

Winter Renews Attack On All Nation

Midland County Dry By Majority Of 101 Votes

Reviewing The BIG SPRING WEEK
by Joe Pickle

"A monopoly," wrote O. Henry in one of his stories, "is its greatest enemy." He hardly could have described the martingale situation here better had he had it in mind when he penned the lines. One week ago the machines were receiving nickels regularly and paying seldom. Today they are gone. And vendors have themselves to thank for the banishment.

There are few who question that the contraptions were out and out gambling devices, but that is not the fundamental reason behind the passing of the gaming tables. Why, then, did "grand jurors" start with the machine machines? The answer is given in the grand jury report which said in part "that there appears to be a well-organized financially and politically entrenched group of law violators operating within Howard county." In other words, it may be assumed that the grand jury found reason to believe that operation of the machines was not merely a business, but was fast growing into a potent racket.

One development which supported this belief was the appearance of "the 700 boys." They were the group which boarded grand jurors individually, attempting to put on pressure by openly declaring that they controlled 700 votes which might be used to swing an election. One grand juror, indignant over the veiled threat, retorted that he "was not running when I got this grand jury job and I don't think I have you to thank for it. The same group made indirect gestures to the candidate, calling attention to the 700 vote block. Again it was repulsed. Whether the group really controlled the votes is immaterial. The effect was the same.

Another thing which strengthened the belief that the machine machines were giving rise to a "financially and politically entrenched group" is the admission by some operators that each machine had a weekly "legal charge" of $1.50, and none could tell exactly where the "legal charge" was going. It is also safe to assume that the grand jury took cognizance of this.

Had the vendors and operators needed the grand jury's recommendation to officers Monday to cease operation by Tuesday noon, they might have resumed activity later on. But they chose a bold step, one unprecedented in recent Howard county court annals. They literally made "midnight riders" to grant jurors to change their minds to take action while not in session. They worked on the premise that the district attorney had said the matter might be altered if nine jurors changed their minds. What he really said was nine jurors constituted a working majority, that they had to act in session. Sum and substance of the whole matter was that it boomeranged on the vendors. They proved to be their own worst enemies. Consequently, they have put other questionable devices "on the spot."

Big Spring and Howard county are taking advantage of WPA allotments to the district. Holding 23 per cent of the total allotments for the district, the county has come in for 25 per cent of the disbursements thus far. In round figures Howard

Ex-Vice President Charles Curtis Is Claimed By Death

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8. (UP)—Former Vice President Charles Curtis, in whose veins ran a mixture of white and Indian blood, died at his home today at the age of 76 years. He was the first of his blood to attain so high an office in the officialdom of the civilization which imposed itself upon the original Americans.

The former vice-president died of a heart attack in the modest home he shared here with his half-sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Gann.

Curtis had been suffering from a cold but had not been seriously ill. "Brother had not been ill," Mrs. Gann told the United Press. "The doctor saw him last night and him to remain at home because of the cause of the illness. He was perfectly cheerful when he got up this morning. He read the papers and told what he wanted for breakfast."

"Mr. Gann went to his office and

Pension Blanks To Be On Hand Friday

AUSTIN, Feb. 8. (UP)—Application blanks for old age assistance will be available in every court house, city hall and chamber of commerce office in Texas next Friday, State Administrator Orville S. Carpenter said today. Two hundred thousand blanks will be distributed then, indicating the total expected to ask state pensions of $15 per month.

Federal approval of the Texas pension set-up was expected to be only a formality. "Our law will not be accepted by the social security board until Feb. 14," Carpenter said. The state old age assistance commission has been assured federal approval will be given then.

Procedure explained Carpenter said the application blanks, carrying space for information required by the pension act, will be available to all who desire them. He explained in detail the process through which the applicant must go.

Blanks may be taken home and filled out in duplicate. "Anyone who can read and write can fill out the applications. No expert assistance is necessary," Carpenter said. Twenty sets of blanks, for the 20 administration districts, will be

Garlington Back From Judges Meet

County Judge J. S. Garlington returned Saturday morning from Dallas where he had attended a meeting of the county judges' association called by Clyde Garrett, Eastland, head of the organization. The judges went on record as favoring continuation of federal road grants to Texas to relieve unemployment. They also adopted resolutions urging modification of WPA rules to permit needy men to go to work.

"We felt," said Garlington, "that a man who had tried all along to stay off relief and who lately was driven to seek aid should not be penalized. He ought to be patting on the back."

Big Spring Scouts Gather To Hear Radio Talk By President Roosevelt

Big Spring scouts Saturday heard President Franklin D. Roosevelt describe plans for the national jamboree in 1937 on a more lavish basis than contemplated from the celebration which had to be abandoned at the last moment last summer due to an epidemic of infantile paralysis.

They listened attentively while the president complimented them on scoutly manner in which they accepted the disappointment and urged them to continue their good work in the movement.

Legalizing Of Liquor Sales Loses 653-552

Midland City Precinct Reverses Stand Of November Election

(Special to The Herald)

MIDLAND, Feb. 8.—The Midland county electorate decreed at the polls Saturday against legalization of liquor sales, drys winning an election on the question by a majority of 101 votes.

The count was 653 against liquor to 552 for.

All Precincts Dry

Every precinct in the county voted dry. No. 4 voting against liquor for the first time.

With the county-wide vote, precinct No. 1, which includes the city of Midland, held a precinct election, and drys were victorious on that count also by a total of 599 to 515. This precinct, in an election last November, had voted wet by approximately 75 votes, but the poll later was thrown out in a ruling that subdivision of a dry county could not be wet.

Precinct No. 1 in the county balloting was dry by 593 to 519. Precinct No. 2 voted 38 against liquor to 13 for; precinct 3 voted 11 against to 10 for, and precinct 4 also was dry by a 11-0 count.

Midland ministers who had waged an active campaign against legalization, hailed the dry victory as a "good sign" and said that the "fight has only begun."

Only 89 Texas Counties Permit Sale Of Liquor

AUSTIN, Feb. 8. (UP)—Liquor sales are permitted in 89 of Texas' 254 counties. State Administrator Charles R. Miller said today. Midland county went dry in an election today, while a vote was being held in precinct 7 of Jefferson county.

Only 33 counties are known to be totally wet. Others are partly wet or their status has not been reported. Wholly wet counties include El Paso, Fort Bend, Gregg, Orange, Potter, Terrell, and Wharton. Counties that have one or more dry precincts, although the county is mostly wet, include Dallas, Galveston, Gonzales, Harris, Jefferson, McLennan, Nueces, Tom Green, Travis, and Williamson.

Wet counties whose exact status was not reported this week include Tarrant and Trinity.

Wichita county, which went dry by a narrow margin in an earlier election, will vote again Feb. 18, Miller said.

Structure Completed, Other Work At Park Is Moving Ahead

Open house will be held at the completed caretaker's cottage in the Seenic Mountain state park today.

The four room and bath structure had finishing touches Saturday and made ready for the public inspection. It contains a front room, a kitchen, dining, and bedroom and bath.

All rooms, except the bedroom, are finished in rough stained pine, carrying out the rustic effect predominant in park buildings. The bedroom is papered.

Exterior of the building is done in native limestone with heavy roofing. It is located on a point which overlooks the valley to the south and the mountain ridge to the north.

V. J. Eckelkamp, technical service superintendent, said that the concessions building was being rushed to completion and that the park project would be finished by March 15. Last of the rock work is going up on the building and confidence of the observation platform will start soon. As soon as the weather moderates, asphalt topping will be applied to walkways atop the mountain. Water mains will be laid soon and connected with a booster pump. Gas mains are already in and buildings are ready to be tied into the electric lines running to the top of the mountain.

Cold Weather Toll Is Heavy

More Than 185 Dead; Fuel Prices In North Are Skyrocketing

CHICAGO, Feb. 8.—Millions of dollars added to the cost of highway maintenance, skyrocketing fuel prices and more than 185 dead in 22 states were the tolls computed today in the wake of the nation's second bitter cold wave.

Industry was crippled and private fuel dealers from Wisconsin to Alabama parcelled out orders in bushel lots as they fought serious fuel famines. Coal miners added an extra day to their schedule to help avert the emergency.

Railroads estimated increased coal shipments from a low of 22 per cent to a high of 66 per cent over last year. Deliveries were delayed by mountainous drifts which held up trains for hours.

Shipping docks in the Great Lakes area were choked with coal which could not be moved to the needy areas.

Wisconsin alone estimated the cost of clearing snow-blocked highways at $5,000,000. Metropolitan New York reported snow removal costs at $5,100,000 and fuel costs at more than $5,000,000.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars' damage was reported in southern states where rain and snow combined to swell streams over their banks and to precipitate disastrous floods.

Suffering was reported in the east, north and south.

Relief officials said extra millions of dollars would be necessary to care for indigent families.

Roads were hazardous and gas-prompted estimated automobile repair jobs would cost owners at least $5 per cent more than normal.

Park Cottage Is Guilty Pleas To Be Open To Public Today

Five guilty pleas Saturday concluded the January term of the 70th district court.

Aubrey Pitts and Bill Self were given one-year suspended sentences by the court after pleading guilty to stealing chickens in the Knott community. They were arrested after the sheriff's department had traced them to Brownfield where the poultry was sold.

Earl Brandon drew a two-year suspended sentence on a guilty plea to a count of attempting to pass a forged instrument.

Richard Harding and Frank Minor had one case of car theft dismissed and entered a plea of guilty to another count, being sentenced to serve two years in the state prison for stealing a car belonging to W. A. Sheets.

