader of high distinction.

Before being made bishop of the Southern Methodist church, Dr. Holt was pastor of the St. John's Methodist church in St. Louis for nearly 20 years, one of the longest pastorates in the church. Two years ago he was elected president of the Federal Council of Churches in America, and his activity in this connection carried him into a number of foreign countries.

REFERENCE TO RHINE, HE ASSERTS, WAS MANUFACTURED

Reports Of Conference On Proposed Sale Of Planes Draw Strong Remarks From Chief Executive

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (AP)—President Roosevelt stamped as a "deliberate lie" today a statement he called the River Rhine, between France and Germany, an American frontier.

Speaking in tense, grave tones at his press conference, the chief executive declared the statement was manufactured by some legislative and newspaper-owner agitators.

His voice filled with irony and a bitter smile curled his lips as he added that those he described as agitators had deliberately misrepresented existing facts.

Mr. Roosevelt, asked whether his term "deliberate lie" applied also to reports he had said the American frontier was in France, replied with an emphatic yes.

By way of general reply to what has been said and written about a conference he had with the senate military affairs committee Tuesday, the president permitted newsmen to quote him directly on the "lie" and what he said was a restatement of United States foreign policy.

It was at the chief executive's conference with the senate committee that he was represented in some reports as having fixed the Rhine as one of this country's frontiers.

Asked whether the purchase of planes in this country by France was discussed at his conference with the senators, the president said the only reference to it was a question whether they were to be paid for in cash and his reply in the affirmative.

While the president was holding his press conference—which lasted some minutes beyond its usual time—that same committee postponed decision, after a furious debate behind closed doors, on whether to make public its investigation into airplane sales to France.

The president, using clipped, emphatic words, declared that some of those he termed agitators were receiving loud acclaim from those governments in the world which do not believe in the continued independence of all nations.

Foreign Policy Denounced In Rome

Simultaneously, American foreign policy was a subject of denunciation in Rome, Virginia Gayda, fascist's chief newspaper spokesman, declared Germany, Japan and Italy would have to counter any extension of United States frontiers into Europe by pushing their own defense lines not only to the Panama canal but also to the Rio Grande.

In Rome too, the United States embassy asked the fascist government for an explanation of bitter personal attacks on President Roosevelt published in the press.

The senate military committee put off action on opening up its records on French airplane sales after four of its members had presented conflicting motions on the subject.

(The president summoned committee members to his office Tuesday to discuss circumstances surrounding the sale of American-made military planes to France. The committee members were pledged to secrecy and conflicting reports of what took place arose. At least one committee member brought away the impression Mr. Roosevelt had said that in event of a European war, the frontier of American policy would be in France. The Rhine river is the boundary between France and Germany.)

Some other committee members, however, denied any such statement was made, while others declined to make any comment whatever on the White House meeting.

No Change In Policy, FD Asserts

(The Associated Press account reported these conflicting statements on what took place in the president's office but made no assertion of fact on its own authority.)

This nation's foreign policy, the president said, had not changed and would not be changed. He reiterated it to be:

1. Opposition to any entangling alliances.

2. Maintenance of world trade for all nations including ourselves.

3. We are in sympathy with each and every effort to reduce or limit armaments.

Some Confused About Parley

The president's lengthy discussion of foreign policy followed a question which suggested some people were confused about what actually took place at his conference with the senate military committee and also his meeting yesterday with a house appropriations subcommittee on the army bill.

Mr. Roosevelt said his foreign policy had been completely covered in his message to congress.

Asked to state exactly what happened at his conference with the military committee so as to clarify the situation, the president said he already had given the press that in his restatement of foreign policy. He said the question of secrecy

CONSCIENCE HURTING HIM, MAN COMES BACK TO CONFESS 1935 SLAYING OF HIS WIFE AND SON

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 3 (AP)—District Attorney Andrew T. Park related today the bizarre story of a conscience-harried young dentist who, although remarried, returned here after a long flight from the law and admitted the slaying of his son and first wife.

Unsuccessful as a dentist, 34-year-old Dr. Norman Stewart, 2nd, who later became a grocery clerk and bartender, stole $500 from a Jacksonville, Fla., hotel to finance the trip and came here yesterday, leaving the woman he married a year ago in Jacksonville, Park said.

For four hours last night, Arms folded and showing no emotion, Stewart detailed in a gruesome statement how, driven to desperation by debt, his mind "went blank" after an argument with his lovely young first wife over finances in their tiny flat.

When he came to his senses later, Park said the statement added, Stewart found his wife, Mary Louise McClelland Stewart, 26, of Wilkesburg, and his four-year-old son and namesake, Norman, 3rd, dead—beaten to death with a hammer and stabbed with a bread knife.

This was on June 15, 1935, when, after having failed to make a success of a dental practice, Stewart had a depression job as a $15-a-week grocery clerk. With $11 in his pocket, Park said the statement related, Stewart hitch-hiked to Jacksonville where he became a bartender and odd job man.

"I came back to Pittsburgh because I wanted to get the whole thing off my mind," Park quoted Stewart as saying.

The district attorney added that Stewart had been indicted for murder after the deaths of his first wife and son and he probably would be brought to trial in several weeks. He was committed to jail on a bench warrant under the old indictment. Police said they had believed Stewart was dead.

Comparing this year's Golden Gloves champions with the kingpins of the 1938 tournament: FLYWEIGHT—Ynez Yanez doesn't weigh as much as did Willie Grey when the bell boy sacked up the crown last year but he's in far better shape, probably could have taken the veteran over the hurdles. He showed he could cope with a left hand by trouncing Bob Weaver, the rugged Kermit swinger last night in the finals. Grey, remember, is a southpaw.

BANTAM—We'd like Red Womack, the '38 champ, over Edgar Griggers, the Kermit laddie. O'Dell had a world of stamina while in action, was far cooler than the boy that beat Jim Harrison down last night. Too, his work in close probably would have folded the new titlist.

FEATHER—It would be difficult to compare Jack Childress, the new champion, and James Skalsky, who captured the first title. In his fights here, Skalsky used his height and reach to advantage to win most of his decisions. The Midland boy is similarly equipped. Childress may be a harder puncher. However, he was not in the condition with which James took the ring last year.

LIGHTWEIGHT—The Ellis Read of '39 could bash the Ellis Read of '38 to the canvas in a round.

