Ethiopians Destroy Road In Effort To Halt Fascist Army

Native Chief Reports His Men Victors

Fascists Are Confident Of Crushing Last Of Emperor's Forces

(By the Associated Press)—Ethiopian troops blasted entire sections of the Desaye-Addis Ababa road today in a supreme effort to stem the Italian advance. The government claimed several thousand Italians were slain in a fierce three-day battle on the southern front, ending in an Ethiopian victory.

Italian sources said airplanes were savagely assaulting Ethiopian units to prevent destruction of the road to the capital. A heavy fog was reported aiding the Ethiopian defenders.

Reports Victory
Ras Nasibu, Ethiopian commander on the southern front, reported the major victory in that section. Rome, however, claimed the southern army was continuing its advance despite torrential rains. Italy's northern army pressed on toward the capital, confident of crushing the last Ethiopian forces under Emperor Haile Selassie despite the attempts to destroy the road.

Around And About

By Tom Bealey

Lee Hubby of Big Spring was listed as a member of the Associated Press hole-in-one club this week. . . . Texas sharpshooters turned in six more aces last week to increase their top-heavy margin in the golf-ace chase. . . . Somebody leaves a note on the desk inquiring as to why we did not mention the fact that Jack Wilson suffered a broken collar bone in the intra-squad football game last week. . . . The writer of the missive apparently overlooked our story the day after the game. . . . Coach Brown told us that Wilson was injured near the latter part of the game, but did not report it until after the game was over. . . . Jack was captain of the losing team. . . . A shoulder injury this time of year is not big news. Wilson has a lot of time to recover before the first game early in September. . . . Of course if the shoulder is still bothering him when the football season gets underway, that would be something to worry about. . . . George Gentry will represent Big Spring at the Intercollegiate league squabbles in Austin next week. . . . Dewey Mayhew, Abilene coach, is worried over the fact his Eagles have been made early favorites for the Oil Belt football race this year. . . . Mayhew says there will be at least a half dozen teams stronger than the Abilene aggregation. . . . Oscar Eckhardt is not doing so well with Brooklyn. The former Texas University athlete was one of the greatest players in the minors but they never gave him the proper chance in the majors until it was too late. . . . Eckhardt is now sitting on the bench at Brooklyn. This time when he goes back to the bushes it will be his last trip. He is getting to the age where they don't give them trials in the big tent.

OKLAHOMA HAS NEEDED EXPERIENCE FOR WINNER Cosden Lab, Lee's Team Chalk Up Softball Victories

INDIANS ARE WEAK AT START

By United Press The Texas League baseball season is too young for prognosticators to see very far into the future, but if experience and seasoning count, Oklahoma City's Indians, champions last year, may rise yet from the middle of the heap where the first eight games left them. League statistician W. B. Ruggles points out that the Redskins started the season last week with a roster including 13 players who played all or part of the season last year on Manager Bert Niehoff's championship team. Oklahoma City thus had more retained strength than any other team in the loop as it faced the barrier this week. The Indians had lost four and won four games by the end of last week, for an unimpressive fifth position stance. As analyzed by Statistician Ruggles, four members of the club are native Oklahomans who still live in that state; four were born elsewhere and now live in Oklahoma; four are native Texans, two of whom still live in Texas, two in other states; 13 players live in other states and one is a native of Germany. Seven of Niehoff's men attended a senior college or university, one a junior college and one, Joe Gilgier, is a bachelor of science from Springhill. Statistician Ruggles has recorded the age, weight and height of each player, but failed to mention the color of the Redskins' eyes. Fred Stiley, 34, is the oldest Indian and the youngest are Odis Swigert and Howard Parks, 20. Four players have never had previous experience. Kipanovic, who was not on the team in 1935, served with Oklahoma City previously. The Indians' veteran in point of service is J. B. Brillheart, Jr., who became a professional player in

Golf Grandstand For St. Andrews

Erected For British Amateur Play In May LONDON, April 22 (UP)—Golf will have its first grandstand this summer. It is being erected at St. Andrews, that home of hoary tradition and record crowds, for the British amateur championship, May 25-29. Its site is behind the short 11th hole. This is the hole where Sarazen took six shots to get out of a bunker in the 1933 British Open. Controversy raged as to whether he took six or seven, but a hastily summoned committee meeting decided he only took six. The reason for the doubt was that in an effort to control the crowds, the 9th, 10th and 11th holes in what is called the loop, were roped off, and the crowd could only see the top of Sarazen's head emerging from the bunker in the distance. To Overlook Three Holes The stand at the 11th will now give a good view of all these three holes. Golf began to have its crowds, like football and cricket, in 1899 when Harry Vardon and Willie Park, the two dominant personalities in English and Scottish golf, played their famous match. It is recorded that 9,000 persons saw the match at North Berwick, a course totally unsuited to accommodate a crowd half that size. In Scotland long before that period there was a gallery when matches of importance were played, but after the Vardon-Park match a gallery became a crowd. And the crowd in Scotland went on increasing until it became so big that it was out of control. In England, the biggest crowds assembled at Hoylake, but there they were never out of hand, and easily controlled by rope handled by fishermen who were golfers. Rope control had its imitators both in England and Scotland, but with no success. A rope in the hand of an excited landlubber who wants to see the play as much as the crowd he is controlling is dangerous. From time to time, spectators narrowly escaped strangulation. It was not until the championship was played at Carnoustie five years ago that any real organized plans were made to keep spectators away from dangerous playing zones where their presence interfered with general play. Golf has been a free spectacle and often crowds would vary from 10,000 to 20,000. All were intent on watching about half a dozen players, and in the stampede to see shots played the rights of other competitors were ruthlessly trampled under foot, including the ball. Often this was kicked into a bunker and occasionally stolen. There have been indescribable scenes at Prestwick, the nature of whose course makes it one of the worst for crowd control. In 1911 Harry Vardon and John Henry Taylor, his playing partner, were nearly choked by the dust and pressure of the crowd. In 1922 when Sir Ernest Holderness beat John Cavan he collapsed in the clubhouse. There were 20,000 persons on the course, and Cavan's supporters came in thousands with brass bands. Three years later at Prestwick the crowd probably caused Mac Donald Smith to lose the championship. He started the last round four shots in hand. One of the worst crashes was in 1922 and was farmed to Shreveport in the Texas League in 1923 by Washington. Six players who have regular occupations outside of baseball in the steel worker, an oil worker, a farmer, an undertaker, a filling station operator and a sporting goods salesman. Statistician Ruggles notes the fact that the tallest man on the Oklahoma City team is Jack Van Orsdel, who measures six feet three inches, and the shortest is Fred Stiley, who is only five feet eight.

