DEAD BANDIT BROUGHT TO SANTA ANNA; TWO CAPTURED. MORE ELUDE POSE IN OIL FIELD

Considerable excitement was prevalent in the usually peaceful and quiet little city first of the week, when word was received here Monday morning that the Lohm State Bank in McCullough county had been robbed and the bandits were headed this way.

Sheriff Frank Mills and his deputies made for the Jennings oil field, ten miles southeast of Santa Anna, where a rendezvous was under surveillance and when the officers approached, they found the bandits, together with two or three other men in the house, supposedly, dividing the spoils. When the men were accosted, some of them ran, some took the officers to battle, and one man was killed.

According to information at hand, deputy sheriff Bob Sumerall fired the shot that ended the life of the bandit, the bullet taking effect in the right ear, penetrating the brain and coming out near the left temple. Mr. Sumerall, it is said, after firing two shots without effect, and several bullets from the gun of the bandit passed close to him, placed his 30-30 on a fence post, took good aim and brought down his mark. The man was said to be hiding in a cluster of bushes and shot until the officers shot it out with him, the officer being the victor.

Deputy Pink Dyches also took a shot at another bunch who were leaving in another direction, and thinks he wounded one of them. It has been said that Mr. Dyches shot one down and went on in pursuit of the others, and when he returned for his man, he was gone, but a pair of bloody coveralls, or overalls were found near by, which had not been discarded but a very few moments, even the clothing was still warm from the heat of the body.

C. P. Petty, undertaker was called out in the Santa Anna Furniture & Undertaking Company's ambulance and brought the body of the dead man to town, where it was kept until Wednesday.

Several hundred people viewed the body Tuesday and Wednesday, but his positive identification has not yet been determined. He was a young man, approximately 27 or 28 years old, fair, light featured, very stout build, approximately 5 feet and 10 inches tall, weight near 200 pounds. He was known to the bunch as "Big Boy," and his further identity has been difficult to establish. He wore a tie purchased in Oklahoma City, the initials in his clothes were L.T.M. and it was rumored that he had passed in some places by the name of Martin. Papers in his pockets indicated that he went by the name of Ollie Wood in the State of Oklahoma, and it has been said that papers were also found on him that indicated he had been using the name of G. T. Wood in other places. The car, a Buick, was said to be an Oklahoma car, with an Oklahoma license. However, the car used at the time of the robbery of the Lohm State Bank was a Ford roadster, and said to be the property of the Rice boys, living on the Jennings lease, near where the battle was fought, and the Rice boys were arrested and placed in jail, notwithstanding the fact, they plead their innocence of the crime. The Rice boys disclaim any part or knowledge of the robbery, and further claim that the car used was stolen from them Sunday or Saturday night before. They gave as their reason for being present when the officers appeared was to recover their car, seeing it when the parties drove up in it.

Sheriffs, deputies and a large number of citizens scoured the fields, pastures and brush thickets for hours, looking for the other men, but was unable to capture them. It is said the men are known to the officers, and the search will be continued until they are finally captured. Sheriff Mills wired to Gatesville for a team of blood-hounds, and they were here Tuesday morning, but due to such a change in weather, the hounds could do no good and were carried back to Gatesville.

Sheriff Mills, deputy Sumerall and deputy Dyches are all former Texas rangers, and had experience on the Mexico border prior to coming here. They usually go out after their men and bring them back. According to information from the bankers over the country, Mr. Sumerall will be rewarded with the usual five thousand dollar reward, offered by the Texas Bankers Association for any dead bank robber, killed in the act of robbing a bank or in pursuit following a robbery. W. F. Roberts, Jr., cashier of the Lohm State Bank was here Monday and identified the dead bandit as being

How Serious Is Life

15-year-old boy attempted suicide in a Western town because, he said, life was to him a joke. Which brings up the question of how serious is life, or how serious should we make it? Certainly it should be considered sufficiently serious that we would not attempt the kind of rash act attributed to this boy. On the other hand, there is just as much reason why life should be made happy and free and joyous, as there is reason for making it a long-faced proposition. The answer is found in the correct mental attitude to assume.

Again, there are times when solemnity and dignity are only proper. There are times when gaiety and merriment are at least fitting. Lastly, there are times when a middle-ground attitude is entirely suitable. But life is NEVER a joke. It never was intended to be made a joke. Life is real, interesting, fascinating and absorbing. If life were intended to be a joke, life's sorrows never would happen—the kind of sorrows or apprehensions that build character and by which happiness is so pleasantly contrasted. If life were a joke it would consist of one grand silly spree and therefore become a nonuseful and non-essential existence.

But just as life is not intended to be a joke, neither is it a tragedy. Those of us who can determine life's proper attitude toward work, play, love, worship, citizenship, and neighborliness, and then carry out life's purposes in individual and public relations with mankind are finding life not a joke but a fact.

To him, however, who can not or does not exercise ambition, who does not bestow devotion, who does not express himself in wholesome recreation, who maintains no solid basis of religious convictions, who cares not for his community's and country's safety and well-being, and who bears no relation of mutual good will and friendship toward others, life is worse than a joke, it is practically non-existent.

There is the possibility that the boy in question did not have the right outlook upon life. It may be that his school, home or community environment and opportunity were not of the best. At any rate, he is and was sadly mistaken about life being a joke. If he is right, then the great institutions of mankind have been builded in vain.

