

W. R. Hildreth Charged With Murder

Hauptmann Alibi Shattered By Two Secret Witnesses Japan Planning For War, Charged

Local Man In Unsuccessful Suicide Act

Found In F. L. Austin Garage, 205 E. 6th St., Late Monday

LOSES MUCH BLOOD; WILL RECOVER

Accused Makes No Statement, Except To Inquire Of His Slain Wife

W. R. Hildreth, hunted by local officers for several hours after his wife, Mrs. Docia Hildreth, 40, was found dying at the family residence, 606 Nolan street, Monday afternoon about 2 o'clock, was located at 6 o'clock Monday evening in the garage of F. L. Austin, 205 East Sixth street, less than two blocks from the Hildreth home.

A charge of murder was filed in justice court early Tuesday morning, in connection with the slaying of his wife.

The grand jury was in session late Tuesday afternoon, and were scheduled to investigate the tragedy.

Discovered In Garage Hildreth was discovered by Mr. Austin, Humble Oil company employe, who was returning home from work to put his car in the garage. Austin said he found Hildreth standing behind the garage doors he had closed, and was bleeding profusely from the throat and wrist.

Hildreth used a pocket knife to slash his throat, and wrist in an unsuccessful effort to end his own life, officers said.

He was taken to the grocery store operated by D. C. Maupin, 207 East Sixth street and was recognized by Mr. Maupin, who called the sheriff's office and notified that department of his presence.

Sheriff Slaughter, who arrived shortly afterwards, took Hildreth to Big Spring hospital, where he was given medical treatment. Physicians said he would recover, although he is considerably weakened by the loss of blood.

Hildreth was unsuccessful in severing any of the arteries in his throat and wrist, although he cut closely to them. He remained in the hospital under guard throughout Tuesday.

Hildreth, according to the sheriff, did not make a statement, other than to ask how his wife was.

Murder Charge Filed A charge of murder was filed in justice court early Tuesday morning, charging Hildreth in the slaying of his wife, who suffered twenty stab wounds in the chest and abdominal regions by the use of an ice pick. The grand jury, now in session, was investigating the case late Tuesday afternoon.

Says He Was In Fight According to Austin, Hildreth was sitting in the front part of the garage as he opened the doors. Seeing that he was injured, Austin

Paper Carries Story Mystery Woman In Case

Breaks Down Statement Alien Is Not 'Jafsie' Who Took Ransom Money

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Washington Star said Tuesday two secret witnesses shattered the alibi offered by Bruno Richard Hauptmann to prove he is not "John" of the Lindbergh kidnaping.

The Star said one witness was understood to be the "mystery woman" with whom District Attorney Samuel Foley held a number of private conferences. The other was her husband.

The paper added: "Questioned as to his whereabouts on the night of the ransom payment, Hauptmann, after hesitation, said he spent all day and night in the home of a certain couple in New York City. He previously declared he worked in New York City as a carpenter on the day of the actual kidnaping, March 1st, 1932, and that he spent the evening in his home in the Bronx."

SEEK UNIDENTIFIED HAUPTMANN ASSOCIATE

NEW YORK (AP)—Investigators were searching for an unidentified associate who apparently knew Hauptmann allegedly passed ransom money last February.

District Attorney Foley went to Trenton for a conference with Governor Moore and Attorney General Wilentz of New Jersey. Authorities are seeking William B. Dennis, civil engineer, who said he saw Hauptmann within a few miles of the Lindbergh home the night of the kidnaping.

Former British Parliamentarian Makes Statement

SOUTHPORT, England (AP)—Charges that Japan is making a "deliberate preparation for war, which the Japanese consider essential" were placed before the British labor party Tuesday by Jack Mills, former member of parliament.

Mills demanded that labor "hammer" from the British government a "declaration that there shall not, in event of war, be any assistance, financial or physical, from Great Britain to help a state which has outlawed itself in the eyes of the civilized world."

Mills declared: "Every trade represented here is slowly being battered out of existence by slave conditions in the Japanese industrial world."

AVIATION BODY HEARS GEN. WILLIAM MITCHELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Brigadier General William Mitchell, retired, told the president's aviation commission today: "Our most dangerous enemy is Japan and our planes should be designed to attack Japan."

Mitchell said fifty dirigibles could destroy Japan within two days if war broke out with the United States.

He said the United States should develop planes with cruising range of from 6000 to 8000 miles.

Road Meeting Gets Results

Tangible results came out of a meeting in Andrews Wednesday of the Andrews and Martin county commissioners court toward opening a road from Andrews to Stanton.

Assurance that a road would be opened came with a proviso, however. Action of the Andrews court led to the belief that its attitude would be determined partially by the decision of the state highway commission on the petition for designation of a highway from the Gulf to Hobbs, New Mexico.