WELTER—Richard Gibson, the new champ, had plenty of trouble in last night's final but he had little occasion to be tested with a left. Don Beck's favorite weapon, Dick's main trouble with the larger boys is getting in close enough to do any damage but the Monahan champion could be hit a lot easier than Junior Gibson, Richard's opponent, last night.

MIDDLEWEIGHT—The J. C. Wallace of 1938 was in good shape and threw a wicked right punch. The Jesse Carnes of 1939 could not approach his predecessor in boxing skill but one of his wild rights might have connected. It would have been short and sweet either way.

LIGHTHEAVY—E. P. Lawson, first title holder, could not have lasted with Wait Stone, the new No. one man in that division. Wait, a Crane youth, would have a pull of some eight pounds and use all his tonnage to finish his job. He displays a terrific jab and a neat left hook.

HEAVY—Truett Fulcher, succeeding Red Cunningham as the bread-and-butter king-pin here, won the Texas title last year and is due again. One can't argue with a boxing puncher like the 194-pound Coloradoan. Red was game to the core but he would have been lucky to go the limit.

Following Read's grand triumph over Huff Rhone last night, the little champion said that the Kermit veteran was the toughest customer he had ever faced. Early in the fight Huff was slipping his right through Read's defense, beating a tattoo on the local's ribs. "One punch almost caved my side in," said Read. The Big Springer covered up, however, and the invader finally came to terms.

RUFF AND HIS MANAGER, MALCOLM BRIDGES, AGREED ALIKE THAT READ WOULD GO A LONG WAY IN THE STATE TOURNAMENT.

Credit to a large degree in Ynez Yanez's victory over Bob Weaver in the flyweight finals can go to Bob Stinnett, the very capable second and trainer. Ynez, a good listener, was pointed out Weaver's weak points by Robin after the opening round and he scrapped exactly the kind of fight Bobby wanted him to.

Incidentally, Stinnett Thursday received an autographed picture from his old friend and employer, Maxie Beer. Stinnett served as a sparing partner for the Livermore Larroper a couple of years back.

When the Hobbs high school basketball team trounced Abilene's Eagles last night in Abilene, 26-24, the War Birds' great center, Gene Bennett, was limited to two points. The Hobbs' mentor attempted to arrange a game here but wanted too much guarantee.

Cecil Smyly Is Official Loop Bat Champ

Victory Leads To Advancement To Dallas, Stevens Second

The most interesting individual race in the West Texas-New Mexico League during the 1938 season was for the batting crown which was annexed by hard-hitting Cecil Smyly who clouted the apple for a .367 average while performing under the Hobbs' banner.

Smyly's impressive showing was directly responsible for his purchase by Dallas of the Texas League which will afford him the opportunity to prove himself in higher company. He will be fighting to hold a place in competition with several league-leading hitters from other circuits.

The batting battle was closely contested from the start of the season when George Donaldson, also of Hobbs, started off with a .400 average to set the pace. He participated in only 67 games, however, and wound up with an average of .427 before being shipped to the Evangeline League, thereby relinquishing the honors to his team mate.

Over the route Smyly was closely followed by two of the Lubbock Hubbers' "murderers row," Malcolm Stevens who was outstanding at the keystone position, was second among the hundred-game players in the batting averages with .365 as his mark, while that of his Manager "Hack" Miller was .364. Cecil did not overlook the two most important features of offensive play—scoring runs and driving teammates across the pay-off base, going well over the century mark in both departments.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3 (AP)—Merrick, the oldest thoroughbred horse in America, recently celebrated his thirty-sixth birthday, the equivalent of 144 years for a human being.

NY's L'heavy Crown Is On Block Tonight

Bettina And Fox To Tangle With Tiger Favored To Win

NEW YORK, Feb. 3 (AP)—Mello Bettina and Tiger Jack Fox, two fighters from the wrong side of the tracks, will maul each other in Madison Square Garden tonight for New York's world lightweight championship, a somewhat tarnished jewel in fiatiana's crown.

These hitherto unsexed performers will fight for a title good only in this state. John Henry Lewis is regarded as legitimate boss of the division outside New York. The state athletic commission relieved him of the title because he wouldn't defend it against Fox, whom he once stopped in three rounds.

Mike Jacobs, acting gold in the division's tangled affairs, has large plans for a bout between John Henry Lewis and Dave Clark of Detroit, with the victor meeting the winner of tonight's combat.

Right now it looks as if John Henry would have to chop off a leg to get down to 175, the division limit.

Fox's reputation as a hitter and Bettina's as a homespun hero who is kind to small children will swell tonight's gate to around $35,000.

Fox has been installed as a 5 to 12 favorite.

Following Read's grand triumph over Huff Rhone last night, the little champion said that the Kermit veteran was the toughest customer he had ever faced.

Early in the fight Huff was slipping his right through Read's defense, beating a tattoo on the local's ribs. "One punch almost caved my side in," said Read. The Big Springer covered up, however, and the invader finally came to terms.

RUFF AND HIS MANAGER, MALCOLM BRIDGES, AGREED ALIKE THAT READ WOULD GO A LONG WAY IN THE STATE TOURNAMENT.

Credit to a large degree in Ynez Yanez's victory over Bob Weaver in the flyweight finals can go to Bob Stinnett, the very capable second and trainer. Ynez, a good listener, was pointed out Weaver's weak points by Robin after the opening round and he scrapped exactly the kind of fight Bobby wanted him to.

Incidentally, Stinnett Thursday received an autographed picture from his old friend and employer, Maxie Beer. Stinnett served as a sparing partner for the Livermore Larroper a couple of years back.

SHOW IN FORSAN SATURDAY

Rivaling any exhibitionists of his kind for color and trickery, Bill Steinecke's House of David basketball team moves into Forsan Saturday evening to do battle with an independent club of that community in a game slated to begin at 8 o'clock. The high school teams of Coahoma and Sterling City tangle as a pre-game feature. Admission for the double header has been established at 35c and 25c. Pictured, above, lower row, left to right, are Lefty Maxwell, ex-Denver, Colorado, star, and Ham Hamilton, former all-star guard of Tennessee. Upper row, left to right, are Chop Lyons, a Georgia boy who was with the Beauties last season, Gene Brownell, one time Wisconsin center who at 6 feet five inches is the tallest man on the squad and Manager Bill Steinecke. Steinecke is a former professional baseball player, having seen service with both the Detroit Tigers and Pittsburgh's Pirates.