Experiment In Marine Sport

Sail Boats Appear At Massachusetts Institute Of Technology CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 23 (UP)—The first warm winds of spring are waiting a new experiment in college marine sports to a landing upon the River Charles at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology here. In the wake of eight-oared shells, a fleet of 30 little sailboats is spreading canvas to the breeze off Tech's new sailing pavilion on the Cambridge shore. Manned by enthusiastic students and financed by alumni, the white-sailed dinghies mark a new departure in undergraduate athletic activity, not only for Tech but for American colleges generally. Other schools have private sailing clubs, and an intercollegiate sailing championship is contested each June on the Atlantic coast, but nowhere except at Tech does small boat racing rank as an accepted sport. The first boats in the M. I. T. fleet arrived here recently to be followed by others for a two-month racing program before the summer vacation. The craft, designed by the college's department of naval architecture under direction of Prof. George Owen, are a development of the so-called "frost-bite" dinghies which New York and Boston yachtsmen built a few winters ago for off-season racing. They're small enough to be rowed and sailed by a crew of one or two, but big enough for good sport. The "frost-bite" craft were the rage among yachtsmen for several seasons. Tech's boats are a bit sturdier and safer, well fitted for sailing by novices but still fast in a breeze. Each boat is 12-12 feet long and can be rigged either as a catboat with single sail or as a sloop with mainsail and jib. Landlubbers sail the cat-boats; as they gain experience they advance as able seamen ready for sloop-rigged craft. So great was the interest aroused when Prof. Erwin M. Schell first proposed the Tech fleet last fall that 600 students shipped at once and 400 spent spare time in the winter months attending "shore school." With Professor Owen and Robert C. Voe of the Tech faculty at the helm, the young engineers were taught to distinguish starboard from port and forward from aft. They discovered that to steer a boat to port, the tiller must be pushed to starboard; they discovered how to trim sail, found out about tacking and gybing and a score of other nautical technicalities. M. I. T. alumni, when called upon to finance the fleet, responded generously. Pres. Karl T. Compton presented the first boat and Alfred T. Loomis, New York banker and yachtsman, gave the second. Not all the donors were Tech grads, however. The sponsor list reads like a section from Who's Who: Charles Francis Adams, former secretary of the navy; Harold S. Vanderbilt, owner and skipper of two Americas cup winners; Donald W. Douglas, aircraft manufacturer, and others. at Troon, also in 1925, when Miss Joyce Wethered beat Miss Cecil Leitch at the 37th hole. Both girls were more or less in a fainting condition when rescued from the crowd. In the words of the late grand old man of golf, Andre Kirkcaldy, describing a crowd at Musselburgh, "bullocks could no have behaved much worse." The crowd at Prestwick in 1923, when Lawson Little won the British amateur championship from James Wallace, were terrific and very partisan. They cheered every one of Wallace's shots, and crowded in until Little barely had swinging room. It says much for his calmness that he won by the record score of 14 and 13. There have been deplorable crowds out of control at St. Andrews. Town burghesses at last took serious notice of the situation. Representatives of the city sat in council with the Royal and Ancient, and other clubs, and a plan to fence off sections, erect barriers and mark off prohibited zones was worked out. The new grandstand, which is being made by building up to some high ground overlooking the 11th.

Ex-Squirrel Hunter Out For Rivalry

Fired Shot Heard Round The World In Marksmanship Contests DALLAS, April 23 (UP)—The man who took up competitive marksmanship because he "grew tired o' shootin' squirrels" is celebrating the completion of a decade in which he won hundreds of trophies and took part in 15 international matches. He is sharp-shooting Thurman Randle of Dallas. He didn't take up shooting competition until he was 35 years old. His greatest feat, to which he points with pride, was the world record he hung up in a Swiss match on July 2, 1924, at the Eastern championships, Camp Ritchie, Md. In this match, where the contestant fires until he misses, Randle peppered the bull's-eye with 196 consecutive shots from the 200-yard mark. It was something of an endurance feat, too, requiring two hours, 17 minutes. Each year since he began matching shots with other sharpshooters, Randle has been a member of the DeWar team which engages England in international rivalry. Twice he has gone to England as a member of the United States Bisley cup team and now he is preparing for another trip abroad next year when the series is resumed after a 6-year lapse. Three times Randle shot with the F. I. D. A. C. cup team which competes against all nations. Gov. Cullen of Indiana first offered the cup several years ago when he was national commander of the American Legion. In this country, Randle—a gun shop owner—has held the national midwinter small-bore championship, Missouri title twice, Oklahoma twice, California, Kansas, Texas seven times, eastern twice and southwestern the last five years. In 1925 he won the national midwinter, southwestern, Missouri, Oklahoma and Texas titles. Besides being an expert marksman, Randle is a "missionary" devoted to spreading the popularity of his favorite sport—rifle-firing.