Martin county commissioners court urged the importance of such a road upon the Andrews commission. The Martin court indicated it would procure a 100 foot strip of right of way from Stanton to the Andrews county line. Andrews county commissioners mapped out a tentative route for that county in event roadway is secured.

Authorities believe if the Gulf-New Mexico road is given designation, it will have the effect of clinching the Stanton-Andrews-Jobbs road.

The highway commission will act on the petition for designation of the Gulf-New Mexico highway on October 8.

SUSPECT'S GARAGE IS DEMOLISHED

This is all that was left of Bruno Hauptmann's garage in the Bronx, New York, after Lindbergh ransom investigators had dismantled it in their search for further clues in the case. Workmen are shown digging around its foundation. The daughter of Hauptmann's landlady said the suspect had built the garage himself, and had installed an elaborate alarm system connected with his bedroom. (Associated Press Photo)

GREAT BRITAIN

European diplomats have been on hot bricks since Senator Nye began setting off his "bombshells" in the Senate arms investigating committee. The ruthless revelation of the shady secrets of the Electric Boat Co. and Driggs' has already connected the British War office with messy Vickers transactions. If Nye continues the lid will come off the secret organization and absolutely unscrupulous methods of the European arms industry—serious international complications will result. Under pressure from the various governments, the continental press has killed the story; that's how vital it is.

Vickers in England, Krupp and I. G. Farben in Germany, Schneider-Creuset and Comite des Forges in France, Skoda in Czechoslovakia, with a host of smaller dependent companies—these are the principal players. Each is supported by its respective government which draws huge amounts in direct tribute and personal graft. All work together on a friendly basis in complete disregard of treaties and international morals. Vickers delivers anti-aircraft guns and range finders in Germany—so does Schneider-Creuset, Skoda, with large French interests, delivers heavy guns to Italy to arm the Alpine frontier against France. All sell as much as possible to Japan—Tokyo pays well. All do agent's work for one another on exclusive lethal patents.

Deals are closed in a round-about way, so that no government can be involved and proved guilty of working against sacred "interests of peace". But the American navy and Embassies have not been the only intervening agencies for the sale of arms. All war offices, not the British alone, like to make a profit on "surplus supplies", even if they are sold to revolutionaries.

The Vienna Reds were armed almost exclusively with French machine guns, and rifles in the February revolt.

The European concerns are gleefully awaiting a radical law in Washington that will cut out the American concerns from international competition. According to insiders, DuPont particularly hard to beat to a contract. Nye is on

Death Takes W. B. Sneed Here Monday

Former County Commissioner Succumbs To Long Illness; Rites Wednesday

William Bascom Sneed, well known and highly respected farmer and former county commissioner, succumbed to a long illness at 11:55 p. m. Monday at a local hospital.

Twenty-eight of his 67 years had been spent as a citizen of Howard county and a resident of the Center Point Methodist church.

Mr. Sneed was elected county commissioner from precinct No. 4 and took office January 1, 1927. He held this office for three terms, his tenure expiring in 1933. He was runner-up for the Democratic nomination for the office this year.

He was on the commissioner's court during the boom period and had a part in the construction of the two viaducts over the railroad tracks. Always a firm believer in doing what was done right, he consistently voted to have all bridges in the county made of permanent materials. He was on the court when the body was engaged in paying off debts instead of creating new ones.

"Mr. Sneed was thoroughly honorable and upright," said Judge H. R. Debenport of him Tuesday. "A more upright and honest man never served his county."

First interest of Mr. Sneed was not his public life. Becoming a member of the Methodist church when a child, he was devoted to its work as few men have been. He held many offices in church, among them being Sunday school superintendent. On numerous occasions he filled the role of lay preacher.

At the present time his membership is in the Center Point Methodist church.

Born in Arkansas on January 2, 1867, Mr. Sneed was married to Miss Beasie Chance on Christmas Day 28 years ago. His widow survives him.

Surviving that union are three daughters, Mrs. Dave Christian, Mrs. D. W. Christian, Jr., Mrs. W. P. Harrison of Hollywood, Cal., and two sons, Fletcher and Howard Sneed.

Three grandsons survive. They are Sneed Christian and Weldon and Lee Christian.

Only relatives of Mr. Sneed on his side of the family are two nephews, DuPont particularly hard to beat to a contract. Nye is on

Linck And Herald Battle Way To Finals

Grocery Team Wins Fracas

Herald Type Lice Eliminate Kiwanis Twelve To Two

The Linck Grocerymen and the Herald Type Lice smashed their way into the finals of League No. 3 playoff when both teams handed crushing defeats to their opponents in Monday night's games.

The Grocerymen broke forth in the first game with a 3 run rally in the eighth inning to overcome an Anderson lead and coast to an easy 12-9 win. The Linckmen collected 13 assorted blows off Buster Johnson and although the lead changed several times during the first few innings, the result was never in doubt once the Grocerymen began their attack in the eighth.