FORSAN AND GARDEN CITY TO TANGLE IN FIRST ROUND OF BIG LAKE CAGE TOURNAMENT

Buff's Rate As One Of Favorite Quintets

Klein Is Sure Of Comeback

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 3 (AP)—Chuck Klein promises to be the slugging terror of old for the Phillies this season.

Although considered through by many observers because of his poor 247 average last year, the 33-year-old Hoosier from Indianapolis is convinced he is due for one of his best years in the National league.

"In the first place," Chuck said today, "I am going to stop experimenting with all kinds of bats and go back to the model I used four or five years. You know how a fellow starts to try things when he goes into a slump and begins to worry. That's what happened to me."

Pecarovich New Loyola Mentor

JOHN MUNSKI TO TEST BOYHOOD HERO, KANSAN

COLUMBIA, Mo., Feb. 3 (AP)—Lonesome John Munski, who gets his first crack at his boyhood hero, Glenn Cunningham, in the Wannamaker mile Saturday, developed his speed by beating his 12 sisters and brothers to the dinner table.

Although he won, it has taken this son of Polish immigrants 21 years to pack 160 pounds on his 5 foot, 11 inch frame. But it took him only 13 months as a University of Missouri student, to erase four of the five records the fabled Kansan left him as targets in the Big Six conference.

Akey, Robbins And Bristow In Action

Famed Pro To Play In Foursome, Then Give Trick Show

SATURDAY'S PROGRAM Joe Kirkwood and Harold Akey, professionals, vs. Shirley Robbins and Obie Bristow, amateurs, four ball, nine hole match.

Trick shot exhibition and lecture by Kirkwood. Country Club course. One dollar per person.

Local golf enthusiasts will get a chance to see the game as it is performed in the big time and, incidentally, how it is NOT played ordinarily when Joe Kirkwood, the Melbourne, Australia, trickster, arrives here Saturday for an exhibition. Kirkwood will first test his game in a four ball match. His partner will be Harold Akey, Municipal professional. Opposing that team will be two of this sector's leading amateurs, Shirley Robbins and Obie Bristow. Kirkwood is working constantly on his game, perfecting it for the coming Texas Open in San Antonio, scheduled later in the month and no doubt will be testing his best shots.

Upon completion of that duel, the noted pro will unack his world famed repertoire of golfing tricks for the benefit of local fans. The Aussie is famous for such tricks as driving a ball from a person's mouth and hitting two balls with two clubs at the same time.

Patrons will be assessed $1 at the gate for the privilege of watching the popular visitor.

Casteel Named To Arizona U. Coaching Post

TUCSON, Ariz., Feb. 3 (AP)—University of Arizona football followers hoped today the selection of Miles W. (Mike) Casteel, veteran of the Michigan State coaching staff, as head mentor would bolster the faltering Wildcat gridiron fortunes.

Casteel, who came to terms last night, is expected to arrive about March 1. With him will come Lou Zarza, former Michigan State end, who will become an assistant.

Casteel's salary was not disclosed but sources on the campus and in East Lansing, Mich., reported he accepted an offer of $6,000 on a one-year contract. Casteel succeeds Orin Landreth, who resigned last month after a disastrous 1938 campaign in which the Wildcats won only three of nine games.

BAYLOR BEARS FIGHT HOGS TWICE THIS WEEKEND FOR CHANCE TO STAY IN RACE

Creasy, Adams Due To Stage Scoring Duel

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Feb. 3 (AP)—Two leading hoopmen of the Southwest conference will be pitted against each other tonight when the Arkansas Razorbacks battle the Baylor Bears for a mathematical chance to stay in the race.

Tonight's tilt will be followed by another between the same quintets tomorrow night. Other teams will be occupied with mid-term examinations.

If the games develop into scoring duels, the principals may be John Adams, Arkansas sophomore, and Pete Creasy, Baylor sharp shooter, both of whom are near the conference top in individual scoring.

Coch Ralph Wolf warned his Baylor squad it was going up against "one of the toughest clubs in the loop."

His charges, who knocked Rice out of second place, have not looked impressive in workouts this week.

The Razorbacks, mostly sophomores, have won only one game out of four tries, but have tightened up in practice.

Dempsey Morrison, North Carolina's 1938 champion 4-H Dairy Club calf member, calculated a profit of $1,638 in one year from a herd of five Jerseys.

WAYLAND MEETS GARNER FIVE TONIGHT; WINS OVER MOORE

MOORE, Feb. 3—Wayland's junior college basketball representatives, victors over the Moore Lobos by a 29-16 count Thursday evening, switch their scene of operations to the Garner gym for Friday and Saturday games. This evening's fray will begin at 8 o'clock.

Table with 5 columns: Name, Points, Rebounds, Assists, Steals. Includes Moore Lobos and Wayland players.

Ellis Is Kayo Winner Over R. N. Rhone

Welter Wins Over Led Of Grand Falls; Tiny Latin In Hard One

By HANK HART The victory parade of Ruffian Rhone, a former member of Uncle Sam's Olympic boxing team and now fighting out of Kermit, came to an unexpected ending last night in the finals of the lightweight division of the Herald-Cosden auditorium when he failed to weather a great two duked rally by Big Spring's own Ellis Read.

Rhone, as cagy as they come and a chopper who knows all the angles, bit the dust in 1:32 seconds of the second heat when Ellis put over a stiff solar plexus punch that curled the veteran, followed with two gruesome rights to the chin. Rhone had been backed all the way into the ropes with the mighty body blow Read had administered and deserted ship immediately when the Tiger came into close quarters. It was a heroic finish for a great little fighter. Read had to combat experience and superior clubbing but his job was masterful.

The Big Spring boy wasted little time in leading the way in the initial act. He pushed Ruffian into a corner with a well rounded attack but the invader covered nicely. Rhone put over both hands that found their mark on Read's face but the local youngster wasn't even fazed and kept doggedly at his stalking game. The Kermit veteran was rallying at the bell after twice being cautioned by Referee Bob Shires for alleged low blows.