New Farm Program Developing As Paramount Issue In The Campaign

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8. (UP)—Political battle lines were shaping today around the administration's farm program in a manner that suggested it may become a paramount issue in the presidential campaigns.

The intensive study given the measure by Sen. William E. Borah, together with his preliminary conclusion that it was unconstitutional, indicated that the farm problem would figure importantly in his bid for the republican presidential nomination.

"It doesn't help the farmer one particle to resolve unconstitutional questions in his behalf," Borah said.

"A casual survey of the bill shows a very serious question about its constitutionality."

Borah's "casual" study, it was learned later, kept him up until 3 a. m. He had left the senate because of a cold, obtained some sleep, and then arisen to apply himself until the early morning hour to a careful scrutiny of the new soil conservation bill.

Checking the bill against the supreme court decision in the AAA, Borah decided that the new measure appeared to be just as unconstitutional as the law for which it is being substituted.

He said he had not concluded his studies and his final position could not be announced at this time.

From Borah's attitude toward the bill it was presumed that he intended to fit it into his political plans.

The opposition to the Bankhead-Jones bill, which combines soil conservation features with a method of controlling production through bonuses to farmers, was developing in the senate largely on the issue of constitutionality.

Borah does not raise that question on the long-term plan for state farm programs tied into a federal subsidy system although he believes that the state plan may be impracticable because of the difficulty of getting 100 per cent cooperation. Some of the important agricultural states, he has been informed, have constitutional barriers to participation in such a device for aiding the farmers.

The withdrawal or lack of cooperation even from a single large agricultural state would do much to nullify the whole effort of a plan for "little AAA's" within the various states, Borah believes.

TVA Decision Is Expected Monday

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8. (AP)—Government officials expressed confidence tonight that the supreme court certainly would announce on Monday a decision, probably split—in the Tennessee Valley act case.

The Weather

EAST TEXAS—Partly cloudy, colder in the lower Rio Grande valley, slightly warmer in the northern portion Sunday. Monday colder, somewhat warmer and probably rainy in the south portion.

WEST TEXAS—Fair, colder in the Rio Grande valley Sunday, Monday partly cloudy.

Texas Shares In Below-Zero Temperatures

Mercury Drops Lower As Blizzard Sweeps Across Northern Sectors

CHICAGO, Feb. 8. (AP)—A blizzard whirling along a wave of sub-zero cold howled out of the west tonight in winter's bitterest assault of the year.

Tacing 28 miles an hour across Iowa, bound for the Lake states, it plummeted temperatures 20 to 30 degrees, paralyzed rail and highway transportation and added from two to six inches of new covering on the two feet of snow already on the ground in that state.

Additional deaths, a general interruption of traffic schedules, new misery and suffering were reported all over the plains area as the mercury dropped under zero as far south as Texas.

Blinding snow caused several misadventures. At Lingle, Wyo., Ralph Holenbrink was killed when his automobile struck a bridge. Twenty-five children were marooned in a rural school house at Briggsdale, Colo., and hardy farmers carried food to them.

Scores of automobiles were marooned in Wyoming and Colorado. At Hutchinson, Kan., where the temperature fell to 10 below, nearly 100 Boy Scouts attending a district roundup were bunked on the floor of convention hall because roads to their homes were impassable.

Oklahoma cities experienced sub-zero weather with snow or dust blowing.

Coal miners worked overtime in Iowa, Illinois, Kentucky, Alabama, Missouri and Kansas to supply fuel for freezing families.

Washington, D. C., and the middle Atlantic states were buried under the second worst snowstorm in the Washington weather bureau's history.

Virginia, Maryland, the District of Columbia and parts of Pennsylvania and New Jersey bore the brunt of the eastern storm, which swept out to sea from the Jersey coast.

The Pacific northwest experienced the coldest weather of the winter. An icy gale blew a United Airlines plane 200 miles off its course, but it landed safely in a small field at Twin Bridges, Mont.

Wichita Defeats Bonds For City Electric Plant

WICHITA FALLS, Feb. 8. (AP)—For the second time Wichita Falls today rejected the offer of the federal government to finance the building of a municipal light plant.

The federal government through the PWA offered a grant of $400,000 and the purchase of $1,200,000 in bonds. The proposal was defeated by a vote of 3,172 to 2,203. The majority of 370 ruled against the bonds.

Rescue Effort Brings Death

Six Others Attempting Aid Suffer From Exposure

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8. (UP)—One member of a rescue party taking food to marooned Tanager Islanders was frozen to death and six others found suffering from exposure, a report to coast guard headquarters said today.

Sgt. Wilbert V. Hunter, 32, of the Maryland state police, was frozen to death when he and others became lost in a blizzard on Chesapeake bay for several hours last night.

The party left Crisfield, Md., yesterday afternoon and was attempting to pull two sleds loaded with 2,000 pounds of food and medical supplies across the ice that has locked the bay for several days.

Near midnight, rescuers discovered the party struggling feebly through snow drifts. Sgt. Hunter was found in a snow bank into which he had stumbled and died of exposure.

The message to coast guard headquarters said other members of the party were being treated for frostbite, but that none was in a serious condition.

Tanager and Smith Islands in the bay have been isolated, except from the air, for more than two weeks. Food and medical supplies have been taken in by airplane and dirigible.

Mrs. Long Goes To Senate Duties

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 8. (UP)—Mrs. Huey P. Long left tonight for Washington to take her late husband's place in the United States senate.

Vote On Farm Measure Due During Week

Committee Chairman Says He Has Enough Votes To Speed Bill

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8. (UP)—Administration leaders concentrated all their energies today toward pushing the soil conservation subsidy bill through congress next week as the spearhead of a drive toward adjournment by May 1.

In the face of an amendment rush and an assertion by Sen. King (D-Utah) that the triple-A replacement measure was not a farm bill but a proposal to "carry out the ideas of Tugwell and Wallace," Chairman Smith (D-S.C.) of the agricultural committee said he had plenty of votes to block an opposition recomittal move.

Smith added that the legislation would be sent to the house by Wednesday at the latest. House farm leaders cleared the way for consideration by Thursday apparently regardless of whether the senate acts before that.

Bing Crosby Musical Comedy, 'Anything Goes,' Now At Ritz

The film version of "Anything Goes," the musical comedy which was such an outstanding success on Broadway last season, and a bit of entertainment that abounds in tuneful songs and comic scenes, is the highlight of the Ritz theater program for Sunday and Monday.

Bing Crosby heads a cast of favorites in a role that affords him ample opportunity to show his talents in song and comedy. Assisting in the general merriment are Ethel Merman, who played in the original stage production and can play right along with Bing in vocalizing and comedy; Charles Ruggles, Grace Bradley and Ida Lupino.

The original songs of the musical comedy are brought into the picture. By now "You're the Top," "Anything Goes," and "I Get a Kick Out of You," are old favorites. A series of parodies on the famed "You're the Top," by Crosby and Miss Merman makes up one of the big entertaining moments in the picture. In addition to these songs, the picture has new songs by Cole Porter, who wrote those for the stage version.

The result makes up a sparkling comedy. There are dance sequences, too, with numbers directed by Letty Prinz.

The picture is sort of a comedy of errors. Because of a lovely girl seemingly in distress, Crosby boards an ocean liner to be of help.

CO-STARRED IN LYRIC FILM

A unique murder mystery, "Two In The Dark," which plays Sunday, Monday and Tuesday at the Lyric presents these two players in the leading role. They are Margot Grahame, English actress, and Walter Abel, from the New York stage.

disguises, eluding ship officers making love between chances and taking time out to sing with Miss Merman, who has a crush on him.

NOVEL MURDER MYSTERY IS FEATURE OF LYRIC PROGRAM

Walter Abel and Margot Grahame Have Star Roles In "Two In The Dark"

Imagine a man gripped with the terrifying fear that he, unknown to himself, has committed a brutal murder, and convinced in the belief, turns detective to track himself down.

Upon this unusual situation is based "Two In The Dark," a baffling mystery drama filled with suspense, which plays for three days beginning Sunday at the Lyric.

Walter Abel, popular New York stage actor plays the lead and Margot Grahame, lovely English actress who scored in "The Informer," appears as a down-and-out show girl who aids Abel in the search for some evidence that will exonerate him from his tragic plight.

The novel mystery story is based on an original work of Gelett Burgess. It is replete with bewildering mystery and enthralling romance and promises to be a film of unusual interest.

Alan Hale has a prominent role, that of the police inspector, and Wallace Ford, another who won laurels with his work in "The Informer," appears as a newspaper reporter. Others prominent in the cast are Gail Patrick, Eric Blore, Erik Rhodes, Leslie Fenton and Erin O'Brien-Moore.

Shirley Back As The Star In 'Curly Top'

Little Star Does Work Of Cupid In Film Opening Today At Queen

Shirley Temple has many resources to win and hold audiences; in one picture she sings, in another she dances, in another she awakes sympathy with childish drama, and in another she scoldes with comical antics. In one of her late starring vehicles, "Curly Top," she presents these many talents and adds another. She sings, dances and laughs and plays Cupid in bringing sweethearts together.

"Curly Top" shows at the Queen Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. The picture opens with scenes in an orphanage, where Shirley is the little cut-up, forever getting herself into trouble and forever laughing herself out of it.

John Boles, a millionaire patron of the orphanage, adopts the child. But he also has to adopt her pet pony, her duck—and her lovely grown sister, Rochelle Hudson. The ensuing scenes of the film show how a romance grows up between Boles and Miss Hudson and reaches its climax. And when there are misunderstandings, it is Shirley who irones out the troubles.

