"He Profits Most Who Serves Best"

Santa Anna Merchants Uniting In Big Advertising Program

On the middle pages of this issue of the Santa Anna News will be found a large spread, almost the equal of two pages, made up of real bargains offered by the Santa Anna merchants. This is the first of a series of Special Bargains and the series will be repeated twice each month for the next eight months. This series of bargains is the result of much consideration and careful thought and planning on the part of the business men of Santa Anna, and carries the endorsement of both banks, the Telephone company, the Coleman Oil and Gas Company, serving Coleman and Santa Anna, and twenty-five of the leading stores in town. The title of this campaign is THE MERIT MERCHANTS PLAN which simply means that they are bidding for your business on the sole basis of MERIT as to quality, service, price and interest. The merchants listed on this page are determined to MERIT your trade in an acceptable manner, and have arranged a united program for a period of thirty-two weeks. Each merchant in this group will have on sale Monday and Tuesday, March 3rd and 4th, one or more real TRADE MERIT SPECIALS. Santa Anna merchants believe that the way to gain more trade is to prove that they MERIT it, and in line with this idea they joined in a program which will make possible the saving of several hundred dollars to the people of this town and trade territory. Every ad on this spread is numbered and the following list is an index to a number of the very special bargains offered.

No. 1 offers a 3-pound bucket of high grade coffee and one large bowl for $1.15.

No. 2 offers boy's unionals for 59 cents.

MEETING TO BE HELD WITH VIEW OF OBTAINING CO-OPERATION IN COTTON PLANTING

We have been requested by several interested farmers and business men to announce that a mass meeting will be held Tuesday, March 4th, at about three o'clock for the purpose of discussing the advisability of ordering a carload of certified cotton seed to plant this season. We are in correspondence with several seed-breeders and are ready to cooperate with the farmers to help them in whatever way we can to get better prices for their cotton. We have it from what we believe to be reliable sources that farmers in nearby communities who adopted one certain variety of cotton last year, and ginned in a gin that refused to gin any other variety, sold their cotton at an average of $14.00 per bale above the average price paid for common run or mixed varieties. If this be true, cotton growers are sitting in their own light if they don't bury their prejudice and adopt a good variety of cotton and enough of them plant it to justify the ginner's and buyer's special consideration. 100 bales of a leading variety of cotton will attract some attention but 1,000 bales will attract a whole lot more. One bale of cotton will bring a small sum of money but one thousand bales of cotton will bring a considerable sum. Then, if the price of cotton in a county is based upon the average grade, one man has a staple fifteen sixteenths of an inch long, another has a staple seven-eighths of an inch and still another has a staple only three-fourths of an inch long, the average will be fixed for the seventh-eighths minus. Therefore, there is little inducement or encouragement for a farmer to invest in high price seed of the longer staple varieties of cotton, when his neighbors continue to plant the short staple varieties. The thing we are interested in therefore, is to find out what the farmers want and then help them get it but if you have more gumption than to want to hold out for such a variety of cotton as the so-called "half and half" and some other varieties of cotton of a like staple, you don't need any help and we would not choose to offer any assistance. If interested, be here Tuesday afternoon, March 4th and let's see what can be done.

30-Year-Old Copy of the News Filled With Interest For Old-Timers Here

In the collection of old papers that were kept by the late L. S. Millard were found three copies of the Santa Anna News that were published three decades ago. One paper is dated September 24, 1897, one for March 3, 1899, and the third was for June 29, 1906. Will Hubert was editor and publisher in 1897. T. E. Campbell and Son were the publishers in 1899, and the copy for 1906, was published at the time that Wade and Wade were the editors and publishers. These papers were found very interesting by the present News force and we are indebted to Hays Hofner for his thoughtfulness in bringing them in to us.

You will recognize many familiar names among the advertisers in the News of 1897: W. R. Kelley and Co., J. C. Dibrell, The Citizens Bank—M. Tyson, Pres., J. E. Hall, Cashier—L. W. Hunter, Leeper Lumber Yard, Mathews and Phillips, Exchange Bankers, Mountain Hotel with Mrs. B. H. Melton as proprietor, L. V. Stockard, Real Estate and Insurance, A. G. Weaver and Son, Wofford Bros. and A. J. Brown, W. B. Mitchell was the agent for the Santa Fe at that time. The physicians carrying cards in the News of 1897 were Dr. J. P. Mathews, Dr. Newt Long and Dr. T. F. Davis. In the locals we found the names of J. H. Green, Guy Sanderson, O. H. Perry, W. B. Allison, Pete Rhenm, W. T. Laughlin. Listed in the official directory of Coleman county were J. O. Woodward, District Judge; T. T. Crosson, District Attorney; John D. Mann, District

Lions Club Behind Clean-Up Campaign

Tuesday at the regular weekly meeting of the Lions club, among other items of interest, the general clean up campaign was endorsed, and the Mayor is to issue a proclamation this week, outlining the plans and designating the dates for the campaign to start. A special effort will be made to enlist the entire citizenship to cooperate in this campaign.

The club also went on record as endorsing the movement now under way to encourage the farmers to adopt uniform cotton and plant one variety. This is another important step in the right direction.

Woman's Missionary Society Zone Meet Held at Church Here

The Woman's Missionary Societies of the Methodist Churches of Coleman County met in a zone meeting at the Santa Anna Methodist Church Wednesday.

The meeting was for the day. There were about 75 in attendance and the group was cordially received by the members of the Santa Anna Society and at noon all were served a turkey dinner.

The program was inspiring and helpful. It was conducted by Mrs. J. D. Shook of Comanche and Mrs. Hart of Santa Anna.

Mad Dog Creates Havoc Here Until Killed Wednesday

Considerable excitement prevailed in Santa Anna Wednesday afternoon, when a large mad dog was reported at large in the town. Chief of Police Sam Floyd and S. W. Childers rushed to the scene and killed the dog near the Taylor Wheeler home. It was a brown bull dog, bled and wearing a leather collar. The head was forwarded to Austin for diagnosis.

A number of dogs were bitten and most of them have been killed. The editor's dog was among the first victims. It was chewed up so much that it had to be killed regardless of the possibility of rabies.

People must be on their guard and those who value their dogs should keep them up. No one would want to offend his neighbor by killing his dog but any one is apt to kill a dog under pressure of fear and excitement and it will be best to keep them all tied up.

Cemetery Association Needed in Santa Anna

Several times since the writer has been publishing the Santa Anna News, we have tried to encourage a move to organize a Cemetery Association in Santa Anna, and make an effort to clean up and beautify our cemetery. We don't know just how it should be run, or who would be the most appropriate to place at the head of the organization, but we certainly would be glad to join a movement to improve the appearance of our burial ground.

Several have requested us recently to call the attention of the public to the need of such an organization and we have promised them we would do so. If we knew how to further proceed we would do that, but all we can do is to call attention to the need for such an organization, and then if some one will take the lead we will join them and do our utmost to help put it over.

We would suggest a permanent organization with elective officers, and paid membership with quarterly dues, and a hired keeper the year round. If this appears to the reading public we would appreciate hearing from you with your suggestions on the matter.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Wagner and son Billie of Cross Plains visited Mrs. Sherman Garrett and Mrs. Minnie B. Pinney here Sunday.

Second Annual Father and Son Banquet Held Monday Night

Revival Begins Sunday, March 2

About seventy-five persons were present Monday night at the Annual Father and Son Banquet in the Armory hall. The banquet was given in honor of the two Boy Scout troops in Santa Anna, and the main purpose was to bring the fathers in closer relationship with the boys and better acquaint them with their activities as Boy Scouts. The Boy Scout organization was first introduced here about one year ago, and troop 55, the first organized here, is one of the honor troops in the Chisholm trail area. The troop was exceedingly fortunate in procuring the services of Ross Kelley as Scout Master and leader. Mr. Kelley's troop has come along fast and is a credit to Santa Anna and a tribute to his ability as a leader of boys. It now has one first class scout, eighteen second class scouts and they have to their credit about forty merit badges.

Mayor W. E. Baxter served as toastmaster, and special guests were Ed Shumway of Abilene, Chief Executive of the Chisholm Trail Area and Scout Master Jimmie Harrison, of Troop 2 of Abilene. Mr. Shumway stressed the importance of an Assistant Scout Master for Troop 55 and Mr. Kelley will probably be supplied with one if a suitable person can be secured.

Executive Shumway enlivened the banquet hour with group singing and also talked briefly on scouting and what it means to the future of boyhood.