Budge's Play Is Davis Cup Hope

Don To Take Lead In Australian Matches "NEW YORK, April 23 (UP)—The excellent showing of Don Budge, the young California red-head, against the Mexican team in the Davis Cup matches raised American hopes of scoring over the Australians. On the strength of his convincing defeat of Daniel Hernandez, Mexico's finest tennis prospect, 6-1, 6-1, 6-3, his teammates are predicting that Budge will score in his singles matches against Jack Crawford and Adrian Panatta, who are likely to represent Australia. Budge flashed such speed and form against the Mexican entry that he caused a bit of concern in the American camp that he might perhaps be a bit too far advanced in condition for his own good. Some experts doubt the wisdom of being so fine at this early stage. Budge, hardly shares their point of view. He feels certain that he will be able to carry his speed and strength through the long and hard campaign. The youngster on whom our tennis fathers are counting heavily to help regain the Davis Cup will the game several times as a boy. Even as late as two years ago he was almost ready to hang up his racket for keeps. Preferred Basketball His mother, Mrs. John Budge, recalls that even after he first won the California state singles championship in 1933 he called tennis a "sissy" game and preferred to play basketball instead. It was his older brother, Lloyd, who first taught him the game when he was nine, who insisted that Don keep right on playing. Don was ready to quit the game, too, just before his first state tournament several years ago when he was the boys-under-15 division. Lloyd, then a University of California tennis player, had entered him, but the youngster calmly announced he didn't intend to play. But Lloyd insisted, and his father added the plea it would not be sportsmanlike to withdraw, so Don played—and went on to win the title. Mrs. Budge credits that indifference and his lack of worry with being strong factors in his play. "Tennis is just a game," she says. "Don tells her, 'so why worry about it? It isn't worth it.'" "Four Musketeers" Gone The French tennis rankings, recently released, show the passing of the gallant "Four Musketeers" who made tennis history in France. Only one is included in the first 10 players again. Jacques Brugnon is ranked seventh. Jean Borotra, the Bounding Basque of other days, has abandoned international singles play and figured only in the doubles ranking. Rene Lacoste has definitely retired and Henry Cochet has turned professional. Christian Bousseau, frail mainstay of the French Davis Cup team last year, is France's top-ranking tennis player for the second successive year. French court experts rate the spindly-legged champion of France "the smartest tennis player living." Cocky Andre Merlin slipped from second place, which he held last year, to sixth—and virtual oblivion since Davis Cup selections are usually made from the first five players. Marcel Brenard moved up into second and Bernard Destremau, 19-year-old sensation last year, counted on many to bring tennis glory back to France, jumped to fifth from 20th position.

NO SOFTBALL GAMES TONIGHT

REFINERS SHUT OUT 15 TO 0

By HANK HART Jumping away with a four run rally in the opening inning last night, the Cosden Chemists went out in front in the National Munny softball loop by defeating the Cosden Oilers, 8-4, in the first game on the Munny diamond, while the Lee's store Pirates got in to the win column of the American league for the first time by swamping the Howard County Refiners, 15-0. Horace Wallis set the Oilers down with seven hits, allowing no man to record more than one blow, to outpitch Chub Reed who gave up four runs in the opening stanza. Reed twirled six-hit ball in his stay on the mound, but the Richardson forces made every bread count in the scoring and took advantage of Reed's willingness to aid in the victory. Two walks, a miscue, and a pair of hits resulted in the four runs in the first inning. The Labmen returned in the third to push three more tallies across and marked up their eighth run in the fourth when Harold Harvey went over on Frank McCleskey's single. Townsend and Morgan recorded runs for the Hemmingermen in the first inning when Miller Harris bled, Jack Smith gave them their third run in the second on Spikes' hit, and West went across in the fourth on Reed's base blow. The Lee's aggregation had no trouble at all in downing the Refiners in the second battle, going out in front in the first stanza. Burrus throttled whatever opposition the Mooremen offered with a "well educated" fast ball, while the heavy hitters behind him, who lost out in a slugging line to the Settles team, 17-4, on the opening night, had a field day against the Refinery flingers.