Five songs are introduced in the picture. Topping them are "When I Grow Up," "The Simple Things in Life," and Shirley's own tune, "Animal Crackers in My Soup."

Jane Darwell and Esther Dale are prominent in the supporting cast.

Introducing 'FRANKIE'

Resourceful Lady Frances Derwent—"Frankie" to her friends—didn't know the Bassington-frenches, but simply had to meet them.

So—was it an accident that she wrecked her car at their front door—was it coincidence that found her in their guest room, with Mrs. Bassington-french in sympathetic attendance?

It was not. It was cunning design, aided and abetted by her friend, Bobby—both of them tracking down a mystery they must solve to save themselves. Behind the respectable front of Merroway Court might lie the answer to everything.

Nation Marks 50th Year For 'Miss Liberty'

Patriotic Groups Join In Jubilee Of Statue's Dedication

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8. (UP)—Patriotic and Americanization organizations throughout the nation will honor the Statue of Liberty, "the ideal conception of democracy," during 1936, the golden anniversary of its dedication.

A ceremony, duplicating the original dedicatory services, will be held at the statue on Oct. 28, 1936, exactly half a century after its dedication. Speeches by nationally prominent persons, as yet unselected, will feature the program.

The National Parks Service Division of the Interior department said the American people throughout the nation will be able to share personally in the celebration by local observances.

Group Celebrations Urged Walker W. Head, president of the Boy Scouts of America, in commenting on the value of group celebration of the anniversary, said: "To seldom do we have the opportunity to observe an anniversary not connected in some way with wars and the termination of wars. The Statue of Liberty offers such an opportunity."

Only three special dates have been suggested for national observance thus far. On March 29, a historic sketch at New York City will be broadcast over a national network. National Conservation Day, April 2, will honor the birthday of Auguste Bartholdi, the Alsatian who designed the statue. Oct. 28, the anniversary of the original dedication, probably will be the finale of the year's program.

A poetry contest, sponsored by the National Life Conservation Society, will be the first of several connected with the celebrations. Contests will be open to everyone, without restriction as to age, race or sex.

A special registration book, a gift of the Grand Lodge of New York, A. F. & A. M., has been presented for use in commemorating the statue's anniversary. The book bears the inscription on its pigskin cover: "Statue of Liberty Fiftieth Anniversary—1886-1936. National Parks Service." Its loose leaf style will enable the estimated 400,000 visitors expected at the statue during the jubilee year to sign this special register.

Other leading organizations participating in the nation-wide celebration of the roughest of these roads their cars ride smoothly because the independently acting front wheels absorb the shock without transmitting it to the car and passengers.

Church Names New Worker

A. W. Fechner Educational Director, For Fourth Street Baptist

Appointment of Rev. A. W. Fechner as educational director and assistant to the pastor has been announced by the Fourth Street Baptist church. The church voted to secure Rev. Fechner's services at a business meeting last week. Rev. Fechner will begin his work at once, and will devote most of his time to the enrollment and educational work of the Sunday school and church. He also will be assistant to Rev. W. S. Garnett. Before coming to Big Spring, Rev. Fechner served as pastor of the North Waco Baptist church at Waco, and later was pastor of the Line Avenue Baptist at Amarillo. At both these places he was successful in building large and efficient churches.

Rev. Fechner received his A. B. degree from Howard Payne college in 1923 and did work toward the Master's degree at Baylor university.

With Mrs. Fechner and Ruth and Cecil, he is for the present making his home at 800 Runnels street.

Winter Driving Brings Out Value Of Knee Action

Thousands of motorists this winter have discovered the full benefits of the knee action ride for the first time, it is pointed out by D. E. Ralston, Oldsmobile vice president and general manager.

These drivers are those who rarely if ever drive off pavement. Their driving is limited to city street or smooth paved highways.

But the cold winter, which has seen ruts and bumps of ice and snow formed on all heavily traveled roads, has demonstrated the advantages of knee action wheels, which move up and down independently of each other and soak up shocks through big coil springs.

"Knee action definitely gives an improved ride on even the smoothest streets," Ralston pointed out. "This has been proved to motorists all over the world who have driven a car with knee action and one without over the same route under the same conditions and compared the comfort."

"But the rougher the road the more noticeable this difference is. And the cold winter, producing bumps of ice and snow on even the smoothest highways, has accentuated the difference between the ride in a knee action car and the car without this improvement."

"Owners of knee action Oldsmobiles have discovered that even

Around And About

The Sports Circuit

By Tom Beasley

SEVERAL TIMES recently we have written of Ankenman, son of Fred Ankenman, president of the Houston Buffs. Pat is due for a try-out at shortstop with the St. Louis Cardinals this spring, and the Card publicity department is giving young Ankenman a big play.

A STORY has been making the rounds that the younger Ankenman was nicknamed Pat when he played baseball under Uncle Billy Dusch at the University of Texas, but he acquired that name long before attending U. of T. After graduation he made a swing of the Cardinal farms, touching Springfield of the Central, Greensboro of the Piedmont and Houston of the Texas league. Last year he played with Columbus of the American association, hitting .312 and ranking third among shortstops, with a defensive average of .944. He was third in the association in stolen bases, with 21.

THERE HAVE been many small men in the majors, but according to the Cardinal publicity man, Pat will be the smallest and lightest if he makes the grade. Here is how he compares with some of the others in height and weight: Pat Ankenman, 5 feet 4 inches, 125 pounds.

Rabbit Maranville, 5 feet 5 inches, 146 pounds.

Sparky Adams, 5 feet 4 1/2 inches, 156 pounds.

Nick Treanor, 5 feet 4 3/4 inches, 153 pounds.

Walter Gautreau, 5 feet, 5 inches, 146 pounds.

Jim Catton, 5 feet 4 inches, 155 pounds.

Herb Thomas, 5 feet 5 inches, 155 pounds.

Miller Huggins, 5 feet 4 inches, 148 pounds.

BIG SPRING high school had three football coaches the past season, but two will do the job this next season, school officials said. Brown takes Eristow's job as head mentor and "Speedy" Moffett will be named assistant.

A VERY dejected, ragged man, claiming to be Jim Crowley, was in town Saturday looking for Olie Eristow. Jim Crowley was one of the "Four Horsemen" at Notre Dame under Knute Rockne. The man told a hard luck tale after hearing that Eristow was out of town. He knew his football history and that he had a few "shaky" spots in his story. Crowley is supposed to be head coach at Fordham with two more years to go on his contract. The man claiming to be Crowley was rather heavy set and had light blue eyes. He said he married Fannie Eristow in 1932, but had since lost all of his property and had been on the bum for several months. He claimed to be on his way to New Orleans where he hopes to get a chance to play baseball. He put up a good spiel for a couple of hours.

HOMER NORTON toots the bugle for the start of spring grid training at A. & M. Monday. Practice is due to last for at least a month. Rankin Britt, star from Ranger high school, will report as a freshman end; Virgil Jones from Sweetwater will be out for guard position; Warren Church from Colorado is due to report; A. C. Barrett of Stanton will try for a center position.

JACK SHARKEY, one-time world's champion heavyweight leather slinger who has been lambasted and ribbed by sports writers for his feeble attempts at a comeback, is apparently out of the picture for good now. Age and a pair of beefy prups threw up a stop sign for Sharkey Friday night. Tony Shucro relegated the former title holder to the has-beens by out-punching him.

U.S. SUFFERS REVERSES IN OLYMPICS

Arkansas Porkers Trim Mustangs For Southwest Conference Lead

TWO MAJOR UPSETS ON SATURDAY

GARMISCH-PARTENKIRCHEN, Germany, Feb. 8.—The United States suffered two major reverses in the fourth annual Winter Olympics today as the hockey team bowed to Italy in a stunning upset, and Donna Fox, pilot of the leading four-man bobsled team, barely escaped serious injury in a spectacular crash on the Olympic chute.

These developments overshadowed other competitive results as Canada's third successive win in the defense of its hockey crown and a smashing triumph of Germany's Christel Cranz in Slalom in the combination downhill skiing championship for women.

The American hockey defeat, a shock to the experts, came in a wildly exciting, bruising game that went to two extra 30-minute periods.

Giovionatti Scotti scored the goal that gave the Italians a 2-1 win.

Meanwhile, Canada, holder of three Olympic hockey titles, crushed into the round-of-eight by winning its third match, 5-2, over Austria.

McCahey won the girls' division, beating Odessa, 27 to 17.

Ekew of Veribest was awarded a gold-studded basketball for being voted the outstanding player of the tournament. He was also awarded a one thousand dollar life insurance policy when voted as the best sport.

A trophy went to Gregg of San Angelo who was high point man of the tournament, scoring forty points in four games.

All-tournament team for boys: forwards—Liles, Forsan and Gregg, San Angelo; centers—Billings, San Angelo; guards—Phillips, Crews, and Ekaw, Veribest.

Shows of Odessa was the outstanding girl player of the tournament.

All-tourney team: forwards—Cox, McCahey, Krebs, Odessa, and Miller, Big Lake; guards—Bishop, McCahey, Cumble, Barnhart, Chatterton, Big Lake.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8 (UP)—Lou Ambers, Herkimer, N. Y., boy relegated to the pugilistic scrapheap last summer with a broken jaw, was well on his way toward winning another shot at Tony Casoneri's lightweight title today.