Two Big Spring boys joined Read as division champions. Richard Gibson won the welter title with a courageous battle with hard hitting Junior Gibson of Grand Falls while the flyweight title went to Ynez Yanez, great little Latin American, who slapped Bob Weaver, Kermit, into submission.

Qualifying also for the Fort Worth finals were Jess Carnes, Monahan middleweight who was forced to win two fights; Jack Childress, Midland feather; Edgar Griggers, Kermit bantam; and Wait Stone, Crane light heavy. Truett Fulcher, Colorado, had earned the heavy crown Wednesday evening.

Richard Gibson weathered a great overhead game from the Grand Falls boy to carry off the 147-pound honors. Dick jumped into the lead at the beginning when he scored with a long right. He was able to go into his shell early when his larger opponent telegraphed his punches but a looping right hand was giving him plenty of trouble.

In the second mill Junior was employing his clubbing right to advantage, bringing blood to Richard's mouth but the localite was

FLOOD CONTROL COMES SECOND Hydroelectric power production, not flood control, must be recognized as the chief purpose of the federal-aid projects on the Brazos and Colorado.

The report of the senate committee which investigated the Colorado project supports the conclusions drawn after the flood on that stream last spring.

A dam cannot effectively serve both flood control and power production. The former involves the impounding and gradual discharge of flood waters.

On The Record

(Miss Thompson's column is published as an informational and news feature. Her views are personal and are not to be construed as necessarily reflecting the editorial opinion of The Herald.—Editor's Note.)

THE HITLER SPEECH Whenever Hitler moderates his voice and delivers a speech in a tone to which civilized ears are accustomed, the world breathes a sigh of relief and is inclined to praise him.

Thus Mr. Chamberlain finds that the Monday speech was not one calculated to throw the world into a state of confusion, and Senator Key Pittman suggests that if Hitler's future actions are as tolerant as his Reichstag speech there will be no fear of any immediate war.

As a matter of fact, Hitler never delivered a more ominous speech or one more cunningly calculated to befuddle his opponents and create dissension in democracies.

The speech boils down to a declaration of intention to reappropriate the distribution of the world's wealth among nations. He declared his complete solidarity with Italy, and, in effect, handed Mussolini a blank check.

He announced a more intensive trade and propaganda war on the democracies.

He appealed to the masses of the world to unite in a common front against their universal enemy, the Jews, whom he managed at one and the same time to associate with international finance, capitalism and bolshevism.

And his argument was that any attempt to halt the inevitable expansion of Germany, Italy and Japan, which he clearly associated ideologically with fascism and nationalism, might precipitate a war, and that in that case the defenders would be the aggressors and bear the burden of the war guilt!

Hitler's intention is to put anybody who opposes the extension of fascism and the aggrandement of the fascist nations in the position of being a war monger. He, therefore, plays upon the overwhelming desire for peace of civilized people and exploits one of the noblest yearnings of mankind for the uses of a completely militarized social order.

His whole program follows a pattern. He is now pursuing on a world scale exactly the political technique with which he conquered Germany.

Recognizing that there is an aggressive instinct in man, he seeks to deflect that instinct in a direction which will do him no possible harm.

Just as inside Germany he managed to persuade the German people that the source of all their troubles was the one per cent of the Jewish population, so he seeks to convince Great Britain, for instance, or France, that they are not antagonized by 10,000,000 people of various nationalities scattered throughout the earth, plotting them as part of some gigantic plot whose aim is world bolshevism.

And with this technique he hopes to create civil strife in the democracies, to confuse issues, to awaken distrust, and thus to weaken the nations at whose expense he intends to profit.

The mind of Adolf Hitler is a peculiar thing. It would be psychologically interesting to know whether he really believes what he says and is himself a victim of huge obsessions, or whether the fantastic distortions of history and of facts which he voices are coldly and cunningly devised for a precise effect. His speech on Monday contained some patent, but mostly irrelevant truths, and some gigantic lies.

This column certainly would not quarrel with his ironic description of the Versailles policy toward Germany—with the idiocy of fighting a war for trade and then exacting huge reparations which could only be paid by an artificial acceleration of German exports. But the Versailles policy is all water under the bridge, and has no pertinence to the present state of affairs. When Hitler comes to more recent history his descriptions are breath taking in their monstrous misrepresentation.

One need only take his description of the conquest of Austria, which he presents as an act of self-determination! He describes Chancellor Schuschnigg's plebiscite as the "destruction of the legal basis of the national right of self-determination" of Austrian Germans.

He makes no reference to his own plebiscite, conducted in Austria under an army of occupation, by which he destroyed the legal existence of Austria!

Defending the right of self-determination, he makes no reference to the million Czechs who have been forced under German rule in the last few months by a military coup d'etat.

His description of German trade policies, as compared with those of states "with an international outlook," is a way round of the facts. He accuses these capitalist states of juggling their currencies, making no reference to the fact that there are at present at least 11 different forms of

by GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Some of the men were tired. You could tell that. They were in various stages of undress, because they had been there since one o'clock, and it was now five. Some of the men had their coats off. Others had their neckties loose and their collars open at the throat.

Eddy Duchin sat at the piano and ran his hand through his hair, early hair. He said: "Okay, once again for that ending."

The men picked up their instruments. Morton Downey stopped thinking about whatever he was thinking about and stepped up to the mike. Duchin's hand came down and the band, with Downey singing, played about two bars of "Heart and Soul." When it was over Duchin looked up towards the control booth. Harry Von Zell, the production man, nodded to him, and then Duchin dismissed the band.

We were sitting in the control booth, studio 3B, watching the rehearsal with Von Zell, and several agency officials, and Dorelle Alexander, the little Dallas, Texas girl who is Duchin's vocalist. Then Duchin and Morton Downey were coming into the booth and Duchin yelled, "What was it, Harry, what was it?"

"A couple of clinkers sneaked in there," Von Zell told him. A "clinker" is a bad note. Duchin looked surprised. "Can't understand it," he said.

"Oh, it's okay now. You're all right now," Duchin said. "We've been here all afternoon and I'm tired. It costs a lot of money to keep these men on rehearsals, Harry."

"But it can't go out over the air unless it's right." There was a lot of good-natured heckling, and then Eddy said, "How did it go? For time, I mean?"