We are now off for another run. This is the second week in the New Year, the new Fords and new Chevrolets are on display, the merchants are through invoicing and checking up on their stocks, the banks have exposed their standing to the public and to the government, no one got rich last year, but we all did what we did, and now it is up to us to take what we have and make the best of it we can. The farmers lost a year, so did the business people, the only ones that made money were those who didn't try. But we all made what we did, and now for a home run in 1930. The Queen Theatre is installing a new system of sound, the produce buyers are still buying, the restaurants are still feeding and we see no reason for not wanting to live. The politicians will soon be passing around and shaking hands clear up to the elbows, dresses will be a little longer and rains will come in the spring. The preachers are still preaching, the teachers are still teaching, the blacksmiths are still blacksmithing and the editor is still editing. All together, let's go. As for what this year has in store for us, we cannot foresee, but the outlook is at least an average one, and if we make the best of the prospects before us, it is up to Him who created us to permit us to live and prosper according to our individual capacities. It takes lots of courage and grit to keep on keeping on these days, but when one quits, he will never get any further. We have seen worse conditions, also we have seen times more flourishing, but the thing for us to do is make the best of what we have and look forward for the results.

J. P. Bland and Miss Ruby Carter, both living north of town, were united in marriage Saturday afternoon at the Presbyterian manse, Pastor Womack officiating. We hope for them much joy and happiness in their matrimonial career, and may their lives be useful ones in their community.

SANTA FE FIREMAN DIES OF FALL FROM ENGINE

COLEMAN, Jan. 8.—B. D. De-priest, Brownwood, fireman on the Santa Fe Railroad, died Wednesday from injuries suffered Tuesday when he slipped on his ice-covered engine and fell to the ground. His skull was fractured in the fall.

The body was sent to Brown-wood for burial.

Friends of Henry Parker will be glad to learn that he is recovering in the Medical Arts Sanitarium at Brownwood, where he was carried several days ago to be treated. One eye has been removed and a fight is being made to save the sight in the other.

Pierre Rowe and family returned recently from Avondale, Ariz., where they have lived the past two years, and will again make their home in the Plainview community.

The Test Of A Man

The place to take the true measure of a man is not in the forum, or in the field, nor in the market place, nor in the American corner, but at his own fireside. There he lays away his mask and you may judge whether he is imp or angel, king or cur, hero or humbler. There are not what the world says of him; whether it crowns him with hay or pellets him with bad eggs; I care never a copper what his reputation or religion may be; if his babies dread his home-coming and his better half has to swallow her heart every time she has to ask him for a five-dollar bill, he is a fraud of the first waters, even though he prays night and morn till he's black in the face and shouts hallelujah until he shakes the eternal hills. But if his children rush to the front gate to greet him, and love's own sunshine illumines the face of his wife when she hears his footfall, you may take it for granted that he is pure gold, for his home's a heaven and humbugs never get that near the great white throne of God. I can forgive much rather make men swear than women weep; who would rather have the hate of the whole he-world than the contempt of his wife; who had rather call anger to the eyes of a king than fear to the face of a child.—Wm. Cowper Brann.

The feature article in this issue of the News is about a tragedy. Some mother's son has tried to travel the wrong trail and met with a fatal end. Somebody's brother, or maybe husband has paid the price for the sin of crimes. It was a sad picture in the morgue of the Santa Anna Furniture and Undertaking company Tuesday and Wednesday. A man lay dead, a young man, in fine physical physique, apparently, just budding into real life. He went wrong and paid the price. Some day, some broken-hearted loved one will call for him, and with sorrowful embarrassment will have the body buried.

Why some people want something for nothing is more than this writer can understand. We see people every day who have been more fortunate than we have, and read of great fortunes constantly, and naturally, we would like to possess a fortune parcel, but if we did not come into possession of it rightfully, we most certainly would rather live out our allotted time in poverty. A conscience is worth more than gold to a real man or woman. God have mercy on somebody. It is too late for the one who paid with his life Monday morning, while defying the officers of the law to capture him and bring him to justice for a crime.

OFFICERS OF M. E. CHURCH W. M. S. MEET

At a request of Mrs. C. B. Ver-ner, president of the Woman's Missionary Society, the officers of this organization met at the home of Mrs. Verner Monday at three p. m.

Object of meeting: That each one might become better acquainted with their individual tasks, and to learn the wishes and expectations of the president. In a few well chosen words, Mrs. Verner expressed some of the ideas she had in mind, told her cabinet what they might expect of her and asked their help and co-operation in the work of the year. After her message, then all together they made outlines for the new year's work. Also made plans to entertain the Brownwood District Missionary Institute on Thursday, January 9th.

We are planning to make this the greatest and best year's work of this organization. After the business was finished refreshments of sandwiches, tea and fruit cake was served to the fourteen officers of the society. —Reporter.

SCOUT QUESTIONNAIRE INDICATES WEST TEXAS DADS CAN DETERMINE FUTURE OF SONS

Other activities. He then lays the foundation for his survey by stating that what the men of tomorrow depends upon the boys of today and the ideals they are gaining.

One school, the church, home and social contacts all help in giving the boys ideals, Mr. Mc-Masters adds, but perhaps the greatest influence is exerted by the reading done by the boys, and when he says:

"Fiction characters are real characters to the boy, flesh and blood companions, influencing him to seek their standards, to live as they lived. Father has been an influence, and so have other men of his acquaintance, but the intimate contact with heroes of fiction is fully as real and as gratifying. What a power for good, or for evil, those hours when a boy ceases to be a boy, and in his vivid imagination becomes a character in the book of his choice!

"We cannot tell boys what to read, but can and should place within their easy access wholesome books, not tame ones, but books whose conclusions and promises are fundamentally sound and not misleading.

As a result of the information gained in the questionnaire Mr. McMasters draws the conclusion that the first need is for better magazines in the homes. The boys read an astonishing number of good books, most of which they get from school libraries, but he finds that they are forced in their magazine reading to depend on the many trashy ones that are now found in their homes.

"Give them boy magazines," don't force them to read unsuitable ones," he urges.

Dad Best Friend
In view of the persistent plaint that is made in this day and age that fathers are swallowed up in the rush of modern business life and have no time for their boys, it is interesting to note in the answers to the questionnaire that "Dad" is far ahead in the lead in answer to the question "Who is your best man friend?" Sixty boys gave that honor to their father, 24 mentioned someone else and 6 named the scoutmaster. And they a reason is given.