Stella Walsh To Make Final Bid For Track Honors At Olympics

CLEVELAND, Feb. 8 (AP)—Stella Walsh has one goal left, on the cinder tracks before she hangs up her spikes and retires from competition that made her world famous as a sprinter.

She wants to win the women's 100-meter dash for Poland in the Eleventh Olympic Games at Berlin next August, then retire and turn the family's sprinting activities over to her 17-year-old sister, Clara.

Stella will be 25 in April. She was 21 when she won the 100-meter dash in the 1922 international track and field carnival at Los Angeles in Olympic record time of 11.9.

Stella began winning championships in her early teens, becoming women's senior champion of Cleveland at the age of 14.

After that, records fell with regularity under the spikes of the regularly Polish girl star. Her past and present records for the world, the United States, Canada, Japan and Poland total 52 in the dashes, longer sprints and field events.

She plans to become an instructor in athletics after retirement from competition and to train little sister Clara for the 1940 Olympics, Clara, she will tell you, has the old Walsh speed.

Wolves Win Rough Game

COLORADO, Feb. 7.—In a rough and tumble game the Colorado Wolves came from behind in the late minutes of the fracas here Friday night to defeat the Big Spring Steers, 32-29.

The Longhorns led through the game until the last four minutes of play by making their shots from under the basket count but an effective blockade by the Colorado crew seemed to slow the Steer quiet and the tide of battle turned as the Reesmen kept them away from the nets.

Wisconsin Profs Worry Over Athletic Muddle

MADISON, Wis., Feb. 8 (UP)—While the Wisconsin student body slept off the blissful effects of its junior prom, university regents awakened Saturday with an "athletic" headache.

The prom's grand march was only three hours distant when the regents completed their investigation of the Badger athletic mess last night. The "headache" which the regents must cure at their next meeting, Feb. 14, was caused not by liquor which they consumed themselves but by coffee spiked with whiskey which the Wisconsin football players sipped between halves of important games.

Manager Wilson Of Phillies To Rely On Boy Rookie To Win Games

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—A 19-year-old rookie pitcher may be the vital link in determining the success of the Phillies this year.

Manager Jimmy Wilson believes his club has a potential great in young Hal Kelleher and that he will round out the best pitching staff the Phils will have since 1913.

Two years ago Kelleher was pitching for Central High school in the Philadelphia Public High League.

"The kid is good," says Wilson. "The time he spent last summer at Hazleton brought him along wonderfully. I caught him in those three games he worked after joining us last September. Nobody ever looked better."

The playing-manager said that the rookie has so much stuff that he figures he has an even chance with Orville Jorgens, Joe Bowman or Bucky Walters for the No. 2 starting post.

Handicaps Are Overcome

Walters and Bowman are ready to go. Joe's arm trouble is cured and Bucky's wildness is under control. Frankie Frisch thinks Jorgens is one of the best youngsters in the league. I know he is. So with three fellows like that to choose from, you get an idea what I really think of Kelleher."

As to the old stand-by Syl Johnson Wilson says: "I never think of him as a regular. To me he's the first-string relief man. And a corker, too."

Wilson asserted that all his pitchers possess courage under fire and that given a bit of assistance offensively they would give no cause for worry.

In fact, said the catcher, "we won't have to worry anyway, if Kelleher lives up to expectations."

In the opinion of Johnny Quinn, American League umpire, the youngster will not only come thru but will surpass Curt Davis. "He's great," said Quinn. "In a month or two Kelleher won't be the No. 2 pitcher on that staff. He'll be No. 1."

Curt Davis, the big ramboned Ausua, Cal, pitcher, probably will not be traded or sold, despite rumors to that effect. It has been felt for some time that the Phils were ready to sell or trade any member of the club, if the deal seems profitable. Also because of Davis' pitching ability and the possibility of enriching the club's coffers through his sale, it was felt that he would belong to another club when the 1936 season started.

MIAMI SCHOOL FOR BASEBALL

Youngsters With Talent To Be Given Chance

MIAMI (UP)—Potential Babe Ruths, Lou Gehrigs and Mickey Cochrans will be here soon for six weeks of instruction in a baseball school headed by some of the game's greatest players.

One hundred fifty students will take the course, which includes instruction in bunting, batting, fielding, pitching, and catching.

Leslie Mann, former Boston Red Sox star, and Max Carey, former Brooklyn Dodger manager, head the seven-man faculty.

Appearing as occupants of the various diamond chairs are Paul Waner, Pittsburgh Pirate; Jimmy Fox, Boston Red Sox; Fred Lindstrom, former Giant and Cub; Hank Gowdy, Boston Bee coach, and Jo Jo White, outfielder on last year's Detroit championship team.

Of last year's 100 scholars, 40 are professional ballplayers. From the group, whose average age is between 18 and 21, Phil Biehl, of Chicago, was sent to the Pennsylvania State League for the 1935 season. Johnny Parr, of Miami, will be up with Nashville this season.

Baseball scouts, always on the lookout for new talent, will sit in on some of the sessions.

Connie Mack, Philadelphia Athletics manager, will give the students the once-over, as will scouts of the Detroit Tigers. Bill Terry, Giant manager, will have a look also.

The course will include a daily instruction and competition with an interleague schedule from which averages will be kept for checking improvement noted during the term.

Veteran Cager

Jake Morgan, former Big Spring high school and Chillicothe, Missouri, basketball star, is a veteran forward from last year's Couden Oiler squad.

Oilers Plan Tournery Play

Couden To Have 2 Teams In Christoval Cage

The Couden Oilers hope to add at least two trophies to their display box before hanging up basketball tops for the season. One is a fifteen-inch award, emblematic of the championship of the Christoval tournament, and the other is the championship trophy of their own tournament.

The Coudenites will open their initial tournament play of the season next week when they enter the Christoval meet with some of the toughest semi-pro teams in the state. The Couden managers are considering entering two teams in the tournery.

The Oiler reserves have more than held their own with the Couden regulars, administering sound drubbings to the first stringers on several occasions this season. A line-up with Jake Morgan and Dave Hopper at forwards, Olie Cordill at center, and Ted Phillips and Phil Smith in the backcourt presents a variety of speed, height and ability.

The Coudenites dazzled the Concho fans last year with an exhibition of ball handling that would have done credit to many pro teams, and the Oilers will have good following when they return to the resort city.

Refiners held their first round opponents to only two points in last year's Christoval tournament, and it was in that game that Freddy Townsend had a scoring streak of twenty-seven points.

The Oilers of San Angelo are expected to make a strong bid for the Christoval title this year.

Before staging their own tourney the Oilers will trek to Fort Worth to engage the Junior chamber of commerce team of that city on Monday, Feb. 24. The Jaycees, as the chamber of commerce casers are known in Tarrant county, recently scored victories over Texas Christian university and Texas Wesleyan.

HOGS TAKE TOP PLACE IN CHASE

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Feb. 8 (AP)—The rangy Arkansas Razorbacks took a firm hold on top place in the Southwest conference basketball race tonight by defeating the Southern Methodist university Mustangs, 40 to 28.

The Porkers fell behind at the start and did not get ahead until the middle of the first period when Gibbard, forward, threw in three field goals in quick succession.

The Mustangs never regained the lead, although they threatened early in the second when Hanton and Bellamy, with gift shots, approached to within four points of the Razorbacks.

Ike Poole, Porker pivot man, widened the gap between the scores. Poole was high scorer with fifteen points.

Texas Takes Torrid Game

Longhorns Defeat Horned Frogs Saturday, 38 To 25

AUSTIN, Feb. 8 (AP)—Texas Longhorns defeated Texas Christian Horned Frogs, 38 to 25, in a rough, ragged Southwest conference basketball game tonight.

Texas scored the first three points on free throws and was never fouled as called on the Christians. Texas making good on eight. Eleven personal fouls were registered against Texas players. Frogs scoring nine free throws, and missing four.

Walls, Texas Christian forward and center, and Cowan, center, were ejected on fouls.

Both teams played a spotty floor game and missed many shots. Jack Taylor, Texas captain and forward, led the scoring with fifteen points.

Employment Still Lags, Green Says

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8 (UP)—Unemployment in December was at the lowest point since March 1933, but still was 11,401,000, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said today.

Green said that while conditions at the start of the year are "more encouraging," a nation wide survey disclosed employment has not kept with business recovery.

The gains we have made are of small significance when compared with the magnitude of the problem we face," he said. "No solution is yet in sight."

TEXAS LEAGUERS READY FOR SPRING WORK

SIX CATS SIGN THEIR CONTRACTS

FORT WORTH, Feb. 8 (UP)—With six players signed, the Fort Worth Cats of the Texas league will put contracts in the mail Monday to twenty-three additional cats, it was announced today.

Dissatisfied with the team as it stands, but optimistic over the chances of getting material that'll improve it, Manager Harry McCurdy of the Fort Worth ball club talked things over Saturday with Cecil Coombs, business manager of the Cats.

"We'll have to get a second baseman, and will probably need a couple of pitchers," says the skipper. "We can't go with what we have. But I'm not fretting. I'm confident we'll come up with what is needed. The owners are willing to put up the money to buy the right players if we can find 'em. That's a tough right now. There wasn't a good second baseman to be had at either of the national league meetings. But lines are out and someone will be snagged before the season opens. I think we'll get some real help from Cincinnati when either Cecil or myself go to Florida in March for a conference with Larry McPhail and Charley Drensen, bosses of the Reds."