One of the men in the control booth put his forefinger on his nose. That meant "right on the nose" or "right on time." Sometimes during a broadcast you'll see production men signal an orchestra leader in this manner. Then he hasn't anything to worry about. If the show is running a little ahead of schedule he makes a motion with two hands as if he were pulling candy or playing an accordion. That means to stretch it out a little. If the show is behind schedule he makes a motion similar to the way you crank a car or turn an egg-beater. That tells the orchestra leader to step up the tempo, that he's running behind time.

There must be a thousand such signals which radio men know and use every day. You have to hang around and watch a lot of rehearsals to get onto them. Duchin was running his hand through his hair again. It was his show—or he would be when it went on the air at 8:30. He guessed it was okay. He said, "Come on, I'm buying a drink." So we all went downstairs to a restaurant and had a glass of something or other—all that is, except Morton Downey, who ordered a big bowl of ice cream. He will order it four or five times a day, or every time you pass a restaurant, if you go inside. He just can't say no to ice cream.

Duchin said, "you hear a guy a half hour on the air and you think that's all there is to it—a half hour. But we've been working since one o'clock—and it'll be after midnight before we're through. I'm going to catch a little shuteye." Downey said, "I better get Barbara." Barbara is his wife. So Duchin got up and went out, and Downey went off to look for a telephone, and the rest of us said "so long" and scattered here and there. It was just that sort of afternoon.

DANGEROUS SERVICE

By GRACE ELLIOTT TAYLOR

Chapter 15 MICHAEL'S PARTY Three months had passed. It was springtime of 1932. Tomorrow, Petronella must start work again from 9:30 till 6 o'clock. The Trilight Insurance Company was not bad, she supposed. But it was far from good. If only Martin Rowdon would hurry up, and offer her a post at the News office! In the meantime, she must type dull letters, among pleasant, dull people. She supposed that was partly why she felt so depressed, this evening. The other things, nothing seemed very right these days. Aunt Maisie was not well. She had had to see a specialist just after Christmas, but the famous man's diet, and prescription, did not seem to be doing her much good. Then there was the quarrel with James. He scarcely ever came near her, since their fight about Colin coming to live at the flat. Colin was not with them any longer, but James still believed she had felt more than friendship and sympathy for him. Peter and Petrel climbed the narrow, dark staircase to the flat. They let themselves into the tiny hall. It smelled airless. Petronella threw down her book and parcels, and opened the nearest window. Outside, the night-blue darkness and faint stars, above bright lights.

"What about a new frock and hat for you?" suggested Peter, unexpectedly and bluntly. His sister turned. She looked at herself dispassionately in the hall mirror. So Peter thought that she was looking dowdy, and unattractive. What did it matter, if she wore old clothes, so long as they were good clothes, and she looked neat and fresh? Tony Lance was not here to see new clothes. A strange sound from the sitting-room startled Petronella. It began like the last creak of a tuck-toe, and ended with a shout. "Petrel! Here's a letter from Rowdon!" Come and read it, Quick!

He was standing there, dazedly. She took the letter, but the words danced before her eyes, after she had read the first few lines. Peter was not entitled to a holiday, but if he liked to pay his expenses when he arrived there, the News would pay his return fare to Germany. He could be gone two or three weeks. It would "help him in his struggle with the language."

"I'm to visit Berlin, Munich, the Rhine, the Ruhr!" cried Peter. "I can write some articles on my impressions of the troubled state of the country, and bring them back with me. If I get the chance, I'm to hear Hitler and Goering speak. Rowdon says he probably won't see them. But, as was the case in Burns, I may strike lucky. It is my chance! Don't you see?"

"Peter! Oh, Peter! Have we anything in the place to drink?" "Yes, the sherry Colin sent us!" Solemnly they toasted Peter's luck. They were wildly excited. The future, thought Peter, seemed suddenly to be opening up. "Seems a pity you can't come with me."

She dismissed the possibility instantly. "Of course you'll do better alone! What is happening in Germany now? I shall like standing on the edge of your newspaper racket, darling, looking on."

"Working up for the elections. Von Hindenburg should get a majority. The people trust him. But the Nazis are climbing all the time. There's going to be a lot of trouble, if the Communists try to stop them."

No Premonition "Peter, don't be reckless. Don't act without thinking. Carry the things you want to write in your head, rather than on paper. When will you go?"

"Towdon suggests next Friday, the ninth, Petrel, since I'm going, there's something you've got to know. It'll amuse you having me know. It was the reason I was telling you to buy some new togs, really. The reason I'd like to stand you a new hat, if you'll let me. Because though James is a darn nice chap, I know you're not really caring much, if he does take Molly about occasionally."

Petronella stiffened. "Quickly, what are you trying to tell me?" "That you might run into Tony Lance some day soon. He has left the staff. He has left China. But he came into the office the other day. You'd want to look nice."

"Where is he?" "In London, for all I know." Petronella saw Peter off from Victoria a week later. Her own luggage was in the cloakroom. She was going home after Michael Brane's cocktail party.

"Tell Mike I'm sorry to miss it, but that I'll drink his health in dunkel beer," said Peter. "Yes. Take care of yourself, darling. Goodbye." She filled in the time, till the party, by shopping. She bought a wide brimmed white straw hat, which suited her. It looked nice with this new white linen suit, she thought, pleased. It made her look cooler than she felt. It was so close, and thundery, in London streets. She had almost decided to catch an earlier train home, not to go to Mike's beautiful all-white apartment. But the next two weeks would be very quiet. She liked meeting friends. She decided to stay for the party.

No feeling of fate, no inkling of premonition, was there. Petronella thought that, when she was shown into the sitting-room, the first person she would see would be Tony Lance.

He was leaning against the mantelpiece, talking to a girl in a gray suit. When he saw her, he straightened. He forgot to listen to what the girl was saying to him. His eyes met Petronella's, and his straight mouth spoke her name, suddenly. She raised her hand, across the crowded room. What else could she do? He looked relieved. He smiled, very faintly. Michael was busy at the bar.

"Hello, Petrel! So Peter is off to Germany, I hear? Sorry he couldn't come. You're looking very nice, my dear. Cocktail, or sherry? Do you know—?" he commenced introducing her to the people nearest them.

She did not hear their names. She smiled, and talked to them. She was apparently calm, even, she believed, natural. It was as if this shock had frozen her. Tony Lance was over there, behind her. She was waiting, in a moment, he would make his way through the babel. She would have to speak to him.

