"He Profits Most Who Serves Best"

CHURCH RALLY SUNDAY WAS BIG SUCCESS

The Rally Day that was advertised for the Baptist church last Sunday, met with all expectations, and more than three thousand dollars in cash was raised. The church is now clear of debt, and a substantial fund has been pledged to complete the new sanctuary, which must be completed soon.

Many have sacrificed during the past few days, and some of them several times in order that the present church building might be built, and now that such a magnificent building stands as a monument to the sacred cause, is it not possible for us to sacrifice a little more and complete our large basement for the benefit of our Sunday school? May the work never cease until the last, the climax, which is always the hardest, is completed. Sunday was a great day for those present, for it was truly a day of sacrifice. May its fruits live forever.

SINGING AT WATTS CREEK

The News has been requested to announce there will be singing at Watts Creek next Sunday afternoon, November 16. Singers throughout the county are invited.

EDUCATION WEEK

The American Legion and National Education association is calling again upon the people of the country to turn their thoughts to education for one week—November 17-23.

American Education week has become a fixed event in the lives of the American people. If it is accomplishing its mission in impressing upon people the importance of education in the life of the nation, it is not time wasted.

Someone has said that education is the only way to fit one to live. If this is true, it is the true conception of education. Education is the purpose, greater bearing of the future of this education. Certainly nothing has a greater bearing on the future of our country and every other country in America where people are in charge of our educational program have a great responsibility. If Education Week in any way serves to bring those not in touch with the public schools and their work, around to a sympathetic attitude of helpfulness, it will not have been in vain.

Education Week should be made the means of setting forth the school viewpoint and bringing about a more hearty response from the school patrons to the school program.

INDIAN RAID IN BROWN CO.

(As told by W. W. Hunter)

In 1873 there was a Mr. Williams settled on Sand Creek in Brown county. One morning he, with his son, a boy nearly grown, left home early to get out some rafters for a new log house which he was building. His wife, a nine year old girl and a baby remained at home. Soon after the men left Mrs. Williams took her milk buckets and went to the cow pen to milk. While she was milking she was attacked by the Indians, and seriously hurt. The Indians also took the baby and dragged it around the house on its face, tearing all the skin off it, then they took the little girl and left.

Mrs. Williams, though mortally wounded went to the spring nearby and brought cool water to pour on the baby to alleviate its suffering. Three times she changed her dress as she was bleeding so profusely from the wounds inflicted on her body.

Late in the afternoon her son came in-home ahead of his father and found his mother in a dying condition. All she could say was, "Indians." Her son ran back for his father who was driving oxen, but when they reached home Mrs. Williams was dead. The baby lived three days and died.

Of course the white settlers were greatly aroused by this depredation and outrage, therefore a posse of men was gotten up by W. W. Hunter and Bill Adams to pursue the Indians. There were thirty two men volunteered to go and Captain Ike Mullins of Thrifty was placed in command.

The band of Indians had gone north, and while the pursuers were following some where near the head of Jim Ned Creek among the shineries they ran up on a bear. The bear stood up on his hind legs and made toward the men at first. Some one fired at him and he fled. W. W. Hunter pursued him about 300 yards and shot and killed him. The bear was a large one, but the men ate the best part of him for dinner. The party then went on to the head of the Clear Forks of the Brazos, here their provisions gave out and they were unable to pursue the fleeing Indians further. They started back, coming by the way of where Post City now is. Soon after they left the cap rock of the plains they got lost and wandered two days without water and food. Finally W. W. Hunter who was a cow boy then, told Captain Mullins that he could find water so he was placed in the lead and about ten o'clock that night he led the party to Pecan Springs near Glen Cove. Captain Mullins ordered the men to halt and not to drink but little water at a time or they would die. The men obeyed the order. The horses too were not allowed to drink too much water. Each man then tied his horses' hind foot to his fore foot so the Indians could not drive him away, then all lay down to sleep without a bite to eat. The next morning Captain Mullins arose early and after looking around saw a drove of cattle feeding on a distant hill. He detailed two of the cow boys to go out and kill a cow and bring to camp. They

PROSPECTIVE BRICK PLANT

In a letter from T. E. Brazelton, with the Traffic Department of the G. C. & S. F. Ry. Co., dated at Galveston, Texas, Nov. 6, is the following contents, which should be of interest to the people of Santa Anna, and should be responded to by some one who is prepared to do so:

"Several associates and I are very much interested in finding a good deposit of fire clay or semi-fire clay that will give a good clear, light colored or gray brick suitable for the manufacture of high grade face brick.

"We would consider it an advantage, of course, to be located on the Santa Fe Railway, as you have no really high grade plants on your line at the present time in Texas; and none whatever making gray brick.

"If you have any lists of deposits of this kind along your line, we will appreciate your sending a copy of the lists and we will have a man investigate the deposits.

"Would thank you to take this matter up with your Commercial Secretary and let us know as soon as possible if any such clay is known to exist in your section adjacent to our tracks, and if so, give me a description of the deposit, result of any tests that might have been made, and ownership of the property on which the deposit may be found.

Thanking you for reply, I am,
Yours truly,

succeeded in killing a fine red cow—the largest in the herd. She was soon dressed, a fire built and each man cut him off a hunk of beef, placed it on a sharpened stick and held it in the fire a short time, and then ate it without salt or bread. So hungry were some of the men that they would cut off slices of the liver and eat it raw. After they had satisfied their hunger the men broke camp and returned home.