McCurdy and Coombs spent Saturday going over all the details of the contracts which are to be mailed to the Cats Monday, and making final plans for the opening of the spring conditioning camp here March 8.

Dallas Ready For Spring Work

DALLAS, Feb. 8 (UP)—Thirty-one contract ball players plus a few green rookies will be moving to Longview March 9 for the start of the Dallas Steers spring training.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, IRED BY JACOBS, WILL NOT LET BRADDOCK FIGHT LOUIS

By HENRY McLEMORE
United Press Staff Correspondent

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 8 (UP)—Madison Square Garden has surrendered to Michael Strauss Jacobs.

The many-million dollar house which Tex built, with its plush and elegance and morning-coated executives, has bowed to the man who gets his pants pressed on the run, and whose office is any street corner in the Feverish Fifties or the Roaring Forties.

But Madison Square Garden saved its face by the gesture of the surrender. It gave in, yes, but it gave in on a yacht. Yesterday, somewhere out in the Gulf stream, on a boat that cost almost as much as the Garden lost on boxing last year, three of its high executives asked Michael Jacobs to move into their establishment and take complete control of all things fighting.

The writer learned of the Phillip H. Oppenheim rendezvous, out where the flying fishes play, from a source that even a White House correspondent would have to admit as "authoritative." He also learned, from a source equally as authoritative, that Jacobs flatly refused the offer and will continue to promote for himself under the banners of the Twentieth Century club—an organization which came into being when Jacobs gained control of boxing's greatest magnate—Joe Louis.

Sounded Good
The Garden's offer to Jacobs, which was presented by Staunton Griffiths, chairman of the board, and Bernard Gimbel, influential stockholder, called for Jacobs and the Garden to split fifty-fifty on all boxing profit. The offer, if accepted, was to take effect immediately with the Garden cutting down its middle on the Schmeling-Joe Louis fight which Jacobs has scheduled for June in New York. Critics are of the opinion this fight will draw better than $1,000,000.

Jacobs' refusal, we learned, was met with a flat statement by the Garden that it would never allow Champion Jim Braddock, which it has under contract, to fight Jacobs' man, Joe Louis, for the title. Jacobs, it is understood, countered this threat with a set of figures which showed that Louis was a greater profitmaker as a challenger than as a champion.

Pulled Down Cash
In his five fights under Jacobs, Louis has drawn more than $1,500,000. If the fight with Schmeling draws a million, the negro boy will have pulled $2,500,000 in the box office in less than a year. For it was only last June that Louis met Carners in the first of his five fights for Jacobs.

Jacobs, we learned, pointed out to the Garden heads, that if Louis won the title he'd probably follow the example set by his predecessors and fight but once a year. As a challenger he has fought five times, and could have done $500,000 more in business had he chosen to accept all engagements.

The Garden's offer to Jacobs promised him an unlimited bankroll and absolute charge over boxing. He is supposed to have answered this by saying he already had enough bankroll to corner the fistic market, and would rather continue his lone wolf ways.

COAHOMA TAKEN OUT 19 TO 16

Moore Bulldogs earned the right to meet the Forsan Buffaloes in the final round of the county senior boys' class B cage playoff Monday by defeating Coahoma Saturday night, 19-16, in the high school gym.

The green-jerseyed quintet from Moore was forced to come from behind late in the game to turn the trick, the necessary punch and final swung into the lead when Broughton and Lusk hit the basket for the needed points.

Lusk was the leading scorer for the victors with three field goals while Woodsen led the Coahomans with nine points.

Coahoma went into the final round by defeating Hiway while Moore gained the last bracket by trouncing Knott.

Charley Lockhart Asks Reelection

AUSTIN, Feb. 8. (UP)—Charley Lockhart, lieutenant treasurer of the biggest state, today announced he will be a candidate for reelection in the state democratic primaries. Lockhart is 45 inches high and weighs 124 pounds.

Lockhart first became a state treasury employe in 1929 and is completing his third term. His campaign pictures this time will be full length.

"I do not use my misfortune as a means of campaigning," said Lockhart, "but I found many people did not think the bust por-

ECCLES IS FACING BIG RESPONSIBILITIES AS INFLATION DRIVE GATHERS NEW SPEED

By ALEXANDER B. GEORGE WASHINGTON (UP)—Sitting at the helm of the new federal reserve board is Marriner S. Eccles, the millionaire banker from Utah who in boyhood was a Mormon missionary to Europe.

The slim, sharp-featured westerner of Scottish parentage flabbergasted some old school financiers with his "radical" monetary and economic recovery proposals. But now he heads a board which is generally regarded here as a conservative. And Eccles himself maintains that he is a "true conservative"—a capitalist interested in saving capitalism by reform.

A Republican, who rapidly built up a "depression-proof" chain bank system in Utah and neighboring states and enlarged his fortune by investments in sundry industrial enterprises, he now is rated the most eloquent exponent of the administration theory of "conscious control" of the nation's banking system.

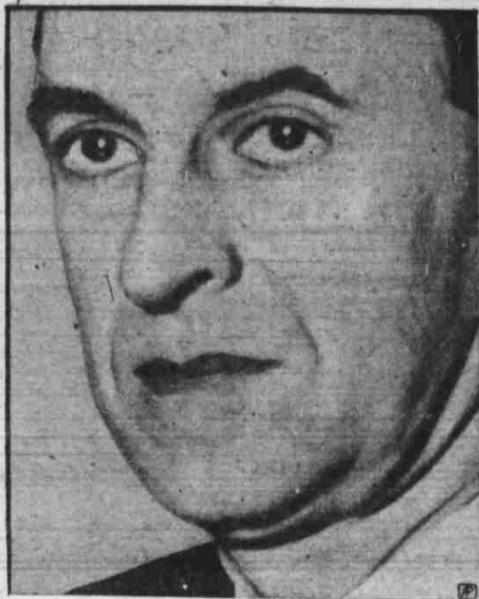

Face A Major Problem "A monetary system left to itself acts to promote instability rather than stability," he contends. "Expansion and contraction of credit once started have a tendency to become self-generating and to proceed to injurious limits."

Taking over increased banking and credit control power under the new banking measure, Eccles and his fellow board members face a major problem in controlling the huge surplus reserve of money in the banks of the country representing, as it does, tremendous credit potentialities. Coincidentally, new talk of inflation arises on Capitol Hill.

Glass Opposes His Theories Eccles has said "the first of two supremely important tasks likely to devolve upon the reserve administration is assuring that recovery does not result in an undesirable inflation." He has defined the second as "assuring that recovery is not followed by a depression." And inflation, he maintains, is certain to lead ultimately to another depression.

Although the young banker's appointment to the board and his banking legislation proposals met stiff opposition from Carter Glass last year, the Virginia senator did not contest his recent appointment as head of the reserve administration. Glass still opposes the Eccles theories, but both men won concessions in the new banking measure, and the senator has characterized the new setups as "a pretty safe board."

Prodigious Worker Eccles, who became a bank director at 22 after work as a lumbric traits I formerly used were actually me." His campaign announcement pointed to his record in management of the treasury. Lockhart's announcement put all present elected state officers in races for re-election.

Marriner S. Eccles, who was reappointed chairman of the federal reserve board, built up a 'depression-proof' chain bank system in the west.

berjack and a boy missionary, was appointed governor of the federal reserve board at 43—the youngest man ever to hold that high government post. His advocacy of a recovery program along "new deal" lines before the inauguration of President Roosevelt brought him to the attention of the administration.

Associates describe him as "a prodigious worker—a bundle of restrained nervous energy—who does not know how to relax." He plays an occasional golf foursome, and maintains a running fire of conversation with his companions on financial and economic topics. He is brisk in manner, but not cocky, and is slow to anger.

Twinkling eyes and a pleasant voice offset the severity of rather sharply cut features and firmly set jaw. He spends unusually long hours at his desk, but finds time to munch the peanuts he greatly relishes and to engage in enthusiastic discussion of fishing, hunting and camping in the mountains of Utah and the Jackson Hole country of Wyoming.

Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Douglas of Muskogee, Okla., have arrived to be at the bedside of their brother, W. B., who is ill with pneumonia.

King, section 30, block 35, T-3-S, T&P survey, Martin county, located three miles southeast of Stanton, is preparing to spud. The little royalty flourish following announcement of the location in Stanton had subsided by the last of this week as the test made ready to drill.

The W. E. Production Co. No. 1 Scrivner was reported drilling at 1,500 feet Saturday. The Empire No. 1 Hall had plugged back 40 feet from 2,263 feet and was waiting for cement to dry before acidizing.

Call Issued For State Warrants

AUSTIN, Feb. 8. (UP)—State Treasurer Charley Lockhart today called in for payment outstanding general fund warrants totaling $1,271,149. The call pays warrants on the fund issued to Oct. 1, 1935. No change was made in payment of overdue Confederate pension warrants, as the law prohibits diversion of any funds from one account to another.

Drilling Is Resumed On M'Dowell Test

Is in Same Formation At 10,615; Operations Will Continue

Having effected repairs to a boiler and changed bits, Loffland Bros-Moore Bros. No. 1 M'Dowell, Glascock county deep test in section 22, block 34, T-2-S, T&P survey, was drilling ahead Saturday afternoon at 10,615 feet in the same formation which has attracted attention this week.

Contrary to rumors that the test would be shut down, there was no indication as to when deepening operations would cease. Since resuming drilling at 10,115 feet, the test has experienced no additional shows. The brown formation, thought by some to be the Ellenberger, had a slight stain. Reports from reliable sources indicated another deep test for the area, probably to the east and not on the 5,000-acre unitized block organized by John I. Moore.