"It was gratifying to see how many boys could say without reservation that 'dad' was their best friend.

When the matter of selecting (See "Scout Questionnaire" Pg. 1)

(Brady Standard)
You can't make a man out of anything but a boy, so—
What about the boys of West Texas?

It's an old question, this one of "What about the boys," but don't turn away from it, please, for as West Texas is different in a vastly interesting way from other parts of the country so is this discussion about the boys of West Texas different from the ordinary answers to the forgoing question.

You are not going to be gorged with a recital of present day morals and social habits, with the terrible condition of the present generation, or the opinions of learned psychologists. Rather, the boys of West Texas themselves, one hundred of them, are here giving you the answer to that question, and you may find some things that will surprise you.

Leisure Time Problem

The particular reason for asking the question at this time was to find out how these boys spent their leisure time, especially with reference to what they read, an idea conceived by Maurice H. McMasters, field executive of Concho Valley Council of the Boy Scouts of America. Mr. McMasters worked through members of the troop committees throughout the sixteen counties of the Concho Valley Council to secure the information hereafter related. Questionnaires were sent to 100 boys on ranches in oil fields, on farms, in towns. Half of the boys are scouts, the others are not. They were asked about their favorite books and magazines, who is their best friend, their greatest living hero, where they get most of their reading material, what activities they are most interested in and what they plan to do for life's work.

As a result, Mr. McMasters has just compiled the replies received and issued a report of more than passing interest, one which constitutes a challenge to parents and all others interested in youth to perform a better job of guiding the boys' activities along right lines.

Preparing his report with the comment that the public gives close attention to the study and improvement of material things that make for civic progress, he issues the challenge that the true measure of prosperity is the man power of the community, which necessary determines what effort and what direction is given to all

Mutual Interest and Profit . . . .

Of course maintaining an account will make a man a bank depositor, but—not necessarily a success.

A person may deposit a certain amount regularly and still not make the most of his banking connection.

Wise is the man who deposits his money regularly and cultivates a close relationship with his banker.

It is our intent and desire to take a personal interest in our depositors—and merit their friendship.

The natural result of interest and friendship is mutual profit.

Historical January

January is just as happy a month as December, provided one has recovered sufficiently from the holiday festivities to appreciate a month apparently without historical romance but actually full of it.

The first United States flag was raised January 2, 1776. On January 4, 1896, Utah became a state of the Union. The battle of New Orleans was fought January 8, 1815.

Of course, our first look at the calendar of the month, and it is a very interesting one. It is a record of the things that have happened in the world since the beginning of time.

BELIEF IN ETERNITY: It has always been necessary for the conscious man to have a faith beyond himself. Had he not the first regarded himself as a purely biological product, he would have no incentive to survive.

WHEN AND IF IT HAPPENS TO US: Every day and every hour there is a big fire some place. Many of us, no through life never experiencing a fire in our own homes or places of business.

That 15-year-old boy who attempted suicide because life was a joke probably found out it was not when he tried to heal his gunshot wounds. Senator Borah says practically open saloons are being run throughout the country under the noses of district attorneys.

EARLY AMERICAN SETTLEMENT OF TEXAS

It was not until after the Louisiana Purchase in 1803 and Texas, being succeeded by the shortlived "empire" of Iturbide, and in 1824 by the Constitutional Republic of Mexico.

The colony was established by the year 1825, the locality selected lying below the old San Antonio Road and on the waters of the Brazos and Colorado. The first of these American settlers located on the Brazos, in what is now Washington County.

INDEPENDENCE HAVING BEEN STRUCK IN 1810

In 1821 the Spanish power was finally overthrown in Mexico and Texas, being succeeded by the shortlived "empire" of Iturbide, and in 1824 by the Constitutional Republic of Mexico.

The newly acquired independence of the country, and the reports of the natural resources of Texas disseminated by returned adventurers, awakened a lively interest in the province in many portions of the United States.

He succeeded in obtaining from the tottering Spanish government the privilege of settling in Texas as many as three hundred American families. Moses Austin died in 1821, but before his death committed to his son, Stephen F. Austin, the task of completing the enterprise.

The Old Home Paper

This day seldom arrives in a man's life when he ceases to be interested in the daily or weekly paper of the place that he has once called home.

When the evening shades fall at the end of the day, an feller rests from labor, smokin at his pipe o' clay, there's nothin' does him so much good, be fortune up or down, as the little country paper from his Home Town.

It ain't a thing of beauty an' its print ain't always clear, but it straightens out his temper when a feller's feelin' mean, it takes the wrinkles off his face and brushes off the frown, that little country paper from his Home Town.

It tells of all the parties an' the balls of Pumpkin Row, 'bout who spent Sunday with who's girl and how the crops will grow

An' it keeps a feller posted 'bout who's up and who is down, that little country paper from his Home Town.

Now, I like to read the dailies an' the story papers, too, an' at times the yallar novels an' some other trash—don't you? But when I want some readin' that'll brush away a frown I want that little paper from my

Home Town.

And with that perfect cheery thought of truth, the old home town paper wishes to old Snyder and Scary County residents who have left the old home town the best there is in the world with a 1930 full of everything that you most desire. —Scary County Times.

KNOW TEXAS

The largest river in America having its water shed entirely within one state is in Texas—the Brazos which drain 41,700 square miles extending from the upper Panhandle to the Gulf of Mexico.

During the fiscal year ended June 30, 1929, Texas citizens paid to the Federal government in taxes $39,465,939.50, of which $37,703,785 was on incomes.

Only 2.2 per cent of the native white population of Texas was classed as "illiterate" in the 1920 census. The over-all figures of 8.3 per cent are due to the 17.8 per cent illiteracy among the negroes and 33.3 per cent among the foreign-born.

