Hoover Presents New Plans to Save Hungry in Europe

Asks British and Germans to Try Soup Kitchens in Belgium as Military Test

Chicago-(Special) New plans to save the inhabitants of the occupied democracles in Europe from staryawere presented by former President Hoover at a mass meeting, held in the Opera Mouse Auditorium here last Sunday night. In expressing his appreciation to the two thousand public bodies who have supported this movement to aid these unfortunates, and the sixty thousand who have written letters of approval, Mr. Hoover explained the purpose of the Committee was to expose to the world the facts of the food situation and to raise a voice in behalf of those tens of millions of innocent men, women, and children, now suffering from want of nourishment.

Speaking as Honorary Chairman of the Committee on Food for the Small Democracies, he made public the proposals, submitted to the British and German governments a few weeks ago, to establish Soup Kitchens in Belgium as an initial experiment to test out whether these people can be saved without military advantage to either side.

There is nothing new in this war "March of Hunger," Mr. Hoover told his audience. The consequences of great wars are always famine and pestilence. The World War of 25 years ago brought hunger to three hundred million people. In the present conflict it is coming faster and with more violence. Today nearly three hundred million people are on rations more drastic, except in Germany and Great Britain, than at the end of the third year in the last war. In this creeping famine the most immediate danger and greatest suffering is among the seventy million people in the democracies which have been over run by the German armies.

Senator, Penrose B. Metcalfe Two weeks ago the Committee's of San Angelo, is a member of American experts in Belgium reported that within a month the city ways and Motor Traffic which and town population consisting of is to hold a hearing at an early over eight million people would be without food unless supplies were medy some of he present traffic brought in somewhere, somehow. evils of Texas. NEW PROPOSALS

In presenting the new proposals, Mr. Hoover said, "You are aware that this Committee has made proposals to the belligerent governments that completely organized food control should be set up for the peoples on the lines of the last war. Tho proposals would have given time to organize prevention. They are the ultimate necessity. But a distracted world is slow to believe, and we were reluctantly compelled to conclude that it must be confronted with ghantly reality before action could be hoped for. That ghastly reality has arrived in Belgium. Furthermore, while I do not agree to the grounds for the rejection of our previous proposals, yet if these people are to be saved, we must seek to meet those objections by proving our case in action.

"Therefore a few weeks ago, we laid before the British and German Governments the following suggestions:

"First: That we make an initial experiment in Belgium to test out whether these people can be saved without military advantage to either side.

"Second: That this test comprise feeding only through soup kitchens, where the people come to get their food and thus there can be no question of feeding Germans."

"Third: That at the beginning we provide for one million adults and two million children; the adults to receive half a pound of bread and an allowance of soup, the children to receive special food in addition, including preserved milk. This would require about 50,000 tons a month, of which about one-half would be breadstuffs and one-half meats, fats, and food for children. "Fourth: That the German Governments agree there is to be no equisition of native food.

"Fifth: Both Governments to give Relief ships immunity from attack. "Sixth: The whole to be under the upervision and checks of some neutral body.

"It is my belief that the Germans should cooperate to secure some breadstuffs from continental sources. But for meats, fats, and food for children there are no sources of supply on the Continent. That must come from overseas,-and that requires cooperation from the British to pass the blockade.

"If we can make this, experiment work in Belgium then such a plan can be extended to the other democracies. It is primarily devoted to saving the unemployed destitute and the children.

"These Governments have this plan under consideration.

Mr. Hoover was of the opinion that the relief of these countries would not prejudice the British and would be of no gain to the Germans.

The countries benefited are not seeking charity, and would defray all expenses. The amount exported from America would simply use our surplus food.

"To those who say it cannot be done," said Mr. Hoover, "the reply is simple—at least let us try it and if we fail that ends our effort.

Ceniza is Not Purple Sage

sage family although sometimes son enough for the adoption of it has been erroniously called purple sage. It's botanical name is leucophyllum texanum or leucophyllum frutescens. It has no sage like odor, and it's lavender blossoms more closely resemble snapdragons and pentstemon blooms than sage. Early Spanish settlers gave it the name ceniza or ashes because the gray-green color of the leaves suggest that ashes had been dusted over them. How the ceniza came to be confused with purple sage is a mystery as the plant is not Girl to Mr. and Mrs. Harvey a sage or the flowers purple.

Ceniza is Not Purple Sage

Ceniza, a South Texas native plant, is not a member of the sage family although sometimes it has been erroniously called purple sage. It's botanical name is leucophyllum texanum or leucophyllum frutescens. It has no sage like odor, and it's lavender blossoms more closely resemble snapdragons and pentstemon Growing of alfalfa has paid blooms than sage. Early Spanish settlers gave it the name ceniza the time spent on it for the past or ashes because the gray-green ashes had been dusted over TEXAS AGRICULTURE netted farmers $25,000,000 more 2. Can this famine be prevented in 1940 than in 1939, states a bulletin from the A&M College of Texas. That statement may or may not be correct-depends on what "netted" means. If the sum mentioned was pai dto farmers for their produce by the buyers of farm products, then the statement is correct. But if the sum received from buyers was below the sum received from buyers the previous year an dthe total of twenty-five million was augmented by Federal handouts to make up the sum, then the statement is not only misleading, but is a barefaced misstatement of fact overnment handouts are not earnings: a larg epart of which is not even charity, but pork barrel graft in reverse, for government handing out millions of RELIEF dollars to those financially able to throw away a thousand dollars a month and not miss it is nothing but re- as a humanitarian nation and sal- and imported supplies, and the reverse graft. Why Must They Starve?

A National Committee Has Been Formed for Food Relief in Stricken Nations

A National Committee of 400 leading Americans with former President Herbert Hoover as Honorary Chairman, has been formed to find a way to feed millions of starving people in the invaded countries. Already 1020 auxiliary committees in various cities throughout the country have organized to support the movement. Of the 37,00,000 people in Finland, Belgium, Holland, Norway and Central Poland, great numbers are facing death from starvation and disease. America could put an end to this.

The Committee states that no money, supplies or ships, are requested, and that its purpose is to bring the facts before the public and invite an expression of opinion concerning the plan.

I. Will there be actual starvation in Europe this winter?

Yes. Under normal conditions Belgium imports 49 per cent of its food, Holland 33 per cent, and Norway 57 per cent. These imports are now cut off by British and German blockades. Central Poland is from 80 to 40 per cent deficient because of the tri-partition of Poland, Finland, not occupied but partially blockaded, normally imports 22 per cent of her foods; she has also lost one-fenth of her best soil. In all countries unusually severe weather destroyed much of the grain crops; military mobilization prevented planting and harvesting, invasion destroyed storage and equipment and disrupted transportation. Unless food is imported many thousands will starve, and many more will die from disease, before the next har- break of the war in September, 1939 vest. Your Friends are Welcome

It's no secret that most of the new people who come to our bank do so through the recommendation of an old customer.

For it's simply human nature to pass the word along when you're well treated and like the folks with whom you do business.

Certainly—send your friends in to the Santa Anna National. We will treat them right and assure you that we will be grateful.