Later another party found the little Williams girl hung up by a piece of buckskin placed under her arms in a mesquite tree dead.

The Indians while retreating stopped at a water hole between the Santa Anna mountains where Henry Parker's tank now stands and got water. Some months after this raid, a party of white men had a skirmish with some Indians near Camp Colorado and captured a squaw, who was riding on a boy's saddle and had a silver bridle on her pony. She threw up her hands and said, "Me Squaw No Kill," and when carried into camp she had an apron tied to the horn of her saddle with about a peck of pecans tied up in it. She began offering some pecans to every man as she came to him. When she came to Mr. Williams who was in the party, he began to cry and said, "That is my wife's apron."

Later the squaw was turned over to Williams and another man and they shot her.

Mr. Hunter later became owner of the silver bridle and sold it for fifty dollars. This bridle had been stolen from the Mexicans.

FIFTH SUNDAY SINGING CONVENTION

The News has been requested to announce that arrangements have been made for the Eastern District Singing Convention to meet with the class at Echo, some 10 or 12 miles north of Santa Anna, on the Fifth Sunday in this month, and all who are interested in the convention can hereby take notice and be governed accordingly. Mr. L. G. Bobo of Trickham is the president, and request as many come out as possible on the Fifth Sunday in this present month.

LESS THAN 50 YEARS AGO

The earliest telephone exchanges built in Texas were opened in Galveston in the year 1879, and in Dallas, San Antonio and Austin during the month of June 1881. A month later exchanges were opened in Waco and Fort Worth.

Since the small beginning of the telephone system of Texas, they have increased from less than half a thousand telephones to half a million telephone stations.

W. E. Wallace in Dallas Hospital

Last week, W. E. Wallace went to the Baylor hospital in Dallas for an operation, being afflicted with a rupture or hernia. His condition has been serious at times, having called Mrs. Wallace to his bedside. Later reports indicate he is improving and will recover, however, he is not expected home for several days. Mrs. Wallace will probably return home this week.

Meeting Of State Highway Commission Postponed 1 Week

The next meeting of the State Highway Commission will be held on Monday, November 24, instead of Monday, November 17, the regular meeting. Hon. R. M. Hubbard, Chairman of the State Highway Commission announces.

M. E. Church Conference in Session at Brownwood

The Central Texas Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, is in session at Brownwood this week, and several members of the local church are in attendance, including the pastor, Rev. J. Hall Bowman and family.

DOLLAR DAY

Next Monday is Dollar Day in Santa Anna, and you will find some real bargains advertised in this issue of the News. Read all the ads and we think you will agree with us that Santa Anna is the place to buy your supplies.

ARMISTICE DAY

Responding to a petition circulated Monday by members of the local Post American Legion, the business houses in Santa Anna remained closed Tuesday in observance of the Sixth Annual of the signing of the Armistice, that ended the war that will never be forgotten.

There were no objections to closing, except for the fact, if the town was going to close, it should have been notified and the general public advised of such in advance. We hope in the future this matter will not be overlooked.

COLEMAN COUNTY POULTRY SHOW

The Coleman County Poultry Show will be held at Coleman, Nov. 20, 21, and 22. This will be a National show of quality throughout this part of the state, therefore, we say as an advertising medium the commercial breeder cannot well afford to pass by our show this season. To all that are interested in pure bred poultry of any breed, or even thinking of taking up poultry raising later on, it will be of great help to you to visit this show. The educational feature of this Poultry Show will be well worth your time. We give one and all a hearty welcome.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Bro. J. W. McKinney was with us last Lord's day evening and gave us a very helpful message. We were glad to see a good audience present to enjoy his message. Hope he will come again soon.

We are hoping to see an unusually large audience at all services next Sunday. We aim to make the three Sundays left this month the best of the year. Our Bible School was just a little better last Sunday notwithstanding the fact that some of the faithful ones had to be away. Be sure to be in your place next Sunday. We need you. You need the help that you will get if you are searching for the truth.

Bible School begins promptly at 10 o'clock. Communion follows. At 11:30 the sermon begins. If you cannot come sooner be on time for that. Subject: "Persecution, a Blessing."

Subject at 7:00: "Find Me a Man," Jer. 5:1.

You will receive a cordial welcome at all times.
A. L. Oder, minister.

BARGAIN SUBSCRIPTION OFFER

$1.00 Pays to January 1926

The Santa Anna News is anxious to be identified with the best, most loyal, interesting and patriotic institutions in Santa Anna, and being desirous of joining the others of the town in offering bargains, we are going to make the following astounding subscription offer for a few days. There are but few local papers now with a subscription price of less than $1.50 a year, but in our anxiety to get every family in this territory to reading the Santa Anna News, we reduced the price two years ago to $1.00 a year, and now we are going to make an offer still more attractive by offering the News from the date your subscription expires this fall to January 1st, 1926 for only $1.00. We have a large number of subscribers whose time expire this fall, and every one who renews before this offer is withdrawn, we will extend your time to January 1st, 1926 for the price of $1.00. This is an exceptional bargain, and we would be glad for several hundred to take advantage of it, the offer is confined to our local territory, and does not include foreign subscribers.

HAPPINESS FROM INSIDE

Elihu Root told a group of young men recently that "no man is truly happy who depends on outside things for his happiness," and that there must be a "development of one's inner faculties." That is very similar to the statement of John Ruskin many years ago that his mother taught him to find happiness within himself and not in things he possessed. The doctrine, from whatever source, is to the present, when things that money can buy seem to make up the goal of many an individual's life.