Corn In The Southwest

T. C. Richardson

Field Editor, Farm & Ranch

As cotton is the greatest cash crop of the Southwest, so is corn the greatest feed crop, although the grain sorghums are running a race for supremacy. Corn seed is probably the most unreliable that we have, for the simple reason that it will cross-pollinate over a wide range, and a carefully selected and uniform strain may be seriously mixed in a single season by pollen from an entirely different variety. If a selected strain of corn is to be kept reasonably uniform, therefore it must be planted in a way to minimize the chance of cross-fertilization. This may be accomplished either by distance from other plantings, (which is impossible in a region of small farms) or a very late variety may escape pollination by an adjacent early variety; and vice versa. This crossing habit of corn is an essential to its vitality and productivity, but it is also the main reason for the fact that a pretty sample of seed corn may produce a very heterogeneous crop, ranging from early to late, and from the big single-ear sorts to the small-earred prolific sorts. By far the greater part of the commercial seed corn offered on the market is shelled out of any lot of corn that comes on the market and appears sound and uniform to the eye. The location of the field with reference to other corn fields is usually unknown and a matter of difference to the seed jobber.

Again, corn is probably the most susceptible of our common crops to changes in soil and climate conditions. Some early Texas experiments showed that corn from a negro's crib, which had been grown in the community for years, outyielded the best bred corn that could be obtained from 250 miles northward. Instead of proving that the negro's corn was as good as the other, it merely proved that the Northern corn was out of its native environment, for after the first year the story was quite different. Before this was understood many Texas farmers would plant nothing but Kansas corn, and appreciate that it was better than Texas corn. When they happened to replant seed grown from the same corn, and selected their own seed for a few years, they learned that native corn or acclimated Northern corn was quite superior to first-year seed from a distance.

Now this brings us to a point that must be made clear. In one sentence we insist that corn should be given careful field selection and kept isolated, to produce a crop true to name and with good yielding powers. In another sentence we show that locally adapted strains are likely to outyield even highly-bred corn from some other section of the State, or from some other section of the State, or from another State. This seeming paradox is simple after all.

Few farmers will take the trouble to field select and breed up their own corn, and must depend on the professional breeder to supply seed stocks unless they are indifferent to the deterioration that may occur under ordinary field conditions. In general terms, then, the answer is to buy enough of such corn as appears to suit one's requirements, and grow a seed crop from which to plant the main crop next year. If the original seed is produced under the same soil and climate conditions, near the planter's own farm, it will pay to buy seed for the entire farm crop the first year. Otherwise, grow it long enough to acclimate it before paying high prices for the seed to plant a large acreage.

Again we must qualify the last statement: If one is planting purely for seed purposes, the whole acreage should be from the best strain obtainable, for what may be lost in yield of first-year seed in a new environment will be made up in the increased value of the crop for planting purposes in the section where it is grown.

The possibilities in the production of seed corn are perhaps greater in the Southwest than for any other crop except cotton. There are few men in this territory who are giving constructive attention to breeding work in this important crop. With all the varieties and strains that are in use, there is a dearth of dependable seed of all but a few. The increased interest in cattle and hog feeding will call for the production of more yellow corn than the Southwest has ever produced in the past. Yellow Dent, originating in the corn belt, has become thoroughly acclimated in the Southwest, but is not universally adapted. The old Bloody Butcher and Strawberry types are not on the market in any great quantity. Iowa Gold Mine, introduced and acclimated, is fairly well adapted to those regions which must have an ex-

Why Women Are Late

From time immemorable husbands have complained of the long time it took their wives to dress; men have observed that women did not heed the flight of time, but carried on seemingly interminable telephone conversations without realizing how long they talked, and so on.

This apparent lack of regard for time by the fair sex has been the source of endless comment—often profane. But now it has all been explained, thanks to modern psychology.

Exhaustive tests conducted at Johns Hopkins University show that women just naturally can't help it. They don't realize the meaning of "tempus fugit." These tests developed the fact that women on an average estimate the time it takes them to perform a given task at about one-half the actual time required. Dr. Isabel Stewart, who conducted the tests, which were made with 1,084 students, both men and women said:

"Men estimate more accurately. The inaccuracies of women imply that time really seems shorter to women than to men."

Which recalls the joke of a paragoner who wrote: "Married men do not live long; it just seems longer."—Kerrville Mountain Sun.

JETTIE KIRKPATRICK, Tax Collector

Fred Coleman, of Coleman, was a business visitor here Monday.

Extremely early variety to beat the summer drought. Local strains of any of these could be readily developed. Good seed stocks are to be had from highclass Southwestern seedmen, or from farm breeders.

In the light soils of East Texas, Eastern Oklahoma, North Louisiana, and Southwestern Arkansas where rainfall is more abundant and where fertilizers show abundant returns, the prolific types of corn best adapted: Haskins' Prolific and some others of the two-and-three-earred sorts of white corn nearly always show heavier yields in the uplands of these sections than the heavy, one-earred sorts, but yellow prolifics are scarce. Recently I saw a yellow prolific at the Jackson, Tennessee, Experiment Station that ought to be well adapted to the sections above named. There may be local yellow varieties already in use which are equally good, but they have not come to my notice.

Of the white sorts we have no shortage of well-adapted varieties in any part of the Southwest. Tuxpan and its derivatives on the Gulf Coast and under irrigation on good land; Surocropper and its derivatives as an extra early sort for droughty regions; Neal's paymaster (introduced by Tennessee Experiment Station) for the highlands of Northwest Arkansas on good land, and others too numerous to name. The Mexican June and the Laguna, also a Mexican strain adapted to planting late, can now hardly be had in good uniform strains. One farmer-breeder in New Mexico is known to be producing a selection from Mexican June, under proper conditions.

Prior to the World War there were some good strains of Laguna corn in existence in South Texas. It has apparently been lost from commercial channels, and if any farmer has kept an unmixed strain of it, it is a variety well worthy of constructive selection and production for sale. Having a shorter stalk than the original Mexican June, it is also somewhat quicker in maturing, and the grain is slightly dented where the Mexican June is smooth.