Collins Higgins, big miltman for the Frune Peddlers, took history honors in the first game, hitting in all but two of his five trips to the plate.

Harvey Kraus limited the Bards to eight hits, scattering them well except in the first inning when four men crossed the plate.

The Herald Type Lice had an easy time in their semi-final tilt with the Kiwanis Clubmen, taking a one run lead in the first stanza to hold it during the remainder of the game.

Although the Newsies garnered only 8 hits, they capitalized on the kindness of three Kiwanis hurlers to score 12 runs.

The Clubmen escaped a shutout when Jake Morgan accounted for the Kiwanians two runs when he smashed a home run in the eighth inning with his brother aboard.

Clarence Day handed the Type Lice two runs in the sixth when he granted four straight passes to the Newsies. Fred Savage, walking four times in his five appearances at the plate, had a perfect night when he singled in his last trip.

The Herald's biggest inning came in the seventh when Galbraith, Hall and Felix combined their hits with two walks and two Clubmen errors to score 6 runs.

Ray McMahan allowed the Kiwanians 10 hits but scattered them well over the route.

Cards Due In Tigers' Camp

Big Battle Call To Be Sounded Wednesday Afternoon

Detroit—The annual hysteria known to the sports world as the world series rocked Detroit again for the first time in 25 years Monday as Mickey Cochrane's Tigers and the city as well whirled about to face the old familiar St. Louis Cardinals, headed by the new baseball hero, the brothers Dean.

The Cards, with rubber-armed Dizzy roaring in the van, and his 'I'll brother Paul silently nodding assent, aren't due into the motor vehicle capital until Tuesday from St. Louis, where their last ditch comeback against the Reds finally decided the National league championship when the Giants broke up in the face of the indignant Dodgers.

But Monday night, though the battle call doesn't sound for the first time until Wednesday afternoon, the faithful were staggering around from the excitement of the first world series here since 1909, the first between two western clubs since the White Sox scandal of 1919, the arguments over the possible starting-pitchers and the battle for seats at Navin field that holds 47,000 but not nearly enough.

While the Tigers went through a two-hour drill inside, thousands of customers milled and massed in the streets outside the field exchanging their gold-plated orders for tickets they hoped would bring them a view of the ex-world champion Giants, but which they value just as highly even though the last-minute upheaval brings in the non-to-die neighbors from Missouri. Each day here there will be 20,000 unreserved seats sold in the morning, and the struggle for them looms as entertaining as the general engagement between the rifling Deans and the clouting Tigers.

Odds Are Even

It was still the today, with the odds even money and take your choice, and heaven be with you if your choice was the Cards and a real husky Detroit roter happened to hear you. From the Tiger side the Deans will be hit as the even 1,300 slugging Bengals have hit anything they've faced on the way to their easy American league triumph, and the problem was merely how long it would take mighty young Schoolboy Rowe, the capful Tommy Bridges, burly Firpo Marberry and possibly young Elden Auker, to stow away Detroit's first world championship.

There were all kinds of rumors that the rival master minds, Frankie Frisch and Cochrane, would top off their first full season at the helm of major league clubs with some of the faintest, two-handed juggling any world series pitching staffs ever have encountered.

The cold-blooded logic of the situation calls for Cochrane to start Rowe, who changed on a diet of boos from a sore arm hypochondriac in the spring to the sturdiest right hander in the league, winner of 24 games while losing 8. Similarly Frisch seemed no other choice for Frisch than to put the Tigers from the start on a rigid diet of Deans, starting with "Dizzy" following with Paul and repeating the dose as long as was possible. Big brother's final shutout of the Reds, his second in three days, was his 30th victory of the season.

But Cochrane raised in the master-minding school of Connie Mack, patriarch of the Athletics, might lean toward the same sort of a surprise maneuver that saw Moss Grove and George Earnshaw left on the sidelines as Howard Ehmke, J. Morgan, 3b, 1 1 2 3 0 an amazing outside, handcuffed the Cubs in the opening game of the 1929 series. Therefore he might start Crowder.