But he did not come. Gradually, Petronella felt her first control ebbing from her. She was no longer numb. Her power to feel was returning to her. She was acutely alive, acutely miserable.

"But surely," said the man to whom she was talking, "you don't really think that?" What didn't she really think? But it was all right. She heard herself answering him.

No Escape Strange how your mind was divided into parts, and the parts could work separately. What a fool she had been, to think that Tony would come. He was with that girl, the girl in the perfectly tailored gray flannel suit and the little slouch hat. Misery enveloped her. Her head throbbled. She was young, and inadequate. Completely incapable of handling a man like Tony Lance. That girl was sophisticated, lusciously of herself, and of her own attraction. "My clothes are all wrong," thought Petrel. That girl was the right accompaniment to a man like Tony. The kind of woman he could take anywhere, to Moscow, or Alexandria, or Budapest, at a moment's notice. She would arrive looking immaculate. "Whereas I," thought Petrel, "white linen, white straw hat, crosses, limpness, little girl clothes!"

She was not looking at them, but she was fiercely aware of them. They were laughing together. She felt as insulted as if Tony had hit her across the face. Fool, fool, she upbraided. All this time, she had been imagining that he had loved her. In reality, he went everywhere with another, a more suitable girl. This party was a nightmare. She must escape. He must never know, for certain, what she had felt, the suffering she had endured for him. Unless she got away now, he would read it in her eyes, her foolish, untutored eyes.

"Michael, thank you for a lovely party. I have to go early." "Goodbye, Petrel. Sorry you didn't talk to Tony Lance." "I've read his articles." They moved towards the door. "He's just given some sort of hush-hush job with the Foreign Office."

"Really? How clever of him." Looking up, Petronella found that Tony had left the girl in gray, behind the fireplace. He stood, barring their way to the door.

"Talk of the devil!" cried Mike, gladioli. "I was just telling Petrel Malbone about you, old boy, Petrel, this is—"

She scarcely looked at Tony. In her mind, resentment and anger predominated. He must not know that she had cared.

"We have met, Michael. Rangoon, wasn't it? Either at a usual evening, I seem to remember, in the middle of one of the riots."

She hated her own sippant voice, but pride insisted that she should employ it. Michael left them together.

"Yes, Rangoon. I remember perfectly." He spoke gravely, awkwardly, as if he were shy. Petronella was surprised into meeting his eyes.

"Perhaps you are one of those people who has an excellent memory for some things, and a rotten one for others." The moment she had spoken, she was ashamed. His eyes were not triumphant. Love should know no obligations. Nothing had changed between them. She was sure he felt it too. Even while his mind noted its importance, she told herself. She was helpless against Tony's mind. But he felt as she did. That they had met yesterday. That they had known one another a lifetime. "I love him," she thought. "can't escape."

PEANUTS—POPCORN! Horace Lurd, Argentine sportsman, and Patricia Wilder, movie actress, had a circus in their own way, stringing peanuts at a Hollywood night club. Lurd is known among racing circles for his introduction of well known Argentine horses to American race tracks. One of these is "Lizarelli," owned by Bing Crosby and Lin Howard.

TOUCH OF A MASTER was needed to put Mrs. Vincent Astor's curls in place when this social leader of Manhattan prepared for her role in a costume dinner concert staged at the Waldorf for the benefit of the musicians emergency fund. Samuel L. M. Barlow, who also appeared in the cast, watches appreciatively while Walter, Mrs. Astor's hairdresser, tends to her locks.

OPPOSITION to Thomas Amle (above) as member of the interstate commerce commission is forecast in U. S. senate. After his name was offered by F.D.R., the Wisconsin legislature passed resolutions calling him unfit for the appointment.

AN ENGINE TOOK THE CURVE at Kansas City when a Kansas City-to-Denver passenger train rolled over in the yards and bent the rail in this fashion. No one was hurt.

KING'S ENGLISH is being mastered by Russian-born Mrs. Bryan Grover (above), now a student in a London night school. Mrs. Grover recently came from Russia after English engineer-husband had braved Soviet wrath to rejoin her.

HE'S STILL A KING to this young subject, his son, but Faustin E. Wirkus thinks he'd rather not go back to La Gomave as king. Back in 1936, some 12,000 Negroes on La Gomave, a Haiti dependency, chose him king after he'd been sent there for marine duty. He ruled three years. Now in New York he says: "I'm selling securities these days; it's tougher than being king."

BRITONS SAY that this is Premier Neville Chamberlain's "smile of satisfaction"—presumably over his peace plans.

BACKBONE OF U. S. AIR FORCE, these cadets at 2,300-acre Randolph field, Texas, the "West Point of the air," march toward their planes for a cross-country flight, wearing the parachutes that serve as cushions during flights. Most cadets are college graduates from 20 to 27 years old. Sixty-four instructors conduct the training period which is in three 4-month stages.

'BUND DEFENDS CONSTITUTION' declared Wilhelm Kunze (right), national public relations director for the German-American bund, at a Los Angeles meeting. He further described the group as a defender of "true democracy," and Herman Schwinn (left), Pacific coast bund leader, charged a "bunch of aliens in Hollywood" with persecuting the bund in Los Angeles.

HANDS ACROSS THE BORDER were clasped by Gov. Robert T. Jones (left) of Arizona and Gov. Roman Yocypcio of Sonora, Mexico, shown at international border at Nogales, Ariz., and Nogales, Sonora. They exchanged expressions of good will and discussed plans for a highway as well as the 400th observance of the first trip into Arizona by a white man.

WITH A HEIGH-DI HAYDN, the conductor of the Boston symphony orchestra, Serge Koussevitzky, rehearses before a mirror and holds his mouth in the Composer Haydn manner, preparatory to a concert "extraordinaire" in Boston. Bewigged Mr. Koussevitzky will impersonate Haydn—to whom he is said to bear a resemblance—and orchestra members will appear in 18th century finery.

USING THE SIT-DOWN TECHNIQUE, these British unemployed staged a "sit-down" demonstration on damp Oxford street, London, to call attention to their claims for increased winter relief. "Starved, protested, arrested," read many of the posters with which the men covered themselves while women paraded the sidewalks carrying similar signs.