Finally, the sum of all this is that we need more good seed corn in the Southwest, when more attention is paid to this important crop, farmers will no longer have to go to the local seed dealer and take corn on faith as to its trueness to type, without knowledge of its origin or its adaptability to his own farm—in other words, "just corn" which has all too frequently been collected at a public shelling plant and named "seed corn" by the local buyer.

The better class of seedmen buy the best they can get, with some knowledge of its parentage and its origin, but even they cannot give a guarantee without danger of bankruptcy. Field inspection and isolation of crops grown from seed, if and when enough farmers will take up this production under those conditions, an dthis will in turn provide a source of supply for the seedman who desires to sell the best.

Lesson for January 12

THE BAPTISM AND TEMPTATION OF JESUS

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 3:13-17 (Print Matt 3:13-17) GOLDEN TEXT—This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased.

PRIMARY TOPIC—When Jesus Was Baptized. JUNIOR TOPIC—The Baptism and Temptation of Jesus. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Jesus Facing His Life Work. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Triumphing Over Temptation.

I. The Baptism of Jesus, the King (3:13-17).

While the forerunner was discharging his office, the King emerged from His seclusion at Nazareth and demanded baptism at John's hands. The integrity of this demand with the purpose of baptism brought from John a protest, but upon Jesus' satisfactory explanation, John baptized Him. Touching Christ's baptism note: 1. Its significance. (1) Negatively, it did not mean His mere obedience to the commandment of God, because His entire life had been lived within the will of His Father. There was not a moment in His life but what was lived fully in accordance with the Father's will. He was absolutely sinless, harmless, undefiled—separate from sinners. This separation was to complete that even the devil could find no occasion against Him (John 14:30).

(2) Positively, its significance is found in harmony with the central purpose of His coming into the world, which was to secure for His people salvation through death and resurrection. This act was the official entrance upon His work. It was an act of consecration on His part to the work of saving His people through sacrifice.

While baptism is a sinner's ordinance, Christ was baptized not because He had sinned, but because He took the place of sinners to be a substitute for them. In this He who knew no sin was made sin for us that we might be made the righteousness of God in Him (1 Cor 5:21).

Approval from the opened heavens (vv. 16, 17). Immediately following His consecration to His work, the heavens were opened and the Spirit came and abode upon Him, followed by words of approval from the Father.

II. The Temptation of Jesus, the King (3:13-17). Being thus commissioned for His work, His ability to bear the arduous and destructive temptations to be accomplished, must be demonstrated (Heb 2:18). This temptation was the opening battle of the dreadful conflict between Christ and Satan in this struggle note:

1. The combats (v. 1). (1) Jesus Christ, the divine man, now entering upon His mediatorial work. He went immediately from the place of anointing and heavenly appointment as the Son of God, to meet the arch enemy of the race. (2) The devil, the one with whom Christ struggled here was a real personal being, filled with cunning and malice, and possessing great power.

The battleground—wilderness of Judea (v. 1). The first man was tempted in a garden with the most pleasant surroundings, and failed. The second man was tempted in a bare wilderness, and gloriously triumphed.

3. The method of attack (v. 3). Since, as the Redeemer of mankind, Christ sustains a threefold relationship, the Son of Man, the Son of God and as Messiah, each one was made a ground of attack. (1) As Son of Man. This was a test of the reality of His human nature, demonstrated as to whether the humanity which He obtained through the virgin birth was real. The appeal was made to the instinct of hunger. Hunger is natural and sinless. (2) As the Son of God, it was a test as to whether His personality which had taken upon itself humanity, was divine. The devil quoted from a Messianic psalm to induce Jesus to presume upon God's care. God does really care for His own, but to neglect common precautions to do the uncalculated things, just to put God's promise to a test, is to sin and to fail. (3) As the Messiah, Christ's mission as the Messiah was to rescue this world from the devil. The devil offered to surrender to Him on the simple condition that He adopt his method, thus obviating the necessity of the cross.

4. The defense—the Word of God (vv. 4, 7, 10). Christ met the enemy each time and repulsed him with "It is written." Each time he quoted from Deuteronomy—the book which the higher critics would discredit as unreliable. Jesus had enough confidence in it to use it in this the most crucial hour of the world's history.

5. The issue (v. 11). The enemy was completely routed. The strong man was bound, so that the spoiling of his house was possible.

During the first eleven months of 1929 Texas brought in 4,717 producing oil wells and 522 gas wells.

If automobiles had even horse sense there are lots of drivers who would sometimes get thrown out head first.

MECHANICAL STEPMOTHERS FOR CHICKS. This Article Should Help the Beginners Materially in Choosing the Type of Artificial Brooding Most Suitable to His Individual Requirements.

One of the penalties of being regarded as an authority on anything is having to answer all sorts of questions, more or less closely related to your specialty. One of the many questions that I am called upon to answer quite frequently is: "What type of artificial brooder do you consider best?" To this I invariably reply that there is "no best system and no best device." Any of the devices and systems now in general use will give satisfaction if the manufacturer's instructions are carefully followed. A brooding system should be so arranged that it can be easily cleaned and disinfected; it should be guarded against fire; it should be able to develop high temperature and distribute heat evenly; it should be easily ventilated. The terms brooder and hoyer are rather loosely used by many people. Strictly speaking a hoyer is that part of the brooding apparatus which confines the heat to a given place and to which the chicks have access for warmth. It is usually a circular metal canopy shaped to deflect heat downward into the backs of the chicks, just as it would come from the body of a hen. It is sometimes adjustable to various heights and is quite often surrounded by a slit curtain to confine more of the heat to the area beneath it. Many types of heating plants are used. A kerosene burner is the most common form, although coal gas, hot water and electricity are also used to furnish brooder heat. If an oil burner is used it should be so constructed that the flame cannot easily be blown out or smothered and there should be some provision for the easy escape of fumes into the open air as they are very harmful to young chicks. With coal heaters it is also necessary to have a good draft. Small portable lamps hovers having a capacity for from 50 to 100 chicks are deservedly quite popular as they are small and are easily carried, simple to regulate and offer fire hazard. If ordinary precautions are observed, they are usually circular in shape. A centrally located lamp is surrounded by a metal drum which carries the heat up against a metal canopy which deflects the heat downward. The canopy is usually surrounded by a curtain to confine the heat and slits in the latter allow the chicks to come and go as they please. Large stove brooders are in quite general use and have much to commend them. In principle, they are much like the portable brooders mentioned above except that they omit the inner drum and the surrounding curtain. As they radiate heat over quite an extensive area gradually decreasing in intensity with the distance it travels, the chicks can almost and any degree of heat they wish. With this type of hoyer poultrymen can take care of 5,000 chicks or more.