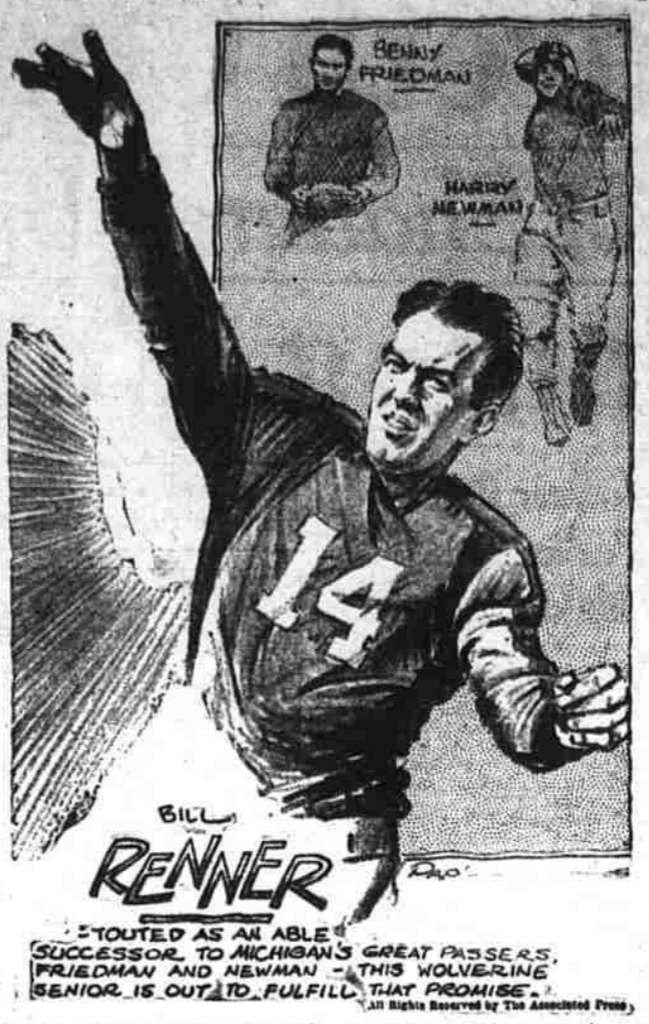

Similarly there was considerable fond for thought in the possibility that Frisch might cross the boys and start his crafty veteran of former Cardinal series triumph Dean, 1b, 5 0 0 0 0 Wild Bill Hallahan.

Despite all these conjectures, however, the experts felt certain that in the end both Frisch and Cochrane would subscribe that ringing prescription for victory laid down by the southern cavalry leader in the Civil war, Jeb Stuart—"git that fastest with the mostest." And in this series, at this moment, there seems no question that the "fastest and the mostest" means J. Dean on one side and the Schoolboy on the other, a couple of the highest powered youngsters baseball ever tossed at each other.

Miss Lorene Land, accompanied by Miss Ruth Day of Clovis, N. M., left Monday for Chicago, where they will attend a Century of Progress exposition.

HOPEFUL FIGURES

One comforting bit of business news is to be found in the Bradstreet tabulation of building permits in 215 leading American cities.

This tabulation shows a slight but definite upward trend in the building industry. A total of $34,000,000 worth of building was initiated in August, for instance. This figure represents a small increase over the figures for July—a rise of 1.4 per cent, to be exact; and that very small increase is significant when one recalls that there is usually a decline from July to August of about 9 per cent. Furthermore, the figures for August are 6.3 per cent above the figures for the same month in 1933.

One seems justified, then, in concluding that the building industry is beginning to revive. Unfortunately, the revival has a dismaying long way to go. This figure for August, 1934, is less than a quarter of the figure for August, 1930. Even a small rise is something to be thankful for, but it will have to get a lot higher to do us very much good.

THE LAUGH IS ON US

Jesus L. Livermore, speculator who holds the title of "the boy plunger of Wall Street," went into bankruptcy early this summer. Now he has paid off his $2,000,000 debts and has a comfortable fortune for himself.

Honest toll and careful frugality have rescued him from a near financial disaster. In this case, however, it was a combination of the drought and the Chicago wheat pit that did the trick. Mr. Livermore played the market in wheat, and rode up with the rising prices. The result was a very tidy profit indeed.

The ordinary citizen is occasionally a bit puzzled as to the exact nature of the social service which is performed by the speculator in commodities. This feat of Mr. Livermore's, however, gratifying it may be to that gentleman and to his creditors, will do little to clear up such confusion.

TO RELIEVE OUR NERVES

When the street railway experts of the country hold their annual convention late this month, one of the items to be put on display will be a new noiseless street car, and a long-suffering public can only hope that this promising device will speedily be adopted by traction lines throughout the country.

Life in a city is made pretty trying by noise. We seem to have been more apt in discovering new ways to make a racket than in any other line; and if there is anything on earth that can make a more unholy clamor than a flat-wheeled street car, trundling over cross-ticks and screeching around curves, the ordinary mortal would have a hard time thinking what it may be.

If someone has invented a noiseless street car, let's have it—by all means. Then, if noiseless trucks and buses can only be invented, city life may begin to be worth living.

Everybody is interested in these remarkable Dean boys, and here's a thumbnail sketch of each:

FRANK FRISCH, Cardinal manager, has been in seven series (more than any other National League player). Frank holds the record for most world series games played—43—(26 with Giants, 17 with Cards); most total times at bat in world series—166; most base hits in series—52; most singles, series—40; and on 2-base hits for one series—9—is tied with Jack Barry.