Ross Kelley gave an interesting account of the many activities the boys have engaged in since the troop was organized here. J. Milton Binion, Scout Master of the newly organized Troop 56, reported for his group and invited cooperation of fathers in carrying on the work. Scoutmaster Harrison of Abilene presented Santa Anna troops and extended greetings from this area organization.

William Earl Ragsdale offered a toast to the fathers and response was made by J. A. Gray, A. G. Weaver of Troop 55 and an account of his year's experience as a scout and mentioned the things he hopes to achieve in scouting. He also expressed gratitude to members of the local Lions club, by whom scout activities are sponsored.

THE GRIP OF BIG BUSINESS

An official of the Mexican government recently spoke of "the two governments" in the United States—one in Washington and another in Wall Street. Just how far the average American would go in agreeing with that statement we do not know. But we truly are living in a complete period of history. Seemingly, new inventions are put into practical use with marvelous rapidity; more, perhaps, in any one year than in any one century of ages past. No doubt the people of antiquity thought that they, too, were living in a fast age, in an era of speed, and of progress in the arts and sciences. What history does not tell us of the attitude of our ancestors in these respects may be left to the imagination and speculation. But not all of astonishment—yes, the bewilderment—in present times has been caused by mechanical invention or scientific research. There is a growing feeling and a realization that big business has all of us, more or less, in its grip. True, the grip may be of a friendly nature and may mean an increasing moral and economic benefit to the masses of the people. Again, with all of the arguments and reasonings, the situation is better studied and big business is better watched than let alone or taken too much for granted.

One cannot help feeling the grip of giant utility corporations, of manufacturing consolidations, of financial mergers, and sometimes even of the agricultural and produce systems. In fact, one seldom knows with whom one is dealing nowadays. Competition, that great fountain source of ambition and self-regulation of prices, is being translated into cooperation. On the face of things, it seems that cooperation is infinitely better than the gnawing strife and the economic wastes of competitive effort. All will agree that theoretically one large institution can serve better than several small ones. But when cooperation takes on the character of monopoly WITHOUT REGULATION there is a dangerous curve ahead.

It appears not only difficult but somewhat unwise to prohibit or stifle corporate consolidation and the great combinations of capital which are being channeled into avenues of needed production. By good reasoning wealth and accumulated effort are to be protected under our form of government. But if the wealth of this country is inevitably to be in the hands of fewer than it is now, that few MUST BE WATCHED, despite the fact that the majority of big business men are honest and honorable. And if a man is not honorable and honest, it matters not how much money he has or how much influence he bears, he is not a big business man in the true sense.

Probably the majority of us will admit also that if all of the toothpicks, all of the shoes, all of the automobiles and all of the frying pans could be made by one concern, or even by the government, and distributed back to the consumers economically and justly, the condition of production would be ideal. But such a viewpoint is fraught with great danger when economics, human nature, the institutions of home, church and school, democratic theories of government, the law of supply and demand and the benefits of competition are considered.

Monopolies, trusts, capitalistic combinations or whatever we choose to call them may be blessing in disguise and serve good purposes for all of the people. This is true, because the same frowned upon as economically kinds of giant institutions once oppressive are now morally subsidized and governmentally encouraged. But monopolies and franchise corporations unrestrained, unregulated, unwatched and too much taken for granted can easily bring a dangerous crisis to the cause of liberty and free government overnight, and let us not be fooled by believing otherwise.

Texas' coldest day was Feb. 12, 1899, when an official registration of 12 below zero was recorded in North Texas. Unofficial registrations were as low as 16 below zero.

Texas led all the states in railroad building in 1923 and in 1929 and will lead again in 1930. New mileage built in 1928 was 449.53, in 1929 158.82 and actual and tentative construction for 1930 totals nearly 1,000 miles.

In the good old days it was the rod that made boys smart, but the modern day youngster needs no assistance.

Eeds — Cook

Mr. and Mrs. Chap Eeds of Santa Anna, formerly of Coleman, have announced the marriage of their daughter Mayola, to Mr. Henry Cook Jr. of Lorraine. The ceremony was performed at noon Saturday, February 15th, at Lovington, N. M., by the Rev. Beauchamp, Methodist minister and county clerk, with Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Culp, B. V. Culp and daughter, Leora of Lovington, relatives of the groom, witnessing the ceremony.

The bride was a graduate of the class of 1928-29 of Coleman high school and was a student at Howard Payne College at the time of her marriage. The groom is a nephew of the late H. E. L. Culp and has visited in Coleman a number of times and is a ranchman. The bride re-entered Howard Payne after marriage and after a short visit with her parents, left Tuesday with her husband for their new home near Roscoe. —Democrat-Voice.

Freshman Parade

One interesting affair that we failed to get in last week's paper was the Freshman Humane march on Monday, February 17. Mrs. Dewey Pieratt, sponsor of the Freshman class, assisted the publicity committee in arranging the affair. These young people, numbering 50, marched thru a part of the residence section and practically all of the business part of the town headed by the Humane Band. They wore caps with the words "P-T-A Humane Band" on them and carried a large poster bearing the inscription "P-T-A Humane Brigade" carrying out the idea of humane education still further. Mrs. Pieratt arranged a special feature for the Founders Day program that evening.

The whole question could be settled if we could find out whether America has had Prohibition for more than ten years, or whether America has not had Prohibition at all.

Whon News

The Whon Baptist Church wishes to take this method of expressing their thanks to the Valentine Band of Howard Payne for the splendid program they rendered. They had charge of the morning preaching hour and brought a message on Missions.

Miss Georgia King had charge of the program.

1. Song by congregation, "Have Thine Own Way."
2. Special song, by Violet Wright, "How Long Must We Wait."
3. Christ's Call to Special Workers — Vassie Stanley.
4. Duty of Mission Board — H. B. Ramsour Jr.
5. How Long Must the Heathen Wait? — J. Ray McVay.

Other members of the band that came were Jones Fitzgerald, Hugh Clark, Mr. Cole and Bobby Nell Cothren. After lunch on the ground, the visitors remained for singing until three o'clock. They returned to Brownwood early in order that they might attend their own B. Y. P. U.'s and churches. Every one enjoyed the program and we beg them to bring another in the near future.

Mrs. Nancy Ann Johnson, of Rockwood was born January 16, 1849, and died at the home of Sallie J. Burson, her oldest daughter, on February 18th, 1930. She was born in Georgia and came to this state when she was about grown. She was married to Robert P. Johnson in Arkansas in 1868. Fifteen children were born to this union. Six daughters and three sons are left to mourn her death, besides forty-three grand children and forty-seven great-grandchildren. Mrs. Johnson confessed her faith in Christ in obedience to the Gospel and has remained a faithful and consistent member of the Church of Christ about 53 years. She was a faithful and a devoted mother and was loved by all who knew her. Mother Johnson had been a cripple for a long while and for the last two years or more was confined to her room an invalid. Three daughters came to her bedside—Mrs. Della Jones of Lampasas, Mrs. Jessie Archie of Dallas and Mrs. Esta Scott of Mabanks. W. H. Burson and wife, the three daughters and her grand-children wish to extend to the good people of Rockwood their thanks for their kindness during her illness.

Last Friday night about twenty members of the B. Y. P. U. enjoyed a party given at the home of J. J. Gregg. The young people enjoyed many games and refreshments of cake and hot chocolate were served at a late hour.

On last Monday afternoon the Junior G. A. and R. A., missionary organizations in the Baptist church, went to visit some of the older people of the town. They enjoyed visits with Mrs. M. E. Chambers, Mrs. J. O. Thomason and Mrs. Duke; and say they are going again.

The following were representatives of the organizations: Mrs. B. L. Lackey, Mrs. Hal C. Wingo, Jean Wingo, Frances Gregg, Edna Lackey, H. L. Lackey Jr., Eleanor Riding, Mary Lee Ford, John Gregg, Burton Gregg, Glenn Riding, Charles Shambolin, Edna Shambolin, Carline Ashmore, and Doris Spencer.

Firms Like To Employ Teachers

"Over a period of several years we have found that teachers who enter business achieve success well above the average," stated W. M. Roberts, President of Tyler Commercial College and School of Business Administration. Few men in the Southwest are in as good a position to observe matters of this kind as Mr. Roberts, who places hundreds of graduates of the famous Tyler institution in business positions each year.

"Because of their splendid literary qualifications, teachers do excellent work at this school. They make very satisfactory passing grades and finish their courses, as a rule, quicker than the average student. They know the value of their time, they know what it means to apply their time to their studies and as a result they are excellent students. We are consequently able to recommend them more highly, both because of their good work here and because of the superior training they have had before they enroll at Tyler Commercial College.