Parable About A Poll Tax Receipt

Behold a voter went forth in January to pay his city tax and his school tax and his state tax and his county tax and his income tax and his inheritance tax and his dog tax, and when he had paid all he sat down in the shade of a tree and fanned himself (even if it was January), for behold he was hot under the collar, verily he was. Selah. And he said within himself, These remaineth but one tax yet unpaid, my poll tax. What shall I do? To pay or not to pay, that is the question. Whether it were better to face one's banker with a cold check staring one in the face—and pay, or let the matter go and in July see a politician named "Jim" or "Tom" threatening to ascend to the governor's chair while one stands helplessly by. The thought is maddening. Nay, verily it should be so. Every good citizen should be armed with a poll tax receipt, quite be. And a better plan than to wait until the day that the deep blue sea, the fair saw a great light, and he broke him to the woted place where the tax collector sat and poured this fast and greatest distinguishing equipment of a good citizen, a poll tax receipt, which he carefully tucked away in the secret recesses of his bill fold against that day. Selah. —DeLeon Free Press.

APPRECIATION. To the people throughout Coleman county, we wish to thank you and every one of you for the kind deeds you have done for us. God only knows our wishes for each of you. —Mrs. C. A. Shanblin and children. Another reason "wedding" and "marriage" are not interchangeable terms is because of the difference in the degree of happiness sometimes attending them, respectively.

Watch Party

On the night of December 31, 1929 and the morning of January 1, 1930 Miss Ona Mae Smith entertained a party of young people who watched the old year out and the new year come in. The guests came to the home of Ona Mae at about eight o'clock. They played games and dined until a late hour when refreshments of hot chocolate, sandwiches, potato chips and olives were served.

Entertainment

Miss Mary Harriett Simpson entertained a few of her friends with a party last Friday evening. Many songs were given and a fine time was had by all. The following were present to enjoy the occasion: Misses Lena Bob Pillow, Eva Williams, Mary Harriett Simpson, Margaret Wylie and Ona Mae Smith, Messrs Curran Pleratt, Neal Oakes, Alton Pleratt, Buster Turner and John E. Smith. Every one returned home early Wednesday morning after an enjoyable evening.

THE GREATEST CHEVROLET

IN CHEVROLET HISTORY

Today, Chevrolet presents the Greatest Chevrolet in Chevrolet History—a smoother, faster, better Six—with beautiful new bodies by Fisher. Basically, it is the same sturdy, substantial Six which won such tremendous popularity in 1929. But it is a greater car in every way—for there are scores of vital improvements which contribute to comfort, performance, endurance and safety!

- at extremely low prices!

During 1929, more than a million three hundred thousand persons bought six-cylinder Chevrolets. This enormous volume has made possible many savings in the Chevrolet factories—and, in keeping with its long-established policy, Chevrolet is sharing these savings with the public. No written description can do justice to the extra value and quality provided in this new car. Visit your Chevrolet dealer—see this car—ride in it—and judge for yourself its sensational value.

Texas Federal Building

The Federal Government will spend about $365,000,000 in erecting and enlarging public buildings in 1930. In the erection of postoffice buildings cities and towns that have already secured sites will likely be given preference. The Texas towns expected to benefit under the 1930 allocation include: Jacksonville, Borger, Duffin, Ranger, Pampa, Ballinger, Childress, LaGrange, El Campo, Wharton, Hallettsville, College Station, Colorado, Eastland, Edinburg, Electra, Graham, Kerrville, Kingsville, Lamesa, McCamey, Mercedes, Midland, Nocona, Quanah, Stephenville, Uvalde and Atlanta. An effort will be made to provide buildings for all postoffices showing re-

THE STATE OF TEXAS

To the Sheriff or any Constable of Coleman County—Greetings: You are hereby commanded to summon Wm. Miller, William Miller, M. H. Miller, Ida Turner Brown, Mrs. R. O. Brown, Roland O. Herein Fall Not but have before said Court, at its next regular term, this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and seal of said Court, at office in Coleman, Texas, on this the 24th day of December, A. D. 1929.

W. S. STACY, Clerk District Court, Coleman County, Texas.

ceipts of $20,000 and up, for which provision has not already been made.

Utility Extensions

The utility companies operating in Texas announce that they will spend approximately $70,000,000 in the State within the next year in the enlargement of their service. This announcement was made on reports from some 20 of the leading companies and does not include any publicly owned utilities. The prosperity of Texas, as compared with most of the other States, makes extension of utility service a profitable investment for capital. The railroads will perhaps do more building in Texas than in any of the other States, if only they are not hampered by the restrictions of the International Commerce Commission.

Citrus Shipments Grow

The Rio Grande Valley will ship approximately 5,000 cars of 1,750,000 crates of citrus fruits before the end of the season. Under the law requiring inspection to prevent the shipment of green fruit 900,000 certificates of maturity for shipments were issued prior to Dec. 15, when the season in which certificates are required closed. Every year the citrus fruit orchards of the Valley yield a greater return and Texas becomes more noted for its fine fruits.