Open Drive On White Slavery

Dept. Of Justice Opens Work With Raids In Florida, N. York

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8 (UP)—The department of justice plans a nation-wide drive on vice rings trafficking in white slavery, Director J. Edgar Hoover revealed today.

Raids this week in Florida and New York were forerunners of others in all parts of the country, Hoover said. His men have been gathering evidence for months.

Hoover said his investigations had revealed powerful vice rings operate in almost every large city in the country. Each is dominated by an underworld "boss" who cooperates with similar "bosses" in other cities.

The roundup will include racketeers and gamblers operating from coast to coast, Hoover said. Department of justice agents have turned over information gathered in their investigations to police in the various cities, it was said.

Hoover said the traffic in white slavery had become one of the major rackets of criminals since they were driven out of liquor by repeal of prohibition. White slavery—the transportation of women across state lines for immoral purposes—is a federal offense and will be dealt with by federal officers, Hoover said.

Victim Of Mishap In Grave Condition

Although she remained in a critical condition, with recovery doubtful, Mrs. Claude Summers of Dallas, injured in a collision Thursday night, spent a comparatively restful day Saturday, relatives in Big Spring were advised.

Mrs. Summers was in the Methodist hospital at Fort Worth where she was taken following a crash of the car in which she was riding and a truck on the Dallas-Fort Worth pike. She suffered a fractured skull, a broken leg and chest injuries. Three other persons were slightly hurt in the mishap.

Mrs. Summers' mother, Mrs. J. R. Parks, 806 Lancaster street, was at her daughter's bedside.

Inquiry Renewed In Jail Escape Of Harvey Bailey

DALLAS, Feb. 8 (UP)—Investigation of the three-year-old jail break staged by Harvey Bailey was reopened today after an informant relayed to federal agents a casual conversation overheard in a barber shop.

Bailey, one of the kidnapers of Charles F. Ulrich, Oklahoma millionaire oilman, escaped from the Dallas county jail. Authorities never have discovered who planned the break and provided the necessary money.

In revealing the new investigation, the Dallas Dispatch stated a local lawyer, now dead, attempted to sell part of the Ulrich ransom money in a Dallas barber.

The barber refused to be a party to the deal, according to the Dispatch. The newspaper said the deal was revealed to a former convict in a barber shop conversation who passed along the information to federal agents.

Local agents of the department of justice refused to discuss the case today.

Curtis

That youthful background put its mark on the man, a fact that statesmanhood from the more glittering social contacts until his election to the vice presidency with its burden of an almost nightly dining out.

As congressman, senator and vice president, Curtis' favorite recreations were poker and horse racing. He played a cold and effective game of draw and judged his horses with the calculating eye of a former jockey. His first regular job at the age of 16 was as a jockey riding under contract on the Kansas county fair circuit.

Curtis enjoyed the vice presidency with zealous enthusiasm. He was proud of his achievement in reaching the next topmost position in the executive division of the government, the first Kansas to fly so far.

Hoover's Running Mate

He had been a candidate for the vice presidential nomination in 1924 but was shunted out of line by the Coolidge administration leaders. Four years later he was persuaded to seek the presidency and came to the republican convention in Kansas City with substantial southwestern support. But the Hoover forces were too strong. Cur is chosen as Mr. Hoover's running mate.

The vice presidential years were embittered by difficulty which quickly developed over the status of Mrs. Gann as the vice presidential official hostess. In a city bound by precedent and sensitive rank, the question of where Mrs. Gann should be seated at formal dinners became a subject of official deliberation and the nation followed with interest Curtis' determined battle to assure that his half-sister was given every courtesy due her position in his household.

Favored Landon

Re-nominated with Mr. Hoover in 1928, the vice president campaigned with a growing confidence of victory which added to his disappointment on election day. He did not return to Kansas but established himself here as a lawyer when the democrats succeeded to national command.

He had been looking forward to re-entering the political arena, this time hoping to bring the republican presidential nomination to his friend, Governor Alf Landon of Kansas. Leaders of the party had depended upon his aid in the presidential campaign.

Democrats and republicans alike mourned his passing. President Roosevelt said of him "whether they knew him as senator, as vice president or as the man he was in his own right, his legion of friends will remember him always affectionately and will mourn his passing."

an active campaign against the "return" of liquor in the imminent local option election is forecast in the formation of a Good Government League here last week. The league masked nothing. It went on record as demanding enforcement of laws against liquor sales and directed broadsides against marble machines and pool halls. Marble machines departed during the week.

City Manager E. V. Spence is in Washington, D. C. expediting action on the city's application for a PWA loan-grant to be used in the construction of a dam to impound an artificial lake for municipal water purposes. When the time comes a bond issue will be necessary to meet the city's portion of the amount. Indications now are that the issue would be considered favorably since water supply is a vital problem facing any growing town.

Impetus will be given to the move from a block of voters who believe that the lake would otherwise be an invaluable asset in attracting visitors to Big Spring and in affording Big Spring people a complete resort close at home.

According to statistics gathered at the end of January, the new year started off toward the goal of better business. Postal receipts were up 6 per cent, building permits 48 per cent, and new registrations 16 per cent. Several private business concerns reported as good or better businesses for January than for December. A large majority had better months than for the preceding January. So 1936 prospects grow brighter.

HOME BOMBED IN GENERAL STRIKE

Two Are Fined In County Court Here

Francis Benton and W. F. Palmer Saturday pleaded guilty to charges of contributing to the delinquency of a minor and were fined $10 and costs by County Judge J. S. Garlington. Benton was ordered to leave town.

The charges were the outgrowth of Benton, attached to a side show, allegedly having presented obscene literature to school girls. Palmer, operator of the show, denied any knowledge of the affair.

Local Man's Father Killed In Accident

Duce Says Britain Bringing On A War

LONDON, Feb. 8 (AP)—The Sunday Observer in an interview today quotes Premier Mussolini as saying the British "had turned a colonial war into what may yet be a worldwide disaster."

The interview was with Sir Arnold Wilson, a member of parliament.

Dogs 'Held For Questioning'

TOLEDO (UP)—Two dogs were "held for investigation" by police after the slaying of 83 chickens at the farm property of David Walker, poultryman. Officers said burrows had been dug under the coop housing the fowls. Paw marks were found on the premises.

county has received $16,000 of $62,000 expended by WPA in the 18th district to Feb. 1.

After months and months of buck passing and issue avoiding, Howard county relief problems seem to be near a practical solution. The welfare agency under the sponsorship of the local Red Cross chapter was given life this week and Administrator L. A. Deason announced he would soon be in a position to extend aid. The board will serve as a sort of clearing agency for other welfare units and will assume the relief burden formerly borne by county and city. These two agencies will in turn give the necessary financial support to the welfare organization.

Friday as news of an impending blizzard was flashed, unfortunate people wondered what they would do for food and heat. A small group waited anxiously outside Deason's office for the word which would mean timely help.

Car licenses are now on sale. Within a few days the new driving license blanks will be received here and issued to those who can satisfy requirements. If these licenses are made to serve their purpose, they will be of immeasurable benefit in curbing accidents. If they turn out to be like the old headlight inspection law, they will be just another money making scheme.

the national reemployment service are eligible to work on these projects, Bullock said.

All youths who desire to work on these projects are urged to go to the NRS office, register and get their identification cards, then go to the labor management division of the WPA at the Petroleum building in Big Spring to be assigned to the work.

While the park projects will employ boys exclusively, there is approved already a project for each of the twenty-five counties in the two districts to employ an average of eight youths in each county as assistants in the county relief offices. Most of these, Bullock said, will be girls.

Projects have already been approved for the use of four youths in the county superintendent's office in each of the following counties: Howard, Lynn and Dawson. Similar projects are being planned for other counties.

sent out. The district office's address, to which blanks must be sent, is plainly printed on the application. Truth of the information contained in applications must be sworn to before some officer empowered to administer oath—a county judge, clerk of justice of the peace, or notary public.

Investigations

"Applicants can forget about their applications after they are mailed to district headquarters," said Carpenter. "We expect to start investigating applications within two or three days after the law goes into effect. There should be enough applications presented to start on by then. Three hundred investigators will be used."

Investigators will report to the district office, and the applicant will be notified by mail what disposition has been made of his application.

Those approved will receive up to $15 per month, starting by July 1.

"The law provides that payments must start by July 1," said Carpenter. "I anticipate 200,000 applications, and handling that many is a big job. But we'll start payments before July 1 if it's humanly possible."

In case an application is rejected and the applicant wishes to appeal, written forms may be obtained in district offices. Notices of appeal are to be mailed to district headquarters, and then forwarded to the state commission at Austin. The case then will be set for hearing. Carpenter said an effort would be made to conduct hearings in or near the towns where appellants live.

In the Panhandle, usually the state's coldest spot, a south wind was blowing and the mercury was not expected to drop so low as the 7 degrees below zero registered at Pampa early Saturday.

The mercury was expected to drop to between zero and 8 degrees above at Dallas, and temperatures of between 20 and 25 degrees were forecast for the lower Rio Grande valley. Fear was felt for the citrus and vegetable crops and for livestock in the valley.

The norther reached Corpus Christi at 4 p. m. and the mercury dropped 25 degrees in less than an hour.

Big Spring Saturday had a low of 11 degrees, one degree higher than the coldest weather of the season. Saturday night at 11 o'clock, the reading at the airport was 21. A shift in wind was predicted, bringing possible misting weather Sunday.