Here's Frank's history: Born Sept. 9, 1888; height 5 feet, 11 inches; weight 165 pounds; throws right, bats either. Graduated from Fordham University, where he starred in baseball and football. Came direct from campus to Giants in 1919. Traded by Giants to Cardinals in 1927. Appointed manager, July 24, 1933.

Bucs Blast Out Victory

Galveston Wins 11 To 9 Monday; Trail By One Game

NEW ORLEANS—The Galveston Buccaneers blasted out 16 hits over a conglomeration of New Orleans pitchers to get back into the running of the Dixie Series, though still trailing by one game, with an 11 to 9 victory.

Mittling freely in every inning but the seventh, the Buccaneers scored six runs in the first two frames, added another in the fourth and two each in the sixth and eighth to swamp four Pelican hurlers and assure their necessary victory.

The Pels had only to win the game today to retain their Dixie Series championship. The Bucs entered the game trailing by two full games. Now only one game behind, Galveston is very much back in the series, and if the Bucs win Tuesday, will be all even with the Birds.

Charlie English drew three singles and a mighty triple to lead the Buccaneers at the plate, bringing in six runs in the wake of his powerful blows. Governor, Bell and Moses

FALL IS HERE

THE weather may say no, but the calendar says yes. Fall is officially here. That means housecleaning and a host of necessary new things.

So we suggest you take stock today. Does the house need painting, shingles, storm windows? What about the furnace? It's not too late to put it in first-class order even if you have already started the fire. Look well at the dining-room rug, the living-room furniture, the paper on the walls. Are they full worthy of you—especially when visitors call? And the car! Soon it will need anti-freeze and a general tuning up after a Summer of hard use. The lawn may need seeding (Fall is the ideal time) and the flower beds their winter covering. And you yourself need clothes.

All these things are so easy to choose. Just read the advertisements in this paper. They are safe guides to goods and services. Study them carefully, and you will be well repaid in quality and price.

More than 250,000 acres of wheat planted for winter grazing purposes alone, in the South Plains area of the State, insure pretty good pickings for work stock there in spite of the drought-made feed shortage.

Cotton bolls are becoming more popular each year. Lamar county is working to establish the boll system more completely, basing the effort on the success of the existing one-variety gin communities in the county. County Agent A. L. Edmiston points out that some farmers in the county have reported premiums that ran as high as $7 a bale.

Grimes county farmers have taken in some of that premium money this fall too on their Acala cotton. According to County Agent A. L. Edmiston there are approximately 20,000 acres of that cotton in a block around Navasota which sets its growers around $8 a bale premium for quality and staple. In the bottom lands of the county it has yielded from 250 to 300 pounds per acre.

The will that finds the way was with Mrs. S. H. Dittmore, Tom Green county home demonstration club woman, who subsidized her own cutting bed with old tin cans and rooted 15 bushes in spite of the drought.

Using an old fashioned floral design, Mrs. M. H. Aiken, some industries demonstrator of DeSoto county, has made to order hooked cover with which to upholster the fireless seat of a customer in Corpus Christi. The cover was selected when the order was placed and harmonized with the hooked rug ordered.

and A Day In Case

Horace J. Wade, 72, former sheriff of Ward county and former relief administrator here, was sentenced to a year and a day in federal prison Monday by Charles A. Boynton, federal judge, for alleged payroll "padding" in the conduct of the relief office. He was also fined $100. Wade was indicted on 12 counts in a federal grand jury Wednesday. Wade was alleged to have caused fraudulent records to be drawn, to have forced government checks and to have embezzled from relief funds. He was removed from office several months ago.

"She Learned About Sailors" At Ritz Tuesday And Wednesday

Lew Ayres has the enviable task of making love to Alice Faye in "She Learned About Sailors", the Fox comedy-romance coming to the Ritz, today and tomorrow. Lew is the champion heart-breaker of the U. S. Navy and Alice is a night club entertainer in the picture. This gives Alice a splendid opportunity to sing "Here's the Key to My Heart" in a manner that is reminiscent of her "Nasty Man" number in George White's "Scandals". Aiding and abetting these two with the comedy are those knock-out slapstick artists, Mitchell and Durant, who are Lew's shipmates in the picture and Harry Green, a South American impresario. The story takes them from an Asiatic port through the vicissitudes of life on shipboard to a cafe in San Pedro, Calif.

Lew Ayres is persuaded by his two shipmates, Mitchell and Durant, to accompany them ashore at an Asiatic seaport. At a cafe Ayres meets Alice Faye, and before the fleet leaves port they fall in love. When Mitchell and Durant are convinced that Alice Faye is sincere in her love for Ayres, they do everything in their power to convince Ayres that he is wrong. When he decides he can not marry her because of his financial condition, Mitchell and Durant set the stage for an accidental meeting of the lovers in Los Angeles, and when something goes wrong, they force both lovers into a trumped up marriage. There then follows a series of hilarious events that brings the film to a lively conclusion.