Happiness is a powerful incentive in conduct. If a person desires power, success, money, unusual ability, it is because that individual believes that with the possession hoped for or aimed at he will be more content, in better position to enjoy life, happier in fact. Getting and having, owning things, has gained an ascendancy over routes to happiness, because today there are more things to be owned by the individual who has money than at any previous time. But there seldom is an end to the desire for possession, unless it ends in safety and the things fall on the possessor.

It is a pretty much a will-o'-the-wisp proposition, a long and tiresome search for the pot of gold at the rainbow's end. But it is all very human, and the lure of the unpossessed and belief in the joy of possession. It is easy to get lost in a maze of things while seeking for more things.

It is hard to see the matter of happiness in its true light. When one has put his trust in things outside himself and those things begin to fail, the world, indeed, seems about to collapse. Frequently, the individual collapses, too. Men and women, to all appearances, strong and courageous, break and fail, while their friends wonder.

The person who would avoid being at the mercy of externals will cultivate sympathy and service; the source of literature, the enjoyment of beauty, art and music; the appreciation of conversation, friendship, recrea-

THE SCANDAL MONGER

Would that we might have a law against gossiping as we have against stealing. As Shakespeare says: "He who steals my purse steals trash; but he who robs me of my good name robs me of that which enriches him not, but makes me poor indeed." False witness destroys the whole man, body, soul, and spirit. This spirit of gossip is the peculiar temptation and sin of otherwise respectable people. It is rampant among the clientele of the average church. So much so, that many of the royal men, who are outside the church and whom the church needs so sorely, are deterred from throwing their lot with the church because of the conviction, based upon the residuum of fact, that church people are given to unfriendly criticism of their neighbors.

We must recognize our responsibility in this connection. Our big sins may often be small sins in the estimation of God, and our small sins may be considered by Him big sins. Lust and insobriety, condemned by us with pharisaical vehemence, received the Master's mercy. They are sins of the flesh. But gossip, slander, the destruction of the reputation of other people, are cold-blooded and cruel sins. They are spiritual sins and are unexcused by passion or overwhelming desire.

The French are proposing to put a tax of $1,000 on American divorcees. Looks like Americans could save money by trading at home.

If he's one of the common people, he's "busted" when he goes broke, and if he's in the capitalist class, he is just "financially embarrassed."

A curiosity in the world about him, and in the great problems that confront humanity; a delight in the contemplation of the human spectacle.

A character so built is in a position to meet and overcome the vicissitudes of fate.—Kansas City Star.

AT CHRISTMAS TIME

There's a certain time in life when nothing satisfies that Christmas present craving like The Youth's Companion. It comes at different ages in different families. In some it is manifest at six or eight or ten. We have seen old gentlemen and ladies of seventy who were just as eager to get The Companion for the following year as if they were still in their teens. And the beauty about The Companion is that nobody ever wants to change it for something else the day after Christmas.

The 52 issues of 1925 will be crowded with serial stories, short stories, editorials, poetry, facts and fun. Subscribe now and receive:

Most of those who have been freely predicting election results are now busily studying explanations as to why their predictions were not sustained. Even if people all voted as they talk and were as enthusiastic at the polls as at public speakings, it would still be a difficult thing to figure out election returns in advance, but to predict results on the basis of the noise made or the newspaper reports of the crowds at public speakings tends to put one in the class of "dumb-bells."

The Agricultural Census

During its last session Congress passed a law providing for an agricultural census for the year 1924 to be taken this winter. The purpose of the general census is to secure information in regard to the population of the United States, and secondarily to get agricultural information, while the direct purpose of this census will be made to get information as to the number of the inhabitants.

The method of taking this census will be same as that used in taking the general census. That is the state is divided into Census Districts and the counties are divided into enumeration districts. Each census district has a supervisor and he will appoint enumerators for the various enumeration districts during November and the enumeration will begin December 1, and is to be completed by January 31. The qualifications of enumerators are as follows: An enumerator must be a farmer, a farmer's son or daughter or some one whose occupation is akin to farming. Also he should live in his district and in no way be connected with assessing or collecting tax.

J. C. Griffin, Lampasas, Texas, is the Supervisor for the Seventh District of Texas which includes Coleman county and this county is divided into five enumeration districts. Anyone desiring further information should immediately write Mr. Griffin.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the neighbors, friends and relatives for their help during the sickness and death of our darling baby, Eugene Keller. We thank each of you for the pretty floral offering, especially the dear friends from San Angelo and Valera, Texas. Baby loved flowers very much. If he could have seen these he would have said, "Pretty Mama." We also thank Dr. Lovelady for his service.—P. B. Lightfoot and family.

MORTUARY

Eugene Keller Lightfoot

Eugene Keller, the little 16-months old son of Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Lightfoot, died Saturday morning after eight days of severe suffering. Everything was done that could be done. Doctors and nurses were called to aid the father and mother in their struggle to keep the darling baby on earth, but a higher power called—"Come to me Baby Keller and end your suffering." So the little fellow passed from this earth to a fairer, brighter place where he will know no sickness or sorrow, on Saturday morning, November 8. He was just a little bud of love on earth to blossom with God above. Besides his parents, he leaves a brother, P. B. Lightfoot, Jr., also grandparents, other relatives and a host of friends—Contributed.