"We are not only able to place them in business positions promptly, but they command better positions and are usually a great credit to our school."

The profession of teaching is one of the highest professions in the world from the standpoint of service to humanity. It is unfortunately, however, an occupation of many drawbacks, and there are teachers all over the Southwest today who can and should improve their own conditions materially. To them the business world offers a broad and rich field. For them there is no road to bigger success than one of the thirty-nine different courses offered by Tyler Commercial College and School of Business Administration.

T. C. C. publishes a booklet entitled "Achieving Success in Business," the pages of which are crowded with inspiration and practical information. It tells many stories of success and describes fully the courses offered by this big college. The book is free and will be gladly sent to any school teacher, or anyone else who is seeking a broader career. Just clip the coupon below and mail it today.

BARBERS MUST HAVE PICTURES EXHIBITED

Can you imagine walking into the tonsorial parlors of Gonzales and find staring you in the face photographs of the barbers working therein?

The new law requires that every barber in the state have three photographs made and post one of them with his certificate to practice his profession attached to it, in his place of business. Just what is done with the other two photos we have not yet learned. In addition to the pictures, it is necessary for each barber to kick in $10 to a special board that has been appointed to receive the money—nice job for somebody. The whole story has to do with sanitary measures and the intent of the law is good: as the person who is afflicted with any character of contagious disease should not be permitted to deal with the public where there is a possibility he will spread disease, but our guess is that the way the law is going to be handled it will be just about as effective as the bright headlight law is handled on the highways.

Our judgement is that all handlers and dispensers of food products should be required to carry health certificates and be examined by a reputable practicing physician every three months. If there is any difference it seems to us that it would be of more benefit and a safety first measure for them to be under medical observance than for barbers to be.

There are something like 15,000 barbers in Texas and each of them will be required to donate ten dollars. Quite a neat sum. Someone might raise the question as to where the money goes. Who gets it and why?

J. W. Kille

J. W. Kille, 64, died at the home of his son, L. A. Kille of Fisk, Friday night, February 21.

J. W. Kille was born June 5, 1844 in Louisiana. He came to Texas in 1854, settling in Williamson county. When he was nineteen years old he enlisted in the Confederate army and served his company throughout the war. After the war he married Miss Nancy Fisk in Williamson county. Seven children were born to this union, of whom four survive: Mrs. S. H. Duggins of Santa Anna; E. J. Kille of Waco, California; J. H. Kille of Valera, Texas; and J. F. Kille of Valera. Mrs. Nancy Fisk Kille died in 1882, and Mr. Kille was married the second time to Miss Fannie Westbrook in 1885. His second wife and her only child died in 1887. He was married the third time to Mrs. E. J. Duggins in 1890. To this union were born four children, of whom only L. A. Kille of Fisk survives.

Mr. Kille united with the Church of Christ in the year 1892, at Bartlett, Texas, and lived a faithful Christian life until the end. He moved to Coleman county in December, 1897, and had made his home in this county ever since.

The remains were brought here Saturday for burial. Funeral services were held at the cemetery Saturday afternoon at 3:30 conducted by Elder B. A. Creamer. Interment was made in the local cemetery with Ennis Honnol of the Johnson Furniture Co. in charge.

Mr. Kille is survived by five children, thirty-one grandchildren, twenty-nine great-grandchildren, and one great-great-grandchild. Lewis Hass, Walter Murphy, Henry Phelps, Ernest Hancy, Hiram Crawford and Ira Hancy were the pall bearers. The News extends sympathy to the bereaved.

Happiness is that quiet little hour between 6:30 and 7:30 P. M., when the phonograph is out of order, the radio is shut off, the baby is asleep, nobody wants to go to a motion picture show, the dishes are done, the car is in the garage and all sections of the evening paper are in

How Big Is Your Town?

POPULATION figures have lost their significance as a measurement of the importance of communities. Today, towns are valued not so much by the number of inhabitants they house but rather by the productive power of the community as a whole. The productivity of a community is largely determined by the available power supply.

On this basis, the communities in the territory served by this company may compete favorably with the large metropolitan centers, for these communities today are equipped with improved transportation facilities and an ample and economical electric power supply.

Interconnection of the electric generating and transmitting equipment of this company provides a broad, ample pool of power for industrial, commercial and domestic use. On the firm base of this power pool the future growth and development of these communities is based.

THE PLAIN MAN EDISON

Thomas A. Edison had a birthday recently. Seventy-five questions were popped to him by a group of newspaper men. Edison popped back the answers in plain language. One important fact is that although proclaimed a wizard and the world's greatest inventor, he did not give startling answers. He made no pompous decisions. There was no show of egotism. Edison has proved himself great but plain, a lover of the practical.

For example, when asked whether electricity was in its childhood, adolescence, maturity or old age from the standpoint of development, Edison answered that it was in its childhood. When asked if he thought there was life on other planets he said "I can guess but I won't."

How different are the great from the near great! Mr. Edison has the prestige, the influence, the power to have made unanny replies, amazing predictions. One is reminded that it was he who said genius was more perspiration than inspiration. Genius also reflects itself in simplicity of thought and action, and this characteristic is a part of the man's life, this is why he has given the world many of its marvellous inventions.

Don't you expect peace in the world as long as some countries don't know the war is over?

U. D. C. Pays Tribute to the Memory of Mrs. V. J. Hunter

The Sam Davis chapter U. D. C. in regular meeting, February 21, paused to offer prayer and pay a tribute to the memory of our beloved member, Mrs. Victoria James Hunter, whose passing on from among us left a void that can never be filled. As vice-president and active member her loving council and untiring aid will always be remembered by those of us who were associated with her in the chapter. We hereby extend to the bereaved ones our deepest sympathy in their hour of grief.

Mrs. L. W. Hunter

A pall of sadness was again spread over the town and community Thursday morning, February 20th, when the sad news of the death of Mrs. L. W. Hunter became known.

Mrs. Hunter was one of Santa Anna's most highly esteemed citizens, casting her lot here at the tender age of only sixteen years, when this town was a pioneer West Texas village of only a few inhabitants. She was known to as many people as any woman who ever lived in these parts, and her friendly and lovable disposition endeared her to the hearts of all who were fortunate enough to make her acquaintance. Her life of love, friendship and devotion is commendable and worthy of example to all. When we think of these good old pioneer families who were wooed with the spirit of adventure, for the advancement and education of those who were to follow, the hardships and privations with which they were often confronted, especially those who remained faithful, and lived up to the trust in the Creator who promised to be faithful unto the end, our hearts are uplifted for their lives, and sad because of their passing. The writer has chronicled the news of several deaths in this community--in many of them words failed us in our efforts to pay a just tribute, the same as in this case.

Mrs. Hunter was born in Collins county, Texas, February 4th, 1870. She came to Coleman county with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. E. B. James, and settled at Trickham in the year of 1879. She was married to L. W. Hunter on her birthday, February 4th, 1886, and became one of the pioneer housewives in Santa Anna. She was a true and devoted companion, a faithful and kind mother, a good friend and neighbor, an honorable citizen and her friends were legion. She loved her God, her family and her friends.

The esteem in which she was held here was beautifully attested Thursday afternoon when the auditorium of the Baptist church was filled almost to capacity by friends from near and far who had come to pay a last tribute of respect. The floral offerings were profuse and the many words of sympathy highly attested the friendship of those who had known her and appreciated her in the past.

The pastor, Rev. Hal C. Wingo, read beautiful passages of Scripture that were consoling to the bereaved and paid a number of tributes to the past life of Mrs. Hunter. The husband, who had confided in her love, affection and confidence for forty-four years, together with their six surviving children and their families found condolence in the message from the Bible, spoken by the pastor. The following survive her untimely passing. Her mother, Mrs. E. B. James of Durant, Oklahoma; her husband, L. W. Hunter; and the following children living in Santa Anna. Mrs. C. W. Woodruff, Roger Hunter, Lee Hunter, Mrs. W. F. Kirkpatrick, Archie Hunter; and Mrs. Joe Robertson of Waco. Four brothers, Vernon, Ollie and Riley James of Durant, Oklahoma, and Gid James of Denison, Texas, also survive. One daughter died in infancy and one son, Robert died at the age of 19 years.

The pall bearers were Lloyd Burris, Chas. Hale, W. DuBois, Hubert Turner, Elmer Easley, Dewey Pieratt, Ruben Loftis and Cecil Grantham. The honorary pall-bearers were Dr. T. R. Sealy, Dr. T. M. Hays, W. B. Brown, V. L. Grady, J. P. Newman, S. A. Niell, B. R. Risinger, E. C. Traylor and J. R. Pearce.