Polo Setback Faces British

Choice Of Team For Play At Hurlingham Stirs Wide Criticism By H. L. FERBY United Press Staff Correspondent LONDON, April 23 (UP)—Critics have some strong things to say about the British polo team which will meet the United States for the Westchester cup at Hurlingham this June. The team, which has started practice, is as follows: No. 1, Capt. M. P. Ansell, 5th Royal Inniskilling Dragoon Guards, No. 2, H. H. Hughes, No. 3, E. H. Tyrell-Martin, No. 4, Capt. H. P. Guinness, Royal Scots Greys. And the critics agree that it does not stand a chance. They think there are at least four teams in the United States capable of beating this combination. The first Westchester Cup match to be played in Britain since 1921 is likely to be another of the one-sided affairs it has proved since then, they say. Basking Lives in U. S. Chief critic of the scribes is the omission of Gerald Baiding. Baiding lives in the United States, has an American handicap of nine goals, and is regarded here as the best British player in the world. He played for Britain in the 1933 series, and has improved since then. The critics cannot understand why he was not invited, believing that he undoubtedly would have accepted. They point out that it is still not too late to include him. Tyrell-Martin, who will captain the British team, meets with approval here, but once again the critics ask why his opinion about Baiding was not sought. Tyrell-Martin has been playing with and against Baiding in California this winter, and should therefore be the best judge of his form. Hughes is Hard Rider Hughes, who has also been playing with Tyrell-Martin in California since last Autumn, is a fine horseman, and just the aggressive, hard-hitting type of player likely to do well in an international match. The improvement in his play during the last two years has been extraordinary, and as he only took up polo six or seven years ago, the improvement is likely to continue. Guinness played back for Britain in 1930, but was out of the game for more than a year prior to the last British season. His form last summer was not particularly impressive, but he is a long hitter, but needs to be really well mounted to be seen at his best. Ansell, so the critics say, never has shown form to justify his position as No. 1, while neither Capt. E. J. Fowler or Capt. G. E. Prior-Palmer, the two reserves, are considered to be of real international class. Assuming that Capt. C. T. E. Roark, who has an appointment with the Maharajah of Kashmir, is not available, it is thought here that the strongest combination Britain could put into the field would be Hughes, Baiding, Tyrell-Martin and Guinness, in that order.

INDIANS, TULSA TAKE OPENERS

DALLAS, April 23—Half of Wednesday's Texas league schedule was rained out, but the Oklahoma City Indians extended their winning streak to four straight games by shutting out the Dallas Steers, 10-0, in their series opener at Oklahoma City, and the Tulsa Oilers knocked Hal Wilite out of the box with a six-run rally in the fourth inning and went on to beat the Fort Worth Cats, 8 to 4 in the opening game of the series at Tulsa. Floyd (Three Fingers) Newkirk went the route for the Oilers and finished strong after an unsteady start.

MAJOR BOWES AMATEURS TO BE AT RITZ THEATRE FRIDAY

On a swing through West Texas for the first time, a group of amateur entertainers who won honor on the famous radio amateur hour directed by Major Edward Bowes will appear on the stage at the Ritz theatre in Big Spring four times Friday afternoon and night. The stage presentation is in addition to the regular film program. The amateurs will be seen and heard at 2:30, 4:45, 7:30 and 9:45. The amateur unit, No. 14 put on the road by Major Bowes, was organized especially for the Texas Centennial, and will appear in this state for 15 weeks. The troupe appeared in Lubbock Wednesday night and was billed in Abilene Friday night. Among the entertainers are the Van Zandt Sisters, accordionists; Bill Broadway, boy soprano; James Ingles, guitarist and yodeler; Art Waldman, player of novel musical instruments; Norman and Marilyn, singers and dancers; Joseph Garguilo, baritone, and Marion Thomas, blues singer. ### Garden Club Tells Where to Buy Purple Petunias, Lantanas

The members of the Garden club met at the city courtroom Tuesday and exchanged plant lists. Mrs. J. A. Boykin said she had yellow canna to divide. Mrs. O. P. Griffin, Michaelmas daisies, and Mrs. L. E. Eddy, chrysanthemums. After the meeting the groups called on the nurserymen to see about orders of purple petunias and lantanas—the plants that Big Spring has voted its favorites. Ross Nursery and Philpotts promised to supply the public with both in any number; they asked that those who want large orders give them a few days to fill the orders. Prices of petunias range from six to ten cents each; prices of lantanas are 15 cents. Large lantanas are higher-priced. The committee that called on the tourist camps and filling stations and asked them to plant these flowers received a great deal of encouragement and reported that every one they saw was eager to cooperate in this form of beautification.

Florence Read Banquet Held At Settles Hotel Ballroom; World Cruise Main Feature Of Program

State Head Comes To Big Spring For Banquet; Mrs. R. H. Jones General Chairman Of Evening's Entertainment

A "Round the World Cruise" was tendered members and friends of the Order of Eastern Star that attended the section seven banquet given Wednesday evening in honor of Mrs. Norman Read of Coahoma, associate matron of the order.

The worthy grand matron of the state of Texas, Mrs. Rebecca Miles, of Athens, was present for the occasion.

When the guests arrived at the Settles hotel where the banquet was held they registered in a booklet containing maps of the two hemispheres. Globes and miniature ships were used for table decorations with bouquets of callulias. Favors were globe pencil sharpeners, mint life-savers inscribed with the words, Eastern Star line, and small U. S. flags.

When the dinner entered the ballroom they saw the deck of a ship improvised at the end of the room. On its deck stood Miss Ala B. Collins dressed as a Texas cowgirl and lined up along the gang-plank were the members of the committee.

Miss Collins announced the sailing of the ship, S. S. Harmony. Mrs. Wright of Coahoma then presented the honoree with a lovely bouquet of carnations and white snapdragons.

Mrs. Eva Parker of Garden City, deputy grand matron, gave the invocation and Mrs. J. B. Young, past general chairman of committees, Mrs. Jones, was the captain. The four sailors were: R. E. Blount, R. H. Jones, H. F. Williamson and Jess Hall. The performers were Misses Willard Read, R. E. Blount and Miss Ruby Bell. They started the ship off with songs. Mrs. Anne Gibson Houser accompanied them.

Norman Read and J. T. Brooks were casted on deck to blow the whistle and ring the ship's bell.

Those on the program represented stops at various countries. Little Miss Charice Petty gave a hula-hula dance for Hawaii. Peppy Blount, in blackface, gave a double shuffle tap for Africa. Bill Lewis, representing Italy, sang in costume "Rose In Your Hair." Mrs. Wade of Odessa, in the garb of a Hollander, gave a reading. Little Miss Mary Ann Dudley did a Russian toe dance. Miss Eloise Haley told the story of Red Riding Hood as a modern Swedish maid would tell it. Jess Hall, in a white suit decorated with green shamrock, sang "Where the River Shannon Flows." Jane Tingle ended the program, representing England in a song and tap dance, "I Love To Ride the Ores."