PAVE YOUR WAY TO BUSINESS OWNERSHIP

Business is a great game in which the players match their skill against each other. The larger prizes—better positions, bigger incomes, power, influence, social position, wealth, happiness—go to those showing the greatest trained ability.

The young man or young woman who is planning a career in the business world should, therefore, look most carefully to the business course with which he or she is to make the start. This course should be complete—it should cover the whole field of business—it should be more than training in Bookkeeping, Shorthand and Typewriting. In fact, it should be so broad that, larger in life, when that man or woman has an opportunity to become an executive, or a business proprietor, he or she will be prepared for the thousand and one new responsibilities such positions always bring.

Such a course is the General Business Course at Tyler Commercial College, Tyler, Texas. This course was designed especially for young men and young women who wish to rise to executive positions or to go into business for themselves.

Starting with Bookkeeping—this course thoroughly covers every phase of business organization and managers. Double-entry, Singly entry, Cost Accounting, Expert Accounting, Auditing and Banking.

One of the greatest achievements of the age is to be able to record human speech as rapidly as it is spoken, thereby preserving to the world the greatest gems of thought. By the use of Shorthand, human speech is recorded. The "Byrne Simplified," the Tyler Commercial College's own system, is the shortest and easiest to be found. With the Shorthand course you get Shorthand, Touch Typewriting, Copying from Rough Draft, Tabulating, Billing, Court Reporting, Abstracting, Card Filing, Business English and Correspondence, and the fundamentals of correct and forceful letter-writing.

You do not stop with these subjects of the General Business Course, for the student must be taught how to manage and to transact business in a business way. Subjects in money and banking, advertising, salesmanship, secretaryship, adding machine, real estate and insurance and many other subjects.