Alice Faye made her film debut in George White's "Scandals" and was later seen in "Now I'll Tell" by Mrs. Arnold Rothstein. Lew Ayres shares the star honors with Miss Faye.

Wards Develops New "Ringless" Hosiery

Montgomery Ward announced today it has developed a new "ringless" type silk stocking now ready for the market after considerable experimental research. The hose will sell at approximately fifteen per cent lower price than a popular quality stocking Wards has been merchandising.

A statement affirms "rings" are caused by slight imperfections in silk filament caused by climatic ranges in Japan affecting the leaf of the mulberry tree on which the silk worm feeds. Since Japan is already furnishing a quality silk which represents the best Wards is able to buy under present consumer conditions, a new method of manufacture was hit upon. One stage is the new process is the change from one to three spool machines. In the older method of knitting any variation in thickness of thread appeared on the stocking as a "ring" or shadow. If one of the three spools now happens to strike thread alternates with thread from the other two spools. This process is augmented by vigorous factory inspection which rejects any hose of imperfect texture.

New Transport Is Fastest In World

GLENDALE, Calif.—Outstanding in the field of transportation as the world's fastest commercial carrier is the new Vultee 1-A transport plane, designed and built for American Airlines by the Airplane Development Corporation of this city.

Although this plane has been in commercial service only a few weeks, it has already captured numerous speed records between principal cities of the United States and has established itself as one of the most efficient and comfortable transports yet developed for air line use.

A low-wing, all-metal plane built to carry eight passengers, their baggage and a cargo of air mail and express at a cruising speed of 190 miles an hour, the new Vultee owes much of its unusual speed to the advanced method of streamlining employed in its construction and design. The plane is entirely free of all exterior struts, wires and bracing which might retard its speed and the landing gear is completely retractable.

The new Vultees are powered with 735 horsepower Wright Cyclone aircraft engines and are equipped with complete two-way radio facilities and all other modern aids to aerial navigation.

The first of these planes was placed in service by American Airlines recently on its Chicago-Indianapolis-Cincinnati route. On September 9, Vultee service was also established between Chicago and Ft. Worth-Dallas, via St. Louis, Springfield, Mo., Tulsa and Oklahoma City.

Foremost among the records established by the Vultee during the last few weeks was that of two hours, 59 minutes, between Chicago and New York—eleven minutes under the previous record. The Vultee is the only plane of any type to link these major cities in less than three hours.

South Ward P-T.A. Asks For Big Crowd At Meeting Thurs.

The South Ward P-T.A. will meet Thursday afternoon for the second meeting of the year. An interesting program has been planned. Rev. C. A. Bickley will be in charge of devotional Mrs. Pauline Brigham and Miss Anna Martin, outgoing and incoming county superintendents, will address the mothers. Miss Letha Ameron's room will give the program.

Many matters of business will be taken up. Room mothers will be appointed and an extensive membership campaign launched. A good attendance is urged.

The Political Anvil

The Texas Good Roads association now claims a membership of 20,000 and has organizers at work building its strength to 100,000. New members are recruited on the nominal membership fee of $1 a year.

The group has given its effort to prevent taking any part of the present 4-cent gasoline tax away from its original purpose. Schools get one cent of the tax, the highway fund the rest.

The road group and the Texas Centennial commission may find a sphere of conflict in their objectives. It has developed that some sort of provision for raising the money must be coupled with the effort to secure a $5,000,000 appropriation for the centennial. When sums of this size are mentioned, the first idea is to take part of the $38,000,000 annual gasoline tax. Diversion of one cent of the gasoline tax would amply finance the centennial movement; but the effort to raise the money from this source would be sure of the organized opposition of the Good Roads association.

Centennial sponsors have not asked for any of the gasoline taxes. They have asked a direct appropriation, under terms of a constitutional amendment authorizing it, and left to the legislature determination of the source of the money and the way to put it back into the treasury.

With the race-track betting law under fire, and Atty. Gen. Alfred's administration pledged to try to take the legalized betting feature out of it, there can be no resort to this source of revenue to help the centennial group along. Other proposals have included increasing natural resource taxes—sulphur, oil, gas, cement, sand, gravel—the levy of an extremely small sales tax, applying on sales of articles selling above normal price levels and others.

Though not coming from a proponent of repeal of prohibition, a plan has been drafted by First Asst. Atty. Gen. Elbert Hooper, for the state to collect several million dollars a year on a constitutional tax on liquor sales. This plan was worked out on request of Sen. W. K. Hopkins, chairman of the state affairs commission. Room mothers will be appointed and an extensive membership campaign launched. A good attendance is urged.