Unmasked gunmen Saturday held up Alton Millican, Humble station attendant at 500 W. 3rd street, and robbed the station of about $10 in cash.

Driving a 1935 Ford coupe with a split back fender, three men stopped at the station at 4 a. m. They ordered five gallons of gasoline and left the motor running. When Millican went to make change, he was confronted with a pistol and robbed of his personal effects. Two of the men ransacked the station.

Previously the trio had secured five gallons of gasoline at a station opposite the Crawford hotel. They drove past the Humble station and then returned.

Austin Office Will Appoint Pension Staff

George White, district supervisor for the old age assistance commission, said Saturday night on his return from Austin that the district personnel would be appointed by the Austin office.

There are now more than 5,000 applications on file for the 300 positions, he said.

White said that application blanks would be left at the court house in each county of the district within a few days but they could not be filled out until Feb. 14.

He said that there were estimated to be approximately 3,000 persons within the district who would apply for aid.

The district office, declared White, will not fill out blanks. Chief work of the district officials will be the investigation of individual cases.

Plan Community Center In City

Establishment of a community center in the west part of town loomed as a probability Saturday with the announcement that Mrs. Hart Phillips had procured a house at 1001 W. 2nd street for the purpose.

The house is located on a six-lot tract which will afford ample playground space.

Mrs. B. G. Riehborg, who has been active in the campaign for a west side community center, said the place would be called the "Molly Hart Home." She said that the city had promised water and playground facilities. Through cooperation with Mrs. Minnette Fort, director of adult education, it is hoped that a government nursery can be operated from the home.

Will Give Series Of Talks Here

Dr. Jack Johnson, Dallas, public welfare administration consultant, will conduct a series of lectures in Big Spring Feb. 14-16. Mrs. Ora Wood, district relief administrator, said Saturday.

City and county officials, representatives of all relief and welfare agencies and all interested citizens are being urged to participate in the affair. Time and place of the meetings will be announced later.

"Dr. Jackson's knowledge of welfare and relief procedure makes him particularly competent in cooperative planning for this immediate emergency period," said Mrs. Wood.

EXTENDING THE SCOUT INFLUENCE

The Boy Scout movement which Friday closed its 25th Jubilee Year and this week observes a series of events starting a new year, has every reason to celebrate; for it can look back over a quarter-century period and count well done the task of developing and training the youth of the world to become better informed and better equipped citizens.

Character development and youth training have ever been the Scout movement's goals, and it has worked steadfastly upward toward those goals.

During the past 26 years, approximately 7,000,000 boys and men have been connected with Scouting, and of these 1,300,000 are now active. The graduates, or veterans, are thus becoming an increasingly large group—there are almost six million of them—and as this group grows the influence of the Scouting ideals spreads.

Nobody questions the good in, and the value of, the Scout program as it pertains to boys and even as it affects the elders who lead it and a significant fact about the work is that it has never been at a standstill, but continues to keep pace with the needs of our youth.

Recently the Scout organization launched a program for older boys, known as Senior Scouting and designed to reach youth from 15 to voting age and even beyond. This senior program is made up of work that interests the older boy and fits his needs and desires. Then the organization has turned its attention to the younger chap, establishing and operating the Cub program for boys of from 9 to 11 years of age. Here the boys are given training in fundamentals which equip them to get more good out of the regular Scout program.

Thus the Scout organization is extending its sphere of influence, reaching more and more of our future citizens. And if the program can widen its influence on boys and young men, from the time they are old enough to take an interest in any organized effort until they reach the majority; if one the simple basis of the Scout oath and law and sturdy leadership it can build up character, create a higher civic sense and help youth find its vocational place, it will continue to be an important factor in the laying of a solid foundation for future citizenship.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

NEW YORK—Stung by the taunt that modern American jazz is a steal from Russian melancholy, Viennese waltz-time, and Italian drama, Abner Gibb, that valiant defender of Tin Pan alley, rises to thunder a reverberating "So What?"

"Is it not true," continues the good Abner, "that it was Americans who developed the basic ideas of all three and modernized them into 'Moanin' Low' style?"

"Now, for instance, let's take the blues. That goes back to a hard (circuit) riding school of Methodism. W. C. Handy, whose pappy and grandpappy were shouting Methodist preachers, founded the whole blues school when he wrote 'St. Louis Blues' and then followed up with another written for a political rally in Memphis. You remember that song today as 'The Memphis Blues'.

"Then there is ragtime! Who is the pappy of modern ragtime? Why Irving Berlin, whose name was Isidore Baline at that time. Remember 'Alexander's Ragtime Band,' and all those waffly-taffy tunes that had people crazy?"

Now, in the first place, nobody asked the voluble Abner's opinion, but that's okay with that fellow. He gives it anyway. So, being cornered, I finally dragged out my pencil and took down a few notes.

Another early Irishman who became an American was Victor Herbert. His wife always referred to him as "Victor my husband Herbert." Victor popularized the romantic, light opera melodies.

The later schools crashed through with a stunning assortment of melodies, mostly of the blues and romantic type. Here were some pippins: "When It's Apple Blossom Time in Normandy," "Margarie," "How High Is Up?" "Beal Street Blues," "Wabash Blues," "When It's Moonlight on the Wabash," "Way Down Yonder in New Orleans," "Me and My Shadow," "When Day Is Done," "Tea for Two," "Yes, We Have No Bananas," "Goodbye Broadway, Hello France" and "Dirty Hands, Dirty Face."

Then there was the still later Broadway crowd, the real Tin Pan alley denizens, who flounced around the keyboards and came up with such honey-tunes as "I Still Get a Thrill Thinking of You," "Russian Lullaby," "Rose of the Rio Grande," "Sweet Pal," "I'm Crazy, Simply Crazy-z-z-y About You," "Angel Child," "Japanese Sandman," "Sweetheart" (and did this make you cry?) "I'm Forever Blowing Bubbles, Pretty Bubbles in the Air."

Keeping step with the modern tempo, we find the torch laments as crooned by those tearful chanteuses of the Libby Holman-Evelyn Hoey variety of the nightclub entertainer. "I Can't Give You Anything But Love, Baby" was a knockout, and "Oh Give Me Something to Remember You By" wasn't far behind.

No record of American tunes would be worth a hang unless it included those sentimental ditties of a macabre nature—especially the one about the little boy whose mamma has died, and when he asks where she is, his daddy sobs, "In The Baggage Coach Ahead." I also insist on including "He Carved Her Name Upon a Tree," and finally those two great tear-jerkers that inspired pity from coast to coast—"Just a Bird in a Gilded Cage" and "She Has Seen Better Days." I'm still weepy!

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

WASHINGTON—In the light of Al Smith's slashing fusillade against the administration, deep political significance attaches to two pamphlets now being widely circulated among Catholic laymen.

The booklets, each bearing the imprint of a nationally known Catholic institution, quote outstanding Catholic churchmen in praise of the president and enthusiastically acclaim the new deal.

One is published by The Ave Maria Press, Notre Dame, Ind., and carries the addresses of Cardinal Mundelein and President Roosevelt, well when he received an honorary degree last December at Notre Dame.

The second pamphlet is a reprint of an article by Mgr. John A. Ryan that appeared in the September, 1935, issue of Catholic Action. Mgr. Ryan is director of the social action department of the National Catholic Welfare conference which publishes the booklet.

In his article Mgr. Ryan praises the Wagner labor disputes act, the Guffey coal law, the social security measure, the holding company act, AAA amendments, the federal reserve reform law and the tax program. Most of these are now under fierce fire in the courts. But Father Ryan quoted Papal statements to support his endorsement of them. He concluded as follows:

"According to the teaching of Pope Pius XI, the principal means of promoting social justice (aside from a reform of morals) is action by the state. In the foregoing paragraphs, I have endeavored to summarize the achievements for social justice by our American state in the first session of the 74th congress. I submit that they are conspicuous and far-reaching."

13-100ths Of One Per Cent: Associates of Arthur Walsh, assistant federal housing administrator, recently conspired to play a practical joke on him in front of President Roosevelt.

It was during Roosevelt's New Jersey meeting with field workers of various federal agencies, Walsh sat directly below the president. And when housing matters were under discussion one of the conferees, who was in on the joke, jumped up and shouted:

"What has been the income under Title I of the housing act?" The presiding officer, who was also in on the prank, turned to the unsuspecting Walsh:

"How about it, Arthur?" Walsh blinked, but recovered instantly, jumping to his feet, he replied:

"13-100ths of one per cent." The president joined in the roar of laughter.

TVA Eviction: TVA has encountered a snag in the person of Mattie Randolph. Mattie is a Valley resident whose opposition to change threatened the completion of the entire $36,000,000 Norris dam.

Mattie had a home in the reservoir area, and she declared she wouldn't move out. TVA's family removal section had gently persuaded 2,000 other families to sell their property and move—but not Mattie.

She declared she would hold on in spite of hell and high water. And she did.

As the impounded waters crept up to the Randolph home, TVA officials placed a tent on higher land and urged the family to move. They refused.

The water-came-higher-TVA tied a boat to her doorstep. Still the Randolphs held on.

When the water advanced further, TVA officials were obliged to step in and evict by force. They removed all belongings to a new site and set up two tents there.

TVA points out this is the only case in 3,000 where they have been obliged to evict.

DAILY CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Crossword puzzle grid with clues for Across and Down. Includes 'Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle' and 'Mains Reclus' section.

Grid for the Daily Crossword Puzzle with numbers 1 through 50.