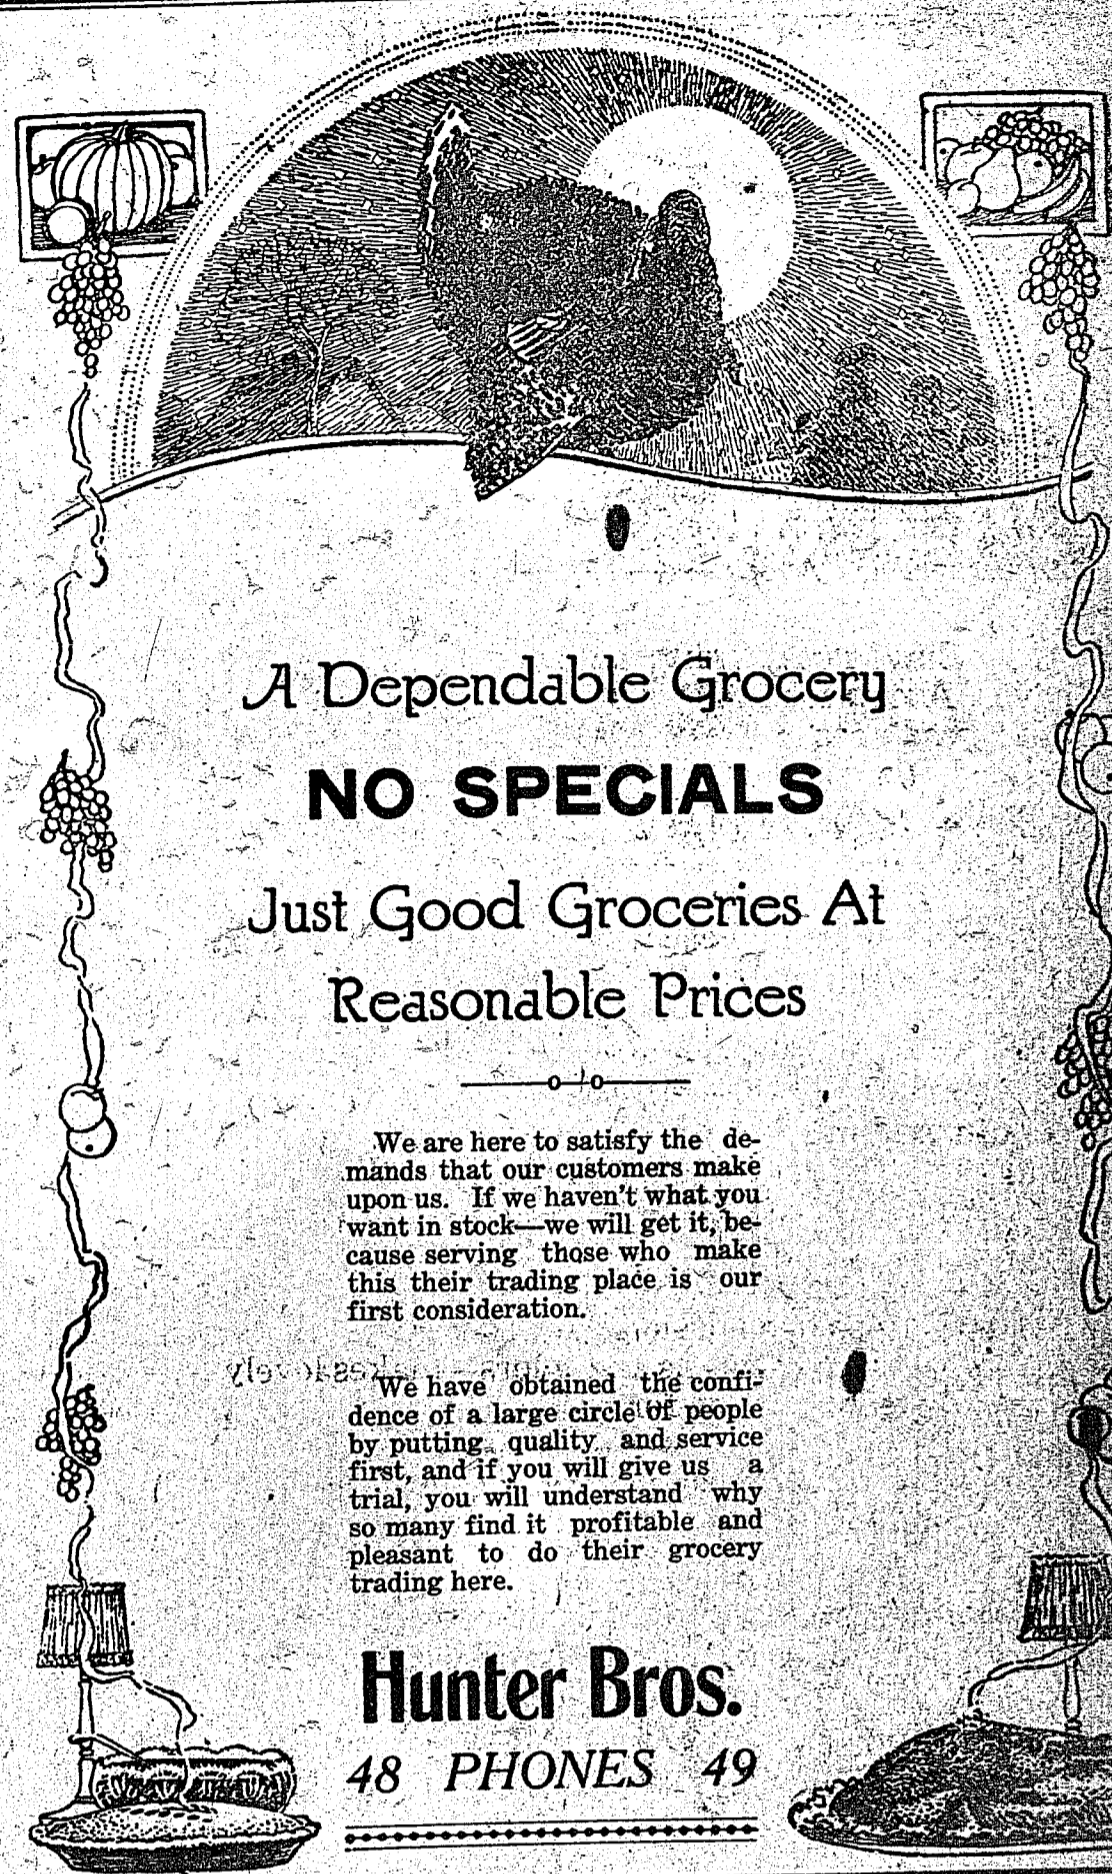

Other courses are taught at Tyler Commercial College, and, if interested in the General Business Course, or any other course, use the coupon below and send for the large 208-page book, "Achieving Success In Business." You will be told how the T. C. C. can train you as they have trained fifty-thousand others. Sign the coupon now and send for the free book.

Communicable Diseases Are Reported

Influenza heads the list of communicable diseases reported by State Health Officer, Dr. Malone Duggan, to the Surgeon General of the U. S. Public Health Service for the week ending Oct. 18, with a total of 179 cases reported. Measles ranks second with 65, diphtheria third, 63, and typhoid fever fourth with 62 cases. Smallpox has declined since the epidemic at the State Insane Asylum with only 17 cases reported. Other diseases reported are: anthrax 3; chickenpox 8, dengue 24, dysentery 40, lethargic encephalitis 1, Malta fever 3, mumps 4, ophthalmia neonatorum-6, pellagra 26, pneumonia 19, scarlet fever 40, tetanus 1, trachoma 19, para-typhoid 3, tuberculosis 45, and whooping cough 23.

P. S. If you care to seek information regarding some of the above diseases, ask the other fellow—no use to ask us.

Value of Advertising

While advertising has helped millions of farm homes to greater efficiency, it has also raised the standards of business. It is the word of the house to the customer. Manufacturers and distributors realize that readers must receive exactly what is promised in advertised products. No man of experience will put his name or brand on inferior articles because it is plain business suicide to advertise an unworthy product. Hundreds of successful businesses have grown from a good idea, nurtured with advertising. Advertising attracts new customers, broadens the market and quality brings repeat orders. That is why advertising flourishes.

Merry Wives

The Merry Wives had their weekly meeting with Mrs. Chas. Woodruff on Thursday afternoon. The house was beautifully decorated with chrysanthemums for the occasion. The time was spent very pleasantly in conversation and in doing fancy work. Delicious refreshments consisting of fruit salad, toasted sandwiches, potato chips, tea and onion pickles were served by the hostess. Visitors present were Mesdames L. W. Hunter, Roger Hunter, Lee Hunter, A. U. Weaver and H. W. Kingsbery.

Methodist Missionary Society

The Methodist Missionary Society had a business meeting at the church Monday afternoon. The devotional exercises were led by Mrs. P. P. Bond, then the report of the committees were read and approved. There was a good attendance and much interest was manifested in the work. The next meeting which is a social meeting will be held with Mrs. Hardy Blue.