Carlson Hamilton in an Uncle Sam Costume, escorted the evening's honor guest to the ship while the trio sang a parody on "Isle of Crete," paying tributes of affection. Mrs. Jess Hall, worthy matron of the Big Spring chapter, and Mrs. Wright of Coahoma brought in a treasure chest that held a coffee table, the gift of the section to Mrs. Read.

Talks were also made by the grand officers present. Mrs. Bernard Fisher presented Mrs. Miles with a gift from the West Texas Eastern Star members.

The register showed 183 present for the banquet. Among the guests were many state officers. In addition to Mrs. Read and Mrs. Miles, present were: Misses Young, past worthy grand matron; Norma Allen, Edna, grand conductress; Robbie Dyer, Amarillo, grand examiner; Eva Parker, Garden City, deputy grand matron; Messrs. Norman Read and J. T. Brooks, both members of state committees; and the worthy matrons of chapters in Colorado, Barstow, Monohans, Pecos, Midland, Coahoma and Big Spring. Mrs. J. F. Hall, worthy matron of the Big Spring chapter was official hostess of the hostess chapter.

Mrs. Henry Holinger has as a guest Mrs. A. T. Hearne of Fort Worth.

Free Address At City Auditorium To Tell What To See At Dallas Centennial Exposition Display

One of the most interesting Centennial features promised for the whole year will be the address to be given at the city auditorium Friday evening on "Things of Interest to See at Centennial Headquarters in Dallas." No charge will be made for the address. The Centennial central exposition has sent out Fred Heitfeld to address Texas citizens and tell them the variety of features they may expect. Heitfeld had two years with the Chicago fair in the special events division and was head of that division for the San Diego Exposition. He introduced such famous men at San Diego as President Roosevelt, Ex-President Hoover, General Hugh Johnson.

Tomorrow evening at the auditorium Heitfeld will spend 45 minutes giving a summary of the various types of exhibits planned for the Dallas exposition. This show will far surpass Chicago's he said. He stated that it would be the biggest ever staged in the United States. It would be so large that visitors would save themselves many unnecessary steps if they would learn beforehand what they most wanted to see.

Visitors to Chicago who had to cover ground in a short time learned afterward they missed some of the sights they might have most enjoyed. To prevent this happening in Texas, Heitfeld is traveling all over the state telling what is of most interest in Dallas. He addressed high school students Thursday morning at the assembly on the subject.

The hour is eight o'clock. The lecture is free.

THE COST OF AGE PENSIONS

About 160,000 applications for old age pensions have been filed in Texas, according to the state director. If all these were to receive the maximum state pension authorized, it would take $28,800,000 annually to pay the bill.

Some of those who are trying to make political capital out of the pension situation are saying that everyone 65 years of age or older who applies for a pension must be allowed the full amount. They even say that any other procedure would be unconstitutional, a statement that runs counter to the plain letter of the amendment adopted last year, but which of course has a certain value for political purposes. The fact there are 160,000 applicants and that it would cost Texas $28,800,000 annually to pay all of them the maximum, presents a nice problem in arithmetic to those who profess to believe that there should be no discrimination of any kind. It is obviously in order for them to say how the money should be raised.

It is out of the question, of course, for Texas to finance any such pension system. There are many of the 160,000 who are not in need and who have no real claim on the state's bounty. There are others who are due a measure of assistance, but not necessarily the maximum of $15 a month. A sensible application of the law will reduce the pension bill to a figure far below the potential maximum. As a matter of fact, state officials have estimated that some 60,000 needy aged persons—less than one-third the total number of applicants—will be eligible for assistance, and that the annual cost will be about $14,400,000, which is just exactly one-half the maximum on estimates.

Those who allow themselves to be misled by candidates or others who are trying to use the pension question for selfish ends are helping to make solution of the problem much more difficult than it already is.

The fact the state administration has headed in the right direction is shown in the approval of the Texas system given by the federal social security board. This means federal participation in the old age assistance program, and it means that the state program as it is now designed certainly is worthwhile to a great degree.

* Man About Manhattan *

By George Tucker

NEW YORK—Personal notes off a New Yorker's cuff. It has always interested me to know that the New York, Omaha and Washington airports aren't in those cities at all.

The New York airport is really outside of Newark in New Jersey. . . . And the Omaha airport is across the state line in Iowa, near Council Bluffs. . . . Finally, when you fly from New York to Washington you get to Washington all right, but you keep on going. . . . The plane glides over the Capitol, on past the Lincoln Memorial, crosses the Potomac river, and sets you down in Virginia. . . . You're just two hops and a skip from Alexandria.

The upper Hudson piers along the rim of Manhattan are favorite spots for fishing. . . . The summer run is underway and the eel fishing, they say, is excellent. . . . Carp is another specialty and occasionally a striped sea bass loses his head and noses up from the harbor. . . . But these are so rare that it is no longer "fish" when one is caught. It is news.

Margaret Sullivan, the actress, who came up from Norfolk, Virginia, to try her luck on the stage before she became a sensation in Hollywood, thinks all girls should buy clothes that are cool whether they look cool or not. . . . "It's hard to look your best when you are too warm," she explains.