Deceased was converted, and joined the Baptist church here about 35 years ago, and died as she had lived, trusting in Jesus Christ for salvation.

Among those from out of town here to attend the funeral were: Mr. and Mrs. Sam Cobb, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. S. Cobb, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hunter, Mrs. J. B. Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Grey, and Mrs. Karl Wallace of Coleman; Mrs. Lem Batton, Earl and Miss Vera Batton, Mrs. Ben Stone, Mrs. Print McCleod of Brownwood; Mrs. Ovey Tallafelro, Mrs. Joe Sockwell, Lonnie Sockwell and Miss Marie Sockwell, and Vernon James of Durant, Oklahoma; Mr. and Mrs. Gid James, Mrs. Ralph Elsworth and little Miss June Lynch of Denison; Mr. and Mrs. John West of the Miligan community; Mrs. J. W. Babb and E. L. Hunter of Abilene; Mr. and Mrs. George Hunter and Uncle Dick Chatham of Whon; and Mr. and Mrs. Jess Hunter of Albany.

The Santa Anna News joins in extending sympathy to the bereaved husband and children.

WE "CARRY ON" NOW?

Everywhere and all the time we were moving about from place to place.

Occasionally the thud of bass drums and the rat-tat-tat of snare, the blasts of trumpets, the march of men broke through the din of day or the silence of the night.

The rhythmic strains of "Over There" and "Keep the Home Fires Burning" set America aflame with national patriotism and the cry and slogan "Carry On" echoed across the nation.

And we did carry on. For the war was on.

We know the story of the men who went "over there", we know of those who came back and of those who stayed.

It was war with all its horror, destruction and death.

The slogan of those who did not go was still to "Carry On!"

They carried on—campaign after campaign, committee after committee, meeting after meeting, drive after drive, all to back up the boys behind the guns and in the trenches and camps.

Cooperation was in the air, in the homes, the streets, the public meeting places, and it finally settled down to real business, for men and women DID things.

Practically and patriotically speaking, it was fun, real fun, to "put things over."

Things went over the top in America as the boys went over in the Argonne, in Flanders fields, and Chateau-Thierry, and all along the line.

Profiteers—millionaires—dollar-a-year men—widows—orphans—a pause—the Armistice—ex-service men's problems—rehabilitation—readjustment of prices—negotiation—and finally a concluded peace.

Another pause—and 12 years after, and what has become of the militant spirit which in a civic way left nothing not put over the top?

Every man and woman over the age of 21 who lived in the United States at that time well remembers about this period of community and national accomplishment.

The same abilities, the same personalities, the same leadership still exists among us, but unfortunately too much of it is dormant.

Why should we wait for a war to do things in a big way?

Should not the needs of peace time call for as much determination as the exigencies of war?

Indeed, if not, for what do we fight?

Does lapsing into civic coma advance our educational, spiritual, industrial and community life?

Is it not an indictment to society and individualism that a community consciousness necessary for the success of good movements is aroused and crystallized ONLY when citizens are made apprehensive of the safety of the nation?

Santa Anna could step out in this year of 1930 and play its combined civic strength and array its forces against that "triple-alliance" of uncleanness, illegality and ignorance which are so destructive to orderly society, and win the admiration of all other communities to our lasting good.

Santa Anna could distinguish itself at once by outstanding civic development and co-operation in public endeavors.

It is true enough that life should not be all committee work; nor should we always be trying to "put things over"; nor continually soliciting for this and that; nor paying taxes eternally for things we don't need.

There is virtue in devoting ourselves at times to solitude, to the quiet, inauspicious endeavor of home and study room, to wholesome recreation and rest.

There should be times with all of us when there is everything to do, and also times when there is nothing to do, provided, of course, that we can do nothing by doing it gracefully.

No one person, no group of persons should try to get and hold the center of the community stage; for all citizens should have the floor.

Let the community that even approaches the condition of the militant spirit of victory that was held so vitally in 1917-18 in occasions when a genuine need is made manifest is the community that is going to not only outshine its neighbors but prosper amazingly.

Investigation might be better than stop investigating and start enforcing.

There are many who are not doing their part.

Mrs. Mildred Simpson and Miss Mary Harriett Simpson spent Sunday in San Angelo with Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Webb.

Misses Odell Brown and Annie Stiles spent the week end in Hamilton in the Judge Rice home.

P. P. Bond and D. L. Pieratt of the State National Bank attended a banker's convention in Fort Worth Saturday.

Guy Airey, secretary of the Wichita Falls baseball club, visited Carl Williams of the Idlewild community Saturday night.

Why is the Rock Island Cultivator so easy shifting? Why does the Rock Island Planter use less seed and yet produce more cotton? Come in and let us show you.—S. W. Childers.

A GROUP of country negroes, seized with the desire to emigrate North—but some contagion by the way, which is depopulating some of the cotton fields—got as far as Birmingham, Ala., before their money ran out. In the hope of raising funds sufficient to enable them to continue their journey, the stranded travelers sought employment.

One of them became acquainted with a white gentleman who threw several odd jobs in his way. But this scrappy employment, while it provided temporary food and lodging, did not serve to gratify the more pressing ambition.

Reaching his office on a certain morning, the citizen found his colored friend awaiting him at the door.

"Mr. Blank," said the applicant, "you've been so good to me already I hate to keep on pestering you but I surely does need work mighty bad and an 'I see here' maybe you kin help me out again some ez you's done two-three times before."

"Well," said his benefactor, "as it so happens you may be in luck. Just now I heard that they were needing a hand down the street here, at the Eagle laundry."

"Thank you sah," said the negro, "but Mr. Blank," he added, doubtfully, "I aint never had no work done by no white man."

THE RESIGNATION OF TAFT

With the resignation of William H. Taft as Chief Justice, there leaves the Supreme Court of the United States a man who has had a long public career. To be appointed to the supreme bench after having gone through political campaigns that finally led him to the White House is of itself a mark of merit to the man, because of the great difference in the two offices. The Presidency belongs to that branch of government wherein offices are gained by our political and suffrage systems, and no man can reach such a pinnacle without much struggle and involvements of a political nature. The position on the bench is different. It comes by appointment and is as far removed from politics in the ordinary sense as is any other office under the Government.

Mr. Taft was not without political enemies, that is, many men and women did not view governmental problems as he did. In 1912 Taft was beaten for the presidency by Woodrow Wilson. And what a battle it was! But even this fact did not lose for Mr. Taft the great admiration of the American people. For he was a good lawyer, a god judge. His appointment was in a way sensed by thousands, perhaps millions of the people of the United States. He served well. His experiences were gained locally and nationally, for during his career he has held the offices of prosecuting attorney, superior judge, United States Solicitor General, United States Circuit Judge, professor of law, Civil Governor of Cuba and President of the United States.

FARM EXPERTS by Wm. A. Black San Antonio, Texas

At the time of this writing a small army of farm experts and farmers is in session at Jackson, Miss. This group is a replica of many similar gatherings in the past. Experting has become quite the proper thing even the nothing new is offered. After more than 50 years of educational work, the consensus of opinion is that agriculture is now at the lowest state it has ever reached.

As this gathering is for southern farmers, cotton is the chief theme. Carl Williams of the farm relief board apparently sees no control of price except by reducing acreage and output. There is nothing new in this proposition. Agricultural leaders in the South have for years urged fewer acres to cotton, better cultivation with increased output per acre. Here is common sense applied but with no appreciable progress. A campaign for reducing acreage is as hopeless today as similar campaigns have been in the past.

Here is a crowd of supposedly intelligent men that are really hopeless and helpless. Fifty years ago when more the half of our people were on the farms they lived freer and more independent lives than the 25 per cent farm population does today. Farm life was simpler and cruder then, but it was simpler and cruder in the cities also. There was even less disparity between life on the farm and in the city then than there is now.

Dr. England of the U. S. Department of Agriculture discussed taxation but only repeated what is common knowledge. He said, "taxes as a whole may be expected to increase for some time." The demand of citizens for expensive improvements and public services make a decrease in taxation impossible until the States provide a taxation system for revenues from other sources.

One wonders what "other sources" Dr. England can possibly have had in mind. Are there "other sources?" The only "other sources" possible are taxes on production and it is these indirect taxes piled on the backs of the farmers that has brought them down to their present low estate. Dr. England must know that a tax on the farmer's land does not add to the cost of production. It lowers the selling price of the land and thus requires less investment. A tax on the land makes it easier to sell. There is a corresponding reduction of taxes on the farmer's labor. The farmer who lives in the lower cost of living, he might try a little course, since for a change.