ONE WAY TO GET RICH QUICKLY

A young man who is anxious to get a quick financial start in life asks the Signal's advice on how to pull the trick. If the young man is in dead earnest and will do as we tell him, there is no reason why he should not have a fine bank account in a few months. Here are the instructions: Get a bottle of rain water, and bottle it. Hire a negro, or a white man who can make up like a negro, who can dance and sing. Learn the name of several diseases. Go to any Texas town, have the black face, sing and cut the pigeon wing. Tell the people your bottle of rain water will cure any disease, then offer it for sale at one dollar a bottle. If the money doesn't roll in, you may say you don't know anything about finance or people.—Honey Grove Signal.

SMALL FARM WANTED

The News editor would like to trade a good home here in Santa Anna in on a farm situated not too far out. Any one having a good little farm for sale and would consider a trade, we would like to take the matter up with you in person.

WHAT DO YOU KNOW ABOUT YOUR HOME TOWN?

Many people who have lived in their home town almost ever since it was a wide place in the road get it into their system that they are familiar with everything that is going on around there, but if you get to looking around and really thinking what is going on you will find many attractions that you have never thought of in Santa Anna. We give as an example of what a minister wrote about his home town to back up our argument, and what is true of him in all probability is largely true of yourself and your home town. This man said:

"Going down town in my home city, I passed a sight seeing bus for city visitors. Now, I had never ridden a sight-seeing bus in my home town, so I paid my money and got on. There was a good-voiced man with a megaphone which pointed toward us. At regular intervals he would tell us of things along the drive. For an hour and a half I gazed and learned more about the historic and the beauty spots of my home town than I have learned, living here for six years. It was a new experience, this seeing your home place boomed in glowing terms for the eyes and ears of strangers.

"I recommended it to every one. It would make a different world to live in if we had the gumption to go sight-seeing in our own communities. Take another drive down your road. It is the best road in all the earth if it runs past your love and work. Stop long enough to admire the beauties that run riot right where your neighbors live. We are far-sighted when looking for pleasures, and nearsighted with our trials. Some of the best people on this old planet live in your neighborhood. Go sight-seeing and learn about them. Suppose we could take a close look about our own farms. The same sun that gints and gleams on the Alps, I am told, shines on your flowers and mine. The beauty of the stars is bright over our own heads. No foreign country has bottled up the sunsets. They belong to us. Last week I stopped at a roadside to gather some goldenrod, wild asters, and golden glow. An old resident ambled up to the fence. I said, 'The fall flowers are very beautiful this year.' He spat, and replied, 'Yes, this is the derndest neighborhood for weeds I ever saw.' He spat again, and I drove on. That man had never gone sight-seeing at home. Let's take a sight-seeing tour in our own houses. There are, fortunately, a few kings and queens left in the earth, but they do not compare with the kings and queens who perform the daily tasks in the average American home. Look at your wife. If she were dead, no cutter could, with a diamond tool, engrave her virtues on marble. Go sight-seeing and tell her what you wish to say to her, if she were not. Look at your husband. He is not so chipper as when he first called on you, but his love is as real in the themes of poets. Go sight-seeing and your heart will play the wedding march when he comes in from the field. The Master of Men found his sermons in the flowers at his feet. They have never been improved, nor never will. Thru greatness is the power to see in the Near at Hand the Glory that shines in the Far Away. So—Go Sight-seeing!"

Some folks never exercise their judgment enough to keep it in training.

What has become of the old-fashioned man who used to bury his potatoes for the winter, No suffering compares with that of a man who knows it all when shown that he doesn't.

May God seal our lips in society, and elsewhere, that we may never say anything about anybody unless we can say something kind; that we may never wound the sensitive spirit, nor offend the tender heart. If one cannot say something decent about a neighbor, it is better to remain with sealed lips. Nothing is gained by promiscuous discussion of the alleged faults of another and too often is the accuser more guilty than the one accused.

There is one thing to be said in favor of silence; it never talks a man out of a job or into trouble. They say nobody loves a fat man, but he seems to get a lot of pleasure out of life just the same. The goose that lays the golden egg never makes much noise about it.

IT PAYS TO LISTEN TO THE STILL SMALL VOICE

There is in every person that thing called conscience, which holds him to right as opposed to wrong. As long as a person listens to his bosom he is more than likely to come out all right in the end.

However, when he goes wrong it has often happened that his conscience causes him to turn about face, retrace his steps and right the wrong that he has done. At all events, his conscience never permits him to get much happiness out of life as long as he is doing wrong. A case in point is that of Almonse Scheerer, of Indianapolis, Ind. He was a bank cashier, well to do, highly respected and a man of affairs. He speculated and used $30,000 of the banks' money and disappeared. For three years officers throughout the country looked for him but could not find him. A few days ago he walked into the sheriff's office and said: "I am tired of being hunted. My conscience has not let me rest either day or night since I left. I want to take my medicine. I want to pay the penalty for my misdeeds."

Later when friends called on him he added: "I feel more happy and contented in a jail cell than I have at any time since I left here. Nobody knows what it is to be out in the world without a friend, unable to communicate with your family, but always pursued by your conscience which keeps on telling you that you have done wrong."

The straight and narrow path may seem a hard row sometimes, but it pays to keep in the middle of the road.—Ex.

