Uncle Sam Is Calling For Help

Behind the quiet front of Main Street, U. S. A., behind the shop doors of jewelers, locksmiths, clockmakers, electricians, camera repairmen, mechanics, and opticians, lies a striking power that may go to win this war. The skills of hundreds of men who work with tools and machine tools during the coming months by the Army Signal Corps, Ordnance Department, they work with tools, they keep the Flying Fort-Over Germany and Jase-Sergeant William J. Hess, Recruiter whose office is in the Memorial Hall in Brownwood, stated today.

"Here in Brownwood, I know many men working with tools who have often asked me what they personally can do to win the war. They want to know the most they can do, and in most cases this means they want to put their civilian skills and training to work for the Army. I'd like to tell these men that their skills, no matter how removed they may seem from planes and guns and tanks can do an enormous job in the Army. Just for example oil-burner servicemen and gas-meter repairmen are wanted by the Air Forces. The Signal Corps needs metermen and switchmen, the Ordnance Department wants camera repairmen and opticians. Many other skills which may not seem to be of use to the Army are vital needs or be added to fill them.

"On-the-job" training was stressed particularly by Sergeant Hess. Just because the burner serviceman or the meter repairman has never seen an airplane motor doesn't mean he can't be turned into a first-rate airplane mechanic in a short time. He'll be taught on the job, right on the hangar line. His knowledge of tools and motors will be adapted by skilled teachers to tools and motors he'll work with in the Air Forces.

"Of course, if he's an electrician, radio mechanic, cable puller, telegraph or radio operator, lineman or engineer, we'll put him right into the Signal Corps. It's completely trained men like that we need most. In the Air Forces and Ordnance Department, too, we need men who already know a job. Specialists are needed to win quick promotions. It's possible to earn as high as $18 a month in addition to allowances such as $28 or more for rations, $23 or more with dependents and a national 50% of base pay for Force men on flying

"Don't forget," Sgt. Hess emphasized, "the Army is allowing men who work with hand machine tools to enlist directly for their branch of service. That means they can go into the Air Forces, the Signal Corps or the Ordnance Department. It's a great opportunity for men to keep doing the work they have always done and to fight for their country with the tools they are working with."

Lunch Programs Are Under Way

Coleman County is helping to wipe out the evil of malnutrition through its community School Lunch Programs which are now getting under way, P. M. Miller said today.

Sponsors of the programs have expressed a determination this year to surpass their record of last year when some 1521 school children were reached through School Lunch Programs operating in 26 schools in the county.

"Agricultural Marketing Administration assures sponsors steady supplies of evaporated milk, one or more dried fruits, wheat cereal, wheat flour and dry edible beans for school lunches this year," Miller said.

"Sponsors may be reasonably certain of steady supplies of one or more additional dairy products, cereal products, potatoes, and eggs, as well as a number of processed or fresh fruits and vegetables. Other commodities also will be available from time to time.

Records show over 9 million American children are suffering from undernourishment. This number will rise as the war goes on unless something is done. The Agricultural Marketing Administration is ready to furnish the basic foods for lunches for every one of these malnourished children. It is up to local sponsors to see that the lunches are prepared and served, Miller explained.

Fire Prevention Is Emphasized By State Chairman

Tuesday morning at 10:30 in the high school auditorium, a discussion on Civilian Defense was given by Curley Hays of Abilene, who is State Chairman of Safety League of Texas.

L. W. Hunter, father of the three Hunter brothers, has owned the scales for 40 years, and treasured them for their historic and sentimental value, but submitted to letting them go as scrap to help fight the Japs.

Speed Your Letters by V-Mail In Corresponding with Men Overseas

Print the complete address in plain black letters in the space below, and your return address in the space provided. Use typewriter, dark ink, or pencil. Write plainly. Very small writing is not suitable.

No. _____	Bureau of Public Relations, (Sender's name)
RANK, FULL NAME, SERIAL NUMBER, _____	War Department, (Sender's address)
CO. & REGIMENT OR SIMILAR DESIGNATION, _____	Washington, D. C.
ARMY POST OFFICE NUMBER, _____
c/o POSTMASTER, _____	(Date)

Dear Sirs, September 21, 1942.

This message is being brought to you on one of the new V-mail letter-writing forms. This is the new postal facility of the War Department's Army Postal Service, which provides for the micro-filming of letters to and from the Armed Forces stationed outside the continental limits of the United States. These micro-filmed letters are carried on small rolls of film and upon arrival overseas are reproduced on letter sheets and delivered to the addressee in a small V-mail envelope.