George Washington — Farmer

One of the original campaigners for superior seeds was George Washington, whose birthday the nation observed yesterday. The campaign for better cottonseed in Taylor county and throughout the cotton belt makes this practical side of Washington's nature peculiarly interesting. Washington was a farmer who farmed both for profit and for the sheer love of making crops. His diary is full of references to experiments with various types of seeds, with crop rotation, with ditching, contouring and soil contouring and soil preparation. Washington was a farmer who did not leave any thing to chance. He determined, in his own mind, by experiments, what was best and used it without stint. There wasn't any room for laziness and slipshod methods on the Washington farms. George himself made daily rounds on horseback, supervising everything from the building of a fence to the earmarking of a sheep. Everything that might be of value was set down for future reference. Items of expense from a shilling to hundreds of pounds were set down by the methodical surveyor and military man. George Washington's diary wouldn't make bad reading for the young man interested in an agricultural career today. —Abilene (Sunday) Reoprtter News.

Another reason the mother-in-law joke is becoming taboo there are so many ex-mothers-in-law nowadays, and that's no joke.

We always thought Chicago a sophisticated place, hard to understand, but now that she is broke we know exactly how she feels and what she is thinking.

Salt is so valued by natives in some parts of central Africa that a traveler may hire a laborer for a cup of salt a week.

Industrial alcohol has more than 400 uses.

COURTESY WEEK

It seems we're to have several new "weeks" this year, and already the city of Cleveland, Ohio, has started the ball rolling with what they recently saw fit to call "Courtesy Week." Like many of them, it has some merit. In fact, this one is so good that we can't understand why every section should not adopt it, Tulsa included, and observe it during the entire year instead of just for one week.

"Courtesy Week" is a week when everybody is supposed to be extremely polite to everybody else. The motorist slows down to let a pedestrian pass instead of honking a nerve-wracking horn and glaring like a tiger. The man who jostles you or steps on your toes is expected to stop long enough to assure you of his sorrow instead of mumbling an inarticulate "excuse" me that doesn't mean any thing. Boys and girls are supposed to address their elders as boys and girls did back in what we often refer to as the "good old days." Neighbors are supposed to say nothing but kind and complimentary things about other neighbors, instead of back-biting them, as they gossip over the back fence.

There seems to be no end to the good things we can do during "Courtesy Week" that we overlook or neglect to do during the other 51 weeks in the year. The Ohio city reports that it worked out fine there; that it reduced accidents and made everybody happier. That being the case, why can't we have a little "Courtesy Week" of our own right here at home? There is no law against it.

Improving Poultry Flocks

The Paris chamber of commerce has hit upon a novel plan for building up pure-bred poultry flocks in Lamar county. Through the local merchants arrangements have been made to exchange one pure-bred egg for two eggs from mongrel stocks. The chamber of commerce has contracted for 100,000 or more pure-bred eggs for this exchange on this basis. Farmers will be encouraged to demonstrate for themselves that it pays to raise pure-bred chickens in preference to the common flocks around so many farm houses.

The Home and the Community

Nearly every one of us takes pride in keeping the home tidy and comfortable. Do we take the same pride in keeping the community in ship shape?

The same conveniences, such as beauty, usefulness and freshness, should be provided for the community as for the home, that is, the streets and alley-ways should be just as clean in comparison with their use and proportionately with their purpose as the floors and hallways of the house. A trimmed tree in the parking space is as necessary to the satisfaction of the love of beauty as a trimmed rose bush in the yard. A public park should be kept as beautiful as a flower garden in one's private yard.

But why these illustrations. These admonitions? Are they too "preachy"? Are they impossible of realization? Or, indeed, are the communities, generally speaking, already more beautiful than the individual homes in the community? We are not prepared to say. It is sure, however, that the home is the community, the community the home.

KEEPING MONEY AT HOME

It is estimated that about 84 per cent of the money that is spent in a community for labor remains at home. That means that for every dollar that is spent for carpenter work, plumbing, plastering, printing, cooking, manufacturing, etc., there is eighty-four cents of it turned back into channels of trade and commerce in the community where the labor is performed.

We are not conversant with the source of this estimate, but we do not believe it is far from correct. If it is a true estimate it forms the basis of a strong argument for the employment of men and women who live in the community and against the importing of labor from without.

Of course, few would advance the argument that contractors, builders and employers of labor generally should be required to confine their employment activities to people in the local community to the positive exclusion of outsiders. There are too many factors enter into the problem to say that the questions of skill and competition should not enter into the question. But as a principle of community progress and advancement, laborers should be obtained as near to the place of operations as possible. As a theory of home industry and local patronage there are communities or towns too small to secure all the labor that is needed for any particular work. It may be that the county, or even the state, should be at times the area or unit from which patronage is drawn and still remain within the principle of supporting and giving employment to those more deserving. No hard and fast rule can be laid down, except to keep community obligations in mind as nearly as possible. But we wonder if any other class of people than laborers can back up the statement that 84 per cent of their money is spent in trading at home?

Increasing Tomato Acreage

From Nacogdoches, Jacksonville, Lufkin and other East Texas points reports are made that although the January freeze did damage to the tomato plants, plans are under way for planting larger tomato crops than have heretofore been grown. It now looks like Texas will grow enough tomatoes this year to supply the entire country.

SQUILL KILL

Rats Cost Millions

Annually

You can rid your premises of this costly pest without danger to your poultry or domestic animals by using Squill Kill, a Red Squill preparation. Red Squill is recommended by the U. S. Department of Agriculture in farm bulletin No. 1533, as being taken readily by rats and relatively harmless to human beings and domestic animals.

Rats cost the America people $200,000,000 annually. They distribute the virus of plague of hydrophobia, of trichinosis, of equine influenza. When you can be rid of these pests by using Squill Kill at a cost of 50 cents, can you afford to have them?

Squill Kill carries a positive guarantee. If used according to instructions, your money will be refunded if Squill Kill does not kill rats and mice.

TAKING THE UNMARRIED

A widelone bachelor in London, England, has raised a point in connection with a proposed tax on unmarried men which deserves consideration. In a letter to a newspaper he contended that if any taxing is to be done spinsters should be forced to share the burden.

He has asked ten women to marry him, he wrote, and was cold-shouldered by each. "There never before have been so many women who refuse the responsibilities of marriage," he concluded. "At all other periods of history, spinsterhood was a disgrace. Today women boast about it."

An element of comedy may be found in the London bachelor's letter, but it contains at the same time some important truths. Some married men and many unmarried women take the view that every bachelor is a slicker avoiding marital responsibility.

This is unfair; many bachelors are not that way by choice. Justice is entirely lacking in a scheme to penalize unmarried men while exempting unmarried women. As the London bachelor pointed out we now have spinsters who feel that husbands would interfere with their careers.

In this age when the business woman is in the ascendency the term "old maid" has become almost obsolete. At one time, not so long ago, the woman who purposely side-stepped marriage was considered somewhat abnormal. Today, however, many young women are embarked on preparing for careers in which marriage has no part. It follows, naturally, that each of them is creating a male bachelor.

If things go on at the present rate the unmarried man may eventually become the theme of jokes similar to those woven around the "old maid" twenty years ago.

Fire Prevention Work

A representative of the National Fire Waste Council on a visit to Texas recently said that Texas leads all other States in its fire prevention work, especially in its fire prevention studies in the public schools. But in spite of that Texas fires in 1929, as reported to the insurance board, exceeded those of 1928 by about $1,600,000. Fire insurance rates are based on the fire records of each town, each paying premiums according to its fire losses of previous years. Evidently others than children need to study more about fire prevention.

Boys Enjoy Adventures

What glorious adventures boys between the ages of ten and twenty have reading the AMERICAN BOY-YOUTH'S COMPANION! As if by magic, this well-known magazine carries boys to distant parts of the world, introduces them to strange people, lets them experience queer customs and revolve in the adventures of foreign lands.

In a single issue, a boy will battle the frozen Northland with sled and dog team, cross Indian-haunted plains in a prairie schooner, zoom over war-torn lands in an army plane or on dangerous routes with a U. S. mail pilot, hunt wild animals in Africa atop the swaying back of an elephant, go cruising in a battleship, fight Arab raiders with the Foreign Legion and participate in many other thrilling experiences that come to readers of THE AMERICAN BOY-YOUTH'S COMPANION.

It is such experiences as these that sharpen a boy's wits, kindle his imagination, strengthen his character, develop his understanding of the world in which he lives and of the people that inhabit it.