THE JOY OF BEING USEFUL

If nothing else served, man would be lifted above the level of the beasts by reason of his desire to accomplish something more than his needs require. When a small boy has carried in stove wood or gone on an errand and has received his wage of thanks, and praise, the glow that he feels is something more than the reaction of a petted vanity. He is conscious of being a finer creature because he has done something useful. Let him be schooled in useful labor and this delight in being useful never will leave him. At 40 he will be proud of the good work he has done; at 60 he will say that he wouldn't mind living to be old if he knew he wouldn't get to be useless.

In the minds of most of us who labor for our bread there is a pet delusion that if we were rich we should lay aside the tools of our craft and loaf in bliss forever and a day. It couldn't work however, within a week the novelty of spending money in large amounts would be gone; within another the habit of labor would have us longing for our tools, and within a few months at most the yearning to feel respectable again would drive us afield in search of some new form of usefulness suited to our new estate. Loafing is a pleasant business when you need a rest but the world's supply of chronic loafers who grade above morons and feel no urge to get busy is limited.—Baltimore Sun.

There is so much chewing gum made nowadays that there is no use for some folks trying to chew it all at once.

PETER'S CONFESSION

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 16:13-24.
GOLDEN TEXT—Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God.—Matt. 16:16.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Peter Speaks Out for Jesus.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Peter Takes His Stand.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Duties and Glory of Confessing Christ.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Does it Matter What One Believes Concerning Christ?

This confession in some sense marks the turning point in Christ's ministry. Hereafter it is more restricted to His disciples. Two reasons why this should be sufficient are (vv. 1-12): (1) The Pharisees and Sadducees show their attitude toward Him in their demand for a sign, His answer is that none shall be given save that of His death and resurrection, as symbolized in the experiences of the prophet Jonah. (2) The disciples show their inability to understand the spiritual nature of His teaching. When He warned them of the leaven of the Pharisees and Sadducees they understood Him to refer to bread, when He meant their doctrine. It was at this crisis when Christ turned from the nation which had rejected Him that Peter made this great confession. It was made in the borders of Caesarea-Philippi, practically Gentile territory.

I. Occasion Of (vv. 13-16).

Two questions of Christ provoked this confession:

1. The question as to the opinion of people concerning Him.

They recognized Him as a teacher or a prophet of more than human authority and power. Today, as then, there is a diversity of opinion among the people as to Jesus Christ. Some think He is only a man; others that He is a great teacher, but nothing more. Had He been content with this He would not have been molested in Jerusalem, for the Jews willingly acknowledged Him as more than a human teacher. It was His persistent claim to be the God-man, the Son of God, that sent Him to the cross.

2. The second question involved the personal opinion of the disciples concerning Him. To be able to tell what others think of Jesus is not enough; there must be definite, correct and personal belief on Him.

II. The New Body, the Church, Announced (vv. 17-20).

Peter had made a noble confession of Christ, so now Christ confesses Him. If we confess Christ He will confess us (Matt. 10:32, 33). Christ declared His intention of bringing into existence a new body to the members of which He will give eternal life, and to whose hands He will entrust the keys of the Kingdom. Peter was to have a distinguished place in this body. The keys entrusted to Him were used on the day of Pentecost, and again in the case of Cornelius. Association in this new body cannot be broken by death, for the gates of hades shall not prevail against it. This body, the church, is of a heavenly origin, a heavenly calling and a heavenly inheritance.

III. The Cross the Way to the Throne (vv. 21-33).

This was, no doubt, startling to the disciples. They did not realize that redemption was to be accomplished through the passion of the cross. So unwelcome was this announcement that Peter cried, "This shall not be unto thee." Peter later saw through this darkness to the glory on the hill-top beyond. A new hope then filled his breast (I Pet. 1:3, 4). Victory through death is yet the stumbling block of many. Many are stumbling over the doctrine of salvation and redemption through the suffering of the cross.

IV. The Cost of Discipleship (vv. 24-27).

To follow Christ means suffering. To follow Him is to turn one's back upon the world. Life can only be saved by losing it. If we are going to be Christians we must share Christ's suffering. We cannot go to heaven on flowery beds of ease.

1. There must be denial of self (v. 24). There is a wide difference between self-denial and denial of self. Self-denial is practiced everywhere by all people, but only the disciples of Christ or Christian people deny self. Christ takes the place of self.

2. "Take up his cross." This cross is the suffering and shame which lie in the path of loyalty to God. To do our duty will mean suffering (II Tim. 3:12).

3. Follow Christ. This means to have the mind of Christ, to do like Christ. All such shall be rewarded when Christ comes in glory.

What to Hate

I will tell you what to hate. Hate hypocrisy; hate envy; hate intolerance, oppression, injustice; hate Pharisaism; hate them as Christ; hate them with a deep, living, God-like hatred.—F. W. Robertson.

Every day, as it rises out of eternity, keeps putting to each of us this question afresh—What will you do before this day has sunk into eternity and nothingness again?—F. W. Robertson.

THE CHILD LABOR AMENDMENT

(From Houston Chronicle)

It requires no prophetic vision or judgment to foretell that there are going to be some pitched battles in several legislatures during the coming winter over the proposed twentieth amendment to the Constitution of the United States, which reads as follows:

Section 1. The congress shall have power to regulate and prohibit the labor of persons under 18 years of age.

Section 2. The power of the several states is 'unimpaired by this article, except that the operation of state laws shall be suspended to the extent necessary to give effect to legislation enacted by congress.

In a recent issue of the Manufacturers Record there is a very instructive article on the subject by J. H. Reed of Atlanta, Ga.