IF HE LOST HIS HEAD it was in a good cause, declared Senorita Myrtilina Besson as she palms one of the masks to be used at the 181st annual Fiestas de Luna carnival at Puerto Rico Feb. 9-31. Miss Besson is queen of beauty at the carnival.

NEW TYPE LIFEBOAT shown in above model was designed by James D. Farlow (right) of the Ocean City, Md., coast guard station, and is based on Mr. Farlow's patent and on Thomas Y. Henry—a special towing gear and other safety features.

'PULL' aptly has tiny magnet developed by General Electric at Schenectady. It's able to lift 1,500 times its weight and is a "hot" magnet, being so hard it stands temperatures that cause other magnetic metals to pool as it cools.

cool under pressure and was rushing his opponent into the ropes at the bell.

Carnes Under

The Big Springer was still having trouble with Junior's up-and-over project in the third but somehow he fought his way under the invader's defense and rocked Junior's head with lefts and rights. It was very close.

Times gave away seven pounds to Weaver but he employed the same tactics he used against Bobby Lambeth Wednesday evening to win. He rode out a terrific first round attack on the part of the Kermel product and had Weaver in a bad way in the second. He was drifting his right directly into Weaver's face and had the visitor moving away in the waning moments of the inning. Weaver clipped Ynez very hard in the third stanza and the locals went down for a four count but he bounded up and they were slugging too to see at the bell with Ynez hitting him to the punch. The sensational finish brought a roar from the crowd.

Carnes initiated the show with a two-round knox over Roland Carroll, Monahan boy, then dropping the finisher by dropping stubborn C. J. Seale, Monahan, to the canvas in frame three. Carnes used straight punches in his initial go with Carroll and the opposition faded. Time was 43 seconds.

Against Seale the effects of the first bout were plainly evident but he got in his licks and was taking punishment early. He punched magnificently with both hands in the third and Seale's pins collapsed. Seale attempted to come through by clinching but Carnes simply backed away and fired at the wavering target. Seale substituted for a nine count, then went down again after barely arising. His second's towel saved him from further punishment.

Midland's Wins

Midland's Childrens used superior height and weight to wear down Dexter Jays, Monahan, in the feather title mix. Jays' rally midway earned him the points of the fight but Childress was the better at the beginning and the finish. Jays' lips began to bleed early but he never lost balance and finished sturdily.

In the bantam scrap Harrison made the mistake of trying to finish off Griggers. Edgar was not in the best of shape but he finally wore the little Coloradoan down. Harrison changed his tactics after going back to his corner but it was too late. Griggers continued to pile up the points that copped the duke.

Stone peppered Lamessa's Lefty Barnes with the same attack he had won his bout the previous evening, pinning the protégé of Earl Scott's down in 1:20 minutes of the first heat. Walt drove the stocky Barnes outside the ropes with a jabbing right hand that targeted both the kidney and the jaw. The Lamessa took no count on that one but failed to weather another chin blow when he came back for more and again landed outside the ropes where he listened to Shirres' toll.

Life Of Edison Is Subject Of Talk Before Kiwanians

Tom Coffee, chairman of the laws and regulations committee of the Big Spring Kiwanis club, Thursday presented L. A. Eubanks in an address on the life of Thomas A. Edison.

"Thomas Alva Edison, the world's greatest electrician and inventor, was born at Milan, Ohio, Feb. 11, 1847, and died in 1931," the speaker said.

"Edison's first invention came early in life while engaged as a telegraph operator. It was a repeating instrument which enabled a message to be transmitted automatically on a second line without the presence of an operator. This was followed by a vote recording machine and development of a stock quotation printer.

"In 1878 he introduced the Edison phonograph and the next year brought the incandescent light, outcome of which is today's electric light and power industry," Eubanks told Kiwanians.

"More than 1,000 patents were issued Edison, his later life being devoted chiefly to perfection and improvement of inventions already made.

"In July of 1915, Edison was appointed president of the naval consulting board and in this capacity performed valuable service to the government, and in 1929 he received many honors on the occasion of the celebration of the 50th anniversary of the incandescent lamp."

Others on the luncheon program were Miss Juanita Cook, Mrs. W. L. Baird and Miss Beatrice Peck, who rendered several vocal selections with accordion accompaniment. Bob Finer was a guest.

THREE BURNED AND FOURTH INJURED AS FILM EXPLODES

HOUSTON, Feb. 3 (AP)—Explosion of film was believed by three men to have been the origin of a fire at a movie house which resulted in burns to three employees and injuries to a 16-year-old spectator last night.

Charles S. Scott, the youth, was found unconscious in the building after 400 patrons had rushed to safety through a rear exit. The youth, apparently trampled in the stampede, revived at a hospital. Charlie Ed Marshall, 25, relief operator in the projection room, was most seriously burned. Giles Polk, an assistant operator, and J. H. Mangum, 46, chief operator, also suffered burns.

Seek To Extend Training Of Air Corps Reservists

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (AP)—The army air corps is studying means to intensify training of reserve fliers, officials indicated today, while it schools new pilots for the additional warplanes asked by President Roosevelt.

Some 2,400 air reservists now constitute a national defense backlog. Their number is expected to be increased by thousands in a few years, under administration plans. Reservists spokesmen have asked more instructors, increased pay and other incentives for spare time flying. Legislation embodying some of the proposals has been offered in congress.

Officials say intensively-trained young men kept at high efficiency by active service are required to pilot modern complicated warplanes. Some reservists have had difficulties with the rigid physical requirements. There has been no hint these would be relaxed.

A large proportion of the reserve fliers are commercial pilots. Of the approximately 2,400 members of the inactive corps, about 1,500 are listed as qualified pilots, available for emergency service.

POLICE CHIEF DIES IN AUTO MISHAP

TULSA, Okla., Feb. 3 (AP)—Chief of Police Joe Welch of Sayre, Okla., was dead today following an automobile accident on U. S. highway 66 seven miles east of here late last night.

Welch, who was 50, had been police chief at Sayre six years. He was chief of police at Borger, Tex., in oil boom days there.

Highway Patrolmen R. E. Poe and C. T. Raley said a hitch-hiker, Ray Ward, 25, of Urbana, Ohio, told them he was driving Welch's car at the officer's request when the mishap occurred. Ward was unhurt. He said another car, which did not stop, struck the rear of the machine he was driving and it careened into a ditch.

Welch struck the windshield. Head injuries and loss of blood from a slashed throat apparently caused his death.