Planning For The Year

Most of the Chambers of Commerce have arranged definite plans of work for the next year, having laid out the things they expect to accomplish, rather than undertake work at haphazard as it may appear important. Since they first began more systematic efforts the results have been far better than they were under the old hit-or-miss system. Brownwood, for instance, has 12 planks in the platform of its chamber of commerce for 1930. One of these is "an all-weather, all-the-way" highway through Brownwood from Fort Worth to Del Rio. Another is the extension of the Frisco railroad from Brady to Del Rio. Just think of the help Brownwood is going to get on those two planks from the many towns along the routes.

Students Make Farm Profits

Thirty-five vocational students in the high school at Silverton have made in the 1928-29 school term profits totaling $7,059.58 from 64 completed farm projects. Each boy has kept accurate records of his work, including costs, expenses, time applied and market values, to file with the State Department of Education at Austin. The profits are four times the departmental cost of training the boys. The students have not spent the money, but have invested most of it in hogs, poultry, dairy animals and farm equipment. Most of the boys have checking accounts with the bank. They are getting an education that is worth to them and the State far more than it costs.

Busy Political Year

The legislature will meet some time about the middle of January and much will be done besides legislation. The important matters likely to be presented by the Governor are, prison relocation and building, regulation of public utilities, correcting confederate pension laws, limitation of county and district officers, and perhaps submission of the State road bond issue. Equally as much, if not more study will be given to candidates for office, and with some legislators other things will be made subservient to politics. Unfortunately it seems impossible to separate legislation and politics and to keep the interests of the State above those of self-seeking politicians.

Texas Oil Output

Despite all efforts at curtailment, Texas oil production continues to increase. The output in the State for the first eleven months of this year was 275,016,000 barrels as against 235,234,000 barrels for the same period last year. Texas, California and Oklahoma have produced slightly in excess of 84 per cent of the Nation's crude oil during the year.

Grabbing at Everything

One of the largest of the mail-order chain-store department houses has bought a cold storage warehouse at Abilene and has been buying and dressing turkeys for the Christmas trade. It is reported that the same company is under way plans for a complete poultry and egg plant to start operation in the Spring. The company explains that it is doing this to utilize surplus warehouse space, but one wonders why all the surplus space, and why be buying more.

Permitting Shingles Clean

Nothing better indicates the increase of a town's business than its shipments to other points. Measured by this standard Kerrville is doing well. Railroad shipments of livestock, wool, mohair and other Kerr county products had reached 548 cars on December 20th, or practically 100 cars more than at the same time last year. The largest increase was in cedar posts. In a number of products, however, shipments have fallen off, especially in grain and pecans.

Texas Turkey Crop

The latest estimates are that Texas produced in 1929 approximately 1,800 cars of turkeys or about 550 more than last year. The total receipts for the 1929 crop have been around $5,000,000. Last year they were about $3,000,000. It has just been a case of "too much of a good thing."

Leaves Farmers Guessing

When prices tumble, as with the turkey crop, the farmer is left guessing just what he can do to make a living. He can figure neither on the amount of a given thing he can produce, nor on the price he is likely to obtain for what he produces. And yet, farming must be carried on, although it has become the most uncertain of all the industries. The farmer is not afraid of work; his fear is that he may not get enough for his labor to maintain himself and his family. The farm problem is the greatest economic problem confronting the world, the one hardest of all to solve.

Increasing Egg Production

From the price being paid for eggs it seems that the easiest way for farmers to make money is to raise winter-laying strains of hens. But if the hens should all decide to be liberal with their eggs in the winter, prices would get so low the hens would not pay for their feed, whereas in summer many of them would be their own feed.

Jack Shelton, who manages the Luling Farm Foundation says that by turning on the lights in his poultry houses at 5 o'clock in the morning he has increased egg production 50 per cent—just by fanning the hens into getting to their work early, and without increasing their food to any extent. A poultry grower a Seagraves says she has increased egg production with her flock about 300 per cent by feeding skim milk and a scratch ration of corn and milo. If Shelton will only keep the lights burning all night and feed the Seagraves ration—oh, well, figure it out yourself.

Bexar County Roads

San Antonio's popularity as a resort city is largely attributed to the excellent road system of the country, which makes it easy for visitors to get out into the country over good roads. People are attracted to Texas from the North because of the climate. Most of them are from cities and want to get away from cities as much as possible, although they may like the conveniences of city life. These seek places with attractive country surroundings that are easily reached by good roads.

Highway Patrol

About the first work of the new highway patrol will be to eliminate the hogtiness of the road hog. Texas has entirely too many highway accidents, and too great a number of them are caused by autists who have no regard for the rights or the lives of others. Perhaps the bus and truck drivers are the greatest offenders. The person who will not observe the laws and ethics of highway travel should be denied the use of public roads. The highway patrol can be of great service in securing records of those who persistently "hog" the roadways.

Chain Store Control

There is much complaint that the chain stores do not do their part toward carrying the public burdens in the communities in which they are located, and it is not entirely without cause. In too many cases local managers are without authority to contribute to any local enterprises. Their institutions are to sell as much merchandise as possible at the least possible expense and remit the receipts to the central offices. It can not be denied that but few of them contribute a proportionate part to the rebuilding of their localities. Some members of the Texas legislature are considering measures for their regulation. One of these now being discussed would require out-of-state concerns to invest a certain proportion of their profits in Texas or in the localities in which they operate.

New Year's Resolutions

It is not too late to make helpful resolutions for the New Year. This is to be a great year for Texas and for those Texans with enough of the Texas spirit to take advantage of opportunities that will be presented. Get out of the old ruts; get a vision of better things. Determine that you will start each day of 1930 as though you were beginning a new year—that you will study diligently and work persistently to win the success that should be yours. Do not be satisfied to do less than your full share along whatever line you may be at work; shirkers are always failures; effort brings success of some kind.