That boy in whom you are interested, that son, nephew, cousin, neighbor, or, perhaps, the son of a business associate—would greatly enjoy the AMERICAN BOY-YOUTH'S COMPANION. An attractive gift card bearing your name will be sent to the boy if you request it with your order. Then every time the mailman brings the magazine to his door, this boy will think of you gratefully.

Subscription prices are only $2.00 for one year and $3.00 for three years. Your order can be entered at the office of the publisher, THE AMERICAN BOY-YOUTH'S COMPANION, 550 Lafayette Blvd., Detroit, Michigan. Service on your subscription will start with whichever issue you specify.

The middleman doesn't get it all. Sometimes, by being in the middle, he gets squeezed.

Urges Texas Granite

Congressman T. P. Lee has written to the owners of granite quarries in Llano and Burnet counties urging them to bid on the United States Government construction work, and has recommended that Texas granite be given consideration in the building program now in progress in Washington. The world produces no better or more beautiful building stone, and if the Texas quarries can compete with others in prices there is good reason why more Texas granite should be used in Government buildings throughout the country. The Texas Capitol building is standing evidence of the beauty and durability of Texas granite.

Local Legislation

Even in matters of legislation Texans are inclined to place local interests above those of the State. We have overloaded the State with State schools largely to build up certain communities or sections, duplicating school work at much expense to the taxpayers. Much of the instruction that is given in the University of Texas and State colleges really belongs to the high schools, and some of that attempted by the high schools should be reserved for the University and colleges. Thus a spirit of local competition is making our educational system competitive. In education we should subordinate local pride to the State good.

Penitentiary Problems

If local interests could be set aside the penitentiary problem could soon be remedied. The penitentiary system does not belong to Walker, or Fort Bend or Travis, or any other county as a source of local revenue, and the interests of any community should not be considered. Legislators should be governed solely by the best interests of the State and the prisoners in studying prison matters. Most of them are, but there are enough of the others to delay action to the detriment and expense of the entire State. The Texas prisons are a disgrace to Texas, and to remedy conditions we must be Texas-minded. The Texas prison problem is a State and not a local problem.

Panhandle Railroads Fight

Big railroad systems are fighting for possession of the rich Panhandle section of Texas. That is, they are contending for the exclusive right to build lines of railway, to haul freight and to collect freight tolls from the public. The Interstate Commerce Commission is arbitrating the controversies under laws making that one of its duties. It is hard for a disinterested layman to understand why the railways should be protected against each other by the Government—why the law of the "survival of the fittest" should not be applied to transportation lines. Texas needs and wants more railroads even if some of them do lose money. Texas development is of more concern to Texans than the financial welfare of those who have investments in railroads which they would like to have safeguarded by the government.

Gulf and Western

About all the preliminaries have been settled, and the consent of the Interstate Commission has been secured, to fill in the gaps on the proposed railway line from San Antonio to San Angelo, and doubtless the enterprise will soon be financed. This has been needed for more than 30 years and will be a great boon to a number of Texas towns. It will be especially helpful to Fredericksburg, Mason and Brady, all growing, prosperous towns, but all needing better railroad facilities. This should be followed soon by the building of the line from Abilene to Cross Plains, and on to Brownwood, to give Abilene and the vast section to the North and Northwest of it direct routes to two Texas ports, Galveston and Corpus Christi.

Colorado Dam Lake

Overflow rights have been obtained on 25,000 acres of land along the Colorado river near the Colorado dam, which will be inundated by the proposed hydroelectric dam, and some of the land has already been purchased. The owners of the land will buy elsewhere and thus the money will be doubly spent. The lake will be seven miles wide in some places and about fifty miles long. The project will do much

Calls Attention To Republican Failure

As the guest of honor at the annual Jefferson-Jackson banquet of the Democratic organization at Lancaster, Pa., last week, Senator Tom Connally asserted that the Hoover prosperity predicted during the presidential campaign has collapsed. Instead of real farm relief, he said, wheat and cotton, the two great staples, are selling today for less than when the Farm Board was organized. He discussed the stock market crash and unemployment which has followed in its wake.

The Texas Senator humorously referred to the "commission form of government" as the "wastebasket" into which the executive dumps perplexing and difficult problems that ought to be solved by the President and Congress. Reverting to the two great exemplars of Democracy the Senator said:

"In the views of many thoughtful men, the United States is on the eve of a great struggle in which will be ranged on the one side, great monopolies, public utilities, corporations, gigantic mergers of financial and industrial properties and on the other the people and the government of the State and Nation. If such a contest comes, the great liberal forces of the United States will be arrayed on the side of the people. The real followers of Jefferson and Jackson will be found fighting under the same flag and in the same in which Jefferson struggled in the early days of the Republic and Jackson triumphed in the titanic contest of his time."

PUBLIC WHIPPING POST SHOULD BE RESTORED SAYS ABILENE OFFICER

Petty Thieves Into Big Bank Robbers Grow

(The Abilene Times)

Public whipping posts should be restored for the punishment of petty law violators—this is the opinion of a modern day police sergeant expressed in the year of our Lord 1930 right here in Abilene, and not the wail of officer arising out of the dim past immediately following the passing of the whipping posts used in the early days of the American colonies.

The need for the whipping post in present day dealings with certain forms of lawlessness was expressed by none other than J. T. (Uncle Jim) Sanders, the veteran West Texas peace officer who presides at the desk in the Abilene police headquarters during the day. "A whipping, not an unmerciful beating, applied in public place would do more toward checking petty thieves, shoplifters, vags, gamblers, and the like than all the fines and jail sentences combined," opined the sergeant.

Razor strops would serve well in administration of this kind of punishment and a lecture on obedience to law punctuated by whacks with the strop should accompany the whipping, Mr. Sanders thinks. The offender should be warned that the second offense would call for a harder whipping, and in each succeeding case it will be still more severe, he declared.

Light punishment or no punishment at all for small offenses is doing more to encourage crime than any other one cause, Sergeant Sanders believes.

"Men and women do not often rob banks or commit murder as the initial crime of a career of lawlessness," he said. "It is the petty offenses that harden the person for the big crimes."

for the development of a large area in Texas. In the meantime, the plans for the Brownwood dam, which have been delayed by the controversy over the river water rights, are going forward steadily, neither project interfering with the other.

Club Women Save

A report from Rockdale is that the Milam County Home Demonstration Clubs realized more than $44,000 from their products the past year, 274 women being members of the clubs. Of even greater value, perhaps, were the home improvements made by these club members, to enumerate which would require a full column of a newspaper. Public demonstrations to the number of 256 were given 3,313 people, showing the activities of the clubs. It is surprising what such a group of women can accomplish in one year under such excellent leadership as they appear to have had in Milam county.

WHEAT CHAMP NOW TURNING TO POULTRY

SNYDER—Giles Garner, pioneer farmer of West Texas has absolutely proved that poultry as a diversification will pay big dividends.

Garner whose farm is two miles west of Snyder on the Dal Paso Cavern highway, in 1924 established a mark for other wheat farmers to shoot at when he won a world's production per acre championship with an average of 84.15 bushels per acre. His total average over a period of 15 years in Scurry county he places at 20 bushels per acre and deducting all expenses estimates his net profit at $25 per acre. His 1929 wheat crop exceeded 5,000 bushels.

Mr. Garner's latest experiment has been with poultry, when last spring he received 3,780 white leghorn pullets which with his buildings represented an expenditure of $10,000. The pullets that were ten weeks old when they arrived here were from 250 to 300 egg hens, some of the baby chicks costing $2.50 each. Upon arrival here they were housed in model California type houses with several original conceptions in building innovation planned by Mr. Garner. With careful attention to feeding and care, the flock commenced to get into their laying stride with the result that he was swamped with orders for eggs, many West Texas hotels taking the daily output of 20 cases at the top market price. The foundation for 10,000 laying hens has been laid and Garner expects to have one of the most model and productive poultry ranches in the entire section.

Fewer Beef Cattle Than 50 Years Ago

The beginning of this year found fewer beef cattle on farms and ranges in the United States than at any previous time for half a century. There were then only about 24,000,000 head in the country. Under the influence of higher prices for beef, the number is now beginning to increase, according to figures collected by C. R. Arnold of the rural economics department of the Ohio State University. In summarizing the history of the beef cycle in the United States Arnold has found that in 1895 more than 40,000,000 beef cattle were on the farms and ranges of the country. This number declined to about 30,000,000 animals in 1904, and then started up again under the influence of the number had risen again to about 38,000,000 head. Low prices again caused a drop to about 27,000,000 head in 1914. War demands raised prices and the herds increased to a total of about 36,000,000 head in 1919. Sudden cessation of the war time demand dropped the price, and numbers and prices declined together until they were exceptionally low from 1920 to 1926. The beef cattle cycle extends over a long period of years, Ar-old pointed out, because the number of cattle cannot be increased as rapidly as the number of hogs or sheep.