Mains Reclus: The Maine ruckus extends right into the inner council. When the work-relief organization was being set up, Louis J. Brann, democratic governor of the state, demanded the right to name the Maine state administrator.

Several weeks of fierce internal fighting ensued. Moran told the president that despite Brann's claim to popularity and his protestations in Washington of new deal loyalty, actually he was constantly denouncing administration policies in Maine and was a distinct liability to the president.

For a second time Roosevelt ruled against Farley. Abrahamson stayed and Brann went through with his threat, announcing he would not be a candidate for re-election. Jim is still wearing his famous smile, but he won't discuss the matter publicly.

Unique Honor: Who is the most sued man in Washington? Secretary Ickes' recent claim to this honor is generally disputed by Chairman Jim Laddis, of the securities-exchange commission, and by President John L. Lewis, of the United Mine Workers.

The brain trust and the militant labor leader do not deny Ickes has hung up a remarkable record, but they contend they are giving him a neck-and-neck race.

Landis bases his claim as "most sued" on the multitude of court actions brought by utility corporations against the holding company act. The exact number of these suits is unknown, but they run well over 100.

NEVER MIND THE LADY

by David Garth

Chapter 45
CHEERS!

He walked steadily, his head up. "Allaire! Look down, look down that only door—! His hand was on the door, he closed his eyes a moment, took a grip on himself and his strength, and then, eyes open, he walked in.

Rosa was standing near the bed, she looked up at that tall swaying young man on the threshold, and her teeth jumped out at him in a wide white smile. Willett's heart turned over a couple of times—Rosa wouldn't dare to smile if—

"Allaire!" he said tensely. The girl's eyes opened. She was pale and drawn and she didn't seem to see him at first. Then her hand fluttered toward him.

"Hello, Terry darling," she murmured. "How'd you make out?" "All right," Willett's lip trembled. "All right, honey. But you—"

He bent over her anxiously. Rosa was trying to draw his attention to a bundle in her arms, a furry blanket-wrapped bundle with something plump and alive and healthy-looking in it. Willett's face was a study in grim uncertainty. There was a low laugh from the girl.

Terry sat down. He felt very weak all of a sudden. "And you're all right?" He couldn't seem to grasp it.

"Of course, Rosa was wonderful. And whenever things seemed hard and I was frightened, I just reached out for your hand, darling, and—it was there—always."

She closed her eyes and smiled. "And you put through the job. Oh, Terry, your father must be so proud—"

"No prouder," said Willett a little unsteadily, "than I am of mine."

"Cheers!" murmured Allaire. "The Willett Construction Company." And she drew the ruffled curtain head down to her.

The coastwise steamer in the capital lay in her berth at Progreso with steam up and the gangway rapidly being cleared. It was that moment of departure when the blast of the whistle is imminent in the air, and the bustle and furor of the docks are merged into the whole swift-moving moment of farewell.

A slim girl in tropical white with polo coat and gay purple scarf about her throat stood near the foot of the gangway. She was talking with a fat, old Indian woman who held a carefully bundled baby in her arms. The plump cheeks of the old woman were wet with tears.

Terry Willett turned to Bucky Corrigan. "Allaire wants to sail from Rosina B in the capital. She doesn't care what she sails in from there, but that's the place where she wants to start home. Everything started there, she says. She's right."

Corrigan nodded. "Yeah, I think it's swell." "Wish you'd come along with us, Bucky."

"I'd better be here for the opening of the river next week, Terry. A lot of the National Coffee Company big shots are going to ride through the locks for the first time and I think I'll tag along. That was one fine job of yours, son."

"Your job, Bucky, as much as mine."

Tough-jawed Bucky Corrigan with the sinews of a hundred engineering jobs in his powerful sunburnt frame and the spirit of Mars in his nature, shook his head.

"Thanks, fella, but my kind of help grows on trees. It comes out of engineering schools and grows a little valuable with experience. But it isn't in the same class with the kind of help you get from—"

"I know," said Terry quietly. There was a blast of the whistle and a last shouted call of departure. "So long, Bucky," said Willett. "And you know what I think."

AWAIT HIGH COURT'S TVA VERDICT

No less interested than the business and financial world, this crowd took up a vigil in the corridor of the new supreme court building in Washington, D. C., expecting a decision on the constitutionality of the Tennessee Valley Authority. Once again, however, the verdict was delayed. (Associated Press Photo)

Tailoring Keynote Of 1936 Costumes Seen In Quebec

MONTREAL, Que.—That age-old little fall for "dressing up" finds full expression here in Quebec as the program of winter sports gets under way and the Province's glittering expanses of snow and ice are splashed with the bright-colored costumes of feminine enthusiasts.

Bringing a gay carnival note into an atmosphere already suggestive of a northern Mardi Gras, the costumes of feminine ski jumpers, skaters and bobbed devotees already are establishing the 1936 styles for winter sports.

Time was when the girls and matrons who took part in the winter activities, once considered the province of their fathers and brothers, bundled themselves into outfits designed primarily for utilitarian warmth.

Those days, however, are gone forever and now the mothers, wives and daughters who form at least fifty per cent of the active winter sports contingent give as close attention to ski and skating wardrobes as to party ensembles.

Careful tailoring of trousers and jackets to follow, rather than obscure, the lines of the figure is the outstanding detail of the 1936 costume. The trousers are of two types, either the plus fours patterned after dad's golf suit or the ankle-length variety, the latter be-

Steel Mills Will Expend 200 Million

New Equipment, Improvements Planned During This Year

DEL MONTE, Cal., Feb. 8. (UP)—The American steel industry will spend approximately $200,000,000 in 1936 for modernizing equipment and for new finishing capacity.

Walter S. Tower, executive secretary of the American Iron & Steel Institute, said today.

He made the announcement in an address before the California state chamber of commerce along with a plea for a better understanding of the aims of the industry as a whole.

That total he said was an increase of $60,000,000 over the 1935 expenditures and added it would add little or nothing to the capacity of the industry to produce raw steel.

"Practically every dollar is being spent to improve methods of manufacture and to make a better product for the customer," he said.

Noting employment in the steel industry has reached a total approximating the years of peak activity of 1928 and 1929, Tower pointed out "in order for there to be any real recovery in the steel industry there must be first a better volume of business and second a reasonable degree of price stability at a fair level of prices."

15-Ounce Baby Clings To Life

OAKLAND, Cal., Feb. 8. (UP)—Fifteen-ounce Nancy Ann Voght, clung tenaciously to life today in an incubator at Peralta hospital, Oakland, where she was born Sunday.

The daughter of Mrs. Anne Voght, 38, has a good chance of surviving if she can get through the next few days, doctors said.

There was no change in her weight, announced at 15 ounces, an ounce less than when she was born. The "shrinkage" was normal, George Wood, hospital superintendent said.

Nurses, using an eye dropper, feed her 30 drops of milk an hour.

Kenedy County Wet—But Dry

AUSTIN, Feb. 8. (UP)—Kenedy county, in South Texas, is legally "wet" but hasn't a single liquor-selling place in its 1,335 square miles.

Its county clerk, A. J. Turcotte, reported the county "wet" today in a report to the state liquor control board, which is listing status of counties to guide it in issuing permits.

Texas repeal law restored counties to their former status under local option laws of 1919. Kenedy county then was wet. It hasn't had a saloon or package house—or even a drugstore licensed to sell medicinal whiskey—since repeal became effective last August.

ABILENE, Feb. 8.—Five locations were staked this week in the Hawley area of Jones county by Thos. D. Humphrey of Dallas and Longview following initial completion of the Humphrey No. 3 Dorsey which opened the first producing horizon for the Hawley field.

The No. 3 Henry Dorsey estate flowed 100 barrels per hour through seven-inch OD casing and 1,000 feet of three-inch flowline into storage battery. It is in two feet of sand from 2,206 feet to 2,208 feet. Oil is light green and tests 43.8 gravity. It is in section 18, Manuel Bueno survey 196.

One semi-wildcat location was made southeast of the Dorsey well for the Humphrey No. 1 Mrs. Ellis C. Duke which will drill to 2,200 feet. It is 200 feet from the north and west lines of the Duke 170-acre tract in the south end of section 195, Gabriel Martinez survey.

Wildcat Location
One wildcat location was staked five miles west of Hawley for the Humphrey No. 1 A. A. McDuff, contracted for the same depth. It is 200 feet from the south and 710 feet from the east lines of section 1, T&P survey.

The Humphrey No. 4 Dorsey was located 400 feet north of the new completion on the line between section 18 and 19, and 200 feet from the west line of M. Bueno survey No. 196.

Locations for the No. 5 and 6 were staked south of the No. 3 well which completed as a 646-barrel southeast extension to the field. They are in section 17, same survey, and spaced 400 feet apart.

A railroad commission potential gauge for 24-hours will be taken of the No. 3 by the first of the week when operators have set up new storage and run two-inch tubing.

Humphrey No. 2 Dorsey, also in section 18, was underdraining casing to 2,000 feet before drilling in to the three lower pay sands of the field. It is midway between the Nos. 1 and 3.

Why you need never "break in" another pair of shoes

They "give" when your foot moves—just like your own skin—but they spring back and hold, with live support under the arch. This new flexible construction is just what Nature ordered for youthful feet. It is an entirely different way of building a shoe.

See how you can twist a brand-new shoe — jump on it — bend it double. Get the feel of old house slippers when you first try them on. Enjoy that feeling of live support when you walk. And you'll say our statements are too conservative by far!