Mr. Reed says the vote in the Georgia legislature on the proposition to ratify the amendment was in the senate unanimously against ratification, and in the house the vote was 3 for and 170 against.

Unfortunately such a question is calculated to arouse deep feeling, and when that is the case, calm, dispassionate discussion of it is very difficult, but the question of ratification should be carefully considered and calmly discussed from every angle.

If official reports are to be depended on, child labor has been unjustly and inexcusably employed and exploited in most, or at least some, of the South Atlantic states, and it is known of all men that the employment of child labor in many of the larger cities of the country has reached the dimensions of a crime against organized society and coming generations.

While this is true, the subject as it relates to the South so presents itself as to suggest the inquiry, had we not best enact our own homemade or state-made child labor laws than to extend the jurisdiction of the federal government into the states concerning a matter which is so essentially of domestic concern, and which relates so intimately to the family and to the whole system of domestic relations?

The grounds of criticism of the proposed amendment are summarized in the article referred to, substantially as follows:

First. The amendment would take from the parents the right to educate and control their children and vest it in the federal government.

Second. The idea comes from Russia. It was introduced into congress by a socialist member and has received the support of the socialistic and anarchistic elements of society all over the country.

Third. The Georgia legislature was in possession of all the facts, and knew the measure to be a clever piece of bolshevistic propaganda, masquerading under the guise of a progressive measure.

Fourth. In contemplation of the ratification of the amendment, plans have already been drawn up for a federal department of education, and the first appropriation is to be $1,000,000,000.

Fifth. A new department and an army of workers would have to be provided at Washington at tremendous expense.

Sixth. That the measure is not necessary, because the figures as to the number of children at work at an age when work is morally and physically harmful as used for a basis of calculation to show the necessity for the amendment, are misleading. The census shows 1,060,858 at work in the United States four years ago out of 12,502,852 children registered by the census, or less than 10 per cent.

Of the 1,060,858, 6,000,000 were employed in agricultural pursuits and 500,000 worked on the farms of their parents, and most of the other 400,000 were newsboys.

Twenty-two states make examination by a physician mandatory before a child can be employed; 28 prohibited the employment of boys in mines until they reached the age of 16; 29 states enforced a 48-hour week and an eight-hour day, and three states prohibited night work for children under 14, and 42 states had passed mothers pension laws between 1910 and 1920.

The writer of the article referred to says: "The progress made by the different states in handling child labor is nothing short of remarkable, and the figures show that while the number of children have increased 1,500,000 in 10 years, there are 900,000 fewer at work. Not only was child labor shown to be almost a negligible factor in our labor conditions, but it was shown to be rapidly decreasing."

"It was conclusively proven that there was no need for federal law on the subject. The states are already safeguarding the health and education of their children."

The Chronicle suggests that it is none too soon for prospective members of the next legislature to be considering the question of enacting a Texas child labor law.

SONG OF THE LAZY FARMER U. S. A.

My neighbor says the finest thing to make a profit from, by raising a flock of early fliers, and when they reach the eating size they will dip their wings with dough, he has done it and he knows its so. He tells me that the chicken biz is just about the best of all; if he was starting in again, he'd pin his faith upon the hen. "The grand old eagle," the neighbor said, "is only good when he is dead. He's nothing but a bird of prey; and if they'd let me have my way, I'd surely pass out the word, the hen should be our country's bird, we'd shout, when hands begin to play "The hen's the bird of the

My neighbor got so eloquent that I jumped off my seat and went and says to my Mirandy Jane, "Why is it that our hen's ain't paying?" She says, "I have asked you once or twice to dip them poor hens for lice, and clean the chicken house, and spray to drive the mites and bugs away, but you just smoke your pipe and sit; I can't get you to work. If you have got a good strong wife this poultry business is the life, but otherwise, I guess it's best to let the old hens hide their nests and do the best they can alone; a man can't call his life his own if he must toil from 5 to 10, awaitin' on a blamed hen!"—Exchange.

Chas. C. Smith of Dallas, former school boy in Santa Anna, son of Ben F. Smith, now living some place in west Texas, was here this week in the interest of a Texas Film Production. "The Birth of Texas." This is a state wide movement, and means more from an education standpoint than we can imply in a few brief words. Santa Anna will be represented in the picture, and we will have something to say from time to time about it.

When the calendar informs us that November has come again and the autumn chill is in the atmosphere, our thoughts turn to that historic day in 1918, when the news flashed around the world that an armistice had been signed by the nations which had been at each other's throats. That hectic day will never be forgotten. The people of every community went wild with joy. The horrors of war were forgotten; the days of sorrow and self denial were behind and everyone joined in the merry celebration. Little did the majority of the people realize the trials that lay ahead. The war had been so terrible and the remembrance of it were so vivid, that few could see anything ahead but golden days in comparison. That was the psychology of the situation that led to the period of over-expansion, for which we have paid so dearly. Failing to heed the lessons of the past, that showed depression was invariably a reaction of war, the people of the United States plunged into an orgy of buying, from the sheer joy of being released from the limitations of war restrictions. The folly of the after-war period is now history. Business has come back and agriculture, the first to suffer and the last to recover, gain its lost ground, is fast recuperating from the postwar depression. The lesson was costly and will be remembered by the present generation, but the next one will make the same mistake unless war is outlawed and unless people realize that the pendulum always swings back just as far as it swings forward. The skillful liar is sometimes called a diplomat.