"It seems evident that we will have a large number of cattle within the next few years, but it seems doubtful that we expect low prices for beef cattle for at least two or three years, because the number which we have at the present time on ranges is so exceptionally low," says Arnold.

THREE IMPORTANT FACTORS ENTER INTO THE COST OF YOUR AUTOMOBILE

1. How much it costs to make the car
2. How much extra you pay the dealer
3. How much it costs for operation and up-keep

THE PURCHASE of an automobile involves a considerable amount of money and it should be carefully considered from all angles before a final decision is made.

The value of the car to you depends on the value built into it at the factory, how much extra you pay the dealer for distribution, selling, financing and accessories and what it will cost to operate and maintain the car after purchase. Each of these factors, as it relates to the Ford car, is frankly explained below.

Economy in production

THE FORD CAR is made economically because of the efficiency of Ford production methods. The money saved through this efficiency is put back into the car in improved quality of material and in greater care and accuracy in manufacturing. The constant effort is to eliminate waste and find ways to make each part better and better without increasing cost—frequently at lowered cost.

Because of Ford economies in large production and because the Ford organization operates on a low-profit margin, the price you pay for the car is much less than it would be under any other conditions. Yet it brings you many unusual features of construction and performance.

At least $75 extra value is represented alone by the Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield, the Rustless Steel, the four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers, and the five steel-spoke wheels. The unusually large number of ball and roller bearings and the extensive use of fine steel forgings instead of castings or stampings are additional features that reflect the high quality built into every part of the car. Throughout, it is a value far above the price you pay.

Low dealer charges

THE SAME PRINCIPLES of efficiency and economy that characterize the manufacture of the Ford car are applied also to distribution. Obviously it would do the public little good to save in production if these savings were sacrificed later in excessive costs of selling, financing and accessories.

The Ford dealer, therefore, operates on the same low-profit margin as the Ford Motor Company, his discount or commission being the lowest of any automobile dealer. He does a good business because he makes a small profit on many sales instead of a large profit on fewer sales.

NOTE THESE LOW PRICES

Roadster	$435
Phaeton	$440
Coupe	$500
Two-window Fordor Sedan	$500
Three-window Fordor Sedan	$600
Cabriolet	$645
Tudor Sedan	$500
Sport Coupe	$530
Town Sedan	$670

(All prices f. o. b. Detroit)

Low charges for time payments through the Universal Credit Company

The lower cost of selling, combined with the low charges for financing and accessories, means a direct saving of at least $50 to $75 to every purchaser of a Ford, in addition to the savings made possible by economies in manufacturing. The money you pay for a Ford goes into value in the car. It is not wasted in high dealer charges.

Low up-keep costs

IT IS IMPORTANT to remember that the cost of your automobile is not the first cost only, but the total cost after months and years of service. Here again there is a decided saving when you buy a Ford.

The cost of operation and up-keep is lower because of simplicity of design, the high quality of material, and the reduction of friction and wear through unusual accuracy in manufacturing and assembling. The reliability and longer life of the car contribute to its low depreciation per year of use.

The intelligent, painstaking service rendered by Ford dealers is under close factory supervision and is a factor in the low up-keep cost of the Ford. All labor is billed at a flat rate and replacement parts are always available at low prices through Ford dealers in every section of the United States.

In two, three or five years, depending on how much you drive, the saving in operating and maintaining a new Ford will amount to even more than the saving on the first cost of the car.

Texas and Texans

By WILL H. MAYS

Another Texas Port

The United States board of water engineers, the chief of water engineers and the rivers and harbors committees of Congress have all recommended the Point Isbel port project, and it has been put on the congressional emergency bill. Congress will likely pass the bill and the president will likely approve it. That will give the rich Rio Grande Valley and the adjacent territory unsurpassed water shipping facilities to all parts of this country and Europe. It will about complete the line of Texas seaports along the Gulf of Mexico from Port Arthur to the mouth of the Rio Grande and afford all needed ocean outlets for Texas products. Nothing except the failure of Texans to co-operate with each other can retard the development of this great State. "All Texans for All Texas" should be our motto.

Widen the Vision

The Mission Enterprise, the splendid paper that Cobb and Cobb are publishing for Hidalgo county, has as its masthead the words, "For Mission, for Home, for Schools and for Better Things." That is all right as far as it goes, but it should be broadened by placing "for Texas" after "Mission." No Texas community is big enough to stand alone, and every community should feel itself an important part of its State. The omission is just an oversight on the part of Editor Cobb, who spends his days and nights dreaming of the future greatness of Texas, at least when he is not at work to make his dreams come true. Another objection to the Enterprise is that it is too big for a busy columnist to read "through and through." But of that the publishers will hardly complain.

Fighting Development

It seems that the fight being made by one of the leading Texas railroads against the building of the Kell road from Abilene to Cross Plains is largely because Abilene shippers are subscribers to the stock of the new railroad and will likely divert some of their shipments to it. That brings the issue to the question of whether the public good is to be subordinated to that of existing railway lines. This writer opines that this will not be done if the public can protect itself.

Texas Fair Record

When a Nebraska Congressman asserted in Congress that his State had a larger attendance than that of any other State, the statement was promptly challenged by a member from Minnesota. Congressman Summers at once produced the figures to show that in both 1929 and 1928 the Texas State Fair had a larger attendance than the two fairs of Nebraska and Minnesota combined, and led all the fairs of the United States. Summers wasn't satisfied with that but declared that "the State Fair of Texas was perhaps the greatest annual exposition in the world," and had his speech put in the Congressional Record. While congressmen may not be elected to boost fairs and the Congressional Record may not be published to give out fair publicity, Summers is right in holding up the Texas standard against all competitors.

San Marcos Airport

San Marcos is to have an airport. Through the interest of the local chamber of commerce, and one of the most enterprising county judges in Texas, Judge Will H. Thompson, the government has leased a 100-acre tract of land, which will be used for emergency landing and refueling, and will be supplied with all the equipment of a modern airport. When anything is to be done that will help the town, San Marcos can be relied on to do it without making much noise about it.

Creameries Consolidate

The creamery at Brenham has acquired the Giddings creamery and the two will be operated under the same management. Brenham and Giddings are close enough together and so connected by a good highway that there will likely be some economy in the combined management.

Cutting Out Carnivals

In refusing to permit carnival shows to use the city parks, Mayor Chambers of San Antonio said: "The carnivals do no good, but much harm. The people of the city do not receive value for the money they give the shows." The carnivals were asking for permission to show during San Antonio's spring fiesta. Texas should rid itself of strolling carnival shows.

Local Industrial Spirit

The Round Rock cheese factory was sold recently to one of the big packing companies. The Round Rock Leader got busy and issued a 16 page edition welcoming the new owners. It was all handset and was an enormous undertaking, several thousand extra copies being printed on a slow press during the coldest weather in January. Round Rockers bought the edition and distributed it all over the country. They filled their show windows with local cheese factory products. All of which boosted the little town as an industrial center. Round Rock also has a broom factory with a State-wide business. The town is not much for size, but what it lacks in population is made up in civic pride and progressiveness. I am guessing something else will be started there soon.

Texas Rural Life

Texas leads all the States in the number of families served rural mail, Ohio ranking second. A surprising thing about the postoffice is while Texas leads all other States in the number served, the rural route carriers cover only 67,733 miles as compared with 72,010 miles for Illinois and 67,014 for Ohio. This would indicate that rural population in sections of Texas covered by rural mail routes is greater than in either Illinois or Ohio. And we are inclined to think of Texas as a thinly settled state.

Entertaining Club

When the home demonstration club women and girls of Collingsworth county held a meeting in Wellington recently, Desklin Wells, editor of the Leader, gave all of them who called at the Leader office and registered, tickets to a local movie. Needless to say, they called, they registered, they went to the show, had a good time, and the Leader made many friends. There is more to the newspaper business than merely getting out the paper.

JESUS TEACHING ABOUT HIMSELF

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 11:2-12:50
GOLDEN TEXT—Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus, the Friend of All. JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus the Great Helper. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Who Jesus Was. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Our Lord's Testimony Concerning Himself.