Manager Frisch May Send Dizzy Dean After Tigers

ST. LOUIS—Frankie Frisch's madcap Cardinals, as coauthors of world series glory as their own great Dizzy Dean, headed for the fair of Mickey Cochrane's Detroit Tigers Monday night.

They were a trifle exhausted and their nerves were slightly frayed as a result of their dizzying drive past the roused New York Giants for the National league flag. No one of them knew for sure who was going to pitch the world series opener, but to a man they were confident of twisting the Tiger's tail.

Lineup

Manager Frisch was set on the rest of his starting lineup, figuring to use the same team that clinched the pennant Sunday, but he was still uncertain as to the wisdom of sending Dizzy to the mound after only 72 hours rest. He wanted to give his ace the assignment, but wanted him to get his chance at his very best.

Although the starting pitcher represented a problem to Frankie, the wise ones figured "wild Bill" Hallahan would be sent to the mound for the first engagement against the heavy hitting Tigers. "Wild Bill" has had indifferent success this season, but his stood the same Tigers on their tails in exhibition games this year at Detroit and Battle Creek.

The rest of the probable starting lineup and the respective batting average of each player follows:

TIGER ISLAND

By Gouverneur Morris

Chapter 30 HUNGER SERENADE

The wild pigs, however, were soon exterminated and so also the deer and the antelope which had swam ashore from the Bolders. The monkeys were watchful and astute. They also, when they came down out of the trees to drink, posted sentinels and were not to be caught.

To Ivy, the varied sounds which a tiger makes were a language, and the sounds in the night told her a story of gnawing hunger and bitter discontent. She acknowledged to herself that it had been idiotic not to leave the beasts in their cages to drown.

The time came when she and Bowers no longer felt free to roam the island at will. Food, of course, had to be sought and gathered, or caught and fetched, but they began to loathe a time when they might have to stand a regular siege in their cliff-dwelling.

One dusk the tigers appeared suddenly in the opening below the front door and complained that they were hungry and demanded that something be done about it. During the night they remained in the vicinity and while their nearness was not an immediate threat it was disquieting and preaged worse things to come. When dawn broke the tigers were still in the neighborhood and Bowers remarked:

"It's lucky for us that they hunt in pairs because whenever they are in the front valley as they are now it is perfectly safe for us to potter around in the back valley."

"It's all my fault," said Ivy, "and I make me sick to think what a fool I was."

"I was a fool too," said Bowers. "I am stronger than you. And I ought to have used force to keep you from opening that cage and letting them go free. If I'd had the rifle and had killed them, would you be accusing me now of breaking a promise?"

Ivy shook her head. "I am beginning to understand lots of things," she said, "that I never understood before. I would kill them myself if I could."

Even if it had not been for the threat of the tigers, it would have occurred to them to make experiments in food storage. Bananas, they discovered, if sliced sufficiently thin could be so dried in the sun that they would remain edible and sustaining, if not very appetizing, for a long time. Guavas and mangoes could also be dried after a fashion, but the guavas even when freshly gathered were barely edible. They, however, made a store of such things and of course ripe coconuts. They had most of the canned things from the Bolders and also fish which they had dried in the sun, but after a few days this began to smell so unpleasantly that they got rid of it.

"If it weren't for those damned cats," Bowers said more than once, "we could turn our back valley into a regular garden!"

And more and more he brooded over his enforced idleness and his helplessness. It was bad enough to be pitted against the ordinary conditions of a tropic island, but these conditions could have been infinitely bettered by careful planning and hard work.

He was a strong man with a good average brain and a definite gift for mechanics, and yet he saw himself continually frustrated and worried by two creatures who excelled him only in strength and in the weapons which were a part of them.

If he could not devise some means by which he could get the better of them, he would not be able to look himself in the face.

He became absent-minded and Ivy almost thought at times that his love for her was cooling. This was not the case. He was ashamed because the woman he loved saw his helplessness and he was cudgeled his wits to devise some means by which a naked man may be the death of two naked tigers.

He had an ax still in good condition but this, opposed to the claws strength and the swift overpowering weight of a tiger's charge, could not rightly be considered a weapon. He had in addition an over-sized pocket-knife and five. With fire he could turn a tiger and even control it to a certain extent, but he could not hope to kill it. On the other hand, couldn't he? Wasn't fire the answer?

The undergrowth of the island was dry as tinder. The tall grasses and reeds had turned to hay. Given the right wind it might be possible to fire the island in many places and burn the tigers out. In a high wind the fire would travel like race horses.

Fruit trees and palm trees might be damaged but they would not be destroyed and it would not be necessary to have used force to keep you from opening that cage and letting them go free. If I'd had the rifle and had killed them, would you be accusing me now of breaking a promise?"

Ivy shook her head. "I am beginning to understand lots of things," she said, "that I never understood before. I would kill them myself if I could."