V-mail service is the fastest service and most patriotic means of mail communication available. It is faster than regular or air mail as it receives a priority in handling and dispatch by the War Department, and moves by air in ferry command as well as regular mail planes. It is safer and more certain of delivery because the original is held at the point of embarkation until the photographic copy is received at the point of destination overseas. It is most patriotic because V-mail users contribute directly to the conserving of valuable cargo space. Thirty-seven full size, bulky mail sacks containing 150,000 ordinary letters are reduced to a single V-mail sack when V-mail is utilized. Multiplied by the large volume of mail which is moving overseas to the Armed Forces, this gives some indication of the tremendous saving in shipping space which is thereby made available for vitally needed replacements, weapons and munitions of war.

There is no extra postage charge for V-mail going overseas, a three cent stamp being all that is necessary, and if the sender desires transportation by air from the point of origin to the point of embarkation this may be had for the regular air mail rate of six cents. V-mail letter-writing forms are available without cost at any post office or on any R.F.D. mail route in the United States. They also may be purchased at any stationery or other stores dealing in paper supplies.

It is believed that the public has only to be acquainted with this service to recognize its advantage over regular and air mail.

Sincerely,

Bureau of Public Relations, War Department.

V-MAIL SPEEDS MESSAGES OVERSEAS—The War Department is urgently recommending the use of V-mail to all overseas areas. In addition to providing a 98 per cent saving in cargo space, V-mail is the fastest overseas mail communication available. The War Department is exerting every effort to promote a greater use of V-mail as a means of releasing cargo space for vitally needed weapons and munitions of war, and it is felt that the public has only to become acquainted with the many advantages of V-mail to use it on a widespread scale.

Poultry News

By W. B. GRIFFIN

The first real frosty days of fall usually show up chickens in a flock that are out of condition, according to Mr. Griffin of the Griffin Hatchery. Many of the birds out of condition are thin and lacking in vitality. If chickens are allowed to continue in this condition, there may be a big loss due to sickness and death. To correct trouble such as this, it is necessary to get the flock back into condition. Here is what Mr. Griffin advises doing. Clean out old litter and droppings in the house and give special attention to the corners and sills. Houses having wooden floors and concrete floors are scrubbed with hot water into which a little disinfectant has been mixed. Spray the floors and walls thoroughly with a reliable disinfectant that has penetrating power. Dirt floors should be scraped to a depth of several inches and a new surface of fresh dirt added. Use two five-foot feeders for every 100 chickens, provided they can eat from both sides. Provide 5 gallons of fresh water per day for 100 hens with adequate drinking space. If any birds show a tendency to be droopy or drowsy, remove them and at once give a germ-killing antiseptic in the drinking water to keep germ growth down and to keep the water pure. This is also a good precaution to observe in cases of colds. Colds may spread through the drinking water by infected birds. Vaccination is a good protective measure against colds, it is pointed out by Mr. Griffin. He recommends the use of Mixed Bacterin (Avian). It is a government-licensed product and may be used with confidence. Emergency fowl pox vaccination can be used in flocks which have not been vaccinated against this disease.

W. W. McDonald Rites In Dallas On Monday

Dr. E. D. McDonald and family have the sympathy of friends in their grief following the passing of the doctor's father, (early last Saturday morning in a Dallas Hospital. Dr. McDonald and family were accompanied to Dallas by their good friends, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Burris.

The following data was published in the Sunday Dallas News:

W. W. McDonald, 70, of 3413 Cornell, died early Saturday at a local hospital from a heart ailment. He had been ill nearly two years.

Born near Titusville, Pa., McDonald grew up under the shadow of oil derricks. In 1886 he went to Ohio and began working being production superintendent for that company in the Casey & Robinson (Illinois) divisions from 1912 to 1918. In that year he came to Texas as general manager for Mid-Kansas Oil & Gas Company, an Ohio Oil Company subsidiary, with headquarters in Mineral Wells. At the time of his death McDonald was senior member of the partnership of McDonald & Campbell, the firm having maintained offices in First National Bank Building for the last twenty-two years.

While with the Ohio Oil Company in Illinois, McDonald pioneered in the manufacture of casinghead gasoline and installed one of the first plants on a lease for the extraction of gasoline from oil well gas production. He developed a process for cementing bottomhole water in oil wells, which was outlined in one of the early bulletins of the United States Bureau of Mines and became known as the McDonald Method.

McDonald was married in 1899 to Miss Myrtle G. Bell at Gibsonburg, Ohio. He was a member of the Methodist Church and of the Masonic and Elk lodges.

Besides his wife, he is survived by three sons, Dr. E. D. McDonald of Santa Anna, F. Lee McDonald of Kilgore and Kenneth G. McDonald of Dallas; two daughters, Mrs. Ruth Donnelly Warfield of Los Angeles and Mrs. John M. Bergen of Dallas, and seven grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at the Brewer Funeral Chapel, 2603 Ross, at 10:30 a.m. Monday with burial in Restland Memorial Park. J. Arch Ross, R. E. Campbell, Nathan R. Royall Jr., W. S. Campbell, S. J. Bergen, Hershel C. Martin, Thomas E. Campbell and G. E. Buford were pallbearers.