1. How the Kingdom Was Revealed (ch. 11).
In showing the attitude of heart of the people, four classes of hearers are described.
1. The perplexed hearers, like John the Baptist (vv. 2-11). John believed that Jesus was the Christ (v. 2), but was somewhat perplexed as to the manner of the establishment of the kingdom. The Baptist had in his preaching mainly emphasized the line of prophecy which made the King to be a mighty conqueror (Matt. 3: 10-12). He said that the ax is laid unto the root of the tree and that there was to be a separation of the chaff from the wheat and a burning of the chaff. John saw Christ as the one who would remove the sins of the people by the shedding of His blood (John 1:29), but he failed to see the interval between the time of His suffering and the time of His triumph.
2. Violent hearers (vv. 12-19). They were willing to believe the kingdom according to their own way, but were unwilling to conform to His laws. They seized it with violent hands. They would not repent when called upon to do so by John, nor rejoice to do so when called upon by Christ (vv. 17-19).
3. The stout-hearted unbelievers (vv. 20-24).
In Chorazin, Bethsaida and Capernaum, Christ had done most of His mighty works, but the people deliberately set their hearts against Him and His message. Tyre and Sidon were filled with immoral prostitutes and idolaters, but they will be more tolerably dealt with in the Day of Judgment than will those who willfully reject Christ Jesus.
4. Hearers who are babes in spirit (vv. 25-30).
There were those among the people who heard Jesus with childlike faith. They believed that Jesus was the Messiah and opened their hearts to receive Him.
(1. The Antagonism to Jesus (ch. 12).
In chapter 11 we saw the shameful indifference of the Jews to their King. In this chapter we see the positive and bitter antagonism manifesting itself against Him. The immediate occasion was Christ's relation to the Sabbath.
1. The Son of Man is Lord of the Sabbath (vv. 1-8).
The hungry disciples were plucking corn on the Sabbath. With this the Pharisees found fault. To their cavils Christ replied, and showed that God's purpose in instituting the Sabbath was to serve man's highest interests and to contribute to his happiness.
(1) He is greater than their greatest king, David (v. 3, 4). (2) He is greater than their sacrifice and priesthood (v. 5). (3) He is greater than the temple (v. 6). The temple, with its gorgeous rites and ceremonies, was but typical of Himself. (4) He is greater than the Sabbath (v. 9), for He is the very Lord of the Sabbath.
2. Healing the withered hand (vv. 9-14).
In order that they might accuse Him, they asked, "Is it lawful to heal on the Sabbath days?" Jesus' reply was both a question and a declaration.
3. The unpardonable sin (vv. 22-32).
The occasion of their blasphemy against the Holy Ghost was the casting out of the demon. In this act Christ displayed His power to cast out demons. The effect of this miracle was twofold: (1) Upon the multitude. They were amazed, and cried out, "Is not this the son of David?" (2) Upon the Pharisees. When they heard what the people were saying, their anger and satanic malice were aroused. They said He was casting out demons by the prince of the demons. With unanswerable logic, He met their accusations and demanded decision. He charged home upon them their awful guilt. They had attributed the work of the Holy Spirit to the devil. This Christ calls the blasphemy against the Holy Ghost for which there is no pardon.
We don't pretend to know who will get up there or not, but we have an idea St. Peter won't keep anybody out just because he was a booster for his home community, even if in his enthusiasm he stretched the truth a little.
It took two weeks for the delegates at the London arms conference to shake hands, kiss each other on the forehead and get down to business. No wonder the American representatives got impatient.
The world wasn't built in a day. But some people try to tear it down in one evening.

An enjoyable party featuring a George Washington theme was given by the ladies of the Liberty Home Demonstration Club on last Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. E. L. Woodward.
This is an annual affair given by the ladies for the entertainment of their husbands and families.
Misses Lonella Taylor and Lena Polk rendered a number of piano selections during the evening which were greatly enjoyed by all present.
Eight tables of players spent some two hours playing progressive forty-two, after which a refreshment plate consisting of sandwiches, lemonade with cherries, and cake was passed to forty-two guests.

Christian Aid Society

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Christian Church met Monday afternoon. There was a very good attendance. Mrs. Wallace Kirkpatrick, president, led the devotions.
A very interesting article entitled "Crippled Christians" was read and discussed.
Plans for an increased membership were made and various methods of work discussed.
Love is like an ocean raft: it sometimes departs with the tied.
The Club met with Mrs. Will Holt on Thursday afternoon, February 20.
At this meeting we were glad to welcome as a new member Mrs. Jim Scott. Our next meeting will be with Mrs. Gorden Conklin on March 6.

How to Raise Poultry

IS BACILLARY WHITE DIARRHEA A "TIPE DREAM"?

Many widely differing opinions have been printed about this deadly disease. Most investigators now agree that blood testing is the only dependable means of detecting its presence in the parent stock—sanitation and elimination of carriers the only effective weapons against it.

We find experts of unquestionable reputation who assert with great positiveness that Bacillary White Diarrhea (B. W. D.) is the greatest menace to poultrydom since the landing of the ark and that the blood test is one sure means of achieving a victory. Another group of just as impressive reputation assert with equal assurance that the B. W. D. menace has been vastly overrated and the kindest thing they can say about the blood test is that it is just an experiment with only limited value, if any. The one group maintains that it is a germ disease while the other is quite sure that it is caused by improper brooding, too early feeding or the feeding of improper materials, etc.

The majority of our best authorities favor the view that B. W. D. is a highly infectious disease which is transmitted from hen to chick through the egg. These writers are also of the opinion that the blood test is the only sure means of detecting the disease in mature fowls. My own study of the disease extending over a number of years convinces me that the true B. W. D. is a genuine contagious bacterial disease transmitted from hen to chick through the egg, and is quickly spread from affected chicks to others in the brood.

This fact should be fully realized by poultry raisers everywhere, for B. W. D. is one of the worst diseases affecting baby chicks. Losses up to 50 percent are not uncommon and not infrequently 80 to 90 percent of a hatch will be wiped out. Of those that survive, many will retain the germs in the ovary or egg sack where they will find their way into the eggs causing infection of future generations. If these birds are used for breeders, the most critical period is during the first 48 hours.

All cases of bowel troubles in baby chicks are not B. W. D. by any means. Simple diarrhea is not contagious, and is often the most common kind seen. It is usually caused by faulty feeding, improper brooding, dampness, etc.

Affected chicks are dull, dispirited and dejected looking. In the most serious cases a white pasty substance closes up the vent. As a result the chick becomes pot-bellied and utters a pitiful "peep, peep" indicative of great pain. Death usually follows in a few hours. Those only mildly affected may develop rapidly, show no outward signs of the disease and reach maturity with the germs concealed in their ovaries. Such fowls are called carriers or reactors.

Since carriers show no external evidence of their condition, the importance of finding some way to detect these disease spreaders spreaders has long been recognized. Several tests are now available, but the most reliable one is that known as the Agglutination Test. There are many biological laboratories in the country making such tests. Once it has been determined which hens are the carriers of the disease, they should be separated from the flock and used no more for breeders.

Steps can be taken to limit the spread of the disease. Baby chicks should be divided into small flocks of 100 or 200 or less. By this means they can be watched more closely. If any are noticed with bowel troubles, they should be removed at once and either kept to themselves a few days for developments, or killed and burned. Droppings should be cleaned out often. Feeding and watering equipment should be kept scrupulously clean at all times. Floors should be cleaned often and disinfected with a 3 per cent disinfectant solution. Dry, clean litter should then be placed on the floor.

floor with half-inch mesh wire, raised a few inches from the floor, will do a lot to prevent the spread of this disease. Chick Tablets should be dissolved in all drinking water for the first three weeks. Fresh buttermilk or clabbermilk should be fed daily in clean protected vessels. Only feed of the best quality should be fed.

It is especially important that incubators and brooders be thoroughly scrubbed and disinfected before being used for fresh hatches. A very important factor in the control of this trouble is to keep houses, runs and all equipment in 100 per cent clean and sanitary condition at all times by cleaning often and using freely a good dip and disinfectant. The germs of B. W. D. may remain alive for months and unless such precautions are important. The only crash of value that has come during the stock market crisis is a crash within men's minds. The recovery from the crisis is a matter of psychology instead of statistics.

Will Rogers reminds us that little as the stock market students seem to realize, the cows are still coming up every day to be milked, and chickens still lay eggs. This is both true and observed may cause an outbreak of the disease. Copyright 1929 by Dr. L. D. LeGear, V. S.

There is no time of recent years in which the sound and consisting advertising of articles of merit at reasonable prices is more needed and will produce better results than today.

Advertising is an exhibition of business confidence. Advertising is an index of present soundness and future progress. Advertising can re-establish the idea of security and prosperity within the public mind. That is, honest advertising of honest goods at honest prices—the offering of things the people need more than things they think they want.