Del Rio Airport

Del Rio proposes to keep up with modern transportation and has bought the land for an airport. Arrangements will be made to improve the property with all the conveniences of a landing field. Proposals are being considered for an aeronautic school in connection with the airport. Bonham and Alice are other Texas towns that have recently acquired airport sites.

Tomato Area Increased

Farmers in a number of sections of Texas are preparing to go into tomato growing for the market. More tomatoes will probably be cultivated in South Texas than ever before. To make a success of the business it is necessary for farmers to plant enough acreage to attract buyers and to pool their interests in selling. This is being done by a number of localities throughout the State. Heretofore Texas tomato culture has largely been confined to East Texas.

Will Buy Sewer System

By a vote of 171 to 6 Georgetown has voted $80,000 in bonds with which to buy and extend the city sewer system. It will not be necessary either to increase the rates or the taxes for the city to own the system, make the needed extensions and pay off the bonds as they mature. That looks like a good business proposition, and there are some other Texas towns that should follow Georgetown's example.

town has voted $80,000 in bonds with which to buy and extend the city sewer system. It will not be necessary either to increase the rates or the taxes for the city to own the system, make the needed extensions and pay off the bonds as they mature. That looks like a good business proposition, and there are some other Texas towns that should follow Georgetown's example.

Snyder Wants Hotel

Snyder has awakened to the fact that neighboring towns with better hotel facilities are getting much transient business that Snyder might get if only it had better hotel facilities. The business men of the city are making plans to organize a company to construct a modern hotel building. No town as progressive otherwise as Snyder should lack hotel facilities.

Milk Products Plants

Dairy products plants have increased in number in Texas and the business has grown to such an extent that the manufacturers of butter, cheese, ice cream and other milk products are planning an early meeting to form a State-wide association. As in all other industries, organization is essential to the greatest success. Every week now brings an increase in the number of milk products plants in Texas and the industry has assumed large proportions. The plant at Alice has just been completed and the cheese factory at Round Bay will be enlarged again this month. The second time within a period of six months that this has been found necessary to the extent of the growing business.

Cameron County Roads

Cameron county should have as fine a road system as any county in Texas when it completes its system, for which it cannot yet spend $5,000,000 in addition to the amount that it will receive from the State and Federal governments. The bonds are being issued and sold as the work progresses.

Panhandle Schools

As an evidence of the increasing interest in good school buildings in the Panhandle section of Texas and showing the growth of that part of the State, a firm of Amarillo architects announces that it is now preparing plans for modern school buildings in 22 towns in that territory, practically all of which will be constructed in 1930.

Public Buildings in Texas

President Hoover's call on the governors of the various States to ascertain what will be done in the near future in the way of public construction has revealed that Texas alone will have under way in 1930 more than half the public building that the president thought would be necessary to offset any bad effects of the Wall Street debacle.

HELPING TO BUILD TEXAS

Turning on the electric lights in the hen houses at 5 o'clock in the morning is credited by the Luling Farm Foundation with bringing about an increase of 50 per cent in egg production. The lights were turned on in two of the four poultry houses and records combined, each house having the same number of hens receiving the same feeding attention.

ROME - TOWN LETS

Let the weather alone now and get down to business. Remember, folks, the business houses have to keep going after the holidays, as well as before. Let's keep the ball rolling.

FOR JUST A PENNY...

Have you ever thought of the ridiculously low cost of electrical service?

Listed below are just a few labor-saving and time-saving appliances that can be operated for absurdly small amounts.

For instance, a penny will operate a vacuum cleaner for 50 minutes, a washing machine for 49 minutes, a sewing machine for 1 hour and 54 minutes or a heating pad for 2 hours and 51 minutes. The same penny will cook 6 waffles, toast ten slices of bread or brew 5 cups of coffee!

Numerous other appliances can be operated for like amounts.

Take full advantage of this economy. There are hundreds of tasks which can be performed more efficiently, more easily, quicker and cheaper with Electricity.

PREACHING AT CROSS ROADS SCHOOL HOUSE

Sunday, January 12, there will be preaching at Cross Roads School house by the pastor, at 10:30 o'clock. At night a program will be given by the Brownwood Young People's Society. The public is invited to attend all these services.

Ivan L. Flynn, pastor.

BAPTIST CHURCH

If last Sunday was indicative of the interest to be taken throughout the new year we are happy indeed for we had a good day in every department of the church.

Regular services next Sunday. If I had the opportunity and the time to sit down and have a heart to heart talk with everyone who shall read these lines I would try to encourage you to think seriously about this thing called life and insist that you put the emphasis on spiritual matters. How swiftly the years pass away, and how soon we come to the end of this earthly life. And when we shall have spent our time on this earth and take an inventory of our stock in trade as the evening shadow begins to fall what will bring the greatest joy to our hearts? I can answer that question. It will not be the thoughts of success in the business world, neither the thoughts of having been among the leaders in society, nor thoughts of things possessed. But rather it will be the thoughts of having given Christ the first place in our lives. And when Christ reigns supreme in a heart, that life will be spent in rendering services unto Him and to His cause here on earth. What is your life worth? It is worth most when the lowly Nazarene directs its pathway.

There is one phase of the church life we have been trying to build up in the past few months. That is the prayer meeting. If you anticipated spending eternity in heaven with God's children, it seems to me you would enjoy the fellowship of the brethren here on earth, and there is no service of the church in which the fellowship is finer than that of the prayermeeting. If you have not been in the habit of attending prayer meeting you have been missing great spiritual blessings. Come with us to the house of the Lord and we will do thee good. Do you find it in your heart to say with David: "I was glad when they said unto me, let us go unto the house of the Lord?" We invite you to come to God's house to meet Him there in spiritual communion.

Hal. C. Wingo, Pastor.
Let the other fellow do his own thinking and do some thinking for ourselves.