There is a real story behind that fight between Phil Regan and Joey Glick in one of the current motion pictures. . . . Years ago Phil had fought ambitions and wanted to make his mark in the ring. . . . One of his idols in those days was this same Glick, but Phil never was good enough to climb into the same ring with Joey. . . . But Hollywood, it seems, can arrange anything.

Broadway's wise-cracking lingo is even breaking into the newspaper ads. . . . "For a camel to pass through a needle's eye," boasts one New York tailor in print, "once was considered a supernatural stunt. Now, if you'll come up to my loft, you'll see my 73 tailors make the camel lie on its back, roll over, jump through and say 'uncle'."

Too, there is this disturbing note from a famous scientist: "The Irish potato is not Irish nor, for that matter, is a potato—it is really a tomato and a product of the Western Hemisphere!" . . . I think somebody must have played some nasty tricks on me when I was a kid and the chiefs around town are following up.

Phil Duey, the baritone, likes nothing so well as spading a garden or pruning apple trees. . . . He was born on a farm. . . . A fine study in sartorial elegance is the orchestra leader in the Waldorf's Empire Room. . . . Graduating from soft checked trousers, his costume continues through a blue double-breasted coat, tan shirt with white starched collar and flowered tie. . . . Broadway's most famous physician is Dr. Harry A. Coveler, whose offices are in the Shubert building. . . . He knows more actors and actresses than most casting directors, and his patients include such stars as Ethel Barrymore, Mary Boland, and Bert Lahr.

The Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Confidential reports from field agents of the new farm program have been far from encouraging.

From California, for instance, came an account of a meeting of the state AAA director with county agents, to obtain first-hand information regarding the number of farmers expected to join in the soil conservation plan. "Now men," said the director, "you know what this program is; also you have talked to the farmers. I want you each to jot down, for me the number of farmers in your area that you are sure will comply."

The answers revealed that out of 170,000 California farmers eligible to participate, only 13,000 were definitely known to plan to take part in the new acreage reduction program.

The Court Laughed
The black-gowned justices of the U. S. supreme court, so solemn and forbidding on the bench, enjoy a good joke—even at the expense of one of their number.

Arguing a recent tax case before the court, Robert Jackson, able young assistant attorney general, claimed that the defendant had sought to evade the estate tax by transferring his property to relatives prior to his death. Jackson held that the defendant's advanced years justified such a contention; that he obviously had his demise in mind when he gave away his wealth.

"But," snapped Justice McReynolds, a dear Scotsman, "didn't you read the opinion of the lower court? It is shown there that this man was a hale and hearty Scotsman in his seventies."

"Yes, your honor," shot back Jackson, "that is exactly my point. He was a Scotsman. That is why I say he must have desired to transfer his fortune by making these gifts."

The entire court, including McReynolds, broke into laughter. Jackson won the case; the court agreed with his reasoning.

Wily Prosecutor
In the senate, chief credit for the conviction of Judge Halsted Ritter is given to Sam Hobbs, a rookier congressman, and former circuit judge from Alabama.

The impeachment charges against the Florida jurist were prosecuted by four members of the house judiciary committee, headed by Chairman Hatton W. Sumners. Hobbs, the junior member of the "managers," as they are known officially, was the "trial lawyer."

Illustrative of the fast-thinking Alabama's methods was the dramatic manner in which he managed to introduce as evidence certain private letters written by the impeached judge. Ritter's lawyers objected strenuously to reading the letters, but were overruled.

Hobbs then began to read one letter. The first several paragraphs were unimportant. Senators sat back in their seats. Suddenly he stopped, stammered, finally said: "I would rather not read the next paragraph."

Ritter's lawyers leaped to their feet. The entire chamber became tense. "We demand the paragraphs be read," the attorneys shouted. "We insist that if part of the letter is read, all of it should be read."

"Very well," said Hobbs, "if you insist." And then, while the entire senate listened intently, he read as follows: "I can recommend him (Ritter's former law partner) very strongly for appointment to the vacancy (a federal judgeship), for as you know he is a Hoover-democrat."

Snorts from the democratic side were so loud they could be heard in the galleries. Among old-line democrats, traffic with a Hoover-democrat still is an unforgivable sin.

By his wily maneuver Hobbs had "hung" this damaging bit of evidence on Ritter while appearing to be forced to do so by Ritter's own attorneys.

Governor Gene Talmadge may yet be a delegate to the democratic national convention, even though the buzz-saw-voiced Georgian does not have the courage to enter the presidential preference primary he was recently forced to call. This is so because of an adroit political trick.

The red gaiter-wearing governor controls the Georgia state central democratic committee, through it rules the state's election machinery.

So in drafting the rules for the Georgia presidential primary, he slipped in a provision that any vacancies in the slate of delegates chosen to go to Philadelphia should be filled by the chairman of the central committee. Even though a complete Roosevelt ticket was elected, it would thus be possible for the chairman to name an anti-new deal substitute.

Almost invariably, last-minute vacancies do occur in delegate slates. When one does, Talmadge could have himself named to the delegation by Hugh Howell, his hand-picked and subservient state chairman, and thus could go to Philadelphia even though he would almost certainly defeat if he entered the primary.

Talmadge's requirement that candidates entering the primary must post a $10,000 fee is something new in American election history. If every state set up such a charge, it would cost a presidential aspirant $480,000 to enter all the primaries.

BROTHERHOODS
SESSION AT WACO
WACO, April 23. (UP)—The "Big Four" railroad labor brotherhoods were holding their 18th biennial convention today with 180 delegates registered. The meeting opened yesterday.

Separate committee sessions were held during the day, to be followed by a general assembly in the afternoon. Candidates for state and national offices were invited to address the assembly.