The editor and associates are having a time, and we don't mean fun, getting started off on our work. We are gradually making some progress, ironing out the wrinkles and trying to smooth out the rough places so as to have smoother sailing in our work. We are not looking for a paved Broadway path to big business, for we never were permitted to enjoy such things. However, by hard work and plenty of it, we expect to at least procure enough business to justify continuing our efforts, regardless of the rough and crooked roads we have to meander to find it. In the language of the preacher who found himself face to face with a vicious bear, "If you can't help us, for goodness sake don't help the bear," and we will be found forever trying whether we go over the top or not.

The Lampasas Daily and Weekly, published by Editor Abney, closed shop and suspended publication for the duration on October 1st. Mr. Abney lost his printer to the war and another was not to be had, therefore he had no other alternative. Both publications have been in service for more than fifty years.

CO-OPERATE BY REPORTING NEWS

We wish we could find some way of impressing the public of the importance of reporting news items to the paper. The News is published for the information and benefit of all the people and we want everyone to feel an interest in its news columns. We admit ownership of the plant and assume all responsibility of the publication, but wish we could encourage our readers to adopt the saying "our newspaper," THEN help us to make the paper bigger, better and more interesting by reporting to us all the local news you can. Thanks to those who have already adopted the habit, and we hope others will join in.

Gas Rationing May Be Delayed

Gas Rationing on a nationwide scale may be delayed, if the findings of recent studies are given weight by the constituted authorities. In any event, the Petroleum Industry War Council, composed of competent representatives of the entire oil industry, has asked for such delay. On Wednesday the Council adopted a resolution and submitted it to Petroleum Coordinator Harold L. Ickes in which it set forth that current studies of gasoline consumption have convinced most of the oil industry that the 35-mile an hour speed limit and already widespread voluntary rationing outside the East Coast area will serve the purpose of rubber conservation without coupon rationing. The resolution recommends a 90-day delay to determine whether these findings are valid. It remains to be seen, however, whether this common-sense proposal will be heeded. The pressure for nation-wide rationing of gasoline from certain quarters is so great that it may be put into effect, regardless of any showing that it is not essential to a sound rubber conservation program. THE MARINES HAVE LANDED

Yes, the Marines have landed. Their last big landing was in the Solomon Islands, and there the situation is well in hand, as it has always been when the Marines land.

The United States Marine Corps has also landed "Deep In the Heart of Texas." This is an entirely different landing; however it is also an important one. Men are needed now to help keep the United States on the offensive.

Any man between the ages of 17 and 36 years inclusive, who can meet the standards of enlistment can enlist now and be with these same United States Marines when they make their next big landing. If you have been ordered to report for induction by your local draft board, you are still eligible to "Volunteer for Victory With the Finest Men in the World."

Suppose the POWER to Make this Bomber Was Still on Blueprint!

Another world war is being fought... a war between a group of countries (the United Nations) which believe in certain liberties for the individual and the institutions he has created, and a group of countries (the Axis) which do not believe in such liberties.

Meanwhile, a war is being waged within our own borders... an economic and political revolution, with those who believe in perpetuating free enterprise and opportunity on one side and those who favor political control and operation of productive resources on the other.

Bureaus exist within our government today that are completely dissociated from the war effort, methodically doing things to discourage free enterprise... constantly forcing the individual out of business through government subsidized projects.

This means only one thing in the end, if allowed to expand unchecked: the inauguration of government in business, or the socialized state—in plain English, the Nazified German system—at a time when the nation is fighting a second world war to prevent that very system from engulfing our American ways which have been contrary to that doctrine.

From the first blueprint to the finished bomber, electric power is speeding the production lines that are vital to the fight to preserve the American way of living. Uncle Sam has a tremendous power advantage, you know, because he commands the greatest supply in the world.

That advantage didn't just happen. Over 90 percent of this country's electric power was built up by free enterprise... business management under public regulation.

The electric industry was ready, with the power on hand, when war began. There was no delay waiting to get power out of the blueprint stage after Pearl Harbor.

This industry grew out of the American system of free enterprise... employed more and more people, served more and more people—at lower and lower price. Today the average West Texas home enjoys about twice or three times as much electric service as it did 10 or 15 years ago—for the same money.

It's been accomplished under the American system of free enterprise wherein any man or woman is free to create a business that fills a particular need in this or any other community, just so long as they give the best possible service at the lowest possible cost to the most people and contribute their share of taxes for the support of democratic government!

Where Are Those Junk Cars?

If you own an old automobile that for any reason has ceased to be transportation, our soldiers in Australia, in England, and on the deserts of North Africa want it. No! They don't want old jalopies for joy riding, but they need tanks and guns, and these can't be made without scrap metal.

The War Production Board wants a record of every old car in Texas that is no longer serving a useful purpose. If you have one yourself or know where one is located, fill in the following form, mail it to this newspaper, and a WPB inspector soon will contact the owner and get the car headed for a junk yard.