Even if it had not been for the threat of the tigers, it would have occurred to them to make experiments in food storage. Bananas, they discovered, if sliced sufficient-

On the following day the tigers made their presence known in the back valley, but there was not wind and the sky was overcast. Bowers cursed himself for having been so slow to think of fire as a weapon. That overcast sky could mean but mouth of the little river and looked up the valley they looked into a furiously roiling furnace of fire and smoke. Above the crackling and the roar of the conflagration which they had started could be heard the far-off roaring of the tigers, at once defiant and apprehensive.

TELLS OF HAUPTMANN PARTIES

Anita Lutzenberg (center), 25-year-old vivacious blond friend of Bruno Hauptmann, suspect in the Lindbergh case, is shown as she left the district attorney's office in the Bronx, New York, after being quizzed all day concerning beach parties at which she and Hauptmann were present in the summer of 1932. (Associated Press Photo)

Just when Bowers was certain that the great race between fire and rain had been won by the former, the first drops fell and these were followed a few moments later by a deluge. In five minutes the slow meandering little river was a rushing torrent and had overflowed its banks.

The flames of the roaring conflagration, fifteen to twenty feet high, were flattened to the earth and quenched. The lower regions of the valley had been burned black, but the narrow at the head to which the tigers had retreated were untouched.

"Well," said Bowers, "that's that." They went home to their cave, wondering what they had better try next.

What they tried next was a sample of weather. All day and all night the rain fell without abatement. The cooking-fire which hitherto had been kindled on the ledge in front of the cave had to be brought inside and put out as soon as it had served its purpose. They were sickly damp, and their eyes smarted.

During the morning of the fourth day the sky cleared and they looked out upon a world as clean and sharply bright as a cut jewel. But they were still provisioned and did not leave the cave.

Mr. Austin returned home he found Hildreth in the garage.
Makes Another Attempt
Sheriff Slaughter said Hildreth attempted to slash his throat again as he entered the Maupin store, but failed to inflict fatal wounds.

Heavy Industry and Finance, as well as the loyal nucleus of the Party, he wants to correct and stabilize foreign policy and financial relations with Europe. It will go slowly and hand, with many bitter fights on the way—against his own ideas; but he considers it the only way. If it doesn't succeed and the events of the winter bring catastrophe, Hindenburg's convenient "testament" shows the way. Hitler won't wait for the end, but will declare himself Regent and proclaim a Hohenzollern monarchy.

GERMANY
Berlin insiders are whispering about the growing rivalry and general bad feelings between "black and bloody" Schütz Staffel Chief Himmeler and equally "bloody" Hermann. It seems that Hermann is in the way of Himmeler's ambitions to become police chief of all Germany.

asked Hildreth "what's the matter" Hildreth replied that he had been in a fight, according to Mr. Austin, who later took him to the grocery store operated by Mr. Maupin nearby. At this place, Hildreth asked Maupin how his wife was. Mr. Maupin did not reply, but called the sheriff's department.

Geraldine Dodd Is Married To Floyd Blackwell

Miss Geraldine Dodd, relative of Mrs. W. D. McDonald, and Floyd Blackwell were married Sunday afternoon at Mrs. McDonald's home.

It was a quiet, home wedding. In the softly lighted parlors of the McDonald home, the young couple plighted their troth in a ring ceremony. A profusion of roses added perfume to the scene.

Rev. C. A. Bickley, pastor of the First Methodist Church, was the officiating minister. The bride was attractively gowned in a frock of brown silk crepe with matching accessories and for "something old" wore an antique ring belonging to her great aunt, Mrs. B. F. Tingle, who was Mrs. McDonald's mother.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Blackwell of Stamford and a relative of Mrs. J. C. Lopez of this city. He is connected with the Settles Barber Shop.

Mrs. Blackwell is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Dodd, of Double Springs, Arkansas. She was graduated from the Double Springs high school and attended the University of Alabama. Last summer she visited Mrs. McDonald for the greater part of the summer.

Mrs. McDonald was hostess for a lovely wedding dinner honoring the young couple, who are now making their home at 210 Johnson street.

Present for the wedding were only a few close friends and the following relatives: Mrs. J. C. Lopez and sons, Bobby and J. C. Jr., Leroy Blackwell, brother of the groom, Mrs. McDonald, Sherman Tingle, Wilson Pinkston, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Pinkston and small daughter, Dolores.

WHERE DID WE GET THE DOLLAR-SIGN
WHY don't we use a big D for "dollar" and draw two lines through that? Who started the idea of using an S instead?
Well, one explanation links us with old Spanish trading days. Prices were based on pesos, which was abbreviated to read P$. Gradually, they say, we came to write the P right on top of the S. But the sign was too hard to read, so we rolled the loop off the P, which left S. And finally, we picked up another stroke and put it through the S, resulting in our present $.