Concurrent with the convention, the legislative board opened a three-day meeting. L. J. Smith, federal conciliation commissioner, was present, as was Joseph W. Myers, representing Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins.

Albert Thomas, assistant federal district attorney at Houston, was on the program to discuss court decisions involving federal labor laws.

Senate Backs Govt. Agents

Proposal to Reduce Funds For Hoover's Bureau Is Defeated

WASHINGTON, April 23 (UP)—The senate quickly came to the defense of J. Edgar Hoover and the nation's G-Men yesterday and defeated a proposal to cut $225,000 from the appropriation for the bureau of federal investigation.

The proposal was sponsored by Sen. Kenneth McKellar, D. Tenn., who was revealed in recent subcommittee testimony to have criticized the activities of Hoover severely.

The senate, however, on a voice vote refused to reduce a $4,025,000 appropriation for Hoover's department.

Sen. Arthur Vandenberg, R. Mich., withdrew his request for record vote when it became apparent the proposed reduction would be overwhelmingly rejected.

Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson clinched restoration of the higher appropriation with a vigorous tribute to the G-Men.

"This department," he said, "struck terror into the hearts of the gangsters after they had threatened to overrun the country."

Chapter 19
SPEEDY LIFE

"Having a crowd in tomorrow p. m." said the girl. "Cocktails, Georgia Blair, in the book. You've got to come. Promise? Goodby."

Iris supposed she had asked only Owen, but Dicky said swiftly: "Leave it to me, lady, I'll pick 'em up and bring 'em in. Gimme the house address, Sigrid."

Sigrid wrote swiftly on a card she gave him. Not used to crowds as the others, Iris found herself caught far behind the other two in the hurry back to the seats. As before, it was Allan who saw, who left his group, caught her arm, said pleasantly, "I see your seat; I'll get you there."

She would not have known Uncle Will's Iris.

"You always help me out of trouble!" she said gratefully. "I suppose you could see—I wasn't a New Yorker."

He smiled down at her. "I could see that you had something most girls haven't; the delightful gift of making a man feel you need taking care of. I'll see you at Georgia's tomorrow, then. Here's your seat."

She did not know whether he had heard her hurried, "Oh, I don't know. I don't think so," before he turned back to the others.

She nearly forgot the whole episode as, eyes wide, hands tightly clasped, she saw the second half of the revue. But when they came out Allan and Dicky were waiting in the lobby; and it was to Phina that Allan spoke easily and graciously, not to Iris.

"My name's Allan Beckley. I think you know my mother, Mrs. Willson Beckley. This is Madame Phina Weatherley, I know."

Aunt Phina's even teeth glistened. "Otherwise Phina. Yes, indeed, your mother's figure is my pride! And thank you for protecting my little girl here. It's actually her first revue."

Iris wished that hadn't had to come out—he would think she was unenthusiastic! But he said with no lessening of interest: "Dick Hamilton here wants to pick up your young people for Georgia Blair's cocktail party tomorrow. I wanted to make sure they were coming."

"Better come," said Dicky cheerily. "When Allan gets his eye on you you're Davy Crockett's coon. He may even keep Georgia from eating you. I don't know how he handles you girls."

Phina more or less ignored Dicky. "My girls say they're coming," she said sweetly to Allan. "Thanks a lot," he said, also ignoring Dicky.

As softly and easily as he had come, he was gone. Dicky remained a moment.

"Don't fall for him. Not safe! Fall for me!" he stammered, and shouldered his way after Allan.

"But, Phina, honestly, she didn't ask Sigrid and me!" Iris gasped as they settled themselves in the taxi.

Even Owen laughed. "Goose, this isn't the Assembly Set in the seventies," he said.

Allan Beckley took pains to make it all right. Phina explained, "Anybody can drift in on a party like that. They're charming young people, as I thought on the train."

Iris supposed they knew best. She sat still and stared at the colored advertisements that flapped over and over in a holder. There were nine before you got back to the first one, two kissing people who advertised chewing-gum. They looked very magnificent to be addicted to gum. It was all very different, but Phina must know.

She saw herself as she passed the long frameless mirror in the downstairs foyer. She would not have known Uncle Will's Iris in all this black velvet, with rose chiffon flowing around her satin slippered feet, except for the live excited gray eyes shining below the polished waves of dusky hair.

As she stared Owen's kind gray eyes, black-lashed like her own, met hers a little wistfully in the glass. She nestled closer to him on the other side, with a thrill of kinship and comfort. Her very own brother! She knew, at that moment, that she was on his side in the warfare over Sigrid. She'd help him as much as she possibly could.

When she woke next morning she was lost at first. Where was the big engraving of Delaroches "Christian Martyr" which had always faced her big brass bed against its background of stained faded blue-and-brown wallpaper?

Instead she was staring at a group of gay rat-faced French gentlemen in woolly colors having an eighteenth century fete galante inside a gilt frame. Her arms lay on a deep fold of non-grammed linen, over a soft rose blanket.

She had scarcely oriented herself when Honora came in carrying a gay painted tray with legs, which she set above her, saying: "Good morning, Miss Iris. I hope you slept well. Miss Ross is coming in to chat while you breakfast—it's the early bird she is. Will you have sugar on your grapefruit?"

"Heaps, please," said Phina, taut and erect in tailored black, from the ivory doorway, "do you mean that you have never had to diet?"

"Oh, good morning, Aunt Phina!" Life tightened and speeded itself when Miss Ross appeared. Iris who had been lazily comfortable, sat higher on her pillows, and Honora put a rose silk jacket about her. "No never. I suppose running up and down stairs kept me thin."