Survivors are a widow and a 17-year-old son.

Data Ordered Before Grand Jury On Land Dept. Expenditures

AUSTIN, Feb. 3 (AP)—Land Commissioner Beacom Giles was under instructions of a committee of the Texas legislature today to present to the Travis county grand jury data on certain operations of the general land office under a previous administration.

Allegations that nearly two-thirds of a year's appropriation had been expended to operate the department one-third of a year were heard yesterday by the house appropriations committee when Giles' request for an emergency grant of $9,000 to run the department until Sept. 1, 1939, was presented.

Rep. Joe Keith of Sherman, sponsor of the bill asking the funds, said $17,948 had been spent to operate the office from Sept. 1, 1938, to Jan. 1, 1939, out of a twelve months' appropriation of $27,160.

Keith asserted that left only $9,000 for the remainder of the fiscal year, or about $1,000 a month, whereas the last legislature had provided more than $2,000 a month, if the amount was prorated.

Giles said he found unpaid expenses of the office amounting to more than $1,000, among which was a telephone bill for last July and August totaling $373. Keith charged four men had been paid out of an office stamp fund.

Wall Street

NEW YORK, Feb. 3 (AP)—The stock market's rallying engine developed profit taking whereas today and leading issues slipped fractions to more than a point.

Lack of important selling throughout, however, gave mid encouragement. The ticker tape frequently was silent. A few obstinate issues managed to show small gains near the fourth hour.

Although nervousness over the foreign scene appeared to have abated somewhat, traders inclined to step carefully in view of the Mussolini speech, due tomorrow, which, it was thought, might tip the market scales either way.

ROME, Feb. 3 (AP)—The United States embassy today asked the Italian government for an explanation of bitter personal attacks on President Roosevelt published in the fascist press.

The attacks were part of an intensely hostile press campaign provoked by versions of the president's meeting Tuesday with a senate committee which quoted him as saying that the frontiers of the United States were in France.

The campaign was continued today for the third day with Virginio Gayda, fascist's chief newspaper spokesman, leading the attack.

"Since Roosevelt wants to push his offensive into the heart of Europe up to the Rhine and Alps," Gayda wrote in Il Giornale d'Italia, "it is natural that the defense to counter-balance it be extended up to the Rio Grande as well as to the line of the Panama Canal which has been developed by the United States as one of its bases for maneuvers between the Atlantic and Pacific."

Sights And Sounds

"Gunga Din" Screen play by Joel Sayre and Fred Gullo, from story by Ben Hecht and Charles MacArthur, suggested by Rudyard Kipling poem. Directed by George Stevens. Cast: Cary Grant, Victor McLaglen, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Sam Jaffe, Eduardo Cinnelli, Joan Fontaine, Montagu Love.

HOLLYWOOD—Sometimes Hollywood forgets its original function, which was to make movies. Every year it turns 'em out by the hundreds, but all too often its "movies" are talkies. Here is a hurrah-worthy exception. "Gunga Din" is a movie and it isn't ashamed of it. It moves! It races! It MOVES!

You won't have trouble following the story. It's a combination of "The Three Musketeers" and "Beau Geste" and "Drums" and "What Price Glory?" and "The Perils of Pauline" and all the other slapdash thrillers you've seen these many years. But unless you're too dazed sophisticated for your own good you'll glory in it—and why shouldn't you? Sneer if you will, the old hoke is still our best entertainment.

And "Gunga Din" is that old hoke dressed to kill. If you fans who keep Hollywood's wheels oiled with golden lavo don't go for this, you've changed—and disastrously for Hollywood.

Three gay troopers of Her Majesty's army in India are the protagonists in Rule-Britannia's war upon the murderous religious cult of Thuggee. The Thugs are devotees of the goddess Kali, who seems to enjoy nothing better than a good angling party, especially if the victims are British.

Grant, McLaglen and Fairbanks, out on a rescue expedition after an isolated British outpost has been mysteriously wiped out, have a bangup, swashbuckling battle for their lives, return to report the reappearance of the cult.

Gunga Din (Jaffe) is the humble native water-carrier with ambitions to be a soldier. Trooper Grant's craving is for gold. When loyal Din brings tales of a mountain temple with a golden dome the two set off—and find the seat of fortress of the Thugs. Surrendering himself to be tortured, Grant sends the water-carrier back for help. McLaglen and Fairbanks come alone, are themselves captured. But they maneuver the Thug leader (Cinnelli) into the imprisonment of the British come, marching blindly into the Thug trap, while from the temple tower the prisoners look on helpless. When Cinnelli escapes and sacrifices himself in the snake pit (oh, yes, there's a lovely snake pit!) things look blackest for our heroes. But in the battle the wounded Din gets out his trusty bugle and—

Swell movie, this. Backgrounds of spectacular crags and rocks and snowy peaks, great shots of fierce battle amid Lone Pine's best scenery and cloud effects—all help to make "Gunga Din" approach the Hollywood ideal: colossal, gigantic, super-super.

"Gunga Din" has everything—good acting, comedy, expert direction, even a bit of romance featuring the appealing Fontaine.

"Four Girls in White." Screen play by Dorothy Yost. Directed by E. Sylvan Simon. Cast: Florence Rice, Una Merkel, Ann Rutherford, Mary Howard, Alan Marshall, Kent Taylor, Buddy Ebsen, Jessie Ralph.

Miss Rice plays a gal with marry-rich-quick motives who thinks she'll find the man in a big hospital. She learns that being a nurse means more than man-hunting, and after she's messed up a few lives she reforms in a disaster sequence, marries the right guy.

It's fairly routine stuff, enlivened occasionally by comedy of Merkel and Ebsen.

wood she was his wife, said she and her husband left Dallas at 8:30 p. m. yesterday en route to San Antonio. She said she had been working at a Dallas barber shop.

At Brownwood, a short time before the slaying City Alderman A. P. Sprinkle, tipped that Haley was at the tourist camp, went to the place with Fuson and Policeman Fred White. Fuson knocked at the door and entered when a light flashed on, the suspect denied he was Haley, and offered to produce papers to prove it. Just as he did so, officers said, Fuson was felled under the impact of four pistol shots.

The policeman, who had been on the force only six months, died an hour later.

The suspect darted into the bathroom and White and Sprinkle captured him.