"I've come in to discuss plans with you before I go over to the salon."

Phina sat down in the rose and ivory chair, unsoftened by its easiness, but she spoke easily: "I want my little girl to have the happiest possible time. So I want you to tell me frankly what lessons you need what accomplishments you have. Sometimes a

Youth Night At Revival

Rev. R. L. Flowers, evangelist conducting the revival at the First Methodist church, brought a special message to youth Wednesday night. He asserted in part: "Youth is not only a time for fun and frivolity but is certainly a time for serious thinking and acting as well. The greatest choices in life must be made during the days of youth. Your life's work, your education, your life's companion are chosen when you are young. The silly notion that young folk are only young ones and later is the time to do serious thinking is wrecking millions of young people today. We must teach youth that life is a serious task. Character building is not simply a task for a few days but it is a life-time job. The greatest gift that youth will ever have to give to any cause, be it nation, home or church, is the gift of an absolutely clean life."

BROWNS DEFEAT TIGERS AGAIN

NEW YORK, April 23.—Cold weather played havoc with several of the major league games scheduled for Wednesday but the St. Louis Browns got in enough time to defeat the Detroit Tigers, 12-4, behind the steady pitching of Merritt "Sugar" Cain. Every man in the St. Louis lineup managed to garner at least one lick and four men batting in succession, Solters, Bottomley, Bell, and Cliff, recorded a trio of licks each.

The Red Sox won their seventh game in nine starts by defeating the Washington Senators, 4-3. In the National game, Cincinnati continued their sensational pace by downing the St. Louis Cardinals, 7-6, with Calvin Chapman's home run as the feature.

Hank Leiber and Bill Terry teamed up to give the New York Giants their seventh victory of the season at the expense of the Philadelphia Phillies, 7-2. Carl Hubbell was the winning pitcher. Brooklyn beat Boston in the other game, 5-0.

NEW AIR MARK SET BY HOWARD HUGHES

NEW YORK, April 23 (UP)—Howard Hughes, motion picture director and speed-flier, raced his plane over the 1,196-mile course from Miami yesterday in four hours, 21 minutes, and 32 seconds, for a new record. The previous record was five hours, one minute, 39 seconds. He used his Northrop racer, powered by a Cyclone motor, in which he established a record of a little more than nine hours

BRISK DEMAND FOR CENTENNIAL COINS

AUSTIN, April 23.—Increased demand for the Texas Centennial half-dollars which are being sold by the University of Texas to augment state and federal funds of $225,000 with which the first unit of the Texas Memorial museum will be erected, is reflected in the increase in price of the coins as asked throughout the nation. It has been announced here by Beauford H. Jester, general chairman of the coin campaign.

Railway Bills Are Assailed

Santa Fe Chief Asserts Measures Would Cripple Roads

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 23 (UP)—Samuel T. Bledsoe, president of the Santa Fe railway, today attacked regulatory railroad bills pending in congress as "assaults on employee ownership."

The measures, including the already enacted retirement act, the full crew bill and the train limit bill, would "make it impossible for railroads to earn enough money to pay operating expenses and taxes," Bledsoe told members of the Kansas City chamber of commerce at a luncheon meeting.

"They are nothing less than assaults on employee ownership," he said. "They are assaults of rights superior to the rights of real owners and the public."

In the railroad situation there lurks a factor which is of tremendous political appeal. It involves selection of a single class for relief. I refer to railroad labor."

Bledsoe asserted pending legislation would prevent "orderly correction of the general situation," but he added, "It can be corrected if political interference can be escaped."

Sparger's wife, Mrs. Juanita Sparger, and Mrs. Faye Fullbright, operator of the tourist camp, were charged with harboring the two. Preliminary hearing was set for May 14.

Officers reported Bert E. Peterson, Independence, Mo., merchant, tentatively identified the Spargers as the two who robbed him of $400 in cash, and a pistol recently.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Caused by Tired Kidneys
Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are one of Nature's chief ways of taking acids and wastes out of the blood. A healthy person should pass about 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste matter.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, wastes stay in the body and may become poisonous. It may start nagging backaches, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Don't let it lay you up.

Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills—used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help to flush out the 15 miles kidney tubes. Get Doan's Pills.

WPA District To Be Under Quota By End Of Month

District WPA Director R. H. McNew, back from a tour of the district, said Thursday that the natural turn-over would bring the district under its quota figure of 958 for April 30.

He further predicted that it would not be necessary for the district to turn off any men in order to reach the final quota of 902 on May 15.

When several contract road jobs in the district end almost simultaneously with the termination of the first period of the works program, the unemployment question may become very grave, he thought.

All projects underway are progressing rapidly in every section of the district, said McNew. Five tax projects were resumed in as many counties this week and the Howard county project will be started again as soon as a supervisor is secured.

They had employed Scadding, also of Toronto, as timekeeper and had assembled a small crew to begin reconditioning the mine.

From the main shaft, four horizontal tunnels branched off at levels from 80 to 250 feet. The three were in 141-foot level, about 70 feet up to the surface after making an inspection trip, when much of the main shaft gave way and was filled with rock and other debris.

At the outset, there was little hope for the lives of the three. It was thought likely that they had been killed outright by the falling rock.

Then on Monday, April 13, smoke curled up through the debris to the surface. That spurred the rescue workers.

Steamshovels and other equipment was rushed by special train from Halifax and then were brought over muddy backwoods roads to the tiny settlement at the mine head. Crews of miners from miles around and other workmen volunteered for the rescue work.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred McGowan have been visiting in Dallas. While there Mrs. McGowan attended the National Beauty convention.
